Come and see the Beauties of the Valley

The next two to three weeks will see the Lower Mainland at it's Springtime loveliest!
How long is it since you took time to see the rural areas with their fresh green carpet, new flowers and shrubs and lovely homes?

Have you recently seen the many up-to-date dairy farms where milk seemingly comes out of a pipeline, the enormous poultry barns where as many as 75,000 chickens are handled on one farm? Did you know that Matsqui Municipality chicken farms produce 70 per cent of the poultry products of British Columbia? Have you seen the rows and rows of strawberries and raspberries that form one of the second largest producing areas of North America?
We of the Fraser Valley invite you to take a couple of days in the next three weeks to explore the Fraser Valley again. For a two day trip, drive out on one side of the Fraser River, stay overnight at one of the hotels or motels, going as far as Boston Bar in the Fraser Canyon or Manning Park on the Hope-Princeton Highway. The second day, return on the other side of the Fraser.
If time does not permit you two days together, then one day explore the north side of the Fraser and the next time, the south shore.
The important thing is this: Take to the side roads wherever you can, go as far as time permits and then return by a main thoroughfare. You will find most all rural roads are black topped.
A suggested trip would be to drive from Vancouver to the Ladner and Delta farming area, then through the Deas Tunnel, then by Highway #10 to Surrey and Langley. Drop in at the Fort Langley Historic Site, Redwood Park and the Surrey Museum. Remember the Cloverdale Rodeo May 19-22. Langley and Fort Langley with its historic fort and Pioneer Farm museum are a must. Continue on the back roads through Glen Valley and Aldergrove to Bradner, Fraser Valley Bulb Capital. You can cross Fraserway and go south to Huntingdon Road and proceed east past several of the largest poultry farms. You will pass the Abbotsford Airport, home of the Abbotsford International Air Show, August 11-13, expected to be the largest air show in North America this year.
Also on this road are some of the largest strawberry and raspberry farms.
Continuing east again, turn north on Clearbrook Road into the community of Clearbrook, then east to Abbotsford, then south on McCallum Road to Huntingdon Road. Turn east again and you will be in the famous Sumas Prairie Dairy country. Continue east until you are almost under Vedder Mountain then north on Interprovincial to #3 Road, and east on #3 to the village of Yarrow. You have now travelled over what was formerly Sumas Lake abou 45 years ago, until it was reclaimed.
Proceed east from Yarrow to Vedder Crossing, and be sure to drive into Cultus Lake Resort.

Arts Exhibit in Langley opened

A well known public figure of Vancouver, Mrs. Austin Taylor, officially opened the Centennial Arts Exhibition at Langley Saturday.
The Arts Exhibition, to run to May 14th, is sponsored by the Langley Arts Council. The exhibition is the council's major Centennial project.
Scene of the official ceremonies was the recreation centre at City Park.
Providing a musical background was Langley's Centennial "Hundred Choir", and presenting prizes were Mayor John Conder of Langley City, Reeve William Poppy of the District, Reeve Roland Harvey of Surrey, Alex Hope (chairman of the local Centennial committee), Stan Dainard (chairman of the Surrey Centennial committee), and Charles Partington, chairman of the Centennial Arts Exhibition committee.
First prize for painting was awarded to Nesta Bowen Horne of Victoria, second went to Don Portelance of Coquitlam, and third prize was given to Jenny Child of Yarrow.
Honourable mention was received by five other persons entering paintings: Joan DiCastri of Victoria, Unity Bainbridge of West Vancouver, Zelko Koonzic from Kelowna, Geoff Traunter and G. Zewenuik both of Vancouver.
Prizes for pottery went to Tom Irving of West Vancouver, Wayne Ngan of Vancouver, and Suzanne Arundel of West Vancouver.
Publicity chairman Shirley Froese of Langley said 418 entries were received by the local committee. 120 of the province-wide entries were retained for display purposes in the two week show.
Prize money totalled more than $800, with contributions of four hundred dollars coming from both Langley and Surrey Centennial committees.

Presenting Miss Abbotsford 1967

-Staff Photo-

Last Saturday night the MSA district hosted its annual "Miss Abbotsford Pageant." The night may properly be called one of contrasts because just previous to the beauty contest was the Centennial beard contest. There were ten pretty entrants to follow the auspicious debut of the "bearded Centennial ones".
After having been interviewed by the judges for the better part of the afternoon the beauty contestants were required to briefly introduce themselves to the audience. In the final analysis Lis Munk of 5416 Bradner Road was awarded the second runner up position, Sandy Bazen of 33145 Fraser Way was named the first runner up, and Ann Pattison of 33471 Holland Avenue was crowned the Queen for 1967.

Increacing Welfare

The Dynamic Society would appear to be passing Langley Municipality by, if the latest welfare figures are any indication.
Langley councillor Bill Blair, welfare chairman on council, painted a bleak picture of increasing welfare statistics for the district, at a time of year when a decrease is usual.
In commenting on a total of 75 unemployed employables on this month's role, - 30 more than last year at this time, councillor Art Woolley observed the situation is very bad considering the so-called buoyant economy in British Columbia.
The welfare report shows a 2 per cent increase in total recipients over the same period last year, from 5.81 per cent one year ago to 7.62 per cent of the population this year.
Blair told council the whole welfare system must be revised, and suggested that welfare payments should be considerably smaller than a person can earn through gainful employment, or rehabilitation will always be impossible.

Proposed Lowering of Maturity Age

Langley School Board will urge the Federal government to pay all the bills for all manpower training.
But School Board Trustee Tommy Gleig says the administration of all funds should be left to the provincial government.
School Board will also recommend for the same purposes that the federal government consider lowering maturity age from 21 to 18.
If approved by the government, the plan would see the senior government take over financing of all post secondary education, regardless of the type of training involved, for all persons over the age of 17.
Gleig says, "Considering the need for higher provincial grants every year, plus the high interest rates we must pay, it is time we urge serious consideration of this proposal."
The B.C. School Trustees Association will be asked to make representations to the federal authorities.

No time for Go-Go Girls

Former Fraser Valley liberal MP George Crook-Shank has accused B.C. Recreation Minister Ken Kieman of talking too much while doing too little about the Fraser River Flood Threat.
He says, "Kieman is more interested in useless talk to Hollywood Go-Go girls, than in protecting his own riding."

Bennett To Pay Teachers Salaries

Grade 13 dropped

Langley School Board is dropping grade 13 at the end of the current school term in June.
School Board says in future Langley students wishing to take grade 13 will have to go to Surrey, Abbotsford, Trinity College or Simon Fraser.
Trustee Tommy Gleig says of 41 students taking courses in grade 13 only 14 are on the complete grade 13 course acceptable to university officials. The remainder are taking some grade 12 subjects.
Gleig says, "We wouldn't be depriving anyone by dropping the course and it would be too costly for us to upgrade the laboratory facilities which zoology and botany courses will necessitate in the near future."
Trustee Joe Breier says, "In my opinion on the abolishment of grade 13 in Langley School District is a step backward." He adds, "it doesn't seem to be a money matter because at the other end of the school system we're sponsoring the idea of building kindergartens."
Superintendent Harold Stafford told school board the decision was up to them.
But he warned the board that talks with university officials at both UBC and Simon Fraser had revealed Langley's biology course would have to be changed to give classes in zoology and botany to prepare children for university entrance.
The superintendent says great changes will be made in science classes.

New Westminster - The Union of B.C. Municipalities has urged the provincial government to assume the cost of higher teacher salaries.
The request was made in a telegram to Premier Bennett from the UBCM executive after a closed meeting in New Westminster Friday night.
UBCM president Herb Gardner, mayor of Williams Lake, said the government is basing its share of payments on a pupil-teacher ratio set in 1965.
The meeting had been called to discuss school costs, which are increasing throughout B.C.

Won't Pay

Langley district has balked over an order from Victoria to pay a portion of a magistrate's salary while he is on leave of absence.
The reluctance came in discussion of a raise in salary for magistrates, - also directed from Victoria by Order-in-council.
Magistrates, of which there are four full-time in the South-Fraser area, will now receive a total of $17,500.00 per year, of which Langley District's share is $600 per month, increased from $499 over last year.
Council agreed to the automatic raise in salary, but declined approval of the payment to Magistrate Keenlyside.
It has been decided that the magistrates full salary would be paid for the first three months of his leave of absence.

Mini-Walk A Success

One of the students made it all the way the easy way on a mono-cycle, or was it the hard way?

The teachers all joined forces and helpd each other over the finishing line. Everybody was back at school for a well deserved lunch.

The Senior Secondary students started out in high spirit, with the Band leading the way

Half way mark. No tired feed yet, but wait till tomorrow, some one will be askink Dad for the car to get to school in.

Aldergrove High School students had a warm-up last Friday morning for the Langley Walk which takes place on Sunday, May 7th. Principal Don Hanson and 26 teachers walked the four mile route with 470 students.
First student back was Mike Iverson at 11:30 am. -
He literally beat the band.
A small band, sitting on a trailer pulled by a tractor driven by Robert Brunix, led the young people along Boundy Rd, up 64th left on 24th to Jackman, and back up Boundy.
The school office reported that there were more absentees from school on Friday! ?!
They missed a good walk that maintained a fast pace.
Rain began falling at 11:45, but by then everybody was back at the school.
Approximately 3,000 persons are expected to take part in the 5th annual Langley Walk, with classifications for all groups, private, school, and athletic entries.
Last years Walk saw only 3 entries from outside the Langley area, to date 13 schools have registered, in hopes of coming out victorious over the 23 local elementary and secondary schools.
Participants will start out from Fort Langley Park, at 11:30am this coming Sunday May 7th, for the 17 mile walk to Aldergrove Park, and all those who complete the journey will be awarded Centennial crests whether or not they finish in the prizes.

Any Antiques around?

Fraser Valley residents with small items of furniture dating back to the last Century, will have an opportunity to be remembered for years to come, if they're in a generous mood.
The Native Daughters Association will soon be asking valley people for donations of small items of furniture to be placed in the Centennial Museum at Fort Langley.
Members of the Centennial Museum Advisory Committee have held a work bee to clean and prepare some of the display items already received and intended for the Pioneer Room.
But the Native Daughters want real antiques from the last century, so any items donated would need to be at least 70 years old to qualify.

SPORTS

Local Soccer

by Dennis Ross

Soccer this weekend saw the grand finale of Fraser Valley Senior ball - the Pakenham Cup, traditionally played at Mission City Fairground, and this year contested for by finalists Cloverdale Ramblers and Haney O'Keefes. Ramblers, long-shot underdogs made things interesting by equalizing the score 2:2 in the final minute of regulation time, but succumbed 4:2 after 30 minutes of overtime.

Dennis Ross

Langley Juniors ended their exploits by handing Coquitlam Hotel a 4:2 lacing. Hotel is this year's league champ of Div. 2 and is moving up to Div. 1 of the Senior league. Langley goals were scored by Sater (2), Giesbrecht (1) and Larson (1).

In Div. 6 play the annual all-star contest was held Saturday at City Park, Langley versus Abbotsford. At the end of regulation time Langley's all-stars had been humiliated 5:1, the worst trashing ever absorbed by an all-Langley side, - turned back without even a decent shot on goal, the single marker coming from a poorly-taken penalty shot. Local buffs went home shaking their heads. Abbotsford rooters were ecstatic.

Fellowship Supper at Trinity

The Fraser Valley helped Trinity Junior College celebrate its sixth annual fellowship supper this weekend.

Students, staff, and friends came from various communities in the valley. A feature of the program was the presentation of "letters" to members of the mens and womens basketball teams.

Voted the most valuable player of the mens team was a young man from the United States, Greg Bergman of Maple Plain, Minnesota.

The womens team saw their star player, Elena Petrali of Dewdney receive an award for outstanding play too.

Presenting the letters and trophies was the coach, the Rev. Don Danielson of Abbotsford.

For lovers of classical music, EXPO 67 offers 23 symphonic groups, eight opera companies, and 10 ballet companies. The World Festival of entertainment has 150 attractions with international reputations.

M S A Junior Softball

by Jim McNeil

Well, this is the last of my blissful fill-ins. As of next week there will be nothing but hard, cold facts and descriptions of the "wars". MSA Junior Softball begins May 1st.

The picture, if I may re-create it now, is one of frazzled coaches, managers, and scattered helpers, tripling here, there and everywhere, lining softball diamonds, cutting grass, checking over equipment, drilling teams, and most important, of course, beginning to go in for therapeutic treatments and psychiatric examinations. Truly, the season is just around the corner. From now on it's hard work, and the wages are somewhat below the subsistence level. I understand a pension plan is being drawn up wherein any mutilated or otherwise disturbed staff of the MSA leagues will be granted a post-season allotment of assorted useless softball equipment and/or unclaimed articles. Certainly this will be received in the humble thankfulness coaches and officials are so often renowned for.

In actuality, a great deal of credit, often completely forgotten, is due the coaches and officials. Their jobs too often are thankless ones, and believe me, all they usually ask for is a little co-operation and support from able parents. The tax is not a heavy one when shared.

There is a surprisingly high number of teams entered in the MSA leagues this year. The boundaries extend as far east as Sumas prairie, and as far west as Bradner.

The organization has been delegated into the hands of six prominent citizens of the area.

Mr. M. Hansen will record all statistics regarding the peewee boys (eastern and western divisions); Mrs. M. Tribe will be resdonsible for all data involving the midget boys (eastern and western divisions), and Mr. Tony Durbin will handle the affairs of the juvenile boys. On the feminine statistical charts, the vitals will be looked after by Mrs. Jean Martens for the peewee girls, Mr. Jake Martens for the midget girls and Pat Huston for the bantam girls.

In the following articles I shall endeavor to bravely and objectively report any and all occurances to do with the games, and believe me, THAT could, without a doubt be interesting. I know!

Foot Care for Walk

1. If you are suffering from any f form of foot trouble, have this corrected before "The Walk". Do not aggravate a foot problem.
2. Prepare for "The Walk"with short walks or hikes (one to five miles). You could do much damage to your feet if they have not been conditioned.
3. If foot supports or balances have been prescribed and moulded for your feet only, they should be worn. A commercial support could do you much harm.
4. Powder your feet and stockings with an absorbant foot powder before "The Walk".

Here you may join Highway #1 and continue up the Fraser Valley and Canyon, through Hope to Boston Bar or take Highway #3, the Hope-Princeton to Manning Park. If you go the Hope-Princeton be sure and see the spectacular slide area on the way to Manning Park. Then is Allison Pass and Pinewoods where the Provincial Government is developing a splendid mountain holiday area.

Returning from Hope, take Highway #9 at Rosedale, cross over the Fraser on the Agassiz-Rosedale Bridge, drop in at the Dominion Experimental Farm at Agassiz and then on to Harrison Hot Springs and Harrison Lake. Here you are in the heart of the famous "Sasquatch country". On your return to Agassiz, take Highway #7. Be sure to stop at the Lookout on Agassiz Mountain for a gorgeous view of the Fraser Valley.

Proceeding west you will cross Harrison River and then on to lush farm lands of Deroche and Nicomen Island, Dewdney and Hatzic At Mission turn up the hill to beyond Mt. Mary Ann and visit Westminster Abbey of the Benedictine Order. You will be most welcome and the view from the tower is unsurpassed. Nearby is the Salvation Army's Miracle Valley rehabilitation farm.

West of Mission you can drive through the Steelhead area to Stave Falls and return to Haney by Dewdney Trunk Road or go west to Ruskin and see the Ruskin Hydro Plant and on by #7 to Haney.

East of Haney turn north to Maple Ridge Park and continue on to the big Provincial Picnic and Campsite on Alouette Lake.

If you are not in a hurry to get home, take the old River Road from Haney through Port Hammond, joining Highway #7 at Pitt Meadows. From Port Coquitlam you may choose one of several routes to return to the city.

While we have described a trip, it is often as much fun to just take off on side roads and follow whatever direction beckons. You cannot get lost because before too long you will come to the Fraser River, the mountains or the United States border, and between these lies the main highways.

We are sure you will marvel at the beauty and development in the Valley, and perhaps wonder why you sometimes drive thousands of miles and yet do not find scenery that compares with your own back yard, the lush Fraser Valley.

There are many places along the way to enjoy a snack or a delightful dinner, many motels and hotels have excellent accommodation at moderate prices, and the roads are not crowded at this time of the year.

Maps of the Fraser Valley are available without charge at tourist bureaus or from this newspaper.

Centennial Caravan Inaugurated at Municipal Hall

Labour Minister J. Nicholson Opens Exhibits By singing "O Canada"

The Confederation Caravan was officially opened Monday when Labor Minister Jack Nicholson pushed the button that started a musical horn playing the first line of O' Canada.

The scheduled flypast of three CF-101 Voodoo jets was delayed so that Mr. Nicholson had to carry on telling anecdotes, and when they finally turned up they had changed into two waterbombers.

Apart from this slight change in the schedule, the opening was a big success, and after hundreds of balloons had been released into the air, the approximately 100 specially invited guests and a similar amount of spectators followed the official party through the 8-trailer caravan.

The exhibit is a great display of Canadiana from prehistoric times through the settling of the North *American continent first by no*madic tribes coming over the Bering Strait from Asia, and later on by the white man.

It is an exhibit that has been build on sound as well as visual displays.

You hear indian chants, pass through an Upper Canada tavern of some 200 years ago, watch the Fathers of Confederation, meet a "tenderfoot" goldminer and pass through an early railroadcar, and world war one trenches. You meet the early immigrants as well as the unemployed and starving people of the 'dirty thirties', whom only a second holocaust rescues from total destruction.

The last of the eight trailers depict Canada as she is today, with a replica of the new Isia-A satelite which is to be launched in 1968, and with pictures of contemporary Canadians of every walk of life, children and grown, sportspersonalities and politicians, artists and students.

After staying Monday and Tuesday in Langley, the caravan will go on to New Westminster, Port Coquitlam, White Rock, Ladner, Richmond, Saltspring Island and Vancouver Island. From there it will go on to the Sechelt Peninsula, Squamish, West- and North Vancouver, Burnaby, Surrey and Abbotsford before continuing into the interior of B. C.

Attending the opening ceremonies were Lieutenant Governor Georges Pearkes, Rev. G. Holtby Deputy Provincial secretary L. J. Wallace, Mayor John Conder, Reeve D. W. Poppy, MLA Hunter Vogel, Director of Public Relations with Centennial Commission Peter H. Aykroyd, and A. C. Hope, chairman of the Langley Centennial Committee.

We strongly recommend that everybody go and see this wonderful exhibition while it is in the Valley.

Gasoline up

Lower Mainland service stations are expected to start increasing gas prices this week.

Two more companies, B. A. and Shell, last Wednesday joined Imperial in announcing wholesale price increases of one cent a gallon.

New Westminster - The New Westminster and District Labor Council has called for a full investigation into a one-cent-a-gallon increase in the price of gasoline.

A spokesman says the council will ask the B. C. Federation of Labor to press for an investigation under the Federal Combines Act.

Looters arrested

Langley - A rash of pay phone lootings in the Lower Mainland has resulted in the arrest of two men, picked up early last Monday morning in a sports car on the freeway in Richmond.

Police say the men are suspected to have taken part in phone lootings in Surrey, Langley, Matsqui and Coquitlam recently.

A quantity of coins and a .303-calibre rifle were seized when the suspects were aprehended.

Motorcycle Mishap

A collision between a motorcycle and a car on the Fraser Highway two miles east of Aldergrove sent the cyclist, 22-year-old Albert Nichol of Clearbrook to hospital with multiple injuies last Wednesday.

The young Clearbrook resident was brought to MSA hospital in Abbotsford with head and other injuries.

REPORT FROM OTTAWA

by Barry Mather, M.P.

BARRY MATHER, M.P.
New Westminster Constituency

There has been much talk of the need for parliamentary reform, but little action.

Parliament is faced with an increasingly heavy burden of legislation. It cannot do its work without substantial reform of its rules.

The Liberal Government failed to make use of the rule for allocating time for debates, except in the single instance of the Unification Bill, when it did not use it as part of a planned allocation of time, but only to end the debate in committee stage after it had lasted for nearly three weeks. It delayed appointing a parliamentary committee to discuss rule reform until near the end of the session.

We must proceed from the fact that Parliament has become a full-time job. Modern society is complex. Government policies affect every aspect of life. Parliament is no longer a part-time occupation. It can only serve the nation if its program is planned, if debates are not endless and if it delegates some of its work to small committees.

It seems to me that the annual session of Parliament should be divided into sections, with provision for periods of time between such sections, when committees can deal with matters referred to them by the House. This proposal calls for the planning of the parliamentary year and for arrangements to deal with all categories of business in order. This will also enable the country to know the time of the year when items will be considered.

I also think that there be instituted a practice of prior allocation, by all-party agreement, of a maximum time for each stage of debate. I believe that speech made while Mr. Speaker is in the Chair should be limited:- The Prime Minister, leader of the Opposition, and any other speakers who now have unlimited time, to be allowed not more than 60 minutes for any one speech; the leader of a Party other than the government or Official Opposition, or the first speaker for any party, to be allowed 40 minutes; all other speeches to be limited to 30 minutes.

The resolution stage preceeding a money bill should be eliminated. This would still leave three stages of debate on all bills, namely, second reading and third reading, together with the committee stage, during which the details of the bill should be discussed.

Also, surely in 1967, the quorum of the House of Commons should be increased. The present figure of 20, established on a "temporary" basis in 1967, is far too low.

Fruit Rot Control in Strawberries

Agassiz - It pays to spray, and especially so when it comes to controlling fruit rot in strawberries.

"There are few other control programs that return such a profit for the cost of material and application," says Dr. J. A. Freeman of the Canada Department of Agriculture Research Station here. His continuing studies of rot control in strawberries have spotlighted the handsome returns that can be obtained for the relatively small cost of pursuing a regular control program.

On the basis of earlier studies, a schedule consisting of four to five sprays of captan at 1.5 pounds (three pounds of fifty percent product) per acre was recommended. Several other materials have been tested at Agassiz, but none so far has proven superior to captan, the researcher reports.

The captan sprays should be applied at intervals of seven to ten days, starting when the first blooms open.

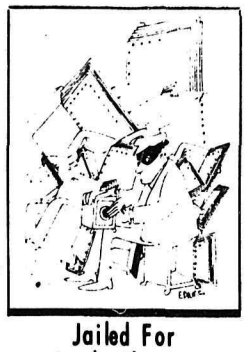
Effectiveness of the spray program can be seen in the results achieved at Agassiz where crop increases of 50 to 100 per cent have been achieved for an outlay of only $18 to $22.50 per acre, Dr. Freeman points out.

Although earlier tests had shown little advantage in carrying the spray program through the picking period, last year's tests showed otherwise.

The 1966 season was unusually wet, with rainfall recorded on 39 days in the period from the start of flowering on May 7 to the end of harvest on July 11.

Continuing the captan sprays through the picking period last year was definitely beneficial, increasing the yield of sound fruit by a further 15 to 20 per cent.

This means that by increasing the number of sprays to seven, a gain in yield of three-quarters to one ton per acre was realized for an additional expenditure of less than $10, Dr. Freeman explains.



Jailed For Bomb Threats

Chilliwack - Bomb and hold-up threats sent a Chilliwack laborer to jail for three months.

36-year-old George John Choinard pleaded guilty in Chilliwack Magistrate's Court to three counts of making threatening phone calls.

Court was told that Choinard phoned a bomb threat to the Chilliwack Secondary School and made two hold-up threats to a bank branch and a finance company, all in early April. Choinard was sentenced to one month in jail on each charge, terms to run consecutively.

Mental Health Week

Dr. Duncan McC. Black
Medical Health Officer.

It is a sobering fact that 50% of hospital beds in Canada are occupied by mentally ill or mentally disabled persons. Psychiatric services concern the care of such persons. Although this may not be the most popular or romantic branch of medicine, it certainly is the most important. After all, whether the person has appendicitis, pneumonia, or an ingrown toenail, he also has emotions, attitudes, feelings and fears, all of which are part of the whole personality and which connot be ignored, and often cause or complicate his physical complaints. When all is considered it is surely better to be happy without legs than it is to have two legs yet be unhappy and derive no joy from life.

The stigme of being a "mental case" is losing its sting and people are rapidly developing a reasonable attitude towards seeking help for emotional problems such as depression, anxiety, phobias, behaviour problems, school difficulties, marital disharmony, etc.

As far as the last mentioned is concerned, it should be appreciated that ministers of religion are able to resolve most problems if their counselling id sought. Involved, too, in the field of mental health are the public health personnel, school counsellors, probation officers and social workers. Many people are not aware of the fact that all M.D.'s are trained as much in psychiatry as they are in surgery or any other branch of medicine, and are qualified to take care of most mental problems with out resort to the mental health clinic specialist services.

Mental health clinics are held monthly in the health centres at Langley and Mission, and cases in Haney are seen at the Burnaby Health Centre, while those in Agassiz are seen in Chilliwack. Most cases seen at these clinics are channelled through the family doctor, no matter what agency makes the original referral. The Canadian Mental Health Association, The Association for Retarded Children, and The John Howard Society, are actively involved in volunteer mental health work and are to be highly commended.

Mental illness, if not inherited or due to brain disease, is the result of faulty attitudes in facing the stresses of life. Let us not blame the stresses so much, but rather look at our attitudes and behaviour which may need changing; and if we have difficulty changing let us not hesitate to seek help from the right sources.

A genuine attempt at applying the Golden Rule is the best insurance against illness. Mental, physical, and spirital help go hand-in-hand and often are interdependent.

Small calves went for prices up to $14.50, medium veal to $39, and finished veal to $67.

A total of 107 head of cattle and 49 head of calves were sold.

149 head of hogs passed over the scales, butchers up to $49.50, sows to $91.50, feeders $31.50, and weaners to $19.50.

CHIT CHAT

by Sharon Pilkey

This has been a very busy week with major projects at hand. The annual production "Annie Get Your Gun" is the most timeconsuming with rehearsals in full swing. It promises to be a good show.

Three shows May 11, 12 and 13th all at 8 p.m. in the school gym.

Come and enjoy a good musical. On Wednesday April 26th grade 8 from Lynden, Wash. came on a return visit. They toured the school and were invited school and were entertained in the gym.. The boys playd a floor hockey game.

Also on Wednesday a senior debate took place at Aldergrove. Ian McIntosh and Erin Coldwell, of the affirmative side, opposed the negative team from No.th Delta and won.

The negative team from Aldergrove, Don Ragan and Sharon Pilkey, did not fare so well as the affirmative at North Delta beat them. The topic was "Resolved that the Welfare State destroys individual and corporate initiative."

Thursday, a Pep Rally was held at noon in preparation for Friday's Mini-Walk. Each house put on a skit depicting events and fashions of the Langley Walk.

At 12.00 on their return the band students had arrived from Osooyoos for the Band Concert Friday night.

Preparations for "Grad 67" are in full swing. Grand March practises started last week, with the schools largest graduating class ever.

MP looks into Flod Control

Ottawa--Tabling of all correspondence between Federal, Provincial and Municipal Governments or Agencies concerned with Fraser River Flood Plans and their cost is called for in a Notice of Motion on the Order Paper of the House of Commons in the name of Barry Mather, M.P. for this area.

Mather is also asking for tabling of correspondence between Federal Authorities and individuals concerned over the Fraser Flood Potential.

Two weeks ago, he was told by Prime Minister Pearson that the Federal Officials concerned were keeping a close liaison with their Provincial counterparts on the Flood situation.

Under present agreements the Federal and Provincial Governments stand ready to pay 75%, between them, of the proposed Fraser River Flood Control program.. a multi-million dollar plan. But, according to Mather, some Valley Municipalities will find difficulty in contributing their 25% of the cost. He believes that a 10% contribution by the local areas would be a fairer sharing of the Project.

Chickens on Greenhorn Farm

When I started as a greenhorn farmer, I tried to give all our animals and pets as much freedom of action as possible; but today, I must confess, I have our chickens lodged in cages, from which the eggs roll down on slanted plastic with impersonal precision, factory style. It's not the happiest life in the world for those chickens, I suppose, but it is highly convenient for me and for my family.

Periodically I try to tell myself that it is best for the chickens, too. Keeps them out of trouble. Always there is food and water for them, and they are protected from predators. They lay whiter, cleaner eggs, and they don't have to scratch for a living.

I can't get away with this rationalizing for very long, though. Those chickens would be better off out in the sun, chasing insects and scratching for grain. The caging process is for my own convenience and welfare, not theirs. It is the old story. Dictators and dictatorial politicians have tried, always, to justify regimentation on the grounds that they do it for the good of the people. I'll go down to the barn and try that line on the chickens. I suspect there will be some bitterness in their cackling. Years of living as a city slicker spoiled us. We like eggs with delicate yolks and cannot eat a dark, strong egg. Also, we are used to walking on clean pavement, and chickens refuse to co-operate. So, with a sketch from a farm magazine, I set out for the wire factory in Mission City.

An employee met me at the door of this huge factory and asked me what I wanted. "I'm going into chickens," I said, "and I've drawn up a sketch of the type of cage I want."

"Custom built?" he asked.

"I want everything completely automatic," I said.

"I'd better get the boss. Please wait here."

He jumped into an automobile and took off. Presently he returned with the factory owner and manager. I was in my farm duds, and a bit rattled by this red-carpet attention I was getting. So I came clean. "Look here," I said, "there's been a misunderstanding. I'm only getting half a dozen chickens to keep the family in eggs, that's all."

You could almost hear the employee's jaw, it fell so far so fast. But Mr. Butler himself, let out a hearty roar of laughter and grabbed me by the hand. He gave me a ten-dollar tour of his fabulous factory, made a new pattern from my sketch, and his own son made me up an extremely fine set of cages, with automatic watering and a trough for the feed. He used a special plastic wire, so the eggs are clean and undamaged. Later I met his wife, and we were soon comparing notes on greenhorn farming in the valley.

Later that day I visited a farm where they'd really gone into the chicken business, and I could understand the red-carpet treatment. Here, a $50,000 investment is considered a pretty small ranch. The set-up I looked at must have taken at least $100,000 to establish.

But, by gosh, the cages weren't as good as those right here on Greenhorn Farm.

LANGLEY MEMORIAL FORESIGHTED

A Langley alderman has been elected a trustee of the Langley Memorial Hospital Society.
Alderman Harold Brewer is the only new member of the board following the annual meeting of the society.
Re-elected for three-year-terms are W. D. McMillan and Mrs. J. Kiddoo.
Retiring from office as a trustee of the hospital society is W. N. Armstrong, 1966 vice president of the group.
Re-elected honorary president at the annual meeting was J. W. Bray.
Langley Memorial Hospital has assets of two and three-quarter millions of dollars.
The hospital society also has a surplus in the plant fund of more than two and a half million dollars.
The hospital paid its operating costs in 1966 and ended the year with 1200 dollars in the bank.
Operating costs were $675,000, and the number of patient days increased by nearly two thousand as the hospital experienced its first full year of operation.
Langley's first hospital opened its doors on September 1st, 1948.
The new hospital was officially opened March 4th, 1965.
The Chronic Care unit will be reconstructed this year and may open its doors to receive patient by the first of the coming year.
A medical expert from Victoria says the formula for accepting patients for the proposed Chronic Care unit to be build at Langley should prevent any waiting to be admitted.
Dr. C. F. Balam of the BCHIS, says the formula set down by the provincial government is one bed for every 50 patients in the community over the age of 65.
He says the only thing that could fill the beds too quickly would be an influx of patients from other communities where chronic care was not available.
Dr. Balam commends Langley for its foresight in constructing the chronic care unit and says many other communities should be doing the same.
He says no licenses for private hospitals have been issued since the end of 1965 and no more will be issued.
But he says medical boarding homes are the next step in patient care - homes for long-term patients needing both shelter and some medical attention.
Dr. Balam says medical boarding homes will be needed in the future to care for those who have nowhere to live and need some medical attention as long as they live.

As nice as Pie

With children in the house, it's a good idea to have a wide selection of recipes for toothsome desserts. Little ones who get temperamental about eating their meat and vegetables can become remarkably co-operative when they realize there is something delicious to follow. The old nursery warning "No Meat, no dessert!" usually works wonders with finnicky children, provided the promised dessert is really special.

Both you and your family will love this recipe for gingerbread pie. Made with rich, dark molasses, it is a delightful dessert for cold winter days. The topping is a special treat --a crisp, spicy meringue flavoured with cinnamon and cloves. It has eye and palate appeal, and the children will love it.

If you wrap gingerbread pie in foil and store it in an air-tight tin or the refrigerator, it will stay moist and scrumptious for several days, ready for immediate use at lunch or tea time.

Gingerbread Pie

1 1/4 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon ginger
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup shortening
1/4 cup sugar
1 egg
1/2 cup table molasses
1/2 cup hot water
2 egg whites
few graines salt
2 tablespoons sugar
1/8 teaspoon cloves
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon vanilla

Preheat oven to 350 deg. F. (moderate). Grease a 9 inch pie pan. Sift together the flour, baking powder, the 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon, ginger and salt. Cream Shortening with 1/4 cup sugar, add egg and beat until light and fluffy. Beat in molasses. Blend in alternately the combined dry ingredients and hot water, beginning and ending with hot water. Pour into greased pie plate. Bake in preheated oven for about 30 minutes or until done.

Meanwhile, beat egg whites with a pinch of salt until stiff but not dry. Beat in granulated sugar, gradually; continue beating until well-blended. Beat in cloves and cinnamon; flod in vanilla.

Spread evenly on top of hot "pie" and bake 15 minutes longer at 350 deg. F.

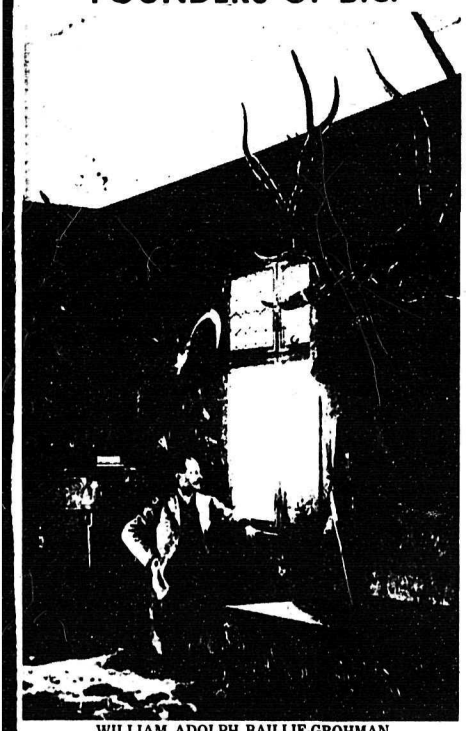
FOUNDERS OF B.C.



WILLIAM ADOLPH BAILLIE-GROHMAN

British author and sportsman, William Adolph Baillie-Grohman, 31, was hunting mountain goats in the west Kootenays in 1882 when he had an inspiration which he felt would make his fortune and at the same time develop a huge new area of British Columbia for agriculture.

Examining the flood-wasted Kootenay Flats in the Creston Valley of Southeastern British Columbia, he decided that if the level of Kootenay Lake could somehow be lowered, annual spring flooding would end and these rich alluvial plains saved for farm production.

He believed that this could be achieved if the constricted outlet from the lake was widened. A year later he improved on his scheme by planning a diversion of the Upper Kootenay River into Columbia Lake at a point where the two waterways were only 1 1/2 miles apart.

Baillie-Grohman negotiated a deal with the British Columbia government. He would dig a canal for the diversion in return for 48,000 acres of the rich Kootenay flats. He was promised the land if he could conquer the flooding, providing the federal government approved his plan. He went off to England to raise capital.

But the Canadian Pacific Railway at that same time was constructing its line westward through British Columbia and feared the diversion would interfere with this project. Ottawa, holding jurisdiction over navigable waters, ruled against the diversion. Baillie-Grohman had not expected to be balked and had already spent considerable money on his project.

Ottawa agreed to a compromise scheme. The developer would dig his ditch, but strictly as a navigational aid. It would be equipped with locks which would be closed when ships were not using the canal.

Baillie-Grohman built his canal, 6,700 feet long and 45 feet wide and the job was completed in 1889. The lock made the canal useless for land reclamation and practically useless for navigation. Only two ships ever passed through. He spent nine years and all his money on the plan and never reclaimed a single acre. In 1893 the developer returned to Europe where he died in 1921.

Thousands of acres of Kootenay Flats were reclaimed by dyking and draining in years that followed, but Baillie-Grohman profited not a nickle. All that remains of his dream today is his weed-grown ditch evident from the highway between Kimberly and Invermere.

Musical background to the opening is being provided by the Langley Centennial "Hundred Choir".

Pottery and paintings at the newly opened Arts Exhibition in Langley are being admired by the public as they file through the show on Saturday.

Father and Son Banquet

1st Clearbrook and Straiton troups of Boys Scouts had a father and son Banquet Thursday. It was held in the "Scout Barn" on the property of Mr. and Mrs. John Ratzlaff.

It was beautifully decorated in the Troups colors of brown and gold and the Canadian flag.

55 fathers attended with their sons.

President Mr. J. Ratzlaff introduced the fathers and the sponsoring committee consisting of Sec. Treasurer Walfred Klassen Committee Jake Brown, Herb Klassen and Albert Toews, Scout Master James Wolfe Assistent Scoutmaster and Straiton Scout master Herb Langcaster, who with his Troup were guests.

Mr. J. Ratzlaff chaired the meeting. Some of the boys put on a skit and Scoutmaster Wolfe gave a talk on "Scouting - and what it means, in the life of a boy."

Father and Daughter Breakfast

Pioneer girls of Bakerview Church held a father and daughter Breakfast on Saturday morning.

The girls in the ages from 8 to 11 prepared the menu af flap jacks, bacon and cocoa. They acted as hostesses and welcomed the fathers.

Games were played and Mr. John Ratzlaff gave a talk on the "Duties of a Church Officer" and regards to the girls badges.

Hank Klassen led a sing-song out of a Guide book.

Fifty fathers and daughters attended and though the girls did the work themselves, they were under the supervision of the Pioneer Guides.

Each father was given a picture of their daughter, taken previously, and to which the girls had made frames.

Poplar WI

Eighteen members of the Poplar Manor W. I. attended the Hopeline District Conference in the Canadian Legion in Chilliwack, Friday. Poplar Manor also provided the entertainment of the day, with the presentation of a skit, based on true facts and figures of 1867.

This same skit was presented Thursday evening for the Ladies Bowling Banquet in the Rancho.

One of the world's longest escalators, almost 100 feet in length, carries visitors to the space exhibit in the United States pavilion at EXPO 67 in Montreal.

Wandering troubadours will entertain visitors at EXPO 67. Four mobile troubadour units, jugglers, singers, musicians and variety acts will follow the crowd.

POLLUTION CONTROL DEMANDED

The United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union has appealed for support from Langley District in undertaking an immediate pollution program for the Fraser River.

In a letter to council, the union expressed concern over increased effluent wastes being dumped into the Fraser River. The letter claims that no major study of pollution on the Fraser has been carried out for 15 years and that conditions - population, industrial development etc. - have been drastically altered in that period.

The union says that pollution on the north arm of the Fraser has already reached the stage where salmon no longer enter - and suggests that no new outfalls or increases in volume of present outfalls should be allowed until treatment plants are established.

Council took the letter under advisement for further consideration.

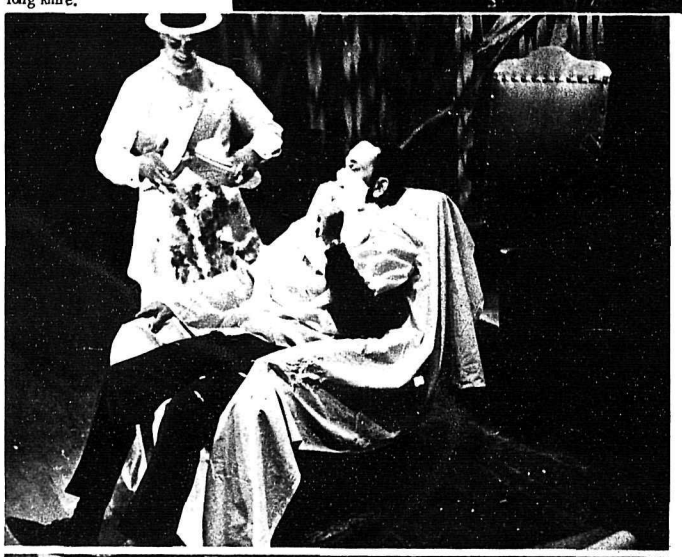
BEAUTY AND THE BEAST

The seven other contestants were Linda Davis, Lynda Burton, Dorothy Miller, Anne Regier, Frances Laverty, Barbara Harms and Aline Johnson.

Although, of course, only one winner could be chosen, it was widely reputed by judges and viewers alike that the race had never been closer than the 1967 contest. The judges for the occasion were Mrs. Wallace, Pat Slattery, and Willie Fleming, all of Vancouver.

It was a lively, fascinating contest for the large crowd on hand in the Abbotsford Junior Secondary Gymnasium, and it was well endowed with the pageantry, suspense, and surprise inherent in such contests.

Pictures below and on the side:
1. -And the Jaycee"s sat up shop rigth on the stage, the first customer is waiting while the "Barber" sharpens his 2 foot long knife.



2. - The youngest contestant was awarded a consolation price, he will be back next Centennial.
3. - Miss Abbotsford 1966 in the process of crowning her successor
4. - Abe Lincoln in person?
5. - Who will be the new Queen? It was a difficult choice.
