Premier Announces More Railway Building

Legislation, providing for the construction of 795 miles of railway, at an approximate cost of $40,000,000, in British Columbia, was brought down in the Provincial House by Premier McBride on Tuesday afternoon of this week.

On all this new mileage provided for, construction is to be commenced within the next six months and completed by July 1915.

The programme follows:

	miles
The Kettle River Valley from Coldwater Junction to Hope	50
The Canadian Northern Pacific from Kamloops to Kelowna by way of Grand Prairie, Armstrong and Vernon, with a branch to Lumby	145
The Pacific and Great Eastern Railway from Howe Sound to Fort George by way of Pemberton Meadows	450
The Canadian Northern Pacific in extension of its line on Vancouver Island	150
Total	795

The plans of the Canadian Northern on Vancouver Island embrace construction from Victoria to Hardy Bay and perhaps also to Quatsino. From Victoria to Franklin Creek on Alberni Canal the route has been decided on. It will extend from Victoria to Sooke; thence northerly by way of Sooke River and Sooke Lake to Shawnigan Lake, which it will follow along its western shore, thence it will strike across country to the outlet of Cowichan Lake, and will follow the north side of the lake to its head Five miles beyond the head of the lake is the 100-mile post, to which point the assistance granted to the company two years ago extended. To this point the line is under construction. From this point the route extends southerly down the Nitinat valley to within four miles of the lake of that name; thence it turns north again and reaches the valley of Coleman Creek, which it follows to a point near its mouth, and thence runs up the Canal as far as Franklin Creek. Beyond this point the line has not yet been definitely located, but it will extend up the Alberni valley to a point near Great Central Lake; thence across the divide separating that body of water from Comox Lake; thence probably along the southern shore of Comox Lake and thence through Cumberland by the most feasible inland route to a point north of Campbell River, which is as far as the aid granted this year will extend.

From this point the company will extend its line to Hardy Bay. It is known that a good route extends around Crown Mountain and down the Kla-anch to Nimpkish Lake. Engineers are now in the field examining the country.

That part of the Canadian Northern's island system to which assistance is granted this year will provide for a railway that will cross the island from the east to the west coast and back again to the east coast. It will provide a route whereby the coal mined in and around Cumberland can be shipped to Alberni canal. It will give access to Strathcona Park. It will carry the railway to within a few miles of the Seymour Narrows.

Legalisation will also be provided authorizing the lease of the Esquimalt & Nanaimo railway to the Canadian Pacific, which now owns its capital stock, after which that railway will be operated as the Island Division of the Canadian Pacific. The company agrees forthwith to extend its line from a point on the Port Alberni extension, near Parksville, to Comox, a distance of between 40 and 50 miles.

The Canadian Pacific contemplate the extension of this line to Hardy Bay.

Other matters are dealt with by the measures introduced by the Premier. The E. & N. Railway Company consents to the taxation of its land grant. This was made free of taxation by the legislation of 1884, which granted it to the Dominion for railway purposes. The Premier has been able to persuade the company to make a concession in this regard, and the land will hereafter be subject to taxation at the rate of 1¼ cents per acre, which will yield an annual revenue of approximately $18,000

Sir Donald Mann stated in Winnipeg that the Canadian Northern railway would be running fifty-car wheat trains from points in Alberta to Vancouver one year from this coming summer.

A provincial convention of Liberals will be held in Vancouver on Thursday, Feb. 29.

Falls From Roof In Alberni

E. J. Kirkland fell from the roof of a two-storey building in Alberni during noon hour on Tuesday, and, with his left leg broken in two places, lay helpless in agony for fully fifteen minutes before he was able to attract assistance

Mr. Kirkland had been shingling the roof of a house being built by R. W. Heaslip near the junction of the River and Beaver creek roads. His work was almost complete when noon hour arrived and he remained, after the other workmen had gone, to finish his job. He was moving about on the top of the roof, which is steep, when he stepped on a loose shingle and lost his footing. He was unable to stop himself and slid off the building, dropping to the ground. His right foot struck the soft ground, but the left one struck a board and caused a break below the knee. The board sprang up, struck him close to the thigh and caused a second fracture.

The injured man, being unable to move, called out for help. He saw some people passing at a short distance but was unable to arrest their attention. He had just about given up hope of relief until the return of the carpenters at one o'clock' when his feeble calls and gestures were noticed by Malcolm DeClute who resides in the neighhood. Mr. DeClute immediately called Dr. Morgan who responded promptly and the sufferer was removed to his room in the Alberni hotel. It was reported yesterday that the fractures were rapidly mending.

Looks Like Harmouy.

On the understanding that Victoria is not to be specialized in the campaign for railway connection with the mainland by means of a bridge over Seymour Narrows the energies of Port Alberni will be contributed to the cause.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Trade, held on Monday night of this week, a letter from W. J. Dowler, city clerk of Victoria, was read. It was the same in substance as the one addressed to the editor of the Pioneer News and published with comment in the issue of Feb. 10. The president of the board was therein advised that he had been appointed on a committee to boost the bridge proposition. The board was not furnished with a copy of the first letter from Mr. Dowler on the question which was objectionable to the editor of the Pioneer News because it was an apparent attempt to to commit representative people of various places on Vancouver island to support of a Victoria scheme. The whole matter having been explained satisfactorily so far it was moved by R. J. Burde, and seconded by C. Cree, that the president be authorized to act on the committee as mentioned. This was carried unanimously.

Busy Real Estate Men.

This has been a busy week with the real estate firm of Hayne & Wilkinson who report a large number of sales of town lots, mostly to outside clients, many of the buyers being resident in Victoria and others on the prairies.

Wednesday was the busiest day of the week when the following sales were made:

Lots 4, 5, 6, and 7, block 48.
Lot 12, block 45.
Lot 22, block 47.
Lots 21, and 22, block 46.
Lots 11 and 12, block 19.
Lots 10, 11 and 12, block 40.
Lots 12, 13, 14 and 15, block 41, Sproat lake.
Lots 32 and 38, Sproat lake.

Logging Railway

Right-of-way through the southern end of the Port Alberni townsite has been granted by the Provincial government to the Canadian Pacific Lumber company for its logging railway that is to tap the 1200 acres of adjacent timber land.

Contractors are now figuring on the work of building three miles of the road. Hayne & Wilkinson, of Port Alberni, will be the engineers in charge of construction.

To Organize Club.

A number of gentlemen, who, for some time past, have had under consideration the organization of a social club in Port Alberni, will hold a meeting in the parlor of the Somass hotel next Tuesday evening, commencing at 8 o'clock. Any interested person who has not already been consulted is invited to attend. It is proposed to secure ground, erect a handsome building, and have it furnished in regular first-class club style. A charter will be applied for.

BORN—At Maidenhead, Eng., on Jan. 14th, 1912, to the wife of W. G. Bigmore, of Woburn Farm, Alberni, a daughter.

L. N. Hayne, of Coronation, Alta., will arrive in Port Alberni next week and will assume the position of business manager for the real estate, insurance and engineering firm of Hayne & Wilkinson.

Mrs. Work, proprietor of the well known and popular tourist hotel at Shawnigan Lake, has bought Lots 26, 27 and 28, Sproat Lake, and will have a Summer hotel built on the property, the building to be commenced next month. The property was sold to Mrs. Work through the agency of Hayne and Wilkinson.

F. W. Carson, of Calgary, who had been looking over the real estate prospects of Port Alberni, left on Tuesday for home. Mr. Carson invested in some townsite property and expects to return soon accompanied by other Calgaryites who will settle here. Before leaving Calgary Mr. Carson was tempted to buy some of the Bick lots, but his disappointment on seeing them was overcome by the opportunities in general which he saw in Port Alberni. He believes the prospects of the town are so good that he will be even able, some day, to get his money back out of the wilderness lots he bought without knowing what he was up against.

Best New Town In Sight

J. Aukes, of Calgary, has been in town all this week, a guest of Charles Cree. Mr. Aukes, after sizing up the situation, has reached the conclusion that Port Alberni has the best prospects of any new town in the Canadian west. He does not see what can stop it from developing into a large and prosperous industrial and shipping center with a strong agricultural support behind it. It is also a place, he believes, where many people will choose to reside on account of the climate and scenic surroundings.

Subscription Rate, - $2.00 per year

Port Alberni, B. C., Feb. 24, 1912.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

The name of this publication will be changed, with the next issue, Saturday, March 2, 1912, from Alberni Pioneer News to Port Alberni News. There will be no change in ownership, location or policy of the paper, business being continued by the same publisher, R. J. Burde, at the same old stand, Strathern street, between Second and Third avenue, Port Alberni.

The reason for the change is that the name "Alberni," which was meant to have a district significance, causes confusion as to the location of the newspaper, people who glance only at the title assuming that it is published in the town of Alberni. The "Pioneer" is dropped from the title for economy's sake. The Pioneer days are just about gone.

Next week the paper will be enlarged in size and scope as a purveyor of news. Other contemplated improvements will take place within the next few weeks, or just as soon as new machinery and type, some of which is already on the ground, and the rest in transit, can be got into running order.

Profit In Blasting Now.

This is not an advertisement for stump blasters.

It is a bit of timely advice that can be used with profit by owners of uncleared lots in Port Alberni.

As buildings keep popping up on the townsite the business of lot clearing, entailing the use of dynamite and fire, becomes more dangerous, and necessitates more precautions. Blowing a stump at a reasonable distance from a building is a simple matter and is inexpensive in comparison with the same work when free blasting cannot be indulged in without danger to near-by property. One of the first by-laws of the new city council will necessarily prescribe restrictions that will result in an increased cost of clearing.

The owner naturally adds the cost of clearing to the value of his lot.

If the clearing be done when it is safe and easy, double the value of present cost may be added when restrictions are in force.

Colonist Not On List.

With a view to preventing credit from going where it does not belong the Pioneer News again takes exception to the statement of the editorial writer of the Colonist that his paper "has done more to make the advantages of Barclay sound, Port Alberni, and the surrounding country, known than all other agencies combined." A careful search of the enquires that have reached the Port Alberni board of trade from various parts of the world does not reveal a single mention of the Colonist as a source of information that caused the interest. Enquiries have been elicited, and results obtained, through the medium of the publications of the Provincial government, the Canadian Pacific Railway company, the board of trade itself, Leonard Frank, the Pioneer News, and various newspapers in which descriptive articles, or the advertisement of the Alberni Land Company and other real estate concerns, have appeared. Most of the enquiries that have materialized into any advantage to the town came from the Prairie provinces where the Colonist is but little known.

Liberal newspapers have announced that the Provincial general elections will be held on or about April 8th next, and John Oliver, leader of the party, has declared himself ready for the fray. According to the undisputed evidence of John Jardine, Mr. Oliver made ready for the last fray by declaring privately "Dick has us beaten to death," and then, after stretching his round form as flat as he could on the floor, proceeding, with the assistance of a paint pot, a brush, and a map, to make a railway policy of his own. The main advantage of John's policy was that all hills were effaced and engineering difficulties done away with by simply drawing straight lines from one given point to another.

Some strange conceptions of trades unionism have got into the heads of some wise men since the McNamara case in Los Angeles. A prosecuting attorney in the Samuel Gomper's contempt-of-court case in Washington endeavored for some time to make a witness, Frank Morrison, a printer, admit that the oath of allegiance to the International Typographical union superceded the individual's allegiance to either the state or his religious belief, and an emphatic denial did not seem to satisfy the inquisitor. The Typographical unionist is no more bound in this respect than he is to forsake his father, his mother, his brother, his sister, or his wife and family.

The daily newspapers have recently printed a lot of letters and pictures about the granting of the freedom of the City of London to Earl Grey. There lived in Port Alberni, not long ago, a modest man named Harry Blake, who once had the same honorable distinction conferred upon him. He was employed as a clerk in A. E. Waterhouse & Co.'s general store, and played the organ in St. Alban's church. Mr. Blake is now employed in a clerical capacity by the B. C. Electric Railway company in Victoria.

Arrangements are being made to bring a comedy show to the Port Alberni theater. This show will be given by a professional theatrical company. John Oliver's date will be announced later.

Captain Tells of Visit To Port Alberni Fifty Years Ago.

Fifty years ago one of the tall tress in the neighborhood of what is now the thriving town, and prospective city, of Port Alberni was cut down, trimmed and loaded on the ship Pocahontas docked where the old and fire-scarred piles still remain at the foot of Argyle street. It was taken to England to be used as a flagstaff. It was the tallest pole that had ever been landed in the old country up to that time, and, probably, yet holds the record.

Cyrus Sears, master of the Pocahontas, who is now a retired resident of Baltimore, Md., in a letter to Customs Collector Newbury of Victoria, tells of his voyage to Port Alberni, and interesting incidents of the visit, as follows:

Dear Sir.—A short time ago, while reading an article in a magazine regarding Vancouver Island and its resources, mention was made of the port of Alberni. The writer desires to make a statement of his experiences at the port of Alberni 50 years ago—1861-1862—which may be of interest to you, as a bit of ancient history, Alberni at that time being almost a wilderness and an unknown part to the commerce of the world.

In 1861. the ship Pocahontas, under my command, was lying in the harbor of San Francisco. I was approached by Captain Stamp of Alberni, who offered a charter to load a cargo of spars from Alberni to London, England. After the usual preliminaries were gone over the charter was concluded and the ship made ready by cutting bow lumber ports, etc. It was during the month of October, I think, when we sailed from San Francisco. The port being unknown, no charter had been published, although a survey had been made that summer. Captain Stamp kindly furnished me with a chart, it being the first chart used by the first merchant ship entering the port of Alberni to load a cargo. After a pleasant passage we arrived off Cape Barclay late one afternoon. Mr. Banfield, the Indian agent, was to be on hand to pilot the ship up the Sound. Seeing nothing of him, and the tide being at the ebb, I concluded to haul off shore for the night, and in the morning proceeded toward the entrance of the Sound. Picking up Mr. Banfield, the pilot, we sailed up the Sound as far as the first anchorage, a small sandy spot near the right hand side of the Sound, with hardly room for the ship to swing at her anchors.

The pilot leaving, I was obliged to depend upon myself and the chart. The following day we got under way on the flood tide and by backing and filling, proceeded up the Sound. The wind being baffling as we came down the Sound and no anchorage being in sight, we made a hawser fast to a tree, dropped a hedge anchor out in the channel in 72 fathoms of water, and swung alongside the precipitous bank, where, after putting out fenders, we lay very safe. While lying there the ship was being painted, and one of the crew painted the ship's name, "Pocahontas," on the rock, It is now known as "Pocahontas Rock," and is so inscribed on the published chart of the Sound.

The following day, the wind proving favorable, we proceeded up to Alberni, anchoring in 7 fathoms of water, which was our loading berth.

Alberni at that time consisted of a store, shipyard (where a vessel was in process of building), a blacksmith shop. a sawmill, lodging house and a few other buildings of the plainest kind.

The Indians were very much excited at the appearance of the ship, and came alongside in their canoes. Coming on board and lying down they measured the length of the deck, by their own length, from stem to stern. They then measured the outside length by their canoes. With exclamations of astonishment they pronounced her a "hi you canoe."

Captain Stamp came on board, and gave us a hearty welcome, performing his duties as collector of the port of Alberni. A few days after our arrival the American ship Visula arrived to load a cargo for Valparaiso, followed by the American ship Thomas A. Stone, also to load for Valparaiso.

The next arrival was an English barque to load for Australia. Altogether making quite a busy fleet.

Our cargo, consisting of very large spars for the English and French navies, came alongside in rafts and was cut from a large grove of towering trees located on the left bank of a creek which emptied into the Sound about a mile or more above the so-called village. Captain Stamp was an admirable host, lodged as he was in a room above the store. He was collector of the port, justice of the peace, governor and all the authority needed within the domain of Alberni.

The vessel that was being built at that place was a schooner of about 200 tons burden, intended for trade to the various ports around the island and the United States. She was launched just before we sailed.

During that winter the canal was frozen over for the first time within the memory of the oldest Indians. The ice delayed the loading of the vessels for some weeks although they were finally loaded and sailed away for their destined ports, leaving us alone.

It had been Captain Stamp's desire to send to England the longest spar to be found suitable for a flagstaff. One was finally found, trimmed and brought alongside, which measured 180 feet long, 24 inches at the butt, 11 inches at the tip. This spar had to be cut to 176 feet 3 inches to fit the ship and was the last spar taken on board. It was the first to come out in West India docks in London and was the largest spar that had ever been carried to Great Britain. It was erected at Frogmore. Having completed our loading we sailed about the last of January, 1862. I have written this from memory—if there are any discrepancies please overlook them, but in the main it is true.

Which is his

THERE'S no mistaking the expression of a man whose farm is well "improved." He looks as prosperous as he feels.

It isn't the size of a place that counts most, nor its actual dollars-and-cents value. It's rather that "well-kept," thrifty appearance; the appearance that makes you think of fat stock, and well-filled barns, and comfortable, contented living.

Neat, permanent improvements go further in giving a farm this appearance than any other feature.

Concrete Is The Ideal Material

for such improvements. It is neat, harmonizing with its surroundings in the country. Everlasting, it cannot be injured by fire, frost, wind or lightning. Age—instead of causing it to decay—actually makes it stronger.

Concrete never needs repair—first cost is last cost. New improvements can be added year after year with less expense than would be required to keep wooden structures in repair.

Concrete walks, feeding floors, dairy-barns, ice-houses, root-cellars, well-curbing, fence posts, silos—which of these does your farm need most? Whatever you want to build, it's best to build it of concrete.

Do you want to know more about this subject of permanent farm improvements? Then write for your copy of

"What The Farmer Can Do With Concrete."

It's a book of 160 pages, telling how other farmers have used the "handy material" to good advantage. Published to sell at 50c. a copy, it is now being offered free to all farmers who write for it. Address
