HOME SCHOOL CO-ORDINATOR PROGRAM -- VANCOUVER METRO

By the time you read this there will likely be three Home School Co-ordinators working in the Vancouver Metro area. Meetings have taken place for several months between members of the Vancouver Board of School Trustees, and members of Staff and Board of Directors of the Vancouver Indian Friendship Center. As a result, plans are underway to appoint the three Home School Co-ordinators.

This is not a first, the present Home School Co-ordinator program was ~~started~~ last school year when funds were solicited from the Department of Human Resources, and LIP to provide minimal salaries for Angie Dennis, and Vivian Ignace to operate as Home School Co-ordinators. Though not officially linked to the Vancouver School Board, the two Home School Co-ordinators established an informal working relationship with individuals from the Vancouver School Board and developed a very active enthusiastic working relationship with Vancouver schools and staff. Their operating year was very successful in spite of handicaps and impediments such as poor funding, lack of mobility, no official status, etc. They also worked strictly in elementary schools.

This year the plan is to work officially with the Vancouver School Board, have two Home School Co-ordinators working in Elementary Schools and one working in Secondary Schools. The Home School Co-ordinators will become employees of the Vancouver School Board, but decisions, and evaluations regarding their performance, operation, and effectiveness will be made by a joint committee of Vancouver School Board members with at least an equal number of Indian people.

Since 30% of status Indians live off-reserve, an indeterminate number of non-status Indians live in cities, and since Vancouver is the largest city in British Columbia, it is likely that we may soon uncover enough of the hidden city Indian population to justify a lot more than three Home School Co-ordinators.

NITEP (Native Indian Teacher Education Program) is underway! A new "first" for British Columbia, this unique teacher training program offered by the University of British Columbia Faculty of Education is the fruit of the combined efforts of Indian Educational Leaders in B.C., University of B.C. personnel (names such as Dean John Andrews, Dr. Arthur More, Dr. I. Housego, and Mr. Jack Wallis), and the Provincial Department of Education,

Minister Eileen Dailley. NITEP is a program that embodies such concepts as:

- a) A means of increasing the Indian Teacher population in B.C. schools.
- b) A means, by the use of Indian Teachers, of providing models, and encouragement to Indian children in classrooms, and increasing school achievement.
- c) A means of providing opportunities for talented Indians who otherwise would never find their way into this field (education).
- d) A means of challenging the present system of teacher training by implementing an alternative.
- e) A means of providing impact and relevance to teacher training that makes it less of an investment and more of a preparation.

The fact that we have begun the program is one mark of undertaking, and the fact that we must now await its success is another.

Originated as a program designed strictly for Native Indians the program may in the future be open to all teacher trainees. Because of the efforts of a small core of Indian educational leaders whose initial thinking started in 1969, the emphasis at this point is to embark on a program for Native Indians. This was further supported by factual information indicating the serious number of Indians who never completed high school, and furthermore the serious lack of Indians in professional roles. Only 26 of the 23000 teachers in B.C. are Indian and if Indians were represented by population there should be as many as 1300 Indian teachers in B. C. If NITEP had not taken place the number of Indians enrolled in the Faculty of Education in B.C. Universities indicated that the maximum number of Indian teachers we could look forward to for 1978 was three. We need Indian teachers.

- in: Some of the unique features of NITEP include flexibility
- entry points - many trainees are accepted on the mature entry program and without university entrance qualifications.
 - exit points - leaving at various levels of the program assures at least some proficiency and qualifications for employment. This is missing from the present teacher program.
 - performance over theory - trainees will be teamed with sponsor teachers for observation and performance in classrooms. This takes place immediately.

- Field Centered: training will take place in central local communities rather than isolated in the academic atmosphere of the university. Trainees will be more tuned in to the local needs and atmosphere.
- Field training: university instructors will be going into local training centers to give instruction in various subject areas.
- Team Leaders as opposed to instructors: team leaders will act as instructors, organizers, managers, tutors, counsellors and resource personnel and will be responsible for the field centered training program.
- Organized Structure: although the university of B.C. is involved, much of the responsibility rests on the shoulders of Dean John Andrews (Faculty of Education, UBC) who in turn passes on responsibility to "the Deans NITEP Committee" (made up of Indians and U.B.C. staff) and to the Co-ordinator of the NITEP program, Dr. Arthur More (presently on leave of absence from his regular role as instructor for Education 479 - Cross Cultural Indian Education, presently being handled by Dr. Richard Green). The Co-ordinator in turn oversees the operation of each field center and also in turn passes responsibility to the Team Leaders, who in their turn assign various responsibilities to the trainees. Some flexibility is built into this structure to include consideration for local Indian voice.
- Certification: in consideration of the general accusation that programs designed for Indians are usually diluted or "watered down" we have designed this program to be so well planned, so well constructed, and so well implemented that its graduates could compete for any teaching position they so chose and that the Certificate they earned would be recognized as equal to or better than that which presently exists.
- Fifty - six (56) trainees have enrolled in the program and as of Sept. 20/74 in its second week, the frantic pace of the program is beginning to tell on the faces of the trainees where smiles of enthusiasm are giving way to a serious and quiet determination. In addition the Team Leaders, Joan Ryan - North Vancouver Center, Dave Walker - Terrace, Liz. Robertson - Williams Lake, and Bob Chenoweth - Kamloops Centers have added grey hair over schedules, accommodation, bursaries, and others. The four groups came together for one week at U.B.C., September 16 - 20, 1974 for an orientation. The timing was awkward because U.B.C. enrollment is up to an unexpected high this year, and classrooms or accommodations are difficult to find.

Good Luck NITEP and everybody in it!!

HOME SCHOOL CO-ORDINATOR PROGRAM VANCOUVER COMMUNITY COLLEGE LANGARA

Vancouver Community College developed a Home School Co-ordinator program at the request of the Advisory Committee for Native Indian Programs. The course as laid out by the Advisory Committee is a one year, two term, (eight month) College Certificate Program.

During the first semester, students in the course will be taking five first year courses; Political Science 117, Sociology 120, B.C. Studies 220, Psychology 115 and Communications 115. In addition to this, the students meet four days out of five for two hour seminars to cover the Home School Co-ordinator Skills section of the course. This section is used to inform students of all practical aspects of the duties of a Home School Co-ordinator. During the first part of this semester, the students will be lectured on Counselling Techniques, take part in seminars on Orientation to Life Styles, Reading labs and also take a Drivers Training Course. Guest speakers for this section will be brought in to lecture on various approaches to counselling.

At the end of the first semester (January) the students will be required to complete a one or two week practicum in an areas other than their home area. This will be done to give the students field experience and a chance to relate classroom work to the practical role of a Co-ordinator. The students will be placed in different areas throughout the province so that they will have the opportunity to observe and become aware of different programs that exist in Indian Education.

Following this, the students will return to Langara to complete the second semester of the program. The courses included in the second semester are: Political Science 119, Sociology 121, Psychology 215, Communications 116, Home School Co-ordinator Skills 215 and 216.

The Home School Co-ordinator Skills section 215 will be a follow up to HSC Skills section 115. During this section of the program, the students will meet with representatives from government agencies, band councils etc. to introduce and inform the students of services offered by different agencies and how they will become involved in their role as Home School Co-ordinators.

Home School Co-ordinator Skills section 216 is a job oriented study of methods that the Co-ordinator will use in various situations. Most sessions will be closely related to the presentations of HSC Skills section 215, or to field trips that illustrate the environment of case problems.

Near the end of this second semester the students will be required to complete a final two week practicum. At this time the students will be placed in or near their home area.

To date, eleven students are enrolled in the course; eight from B.C. and three from out-of-province.

If you have any questions regarding the program, please do not hesitate to call me at 324-5248 or write to:

THE FOURTH WORLD - An Indian Reality. George Manuel/Michael Posluns, 1974
Collier - MacMillan Canada Ltd. $7.95 - hardback (hb)

George Manuel a leader in the North American Indian Movement, along with co-author Michael Posluns, presents an informative and important historical document which traces the struggle for Indian survival as a nation culture, and as a reality. This struggle, as seen through the eyes and experiences of a leader in that battle sheds new light on alternatives for co-existence.

The policies and those who make them have made an incredible contribution to the situation in which Indians find themselves today, and this book will develop the awareness needed by everyone involved with Indians (including Indians) to shatter the mis-conceptions and stereo-types that have so long shadowed Indians.

Excellent and a reading must for everyone!

NO FOREIGN LAND. - The biography of a North American Indian. Wilfred Pelletier and Ted Poole. 1973 Pantheon - Random House.

Pelletier and Poole combine to put on paper random thoughts and memories of Pelletier in his life as a child and the experiences he has as he grows up. Pelletier outlines very vividly the conflict that any Indian will experience if he attempts to become an active participant in both the Indian world and the non Indian world. He paints very vividly a picture of Indian life that is so "Indian" and beautiful that the book should be read by every Indian as a reminder of what stands to be lost through assimilation, and should also be read by every non-Indian because Pelletier says what Indians have always had a hard time saying...
