Board of Trade Sends Protest to Premier McBride, to the Minister of Lands and to H. C. Brewster, M. P. P.

The people of Alberni have another map grievance, probably the most serious one they have ever had, and they are determined this time to have it completely satisfied.

At the regular meeting of the Board of Trade, held last Monday night, the president, C. F. Bishop, produced a map of the South end of Vancouver Island, recently issued by the Provincial government, and called attention to the fact that while Port Alberni appeared in conspicuous letters at the head of Alberni canal, there was nothing to show that the town of Alberni existed.

There was a general expression of indignation, and a general suspicion that someone who had to do with the preparation of the map, had wilfully neglected to put the name of Alberni on it.

On motion of D. H. Riddell and W. F. Gibson, the secretary was instructed to write the premier, the minister of lands, and H. C. Brewster, M. P. P., calling attention to the omission, and protesting against it.

Trapper Goes Crazy; Dies on Way Home

Badly frozen, and raving mad, C. Carlsen, a trapper, was found by his partner, J. Petersen, and Jack Congdon, within a mile and a half of the Debeaux cabin, near the confluence of Mineral and China creeks, on Sunday of last week. He died while being conveyed to the cabin.

Carlsen, who had been living with Congdon and Petersen in the DeBeaux cabin, went out the Friday before on snow shoes to see what his traps had caught. The snow was about three and a half feet deep, and there were a number of fallen trees in the district which made travelling difficult. Carlsen intimated that he might go as far as the Duke of York cabin, about four miles away, and it was not until the Sunday following that the others became concerned about his failure to return. Early that morning Congdon and Petersen started out over Carlsen's trail to see if anything had happened to him. They followed his tracks for a mile and a half and came upon him close to one of his traps, where he had apparently been for two days crawling around in a circle in the snow. He had thrown away his snow shoes, had stripped one arm and one leg bare, and the exposed flesh was badly frozen. When approached by the searchers he stared wildly at them and would answer no questions. When offered food he turned away and began to ravenously devour handfuls of snow.

With difficulty the demented man was packed through the deep snow and over the fallen trees in the direction of the cabin, but he succumbed when within a quarter of a mile of his abode. A rough box was constructed, the body placed in it, and packed with snow. Later the men came to town and advised Chief Constable Cox, who sent out for the body. The coroner decided that no inquest was necessary, and the funeral took place on Thursday of this week.

Carlsen and Petersen had been living in the DeBeaux cabin since October. Previous to that they worked on railway construction. Petersen knew but little of his partner, having met him first on the railway work. He was a Norwegian by birth, and was about 32 years of age.

Property Deals In the Old Town

Dealing in residential property in Alberni has been active within the past couple of weeks, three transfers having been made.

J. E. Davis' house and lot, on the Paterson division of the Alberni townsite, was sold to A. A. Lynn, a recent arrival from the prairies who, with his wife, is a guest at the Alberni hotel. Mr. Lynn contemplates going into business in Alberni.

Ben Woram's house and lot in the same locality was bought by A. H. M. Lord.

E. J. Crickmay's house and lot on Elizabeth street, near Johnston, was sold to Phil Watson.

The Queen City is due again on Thursday next.

Organization Work By Conservatives

At the regular meeting of the Alberni Conservative association, held on Tuesday night, it was decided to correspond with the various other associations throughout the electoral district with a view to electing some place as central headquarters.

There was a large attendance at the meeting, and two new members were enrolled. Politics generally and the prospects of a Dominion bye-election were discussed.

Attention was called to the fact that two members of the executive committee, J. E. Davis and Ben Woran, were about to leave the town, and the meeting, by hearty and unanimous vote, expressed its appreciation of the worth of the two departing members, who, it was hoped, would soon see their way clear to returning to Alberni.

Conservative Meetings.

The Alberni Conservative association meets in the Carlin hall, upstairs, the first and third Tuesdays of every month.

"Slasher and Crasher" is fun mixed with tragedy of the deepest dye. The titles will be undertaken by the following:

Benjamin Blowhard (a fire eating old Dragoon, who has been through the Crimea).....P. Bayne
Sampson Slasher (very partial to jam, rhubarb in particular: late of the militia).....G. Roff
Christopher Crasher (the sanguinary president of an anti-dueling society) .....S. Bennett
Lieutenant Brown (of the Marines; a delicious young man).....C. Blandy
Miss Dinah (sister to old Blowhard, devoted to Christopher)...Miss Miles
Rosa (niece to Blowhard, devoted to Slasher).....Miss Riddle

"Ici on Parle Francais" relates the vicissitudes of a man who will stick a palpable lie in his parlour window to entrap the strange lodger. The caste is:

Mr. Spriggins (the rascally letter of unletable lodgings)....A. L. Withers
Mrs. Spriggins (a distant connection of the noble family of Fitzpentonville) .....Miss Lowe
Victor Dubois (in love, he make connaisance with her in Paris, she live in Dipwell, but he know not where) .....F. H. Swayne
Major Regulus Rattan (one of the Cape Coast Slashers, a roaring Ojibaway).....S. Bennett
Julia (wife of the roaring Ojibaway) .....Miss Robertson
Angelina (not a bit like her papa)... ..... Mrs. P. Watson
Anna Maria (compelled to live in a nasty little attic, no bigger than a cupboard).....Miss Sophia Stephens

Mock Parliament.

At the opening of the mock parliament on Thursday night the premier, Dr. Morgan, gave notice that at the next sitting of the House he would move a vote of confidence in his government in order to test opinion as to whether the government was fairly defeated on a vote during the previous sitting.

W. H. Marcon, the Socialist leader, moved to memoralize the Dominion government on the necessity of causing an inspection of all sealing vessels leaving British Columbia ports. The motion was defeated by the casting vote of the speaker.

The bill for the inspection of railway construction and logging camps was read a second time by unanimous vote.

The attorney-general introduced a bill to amend the Liquor License Regulation act.

Debate on the reciprocity motion was opened by the mover, Jas. R. Motion, minister of public works. W. F. Gibson also spoke, and E. M. Whyte, leader of the opposition, moved the adjournment of the debate.

Railway Progress.

Slides at Cameron lake have interfered with the progress of track laying on the E. & N. railway extension during the past few weeks, but it is expected that the grade will be clear for a resumption of work next week. Culliton Bros., the bridge builders, have arranged for a supply of heavy timbers from Nanaimo which will enable them to proceed more rapidly with their contract. This week they established a camp at Cameron lake, where a big trestle is to be built.

J. A. Maughan left yesterday for Victoria, where he will spend a couple of months.

Entertainment of the Rainbow Sailors

It was planned last week to give an elaborate account of the visit of H. M. C. S. Rainbow (Commander Stewart) to this port, and the reception given the crew, but the plan miscarried because it was made on too large a scale for the mechanical limitations of the paper.

It is now a little late, but as the event was one that will long be remembered in Port Alberni, it is recorded briefly as a matter of pleasant history.

No sooner had the Rainbow dropped anchor, and left itself open for visitors from ashore than a delegation of citizens was aboard to invite as many of the crew as could obtain shore leave to a smoking concert to be held that (Monday) night in Waterhouse hall. The delegation intimated that there was a scarcity of musical talent ashore, and that all entertainers that the sailors could bring with them would be doubly welcome at the big blow-out.

By kind permission of the officers about one hundred men were allowed ashore, and with them was enough concert talent to form a whole vaudeville troupe.

The chair was occupied by William E. Ryder, and a refreshment committee was chosen impromptu. There was beer, what the Jack Tar calls "glorious beer," there were cigars and pipes, and there were sandwiches of various kinds, and such an abundance of it all that the committee had a surplus to dispose of.

It was free and easy, the sailors mingling with the civilians, and forgetting for the time that there was any such thing as discipline. It was a most orderly affair, for a more orderly crowd of sailors never set foot on shore. It was a successful affair in every way, and the general verdict of the guests was that they had not had anything like such a time since they came on the Candian Pacific coast.

The chief feature of the entertainment was the Rainbow string band, and the other features were Alf Humphrey, C. Achilles, Bligh, Falkiner, Overy and Osborne, each of whom had a specialty that made the house roar. From the civilians point of view it was the best concert ever given in these parts.

Among the civilians who assisted in the entertainment were: W. E. Ryder, Barney Salmon, Tom Coston, C. S. Bannell, R. J. Burde, J. Ogilvie, T. Marshall, A. K. McDonell and J. Lovett.

Throughout the rest of the week every sailor ashore was entertained in some way or other. They were taken for sleigh rides, to the dances where the young men of the town stood back and allowed Jack to glide and swing with the maidens to his heart's content, they were given special seats at the Burns entertainment, and specially recognized during a session of the mock parliament. There was something doing all the time, and not a sailor is there but carried away with him, and yet keeps with him, a wish that the Rainbow will be booked to call often, and stay long on every call, in this port. The people ashore feel the same way about it.

On Monday afternoon a delegation of the Port Alberni board of trade called on the officers of the ship, and gave them an informal welcome. The local company of Boy Scouts were also visitors on the cruiser, and were shown all over the ship by a midship mite. A number of parties and individuals made social calls on the officers' mess and enjoyed a most generous hospitality.

The officers took advantage of their stay in port to do a little duck hunting with the result that the supply of ducks in the harbor was noticeably decreased.

The Rainbow carries a crew of over two hundred.

Clarence Dawley, of Clayoquot, was a passenger on the Queen City last night for Victoria.

Aiding the Poachers.

Information secured from an authentic source would indicate that at last the federal authorities have awakened to the necessity of taking some more adequate measures to put a stop to the notoriously open poaching by American fishermen along the west coast of Vancouver Island. It has been, time and again, been brought to the attention of the fisheries department at Ottawa the necessity of adopting some more stringent measures to drive the foreign intruders from Canadian waters and at last, apparently, this will be done.

It is stated that within a short time three fishery protection officers will be sent to these waters and that they will be taken to their respective posts by H. M. C. S. Rainbow when next she cruises along the west coast. One of the officers, it is hinted, will be placed at Clayoquot, another at Kyuquot, and a third at Quatsino.

The Rainbow has returned from a voyage along the west coast during which a watch was kept for American fishermen who frequent the many harbors, and from reports received it was very evident that it is about time that the federal authorities bestirred themselves and took steps to bar out the alien fishermen.—Victoria Colonist.

This does not mean that Hon. William Templeman, who is supposed to represent this constituency in the House of Commons has at last awakened to a sense of his obligations to the people whose suffrages he sought while Billy Sloan was leading him by the hand through this electoral wilderness over two years ago. Whatever action the government may see fit to take will have to be credited to G. H. Barnard, the member for Victoria, who presented the case on the floor of the house and repeatedly insisted that something should be done, Mr. Templeman the meanwhile sitting with his face in his hand, and wearing a please-go-away-and-let-me-sleep expression.

Now that the government seems inclined to make the long-neglected move attention is directed to the suggestion that the poachers would not have dared to carry on their operations so bodly unless they had the friendship and aid of people living on the shores. A number of these fishermen are Norwegians of American naturalization, and in the harbors where they have found bait and refuge are a number of Norwegians of Canadian naturalization, some of the latter prematurely so. It is common report along the west coast that certain Norwegians ashore befriended the poachers by keeping them posted as to the movement of Dominion government boats, and the safest times to enter and depart from the harbors. Attention is specially called to this report because of the fact that some of the men suspected are connected with the Dominion government life saving system.

One of the many good features of the Canadian government Annuities act which should commend it to wage earners, and others with small or uncertain incomes, is the fact that if the purchaser is oblidged for any reason to discontinue his regular payments there is no fine, no lapse, and no forfeiture. Whatever money he pays in will remain with the government at 4 per cent compound interest until the time when the annuity period is due, and he will then receive such annuity as the payments he has made, with accrued interest, will purchase. If the amount paid is found not to be sufficient to purchase an annuity of $50, which is the smallest amount that can be purchased under the act, all money received, with 3 per cent compound interest, will be returned to the purchaser. The system is most elastic and the payments may be resumed at any time, and the arrears made up by a lump sum payment, or by increased payments spread over a number of years in order that the annuity originally aimed at may be secured.

Dr. Spencer is authority for the statement that 60 per cent. of the people in British Columbia do not attend church. Too many men like Spencer in the church business.

Work Under Way On Island Section of C. N. R.

Contractors M. Carlin and Grant Smith & Compauy have commenced active work on the Island section of the Canadian Northern Pacific Railway company. A store and general depot, to form a base of supplies, and a branch camp is now in course of construction at Peddar Bay.

From Peddar Bay construction will be carried on in both directions, while other camps will be established along the route. The contractors are willing to sub-let the contract for the second twenty miles of the railroad, but as there is three feet of snow on the route running from Sooke to Shawnigan lake construction will be impossible there for some time. Sixteen sub-contractors have been over the second twenty miles and are ready to tender. The sub-contractors will not only clear the right of way but also complete the construction work.

As there are no formidable difficulties in the first forty miles it is confidently anticipated that rails will be laid over this portion by the end of the year. In this section the construction of only one bridge is necessary—that over Millstream, a distance of seventy-five feet. The adjustment of difficulties in the purchase of the right of way from 4.7 point to a distance of nine miles outside Victoria is proceeding rapidly, and it is anticipated that the entire right of way will have been purchased within the next few weeks, and the contractors will be able to proceed with the work with all expedition.

Can't Seize Timber Licenses.

That an interest in a special timber license is not an interest in land, and is therefore outside seizure under a court judgment, was the ruling laid down by Mr. Justice Morrison in an important judgment delivered in the case of P. F. Newell vs. John Trainor. The case was one in which the plaintiff secured a judgment against the defendant Trainor to the extent of $1629.80 and costs. An application was then made before Mr. Justice Morrison in the Supreme Court for the defendant to show cause why his interest in certain special timber licenses held from the Provincial government, as well as the timber governed by these licenses, should not be sold to realize the judgment against him. The application which has been dismissed with costs was made under section 10 of the Judgments Act.

At the time of the application in chambers the point was raised, in reply, that a special license to cut timber did not constitute an interest in land within the meaning of the Judgments Act. Mr. Justice Morrison, in his finding, declares that he considers this point well taken. He proceeds to show that section 54 of the Provincial Land Act dealing with licenses draws a clear distinction between timber leases, crown granted timber land, hand-loggers' licenses and special timber licenses.

"It seems abundantly clear to me," he says, "that the legislature has not given, nor intends to give, an interest in land through special timber licenses. An interest concerning or affecting land is not to the present purpose."

Timber Wolves Overrun North End of Island.

The rapid increase of timber wolves toward the north end of the Island and the serious inroads that these beasts are making among the deer and smaller game, has resulted in the despatch by Game Warden Bryan-Williams of two experienced hunters and trappers to investigate conditions and adopt the best means presenting themselves in dealing with this pest, by which even the wapiti herds are now threatened. The increase in the bounty to $15 has not been sufficient to induce the inauguration of any vigorous or systematic campaign against the wolves, and they now overrun the Island in the northern districts.
