Dunsmuir Resigns

He recommends Prior as his Successor.

Prior's cabinet, he states, will be a strictly Non-party one in spite of his recent strong stand in favor of party lines.

VICTORIA, Nov. 21.—Premier Dunsmuir this morning handed in his resignation to the Lieutenant-governor, and recommended Prior as his successor. Colonel Prior was sent for by Sir Henri Joly and had a conference at which it is understood the governor expressed himself in the kindest terms and gave him time until this evening to decide whether he could form a cabinet.

At 6.30 tonight Prior was sworn in as premier and minister of mines; Prentice, the present finance minister, being re-sworn at the same time in office. Wells did not arrive from the east until an hour later, but immediately on arriving saw Prior and Prentice and consented to accept office under the new chief, and at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning will be sworn in, retaining his present portfolio of lands and works.

Eberts, who was Prior's rival for the premiership, was not sworn in, and is known to be bitterly disappointed. Whether he will accept office again as attorney-general is a matter for conjecture, but it is believed he will especially as Prior has given him the opportunity, and Eberts cannot afford to lose the office, if he does as there still remains the post of provincial secretary, which has been vacant for so long. The most likely one to take this is Denis Murphy, of Yale, who reached the capital tonight and went to dine with Prentice.

The presidency of the council will likely be taken by H. Dallas Helmcken of Victoria. Murphy, it is believed, could carry his seat easily.

North Victoria will probably be opened at once. Prior's cabinet, he states, will be a strictly non-party one in spite of his recent stand in favor of party lines. He retains the post of minister of mines. His policy will be distinguished by a determined effort to secure the Canada Northern on terms of a land grant, safeguarded by a provision for taxation after a term of years.

Dan. Mann and Dunsmuir yesterday completed their trip over the E. & N., and it is almost certain that that road is to be acquired as part of the proposed Canada Northern system, which is to have its terminus in Victoria. The desire to be out of office before disposing of his road, doubtless hurried Dunsmuir's resignation.

CANADIAN FORESTRY.

A report of the third annual meeting of the Canadian Forestry Association has reached this office. It contains much valuable information regarding the subject of forestry. Among other things it contains a well written paper on the preservation of our forests, by J. R. Anderson, Deputy Minister of Agriculture for the province, which we here produce in part:

"Let me first try and picture to you a forest in whose bounds are included, towering snow-capped mountains, pellucid lakes, streams fed by the glaciers above, thundering down the dizzy precipices of the mountain sides, and anon finding resting places in the still, forest protected pools, then rushing on to their destination, through pebbly reaches between moss and fern-covered banks, and above all the grand giants of the forest, standing like the sentinels that nature has created them; guarding the stores of precious life-giving water. This is a true picture, one of many to be witnessed, and one in which my good friend Dr. Fletcher shared with me during a trip up Mount Arrowsmith last year. But what of this picture which I have so feebly attempted to describe? How long will it last? Any time we may see the ruthless hand of man despoiling it of its sylvan beauty, or the devastating forest fire consuming alike its beauty and its value. Then consider the picture of ground denuded of vegetation, the vegetable mould burned away leaving the blackened roots and bare rock or gravel subsoil exposed, trees, veritable monarchs of the forest, lying in blackened ruins forming an impenetrable embarras, the watercourses exposed to the summer sun, reduced to but a shadow of their former selves, like the sixth age of man, adapted, 'its bed a world too wide for its shrunken stream'.

"I dare say you have all seen such sights, they are too common, especially so in our western province, where the forest wealth has been lavished by nature with such a prodigal hand, there the forest has been looked upon, except by those whose avocations teach them that it is a source of wealth, but as a barrier to settlement and a hindrance to the prospector seeking for mineral wealth, to be destroyed and got rid of at any cost. It is well indeed that this association should now sound the note of alarm; it is none to soon, for we all, in our day, have seen the effects of procrastination. Whole districts have been deforested by wasteful methods and culpable carelessness. Failing to take warning from the older settled portions of the continent, the dried up water courses, lands washed bare of soil, floods, and all the consequent evils bear silent but indubitable witness to the effects of deforestation. Failing to take a lesson from the provident methods of our own mother country and other lands, we have allowed, and are allowing, the land to be denuded of its forests and have not made provision for its reforestation. In British Columbia we have vast forests of valuable timber, but even in my time, whole districts have been rendered treeless, and were it not for the provident hand of nature which itself reforests in its own way, there would not now be a vestige of timber growth, where the destroyed forests existed; and even in many tracts which have been thus reforested, fire has often, again and again been allowed full sway. Under these conditions it is not difficult to foresee that, if a halt is not called, we will live to regret that action was not taken to preserve the bountiful gifts of nature. Let it not be understood that I mean hampering the lawful business of the lumberman, or placing vexatious restrictions to his detriment and loss; on the contrary, I quite acknowledge the value of his calling, and the immense importance of the industry to our country. But I do maintain that, the methods pursued should be put under strict supervision, and under equitable safeguards, not only in the interest of the country generally, but in those of the lumbermen themselves.

"Now as to the safeguards whereof I speak, I feel that I am helpless in offering adequate suggestions and whilst it is possible to enact laws and to carry out their provisions regulating the timber industry, I feel that the further, and far more difficult question of preservation from the other causes of destruction, still remain to be solved, questions which we know will tax the ingenuity of the cleverest to suggest practicable remedies for; and at the best, it is apparent in a country like British Columbia, that even with the most practical suggestions, and with the utmost efforts which can be put forth, we can only hope for a mitigation of the losses which are now occurring. Nevertheless if even a modicum of good is effected it will be well done and I feel that it is the duty of every member of this Association to express his views, and to make suggestions, and for the Association to take up, the broad question of the preservation of our native forests from the inevitable destruction which now threatens them."

Interesting Stage in Hinckley Case.

An interesting stage has been reached in the action of the Fidelity Casualty company of New York versus C. A. Hinckley, otherwise known as C. S. Morris, the man who absconded from New York 10 years ago with $90,000 belonging to the West Side National bank of the metropolis. The matter became a cause celebre through the efforts of the United States authorities to secure Morris' arrest and punishment. He escaped scot free, however, the extradition arrangements not applying to his case. The situation developed at that time resulted in amendments to the extradition act whereby similar offences were made extraditable. Morris lived in Toronto, Rat Portage and latterly in the Boundary, where he speculated in real estate and mining property.

The Fidelity Casualty company went on his bonds for $12,000 and having been compelled to deliver this sum to the West Side bank entered an action to recover the amount with 10 years' interest from Hinckley, which is the name adopted by Morris under the British flag. The case has been proceeding for several months, but action is now suspended pending a settlement whereby it is stated the guarantee company will secure the full amount of its claim.

New Manager for Le Roi No. 2.

ROSSLAND, Nov. 18.—The much rumored amalgamation of the two Le Rois is as far off as ever; in fact it is now practically a certainty that the two mines will be operated separately, as heretofore. Within the next few days Mr. Albert Hill, a relative of the ex-chairman of the Le Roi company, will arrive here to arrange many matters affecting the Le Roi No. 2, but it is by no means a certainty that he will remain as manager of the mine. It is difficult to say just who will be placed in permanent charge, but there is some probability that the advice of manager McKenzie of the Le Roi will be sought, with a view to straightening out the affairs of the No. 2. The reason for this is that Mr. McKenzie enjoys not only the confidence of the English shareholders of the No. 2 and the B. C. market in London, but also of a very large majority of the people of this camp.

Mr. Hill will be a busy man when he arrives here, for there is much that requires his careful attention. The question of satisfactory smelter rates is the chief matter of importance affecting the mine. This, in itself, will require delicate handling, as the Le Roi No. 2 not owning a smelter, is heavily handicapped in the economical treatment of its product. The No. 2 has many thousands of dollars in its tramway, earned from heavy shipments for the last six months. It is therefore within the scope of possibility that the company may erect its own reduction works, if a satisfactory treatment rate is unobtainable at either the Northport or Trail.

The belief is general that but little time will elapse between Mr. Hill's arrival and the resumption of work at the Le Roi No. 2 on a very extensive scale. Even supposing that the mine is not provided with a market for its ore for some time to come a large force of men will have to be put to work to continue the development of the lower levels. Messrs Macdonald and Thompson will not remain in the camp. Mr. Thompson has stated that he intends to locate in Spokane as soon as he can wind up his affairs here. This will necessitate his resignation from the Rossland Kootenay management, as well as the Le Roi No. 2. Mr. Macdonald has already moved to Spokane.

Slim Galloway Released.

A special from Spokane says; Slim Galloway is out of prison and is at present in this city.

Galloway is the man who created such a sensation through the northwest last December by marrying a Spokane girl and taking her to Grand Forks, B. C., where it was claimed he induced her to enter a house of ill fame.

He was given a term in the British Columbian prison, but is out now and need not serve out the balance of his sentence. It is understood that friend-interested themselves in his case and secured a pardon. At any rate he is in the city and it is understood intends to go to work in a lumber camp.

His wife, on the other hand, it is believed still intends to secure a divorce. Though she has passed Galloway on the streets there is no report so far of any reconciliation.

Last December was when the Galloway sensation came to light. It was claimed that he conspired with an immoral woman who went by the name of "Blue Goose" whom he introduced to his intended wife as his aunt. Then taking the girl to Grand Forks he was charged with inducing her in to an immoral life. He was subsequently tried, convicted and sentenced.

H. Rose explains his Crime on the Scaffold.

"I die willingly, because it is God's will. I have made my peace with Him, I am not guilty of the crime for which I stand here. My innocence may be, I pray God, proved some day. For all that, I forgive those who are the cause of my being here. If I have offended anyone, I beg forgiveness. I bid good bye to all. I would like to say more, but make it short because it is hard to me to stand here longer. I thank all who have been kind to me in my last days."

These words were dictated to Rev. Father Althoff in the presence of warden Lemon, by Henry Rose, and, at his request, were read by the priest to the spectators present at the execution, immediately before the fatal bolt was sprung.

Maintaining his innocence to the last moment Henry Rose suffered the extreme penalty of the law at 8 o'clock on Friday morning in the jail yard. He was perfectly composed, and walked firmly to the scaffold. For a moment he looked calmly down upon the spectators, and then handed to Father Althoff the paper containing his last declaration, which the priest read.

Rose then knelt and received the last sacrament. As he stood up the priest asked him if he had anything more to say. His lips moved and the priest turning to the spectators said, "He says good bye to all." Father Althoff then embraced him and kissed him on the cheek.

Radcliffe adjusted the black cap and noose, and hats were raised as the priest commenced the last prayer in which he proceeded but a few sentences when the executioner exclaimed, "All ready," and immediately pulled the lever which released the bolts holding the trap under Rose's feet, and all was over.

The formal coroners inquest followed and shortly afterwards the body was interred in the jail grounds.—Nelson Daily News.

At the Mines.

Some 50 men are now employed at the B. C. mine in Summit Camp, and ore shipments are being maintained at the rate of two or three cars a day. Besides keeping up a regular output of ore prospecting work is being continued with the object of finding other shoots of ore on the property. The B. C. group consists of the following mineral claims: B. C., Trucker, Reveille, Hilda, Vashli, Falcon, J. W., London, Daisy fraction, B. C. fraction and Novelty fraction, together containing an area of 288 acres. These are all adjoining claims. Practically the whole of the work has been done on the B. C. As shoots of good ore have been opened up on the Gordick, R. Bell, Mountain View and Blue Bell, situate to the south or west of the B. C. group, there appears to be good reason to look for the occurrence of ore bodies, on the B. C. group, between the former and the big shoot on the B. C. from which about 80,000 tons have been shipped in the smelters.

At the Emma mine, also in Summit camp, about half a dozen men are employed on the ore bins now being built here, and twice that number in quarrying ore, most of which goes to the Hall Mining & Smelting Company's smelter at Nelson, B. C. An arrangement having been made to ship 500 tons to the Greenwood smelter this smaller quantity is being shipped there. The Emma ore is high in iron, with which is associated values sufficient to admit of its being handled with profit, so it is sought by smelters for flux purposes.

That the receipts from the Post Office department, notwithstanding the reduction in postage some years ago, exceed the expenditure is evidence not only of the prosperity of the Dominion, but also that the Conservatives who opposed the reduction were fake prophets.

According to Max O'Rell the British are the freest people in the world. He has travelled and observed a good deal and his opinion carries great weight, but if George Washington is still interested in such matters, he could probably give good reasons for differing from him. The British people are proud of the freedom they enjoy, and are entirely in accord with Max O'Rell in regard to it, but many no doubt, think that the blessings of freedom, like those of wealth, could undergo a more equitable distribution.

The uses to which wireless telegraphy may be put are infinite. The management of the Grand Trunk system has decided to conduct a series of experiments with a view of determining the possibilities of using the wireless telegraph to prevent railroad collision. If the experiments are successful the Canadian portion of the line will be fitted with wireless telegraph stations at intervals of from eight to 20 miles. It is stated that such a system admits of being in constant communication with moving trains. If wireless telegraphy shall be found effective as a means of preventing railway collision, it will be one of the greatest discoveries of the age.

President Roosevelt seems to be the lion of the hour in both hemispheres, yet that gentleman though he leads the strenuous life he advocates, has only done his duty faithfully, and, in this respect, does not excel his many distinguished predecessors. He is neither a Washington nor a Lincoln, though great events might make him the peer of either. He can shoot anything from a bear to a Spaniard, and is equally at home in the White House or upon the back of a bucking broncho. An American in England recently said that he was so popular in England that, if that country were a republic, he could be elected president. What has he done for England that he should be either popular or unpopular? Why should he not be treated with respectful indifference? Immediately after the death of the late President McKinley, he declared he would carry out, as nearly as possible, Mr. McKinley's policy. Mr. McKinley's policy as expressed by his commissioners in the Alaska Boundary question was that the United States would not consent to submit the matters in dispute to arbitration, unless it were stipulated beforehand that territory already occupied by American citizens should in any event belong to the United States. Seven years ago the Venezuela boundary dispute came to a head. Lord Salisbury refused at first to arbitrate the question because he believed the British claims were indisputable; whereupon President Cleveland threatened war unless Great Britain yielded to the demands of the United States. Lord Salisbury yielded, though it must have been a bitter pill for the sturdy Briton to swallow. President Cleveland had no right to assume that Great Britain was encroaching upon the territory of Venezuela. That he was not in a position to assume it, was clearly proved by his own actions; for after his warlike message he appointed a commission to enquire into the matter. It is extremely doubtful if the Monroe doctrine were intended to apply to a mere boundary dispute. How the matter was finally settled is well known. There are reasons for believing that the United States will adhere to the strong stand they have taken on the Alaska Boundary question, though their actions are not consistent to say the least. The relations of the two people are cordial, and they are bound together by many ties. The inhabitants of both countries, except a few fire eaters, do not want war, and would look upon it as a calamity. It is, therefore, the bounden duty of those who are temporarily clothed with authority in both countries to be magnanimous, to be considerate of the feelings of one another and the people they represent.

Five Good Reasons
 That the Rio Grande Route is the most popular one between the Pacific Coast and the East, is evinced by the fact that the greater per cent of trans continental travelers use it.
FIRST, the scenic attractions in view from trains are unequalled in the world.
SECOND, the daily personally conducted tourist car excursions being especially adapted for ladies traveling alone or with children affords a comfortable mode of traveling at rates within the reach of all.
THIRD, it is the only route between the East and West passing directly through Salt Lake City or modern Zion.
FOURTH, the choice of two distinct routes through the heart of the Rocky Mountains.
FIFTH, three fast through trains daily between Ogden and Denver equipped with every modern convenience.
 There are many other reasons why this route is the most comfortable and enjoyable in the whole country.

CHAPTER 40.
 An Act to amend the Liquor Licence Act, 1900.
 (21st June, 1902.)
 His Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Assembly of the province of British Columbia, enacts as follows:
 1. This Act may be cited as the Liquor Licence Act (1902 Amendment Act) 1902.
 2. Section 37 of chapter 18 of the statutes of 1901, being the "Liquor Licence Act 1901" is hereby repealed, and the following substituted therefor:
 "No licence under this Act shall be issued or transferred to any person of the Indian race, or to any person who is not on the list of voters for the Legislature of the province of British Columbia."

"EAST and WEST, a paper for young Canadians" is the attractive title of a handsome, eight page illustrated weekly, issued from the Publication offices of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, Toronto. It deserves success. Its literary standard is high, and the printers have spared no pains to make it a credit mechanically. The opening continued story is by J. Macdonald Oxley, illustrated by J. E. Laughlin, both of them Canadians and each well known in his own special field. A story by Ralph Connor is promised in an early number. Indeed, the whole scope of the paper is wholly Canadian and we should expect that EAST and WEST will meet a warm welcome outside as well as within the Presbyterian Church. Rev. R. Douglas Fraser and Rev. J. M. Duncan are the editors.

Canadian Lumber Trade Prospering.
 WASHINGTON, Oct.—In the course of a few months the export duty on lumber imposed by the Government of British Columbia has resulted in driving a number of United States saw-mills across the line, and largely prospering the Canadian lumber trade, according to a short report to the State Department from United States Consul Dudley at Vancouver. He also says that shingles produced in Canada go into the United States, notwithstanding the duty. There is a demand for five or six thousand men to work in the mills and logging camps, although the wages offered are lower than on the American side of the line.

The Crescent.
 The Crescent mineral claim, owned by the Greenwood Crescent Gold Mining and Milling Company, of Spokane, has had considerable work done on it during the last few months. H. H. Shallenberger has a lease of the property and an option on a controlling interest of the stock. The company sunk a prospect shaft to a depth of about 30 feet some time ago between croppings that appeared to indicate the occurrence of two veins running parallel at about 90 feet apart. A cross-cut cut one of these at the 80 foot level at about 80 feet from the shaft. A crosscut started in the other direction at the 50 foot level should encounter the other vein at about 30 feet from the shaft. A drift run 75 feet on the lead already cut shows it to be a big vein with a quartz gangue, having a paystreak of about twelve inches of good ore. Some 80 feet ahead of the face of this drift, which runs into the hill and so gives greater depth as it gets farther in, there is what on the surface appears to be a big cross lead of arsenical ore into which several stringers of good ore appear to run from the direction of the shaft. About 200 feet in the opposite direction another prospect shaft has been sunk 18 feet on what is thought to be the second of the parallel veins above mentioned. Near this an open cut has been run into the hill, cutting the ore, which has been followed some 25 feet and now has a face of 20 feet. A shaft is to be sunk on this 20 feet, giving a depth of 70 feet from the surface. This ore shoot is up to two feet in width, averaging about 10 inches, of which from 4 to 10 inches is pay ore giving good values in gold and silver with grey copper occurring in it as well. A third prospect shaft, sunk 22 feet distant about 200 feet in an opposite direction to that of the first named shaft, shows another cross lead, about two feet in width and having stringers of high grade silver ore. Mr. Shallenberger is pushing development, confident that the Crescent will justify the expenditure.

 The Crescent was located in 1893 and is now Crown-granted. It is situated in Skylark camp, is about two miles from Greenwood, and adjoins the Lake group upon which last year a shaft was sunk 165 feet and a crosscut run 75 feet. Both properties give promise of turning out well after sufficient development work shall have been done to open up the ore veins already discovered on them.

The Granby company recently disposed of 125,000 shares of its treasury stock in New York for $500,000. The money will be used in paying off the indebtedness and carrying out the extensive improvements outlined by Mr. Graves.

A Magazine Thirty Years Old:—The Christmas (December) Number of THE DELINEATOR is also the Thirtieth Anniversary Number.
 To do justice to the number, which for beauty and utility touches the highest mark, it would be necessary to print the entire list of contents. It is sufficient to state that in it the best modern writers and artists are generously represented. The book contains over 230 pages with 34 full page illustrations, of which 20 are in two or more colors. The magnitude of this December number for which 728 tons of paper and 6 tons of ink have been used, may be understood from the fact that 91 presses running 14 hours a day, have been required to print it; the binding alone of the edition of 915,000 copies representing over 20,000,000 sections which had to be gathered individually by human hands.

Of course they do. It is their way of learning and it is your duty to answer. You may need a dictionary to aid you. It won't answer every question, but there are thousands to which it will give you true, clear and definite answers, not about words only, but about things, the sun, machinery, men, places, stories and the like.
