Predicted Last Chance Will Make a Big Mine

The Last Chance property, situated in the Upper Kitsault country is described by all those who have visited it this year as having the earmarks of a mine, and predictions are plentiful that it will be taken over and developed before very long.

The ore body is traceable on the surface for a distance of 1000 feet, and has a north-east and south-west strike. It has been stripped on the surface for a distance of 300 feet, and has an average width of 15 feet.

Two open cuts have been driven across the ledge, and the average values taken from across one cut gives $18.00 per ton. These values are in silver and gold, the copper values not being ascertained. The upper cut was sampled this year but information as to values are not yet obtainable. The width of the ledge at this point is 25 feet, and the ore is of a higher grade.

A tunnel has been commenced, and has been driven a distance of 120 feet. Another 115 for 120 feet is necessary before ore will be encountered, and when this is done a depth of 250 feet will be obtained.

The Last Chance is owned by A. McPhail and P. Morley. It is located at an elevation of 2600 ft. and joins the Moose and Climax, both of which have developed promising ore showings.

It is the general opinion that this section will shortly receive its well merited attention from mining companies.

The Wolf mine, situated a few minutes walk from Alice Arm, will be operated throughout the winter states J. Fiva, who returned last week from driving the tunnel on the Vanguard.

Development work will be carried on until Christmas, both the north and south drifts being extended. Mining of high grade will then be undertaken.

Logging Operations Close

Logging operations, which have been conducted on the Kitsault Flats at Alice Arm during the past five years was brought to a close this week, when the last of the logs were dumped into the water by F. L. Housley. The railway tracks are being taken up and logging in Alice Arm will shortly be brought to a final close. There are still some good stands of timber in the district but not enough in one place to make profitable logging at present prices.

Chamber of Mines Receive $50.00 Cheque

The Alice Arm branch of the British Columbia Chamber of Mines was the recipient of a cheque for $50.00 recently from the New Westminster Fair. This cheque was for obtaining third prize for the best district exhibit of ore in British Columbia. The winning of this prize reflects great credit on the mineral resources of Alice Arm, especially when it is considered that a great deal more activity prevails in many districts than here, thus affording a greater opportunity of gathering samples.

The Woman's Auxiliary and Guild of the Christ Church will hold its fall sale of work consisting of useful and ornamental articles. Home Cooking, plants, afternoon tea, etc. in the Elks' Hall basement on Wednesday November 9th.

Silver Cord Will Develop Throughout Winter

W. G. McMorris, president of the Kitsault-Eagle Silver Mines Ltd. left on Monday for Vancouver. He spent a week here during which time he examined the Eagle and Silver Cord and made arrangements for the development of the latter throughout the coming winter. Supplies have been packed from Alice Arm by the Alice Arm Freighting Co. throughout the week and everything is now in readiness for a season's work.

Quite a number of residents left on Wednesday to spend the winter in the south. The biggest proportion were from the logging camp of F. L. Housley, and the Toric mine.

More Ore Veins Discovered on the LaRose Extension

Haystack mountain on which is situated the LaRose mine, will be the scene of big operations, is the opinion of J. Calvin who recently returned from that locality, after further prospecting and development work there on claims which he is interested.

During this fall he has discovered two more ore veins on the LaRose Extension. They parallel the LaRose vein at a lower elevation, and are in the same zone. They have been traced for an entire claim length, and values in argentite silver were obtained from one vein.

In addition to the ore vein already developed on the LaRose other veins at a lower elevation are known to exist. These veins and the LaRose Extension can all be worked from one tunnel driven at a lower elevation, and this will undoubtedly be done when next operated.

There are four properties on Haystack mountain that are known to contain high grade ore, and are: LaRose, Speculator, Bunker Hill and Stormer.

The Stormer was also further prospected this year by J. Calvin, and he was successful in tracing the No. 2 ledge a distance of 1000 feet on the surface. Two open cuts have disclosed high grade ore, whose chief values are in silver, copper and gold.

Tunnel on Keystone is Being Pushed

The main development tunnel at the Keystone is now in 645 feet and is being driven at the rate of four feet per day with two shifts.

The ore vein has been located carrying bunches of high grade zinc and galena ore. It is expected that another 35 feet will have to be driven before the main ore body is encountered. If the vein dips into the hill it will be necessary to drive still further.

Mr. Rowland King, who is in charge of operations states that everything is progressing satisfactorily at the mine.

Three Alice Arm Mines to Operate This Winter

Three mines will be operated at Alice Arm during the coming winter, namely the Silver Cord, Esperanza and Wolf. It was thought that the Toric would be included in the list this year, but the management decided to close down for the winter, but will commence operations again next summer. Another season of development work will undoubtedly place the Keystone also on the year-round operators list.

Tobacco Growing Increasing in British Columbia

A rapidly increasing demand for Canadian-grown tobacco is reported on the British market. The exports have increased from 174,301 pounds in 1921 to 7,000,000 pounds in 1927. Ontario and Quebec are the heaviest exporters. Districts in British Columbia are exceptionally well adapted for tobacco growing and the industry promises to become an important asset.

Ketchikan Now Talking Smelter

In connection with the proposal to erect a smelter in their neighborhood, the Ketchikan Chronicle strongly urges that it be built there. It says: recent arrivals from Prince Rupert say there is much talk there for a smelter to be located there for the treatment of ores from Portland Canal and Alaska, all of which reminds mining men that Ketchikan is the most logical centre for treatment of Alaskan ores.

Consolidated Has Optioned Property Near Britannia

Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company has optioned the Rayfuse group at the head of Howe Sound, which has been referred to as "a second Britannia." Added to the Coast Copper, George Copper, Sunloch and Big Missouri, it gives the Consolidated extensive holdings on the Coast, and has revived rumors that big company proposes to build another smelter at tidewater. The Consolidated is also prospecting claims in the Beaver district, Yukon Territory.

Can Women Sit in Senate?

The government decided to submit to the supreme court the question whether women are eligible to sit in the Senate of Canada. For some time past there have been demands that women be appointed to that body but there was some doubt as to the constitutionality of such action. The matter is to be cleared up by the highest court in the land.

Mining Machinery at Surf Inlet Sold

Conservative Convention and Peace River Railway

A noticeable feature of the National Conservative convention in Winnipeg, states J. C. Brady, M. P., who attended the big gathering, "was the deep interest shown by the delegates in the development of the Peace River country, one of the most important matters that Western Canada is now concerned with. It was made evident that the port of Prince Rupert is and will be an important factor in that development."

The convention passed a resolution endorsing the project of establishing a western coast outlet for the Peace River Valley.

Canada's Smaller Wool Crop Affords Food For Thought

Col. Robt. McEwen's champion car lot of Canadian weather lambs, "Southdowns," at Chicago International Show.

Farms in the British Isles support 24,000,000 shorn sheep, while the whole Dominion of Canada supports but 2,000,000, one twelfth as many. Yet during the fiscal year ended March, 1924, woollen and knitting mills imported into Canada some 19,375,925 pounds of raw wool.

In Canada, in 1922, according to the Census of Industry figures we had 277 woollen and knitting mills, which employed some 22,000 workers. Yet in 1922, countries abroad sent into Canada $38,000,000 worth of woollen and knitted goods, and in 1923, $41,000,000 worth, representing employment for some 17,000 to 20,000 workers. Although during the past year the wool and knitting industries have expanded to some extent and, particularly in the Eastern Townships of Quebec, have new mills opened up, it is seen that only about half of the woollen goods sold in this country could have been produced here. Raw wool, grown in Canada, comprises but a small fraction of that which is used by the mills that are operating in the Dominion.

There is not enough wool grown to supply the demand of the world. Japan and China, the staple clothing and bedding materials for which countries were formerly silk and cotton, are rapidly becoming great wool consuming countries, imports to Japan alone having jumped 700 per cent in ten years.

Thus it is seen that the Canadian wool grower has not only a growing domestic market, but an ever increasing foreign market for his clips, yet sheep are rarely given due consideration by Canadian farmers even though they have been dubbed "mortgage lifters" in the West.

Col. Robt. McEwen of London, Ont., president of the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers' Association, who won the championship for a car-load lot of Canadian weather lambs, "Southdowns," at the Chicago International Show, has said, "taking Canada as a whole it has been proved that climatic conditions are favorable to sheep raising. No devastating disease has visited our flocks. Yet today we find ourselves up against the serious economic condition of consuming more wool than we produce, and for a comparatively new and fertile country like Canada to have reached the stage of deficient supply for such an essential as clothing should surely demand the serious consideration of us all."

But although wool growing as an industry in Canada does not come up to what might be expected of it, those who are engaged in it are highly and effectively organized as regards marketing. In 1914 those in charge of the Dominion Live Stock Branch, Ottawa, began to urge that sheepmen be more careful in putting up their fleeces and that they stop selling at any old price which might be offered locally. Following their efforts various sheep breeders and wool growers' associations throughout Canada began to collect wool from their members, this wool being graded in turn by expert graders supplied by the Dominion Government and being sold on the graded basis. As more and more local associations were formed, it was felt that all should be affiliated under one central selling agency with the result that in 1918 the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers Limited was formed with headquarters in Toronto. This is a commodity marketing organization handling wool only, having about 2,500 shareholders and approximately 12,000 shippers of wool throughout the Dominion. Individual clips are collected at various points for shipment in car-load lots to the central warehouse at Weston, Ont., for grading and sale.

At the present time this organization, which operates from coast to coast, is handling from a quarter to one third of the Canadian clip reaching the open market. Its influence is being extended more and more each season as will be noted from the fact that in Ontario alone the number of shippers has increased from 3,200 in 1922, to 4,000 in 1924. The various grades of wool are sold to equal advantage in Canadian, American and English markets, and it is perhaps noteworthy that during the past two years approximately three-quarters of a million pounds of Canadian graded wools have found a market with English mills.

J. O. Trethewey Died In Vancouver Last Saturday

The death occurred last Saturday at the residence of his daughter, 1260 Bidwell street Vancouver, of Joseph O. Trethewey, well known figure in mining and lumbering circles of British Columbia. He was in his 69th year.

The deceased was a native of Ontario. He became interested in mining in this province over thirty years ago, and about 1895 successfully operated the Providence mine at Harrison Lake. Following this venture he went to Cobalt at the beginning of the sensational strikes in that district.

At Cobalt he became interested in the fifth discovery claim, which yielded handsome returns. With his brother W. G. Trethewey, deceased about a year ago, he became known as one of the most successful operators in the district.

About eighteen years ago he returned to the coast, becoming interested in mining and timber enterprises. For many years he has been president of the Abbotsford Lumber Company. Until a few years ago he operated a big ranch in the Cariboo. In addition he held a number of timber interests in various parts of the province.

He was especially well known in the Alice Arm district, where for three years he superintended logging on a large part of the Kitsault River flats. He also became interested in mining in the Alice Arm district. He owned the Bunker Hill group and a half interest in the Speculator No 2, his brother Sam holding the other half interest. He also owned a half interest in the La Rose Extension Claim, J. Calvin of Alice Arm holding the other half.

Interment took place in the family plot at the Mountain View cemetery, Vancouver.

The late Mr. Trethewey was well known in this locality. His logging operations were of much benefit to Alice Arm, and his many friends are sorry to hear of his death.

He is survived by a widow and several sons and daughters. His son Edgar left Alice Arm a few weeks ago.

Big Ore Specimen for South

The big specimen of high grade ore from the Vanguard mine was brought down on Saturday, and was shipped to the Vancouver Chamber of Mines on Monday. It was by far the largest specimen ever sent from the camp, and will be put on exhibition at the entrance of the Chamber of Mines. It is composed of almost solid ore and taxed the strength of three men to roll it over
