HEALTH HUMAN RESOURCES UNIT

The Health Human Resources Unit (HHRU) was established as a demonstration project by the British Columbia Ministry of Health in 1973. Since that time, the Unit has continued to be funded on an ongoing basis (subject to annual review) as part of the Centre for Health Services and Policy Research. The Unit undertakes a series of research studies that are relevant to health human resources management and to public policy decisions.

The HHRU's research agenda is determined through extensive discussions of key current issues and available resources with the senior staff of the Ministry of Health. Various health care provider groups participate indirectly, through on-going formal and informal communications with Ministry of Health officials and with HHRU researchers. Research is undertaken by seven professional staff, including secretarial and analyst support; Arminée Kazanjian is the Associate Director and Principal Investigator for the Unit.

Three types of research are included in the Unit's research agenda. In conjunction with professional licensing bodies or associations, the HHRU maintains the Cooperative Health Human Resources Database. The Unit uses these data to produce regular status reports that provide a basis for in-depth studies and for health human resources planning. The Unit undertakes more detailed analyses bearing on particular health human resources policy issues and assesses the impact of specific policy measures, using secondary analyses of data from the Cooperative Database, data from the administrative databases maintained under the HIDU, or primary data collected through surveys. The HHRU also conducts specific projects pertaining to the management of health human resources at local, regional and provincial levels.

Copies of studies and reports produced by the HHRU are available at no charge.

Nursing Workforce Study

This study was commissioned by the Federal/Provincial/Territorial Advisory Committee on Health Human Resources (ACHHR) to develop baseline data on the supply and education of Registered Nurses (RNs), Registered Psychiatric Nurses (RPNs), and Licensed Practical Nurses (LPNs), and on employer practices pertaining to the deployment of all patient care providers. The study results are published in five separate volumes:

Volume I of the study “Demographic Context and Health System Structure for Nursing Services in Canada”, provides a general overview of demographic and system changes; it describes the current demographic context for nursing practice and the structure of provincial/territorial health care delivery systems. The demographic analyses are based on 1996 Census data. Provincial/territorial health care delivery information for the most part are obtained from “Health System Reform in Canada, 1997,” by Health Canada.

Volume II of the study, “The Supply of Nursing Personnel in Canada” examines data on the supply of nursing personnel in the provinces and territories to provide basic information about employment status, deployment (place of employment, area of responsibility, type of position, hours worked), age, and type and place of education/training. The analysis is based on data collected by the respective regulatory bodies in their registration and renewal processes. Two separate years of secondary data are utilized in the analysis (1990 and 1997), presenting a detailed national and regional picture on the supply of nurses in Canada.

Volume III of the study “An Inventory of Nursing Program Enrolments and Graduates in Canada by Province/Territory, 1998” describes the production of nursing personnel in Canada. A survey questionnaire was sent to provincial/territorial representatives (usually the education representative) of the ACHHR who were asked to complete the survey for all nursing education programs in their jurisdictions. The questionnaire requested information as to the type of credential offered, the length of the program, the number enrolled in each year of the program, the number of students enrolled full-time, part-time, or in distance education, and the number of graduates in 1997 and 1998. The analysis includes the impact of BN-only basic education for RNs.

Volume IV of the study, “Nursing Workforce Deployment: A Survey of Employers” examines employer practices and policies for nursing workforce deployment in each province/territory. A sample survey regarding deployment was undertaken using a questionnaire pertaining to all three regulated nursing groups: LPNs, also known as Registered Nurse Assistants (RNAs), RPNs, and RNs. Information on other professionals and unregulated patient care providers e.g. Aides was also collected by the questionnaire. The questionnaire was designed to capture the following information: hiring practices (amount of experience required, deployment, credentials, etc.), kinds of services provided and the skills perceived to be needed to provide those services, numbers and mix of nursing personnel used to provide services, use of unregulated health care workers in relation to nursing services provision, and anticipated changes in deployment practices related to changes in the organization of the health care delivery system.

Volume V of the study, “Changes in the Nursing Workforce and Policy Implications” the final part of the study, synthesizes the findings from each of the above sections and attempts to delineate the salient policy issues.

Copies of other Volumes in this study may be obtained by contacting the Health Human Resources Unit.

<sup>2</sup> Detailed data on 'employment status' in Quebec in 1990 were not available, so no data are presented in the table. However, available data show there were 57501 RNs employed in nursing on an unknown basis and 1378 RNs for whom employment status was completely unknown.

<sup>3</sup> No data on non-resident RNs were available for 1990.

Data Source: Statistics Canada for the 1990 data and Canadian Institute for Health Information (CIHI) for the 1997 data.

<sup>2</sup> Detailed data on 'employment status' in Quebec in 1990 were not available, so no data are presented in the table. However, available data show there were 7634 RNs employed in nursing on an unknown basis and 624 RNs for whom employment status was completely unknown.

<sup>3</sup> No data on non-resident RNs were available for 1990.
