

Lives meaningful to new government?

Langley district council is not happy with a reply from the provincial highways department regarding the Bellingham-Fraser Highway intersection.

The letter, signed by senior traffic engineer J.H. Harding, was termed "a form letter" by Mayor George Preston.

Preston suggested that council send a new letter addressed to the new highways minister, Bob Strachan, with a copy of the departmental message.

Harding's letter, in response to the latest of a series of requests for a full traffic light at the killer intersection read in part: ".....traffic counts were taken at this intersection and a record of accidents was provided by the RCMP. Traffic volumes were well below those needed to justify installation of traffic signals. Most of the accidents reported were caused by failure of drivers to yield the right-of-way. The frequency of such accidents would not be reduced by the installation of traffic signals."

The letter concluded that the department could not consider installation of the lights at this time.

"My God," said Preston,

"how long do you have to wait? How many will have to be maimed or killed before you can get action?"

"Who wants to be the next victim?"

Preston expressed the hope that with the new government, supposedly more concerned with human lives, there would be a greater chance of a policy reversal.

Aldergrove, Langley phone books

Subscribers to get both editions

B.C. Telephone Company has agreed to supply all Aldergrove and Langley telephone subscribers with the 1973 directories for both communities on a regular delivery basis.

"That's half the battle won," said Ald. Joe Breier, an outspoken council opponent of the company's announced intentions to put Aldergrove and Langley in two different directories.

B.C. Tel representatives A. J. Finnsson and S.R. Hartney met with council on August 28 and explained that the two communities would be split up in two 1973 directories, but that the company would supply subscribers, on a demand basis, with both editions.

In a letter from Hartney, received by Langley district council this week, it stated that B.C. Tel would provide all customers within the two toll-free exchanges with both listings on a normal delivery basis.

Land use by-law considered in Matsqui

Matsqui council is considering a land use by-law to preserve farmland in the municipality. Mayor Doug Taylor says the plan would involve limiting the areas in question to 20 acre subdivisions. In some cases subdivision is allowed on a 5 acre minimum basis. If any change is made in the zoning of the municipality a public hearing would be mandatory.

The detailed plan of the municipality makes provision for development of town centres such as Bradner and Mount Lehman. All areas in flood plains would be designated for farm use as well as some other areas in the municipality.

At Douglas Day New faces?

At the moment it is not known whether or not the new B.C. cabinet will be present at the annual Douglas Day celebrations in historic Fort Langley.

The committee in charge of the event has sent a letter of invitation to Premier Dave Barrett but the newly elected head of the provincial government has not yet had time to make a review of the situation. However, in a reply letter from deputy provincial secretary Lawrie Wallace it

Late Flash

Langley district mayor George Preston has informed us that the NDP cabinet will be attending the Douglas Day ceremony at Fort Langley on Monday, November 20.

Preston said a conversation with provincial secretary Ernie Hall had confirmed the government's acceptance of the invitation.

Since the 1958 centennial it has been the annual custom of the B.C. cabinet to attend the festivities honoring the first governor of the crown colony of B.C.

British Columbia was proclaimed a colony under Britain in 1858 and became a Canadian province under the fledgling confederation in 1871.

Professional survey needed

The plans for the long awaited Langley ice arena have been sent back to the architects who, in turn, have started negotiations with the low contract bidder, Ald. Ralph Barichello says. The low bid was still some $50,000 above the million-and-a-quarter dollars approved by the electorate almost one year ago.

"There were certain things in the contract we felt we could do cheaper than the contractor," Barichello says.

He mentioned such items as roads and parking spaces Monday afternoon. "But when we get the final figures back from the architects we'll know more."

Barichello indicated that some funds might come out of general revenue.

The arena site in South West Langley still looks desolate.

On the subject of a lacrosse box for Aldergrove, Barichello said that following discussions with the school board it was more or less agreed that the facility would be built at the Aldergrove senior secondary school.

The school board is to participate in the cost of construction of the box which will be used by high school students during the day.

Barichello also told council that the recreation commission had asked for a "professional survey of recreational needs of the geographical area (of the two Langleys)."

A motion by Ald. Joe Breier that such a study, if possible, be included in the 1973 district budget was carried.

Fort Hotel in Fort Langley will be warned not to discharge any raw sewage into the Fraser River.

Bill Nieuwenhuizen, president of the Langley branch of the Scientific Pollution Environment Control Society told council Monday afternoon that the hotel, one year ago, was granted permission to pump sewage into a holding tank from where it would be removed by truck. "They pumped it out once, in the beginning of November of last year," Nieuwenhuizen said, "Since then they have been discharging it straight into the river and during the high water period the river backed up and the raw sewage overflowed, from the collapsed tank onto the yard of the hotel and the sawmill next door." He said he could not understand why the hotel should be allowed to break the law in this manner while individual home owners could not get occupancy permits for new homes without the proper sewage disposal facilities.

"We feel that (health inspector) Mr. Boulton has applied a double standard," the SPEC president said. "We ask you to revoke the temporary occupancy permit for the Fort Hotel until they have installed proper treatment facilities, unless they agree and do, in fact, haul out all sewage to proper treatment facilities, beginning this week, under the terms of the initial agreement with Mr. Boulton."

Ald. Andy Milne said the trouble began last fall when the holding tank collapsed, but that he favored giving the hotel owner a chance.

"Should we put Mr. Elliott out of business for a matter of a few weeks?" he asked.

"We understand that it will probably take about as much as a year before a proper system is installed," Nieuwenhuizen said. He said the hotel last month installed an underground line leading straight to the river.

"It is unbelievable," he added, "but I can produce pictures showing people swimming right underneath the outlet."

"Were there any warning signs?" asked Ald. Bill Blair.

"No," said Nieuwenhuizen.

On a motion by Ald. Gary Smith the hotel manager was to be instructed to repair or install a new holding tank to be pumped out regularly until such time when proper treatment facilities could be installed.

The hotel was given 30 days to comply with the demand or face closure.

Flowerdew plaque once again

The Langley NDP association has once more requested permission from Langley district council to place the word "socialist" on the plaque to be erected in the memory of Eric Symonds Flowerdew in Williams Park. And once more council has vetoed the idea.

A letter from association secretary Eileen Carpenter put the renewed request this way, "....We will follow council's initial decision of wording on the plaque, however, our wish is to place the three words, 'writer-socialist-humanitarian' at the bottom of this plaque. "It is hoped that since our B.C. government is now a socialist government, our request is now acceptable."

So, there.
Mrs. Carpenter asked for further advisement.

And council, apparently determined not to allow the dreaded word in a public place, hurriedly passed a policy whereby no descriptive words whatsoever would be permitted on future epitaphs, i.e. "In memory of John Doe"...period.

Now, Eric was my friend, and I know exactly how he would react if he could be present to witness this little farce. He would laugh until his belly shook, but he'd also shake his head and be both sad and angry. But he isn't here anymore, and I will speak for him.

Eric Symonds Flowerdew was a columnist on this paper for the last four years of his life, he was a socialist and not afraid of telling the world at a time when that admission was still on a par with shouting out loud that you were afflicted with the Bubonic plague, and he was a humanitarian. He had also been a Langley district alderman. Interesting little fact.

Apparently the Langley NDP association put greater emphasis on Eric's having been a writer, a socialist, and a humanitarian than the fact that he'd also at one time or another during his life been a conservative, (during his early youth), a World War I veteran, a chicken farmer.... and an elected representative. That is a healthy sign.

Politicians, alas, have a flair for self-glorification and we all know that before they depart for the great soap box in the sky they see to it that their names are perpetuated in memorials, bronze plaques, buildings, dams, bridges, tunnels, mountain peaks, ice cream parlors, or what have you.

But a writer? a humanitarian? or a (shudder) socialist? Never.

While listening to council's speedy escape from their latest dilemma (and not believing my ears) I was thinking, "All these framed pictures of former mayors and other public officials hanging behind me in the 'press gallery', they will of course have to be revised. The titles and period of terms served, plus other biographical information will have to be removed, leaving only the names. And, without prejudice, the picture above the mayor's chair will have to be titled simply 'Liz' for years to come. When our present mayor's picture someday is added to the gallery, it will just be George H.B. Preston."

And 100 years from now people might wonder who that chap was.

Eric, you have the right to laugh.

It only hurts
when I laugh

The Langley ice arena farce goes on. For years Langley district and city, in co-operation and independently discussed the possibility of building an arena or two for the purpose of training youngsters to become future stars on Team Canada. Thereby keeping them out of mischief?

And then, last December it came to a head when the proposal was finally presented to the voters - and lo and behold, was approved with a safe majority.

From there on it was to be safe sailing. The ratepayers had approved a major expenditure of up to $1.25 million (and as the saying goes, that ain't just peanuts). And the arena was finally to become a reality.

We will forget about the hassle on the location of the site, with different political entities pulling in each and other direction. With a lot of ideas about driving piles for a foundation into bottomless muskeg, etcetera.

And we'll even forgive members of the twin councils for adding glorious little extras like curling rinks (which the public shouldn't be expected to subsidize in the first place) and, glory be, another banquet hall. We only had about five dozen already scattered throughout the district.

We can understand all this and also why the arena had to have such a large seating capacity. After all, Langley was the last community perhaps in the entire valley to acquire an arena. Of course, it had to be the biggest and certainly the most fancy one this side of Moose Jaw.

All the public wanted was an ice-skating arena.

Well, finally the plans were completed, and an out-of-the-way location decided upon. A bulldozer made a few swaths across the site and left.

And now we are almost a year later and the tenders have finally been called - and returned. And, of course, the one million two hundred fifty thousand dollars was not enough. Oh no.

The lowest bid went safely past the $1.3 million mark.

We hate to say we told you so. And we also hate to remind you that a well known architect almost a year ago informed us that for the amount of money approved by the ratepayers no less than three regulation-size ice arenas with adequate seating facilities could be built. Perhaps at Langley, Fort Langley and Aldergrove.

Now the great white elephant is still being discussed.

And besides, of the money already approved, additional funds might have to come out of general revenue.

With a slightly revised application of the old joke, we say, "It only hurts when we laugh."

By the way. I received some more phone calls last week from people opposed to the idea of children standing up in the local school buses. One lady said she was preparing a petition. However, Alderhaven housing complex for senior citizens.

Council had been invited to tour the building Monday at noon. This they did, expressing approval of its construction but requesting that the seats in the O.A.P.'s common room be exchanged for something a little softer, that residents could sink into with their newspapers. The construction company official who accompanied them on the tour, stated that they were not going to supply livingroom type chairs and sofas, but suggested council try to interest some service organizations in providing such furnishings.

After the tour of Alderhaven, council stopped by at the corner of 29th Ave. and 271st St. Here council studied a garage that they have told the owner to tear down before he may raise a carport.

From there they went to a wooded section of land, located next door to the Aldergrove high school. Ald. Breier pointed out to council that this land could be used for playgrounds, etc. Then back to the cars and off to 16th Avenue.

On 16th Ave. near Otter Rd. council stopped for a quick look at a burger stand that an Aldergrove man wishes to continue operating there. Then the 'two-motor motorcade' made its way up Otter Rd. to Otter Park. Here council stopped to study the site of an existing bridge over Bertram Creek.

The whirlwind tour ended there with councilmen making faces at the Star's photographer and asking if news was hard to get this week. In fact, the story is a big scoop. It is not often councilmen can be found in such abundance in our fair town.

Star staffer killed

An Aldergrove man and a Langley man were killed when the car in which they were riding was in a head-on collision with another vehicle in New Westminster Friday evening of last week. Dead upon arrival at the Royal Columbian Hospital was the driver of the car, Ronald David Keller, of 25340 - 58th Avenue in Aldergrove and Robert J. Miller of 19585 - 56th Avenue in Langley. Miller was a passenger in the front seat. Mrs. Shirley Miller and her daughter, Karol Hinman, 9, are in Royal Columbian Hospital in satisfactory condition with head injuries; they were passengers in the rear seat with Sandra Doreen Keller, who is listed in serious condition in Royal Columbian Hospital. The driver of the other vehicle, Leo Raymond Gauthier, 24, of New Westminster, was taken to hospital with head and chest injuries, and is listed in satisfactory condition.

The accident is still under investigation and a coroners' inquiry was set for Tuesday afternoon.

Ron Keller, 27, was a staff member on the Central Fraser Valley Star in 1971, and at the time of death he was employed by the Vancouver school board teaching at Vancouver Technical Institute on the Graphic Arts course. He was an avid photographer, our readers have often seen his pictures published in the Star as well as in Beautiful B.C. Magazine and many other publications. He was for a while employed by the Highway Patrol to take pictures for their investigations of road accidents. He was one of the moving forces behind bringing the Miss Pacific Northwest Nude Contest to Aldergrove, and for the following publicity and open houses held at the Meadowbrook Sun Club, with the intention of giving the public a better understanding of a sun club's purpose.

To push for sidewalks

The first fall meeting of the Aldergrove Chamber of Commerce was held last Wednesday at the Alder-Inn dining room. Several new members were welcomed into the chamber, Mr. Norm Reimer of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, Garry Smith and Harry Hildebrandt - partners in Garry's Mens Wear and Mr. and Mrs. Janssen of Jan's Ladies Wear.

A motion was passed to write Langley district council asking for a sidewalk vote for Jackman Road on the northeast and southwest side, and also a request for the repair of existing sidewalks.

Another letter to go to the Texaco Oil Co. asking for a date for the removal of the old building on the corner of Jackman Rd. and Fraser Highway. The chamber was told that the oil company had promised to have the building torn down in July of this year, but no signs of this promise have been visible yet.

Bob Strachan, the new Minister of Highways, will also receive a letter from the chamber, in reply to an answer on an earlier request by the chamber to have a traffic light installed on the Fraser Highway and Bellingham Highway intersection. The traffic engineer, J.H. Harding stated in his letter to the chamber that "only one-third of the accidents reported by RCMP were of a type which might not have happened if there had been traffic signals. The major cause of accidents is failure by drivers to yield the right-of-way."

This answer did not satisfy the membership, only left them wondering: how many lives a traffic light was worth. Copies of the letter to Strachan will go to Langley MLA Bob McClelland and the Senior Traffic Engineer.

The chamber will also ask the highways minister for the reconstruction of Highway 13 from Fraser Highway to 401.

The next meeting of the Aldergrove Chamber will be held at the Alder-Inn on October 18, at 8:00 p.m.

Weekly afflictions department

A Langley city businessman and former alderman was at Langley district council Monday afternoon, and he was mad.

Keith Beadle, a city automotive dealer was angry because a recent police car purchase contract was awarded to a Vancouver dealership who tendered a price only $10. below that of Keith Beadle Motors.

He directed his anger at finance committee chairman Ald. Gary Smith. "I have 30 employees and am a damn good taxpayer in this municipality, and I have to say this (about the contract award), it stinks!"

Smith defended his department by saying that there was a reason why the Beadle vehicle wasn't accepted, being that it didn't have the antenna incorporated in the windscreen.

"That was not in the specifications," said Beadle. "However, I could have supplied that, but this is a pretty shoddy way of doing things."

He added that it was obvious to him that council didn't want his make of car and that they should only in future put out tenders for a competing make.

"Obviously you didn't want my car and you shouldn't have wasted my time," Beadle said.

In an effort to pour oil on the turbulent waters, Ald. Ralph Barichello interjected that in his opinion the district should deal locally whenever possible, and Ald. Bill Blair added that it was important to spell out more clearly in specification for tender just what was required and expected.

Smith promised to introduce policies to the purchasing department which would prevent a recurrence of the controversial decision.

Market Report from Cloverdale

Total receipts for the week at Cloverdale were 894 cattle, 68 hogs, and 98 sheep. The market was steady on all classes.

The following prices were noted: good steers $30.00 - 32.75, medium and Holstein steers $27.00 - 29.50, good heifers $29.00 - 31.00, plain and medium heifers $25.00 - 28.50, best Holstein cows $22.00 - 25.70, good beef cows $22.00 - 25.50, canners and cutters $14.00 - 21.50 and bulls $25.25 - 29.20.

Butcher hogs sold for $26.75 - 32.00, sows $21.75 - 26.00, weaners (each) $18.50 - 25.75, good lambs $26.00 - 27.50 and ewes $7.75 - 12.00.

Good veal was $44.00 - 52.50, medium veal $35.00 - 43.50, baby calves (each) $20.00 - 63.00, good feeder steers $37.00 - 41.00, heavy Holstein feeders $33.00 - 37.00, light Holstein feeders $36.00 - 32.00 and good steer calves $44.00 - 51.00.

Trucks a problem in Northwest Langley, too

The chairwoman of Langley school board received a sympathetic hearing at Langley district council Monday afternoon.

Mary Douglas came before council as a private citizen and a representative of the Northwest Langley Ratepayers Association. She came with pleas for improved traffic conditions for her community.

"I am greatly concerned with the conditions in Northwest Langley," she said.

Mrs. Douglas said there were

Demotions okay with council

Council received a letter from the Langley local of the Canadian Union of Public Employees last week. The union told council that they wished to negotiate for the salary to be paid to the new senior municipal tax clerk.

The move follows the addition of a clause into the new union contract, which states that the union must be given the power to negotiate salaries for any new positions made between contract negotiations.

Council agreed that the union should be consulted before the position is actually announced as being vacant. Mayor Preston remarked that council would have to know what size of salary the union wished for a new position, before they know whether they could afford that position.

The union also requested that all vacancies in the 'laborer one class' - council's lowest paid employees - be posted for union members to see prior to the hiring of a new man. Preston agreed that this would be okay, saying if an employee of a higher pay wished to go down to such a position it was okay with him.

too many "blind corners", no crosswalks and not sufficient traffic signs. And gravel trucks were driving far too fast through school zones, she added.

She said her car was hit by the swinging gate of a truck when it came around a corner "at a speed I would question" and in order to miss a group of kindergarten students, swerved to her side of the road and drove off.

"But I was glad it saved the kindergarten students," she said.

Mrs. Douglas said she would like to see safe walk areas in Northwest Langley for senior citizens and children.

Ald. Andy Milne assured her that he agreed with every word she had said.

And Ald. Gary Smith suggested that council should consider gravel sidewalks for the area. "They're not very beautiful, but they're functional," he said.

Mrs. Douglas said 88th Avenue was rapidly becoming a "feeder avenue" from freeway 401 into Fort Langley "comparable to Carvolth Road."

And council in turn promised her they would do what they could to try and get 88th Avenue reclassified as a provincial highway.

Concluding her presentation, Mrs. Douglas said improvements like she had suggested could well be done by working welfare recipients.

"But I would like to see them doing something more beneficial than the survey conducted by three men standing with pencils and paper at the entrance to the Jackman Road gravel pit, noting down everyone who drove in," she said.

Mrs. Douglas was referring to welfare recipients put to work last summer on a provincial-municipal incentives program.

Zoning hearing kept at dull roar

The big story of the new Langley district plan came to its somewhat anti-climactic halt in the gym of Langley Secondary school last Wednesday.

A group from 200th St. and 64th Ave. just north of Langley city, was on hand to officially outline its demands. The group had appeared before council many times to oppose industry in their area, and their appearance at the hearing was as much a matter of protocol as it was part of their battle to gain a change in the proposed plan. Their presentation was especially brief, probably because council began the meeting by telling the crowd they were probably going to make the changes the group had asked for.

Lawyer Issy Wolfe appeared for the businessmen along the Fraser Highway between Aldergrove and Murrayville. He stated the businessmen he was representing, were afraid that being zoned agricultural and having to exist on land use contracts would render their businesses unexpandable. Wolfe told council the businesses were worth a total figure in the millions and asked that this be taken into consideration. Council replied that they were not trying to put anyone out of business and they would make every effort to ease the situation.

There were only two groups in attendance considered new to the scene. One of these groups hailed from West Langley. They were at the hearing to oppose any industry setting up in the entire municipality. They were especially opposed to industry on the Van Der Wal farm, located near the Katzie Indian Reserve. In fact, one member of the group asked councilmen to state which way each of them voted on the issue. The Van Der Wal farm was proposed as an industrial zone upon Tony Van Der Wal's specific request, and council's overall reserve zone agreement that the land was not badly suited for industrial development.

Also, some time ago, a group of industrial development representatives brought a brief to council, explaining that they would like to set up an industrial park on the farm and Tony Van Der Wal stated in a telephone interview last Friday that the group is still interested in setting up their park. This is inconsistent with council's viewpoint, which states that the area would only become an 'industrial reserve zone', and thus would not be subject to industrial development right away.

The second group, who had not been in continuous contact with council in the past, consisted of farmers. This group was not organized into a united body, but it was clearly a group nevertheless, and for the most part, its members were opposed to industrial development on the grounds that it would raise the price of land and make farming in Langley a poor venture economically.

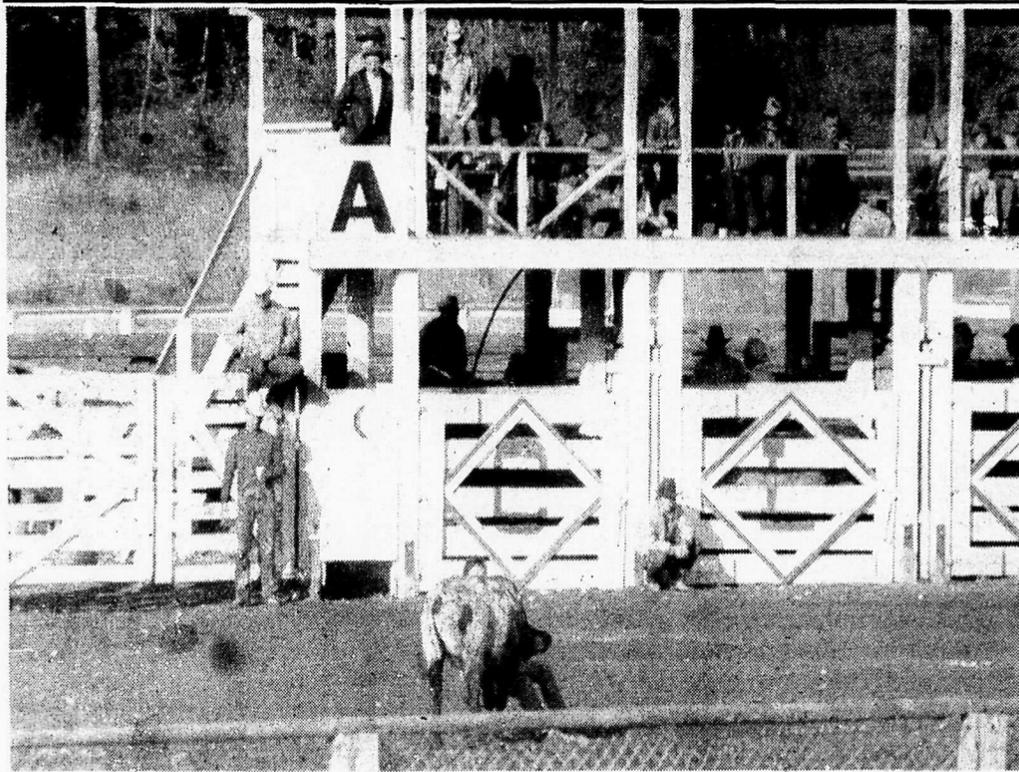

The hearing did not reach any conclusion to speak of. Each group aired their arguments and council officially accepted each brief and carefully answered each question. The program was interspersed with ice-breaking jokes, slides appeared on the screen upside-down and the PA system broke down as each speaker reached the climax of his argument. Of course it was not all planned, but it worked. The meeting remained almost completely free of any heated exchanges between the head table and the public.

The advisory planning commission, and council will get together in Murrayville this Thursday evening, to discuss the hearing and to reach some conclusions regarding the plan. When council first mentioned the meeting in their regular meeting Monday, they cited that it should be attended by the advisory planning commission, council, the press, and listening public. As discussion went on, the public was excluded from the roster as it may stop people from 'thinking out loud'. Later it was decided the press also should be asked not to attend, in case they report anything as a decision rather than an idea. Council was emphatic that no motions would be passed in the meeting, or as Mayor Preston put it, "There will be no progressive dialogue coming out of this informal meeting."

Ald. Joe Breier also mentioned that no minutes should be taken at the meeting, although it was not clear whether this suggestion became part of the final motion.

Before the motion to hold the meeting was passed, Ald. Andy Milne pointed out that a formal debate will be held in the next regular meeting of council.

LOCAL PONY CLUB AT SURREY FAIR RODEO

The local pony racing club were in full force at the Cloverdale Rodeo last weekend. The racers ran their teams on the half mile track both Saturday and Sunday. All entries were of the 48" chuckwagon variety.

Cliff Davidson of Aldergrove logged the fastest time with his bay ponies, clocking in at the final mark at 1 minute 15 and one-tenth seconds. Cliff's second team of white ponies finished in good time at 1 minute 16 seconds. Al Lindgren of Whonnock registered a time of 1.16.2, while Harry Boyer of Langley stopped the watch at 1.17.4.

Aldergrove's Rick Davidson made a high time of 1.18.0 flat with Langley's Doug Austin in at the wire in 1.18.1.

Bill Fowles of Aldergrove was not to be outdone, and proved his point by clocking in at 1 minute 21 seconds flat. Fowles' top time placed him well into the fantastic finish group. Last, but certainly not least was Fred Mathews of Langley. Like Bill Fowles, Fred placed well into the money with a time of 1.27.0.

In other rodeo action at Cloverdale last weekend, amateur cowboys (if there are such people) wrestled calves, rode bucking bulls and broncos, and roped cattle. The ground was muddy making for some very messy boots and saddles. But spirits were high and the rough and tumble action was a crowd pleaser as it has ever been - and ever will be.

Municipality will proceed in spite of opposition

Matsqui municipality will go ahead with planning for its industrial sector in spite of opposition from B.C. Hydro who own part of the land. Council is anxious to prepare a money by-law for vote in December on the plan to upgrade the area and to increase some of the services. This would be offset by the eventual sale of the property which would retire loans for development money. A study is to be made costing about three thousand dollars in hopes that arrangements can be worked out with B.C. Hydro to share the cost of the study. Hydro has already offered one proposal on its share of the land in the area, on which the council has not yet acted.

Observer editor condemns violence

Pleads for justice in Middle East

"Let us say unequivocally we condemn utterly such vicious acts as those committed at Munich. We are horrified by the increase in hijackings, bombings, assassination and murder in cold blood."

These words were written by the editor of The United Church Observer Rev. A.C. Forrest, a man who has fought so hard on behalf of the Palestinian refugees over the past decade that he has been accused by some of approving terrorist attacks on Israel. In two editorials in the October issue of The Observer, Dr. Forrest draws attention to the danger of a worsening situation and appeals to Christians to correct the ongoing evils. "We deplore acts of violence regardless of who is hurt or what the cause is," the first editorial states. "But we deplore, too, the violence under which Palestinian refugees are forced to live on the borders of their own land or under military occupation within it. We deplore the activities of great powers who vote for pious resolutions at the UN, then provide a meagre dole, inadequate shelter, and old clothing to a homeless people, while selling arms and loaning money to Middle East governments."

Predicting the new reprisals and further acts of violence which have already occurred, Dr. Forrest also correctly forecast that "those who suffer will be the innocent, the Arab peasants in the villages of Southern Lebanon and innocent Jews in Israel and abroad. We are afraid that anything said or written by Western Christians will be open to misunderstanding and misinterpretation. At best it may sound gratuitous; at worst the result of innate or unconscious prejudice against Arab or Jew."

Recalling the warning of U Thant before he left his post as secretary-general of the United Nations that failure to reach a settlement would result in another war "which may engulf us all," the Observer editor tells his readers that "holding up hands in horror over Munich is necessary. Using our hands to correct the ongoing evils, especially those for which we Christians can be held responsible, is necessary too."

Murder in Rafid

The day after writing the first editorial, titled "Murder in Munich", Dr. Forrest noted that the Israeli Air Force began its reprisals. "Villages in Lebanon and Syria were bombed and strafed. The house of Ali Hamze in Rafid, Lebanon, was bombed and his wife Rasmya and six children were killed. Sixty-six men, women and children who had nothing to do with Munich were killed in Deraa, Mzerib and other camps.

"Murder of the innocent from the air, carried out by responsible governments against the poor of other races in distant lands, seems to have become acceptable to us civilized westerners," wrote the editor. "At least murder of the innocent on the ground, by irresponsible terrorists in airport and athletic camp, is recognized and condemned for the awful horror that murder is."

"We assume," he concluded, "the grief of the bereaved families in Syria and Lebanon. That violence is to be condemned, whoever commits it, and injustice corrected, whoever is responsible for it or suffers under it."

New series of motion pictures

Another dramatic motion picture, filmed with the famous Janz Quartet in Germany, will be shown at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, September 28, in the Aldergrove Gospel Chapel, 3118 North Jackman Road. Parents are invited to come with the young people to see "Downbeat". Admission is free.

Witnesses to hold two day seminar

The Aldergrove congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses will share in a two day seminar to be held in the Evergreen Hall, 209 - South Corbould Street, Chilliwack, Sept. 30 and Oct. 1st under the sponsorship of the Watchtower Society.

Cameron McKay, spokesman for the Aldergrove Congregation said, "The assembly in which ten congregations of Witnesses from the Central and Upper Fraser Valley will share is a seminar in community service, to provide special training and impetus for work planned during the next six months, included will be methods of teaching appreciation for law and order, family unity, personal initiative and responsibility in spiritual matters."

The meetings commencing at 9 a.m. Saturday morning will be climaxed at 2 p.m. Sunday with the public discourse, "Is This Life All There Is?" to be delivered by Mr. E. Funk, district representative for the Watchtower Society, Toronto. Assisting in the administration and operation of the convention from Aldergrove are Paul Christensen and Cameron McKay.

Birth defects can be healed

In the Christian Science radio program next Sunday morning, people who have been healed of birth defects through prayer tell about their experience.

Details of the time and stations for this broadcast are given in "The Truth That Heals" ad appearing on this page of The Star.

Fire on the Heather with Billy Graham will be shown at 7:30 p.m., Saturday, September 30. This Scottish motion picture also depicts Columba introducing Christianity to the Land of John Knox and Queen Mary.

On Sunday at 7:30 p.m., the weekly motion picture with Dr. Irwin Moon will be presented. God of the Atom is scheduled for this coming Sunday, Oct. 1, followed by Mystery of Three Clocks on October 8.

On Friday nights, at 7:00 p.m., all are invited to bring the children to the weekly Fireside Hour when great Stories of the Faith will be illustrated by film slides.

Coming on October 28, will be Men of Steel filmed in the Yukon with Barry Moore, who spoke last week in the Abbotsford Arena, and in the Aldergrove and other High Schools.

The weekly Sunday evening films with Dr. I. Moon of the Moody Institute of Science, have been deeply appreciated in three World's Fairs, by millions of people from all denominations and various religions.

Admission is free for these films; and all will be welcome to see them.

The Aldergrove Gospel Chapel is located at 3118 North Jackman Road, just north of the Fraser Highway, in Aldergrove.

Antique show at Hycroft

The annual Hycroft Antique Fair presented by the University Women's Club of Vancouver and the Greater Vancouver Antique Dealers' Association will be held at "Hycroft" 1489 McRae Avenue, from October 13 through October 21. The show will be open daily to the public.

Tickets, $2.00 each, may be purchased at the door or from members of the University Women's Club.

This Antique Fair, the largest of its kind in the Pacific Northwest, affords an opportunity to see an outstanding collection of antique furniture and objects d'art in one of Vancouver's finest historic homes.

Lectures on various aspects of antiques will be given daily at 2:30 and 8 p.m. including two "Stump the Experts" panels when visitors are invited to bring items of interest for information and discussion. This year, in addition to the fine antiques, there will be a display of superb old Wedgewood pottery, the property of a local collector, and beautiful flower arrangements by the Vancouver Garden Club.

Jansons' ponies score many ribbons

Several ribbons were taken at the P.N.E. pony show by an Aldergrove couple, Mr. and Mrs. S. Jansons, of 24th Ave. The Jansons recently moved to Aldergrove from Delta.

They are the owners of 'Jet Arrow's Oregon Spring' who was first in stallion class and grand champion Welsh pony stallion.

'Quorn Many Wounds' also owned and shown by Jansons took first in brood mare class and grand champion Welsh mare.

Another of Jansons' ponies, 'Roblyn's Star Fancy' received first in fall 72 class and the B.C. branch of Canadian Pony Society futurity award for the fall of 72.

With a group of ponies the Jansons took the breeders herd first place. The group of ponies included: Jet Arrow's Oregon Spring, Quorn Many Wounds, Tanglewood's Raven, and Roblyn's Eastern Gem.

Jet Arrow's Oregon Spring also took grand champion Welsh stallion at Haney and Cloverdale, while Roblyn's Eastern Gem won grand champion mare at Haney. In the Chilliwack "Any Other Breeders" class grand champion was again Jet Arrow's Oregon Spring and reserve champion pony was Tall Tree Painted Leaf, a Kanata mare, owned by D. Sauerberg of Mt. Lehman.

In other placements in the pony division was Roblyn's Red Flash who took fifth in yearling Welsh class and fourth in

New shopping project for Matsqui

A large controversial shopping centre development on South Fraser Way in Matsqui moved a step closer to realization this week after Matsqui council gave three readings to by-law setting up a land use contract for the area. The project will be undertaken by a company called Laxford Development Incorporated. Development officer Alec Summerville explained the latest plans for the proposal to council Monday morning.

He said in phase one of the development, a complex will be placed along the east side of Gladwyn Road which would eventually connect with the second phase along the west side of Gladwyn.

Area Librarians named

Realignment of professional staff at the Fraser Valley Regional Library has brought about the appointment of four area librarians, director Howard Overend has announced.

Effective October 1, Lesley Dieno will co-ordinate library branches in Richmond; Lillian Heath will look after libraries in the Delta-South Surrey area, Laura Scott will supervise North Surrey and Langley libraries, and Martin Hart will assist branch libraries north of the Fraser River and east of Langley city.

Sept. 23	52	44	1.17"

Normals for the period: High 68 deg. - 69 deg. Low 43 deg. Precipitation 0.98"

Fall came early this year. The sun reached a point over the equator at 3:33 p.m. P.D.T. on the 22nd but we had already experienced five very cool days. The first fifteen days of the month were warm and dry, with a maximum of 68 deg. on the 15th, followed by a cool 58 deg. on the 16th. Eight consecutive days have had no maximum above 60 deg. something which has not occurred during September in 48 years at least (since 1925). From the 16th to 23rd the average maximum was 56.5 deg., 12.2 deg. below normal; this is the normal maximum for October 19 to 23! A similar cool period last year occurred Sept. 24 - 30 (seven days) with an average of 55.7 deg.

It has also been very wet. 1.82" fell in a 24-hour period ending 5 p.m. Thursday and 1.16" in less than eight hours to 7 a.m. Sunday. The total in six days is 4.34", more than the September normal of 3.99". Total this month is now 4.88" compared to 4.92" in all of last September.

All four area librarians will be responsible to the FVRL director at Abbotsford headquarters, Overend said.

Effect of the change will be a better and more equitable use of professional librarians in the 31-branch system. It will divide the field work and reduce the work load formerly borne by branch supervisor Martin Hart whose duties regularly took him from one end of the valley at Richmond to Hope at the other end.

Specific branches under the shuffle are Bridgeport, Brighthouse Centre, Broadmoor, Seafair, Shellmont and Steveston under Miss Dieno.

Mrs. Heath will supervise libraries at George Mackie, Delta Pioneer, Ocean Park, White Rock and the new branch at Tsawwassen when it is opened.

Miss Scott's area will include Whalley, Guildford, Newton, Cloverdale, Port Kells, Langley and Fort Langley.

Mr. Hart's territory covers 14 branch libraries at Abbotsford, Agassiz, Aldergrove, Chilliwack, Clearbrook, Haney, Harrison Hot Springs, Hope, Matsqui Prairie, Mission, Mount Lehman, Pitt Meadows, Port Coquitlam and Yarrow.

Overend said that expansion of Mrs. Heath's role from head of the George Mackie branch to area librarian would directly benefit Delta libraries. Shifting of Miss Scott's area eastward would give branches at Langley city and Fort Langley area librarian service for the first time, he noted.

Application turned down

Mayor Doug Taylor of Matsqui informed council Monday that the Pollution Control Board has turned down an application by the western Pentecostal Bible Institute to discharge effluent into Clayburn Creek.

Matsqui had objected to the plan and maintain that the institution seeks a means to gain access to regular sewer service. A meeting is planned with the institution to iron out the problem.

North Otter PTA meets

by Esther Robertson

The first 1972 meeting of the North Otter School P.T.A. took place in the school library at 8:00 p.m. September 18.

An election of officers produced these results: President Roberta Dimond, Vice Betty Ann Ramsay, Treasurer Sharon Moberg, Secretary Arlene Dashwood and Membership Secretary Mrs. Campbell.

Thanks are extended to Alex

Friesen, who retired after 4 years chairmanship, and a new teacher, Mrs. Saunders, was welcomed.

Some parents voiced concern over the potential danger that overcrowding will be a problem, before new facilities can be produced.

Volunteers are needed to assist part-time in the school, those interested should leave their names at the office.

Memory plaque for Mona Anderson

by Frieda McKay

On Sept. 22 friends of Harvey and Freda Hanes gathered at the Legion to bid them Godspeed to their new home. Harvey and Freda are moving to Falkland, B.C.

The auxiliary was awarded the Organization Trophy at the fall fair for their lovely display.

Our hard-working ladies had little time for holidays as catering was very much in demand. However, it is rewarding and a $2,000 donation was made to the branch. The branch, in turn, is honoring their ladies and escorts with a dinner at 4:00 p.m. on Sunday, October 1 in the hall.

A past-presidents plaque will be purchased in memory of Mona Anderson.

Our latest member is Edith Allen who was initiated Thursday evening. Our ladies have decided to discontinue running the canteen at the auctions. Everyone has their share to do in preparing for our fall bazaar on October 28. Mark that down on your calendar if you haven't already done so.

Two charming bowling teams have been formed and now the "Vet's Pets" and "Vet's Jets" are really on the ball. Have fun girls.

Next big date is our smorgasbord on October 20, with Pete and the Cot'ontails entertaining.

25 anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Nachbar will be celebrating their 25th wedding anniversary with an open house Friday, October 6 in the Legion Hall in Aldergrove from 7:30 p.m. and on.

Friends and acquaintances are welcome.

"The Government brags about some pretty good legislation. The facts are, however, that benefits are often denied to the people who need them most.

Glaring example

In 1952 personal income taxes were about equal to corporation taxes. Today wage and salary earners are gouged $4.00 for every $1.00 that big business kicks into the federal pot.

Sure, nobody enjoys paying taxes. But what makes people really mad is when the Liberal Government puts the load on middle-income earners and lets the corporation off the hook."

Highschool Chit-Chat

by Edith Penner

School started with its usual commotion and confusion on Wednesday, September 6th. Mr. Sherritt and Dougal Shewan, our Students' Council president, made the opening speeches welcoming everyone back to school. Enrollment had been expected to reach eight hundred students this September, but, for some unknown reason, it didn't exceed the number we had last year - seven hundred and forty. Two teachers left the staff last June and six new ones joined this September. One of these is being transferred because not as many students as were expected enrolled.

This year we're trying an experiment of not having home-room classes except on special occasions. This gives the students an extra twenty minutes for themselves - ten in the morning so that school started at 9:00 a.m. instead of 8:50, and ten at noon making the noon hour 50 minutes long instead of 40 minutes as it has in the past. So far, everything has gone as well as can be expected. The only problem is for students who have their lockers in the annex to go and get their books and make it back to the main building for classes in five minutes.

Last week we had two fire drills, one on Tuesday, which was our monthly fire drill practice and one on Thursday which was ordered by the fire marshall. Also on Thursday we had our first house meeting where we elected house captains and co-captains and signed people up to play on the house volley-ball teams.

On Friday the band sponsored a hamburger sale and student pictures were taken. This Monday class rep's and secretaries were elected.

Football, volleyball and soccer practices are underway. Football practices started the first day of school. The first game will be on Saturday, September 30th.

Our Awards Day will be on October 6th. The public is welcome.

With the second full week of school completed, everything and everyone have settled down and regular activities - students' council, sports and clubs are underway.

The Students' Council held its first full meeting, with both executive and class representatives present, on Tuesday.

Wednesday the senior boys' soccer team played their first game of the year against Abotsford and won 2-1. Rob Richardson and Brian Makela made the two goals. The first football game will be against Sardis on Saturday, September 30th in Sardis. House volleyball and soccer games were started last week. The junior boys play soccer on Mondays and Wednesdays; the senior boys play Tuesdays and Thursdays. House volleyball games are on Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays. So far, Nootka is leading in points.

Club meetings have also begun. Among the clubs that have already had meetings this year are the Canoe Club, the Y-Teens, the Photography Club, the Salt Company, and the Art Services Club. The annual staff have already begun working on this year's yearbook. October 5th will be Club Day. There will be an assembly where representatives from each club will tell the school about their club, its purposes and activities, and invite people to join.

On Friday, we had an assembly with speaker Barry Moore speaking about drugs, drinking and dating. Many students seemed to enjoy his talk, whereas others reacted quite negatively.

The Students' Council is sponsoring the first dance of the year on Friday, October 13th. The band "Apple Jack" will be playing.

Those long-distance rate proposals

The B.C. Telephone Company has proposed a new long-distance rate structure designed to encourage customers to dial their own long-distance calls within the company's operating territory.

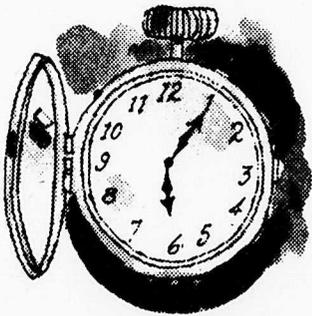

The rate structure has been proposed in an application to the Canadian Transport Commission, which regulates the company.

Member companies of the Trans-Canada Telephone System plan to introduce a similar pricing formula for long-distance calls across Canada.

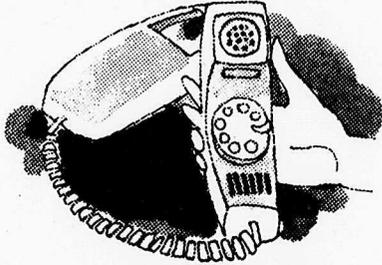

Within the B.C. Tel operating territory, the proposals would increase the cost of some long-distance calls and decrease the cost of others.

It is expected that the increases would offset the decreases, so that no net increase in B.C. Tel's long-distance revenue would result.

Under the proposed rate structure, customers who dial their own calls would not pay a three-minute minimum charge. They would pay only for each minute they talked.*

You would pay for customer dialed calls by the minute — no three-minute minimum charge.

You would pay a lower rate if you dialed your own calls instead of placing calls through an operator.

This would mean, in most cases, that calls of two minutes or less in duration would cost less than they do under the existing rates. In some cases — particularly in the case of calls over short distances — a three-minute call at the proposed rates would cost more than the same call costs now.

The three-minute minimum charge would remain in effect on calls placed through an operator.

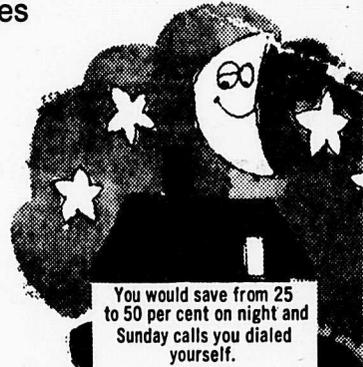

* The three-minute charge, and the existing rates, would be retained for customer-dialed calls between the following communities:

Bowen Island — West Vancouver, Haney — Port Coquitlam, North Vancouver — Whalley, Port Coquitlam — Whalley, Agassiz — Chilliwack, Bowen Island — Deep Cove, Whalley — Whytecliff, Bowen Island — North Vancouver, Bowen Island — Vancouver, Christina Lake — Grand Forks, Grand Forks — Greenwood, Whalley — West Vancouver, Castlegar — Trail.

All operator-handled calls between these points, including person-to-person calls, would be charged for at the rates proposed under the new schedule.

Another major difference in the proposed rates is that customers who dial their own long-distance calls would pay a lower rate than customers who place their calls through an operator.

Most calls placed through an operator would cost more than they do under the existing schedule. The new rate structure also proposes changes in the special rates that apply for night and Sunday calls. By dialing their own calls between 6 p.m. and 11 p.m. weekdays, and between 8 a.m. and 11 p.m. on Sunday, customers would get a 25 per cent discount on the total cost of each call.

You would save from 25 to 50 per cent on night and Sunday calls you dialed yourself.

Customers who chose to dial their calls between 11 p.m. and 8 a.m. any day would get a discount of 50 per cent or each call. During those hours you could call anywhere in the province at a maximum cost of 23 cents a minute.

And this discount period would apply for three hours more than the late-night rate under the existing schedule.

The new rates would not provide any discount on the first three minutes of night and Sunday calls placed through an operator.

A 25 per cent discount would be applied to the cost of additional minutes only. The discount would be in effect from 6 p.m. to 8 a.m. weekdays and all day Sunday.

Most calls placed through an operator would cost more.

MISCELLANEOUS

Under the existing rate schedule for long-distance calls within the operating territory of B.C. Tel, a surcharge of 25 cents is charged for collect calls, calls charged to a third number, and calls where the operator is asked to report back with time and charges. Under the new rate schedule there would be no additional charge for these services, because the new operator-handled rate would reflect the cost of the operator time involved.

Under the proposed schedule, calls made from hotel telephones, coin telephones, radio-telephones and toll stations, call made to Zenith numbers and calls charged to credit card number would be rated as operator-handled calls.

Here's what they mean to you:

The following tables illustrate the effect on charges for typical long-distance calls if the proposals are approved by the Canadian Transport Commission:

CALLS OUTSIDE B.C.

The Canadian Transport Commission has also been asked to approve a new rate structure for calls between British Columbia and most other points in Canada.

The new rate system would be similar to that planned within B.C. Tel's operating territory. The only differences:

A 30 per cent discount would be applied to the total cost of customer-dialed calls placed between 6 p.m. and midnight, Monday through Saturday, and from 8 a.m. to midnight on Sunday. From midnight to 8 a.m. every day, a 50 per cent discount would be applied to the cost of such calls.

A 30 per cent discount would be applied to the overtime portion only of operator-handled station-to-station calls placed from 6 p.m. to midnight, Monday through Saturday, and from 8 a.m. to midnight on Sunday. From midnight to 8 a.m. every day, a 50 per cent discount would be applied to the cost of overtime minutes.

Regular day rates would apply at all times for the first three minutes of operator-handled station-to-station calls. No discount would be applicable at any time on person-to-person calls.

NO CHANGE IS PROPOSED AT THIS TIME IN RATES FOR CALLS TO POINTS OUTSIDE CANADA.

What does European social democracy do next?

Family allowances, unemployment compensation, old-age pensions, and other social welfare programs are nearly complete in five of Europe's social democracies. The leaders of Sweden, Denmark, Austria, Norway, and West Germany look ahead to an expansion of "economic" democracy.

By Harry B. Ellis

On September 2, 1972 premier-elect Dave Barrett was asked by reporters what policies he was going to adopt when assuming office. He answered that an article in the Christian Science Monitor of June 17 would give some hints. The following is a reprint of that article:

"Recently," declared Swedish Prime Minister Olof Palme, "there was a meeting of social democrats in my home outside Stockholm. Present were the Scandinavian prime minister and the chancellors of West Germany and Austria."

He paused. "The language we spoke was Swedish."

Willy Brandt of Germany and Bruno Kreisky of Austria - speaking Swedish? "That," replied Mr. Palme, "is a coincidence of history for which we can thank Adolf Hitler."

Sweden's Olof Palme

He meant that Chancellor Brandt, as a fiery young anti-Nazi socialist from northern Germany, and Chancellor Kreisky, the Jewish socialist son of a well-to-do Austrian textile manufacturer, had spent their Third Reich exile years in Scandinavia.

Now, nearly 30 years later, both men - and the Scandinavian socialist with whom they forged friendships during those tumultuous times - have reached the top of the political heap and head governments in their respective countries.

In each of their lands, the "social welfare" state - family allowances, unemployment compensation, old-age pensions, and the like - is complete, or nearly so. Where, then, does social democracy go next?

To learn the answer I traveled to five European capitals for interviews with the government leaders responsible for charting the future of their respective political movements - Prime Ministers Palme of Sweden, Trygve Bratteli of Norway, Jens Otto Krag of Denmark, and Chancellors Brandt and Kreisky.

Imprisonment and flight

For their socialist convictions, two of these men - Mr. Bratteli and Dr. Kreisky - were imprisoned by the Nazis, though the Austrian later found his way to Sweden. A third, Willy Brandt, fled from Nazi Germany to Norway and then to Sweden.

The toughness of these men in defense of their principles has been proved. Prime Ministers Palme and Krag also, though neither suffered jail or exile, have been committed socialists since youth.

"Political democracy," mused Bruno Kreisky, "is one thing, and a good thing. But it is not enough - political democracy can create inhuman conditions for workers."

We sat in seep leather chairs in Dr. Kreisky's wood-paneled office, two rooms from the spot where an earlier Austrian Chancellor, Engelbert Dollfuss, was assassinated in 1934.

"We must use the power in political democracy to make democracy more safe," Dr. Kreisky continued. "This is a permanent ongoing process, for society is always creating new conditions."

"For example, we must create more industry in Austria to pay for the social welfare state. But this industrialization is bad for the environment. So we have permanent dissatisfaction.....We must find answers" to social problems, as they arise from day to day.

What about workers?

He gave an instance. "For economic efficiency, we must create a giant iron and steel complex in Austria. Good! But what about self-determination for the 60,000 workers in the enterprise?"

"We must," said Dr. Kreisky, "give more power to shop stewards," to regulate the conditions of work in the steel complex. He stressed the words "conditions of work."

He meant by this the extension of democracy beyond its political definition - election of a parliament and government at the polls - to new areas of social co-existence, specifically the factory floor.

"Industrial democracy" - this was the term used by Trygve Bratteli, a tall lean shoemaker's son who has governed Norway since March, 1971, speaking in his modern office, towering above the old town of Oslo.

"A law now before the Storting (Norwegian Parliament)," he explained, "would require a new body in the industrial structure - a factory council, on which workers and white-collar employees would have one-third representation."

"Important questions," Mr. Bratteli emphasized, "involving the conditions of work, such as changes in production methods, should be decided by this council."

Limits undefined

It was still undetermined, the Prime Minister added, whether these projected councils should elect the board of directors of each firm. "But it is clear," he said quietly, "that workers also must be represented on company boards."

Like Dr. Kreisky, Mr. Bratteli cited the need of his party to adapt to changing circumstances. "One problem is that the fundamentals of political activity are changing. Even 20 years ago the Norwegian labor force, tied to small farmers and fishermen, was growing."

"But in the last two decades," Mr. Bratteli said, "the industrial labor force has not grown at all." He leaned forward to emphasize. "Technological equipment and productivity are growing, but not the labor force."

"So," he concluded, "we must adapt the Norwegian Labor Party to the new circumstances....These problems cannot be solved by one's attitude to specific welfare programs."

It boiled down, the Prime Minister indicated, to one's of isolation in a technological society, and of the right of workers to help shape their conditions of work, through voting participation on management boards.

Willy Brandt, reflecting on the future of social democracy, spoke, as had the others, of the need to "introduce new elements of democracy into spheres where it has not been practiced yet."

German experiment

West Germany, he remarked, was experimenting with "Mitbestimmung" (co-determination), whereby workers' delegates in the coal and steel industry hold seats on management boards. Mr. Brandt's government wants to extend this concept in some form to other industrial branches, though, he said, "We do not have the final answer yet, as I see it."

Also important to Mr. Brandt is the accumulation of private

Denmark's Jens Otto Krag

A political goal: expand the influence of workers on the plant floor concept of equality. "What is equality today?" he asked. "It must be equalizing of opportunity for jobs, schooling, mobility upward, housing."

He spoke feelingly about the difficulty of persuading working-class parents to send their children to universities, and of the need to get rid of the "old boy" network, "whose members tend to reserve privilege for those in the same class."

Equal opportunities

"We must," he declared, "get rid of privilege - so that the inherent advantage of the well-born is eliminated. We must give every young person an equal chance. This," said Mr. Bratteli, "does not exist in Norway today - except legally."

Jens Otto Krag, addressing himself to the same subject in his Christiansborg Palace office in Copenhagen, spoke of capital by members of the working class. He described how West German workers, if they agree to save up to 642 marks (about $200) yearly of their wages, receive a government supplement and also tax advantages. Fourteen million employees so far were enrolled in the plan.

"This," said the Chancellor, "will give those groups who are included, after 10 years or less, 10,000 marks (about $3,150) which is very much for those who haven't savings of their own - because it gives them a little kind of independence."

Mr. Brandt stopped to consider. "In a country like this," he added, "where so many people live on so little soil, I think we will not be able to go on with just the same principles of untouched

West Germany's Willy Brandt

Austria's Bruno Kreisky

"economic democracy" - the need for workers to share in both plant management and ownership of enterprises, the latter perhaps through stock shares.

Apart from this, his Social Democratic government hoped to introduce a system of "real school education" for industrial apprentices, to narrow the gap between them and white-collar workers.

Olof Palme, Sweden's young socialist leader, called the process "equalizing upward." He spoke of "recurring education" for adults, to lessen their sense private ownership of land in the overcrowded cities.

Land holdings questioned

"Even as far as residential land is concerned, it must become easier than it is now to (acquire) land if it really is needed for purposes of the city. Of course, then, under a fair compensation - not only as far as money is concerned, but also to give people new land where they can build their houses," outside the centers of cities.

"Since land," he continued "is a good which you cannot multiply, it is an area where the principle of private ownership - in which I believe - has to be combined, as already our Basic Law says, with a reasonable amount of social responsibility."

Clearly all five of these European leaders start from the premise that, beyond social welfare, social democracy must expand the influence of workers on the plant floor, in the board room, and in the sphere of private ownership - so that working-class families will become more conscious of their own stake in the existing system.

"Social democracy," declared Bruno Kreisky, "is (to the worker) the only alternative to communism."

Willy Brandt put it another way. "I think, if we do not find answers to these two problems of a reasonable degree of co-determination and a reasonable process of promoting private capital in the hands of many, then we will get a radical answer to the existing system... and a challenge from the radical socialists or - since the Communists are often in the mood of becoming the conservatives in many areas - from groups left of the traditional Communists."

A striking feature of all five lands under consideration - Norway, Denmark, Sweden, West Germany, and Austria - is that they are free-enterprise lands, based on the principle of private ownership. None of their leaders would change this.

Nor do any of them plan to nationalize segments of industry or doctrinaire reasons. Each sees areas, within the economy of his own country, where the government should intervene to bolster an inefficient branch or - through the allocation of resources - to stimulate or retard production. All five men stressed that such intervention would be "pragmatic."

A special capitalism

Did this not mean, I asked, that their governments were in fact "administering capitalism"?

"Well," answered Mr. Brandt, "to a certain degree it does. But we then come at once to the problem of terminology. That kind of capitalism which we manage to a certain degree...is not the kind of capitalism vis-a-vis which social democracy was built up last century. It already includes a number of those elements for which...social democrats were working."

"What one could call capitalism includes already - not enough, I think - a number of not only social correctives, but also a number of nonprofit and nonindividual influences, as far as management is concerned."

Each in his own way, these five leaders expressed quiet conviction about the rightness of social democracy, as the path his country should follow. Yet each one knows that the weight of nonsocialist opinion in his own land is strong - often outvoting the socialists, unless the latter combine with other leftist or liberal elements.

Trygve Bratteli summed it up for them all. As in the past, so in the future, "The next steps in social democracy may entail a period of confusion and struggle."

Herman - Haid*Honeymoon in California

The groom escorted the bride to the altar in front of Rev. Jones and the wedding vows were exchanged.

The bride was Beatrice Hermann from Switzerland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hans Hermann of Switzerland. The groom was Norman Charles Haid, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Haid of Fraser Highway in Aldergrove. The place of the wedding was Emmanuel Lutheran Church in Aldergrove, and at the organ was Mrs. A. Hippe.

The bride wore a full length gown fashioned in white taffeta and lace overlay. She carried a bouquet of red roses. The maid of honor was Ruth Mast of Switzerland who wore a dress in pink lace and a matching corsage. Darlene Radtke was flowergirl gowned in pink fortrel and carrying a bouquet of yellow daisies.

The best man was Wilfred Haid, the groom's brother, and the groom's brother-in-law, Jerry Van Horne served as usher.

Approximately 100 wedding guests were present at the following reception at the Elk's Hall in Aldergrove and the master of ceremonies was George McKenzie. Heather McKenzie was in charge of the guest book.

Out of town guests for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. J. Haid of Ontario, Mrs. R. Zubick of Summerland, B.C. and Mr. and Mrs. F. Laurie of Trail, B.C.

For the wedding trip to California the bride wore a dress and coat ensemble imported from Switzerland.

Upon returning the happy couple will reside at 27391-30th Ave. in Aldergrove.

Capt. Cole to visit Patricia ol' tymers

by Jeannine Pepin

The regular meeting of the Patricia Women's Institute was held September 20 at the home of Mrs. Connie Johnston.

A letter was read from the Queen Alexandra Solarium announcing that the group's adoptee had been able to return home. The group is applying for a new adoptee.

The Unitarian Service Committee is badly in need of good winter clothing in all sizes. Anyone who wishes to make donations may take them to 1351 Jackman Rd, Aldergrove.

The YWCA in Vancouver has opened a Women's Information Centre to provide information on jobs, legal aid, day care and government legislation affecting women.

Dagney Johnston reported on the Peace Arch Picnic and read a poem written by Leona Krefling on the Naramata convention.

Captain Cole of the Princess Patricia Light Infantry Regiment, after which the Patricia area was named, will be visiting the area to meet long-time residents.

Around Town

by Irene Orwick

Mrs. Bessie Arnold is improving every day after her mishap. She is resting at her home, catching up on reading but she will soon be out again!

Mr. and Mrs. H. Kosterling returned from their holidays in Alberta's Peace River country. The crops were good with about half the harvesting completed, but for twenty-five miles, between Williams Lake and Quesnel they found pretty deep snow.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Corbett have returned from holidays in Alberta and North Bay, Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. Alf Moen are home again from holidays spent in Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Mr. and Mrs. C.A. Christensen, of 29th Avenue returned from their five weeks holiday to Sweden and Denmark. They had a very enjoyable trip both ways, and a nice stay abroad. Nowhere during their travels did they see any rain...but it was awaiting them on their return, and how it did rain last week. So nice to have you home again, folks!

Mrs. Elma Mervyn, having spent a few days in hospital, is home and feeling fine.

A bus load left the O.A.P. hall on Thursday (in the rain) to take in the circus. We were all kids for a day...munching popcorn and other such things as are available during an intermission. I can guess tho' that everyone was ready for a hot meal on returning home in the evening!

Mrs. Georgia Gledhill returned from Victoria last week, where she had spent a week visiting relatives and enjoying beautiful Island weather.

Mr. Les Agar is a patient in Langley Memorial Hospital...coming along fine Mrs. Agar tells me.

Mr. Rod Caplette is also in hospital...but will soon be home, I'm told by his family.

Five tables were playing whist in the O.A.P. hall last week. Winners were: Gents, 1st Mrs. Sue Jackson (playing as a man), 2nd Mr. Courtemanche. Ladies - 1st Mrs. Millar and Mrs. E. Corbett tied, dividing their prize. 2nd Mrs. Albert McDonald.

Jack Frost paid us a visit last night....but I had been smart and taken in all my plants. Maybe we will have nice days again! I hope!

Wedding Announcement

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Nachbar of 26641 Fraser Highway are pleased to announce that their daughter, Jeanette, will enter into holy matrimony with Robert Rennie, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Rennie of 6316-256th Street, Aldergrove.

The wedding will take place on September 30, in the Anglican Church in Burnaby at 6:00 p.m. Rev. Harris will officiate.

No closed meetings for council

"People must understand that we have no such thing as open and closed council meetings," Ald. Gary Smith said Monday afternoon.
 And Mayor George Preston added, "I don't want to talk (municipal business) to anybody outside of council."
 The remarks came after council discovered that two land developers had left the delegates gallery when they discovered that the press would be present at the meeting.
 Ald. Bill Blair supported the idea of closed meetings under certain circumstances, "occasions when someone has a proposed plan still on the thinking stage" and would like to keep it under wraps.

 "I don't agree with giving somebody and not everybody private meetings," said Preston.
 "I am pleased our mayor doesn't believe in secret meetings," answered Blair, adding that sometimes, however, council discuss certain business such as land purchase or personnel matters in closed chambers, and he thought this policy might be applicable to private individuals as well.
 But Preston summed it up by saying, "When we are talking public money, public funds and public future, nothing should be hidden."

Firemen give council a hot time

The North West Langley Fire Department appeared before Langley district council Monday night to plead their case for a blacktop driveway. They asked why the driveway had been turned down.

"Do you have the money to pay for it?" asked Mayor George Preston.
 "No, we don't."
 "That's one reason."
 The fireman representing the group said that it seemed odd that council should take this standpoint now, as the driveway had already been passed last year. When asked why council was unaware of this, municipal clerk Derek Doubleday replied that he had turned the matter over to an alderman, who had made an inspection and recommended that the job not be done.
 "And that alderman was Mr. Smith wasn't it?" quipped councilman Bill Blair. Alderman Gary Smith became annoyed at that point, saying he admitted he had turned the request down, but pointing out that all the facts were not in at that time.
 "I'll accept responsibility for that, but I'll be damned if I will accept responsibility for staff not putting information I can vote on onto my desk!"
 After that, council explained to the group that the budget was tight as council had recently passed a large salary increase for its staff. They explained that this had prompted them to cut back in many areas, but they did promise that they would take the steps necessary to have the job done before the bad weather sets it.

No more homes to move to Langley

A motion was passed in Langley council this week to stop all moving of buildings into the municipality from other districts. The motion was made by Ald. Joe Breier after council's discussion of planning officer Ken Major's remark that, "The planning department would be glad to see a stop put to homes being moved into Langley."
 Major stated that a goodly number of homes moved in are abruptly resold, even though owners had told council they wanted the homes for private use.
 In discussion of the issue, council decided that the amendment to the existing by-law would have to state that the homes in question could not be moved in if they are second hand or if they have to be lifted.
 The new by-law would not prevent pre-fab homes from moving into the district.

PLANS COULD BE CHANGED

The preliminary cost estimates for a proposed addition to the Langley RCMP detachment building amounted to $67,500.00, district council was told Monday afternoon.
 Ald. Joe Breier suggested that architectural plans be dispersed with, and, instead, three or four local contractors be asked to submit bids "on their own terms", drawing up their own plans.
 "This could be challenged by the B.C. architectural institute," said clerk-administrator Derek Doubleday, "and as a matter of fact, I think it would be."

 Doubleday said that to the best of his knowledge any building costing in excess of $50,000 required architectural drawn plans.
 Council decided to look into the matter and, if possible, have the plans prepared by a draftsman.

New solicitor hired
 Langley district council has hired a Vancouver lawyer, Henry Castillou, to act as municipal solicitor.
 Castillou, who has his own practice in the city, was hired at a monthly salary of $1,250. for the initial 90-day trial period. He is the son of a former Cariboo circuit judge.
 Castillou will replace Ted Moloney who resigned his position recently.

Yul Brynner recreates his Academy award-winning role of the King of Siam in a new TV series, Anna and The King; Samantha Eggar also stars as the schoolteacher who goes to the 19th century court of Siam to tutor his many children. Based on the well-known story which later became a stage and movie musical (The King and I), the TV series will be seen on the CBC television network on Sundays at 7:30 p.m.

Special reading of Finnegans Wake

Finnegans Wake was published in 1939 by one of the most original novelists of the century, James Joyce. It was the accumulation of 17 years of concentrated effort in which he attempted to create a total world of nightmare fantasies and half-conscious dream sensations experienced in the sleeping mind, during an interval which stretches out to enclose all space and time.

The dreamer's name is Humphrey Chimpden Earwhicker and he runs a pub in Dublin. He has a wife, Ann, and three children. The book is full of literary effects - the pun, the play on words, parodies and so on. They are more auditory than visual, and so it is a book meant to be heard as well as read.

Kildare Dobbs, Toronto Star book critic, has prepared a reading of Finnegans Wake for CBC Radio's Anthology, Saturday, September 30 at 10:03 p.m. EDT.

He also narrates selected portions of the book.

This new symbol stands for something special

We believe there's something special about the quality of foods grown right here in British Columbia. To back up that belief - and to help you recognize B.C. food products - we're introducing a new "home-grown" B.C. symbol. You'll be seeing it on signs, labels and cartons - and wherever it appears, you can be sure you're getting a genuine B.C. product. You'll also see the symbol in a province-wide advertising campaign for B.C.-grown products. Look for the new "home-grown" B.C. symbol and give your support to our agricultural industry.

Eintracht draws

Div. 2 Eintracht came to no conclusion with Royal City at City Park last Sunday. The visitors from the outset seemed very strong and capable, running in an early goal and handcuffing the LSC team's usually strong front line throughout most of the first half. Steady pounding and experimentation eventually did the dirt though. Gord Reynard and Rick Massey combined for the equalizer and the eleven worked together to create a few more opportunities before full time.

 The Langley team still does not run like a well-oiled machine but it's coming right along. They have played during the past weeks first the B.C. Champs and next the league leaders without a loss. By Provincial Cup time they will be a real threat.

From the LSC Eintracht versus Royal City 1 - 1 game on the weekend.

Aldergrove getting there

Local juvenile teams broke even in league play this weekend, two for four. Div. 4

Legion hammered Blue Mountain Falcons 7-0 in a bit of a slaughter. Half time score was 4-0. Enrico Guistra and Chris Larsen scored hat tricks while Don Charlton punched one.

SPORTS

by Dennis Ross, Sports Editor
Phone 534-4068

Div. 5 Navy, courtesy of Lockhart and Clark, who tallied once each, squeaked past Surrey United Lions, and Rihans, who have been having a hard time of late, went down 7-2 to Port Moody Canucks.

Late Bulletin

Fritz Jacobsen's LSC Vikings donned their horned helmets and massacred Bel Aire 7-0 on Saturday at Fort Langley. It was a div. 4 contest.

Though losers, A and M Jets came closer yet to making the grade. They were narrowly edged by Surrey United Fire Fighters 1-0.

So near but yet so far

Sports Club elevens' bid for a clean sweep in Saturday's league play came close, but was foiled by six big goals. In div. 7, 6, 5 and 4 they combined to lace the opposition 20-0. But in div. 3 Blue Mountain, stung by a 4-2 Labor Day loss (when LSC downed a team of nine Blue Mountaineers) came snarling back to win it 6-1. If our records are correct, that is the worst lacing suffered by the team in a couple of years.

Pat Mulhern's T's made it six straight, completely dominating over Moody, but able only to score three. The losers are a very well-groomed and well-disciplined club and try to do things right but were not able to mount a consistent attack on the hustling Langley squad.

Rob McMillan and the rep 6's thumped last year's league champions, Whalley 3-0. Newcomer Gary Mansel tallied twice and Ian Massander a single. The victors dominated and on the run of the play deserved to win. But in the second half their backs, pressing too far into Whalley's end were repeatedly overrun by a couple of fast forwards. Only a bit of luck and excellent goal-keeping by Doug Fomenko kept the losers off the scoreboard.

Div. 5 LSC and Jim Kitsul fashioned yet another 3-0 shut-out. This one was over Bel Aire Hotspurs, and on the losers' home park. Mr. Kitsul, who had the odds against him at the season's outset, appears to have done an excellent job and may well put forth a contender for league honours.

And Ray Moore's LSC Legion crunched over Guildford 11-0. Nothing can be said either in praise of the losers nor in condemnation of the winners. The game of soccer is an evolutionary process and the fittest survive.

In other contests

Cliff Avenue United who were ousted from Prov. Cup play 1-0 by LSC Legion two years ago have now gained some measure of revenge. In an exhibition last Sunday at City Park they stomped the former B.C. Champions into the turf 9-1. It was, said our observer, P. D. Mulhern, what the British might call "rather one-sided". "Gung ho' soccer does not go in div. 4" said Mr. Mulhern, "One must hold the ball in and play as a team for disaster strikes quickly." He cited Randy Ragan and Gord Macklin for making a gallant effort.

And in the Valley Senior League, Mission hurried a group of ten unfortunates from Silverdale along the road to Limbo. Their final count was nine unanswered. The losers will either come on strong or fold very quickly.

Langley Borsato rolled over Haney in the A League. Newcomer Mike Crawford scored the hat-trick and Ian Atkinson once for the 4-1 victory.

Haney isn't a real test but it is a good morale builder. Next Sunday, the antagonist will be Surrey Cardinals - last season's league champs.

Dons drop one

The loss went 4-3 to the B.C. Penitentiary said our informant, and a very hard, fast, clean run it was too. The winners are incidentally, despite the nature of their home park, a good team and a pleasure to play with though all of their away games are played at home.

Don's scoring was administered by Sid Anderson twice and Glen Clark once on a penalty shot. Harry Hienke at inside right showed fine field generalship distributing the ball with a really fine touch.

It was Aldergrove's best effort to date and but for a bit of tough luck the outcome might have been different. The winner's goalie thwarted Fred Des Lauriers' penalty shot when both sides were scoreless. Further, the pen pitch is hard packed sand - always a problem to players used to turf. It takes at least a half to adjust.

It will be a better day next Sunday.

Div. 3 injury

Langley IOOF had their league game washed out at Port Coquitlam. The contest began in a blinding downpour and went scoreless for a quarter of an hour. Then came a wild pileup in the Langley end from which one boy did not rise. A Port Coquitlam player, sidelined since last spring with a fractured leg and playing his first game since recovery was in considerable pain. Investigation showed that the leg was rebroken. By the time the unfortunate lad had been bundled off to the hospital everyone was thoroughly chilled and somewhat shaken. Coaches agreed that cancellation and replay were in order.

Fort Hotel victorious

The former FLQ team from Fort Langley made an auspicious debut Sunday, running over Chilliwack 6-2. Before half time Diedre Hilberer had stroked a single and George Timmins had put the club ahead with a pair - the first a penalty. After the interval it was Harry Nyquist from Barry Lechner, then Doug Medoswith a header. Lechner then completed the scoring.

Strong in the backfield for the Hotel were Centre half Larry Dixon and fullback Don Frinskie. Their goalie too deserves high praise. He suffered a badly gashed hand early in the go but hung on to make some great stops.

Recreation Commission meets

The first gathering of the fall season was not really momentous. One of the higher points consisted of Ald. Bob Duckworth's statement regarding City Park pools. The city is seriously considering covering it to provide a heated facility throughout winter seasons. Further, Mr. Duckworth stated that the changing rooms and showers will be made available when needed to weekend sports groups as during the latter half of last winter. There will not, he said, be a custodian in attendance this time and coaches will be expected to impress upon their charges the importance of using them in a socially acceptable manner.

Unfortunately the alderman had to leave before he was able to tell whether the pool cover is to be created before the lighted, all-weather soccer pitch planned last spring, or after.

Several minor topics were dealt with, then the most far reaching and important motion in many moons was passed - that a survey of needs and facilities throughout the city and the municipality be made by a professional person. This is a basic need and it is rather surprising that no such move has been made prior to this.

The beginning of a new era for education

Teachers in British Columbia are delighted with the new education minister Eileen Dailly's announcement Thursday of government plans to restore free collective bargaining to teachers and to restore local autonomy to school boards.

Mrs. Dailly will bring in amendments to the Public Schools Act during the emergency session next month of the legislative assembly. One

A new government and new hope

Environmentalists in B.C. can take an optimistic view of the N.D.P. election victory. The N.D.P. platform supports many important environmental issues, including: establishment of an Environment Department, enforcement of strong anti-pollution legislation, protection of farmlands from industrial development as well as from speculation, the initiation of a comprehensive recycling program, and stronger protection for parks and greenbelt areas.

Many of the new government members are already known for their pro-environment positions, and N.D.P. led all other parties in an ecology questionnaire circulated by B.C.E.C. during the election campaign, scoring the top rating of 92 per cent on ten major issues. Liberal opposition members can be expected to support the government on environmental matters, in view of leader David Anderson's known position on Alaskan oil tankers.

The Social Credit party, on the other hand, can be expected to show little interest on environmental problems, as none of the ten members elected bothered to return the B.C.E.C. ecology questionnaire. The lack of communication between Social Credit candidates and the electorate was quite visible during the campaign, and may have contributed significantly to their defeat. Since its beginning, B.C.E.C. has been talking about "increased public participation" in government, and we hope Premier Barrett has big ears!

We may also hope for a new era of cooperation between the provincial and federal governments, particularly since both have displayed a profound awareness of the importance of environment. The role of cooperating with our government instead of struggling against seemingly hopeless odds will come as a welcome change to environmentalists in B.C.

-B.C. Environment News amendment will allow school boards to plan their 1973 budgets at a level of 110 percent of their basic education programs in place of the 108 percent imposed by the former government's Bill 3. A further amendment will allow boards to exceed 110 percent if necessary without having to seek approval of owner electors by way of referendum.

BCTF president Adam Robertson, contacted in Winnipeg, said the new budget proposals will mean smaller classes, better services for children with emotional and learning problems, as well as restoring other essential programs cut back by the previous government. Robertson called it "a joyous moment for children of our province."

Jim MacFarlan, BCTF first vice-president, said the minister's announcements "mark the beginning of a new era for education in British Columbia."

"We think the changes in legislation and the minister's openness and willingness to meet with teachers, trustees, parents, and students will provide a psychological lift for everyone in education," he said.

"These changes, in legislation and climate, more than justify the political action this federation took to bring about the defeat of the Social Credit government," MacFarlan said.

"We hope that all employees in the public sector will soon enjoy collective bargaining rights that were removed or withheld by the former government."

MacFarlan also praised Mrs. Dailly's proposal to gradually remove the burden of education financing from local property tax, noting this was in line with federation policy adopted last year. "These changes are long overdue," he said. And the president of the B.C. School Trustees Association described the proposed changes in the education finance formula as "very encouraging news" for school boards.

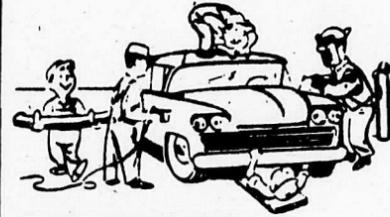

Jack V. Smedley of Delta said Mrs. Dailly's announcement Thursday lifting restrictions on school board budgets and removing a government ceiling on teacher salary increases will be welcomed by trustees and citizens in every corner of the province.

"For trustees who will be sitting down soon to develop budgets for next year, the minister's announcement is certainly very welcome news," he said. "It means we will no longer have to eliminate educational programs which we felt were needed in our local districts."

Smedley concurred with Robertson's statement regarding the proposed act amendments, saying that trustees, as elected representatives in their communities, are confident of their ability to set the budget at a level which the community will support.

Concerning the free collective bargaining for teachers, Smedley had this to say, "School trustees opposed this restriction at the time, and we were very concerned about what had seemed to be the loss of free collective bargaining. Repeal of this legislation will restore morale on the teaching force, and this will certainly have a positive effect on the children in our schools."
