WORK ON STEMWINDER

Is Looking Better Than At Any Previous Time.

LEDGE IS 33 FEET WIDE

At the 300-Foot Level—Mine Will Shortly be in Receipt of Returns That will Place it Upon a Satisfactory Basis.

Although those in charge of the New Fairview Corporation's Stemwinder mine are reticent as to the results of recent work in the mine it has been ascertained from a thoroughly reliable source that a marked improvement has taken place in the grade of ore being mined at the 300-ft. level, so that if no financial difficulty arise during the next two or three months the mine will thereafter be in receipt of regular returns that will place it upon a more satisfactory basis in regard to the value of its product than it has been in in the past.

The Stemwinder has experienced many difficulties, but a shortage of ore has never been one of its troubles, the low grade rather than the quantity having been the chief obstacle to its success. Now, however, that the whole body of ore in the stope at the 300 level, having a width of about 33 feet, is carrying appreciably higher values, so that the outlook is distinctly better than at any previous time in the history of the mine.

Early last year the property was reported on by Mr. E. S. Thurston, a New York mining engineer of good standing, who examined the mine for Messrs. Gooderham and Blackstock, of Toronto. In the course of his report Mr. Thurston thus described the veins, character of the ore and the mine workings:—Running through the full length of the claim and traceable for several thousand feet additional through adjoining claims, are three strong, well-defined, parallel veins, with a northwest and south-east strike and a dip to the north-east of about 60 degrees. The formation is highly metamorphised stratified rock and the veins conform strictly with the stratification of the formation. The ore is a milky white quartz, carrying gold and silver in the form of free gold and sulphurets, the latter consisting of iron pyrites, galena, chalcopyrite and, in the north vein especially, occasional bunches of blende. The quartz also has a stratified structure with cleavage planes parallel to the walls of the vein and identical with those of the formation. Most of the development work has been done on the middle one of the three veins, called the main vein, the other two being known respectively as the north vein and south vein. It consists of a well-timbered incline shaft, 5ft by 11ft. in the clear, sunk on an incline of 60 degrees for 200 ft." After describing the workings at the first and second levels Mr. Thurston continued:—"Throughout this work on the main vein the quartz is exposed without a break and, as a rule, with only part of the vein exposed, it being wider than the drifts. There are two cross-cuts from wall to wall on the second level, 18 and 20ft. long, respectively, but there is reason to believe that they are in an exceptionally wide place as the surface croppings above them are 34ft. wide, although 6 to 8 ft. is about the average width along the surface." The results of two mill runs, at different mills, was given by Mr. Thurston, one being of 200 tons from the main vein which returned values per ton $3.10 in bullion and $2.16 in concentrates, with an average loss in tailings of 90 cents per ton, the total value of the ore having been $6.16 per ton. The second run, on 350 tons from the main vein and 150 tons from the north vein, gave a return of bullion $1.21 per ton and concentrates $2.06, the average loss in tailings having in this instance, owing to defects in the saving appliances, been $1.16 per ton. Mr. Thurston estimated that with a 60-stamp mill capable of crushing 150 tons per day the cost of milling, concentrates would not exceed 75 cents per ton, and might be brought, under certain suggested conditions, as low as 60 cents per ton. The cost of mining the ore and delivering it at the mill was placed at $1.50 to $1.75 per ton. No allowance was made in these estimates for administration. These figures are here quoted for the purpose of exemplifying the probability of the correctness of the contention of the present management that they are mining and delivering the ore at the mill for less than $1.75 per ton. As some of the concentrates are being shipped to Everett, Wash., it is possible that the cost of treating these will be larger, owing to transportation charges.

The present condition of the mine is that the character of the big body of ore above mentioned as being worked at the third level, which is a hundred feet deeper than the workings Mr. Thurston examined, is for its whole width, quite changed from a milky white to a bluish gray quartz freely mineralized throughout with pyrite and galena, with increased values and presenting the appearance of being a permanent payshoot. Further improvements made by the mine manager, Mr. Chas. Ostenburg, to the concentrating plant, has overcome a difficulty previously experienced in cyaniding the concentrates, an ingenious contrivance of his now separating the galena from the pyrites and admitting of the latter being effectively treated on the spot whilst the galena concentrates are being shipped via Penticton to Everett.

The stamp mill is now running 46 stamps and milling about 100 tons of ore daily, and the work of adding 20 stamps from the Smuggler mill is well forward, foundations being in readiness, mortar blocks in and nearly all of the additional plant on the ground, with only the mortars yet to be hauled from the Smuggler mill site, distant about a mile and a half. The cyanide plant has been installed and is in operation, and mining is in progress at all three levels—100, 200, and 300 ft.—of the mine, with some 30 men on the payaoll.

The Dominion Consolidated Mines Company, which owns the Flora, Western Hill and Virginia claims, on the same veins as the Stemwinder, has half a dozen men prospecting these veins on the surface. This company has done some 1,200 feet of tunnelling, the conformation of its ground being much more favorable to cheap working than that of the new Fairview company, the veins being workable to a considerable depth by adits. It is claimed that the ore on the Dominion company's claims is similar in general character to that in the Stemwinder but that it is of a little better grade, the average being stated at between $6 and $7. This company also has water rights covering the Okanagan Falls and it is endeavoring to raise capital for the purpose of there developing power for mining and other purposes at Fairview and neighborhood. It is earnestly hoped that it will succeed in this, for the provision of electric power in a mining district so disadvantageously situated as is Fairview in regard to fuel supply (neighboring coal measures not yet being opened up) would much faciliate the successful development of its big bodies of comparatively low grade ore.

ANARCHIST MOUNTAIN NOTES.

Special to THE ADVANCE.

C. W. Coss, is building a fine residence on his ranch.

H. Edwards left this week for a trip to Spokane. He expects to be absent about ten days.

Quite a number of residents from here journeyed to Rock Mountain on Thursday to attend the school picnic there, which was in every way a success. The sports closed with a baseball match between the married and the single men, and resulted in a victory for the latter.

The fine weather of the past week has made a great improvement to the growing crops. The whole mountain is now looking fine, and the coming harvest promises to be one of the greatest in the history of this place.

Albert E. Letts, our popular school teacher, will spend his vacation at his old home in Ontario. He left on Friday for Midway at which point he will take the train.

Thos. Wake, well known throughout the Boundary as one of the pioneer prospectors and for the past four years proprietor of the Boundary Falls hotel, has returned to his home at Boundary Falls after a short stay in the Greenwood hospital, where he was treated for blood poisoning.

Readers of Barrie's story of newspaper life, "When a Man's Single," will remember the telegraph editor who headed the dispatch beginning "The Zulus have taken umbrage" with a line announcing that the Zulus had captured a post, and made the opening sentence read: "The Zulus have taken Umbrage." The incident is recalled by a dispatch in the Ottawa Evening Journal dated "Daulphin, Man., June 18," and announcing the result of the voting in the Kinistino district in the Territorial elections. The dispatch states; "As a result of the vote, Meyers and Nott Shadd, a negro, have been elected for the constituency." It should be, of course, Meyers and not Shadd." In this case the wide-awake telegraph editor in the Ottawa Journal office added: "Shadd is the first full blooded negro to be elected to a legislative body in Canada." And he headed it up: "First Negro to Sit in a Canadian Assembly." "Nott Shadd has been Elected in the Territories." On the contrary, not only has Nott not been elected, but there is no Nott. —Manitoba Free Press.

THE STRIKE AT FERNIE.

About 400 Men Go Out at the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company's Coal Mines.

FERNIE, June 26,—With the advent of the new general manager of the Crow's Nest Pass Coal company, a regulation which added half an hour to the men who were working day work in the mine was put into effect and the men quit work in consequence.

At a largely attended meeting held in Princess hall on Tuesday evening, the union decided to call out the men. There were only seven voices raised against this decision out of about 200 members present.

The mines had just resumed work. Nearly all of the men had been idle for the past month, and consequently they are in a poor position to stand a strike. Everything is quiet at present and no trouble is anticipated. How long the strike will last is hard to predict as the management of the company are firm in the stand they take.

About 400 men are affected by the strike.

FERNIE, June 25.—The press committee of Gladstone Miners' union No. 76, W. F. of M., have issued the following letter to the press:

"We beg leave to ask the favor of being granted to us a space in your paper.

"The readers of your paper will not have forgotten the dreadful catastrophe that has recently befallen this town, through which some 130 men and boys have met their doom.

"Another blow is now being struck at those who are left to mourn the death of their comrades. It has been the rule at these mines (the Coal Creek mines) since their being opened up and managed by four consecutive managers, that eight hours from bank to bank constitute a day's work. There has been no apparent disagreement between the employers and employees regarding this question until the advent of Mr. Tonkin, the new manager, who has, without consulting or even giving any notice to the effect, ordered that the men must work eight hours at the coal face, and not as before eight hours from bank to bank. To some of the men this would mean pratically a nine hour shift, in other words, nine hours from bank to bank instead of as before, eight.

"This course of action is apparently an endeavor to establish a precedent not in vogue in any part of British Columbia..

"In the mines at Nanaimo and others on the island, the men descend and ascend within the eight hours.

"It is true that an eight-hour law has not been established in this province for the simple reason that all the coal mines have an eight-hour law of their own and the necessity had not arisen for this to be by law established. We the miners employed at the Coal Creek mines, are not willing that this custom be changed after it has been in vogue so long, and therefore we have resolved to stand against it.

"We have resolved to stand against what seems to be an encroachment upon the rights of the laboring men. Shall we stand alone?

"We appeal to every hardy son of toil to stand with us.

"Autocracy has reigned too long in this 'free' land.

"We love our freedom and appreciate equal rights. To fair-minded masters we offer corresponding interest, but we are not willing to tolerate anything that savors of 'take all and give none.'

"Therefore, be it resolved, that we, the miners at the Coal Creek mines, make a stand against any infringment of the long standing precedent of eight hours from bank to bank constituting a day's labor, and also that we make an appeal to the member of this constituency to present a bill before the house to make eight hours in the twenty-four from bank to bank to be embodied in the law of this province."

FERNIE, June 27.—J. H. Tonkin, the new manager of the Crow's Nest Pass Coal company's collieries on Coal creek, has issued the following statement relative to the causes leading up to the present strike of the miners:

"Owing to the shortage of men, resulting from the recent explosion, the company considers it would be better for all concerned to put the mines on a single shift basis, in place of the three shifts as heretofore.

"This plan would give the miner a better opportunity, as each would have his own room to attend to and would keep the mines in a far better and safer condition.

"The company hands, who are day men, object to the system as it requires them to fulfil their obligation to the company of eight hours' work for eight hours' day. Under the old system they worked from six and a half to seven hours.

"The company do not ask more than eight hours' work for eight hours' pay, but do insist on having that.

"Upon advising the men to this effect a small meeting was held by some members of Gladstone Miners Union, and a strike was ordered."

The Midway public school closed on Wednesday, when a number of residents took advantage of the opportunity to witness the closing exercises. The promptness with which the scholars were able to successfully answer the difficult questions given them throughout the afternoon, reflects great credit on both the children and Mr. McPhail, the teacher, under whose able tuition they have made such marked advancement. On Saturday the annual election of trustees was held in the school house for the purpose of electing a trustee in the place of J. R. Ferguson, whose term of office had expired. A. A. McPhail acted as chairman of the meeting, while G. E. Richardson performed the duties of secretary. Jas. McNicol was nominated and seconded for the position, and as no other candidate was brought out, Mr. McNicol was duly declared elected.

Provincial constable Darraugh brought to Greenwood on Thursday's train an Italian named Joseph Costonzo whom he arrested the previous day at Farren, on the Columbia & Western railway, on a charge of having assaulted with intent another Italian named Angelo Pasco. It is stated that last October, whilst both men were employed at maintenance work on the railway near Phoenix, Pasco assaulted Costonzo, for which offence he was prosecuted and fined $15. Three weeks later he passed the place where Costonzo was camped and the latter followed him down the railway line and felled him with a heavy hammer or maul. Leaving Pasco senseless where he fell. Costonzo skipped out immediately. Pasco was unconscious for three days and ill from the effects of the assaults for some time longer. Recently Mr. Darraugh learned of Costonzo's whereabouts, he being employed on the railway between Gladstone and the Columbia, so on Wednesday he arrested him at Farron, took him to Nelson for the night, and Thursday brought him to Greenwood to answer to the charge brought against him.

In the County Court of Yale, sitting at Greenwood last Wednesday, before His Honor Judge Leamy and a jury, the case of Richard H. Hutchens vs. the B. C. Copper Company, Ltd., in which plaintiff sued to recover the sum of $1448.25 alleged to be due to him by defendants, was heard. The circumstances attendant upon this matter were that a few weeks ago Frederick Keffer, general manager for the defendant company, informed Hutchens, who was superintendent of the company's Mother Lode mine, situate near Greenwood, that the company had decided to let all underground mining work by contract so as to reduce the cost of this work, which at the low price of copper was too high for the company to continue underground work without further loss. The manager states that he fully informed Hutchens what the reasons were for this decision on the part of the company. The miners were invited to bid for the work on contract, but with such an unsatisfactory response that the manager suspected some secret influence was at work to induce them not to do so, or, if they did bid, only at much higher rates than the company was already paying by day's labor. At the close of the month of April Hutchens gave thirty days' notice of his intention to leave the company's service, but the manager, having what he believed to be conclusive evidence that he had encouraged the miners not to bid for contract work, summarily dismissed him. Hutchens thereupon brought action to recover the sum of $1,200, which he claimed was due to him as back pay on an alleged agreement to pay him a higher wage than his regular pay of $175 per month whenever the number of men at the mine should increase beyond a stated number; a further sum of $225 which he claimed was due him as wages for May, and $23.25 value of fuel, light and house rent, which the company would have had to supply him with had he remained in its employ during May, as he contended he had the right to so remain. The cross examination of plaintiff by defendant's counsel, who contended that plaintiff was dismissed for cause, was with the object of showing that plaintiff had been disobedient to the orders of the company, had secretly opposed its plans to work its mine contract and had been abusive to the company's general manager. Several witnesses were called to support these contentions. The jury awarded plaintiff $175, being one month's pay without costs. The judge pointed out to the jury that they had nothing to do with costs, which must follow the event. It is stated that the defendant company will most likely appeal the case to the supreme court, on the grounds that the verdict was in opposition to the weight of evidence submitted.
