Disclaimer: "UBC SEEDS provides students with the opportunity to share the findings of their studies, as well as their opinions, conclusions and recommendations with the UBC community. The reader should bear in mind that this is a student project/report and is not an official document of UBC. Furthermore readers should bear in mind that these reports may not reflect the current status of activities at UBC. We urge you to contact the research persons mentioned in a report or the SEEDS Coordinator about the current status of the subject matter of a project/report".

Research question: The study aimed to identify where people feel most happy on UBC campus.

Participants: A total of 1397 participants from the UBC Vancouver campus took part in the survey. The participants included students, faculty, and staff on campus.

Survey methods: The survey included only one question: "Where do you feel most happy on UBC campus?" The participants provided their answers to this question by typing their responses on the computer. They were encouraged to be as specific as possible about the location. The survey started on September 22nd at the Ripple Lab (9/22-9/26) at Koerner Plaza on Main Mall, and finished on November 28th. Participants were recruited from booths during the Ripple Lab, or the Human Subjects Pool at the Department of Psychology.

Results: We grouped the happy places identified by the participants into general categories. Each category is a landmark on campus. The landmarks are listed in Table 1 below.

Table 1. The top 20 happiest places on UBC campus. Each place is a general landmark on campus. Specific places within the landmark are also identified. The frequency indicates the number of participants who indicated that they feel most happy in that place.

181	I feel most happy at the Bird Coop Gym in the Student Recreation Centre because I spend a significant amount of my time dedicated to weightlifting on a weekly basis. I work out roughly 10 hours a week at the gym with a training partner. I spend my work out sessions pushing myself to the best of my ability and lifting as heavy as I can for as much as I can in the pursuit of improving myself both physically and mentally. I also benefit from imparting my knowledge to others and helping others improve themselves, which brings me great gratification.

	I feel most happy when I am on main mall looking out at the ocean.
741	The big fountain in the middle of the campus
742	I wouldn\'t say that I necessarily feel happy at a specific location on UBC campus because my mood mostly depends on the day\'s events; however, I would say that I feel most content when walking on the long concrete path that goes past the Henry Angus building and the water fountain just because there\'s so many trees and breeze (if it\'s not rainy).
	At the birdcoop.
	Anywhere - it can be any open area on campus (not in a building). I have a six hour break every week and the place I\'m the happiest at is probably my chapter room in Panhellenic. On a red couch where I can just not move all day. Either that or a study room on the second floor of Irving.
746	Anywhere if I\'m having a good times with friends. If alone probably hanging out with friends at my dorm room on campus.
747	I feel happiest in Place Vanier - Ross House in the basement floor lounge.
748	I enjoy sitting in the Starbucks down at the village and just enjoying a good book or relaxing from school work

	The second place is actually the Biodiversity Museum. Not a lot of people frequent the area in and around the museum, let alone inside it. I had stumbled upon this place after acknowledging that my computer science lab has been cancelled and I have three hours to kill on a Wednesday morning. I have always had the mean to walk inside the place but it's somewhat mundane outer appearance forces me to keep walking. That Wednesday morning, I walked into the center yard behind the Museum, and I was immediately fascinated by the open area filled with waves and waves of September breeze. Even thought it rained that morning, but the wetness of the rain gave the place a brand new and refreshing atmosphere.

1013	Tower Beach (a.k.a Anthropology Beach). In front of the Museum of Anthropology, there is a staircase to Tower Beach. The stairs are quite lengthy, however, that doesn't affect how happy the place makes me feel. At the bottom of the stairs, if you take a right and keep walking, you'll find a large stump (that is quite noticeable). That's MY stump. I call it the rock". On summer days
