Bill to Aid Handicapped

OTTAWA - A Bill to ease one of the problems of families with mentally retarded members has received first reading in the House of Commons. Sponsored by Barry Mather, M.P., for New Westminster Constituency, Bill C-109 would: "Amend the Immigration Act to permit entry, to the same extent that the present law permits entry of persons who are dumb, blind or otherwise physically defective, or persons who are mentally retarded, if such persons are members of a family and are accompanied by the family to give security against such immigrants becoming public charges."

Similar legislation is being considered in Washington. Main effect of the Bill if it becomes law will be to ease the difficulties which face Canadian and American parents of retarded children when seeking to visit across the international border.

Private Members' bills rarely pass the Commons but there may be hope of this one getting through, or of it being adopted by the administration at a later date.

B.C. Tel Radio Systems

A well-travelled B.C. Telephone Company antenna crew has participated in construction of nearly every major radio system carrying company circuits for telephone, television, data and other communications services.

There are more than 75 B.C. Tel radio systems large and small boxing the province with communications services.

The projects, coupled with land lines, have resulted in approximately 2600 long distance circuits being used by the telephone company to provide service within the province, as well as to connect with cross-Canada and United States circuits.

In addition, microwave radio sites carry two national television networks across the province and extend live TV coverage north to Prince George.

Bob Grisenthwaite of (3450 Puget Drive) Vancouver was half of the B.C. Tel antenna team formed in 1949 when radio circuits began taking precedence over land lines. He remained with the crew eight years before being assigned to other work.

The crew strength now is five men and a foreman.

Another veteran is R.W. "Reg" Lacouvee, of (1164 King Road, Richmond) with nearly 15 years unbroken service.

Last year he tramped the snow-covered top of 5700-foot Takomkane Mountain, 62 miles east of Williams Lake. The crew erected a 60-foot high tower for radio system antennas carrying telephone and teletype circuits to Boss Mountain, a Noranda Explorations Ltd. mining development.

Four - wheel - drive vehicles, snow machines, helicopters and just plain hiking have helped the crew survey, clear and erect antennas on many mountain sites.

Its work includes participation in construction of 13 sites across the southern border of British Columbia. These sites help form the longest microwave radio system in the world, 4000 miles of communications pathways from coast-to-coast in Canada.

One of the 13 points of 4915 foot high Dog Mountain, near Hope. The microwave relay station is accessible only by a tramway which covers a greater difference in altitude than any other lift on the continent.

The tramway, 10,300 feet in length, rises through six spans from 400 feet above sea level to the mountain top. The longest span is 3900 feet and at one mid-air point the passenger skip is about 45 stories above ground.

The crew has also helped establish radiotelephone service in many isolated areas, raising antennas at logging and mining camps.

For such isolated camps and for vehicles travelling public highways, the telephone company has 56 F.M. radio terminals. From the camp or any vehicle a telephone call can be placed through an operator and connected to any telephone on the continent or overseas.

To provide the utmost in maintenance, 20 major service centers are located throughout the province by B.C. Tel. Personnel at the centers install new radiotelephone sets and perform major and minor repairs. They are also depatched to service sets in isolated areas.

Livestock Price

Slaughter steer prices in the East held constant in April for the fifth consecutive month, while Winnipeg prices continued their 50¢ - 75¢ average monthly gain which has been evident since the first of the year. These trends brought the Toronto market below year earlier levels, but caused the Winnipeg market to rise above a year ago. Calgary slaughter prices in April stayed a few cents under last year.

The Toronto hog market showed a slight strengthening during April and increased its margin over year earlier prices to $2.50 per cwt. The same situation was true for Winnipeg hogs. Lamb prices in both the East and West moved upwards by $1.00-$1.50 per cwt.

The following table shows the weighted average prices for the four main classes of livestock as reported by the Canada Department of Agriculture:

TORONTO: Apr. 1965. Steers (Good Slaughter) $ per cwt. 22.50; Steers (Good Feeder) $ per cwt. 22.00; Hogs (Grade A Dr.) $ per cwt. 27.94; Lambs (Good) $ per cwt. 29.02. Apr. 1964, 23.00; 24.27; 25.38; 27.69. * 5 Yr. Ave. 22.90; 23.91; 24.68; 24.60.

WINNIPEG: Apr. 1965, 22.74; 21.41; 25.73; 24.00. Apr. 1964, 22.34; 22.58; 22.93; 2080. *5 Yr. Ave. 22.18; 22.30; 22.87; 19.47.

Population of Canada Up 1.8%

Canada's population at April 1, 1965, was estimated at 19, 516,000. This is an increase of 342,000 or 1.8% over the same time last year. The largest numerical gain was in Ontario, up by 3.0% (52,000). Provincial totals at April 1st, are as follows:

Newfoundland, 496,000; PEI, 108,000; Nova Scotia, 761,000; New Brunswick, 623,000; Quebec, 5, 645,000; Ontario, 6,702,000; Manitoba, 961,000; Saskatchewan, 949,000; Alberta, 1,448,000 and British Columbia, 1,782,000.

Socred Leader Calls For More Church Participation

National Social Credit leader, Robert Thompson, says there is a deplorable attitude of passiveness, indifference and lukewarmness evident among church people today.

Speaking at the annual promotional banquet at Trinity Junior College in Langley tonight, Thompson says he is convinced that the greatest intolerance faced by the Christian world today comes from within itself through the neutrality of Christians in their attitude toward the basic responsibility of the Church and its members.

Mr. Thompson a lay member of the Evangelical Free Church, which sponsors Trinity College says this neutrality is reflected in all phases of our way of living.... in general morals, in business and in politics. He claims it is one of the reasons modern politicians are failing in their responsibility to true democracy.

The Socred Chief told the gathering that today the world is less Christian than it was in the days of Lincoln, not because of the antagonism of the non-Christian but basically because of what he called a passive, careless, deadening neutrality of believing Christians. Mr. Thompson claims this neutrality is far more destructive than the intolerance of the enemy.

He adds that to counter this trend of neutrality, Canada desperately needs another Wesley to help bring about a wave of spiritual revival. He says our smug and self-centered status quo needs to be turned upside down.

New Dorm Will Float Up The Fraser

One of the most unusual moving jobs on the lower mainland will take place this summer, as part of the growth of Trinity Junior College in Langley.

The College has acquired a former RCAF unit to provide dormitory facilities for 100 female students and apartment space for the Dean of women and will move the two storey structure from its present home at Sea Island to the college campus.

The huge building will be cut into five pieces, each piece will be put on a barge and floated up the Fraser River to within a few miles of the College, which is situated on the Glover Road in Fort Langley. Dr. Calvin Hansen, president of Trinity College, says the unusual moving operation will save the college thousands of dollars. He says that the unit can be moved on campus and renovated for some 30 thousand dollars, which he claims is approximately the worth of just the plumbing in the building.

It's Time To Re-Examine Carvolth Speed Limits

Members of Langley District Council must each be equipped with a special pair of rose hued glasses whenever they are faced with a decision about speed limits.

Last week, Councillor Noel Booth put forward a motion to have the speed limit reduced to 30 miles an hour from the City limits on the Carvolth Road, to the Bradshaw; a distance of about one-half mile. The suggestion was that this would be a logical extention of the 30 mile per hour limit through the City, and along a route that has become reasonably built up. Council received an RCMP report that pointed up an alarming number of accidents in the area, including several fatalities. A traffic count was also put forward at the council meeting. This report showed that traffic in a 24 hour period on this stretch of road was almost as heavy as from the Carvolth north, the main feeder to the freeway.

But lo and behold, the same council, that last year lowered the speed limit to 30 for a four mile stretch from the City boundary to the freeway, did not appear even interested in passing Councillor Booth's motion. In fact the motion could not find a seconder and died on the council table.

I think it must be about time that council got some new glasses and took another look at speed limits on the Carvolth Road. At one end of the road the speed limits penalize the motorists; on the other end they penalize the residents in the area.

I've driven the Carvolth to the freeway and it's a lesson in frustration to keep within the speed limit, especially after leaving the 70 mile per hour freeway. I've maintained all along that a 30 mile speed limit right to the freeway on the Carvolth is not only futile, but downright foolish. The sooner council re-assesses the situation and restores the 40 mile speed limit for most of the four miles the better it will be for all concerned.

On the other hand, I drove over the Carvolth south from the City limits the other day and was convinced that here is a logical 30 mile per hour stretch of road. This half mile extention could not help but be a wise move. The area in question is mostly residential...with homes, churches, shops and a community hall, all within the half mile.

C'mon fellows how about a new look without the tinted specs.

REPORT FROM THE CAPITAL

by HUNTER VOGEL

OTTAWA - While the grim international situation shadows much of the thinking here, as I'm sure it does elsewhere, the day to day issues continue important.

I list some recent matters which have claimed my attention:

RENT INCREASES: Inflation of course, works its worst evils upon the people with small fixed incomes. Proof of this has again been given in the complaints of some social welfare recipients and pensioners. They cite increased rents which have followed the increase in their grants. I drew this situation to the attention of Honourable Judy LaMarsh in Parliament last week. The Minister expressed regret and suggested that there was little she could do except to say that the grant or pension increases had been made to help the recipients. If any readers have cases they feel should be drawn to official attention I will be glad to hear from them.

PEN TO GO IN 5 YEARS? ...The overcrowded situation at the B.C. Penitentiary is, in my view, one for concern. A considerable number of the prisoners are either considered dangerous, habitual criminals or dangerous sex offenders. To provide accommodation the six or seven hundred men within the prison walls (in downtown New Westminster) corridors in one cell block have been utilized for cells. Checking this situation with the Canadian Penitentiary Commissioner, I find that the Matsqui Institution for narcotic addicts is expected, later this year, to provide accommodation and training for up to 300 male inmates and so ease the crowding to some extent at the B.C. Penitentiary . . .Even so the Royal City buildings are old, non-functional and overcrowded. My information is that in line with overall penitentiary plans in Canada, by 1969 or 1970 the Penitentiary in New Westminster will not be used for prison purposes. No doubt plans will be made by the City or are being made already, for the use of this very valuable area.

REDISTRIBUTION:...The latest Gallup Poll indicated that a majority of Canadians oppose an early election. Personally I think that there should be no 1965 election on the 1952 basis of electoral distribution. While there are certainly valid objections to some of the geographic redistribution proposals yet there is everything right with the principle of 70,000 voters to a constituency.

Planning a vacation?

Whether your trip will be a jaunt 15 miles away, or a trek to the Rockies, Laurentians, or the colorful Maritime coastline, you'll find endless picture-taking opportunities. Photography will add enjoyment to the trip itself.

Just as important, it will help rekindle memories and fun when you show your vacation pictures to friends and relatives.

Many of your vacation photos, naturally enough, will centre around your family and friends. But you'll also want to try your hand at landscape views.

Remember that good photographs, whether of landscapes or people, don't "just happen". They are planned with a bit of care. Select the best available viewpoint. At a lakefront, for example, you don't have to shoot a pier head-on. Instead, to give a feeling of depth, try framing the pier with buildings.

Your family and friends can be included in many scenic shots. But instead of having them stare self-consciously at the "birdie", capture them looking at a point on the horizon. That way, they can lead the viewer into the scene.

While travelling, remember to store your camera in a cool place; in a car, avoid the glove compartment or rear window ledge. And avoid taking snaps through a dirty window. If you snap from a moving car, roll down the window and hold the camera firmly, with your elbows pressed against your sides. Resting your arms on the car is a sure way of jarring the camera.

Before the trip begins, take a few precautions. Stock up on film. If you've just bought a camera, practise taking pictures well in advance of the trip so you'll have a thorough knowledge of its operation. If your camera has been tucked in a closet for some weeks, use a soft cloth or lens tissue to clear away the dust, especially from the lens.

Then, when you leave on your trip, make your camera a constant companion. Remember that good picture possibilities are everywhere.

Overshooting an exit is one of the hazards of freeway driving, warns the B.C. Automobile Association. Unless you pay close attention to the signs, you can easily miss your turn-off point and be compelled to drive miles out of your way. So watch the signs and stay in the right-hand lane. Be ready to turn off at the proper time. Never, advises the BCAA, attempt to stop and back up for a missed exit.

The athletes of the year were Elena Petrali, Don Wallace, and Dennis Neumann.

The winning house was House 1. Captains of the house are Helen Goertzen and Jim Falk.

The award from the Future Nurses Club went to Rita Janzen, and the award from the Future Teachers' Club to Laura Wiebe.

Chapels

The last chapel of the year was held on Friday morning. Ed Driediger led the student body in a number of songs, after which John Unger made the invocation. A grade 11 trio of Agnes Toews, Susan Tilitzky, and Mary Thiessen sang a special number. They were accompanied by Mary Ann Schmidt. Mr. Neumann then led the Testimony meeting, after which Rosalyn Unger played a clarinet solo. She was accompanied on the piano by Carol Wiens. The principal then closed the chap with a few remarks and prayer.

"PLOP"

How many times have you been advised to call off a fishing trip "because the water's muddy?" Probably quite often, especially during the rainy months when downpours wash silt down streams and into lakes.

For most anglers, fishing comes to a standstill.

But there's an exception to every rule, particularly when fishing is concerned. And there's one special style of angling in which muddy water can be a real asset—bass fishing.

FISHER

Fishing when a lake's all cloudy and "messed up" calls for different advertising techniques. If a bass can't see a lure, then offer him something he can hear, smell and taste. (Did you ever notice how much better your hearing is in a thick fog?)

Take a cork and "dish out" the bottom end so that it will "plop" loudly when cast by rod or long cane pole to the shoreline. Two feet down from the cork, attach a hook with a glob of worms. As this rig is retrieved, jerk the rod up and down briskly. The fish hears, smells and tastes, and he's on.

For best results, cruise around the shoreline until you find a spot where the muddy water is just starting to clear at the edges, near stumps or in weed patches.

Instead of staying home when the lake looks like it should be be plowed rather than fished, crank up your Mercury and give this technique a try.

You might surprise a lot of bass in the process.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Edito·

"Central Fraser Valley Echo"

An editorial writer for a London "Daily" once told me "That perhaps the best ideas come in from "Letters to the Editor"."

Its only natural,that, in this upside down world most of those letters deal with the "concrete" side of life. Seldome is there "space" for the abstract. This letter avoids the mundane, however, - "Police enquiry" etc. - its meant to be just a touch of peaceful philosophy. Reminiscences - be it recollection of some distant achievement in the first person singular or, may be some haunting melody or verse of long ago I wonder how many millions have realized the pathos of that old song, written by a heart broken author way back in the eighties:

"After the ball is over,
After the break of dawn,
After the dancers leaving,
After the stars are gone"
Many the hearts that are aching
If we could read them all
Many the hearts that are breaking,
After the ball"

The song will live forever, because it is "Life".

Such memories recal the trust & what-would-life be, were it not for memories?

We are all nursing some of these treasures secretly.

Freezin' Season Tips and Treats

How often have you recalled the fond memory of breadsliced fresh from the oven, spread with butter and the crowning touch - home preserved strawberry jam. Strawberry jam has long reigned as the favourite spread for breakfast to late evening snack treats.

Preparing this perennial favourite was something else again. Keeping constant watch over a bubbling kettle of fruit and sugar - making sure it didn't boil-over or over-cook. Then finally filling the jars with the 'hot' mixture and sealing. It was a long, hot and tiresome job that had to be done on the day that strawberries were at their peak of the season best, usually also the hottest day of summer.

Today preparing strawberry jam requires no cooking - no pot watching - no moments of anxiety wondering if the jam will jell. It's quick and easy! With a home freezer, you can make strawberry jam that is even more delicious than the cooked variety. Just as frozen strawberries retain the fresh tang that canning loses - so does Freezer strawberry jam retain that "just picked" flavour of fresh berries. Enjoy the pleasure of serving your own prize strawberry jam more often, with none of the effort of bygone days. Here's how easy it is to do.

FREEZER STRAWBERRY JAM
3 cups of crushed strawberries
4 1/2 cups sugar
1 pkg. pectin crystals
1/2 cup water

Combine fruit and sugar and allow to stand for 20 to 30 minutes. Dissolve pectin in the water, bring to boiling point and boil for 1 minute. Add to fruit and stir until well mixed and sugar is dissolved. Pour into sterilized jars. Cover with a thin film of paraffin. Leave overnight then seal with another layer of paraffin. Label and store in freezer.

Peaches and other berries may also be made into jam by using this same recipe. Try it when fresh fruit and berries are in season.

NOTE: Freezer Jam will keep for several months in the refrigerator or for a year in a freezer. Because it is uncooked, it will mold and ferment if kept at room temperature. Once a jar is opened it should be used within a few days (or kept in the refrigerator).

Freezer Jam is of course just one of the short cuts you can take to better meals when you have a food freezer. Buy in quantities . . . freeze a year's supply of fruits and vegetables at in-season prices . . . have top-grade meats, purchased in wholesale cuts..take advantage of special prices on frozen juices and prepared foods. Cook in quantity at your convenience. When you prepare time-consuming dishes - pies, cakes, cooking, breads, casserole dishes - double or triple the recipe, serve one now, freeze the rest. There are countless ways to save shopping and food preparation time - serve more interesting meals with a supermarket of foods stored in your food freezer.

DEAR DORIS
advice from Doris Clark

DEAR DORIS — I am 60, twice widowed, and in the past three years have nursed my husband, then my mother and father, through painful long last illnesses.

This spring I travelled to England and on the trip over I met a widower, 67. He was most congenial and we returned on the same boat. In Montreal he wanted me to stay with him but I said if he wanted that kind of person he could go his own way and I mine.

He has been sick. He smokes 50 cigarettes a day, has a chronic cough and high blood pressure. I believe, in spite of any faults I see in him, I care for him.

Now that I am back home I am depressed. Life is so empty. Sometimes I wonder what is there left for me? All my loved ones are gone.

LOOSE END

DEAR LOOSE END — Over three years you have spent yourself unstintingly. Now the anti-climax of nothing to do, nowhere to go, is well-nigh unbearable.

Perhaps you do care for this man, but this is no time to fall into his arms. All too soon he might reverse the roles by falling into your — with his own chronice, debilitating illness.

First, readjust your life with a new, life-giving interest. Deliberately set out to find a new circle of friends. Sources? Your church, or the Y.W., volunteer work, or a club whose project dovetails with your talents.

Then take another look at him.

DEAR DORIS — I want to put an ad in the paper and from this ad I will be expecting much correspondence. I don't want to use my real name because I am quite well known here and I don't want people phoning or visiting me. Can I change my name in a situation such as this?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING — You could use a "nom de plume". But a box number is the usual thing, in your case. The newspaper will be glad to oblige.

DEAR DORIS — I'm 15 and am in love with a boy 17 years old. The trouble is he is English and I am German and father does not want me to go with English guys. Another boy 16 years old likes me and he is German.

Every time the boy I love comes past our house and waves I get in trouble with my father. What should I do? I can't break up with him because I care too much about him. I don't like the other guy at all, but my family can't get it through their heads.

MIXED UP

DEAR MIXED UP — Your Old Country father is shocked by your Canadian ? flirting. And I am shocked because in making the change-over from German to Canadian teen-age ways, you have gone overboard. You are not in love.

If you could take on a little more poise, and your father were to get his citizenship papers, there might be some chance for compromise.
