TWO COUNCILORS OBJECT

Local budget up by 6%

MURRAYVILLE - Two council members voted against the township's provisional budget for 1990, Monday night.

And one of the two, Ald. Terry Thorne, made notice of motion that he wants taxation reduced.

Because the 1990 revenue will be more than that originally anticipated when councilors prepared the document, Thome says he wants the six percent budgeted tax increase reduced by one or one-and-a-half points.

It is not likely, however, that Thorne's motion will be successful, as his only ally is Ald. Muriel Arnason.

Ald. John Campbell says a six percent tax increase is "tolerable." It will translate into an additional $33 from the pocket of the owner of an average $100,000 home, he says.

Arnason, who is chairman of council's finance committee, says the 1990 budget isn't "prudent."

But she was accused once again by Mayor John Beales of playing politics with her statement.

What do other councilors say?

Ald. John Scholtens: "Obviously, some of us still believe in Santa Claus. I believe in paying as we go along. This budget will serve us well."

Ald. Aubrey Searle: "We agonized over this budget for three days. It is not a business-like way (to protest it now)."

Campbell: "The majority (of the projected) spending is for 'hard items!' (Taxpayers) are doing fairly well right now, but that won't last forever."

Ald. Steve Ferguson: "I support the budget. Either we move ahead and join the 'nineties, or we move back and join the 1950s. We must look at the wider picture."

Thorne's gesture is destined to be merely symbolic.

BUDGET APPROVED

Council thus, by a vote of four-to-two, adopted the 1990 budget. Adoption is the first step in the process of deciding how municipal funds will be spent this year. The revenue and expenditure items may change somewhat prior to the adoption of the annual budget bylaw in May.

A general municipal tax increase of six percent, and a fire levy increase of eight percent is proposed in the provisional budget. However, council cannot at this time commit to a specific tax increase for 1990, as the proposed tax rate increase may be adjusted when the final assessment values are received from the B.C. Assessment Authority. Of the six percent proposed tax increase, 1.5 percent has been allocated to a reserve to assist with the financing of future capital expenditures and a further one percent has been allocated to a reserve for future recreation and cultural facilities.

These reserve funds were sharply criticized by chairman Arnason.

Finance director Steve Wilcock says, "Langley township continues to be one of the fastest growing municipalities in the province. Effective management of our growth is contingent upon our planning efforts. The provisional budget reflects this need with an emphasis on long range planning, the development of a community plan for Willowbrook and the Salmon River Uplands, updating of the Aldergrove

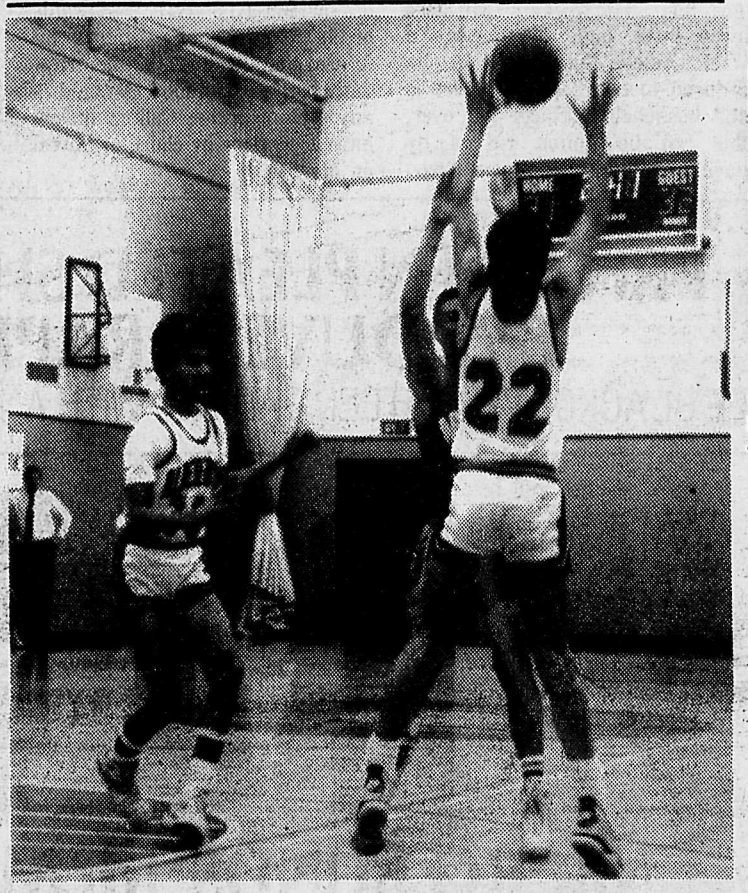
Brazil kipnap victim testifies against

SAO PAULO, Brazil - The victim of a kidnapping and extortion bid has testified that the two Canadians charged with his abduction took turns at holding a gun at him when police surrounded the home where he was being held.

Albilio Diniz, a supermarket executive, told the court, Monday, that Christine Lamont of Langley and her boyfriend, David Spencer of Nova Scotia were involved in holding him hostage.

The lawyer for Lamont and Spencer had earlier said that his clients were unaware Diniz was being held in the house they shared with several South American nationals, and that the two will plead innocence.

Ten people have been charged, including two Argentinians, one Brazilian and five chileans.



Pat O'Hanley (22) of the Aldergrove Totems attempts to block a shot by one of the Agassiz players.

Planning gets $50,000

MURRAYVILLE - Township councilors have referred for one week a staff recommendation that they approve a budget expenditure of $50,000 to study long term directions for the municipality.

Report deals with accelerated urban growth and how best to deal with this in the 1990s.

Administrator Jim Godfrey says the township will have to deal with a number of major issues in the next decade. These include socio-demographics, financial and economic issues, lifestyle considerations, human resources, the environment, infrastructures, and dealing with the public.

Rapid changes in the Fraser Valley will not be easy to manage, says Godfrey.

Kwantlen campus in two years

MURRAYVILLE - Board members of the Kwantlen College hope to have a campus in Langley by 1992 or 1993.

Vice chairman Andy Milne and President Adrienne MacLaughlin outlined the college's five year plan for local council members Monday evening.

Milne said Langley, with about four percent of British Columbia's total population, is the only community of its size without a community college.

He said the board hopes to start building a $25-million campus on a 25-acre site near Glover Road and the Langley bypass within a year.

Low-cost housing price goes up

MURRAYVILLE - It is not fair, says Ald. Muriel Arnason.

"They started out with one assumption, and now this."

But councilors say they cannot do anything about it, and that the Aldergrove Kinsmen will have to pay full development cost charges for their new low-cost rental housing development east of the Aldergrove mall.

Unless, they say, the provincial government can be persuaded to exempt the development from paying for downstream dredging of the Bertrand Creek. They will, however, write Victoria and plead the case for the Kinsmen.

If there is no relief, it looks like the low-cost renting will be just a little more expensive.

Bank robber flees with small change

ALDERGROVE - It was business as usual for the Aldergrove centre mall branch of the Toronto Dominion bank, Monday until 11:10 a.m. when a lone male described as approximately forty years of age, between 5'11"-6'1" and weighing approximately 190 pounds, held up one of the tellers and made off with an undisclosed amount of cash.

Cpl. Doug Hadley, one of the officers involved in the case, said the theft occured without incident. The robber exited the bank through the front doors and is believed to have made his escape on foot.

Police are so far not releasing any details surrounding the case, but are pursuing a number of leads.

Langley, Delta to meet on toll-free calling issue

MURRAYVILLE - Officials here have been invited to an evening meeting in Delta on Thursday, February 15.

Arranged by the municipality of Delta and the Ladner chamber of commerce, the meeting will address toll-free telephone dialing within the Greater Vancouver regional district.

People in Delta are upset because they only have limited toll-free dialing in the area.

It is "unreasonable and we have attempted to persuade the Canadian Radio-television Telecommunications Commission that a common toll-free dialing area for the GVRD is the only effective and efficient answer," says Delta's municipal administrator, Robert Collier.

Langley officials have for several years tried to persuade CRTC to do the same for Aldergrove. Without success. Several of the Murrayville aldermen have indicated that they will be at the meeting.

Petitions go to LMH

LANGLEY - A delegation will present Langley memorial Hospital with a large stack of petitions protesting the bed closures initiated by the hospital board, which was faced with a possible half-million dollar budget overrun.

The petitions have been in circulation for the past couple of months, after hospital administrators said some cuts would have to be made to stay within budget limits.

Petitions were to be presented at noon, Jan. 24, after this week's Star press deadline.

Festival Days invites you

ALDERGROVE - Festival Days organizers have invited the public to their wine and cheese social, Monday, Feb. 5, 7:30 p.m. in the Elk's Hall.

The annual Festival Days returns on June 8 to 10, and organizers need as many volunteer hands as they can get to help make the event as successful as previous years. The parade, dances, fireworks and other events require a good deal of planning and behind-the-scenes labor to come off smoothly.

Individuals and representatives of participating organizations are asked to show their support and interest that night. For more information, call the Chamber of Commerce office, 856-8383.

community plan and a rural policy plan. The 1990 budget also provides for additional staff in the engineering, community development and finance divisions to support the continued growth in the community.

"The proposed budget further provides for the preparation of a master plan for the delivery of leisure services. The joint program with the city of Langley for prevention-oriented teen recreation services in the Brookswood area will be continued and a program will be initiated in the Aldergrove area.

"The primary focus of the 1990 capital budget is to provide the hard services required to support our growth. Improvements are planned for 208 Street, 213 Street, 216 Street, 88 Avenue and 90A Avenue in Walnut Grove; 62 Avenue in Willoughby; and 222 Street and 48 Avenue in Murrayville. These projects will be funded from development cost charges."

Other capital works projects in the 1990 provisional budget include the construction of a new Brookswood fire hall, and further downtown revitalization projects in Aldergrove, Fort Langley and Brookswood. Road Rehabilitation program includes reconstruction, recapping and surface coating of township roadways in accordance with a study completed in 1988. Budget also provides for continuation of the park acquisition and development program.

"Improvements to the township's information systems are included in the 1990 provisional budget in accordance with the recommendations of the strategic information services plan which was adopted in 1988," says Wilcock.

"The new solid wastes utility provides a curbside collection system in the urban areas. It will also provide for the collection of recyclable materials.

"Sewer and water system projects include improvements to the north west Langley sewage treatment plant, Murrayville sewer areas, phase one of the GVRD water supply system and a number of local improvement projects. Many of these projects are contingent upon the receipt of provincial revenue sharing grants and the successful petition of area residents."

'Year of Music' comes to this town

ALDERGROVE - Representatives of the provincial government will provide information on how the local community can apply for some of the entertainment packages which will tour B.C. in 1991, as part of its "Year of Music" travelling roadshow.

All are welcome to the information meeting, Monday, Feb. 5, from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Aldergrove Community Centre. Big international name acts, as well as promising, upcoming homegrown acts in the various entertainment disciplines are in the process of signing contracts with the province, which will underwrite some of the costs along with corporate sponsors like Pepsi.

Every community in the province has been invited to submit applications to host some of the acts. For more information, call MLA Dan Peterson's office, 856-9200.

Increasing bank robberies worrisome

LOWER MAINLAND - Crime Stoppers is seeking public help in identifying the growing number of bank robbery suspects, plaguing the area.

Bank robberies are on the rise throughout the Lower Mainland. In the first two weeks of January, there have been over 18 bank hold-ups in Vancouver alone. This is compared to six during the same period last year. Crime Stoppers in an effort to help stop this rise, is featuring some of these suspects as captured on bank security cameras. These suspects will be profiled on the regular 'Crime Of The Week' Jan. 22 to Jan. 26 on CKVU Television.

One suspect, believed to be responsible for numerous bank robberies in the southeast area of Vancouver, usually wears some form of hat and glasses. He has also worn stocking masks on occasion. Another suspect has struck several banks, starting in the late summer of 1989. This cool customer produces a note keeping a low profile. He is described as a white male, early 20s, 5'8" to 5'11", slim build, brown hair and sparse moustache. He is always neatly dressed.

A third culprit has robbed several banks since 1988 and is still active. He produces a hold-up note also keeping a low profile. This robber is believed to be responsible for other hold-ups across Canada.

Investigators believe that drugs are a major factor in a robbery suspect's motive, as a large percentage of suspects apprehended are addicted to cocaine. Anyone knowing the identity of anyone involved in bank robberies is urged to call Crime Stoppers at 669-TIPS (8477). Rewards of up to $2,000 are offered for information leading to the arrest and charge of persons involved in any type of crime. Callers do not have to appear in court or reveal an identity.

Independents get contract

MURRAYVILLE - A hastily formed consortium of garbage collectors in Langley was the successful bidder after township council decided to make it a public service and called for tenders.

Councilors say the Langley Waste Consortium still, will have to satisfy a number of municipal requirements before the contract is signed.

For homeowners within the serviced area, it will mean a levy of $.84 for the April 1 to December 31 period of this year. For this, the truckers will take away three bags of garbage a week (later this year to be reduced to two bags). If there is still household garbage left over, this can be gotten rid of by paying another 65 cents per bag.

Protect yourself

ALDERGROVE - RCMP crime prevention officers will present a brief, informative seminar on protection of private property, Monday, Jan. 29, 7 p.m. at North Otter Elementary School.

The session is free of charge, and questions will be fielded, too. For more information call RCMP at 534-4184.

No escorts wanted

MURRAYVILLE - If you are looking for an escort, chances are that you won't be able to find one in Langley.

And council members here have indicated that they want to keep it that way.

This week, they requested from staff a report on how to keep professional escort services out of the municipality.

Arnason gets MCB

MURRAYVILLE - Ald. Muriel Arnason has been appointed by Mayor John Beales to the local mosquito control board.

Board meets two or three times a year, the mayor says.

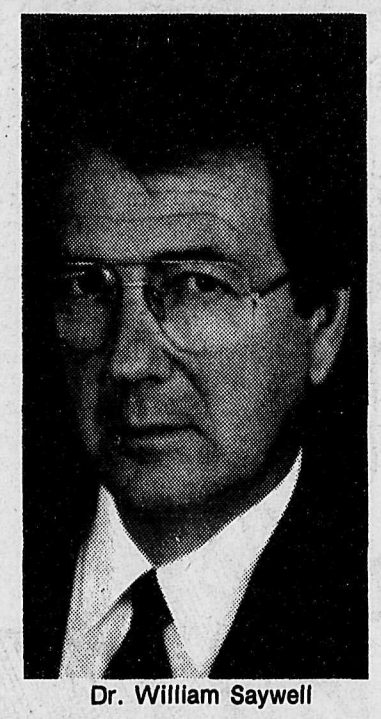
Saywell to get local red carpet

ALDERGROVE - Residents are being encouraged to come to the Aldergrove Community Centre, Thursday, Feb. 1, from 7 to 9 p.m., to welcome Simon Fraser University president, Dr. William Saywell.

SFU wishes to establish a satellite campus in the Fraser Valley, because of growing population here, and at least two possible sites near the 264 Street freeway exit are considered favorable. At the invitation of the Aldergrove Chamber of Commerce, Dr. Saywell will speak on the subject that night, and will field some questions.

Representatives of every local government body and institution, service clubs and other organizations have been invited as well. However, only the chamber and local schools will have time to make presentations regarding their desire to have the campus here.

Chamber president Richard Coleman will also present written endorsements of the proposed project, on behalf of local organizations. A petition in support of the satellite campus has been circulated in the community by the chamber, to convey the message that the area is united in its desire to be selected as the site.



Dr. William Saywell

All are welcome to the meeting. For more information, call the Chamber office, 856-8383 or chamber secretary, Ida Fallowfield, 856-9200.

Dr. William G. Saywell is the fifth President of Simon Fraser University. He was brought up in Lake Cowichan, B.C. and completed his B.A., M.A. and Ph.D. degrees at the University of Toronto, majoring in 20th Century Chinese history.

Dr. Saywell held a number of awards and scholarships, including the Foreign Area Scholarship of the Ford Foundation and the Woodrow Wilson Fellowship. He has lived and travelled extensively in East Asia, doing research in Hong Kong in 1967-68, and served as the first Sinologist and First Secretary with the Canadian Embassy in Beijing, China, in 1972-73.

He has written and spoken extensively on such topics as Chinese history, and current Chinese political, economic, foreign and military affairs. Before assuming his post as President of Simon Fraser University in September 1983, he held a number of senior administrative posts at the University of Toronto including Vice-Provost, Principal of Innis College, Chairman of the Department of East Asian Studies, and Director of the University of Toronto-York University Joint Centre on Modern East Asia.

He serves on a number of public and private Boards, including the Westar Group, B.C. Business Council, the Vancouver Board of Trade, the Association of Universities and Colleges of Canada, and the Asia Pacific Foundation of Canada. He is currently Chairman of the Canadian National Committee on Pacific Economic Co-operation, and as such Canada's representative to its international ruling body, the Standing Committee. He is a member of the Council of the Association of Commonwealth Universities, Corporate-Higher Education Forum and President of the Council of Western Canadian University Presidents.

'Security' indicates changing times?

MURRAYVILLE - "It is a segment of the community turning its back on the rest of the community," says Ald. John Scholtens.

He doesn't like it.

Scholtens is talking about the new concept of "self-contained villages" comprised of single-family detached or semi-detached homes surrounded by a solid fence and usually only accessible through a security gate.

"They don't add to the well-being of the (overall) community," says Scholtens.

Other councilors point out that it is difficult to tell people how they should live, and if they prefer to live in such a development that should be their right.

Also, the security aspect is important, says Ald. Steve Ferguson, adding that his own home has been broken into three times in a matter of as many years.

Developers building walls

MATSQUI - Karlan Builders may be required to tear down barriers only permitting occupancy to home buyers over the age of forty, if they want a proposed development to pass council.

Karlan proposes to construct 100 townhomes on a 6.11-hectare parcel at 30900 Maclure Road.

Ald. George Peary said he was disturbed the development would be restricted. "It's true semi-retired and retired people need housing, but young families and first time buyers cannot find affordable housing, either," he said.

Peary said if a development is permitted in the area it should not be restricted. A new secondary school is slated for construction nearby with an enrolment estimated to reach 1,400 at peak times. An elementary school is also close by. Peary told the developer it should be an area for young families.

Carl Fingal of Karlan Builders said most developers are building to the mature since they control most of the money. "If you tell them you are building family units, they won't buy."

Peary said Matsqui has not introduced a bylaw now in effect in Burnaby and Vancouver requiring developers to construct 20 percent of housing to first time buyers, but it may come to that, he said. "It's true that while mature and elderly people do not put the same demands on schools and transit, they do burden local hospitals and ours is already struggling to meet demand," he said.

Council voted for further study.

LOCAL LITTER "DISGUSTS" RESIDENT

MURRAYVILLE - There is more litter than ever floating around on the streets in Aldergrove, says Ald. John Scholtens.

Perhaps the problem could be taken care of by a school clean-up program, he suggests.

Councilors here agreed with a letter from R. Young of Aldergrove that they have not seen an area anywhere so badly littered for years.

"Certainly this mess is caused by disgusting people, but isn't it ever cleaned up?" asks Young. "No heavy equipment is required, a little very inexpensive labor would do the job just fine."

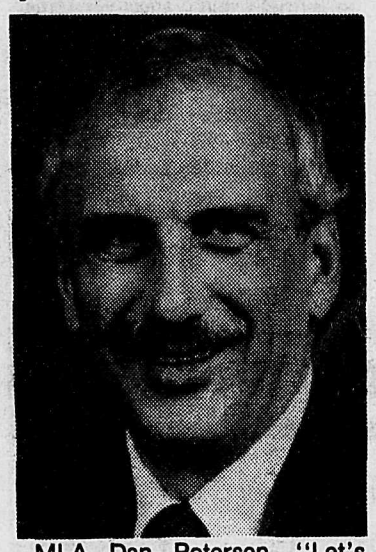
Local Socreds pleased with speech

ALDERGROVE - MLA Dan Peterson, local Socred party president Ralph Snell, and Peterson's assistant, Ida Fallowfield were all grinning from ear to ear last Thursday morning, following the previous night's televised address by Premier Bill Vander Zalm.

They met in Peterson's downtown Aldergrove constituency office to discuss the speech and draw up plans for a coming series of constituency meetings. Although the new Fort Langley-Aldergrove constituency and the executive of the new local Social Credit party will not come into effect until March 1, the date the new provincial constituency boundaries are legally adopted, the local Socred officers have been working towards holding a public event every second month in the coming year. These symposiums will address specific topics (the first may be on environmental issues) with open discussion and invited guest speakers.



MLA Dan Peterson..."Let's get on with the job."

Peterson will also be releasing the findings of the province's Small Business Task Force later this week, and these are also expected to generate considerable discussion, both locally and in the Legislature.

While Peterson, Snell and Fallowfield had all privately predicted that Vander Zalm would choose to stay on, all were surprised and delighted with the actual text of the premier's speech. "It was masterfully done," enthused Peterson, while Snell and Fallowfield gloated over estimates which showed that about 64 percent of B.C. residents were either listening to, or watching the broadcast. A subsequent poll indicates that the speech has improved the political fortunes of Vander Zalm and the Social Credit party, reported the Vancouver Sun, Jan. 20, and Fallowfield said the phone calls she's been fielding at the MLA's office have been mostly positive responses to the speech.

NEW PARTY CHANCES DIM

Talk of a new B.C. "free enterprise" party to be formed by Socred caucus dissidents is, "...irresponsible...a big joke,. absolutely ridiculous," said Peterson. As party whip, Peterson has been meeting with the four MLA's who publicly resigned from caucus last year because of their disagreement with party leadership.

"We are a coalition party, and there's room for differences and disagreements. That's what it's all about. These differences of opinion take a good part of our time in discussion. When I disagree with something, I have my opportunity to 'sell it' to caucus or committee meetings," said Peterson. But, win or lose, the individual MLA's have to stay on-side with the party, and Peterson said. "It's time for them (the four who resigned from caucus) to make a decision, apply some self-discipline and remember they have to answer to their own constituents."

The thrust of the premier's speech was, "Let's get on with the job," said Peterson. "I was elected a Social Credit member and I'll always stay that. It's very dear to me." As for another vocal Zalm critic, Grace McCarthy, Peterson said, "She's a good lady and very astute politically. I hope she gets in with the party," upon her return from a Hawaiian vacation.

CONTENTIOUS ISSUES

Peterson said he thought Vander Zalm's televised apologies would be appreciated by those who felt hurt or humiliated by the handling of the issues in question. "None of us are perfect, but he did a good job of dealing with the things he was accused of, and on the issues where he was seen to be imposing his own moral views, he said it was not his intent to offend anyone."

The premier has "a vision for the future" and Peterson said he was very excited about some of the new things he brought up in the speech, particularly property taxes and schools funding, and a possible solution to the Meech Lake constitutional logjam.

Peterson said now is the time for Socreds to launch a full attack on NDP policies.

"Moe Sihota (NDP-Esquimalt) has said 'We're the new generation of New Democrats,' but what does he do? He was supporting the old party hack, Dave Barrett, a man who will never change his colors, at their national leadership convention. It's the same old gang.

"Glen Clark (NDP-Vancouver East), their youngest member and their finance critic, said in the legislature that anyone who sells land in the agricultural reserve should be taxed 94 percent of the profit they earn. I'm going to be going after him myself on that absurd statement."

Peterson said Clark's stand is typical of the New Democrat approach: If there's a problem, tax the devil out of it and maybe it'll go away. Peterson said it fails to recognize that many small farm operators have worked for most of their lives for marginal profits, and as they approach retirement their only major asset is their equity in the farm. If the increasing urban pressure means that the farm may be redeveloped for residences, that's not the farmer's fault and there's no reason to penalize farmers for it, either.

"Socialism breeds mediocrity. We don't need them," he said.

Peterson was very optimistic about the province's negotiations with Washington hospitals on reciprocal programs to deal with the backlog of about 500 B.C. heart patients requiring surgery. A new heart surgery at Royal Columbian is expected to help as well, but a chronic nursing shortage and a "great influx of people to B.C., 50,000 last year alone" have made a quick, homegrown solution very difficult to find, said Peterson.

LETTERS

Understanding needed

Editor, The Star, Sir,

I could not help but reply to the letter to the editor dated January 18, in the Aldergrove Star, signed a subscriber. The Subscriber wrote in regards to the Aldergrove and Langley Food Banks not having people available to answering telephones 24 hours a day.

Having been a volunteer for many years in the community I take exception to a citizen getting annoyed because there was no one to answer their call. The food bank is run by people in the community that volunteer their time to help others. Volunteers make up a very important part of our community and I am sure we could not get along without them.

I for one feel that there are a lot more important things for volunteers to do than to be sitting waiting for a phone to ring in hopes that a donation would come in. Would this subscriber be willing to make herself or himself available to the food bank to answer the phone 24 hours a day in case this should ever happen again? I think not.

If the subscriber is in the habit of donating to the food bank as it states in the article the subscriber should know that the food bank is unable to open daily because there are not enough volunteers to run it nor enough food donated to give out on a daily basis. CLARA HEPTING

THROUGH A GLASS, DARKLY

What do we expect of government?

By RICK SUTCLIFFE

(Through a Glass, Darkly is an editorial column on current issues. The author is a free-lance writer and long time Aldergrove resident.

"Even a turtle never gets anywhere unless it sticks its neck out." As Bill Vander Zalm's case illustrates, if the neck belongs to a political leader, it may be chopped off.

Staying in the public's good grace today requires not offending anyone by venturing to show leadership, just slavishly following the polls. One must surely keep any moral convictions carefully hidden -- like a good Mulroney liberal. Do those who vilify Vander Zalm for expressing his beliefs in public prefer politicians who have none, or do they permit free speech only to their friends?

Over economic issues, there was never cause for Vander Zalm to resign, and every reason to win another election. But, a leader must have followers. His will surely support him come whatever may, even though the polls said his cause was lost to an opposition sweep.

Yet, is it not the purpose of government to govern, rather than just to get re-elected by photocopying opinion polls into government policy? Is it the job of the media to devour a leader whose unpopularity is due to the strength of his moral views?

More to the point, who could be leader if he had resigned? Electing almost any of the cabinet ministers or MLAs might cause more division -- especially if there were a traditional convention with its high emotions and potential for divisive deal-making.

Perhaps it is time for Canadian political parties to adopt non-conventional leadership selection processes:

- hold candidates' schools and give aspirants tests to see if they understand the process and the issues
- campaign positively on issues; no attack politics
- solicit donations for parties, not individuals
- literature circulated by parties for all candidates; no individual spending
- party officials stay neutral
- parties finances public debates among the candidates
- all members vote by mail and to reduce the field
- have another series of papers, speeches, and rallies
- hold any final meetings in the ridings, with televised speeches
- conduct a single transferrable preferential ballot to select the winner (no opportunity for deals after successive rounds)

Controversial? Believe it! This transfers power from vested interests to the grass roots. It's called particpatory democracy -- the kind that will eventually replace the old representative kind, empowering all people to be political decision makers.

Similar methods can be used to set party policies, select riding candidates, conduct general elections and make some government decisiions. (Referenda are one component of this technique.)

It will be hardest for parties to change internally; their power brokers will resist passionately. But, the alternative is losing touch with the awakened information age electorate and vanishing from the scene.

There is precious little time for Social Credit to achieve the renewal necessary to offer credible candidates and policies before the next election. They must either heal, revive, and unite, or else turn out their lights and give the keys to the province to the NDP. A revived internal democracy is one way to achieve this -- but the party must look forward rather than back.

The views expressed in Through a Glass, Darkly are the responsibility of the author alone.

Ringette Novices down Surrey, 9-6

NOVICE C

It's Saturday morning and the parking lot at the Aldergrove Arena is busy, so that must mean there's some ringette action going on inside and sure anough the aldergrove Legion Novice C team are stepping on the ice to play the Strikers from Surrey.

The Aldergrove kids seemed rather sleepy in the first period and didn't seem to be able to get much going offensively, but Surrey didn't mind the early hour however and had put four goals in the Aldergrove net by the end of the first. Allison Waters worked hard in the Aldergrove net to keep the Surrey team from scoring more than four.

When the second period started Aldergrove came alive and the second was all theirs. Josh Letkeman put in the first goal with only 31 seconds gone by on the clock and less than a minute later had bagged goal number two. Erika Pearson also tried her hand at scoring putting in her first of two goals at the 15:19 mark to tie the score at four. At 14:38 Josh took a nice pass from Karla Hoffman and tucked the ring past the Surrey netminder to put Aldergrove ahead for the first time in the game. Not content with a one goal lead Josh put another ring in the Surrey net to go ahead by two. At 9:04 Surrey attempted a comeback and put the ring past Allison to narrow Aldergrove's lead to one, but 11 seconds later Erika scored her second goal of the morning to put the game out of reach for Surrey. Final score, Aldergrove 9, Surrey 6.

The Aldergrove Legion Novice C team are: Sonya Strandt, Melany Gaube, Karla Hoffman, Kristine Hargrove, Lindsay Brown, Trina Halldorson, Daryl MacDonald, Michelle Pink, Allison Waters, Evelyn Neufeld, Lindsay Paton, Erika Pearson, Greg Paton and Josh Letkeman, who all worked very hard to win this game.

TWEEN B

After the Novice C's exciting game the Halls Meats Blades took to the ice to see if they could keep the crowd cheering. This morning the Blades were playing the Coquitlam Shadowers and after beating them twice at the Christmas tournament the Aldergrove girls knew that Coquitlam was going to be giving their all to try and win this game.

Both teams started the first period playing furiously for the first fourteen minutes of exciting ringette before Rachelle Lauzon, taking a pass from Debbie Haber snapped the ring into the Coquitlam net for the only goal of the first period.

The second period started out the same as the first with the play going end to end and both goalies each making some spectacular saves to keep their teams in the game. At 11:13 of the second Coquitlam spoiled Aldergrove's shut out with their first goal of the game and within a minute had scored two more to take the lead 3-1. Next it was Aldergrove's turn when Heidi Letkeman popped in two quick goals to tie the score once again. Not ones to give up, Coquitlam again went ahead by two. In the dying seconds of the game Heidi banged in her third goal of the game but it was too late for Aldergrove to catch up. The final score of this game was Aldergrove 4, Coquitlam 5.

Melany Kind did an outstanding job in net filling in for the absent Shanda Kirkpatrick.

PETITE B

Later Saturday afternoon the West Pro Energy Flames travelled to Riley Park Arena in Vancouver to take on the team from there.

It became apparent quite early in the game that the Vancouver team was no match for the Flames so the Aldergrove coach mixed his lines up a little so everyone on the team could get a chance at scoring. It seemed to work rather well as every girl got their name on the scoresheet at least once.

Scoring for the Flames were, Hilary Pink 2 goals, Sheri Harty 1 goal, Amy Russenholt 1 goal, Heather Gray 1 goal, 1 assist and Petra Mach 1 goal and 1 assist. Other assists went to Desiree Dupuis with 2, Willow Unruh 1, Danielle Brown 2, Erin Henthorne 2, and Michelle Bettles 1.

Shannon Bettles played another solid game in net for the Flames to record the shut out.

Final score of the game Aldergrove 6, Vancouver 0.

Darin McDougal (17) of Aldergrove takes a flying leap during the final game in the Canada Dry series, Sunday.

Totem boys undaunted by loss

By SUSAN HAMMOND

ALDERGROVE - Last Thursday started the beginning of an exciting tournament held at LSS. The first game began with Semiahmoo. Despite a slow start, the Totems managed to kick back in the second half.

Corey Mutter, with 15 pts., and Matt Stockbrocks with 19, greatly contributed to the team's efforts. Top rebounders were Duncan Campbell with 9 and Andrew Clark with 7. Aldergrove squeezed out a win of 67-63.

Parkland was one of the most exciting games. Coach Bergen believed it was one of the biggest victories of the year to date. Aldergrove and Parkland went into overtime.

Aldergrove once again pulled out a win of 86-83, with ambitious help from Corey Mutter and Matt Stockbrocks; together they added 43 points to the board. Duncan Campbell led the way with 9 rebounds along with Troy Guze with 7.

Aldergrove put themselves in gear on the floor against the McNair Marlins. During the game, points were evenly distributed among the members.

Once again, our top rebounder was Duncan Campbell followed by Andy Clark and Andy Johnstone with 5 rebounds each. Matt Stockbrocks lead the way with 24 pts. along with Corey Mutter following with 15 pts.

Unfortunately Aldergrove missed the win by about 5 baskets. The final score was 75-66 for the McNair Marlins.

After many hours of good play, the Aldergrove Totems were still standing tall ready to play against their final team; the Langley Saints. In a very close game Aldergrove at the final buzzer trailed by 3 baskets.

Top scorers were Corey Mutter with 12 pts. and Andrew Johnstone with 11. With the great team efforts of Andy Clark, Duncan Campbell and Corey Mutter a total of 21 rebounds were aggressively snatched.

Even with a final socre of 64-58 for the Langley Saints, Aldergrove players weren't disappointed, knowing full well they played a good game, they left the court satisfied.

This ended once again another exciting and successful tournament for the Totem team.

Fishing the Valley

by Brian Lee and Roger Dornan

We want you to know how dedicated we are to writing this column. Since the fishing has been a bit slow (we know, that's quite an understatement), we decided that there's nothing like first-hand investigation to truly ascertain the state of angling affairs — almost sounds like a new governmental department, doesn't it?

So Thursday morning we headed out to the Chilliwack-Vedder before sunrise, knowing that we had to be back for copy deadline at noon. It promised to be a glorious morning, with the sun only hinting at appearing over still-slumbering Chilliwack as we skimmed eastwards down the freeway.

We decided to start at the top end and work our way down, hopefully arriving at the Pointa Vista Cafe before Roger's stomach was arrrested for noise-bylaw infractions.

As we drove up the Chilliwack River Road we observed quite a number of anglers' vehicles parked along the shoulder, but they were well spread out, with no one "hot spot" that we could see. We started at the old shake mill (above On the Way Store) and hiked over numerous logjams to find water conditions near perfect — plenty of water, but not too high and with just a trace of color. And best of all, no one else was there!

As we found out after an hour's hard work, neither were the fish!

We slowly worked our way down the river, arriving at Peach Road to encounter a totally changed riverbed and a darned cold wind. Roger's third cast produced a resounding strike, but the fish was only on for half a minute and then was gone. Another hour produced nary a sniff.

Checking with numerous anglers, we confirmed that this morning was very spotty, but most had heard of, and actually hooked several fish the day before. (The usual fisherman's story).

However, it was a great day, there are fish in the river, and we will see you there — and obviously we made deadline!.

New! the aldergrove centre

Mall gets a fresh facelift

By JENNIFER TURCOTTE

ALDERGROVE - As you may have noticed the Aldergrove Centre Mall is undergoing some very definate changes of late.

Since Mike Dakin and Arix Management took over control of the mall last October 1st, things have been happening.

New operations, including the delightful Gar Lossian Florists and Fairtax Srvices, are doing very well, thank-you, while the mall itself is getting a "new look".

"Fresh Look Ceilings" is in charge of the painting project that is sure to make the mall an even better more comfortable shopping environment. And, Mike tells us, early spring will see a variety of changes to the outside of the mall as well.

The mall management is in the process of making a serious effort to fulfill the potential the centre promises; beginning with painting, refurbishing and new furniture, for the maximum satisfaction of the customer.

Arix's goal is to make the Aldergrove Centre Mall more vibrant, more current, as it moves into the '90's.

As part of its ongoing commitment to the Aldergrove community, the mall offers its enthusiastic support to schools, churches, senior's organizations, service clubs and any other community service group.

Karin Keller, promotions representative, handles the business of organizing the busy schedule of events at the mall, where there is something exciting going on all the time. Give her a call if your group or organization has something of interest to Aldergrove residents. Karin will be happy to help you bring your project to the mall.

While Mike is most concerned with the smell of the recent painting project, and he wishes to apologize for any inconvenience, he is sure all the mall's customers will be more than happy with the changes brought about by this project.

The mall merchants want to assure you that there are many more changes in store, with the centre growing as the community grows. And they invite you to "come on in and watch us grow!"

Li'l 'n' Big gets bigger

By MARIE JENSEN

ALDERGROVE - "Li'l n Big, Toys, Books, Etc." has moved from its store, which was too small for all its stuff, and customers as well. Now families can shop in wider aisles. The toy-book store expanded from 1,000 square feet to over double this floor area in the Aldergrove Centre Mall.

Li'l n Big is the biggest retail store of its kind in the Fraser Valley, selling a wide variety of children's toys, novelties, collectibles and books for young and old. They also have many different style games from Europe, the landscape books from Australia, the ever-in-demand American activity books, and the one of a kind novelties from the Far East. Whatever you want or need, it's all here at one store.

It's located in the Aldergrove Centre Mall on 272nd Street. Tell Cathy Speitelsbach (owner) that I sent you.

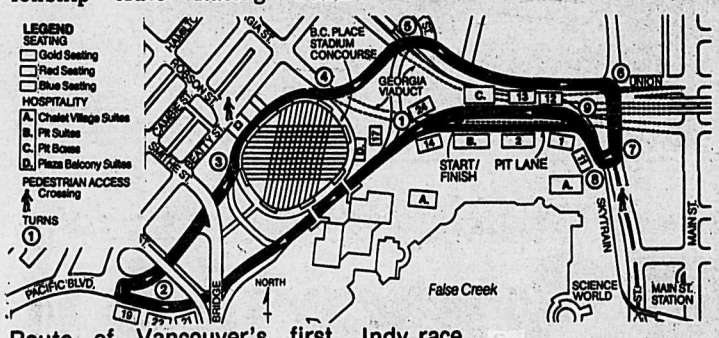
B.C.'s first Indy race is a go

VANCOUVER - John Winter, President of Molson Breweries Western Division and John Frasco, President of Molson Indy Vancouver, have revealed final details of the Molson Indy Vancouver, a three day Championship Auto Racing Team (CART) event to be held this Labour Day weekend on a circuit surrounding BC Place Stadium.

With the Molson Indy Vancouver, the city joins 15 other major North American centres in the prestigious CART-PPG Indy Car World Series. The first event will run from Friday, Aug. 31 to Sunday, Sept. 2, and is expected to draw over 100,000 spectators as well as being featured through international media and television coverage. Annual events will be scheduled for a similar time period in subsequent years.



Route of Vancouver's first Indy race.

"After many years of work Molson Breweries is very pleased to have finally secured this important event for Vancouver," said Winter. "It will be a spectacular opportunity for sports enthusiasts and will provide major economic benefits to the tourism and hospitality sectors, both directly and also in terms of the international exposure generated for the city."

John Frasco outlined the configuration of the 2.72 km (1.7 mile) circuit which surrounds the BC Place Stadium and utilizes both existing city streets and special facilities constructed on adjacent land. "We believe this will be one of the best located and most exciting courses on the entire CART circuit," said Frasco. "The configuration we have chosen provides excellent viewing areas, and the position of the event in the centre of the city will ensure a very attractive impression of Vancouver for millions of viewers world wide."

Tickets for the event are on sale through Ticketmaster by calling the Molson Indy Vancouver Hotline, (604) 280-INDY.

Frasco also indicated that, in addition to Molson Breweries as the title sponsor of the event, eight associate corporate sponsors including Players Ltd., General Motors, Goodyear, Sony, 7-Up, Snap-On Tools, MacKenzie Financial and Kodak have already signed on to participate in the event. A major consumer trade show will be staged in the BC Place Stadium in conjunction with the event. "This level of particpation among major corporations reflects the enthusiasm already being generated around the Molson Indy Vancouver," he said.

Also announced was the creation of a Molson Indy Vancouver Board of Trustees, which will take responsibility for maintaining positive relations and involvement with the Vancouver community throughout the development of the event.

Symphony rehearsals 'good therapy'

LANGLEY - Each season the Fraser Valley Symphony gives a concert in three Fraser Valley communities -- Langley, Abbotsford and Chilliwack -- under the musical guidance of conductor David Rushton, associate professor of music at Trinity Western University.

Rushton attributes the enthusiastic attendance of supporters to what he calls "a strong tradition of good music" in the communities involved, and an equally good musical heritage in many local churches, though he adds many newcomers to symphony music are coming to FVS performances.

His own commitment to the FVS comes partly from a desire to offer his gifts in community service, and partly because he enjoys working with musicians who "find joy and satisfaction in sharing the life-enriching experience of performing symphony music."

"It's good therapy for me, too," he says frankly. "I look forward to Monday night rehearsals."

Trinity Western University has had significant influence on the young Fraser Valley Orchestra since its beginning in 1982. David Squires, an associate professor of music at TWU and current chair of the Fine Arts Division, was welcomed by FVS as its second conductor in 1984. It was Squires who took the orchestra to its highlight performance in the Plaza of Nations at Expo in '86, then stepped down after three years to pursue doctoral studies. One year later Rushton was asked to take leadership, following the resignation of Squires' successor, conductor Gerald King.

The Trinity Western connection continues: among the orchestra's violinists are second-violin Deane Downey, TWU's associate academic dean and professor of English (he's also president of the FVS executive); Sue Saffold, the wife of Dr. Guy Saffold, TWU's vice-president for university advancement; and Marilyn Friesen, married to the manager of TWU's technical services, Dave Friesen.

Joanne Summer, another TWU music instructor and a graduate of Trinity Western's music program, was guest pianist for the 1989 spring concert.

Rushton says playing with the FVS also offers music students the opportunity to fulfill their large ensemble credit, and clarinet player Elsie Jamieson is taking advantage of that opportunity this year.

Professor Rushton has been on the TWU faculty since 1973, and is presently completing doctoral studies in music education at the University of British Columbia.

World's best trumpet player to appear at WWU

BELLINGHAM, Wash. - Freddie Hubbard, recently voted the "best trumpet player in the world" in the Down Beat Reader's Poll, will appear with alto saxophonist Richie Cole at 4 p.m. on Sunday, Feb. 4 at Western Washington University's Performing Arts Center Mainstage. The performance is sponsored by WWU's Artist and Lecture Series.

Hubbard has been a dominant influence on his instrument, and has won numerous awards over the last three decades in the U.S.,Europe, and Japan.

In the January 1989 issue of Jazztimes, Hubbard said he sees jazz as classical music, but not in the sense of rehearsed technical proficiency.

"This music, jazz, is about our struggle in this country," he said.

In the late 1950s, Hubbard went to New York and honed his sound working with other jazz greats including Art Blakely, Herbie Hancock, Ornette Coleman, J.J. Johnson, Slide Hampton, and Jackie Mclean. He has preserved his identity in all kinds of settings from mainstream jazz to serious electronic music, avant-garde jazz and commercial fusion music.

Alto saxophone player Richie Cole comes to the WWU stage as part of the Western States Performing Arts tour, a program of the Western States Federation. His lifelong passion for bebop was sparked at age 10 after hearing the music of Charlie Parker and playing an old saxophone that was lying around the house.

Cole studied at the Berklee School of Music and went on to tour with Buddy Rich's Big Band between 1969 and 1972.

In addition to his explosive playing, Cole has won over audiences around the world with his often disarming humor.

"I'm actually very, very serious, but I do want people to feel welcome and appreciated," Cole said. "I don't like jazz to be so pompous and elitist that it turns off the audience."

A pre-performance "Prelude Talk" by department of music Associate Professor Chuck Israels begins at 3:30 p.m. Public parking is available adjacent to the Performing Arts Center and on High Street.

Tickets are priced at $10 general $8 senior and WWU faculty-staff, and $6 students. Tickets are available at Box Office Northwest (734-7200); WWU's Plaza Cashier in the Viking Union from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday - Friday; and at the door.

For more information call WWU's College of Fine & Performing Arts at (206) 676-3040 or 676-3866.

Meet STENONYCHOSAURUS - a small dinosaur that roamed the flood plains of ancient Alberta. A travelling exhibition from the National Museum of Natural Sciences visits Langley Jan. 30 to March 6.

Dinosaur days come to the Fort

FORT LANGLEY - Follow the dinosaurs to the Langley Centennial Museum and National Exhibiton Centre to celebrate Dinosaur Days from Jan. 30 to March 6.

See the step-by-step reconstruction of Stenonychosaurus, a small dinosaur which roamed the flood plains of ancient Alberta over 76 million years ago. Building a Dinosaur, a travelling exhibition from the National Museum of Natural Sciences, shows the process of creating a life-sized model of a dinosaur from a few fossil remains. This exhibit follows paleobiologist Dr. Dale Russell and model-maker Ron Seguin as their piece together a prototype of Stenonychosaurus.

Through graphic panels, photographs, modelled parts and a copy of the finished product, the exhibit traces the scientific reconstruction of the dinosaur's skeleton, muscles, skin, eyes, etc., and illustrates the techniques used in making the model. Scientists can estimate not only the size and appearance of a dinosaur, but also eating habits, movement, and intelligence.

In the exhibit, Head to Head, see four dinosaur skulls found in the Alberta badlands: centrosaurus (pointed lizard), pachyrhinosaurus (thick nose lizard), lambeosaurus (Lambe's lizard), and albertosaurus (Alberta lizard).

Following the bones is a 13-panel picture and text exhibit outlining the steps a fossil follows from discovery in the field to public display. Both Head to Head and Following the Bones are from the Tyrrell Museum of Palaeontology in Alberta.

Aldergrove's record for 17 league games to date is 15 wins, one loss and one tie (the loss was to their constant rival Hastings and the tie to Seafair).

The balance of league scheduled games are Jan. 24 at 8 p.m. in Aldergrove vs Ridge Meadows; Jan. 31 at 8 p.m. in Arbutus; Feb. 6 at 6:45 in Seafair arena; Feb. 7 at 8 p.m. in Aldergrove vs Mission; Feb. 13 at 8:15 in Queen's Park arena vs New Westminster; Feb. 14 at 8 p.m. in Aldergrove vs West Vancouver and Feb. 19 at 9:15 in Killarney.

One game is yet to be re-scheduled with Hastings.

February 15 the team leaves for Penticton to represent Zone 3 in the 1990 B.C. Winter Games. Their first game is Friday, Feb. 16 at 7 p.m. against Seafair.

The team successfully participated in two tournaments during the Christmas break. They finished as winners in the New Westminster Herb House tournament. The team started out slow with a 10-4 loss to North Island. They came back to win their next three round robin games 7-0 over Killarney, 9-2 against Salmon Arm and 5-2 over North Delta.

In the semi-finals, they lost 2-1 in a close game with Hastings. This put them into the "B" Final game against Calgary which they won by a score of 7-3.

To start the new year, the team participated in the Arbutus club tournament. They came out of the tournament as 'A' division winners after clinching the four round robin games and defeating North Delta 3-1 in the final game.

Baseball readies for new season

ALDERGROVE - Aldergrove Minor Baseball Association is gearing up for a new season. We are excited by a few new changes in this year's program. A new division is to be added to smooth the transition from T-Ball to Mosquito. Tadpoles will be starting in Aldergrove this year for children aged 7 & 8. We will also be able to use the new field behind the Aldergrove Kinsmen Community Center for our Bronco league. This will clear the northeast Parkside field to be enlarged to accommodate a Pony league. Last year we lost our Pony league when we were forced to look beyond Aldrgrove for teams to play. It was discovered then that our field did not meet the standards set by B.C. Minor Baseball Association and we were forced to abandon our Pony league for that year. We hope to welcome back any boys or girls aged 13-14 who might be interested in playing baseball.

Last year for the first time we were able to get sponsors for many of our teams. Thanks to their support we were able to replace some of the teams' uniforms and update our equipment. We are again appealing to local service groups and merchants for support. If you are interested in becoming a sponsor for one of our teams please contact Trevor Burtenshaw at 856-1563 or Janet Daley at 856-5453.

Our annual General Meeting will be held on Thursday, February 8th from 7:30 - 9:30 p.m. at the Aldergrove Kinsmen Community Center. This meeting is open to all. If you are the parent of a child interested in playing baseball or someone just wishing to learn more about what is involved in sponsoring a team, please plan to attend.

Registration for boys and girls ged 5-14 is now being taken at C.J. Sports, Aldergrove Centre Mall. For more information call Diane Bailey at 856-1360.

Canada Dry hockey tourney competitive

LANGLEY - It began with 300 write-in applictions; those were cut to one hundred fifty-three and the tryouts started January 2. The tryouts would determine who would make the select team roster and win a chance at participating in the 13th annual Canada Dry Midget Scholarship tournament.

There were no exhibition games, players were judged solely on their ability as they performed in rigid drills. Aside from excellent hockey skills, players were also required to have a solid 2.0 grade average "C" or better. Chairman Ed Kozaki said they lost three goalies due to substandard grades. The final cuts were made and when the ink was dry, seven Aldergrove players made the final roster. Unfortunately, one was dropped due to poor grades.

The teams only had two practices to establish lines and get used to playing with people they have never met before, prior to the tournament starting January 14. The final game was played Sunday in the civic centre against Greater Vancouver and FVC 2.

Explosive, engaging, riveting, all describe the game that was for all the marbles. In addition to the glory and personal gratification of winning the tournament, there was also $7,000 in scholarships being offered. The denominations were one of one thousand, four of five hundred each, and ten of three-hundred-dollar scholarships. There were a number of bursary awards as well. All scholarships are held in trust and are redeemable for any form of higher learning, including trade schools and vocational courses.

The game was brutal, the hitting hard. When the dust had settled Greater Vancouver came away with a 6-4 win. The Star asked some of the local players how it felt to get so close and then miss out. Sena Heales thought the tournament was really well put together and said he didn't think the lack of practice time was a problem. Darin McDougal thought the penalty killing hurt the team in the final game, but said they were all good penalties.

Scott William, Mel Unruh, Darryl Singbeil, Derick Flint, Darin MDougal and Sean Heales all agreed the hockey was more intense than what they were used to, but loved the challenge and the way the new teams supported each other. They all wished they could play again next year.

Economic independence is the only way out, says Gran

LANGLEY - Carol Gran spoke to a capacity audience, Friday afternoon at ABC restaurant's banquet room. The lunch meeting was the first of a series Gran will host in the province, regarding her new portfolio as minister responsible for women's programs, and she hopes to take resulting recommendations to the spring session of the legislature.

She said her goal is to "focus on economic independence for women" and reiterated her opinion that demands made of her to tackle the abortion issue will "simply color and create confusion. As minister I'm very serious that there are no political games...that we work together."

She said progress will not be possible without the help of men, and she found it heart-warming that men are "very supportive" and are volunteering their help.

An advisory committee for the province will be established to help develop programs and will go "with me to cabinet for money." Some 60,000 questionnaires are being circulated to B.C. women to identify priorities, as well. Her provincial tour will take "four solid weeks."

She said last week's visits to Horizon College and the Downtown Eastside Women's Drop-in Centre had ben an eye-opening experience. However, since the right to vote had not been available to women in the recent past -- within Gran's lifetime -- she said women do have a special perspective on the downtrodden of society that men could never have to the same degree. "It makes women very different."

This has made some of the women's movement too "strident, shrill," but now is the time to "pick up their responsibilities and be part of the process." As many homes now require the women to be wage-earners as well as mothers, "two jobs can be a tough grind."

She felt her first priority would be daycare, followed by retraining programs. She said big corporations have realized there will be skilled worker shortages, making women very much in demand, and have started to introduce in-house daycare and flexible hours in recognition of women's needs.

However, "The whole spectrum has to be covered" recognizing that "women 45 to 65 years old are still falling through the cracks."

On the housing issue, "I am very critical of municipal governments...the shortage lies in local governments. The province has programs, incentives and money available but the zoning process sees many proposals for low income housing turned down, because some people don't want it in their neighborhood. We have none in Langley and it's absolutely shocking."

She said one family was found living in a tent in a Langley park. "Our only alternative would be to overrule local government, but I do not want to see big government like this."

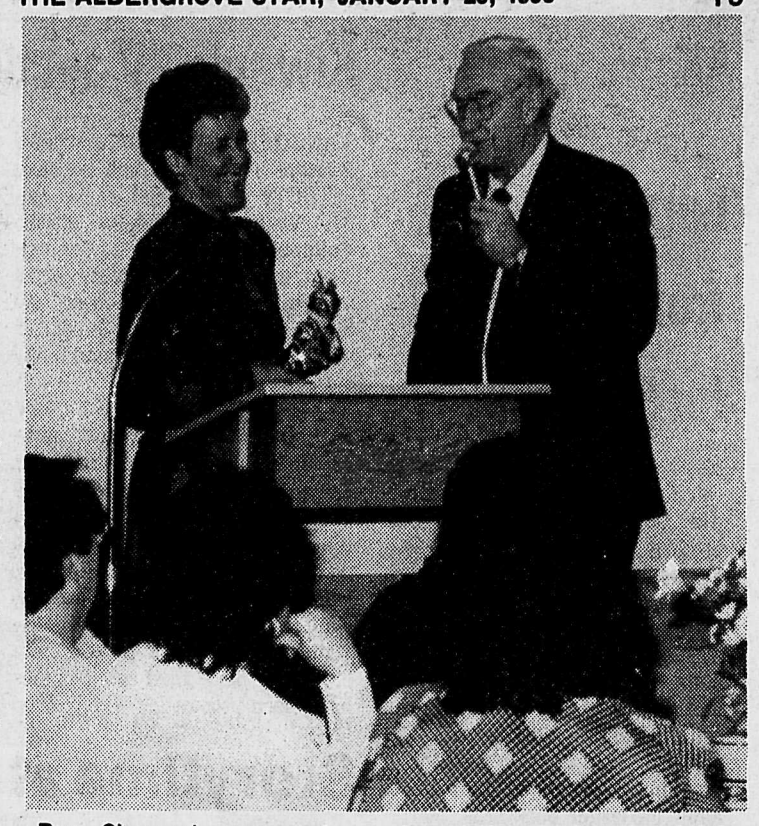
A handful of women present spoke after. A Kwantlen College administrator complimented Gran on her priorities, as did pro-lifer Ila Ieraci, who said she was "grateful (Gran) is tackling issues head on. Economic solutions are part of the solution to the abortion problem."

A nurse suggested that a representative of her profession should be included in the women's advisory committee, as nurses "often see the problems caused by economic situations" in the hospitals.

A realtor lamented the lack of rental housing for those who can't afford to buy, and said many "landlords are gouging them."

Gran replied that "rent controls only worsen the situation" but suggested that "discrimination toward children" on the part of landlords was an issue she would address in the legislature.

Longtime Socred women's auxilary member Jean Jolliffe told The Star that she's "heard it all before" but expressed the hope that something would be done about these issues this time.



Ray Sheward presented a small gift on behalf of the Valley Therapeutic Equestrian Association, to Langley MLA-minister Carol Gray, Friday at Langley's ABC restaurant.

Larger front yards for Matsqui

MATSQUI - Some you win, some you lose, and some you fumble, Ald. George Peary told The Star Monday. Peary was refering to a motion he brought before council concerning urban setbacks.

Council voted during the mid-eighties, to reduce the front lot lines setbacks from twenty-five feet to twenty. No one on council could recall why the setback was reduced. Paul Moritz, director of planning, speculated it was to allow for larger backyards.

Peary commented the reduced setbacks significantly reduce driveway length, causing people to park on the road. Increasing numbers of cars parked on roads in local subdivisions reduces driver visability and increases the chance of a child who may dart out from behind a car being struck. Some council members argued the extra five feet would not stop people from parking on the road. Since they normally would not park bumper to bumper in their own driveway, one car would still block the sidewalk.

Council voted to have a staff report brought back to a future meeting.

Kiwanis TV auction returns

VANCOUVER - The 31st annual Kiwanis TV Auction will be aired on BCTV all day Saturday, Jan. 27. Viewers throughout British Columbia will have an opportunity to bid on 300 items worth approximately $300. each. All money earned from the auction is used for Kiwanis community work.

Since its inception, the TV auction has been a major source of funds for the Vancouver Kiwanis. Over $3-million has been raised, and distributed in the community over the years - distributed to assist the elderly, young people, the handicapped, students, musicians and others. Vancouver parks have been enhanced and medical facilities have been provided.

The annual Kiwanis Music Festival has been a major beneficiary. Over 10,000 aspiring musicians compete in this annual Vancouver event. The three Kiwanis seniors' homes provide a pleasant home-like atmosphere for some 300 seniors, thanks to the funds raised by the auction. Hundreds of youths have attended YMCA and Boys and Girls Club of Vancouver summer camps with money generated by the TV Auction.

A major project envisioned for the future is a centre for the hearing impaired. The centre will bring together, under one roof, many of the services required by the hearing impaired, services that are now scattered throughout the community.

Storytime at libraries

LANGLEY - The area branches of the Fraser Valley Regional Library are offering Preschool Storytime for the Winter-Spring session of 1990. Preschool Storytime consists of two or three stories along with stretches and fingerplays, and may include flannel stories and filmstrips. These storytimes are generally intended for the child to attend on his or her own, and last about 25 or 30 minutes. The visit to the library affords an excellent opportunity for parent and child to select books together.

Preschool Storytime at the Langley Centennial Library is for children 3½ to 5, and is offered at either 10:15 or 1:15 on Wednesdays from Feb. 7 to March 14 with registration by phone or in person to begin Jan. 24.

At the other area branches, Preschool Storytime is for ages 3 to 5. At the Aldergrove Library (26770 - 29th Avenue, 856-6415), storytime is at 9:30 a.m. on Thursdays from Feb. 8 to March 15, with registration beginning Jan. 25. At Brookswood Library (20045 - 40th Avenue, 534-7055), storytime is at 9:30 a.m. on Fridays from Feb. 9 to March 16, with registration beginning Jan. 26. At Fort Langley Library (9167 Glover Road, 888-0722), storytime is at 1:30 p.m. on Wednesdays from Feb. 7 to March 14, with registration beginning Jan. 24.

In addition, copies of the directory are available in public, college and university libraries and through offices of the facilitators listed in the directory.

Engaged couples looking for a referral to a marriage preparation program are also invited to contact the council office.

Free bags for cleanups

VANCOUVER - Schools, organizations and communities throughout the province are encouraged to order free, especially imprinted garbage bags being made available by Canada Safeway Limited to undertake clean-up, beautification and recycling projects during Pitch-In Week, May 7-13.

"We are asking participants in this year's campaign to, if possible, separate the waste which they collect into recyclable and non-recyclable materials and place it in especially marked bags," states Stu Reeder, Chairman of Pitch-In British Columbia.

"We urge everyone planning to participate to contact the organizers of the campaign as soon as possible with their request for bags to ensure that they will be receiving some," said Reeder, who adds that he expects the campaign to expand again in 1990.

It is a program of Pitch-In British Columbia in cooperation with the British Columbia Ministry of Environment, Canada Safeway Limited and a number of local municipalities throughout British Columbia.

Organizations wishing further information on how they can obtain garbage bags should contact Pitch-In British Columbia, 200-1676 Martin Drive, White Rock, B.C. V4A 6E7.

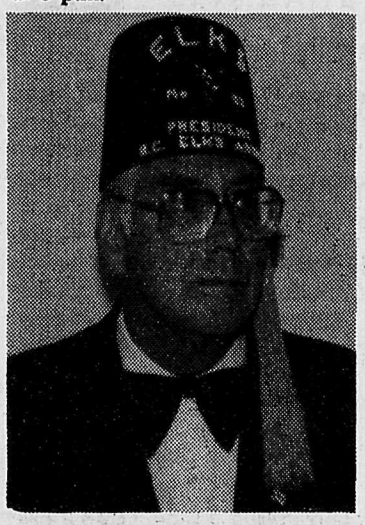
B.C. Elks' president to call on local club

ALDERGROVE - Ed Anderson, president of the B.C. Elks Association will be visiting Aldergrove Elks Lodge on Feb. 6 at 8 p.m.



Ed Anderson, president of the B.C. Elks Association visits the Aldergrove Lodge, Feb. 6.

President Anderson joined the Order of Elks of Canada in Calgary in September, 1959. He was active in Calgary Lodge, becoming its exalted ruler in 1969. He was transferred to Whitehorse, Yukon by his company in September, 1970, where he was active in the Whitehorse Elks Lodge and served as Exalted Ruler in 1972-73. He was transferred to Kelowna in May, 1973 and became active in the Kelowna Elks Lodge holding various offices, also serving as District Deputy of District No. 4 in 1979.

Anderson was elected to the B.C. Elks Association in June, 1982 at their conference held in Prince Rupert.

Ed and his wife Eileen reside in Kelowna. Eileen is a past District Deputy and past Supreme Historian of the Order of the Royal Purple of Canada.

Anderson is an avid believer in the Purple Cross Fund and the good work that is provided for the handicapped children throughout Canada. He is particularly proud of the three children's camps in B.C. that are a provincial project of the Elk members, providing recreation camping opportunities for the children of B.C.

Environmental "handcuffs" ?

MURRAYVILLE - Response was varied.

One council member said that referring "only a select number" of environmental issues to a new township committee could effectively "handcuff" this body.

Another was "delighted."

And Ald. Muriel Arnason, whose original idea it was to form this new environmental committee, was disgusted.

Arnason said her initiative had been "entirely emasculated" when her fellow councilors decided to make it a committee comprised of aldermen only. She had wanted it to be made up of members of the public, and already had volunteers lined up.

Ald. John Campbell said he would like for the committee, comprised of three members of council, to "facilitate public involvement in some cases", but added that "everything we deal with has environmental impact." And, he said, council had been elected by the public to deal with public issues and could not abrogate this responsibility.

Ald. Terry Thorne said the committee could end up "handcuffed", and Ald. John Scholtens said he was "delighted."

4-H Beef and Swine Club welcomes all

LANGLEY - The Langley 4-H Beef and Swine Club held its fist meeting at the residence of Dr. Albert Anderson, the 4-H leader. The club welcomes all the old members back as well as the five eager first year members.

The executive was elected as follows: President - Russ Corrigan, V.President - Erin Best, Secretary - Mikel Bech, Treasurer - John Thiessen, Corresponding Secretary - Simon Hart, Reporter - Gail and Brian Anderson, and Food Convenor - Jodie Best and Neil Watkiss.

Congratulations go to Gail Anderson who competed in the International 4-H Judging Seminar held in Regina, Saskatchewan from Nov. 23-27, 1989. Gail placed 5th overall, 4th in the sheep class, 3rd in the swine class and 2nd in oral reasons. The competition from all over Canada and Montana proved to be stiff as Gail placed 2nd by one point.

The January weigh-in for the beef steers will take place on Sunday, Jan. 28 from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. The second meeting will be held on Monday, Feb. 5 at 7:30 p.m., when Senior speeches will be held. Both the weigh-in and meeting will be held at the home of Dr. Anderson.

Anyone between the ages of 9-19 who is interested in getting involved in the 4-H program in Langley can call 530-0704.

The Future of Our Forests

What are your views of the Future of our Forests?

British Columbia is rich in land and resources, in particular our forest lands. There are many differing values and views of the forests, and many opportunities for the use of our forest and range land resources.

Views on the management of these resources are varied and often diverse because people place different values on the way they, and others, use the forest. Some of the issues regarding forest lands include:

- community economic dependency;
- timber harvesting;
- traditional aboriginal practices;
- quality and quantity of fish and wildlife;
- water quality;
- environmental quality;
- recreation and tourism;
- wilderness preservation; and
- range-forest interface.

When these activities are not compatible, difficult land and resource use decisions have to be made. The B.C. Forest Resources Commission needs to understand how the forests are viewed by the citizens of the Province and how the public can be involved, so that we can plan for the integrated use of the forests.

In the words of the Minister of Forests, "...many of the issues I must deal with are brought about because we have no clear view of exactly what the forests of British Columbia represent.... I view this to be of paramount importance because I believe that until we have a generally accepted vision, it will be extremely difficult, if not impossible, to resolve many of the other issues facing us."

The Commission wants your views on the future of British Columbia's forests through the 1990s and into the 21st century.

The Process

The Commission is currently requesting written submissions from British Columbians. This Spring, community meetings will be held in locations across the Province to hear from all those who have submitted written briefs. Based on these submissions and the community meetings, the Commission will prepare an Options Paper outlining alternatives and their implications for B.C.'s forests. A draft of the Options Paper will be distributed in the Fall, 1990 and you will be asked for your response to this Paper in a second series of meetings. Your comments and suggestions will be included in the final statement which will form the basis of future planning and decision making for the Commission.

Timing

March 16, 1990	Written submissions due
April-May, 1990	Community meetings to obtain input from the public
June-August, 1990	Develop Options Paper with alternatives and implications
September, 1990	Distribute Options Paper to the public
Mid September to mid October, 1990	Community meetings to discuss Options Paper
Winter, 1990-1991	Submission to Minister of Forests

The First Step : Write us now

Your written response must be to us by March 16, 1990 so that community meeting locations and times can be established.

How to Submit

The Commission wants to hear from British Columbians. We are asking you to write a letter or prepare a formal brief and fax or mail your submission to:

The British Columbia Forest Resources Commission
700, 747 Fort Street
Victoria, B. C. V8W 3E1
Attn: Derrick Curtis
Phone: 356-7885 Fax: 356-7888

The Commission wants the widest public input possible. We encourage you to submit your written material now. Besides hearing from those who submit written materials, there will only be limited time for others who want to make presentations during the community meetings.

The Commission's Mandate

The British Columbia Forest Resources Commission was established by the Minister of Forests on June 29, 1989. The Commission is an independent body reporting to the Minister with a mandate to review and make recommendations on a wide range of issues of concern.
The Commission has been given four specific tasks:

- to recommend ways B.C.'s forest and range lands may be managed to protect and enhance differing values;
- to review the effectiveness of Tree Farm Licences as a form of tenure;
- to recommend ways to improve public participation in forest planning and management; and
- to review and recommend ways to improve forest harvest practices, focussing on clear-cutting and associated forest practices and their impacts.

Vlahos Restaurant staff, including new chef, Nickos Pappas (right).

Traditional, but new style

By SYLVIA LANGMANN

Vlahos Restaurant may not have had a native Greek chef in recent years, but that's all changed now with the appointment of Nickos Pappas, who brings his 30 years experience to provide the best Greek food in the valley. Pappas rose from a dishwasher to first chef in a Montreal 400-seat restaurant, where he was taught by a master chef, the culinary arts of French and North American cuisine.

However, he taught himself how to cook Greek dishes, refining a technique he developed to reduce the grease and oils in traditional dishes, to suit the health-conscious Canadian tastes. He prepares these dishes without usual measuring of ingredients -- a pinch of this, a handful of that -- and, extraordinarily, his special dishes never vary and he knows by the delicious smells when it's just right. He never tastes to test, as his nose knows best.

Vlahos has a new menu, and if you enjoy Greek foods you'll be pleasantly satisfied.

Fasolatha, a traditional thick bean and vegetable soup has a delicate taste, and eaten with Pappas' special pita bread makes a very light meal in itself.

My favorite appetizer is tzatziki, his secret mix of yogurt, cucumbers and garlic. Very refreshing and light enough to complement the entree, or it can be served with kalamaria or dolmathes (stuffed grape leaves).

For those who have been disappointed with too-chewy octopus and squid dishes elsewhere, you can taste it properly prepared by Pappas. Pickled octopus or a marinated fried squid is immersed in a sauce for several hours and fried just before it's served. The result is a sea dish that's tender and full of succulent flavors.

The most popular entree is the roasted lamb, freshly prepared on the spit.

Mousaka is a dish many food lovers have enjoyed, and I especially liked it Vlahos style. Layers of eggplant, zucchini and ground beef, nestled under a layer of bechamel sauce, atop a crispy diced potato crust. Textures and taste are perfect.

Finish your meal with a baklava dessert, fresh made by Pappas's wife, Loula, and a Vlahos coffee, and enjoy the Greek decor and appealing prices, and you're almost there in Greece yourself.

This has concentrated on the new Greek menu, but for more conservative tastebuds, there is an excellent selection of more familiar dishes to choose from, too. Vlahos is located at 23665 Fraser Highway; call 530-6444 for reservations.

SCHOOL LIFE

By LARA BRODIE

Oh how I wish I was not a nerd,
And could be dumb just like all,
the rest,
But once the "A's" start to pile on in,
It just won't do to say I guessed.

It would be much better to learn to fail,
And let the stress all disperse,
But if an "F" finds a way to you,
An "A" to an "F" could make you feel worse.

What exactly makes a person be considered a nerd? Is the school society so low that it feels it must degradingly label students that try hard to succeed? Of course, I realize that "nerdom" goes well beyond the fact of having a high grade point average. For instance, stereotypically, "they" wear glasses, have slightly odd habits, have buck teeth, look dreadfully wimpy and, overall, have a very strange, far from goodlooking appearance. Therefore, of course, that makes it perfectly legal for the "popular" variety of students to get good grades.

Are you picking up on the double standard here, yet?

I know that I am.

Unfortunately, the term "nerd" appears as though it will live on through the nineties, ready at any moment to last from a cruel child's tongue in order to invoke permanent damage to another. This is no joke.

It also appears clear to me that perhaps it is a Godsend to those of us of the "unpopular persuasion" to receive such hideous rejection at school. That may sound rather ridiculous, but I feel this way because of the fact that we (I, myself, have been thrown unwittingly into this category, as well) end up ahead of the game because we get to learn, earlier than most, what this place, they call a world is all about. Therefore we further learn to strengthen our characters and brace ourselves from the impact of hitting the "big unknown" before we graduate. I, myself, often have to wonder though, if that impact could possibly be greater than the depression induced by the teen society of school.

I have often heard it stated that kids can be the cruelest form of man. Rather sad, don't you think?

If you are an adult reading this, no, school hasn't changed that much has it? There will always be those who are popular and those who are not. There will always be the nerds, destined for greatness, and the "others" living in greatness for the time being. That's where the future comes in. The popular group isn't popular forever, but the nerdy group always seems to shock them all. One could sort of look upon it as a version of "The Ugly Duckling," titled instead, "The Once Nerdy Teen."

This has been emotionally dedicated to all the graduating "nerds" of Alder High, oh what the heck, this is dedidcated to every living nerd this nerdy world has ever produced. And I am proud to say, I have been one of you all along.

Oh how I'm glad that I am nerd,
And not dumb just like
all the rest,
'Cause as it seems to have turned out,
My answer to it all is "I'm going to pass life's test!"

Prevention education for parents

LANGLEY - Are you worried about someone saying to your child, "Want a smoke? Have a beer?" when you are not there? You wonder, "Is my child using drugs? How can I tell? What can I do to prevent this from happening in my home?

Would you like to know what kinds of drugs your child has access to? If you have these or other drug related questions come join Kids and Drugs: Prevention Education for Parents.

The program is designed to give parents general information about drugs and their use; an opportunity to examine the skills needed for the prevention of drug-releated problems in the family; and an opportunity to develop a plan of action to prevent problem drug use by their children. It consists of eight sessions.

For further information call 534-7921, Langley Family Services and ask for Agnes Macham. The program will begin Jan. 30 and run for eight consecutive Tuesdays. Register now to ensure your place as enrollment is limited.

Pipe danger?

MURRAYVILLE - Is it safe? asks Ald. Aubrey Searle.

He has raised the same question before, but says he hasn't received an answer.

Searle is talking about the Trans-Mountain pipeline shipping crude oil to the lower mainland. The oil has been flowing through the 24-inch pipes for about 35 years.

"Are they (Trans Mountain) doing inspections on a weekly or even a monthly basis?" asks Searle.

The rupture of one of the high-pressure pipelines could be quite devastating to the area, Searle says.

Climate offers chance for an early start

By RUSS BRUCE

Welcome to the first edition of Gardening in the Valley. In this and future columns we will share our ideas and experiences, as this is probably the best way to learn more about one of life's most rewarding activities.

For those of you with questions I will be glad to answer them in future columns. All you have to do is mail or drop them off at Valley Garden Centre in Langley. I find that this is one of the best ways of addressing problems which you may all be having at particular times of the growing season.

In this column I would just like to comment on the aspect of seed starting indoors. Most of us have been experiencing a little bit of spring fever with all the mild weather we have had lately and are asking ourselves what we should be doing right now to get ready for spring. There are numerous plants which can be seeded inside right now to get a jump on spring.

Geraniums, begonias, pansies, dusty miller, onions, cabbage and other cole crops can be started inside now, as especially geraniums and begonias will benefit from the longer growing season. The seed should be sown in either a plastic or wooden flat filled with a fine mixture of peat and vermiculite sometimes known as starter mix. Make sure you do not cover the seed too thickly as the finer the seed the less covering it will need. Once the seed has been planted do not let the surface of the mix dry out considerably as this will harm the emerging seedlings. If you have a source of bottom heat this would be very helpful in germination. Place in a well lit location, but remember additional light may be required at this time of year (ie. growlights, etc.). Damping off, one of the main problems encountered in seed starting occurs after germination. This is where the seedlings emerge from the surface of the soil, grow about one inch high and then fall over.

This can generally be prevented by watering the flats from the bottom and by increasing the amount of light so the seedlings stay compact instead of stretching and becoming leggy. Also, by gradually reducing the temperature and increasing the light as the plants grow, they will tend to be generally hardier and more compact. Most problems with seedlings occur from being too warm and wet after germination and from inadequate light. Next week we will discuss what to do with seedlings once they have germinated and have been hardened off.

If you haven't sprayed your fruit trees with lime-sulfur dormant oil yet, do it as soon as the weather permits as this application will prevent many problems that will otherwise occur during the growing season. I much prefer to spray now than during the growing season when the fruit is on the trees.

Remember to send us those questions and helpful hints so they may be included in next week's edition.

Until next week, happy gardening.

ASK ANNABELLE

Dear Annabelle,

I'm a pensioner and fishing is my main recreation, especially the Chilliwack-Vedder River system. I'm really getting worried by what's happening to this beautiful watershed.

Last fall there were some very heavy rains, and the sudden flooding washed out one of the bridges on the main access road along the Chilliwack. It also washed away a lot of riverside land and did terrible damage to spawning grounds for steelhead, trout and salmon.

Some smart-Aleck logger types say the damage would have happened with that much rain anyway, but a lot of us think the big problem is all the clearcut areas in the watershed.

With so much of the forest cover gone from the slopes, there's not much to slow the rain run-off or even hold the topsoil together. So why does logging get priority when the river is the most popular fishing spot in all the Fraser Valley region? It also has been designated a "recreational corridor" for use by kayakers, hikers, naturalist, bird watchers, campers, picnickers, Boy Scouts and others.

I've been up some tributary valleys and seen terrible logging methods -- some on slopes so steep that runaway logs spear into the creek beds like giant fence posts.

It's time the government forced these big fat logging companies to use methods (like selective logging) that are less damaging to the environment. Loggers should no longer automatically get the right to trash all our best watersheds. Do my grandchildren have to live in a wasteland just so some big corporations can get rich?

Signed: IZAAK WALTON

Dear Izaak,

You've got me convinced. Why not send a copy of your letter to Mr. Claude Richmond, Minister of Forests, Parliament Buildings, Victoria? And if any readers agree with what the letter says, they could clip it and send it to the minister too, with their names added.

Readers: Did you hear the one about the travelling tractor salesman who ran away with the farmer's wife? The poor farmer didn't know what had happened until he got the John Deere letter...

Star readers are invited to mail in their questions or problems to ASK ANNABELLE. Use a nom de plume if you wish. The address is ASK ANNABELLE, c-o The Aldergrove Star, Box 220, Aldergrove, B.C. V0X 1A0.

"Allowing Jesus to be Head over all things to His Church"

"ABUSED"

There are many kinds of abuse; mental, physical, sexual. I have suffered some of these and I wish to share with you, that even though you may have suffered some or all of these, there is hope.

I grew up knowing physical and mental abuse. I felt that I could do nothing right. When I became a teenager I started to rebel. After I was married I thought everything would turn about for me until three months after I was married I discovered my husband had a violent temper. He began to beat me and verbally abuse me. My self-esteem went down to zero.

Out of desperation I started watching Christian TV shows. I saw what I wanted -- peace, joy, love, companionship. But reality hit again when my husband came home.

I started to dread his coming home. I was afraid of him and even started to hate him. Again I turned to Christian shows. I began to cry and started to pray the sinner's prayer. I felt a sense of release and I knew that all my sins were forgiven. I felt a weight being lifted off my shoulders. I had found Jesus. I was born again. I was at peace.

Now I'm not saying that my problems stopped, they didn't. But, through Jesus, I received grace and strength to get through the next several years.

I am now happy to say that my husband also knows Jesus as his personal Saviour. Our marriage is now the most beautiful relationship I could ever want. Jesus is the only way. I know because I tried several other avenues, none of which could give me what Jesus Christ has given me.

If you are in a situation that is similar to what mine was, I encourage you to seek Jesus. He will never leave you nor forsake you. His love for you is so deep. He died on the cross for you and me so that we might have life and have it more abundantly. Please seek Him today. You'll never regret it.

- Sherri Azyan

"DELIVERANCE"

They call me Drugs and Rage, but you can call me Satan. Let me tell you about one of my slaves. He was offered a marijuana cigarette and was hooked. First it was occasionally, then every day.

When he got married, I believe he thought that was the way out of his problems. But the drugs went along with him and a new aspect was added -- anger. The cash for drugs was going to the family and this upset him to the point of rage. The drugs now controlled him. His wife and children were on the receiving end of his anger. Later he couldn't remember why he was angry. The situation got so bad that his wife left him but she gave him another chance.

One day he came home from work and was going to do something in the barn. He came out of the barn in a rage. He spanked the kids black and blue. When his wife tried to stop him, he threw her around. With tears in his eyes, he broke down and cried. His wife and kids went into the house and something I never expected, happened. He got down on his knees and asked God to help him. I lost him and this guy, Jesus, appears to me. He says to me, "Be gone, for he belongs to me."

The story you have read is true. I was that drug addicted, angry man who thought there was no way out. But when I asked God to help me, he did. I asked Jesus into my heart. I no longer needed or wanted drugs and the anger went away. Praise the Lord. Glory be to God.

The Lord bless.

- Randy Azyan

"MARRIAGE RESTORED"

At the age of eighteen, I had fallen in love with someone special. He was a truck driver and I was a waitress. Over a period of four and a half years of living together, we had two children. Later we got married, but my life was in turmoil. My husband had love for me, but cared more for drinking and being carefree. I thought, "What is life all about?" I was so frustrated. Life did not have much meaning to it.

But then something happened. I accepted the Lord Jesus as my saviour. The Lord gave me real peace. I learned to rely on Jesus and to put my faith and trust in him. Life was positive now. I could bring everything to the Lord. I prayed for my husband's salvation daily. I just kept believing that my husband would come to know the Lord and I just showed him love and did not criticize him. When I kept praying and trusting, God performed a miracle. My husband accepted the Lord and the Lord gave him a real love for me. To this day, the Lord continues to make our marriage really special.

- Shirley Holt

"CHANGED"

Who would have believed it, that I would be asked to write a few lines on love. Me, of all people, who never ever said once to anyone in all my childhood upbringing that I loved, or ever cared for anyone in my family. Basically, we all did what we wanted to do, as no one cared for anyone else or even what they did.

My childhood upbringing had no happy times as I could remember. It took thirty-three years of my life before things changed. One day while in a truck, I heard of a guy called 'Jesus' who said that he loved me, and that he died for me, and that he wanted me to have a better life. I just couldn't believe it. He said that he would give me a new heart. Wow! Not knowing where to find it in the Bible, I just believed what he was talking about and said, "Lord, I can't love with this heart, as I don't know how. I need a change."

I never went to church before and I guess what had happened was, I just believed, just like the woman in the Bible that was diseased with an issue of blood, and at that very moment of belief, I received a new heart. From that moment on I was able to honestly tell my wife that I loved her and also to tell my brothers and sister. You know something? When I told them that I loved them, they didn't know what to say.

Now when we talk to each other, we close with saying, "I love you."

Thank you, Lord.

ROLLOVER OF PENSION INCOME — YOUR LAST CHANCE!

Effective January 1st, 1990, periodic private pension income (Company Pension, Superannuation, DPSP payments), Canada Pension Plan payments and Old Age Security payments will no longer be eligible for deposit into your RRSP. For tax year 1989, 100 percent of these amounts can be deposited into your RRSP and while the provision for such deposit stops at the end of December, 1989, THE DEPOSIT CAN STILL BE MADE UP TO MARCH 1st, 1990 (UNLESS YOU TURNED 71 IN 1989).

For tax year 1989, you also have the choice of treating pension income as "earned income" which means that 20 percent of the income (maximum $7,500) can be deposited either into your RRSP or your spouse's RRSP. Effective with 1990 tax year, you will not be able to treat pension income as earned income, although you still have until March 1st, 1990 to make a 1989 contribution.

Effective with tax year 1989, you can make a deposit of up to $6,000 of private pension income into your spouse's RRSP. However, this must be a payment out of a superannuation plan (or the relatively rare deferred profit sharing plans). Canada Pension Plan and Old Age Security payments do not qualify for the $6,000 "spousal RRSP deposit". For the 1989 tax year, the most advantageous course of action that you should take will depend on the amount and source of your pension income, the importance of splitting of income with your spouse and the relative ages of the spouses. Rather than go through all of the possible scenarios in this article, please accept this information as your invitation to phone Chuck should you wish to discuss which is the most advantageous option for you.

For tax years 1990-1994, there will be very little choice as to how to handle your RRSP contributions. If you have no earned income from salary, wages or net rent and receive only pension income, your only choice is to make the $6,000 per year spousal RRSP contributions (bearing in mind that Canada Pension Plan and Old Age Security payments do not qualify). It is also possible that two spouses, both receiving pensions, could each make a $6,000 contribution into each other's RRSPs and thus still defer tax on $12,000 of family income.

Assuming that you have he cashflow to make an RRSP contribution in your spouse's name, and you are in receipt of pension income, we note that generally it is in your best interest to make the RRSP deposit.

Duty free retailers get international award

ALDERGROVE - Greg Bloudell, president of the Aldergrove Duty Free Shop Ltd. announced that the Frontier Duty Free Association has received international industry recognition for the "Best Marketing Campaign by a Retailer".

Greg Bloudell of Aldergrove Duty Free Shop Ltd.

The award, considered the equivalent of an "Oscar" in the international duty free industry, was awarded at the Tax Free World Exhibition in Cannes, France. It was one of only six presented by the industry, which includes more than 2,500 duty free shops with sales of $12-billion.

In presenting the award, the judges praised "not only the input of the 26 (Canadian) member stores individually, (but also) the magnificent work of their trade association, the FDFA."

The Frontier Duty Free Association was established five years ago to broaden the horizons of the duty free industry, promote tourism and increase public awareness of duty free shopping. Representing more than 100 Canadian and American land border and airport duty free stores, the FDFA expects sales in excess of $250-million in 1989.

Cameron McCormick, after finishing second in the arena-cross series in Cloverdale.

Life's a gas for nimble youth

By TIM ATTWOOD

MISSION - Life is a gas for twelve year old Cameron McCormick. The bright eyed, boisterous youth is causing people to do a double take as he climbs through local motocross ranks. Cameron rode a motorcycle for the first time last year. He entered his first race in June aboard a Kawasaki KX 80cc. He has twelve trophys and five prizes for the eighteen races he ran on outdoor tracks, but can also boast two seconds in arenacross. He added a third second place finish to his record at the last round of the Molson Canadian arenacross series last week in Cloverdale. After leading for most of the race he was squeezed out in the final turn.

He traded his Kawasaki for a new Yamaha YZ. "The Yamaha was quicker on the bottom end", says Cameron's mechanic and father. In true "go faster" tradition, Cameron uses the classic feet on the pegs, throttle pinned riding style. It's not only effective but the only way he can ride. You see, Cameron is - well - short. So short he cannot touch the ground from his perch on top ot the Yamaha. Dad has to hold the bike upright in the starting gate until he leaves the line. But, it's a little wonder why he is one of the fastest young riders on the circuit; he routinely rides with Canada's best, Jay Chenier and Allen Dyck among them.

Racing motocross is more than fun for Cameron, it's therapy. When Cameron was born, only five percent of the kidneys were formed leaving him without any kidney function. He made medical history, being the first child placed on cyclosporin. It assisted what kidney he had to function to some degree, until a virus caused the drug to attack the kidney. The result was two years on dialysis until Cameron's kidney transplant, four years ago.

Doctors originally advised against even horseback riding, but later said motocross could help stimulate kidney function. Cameron's dad admits in the beginning he was worried about his son crashing and maybe getting a handlebar in the kidneys, but agrees motocross seems to be working. Cameron has gained weight and started to grow.

The pair can be spotted at most of the local events, although they have travelled as far as Port Alberni. Cameron, while staying with the 80cc for awhile longer will probably move up one class from last year.

Downscale the trash!

MURRAYVILLE - Householders in the lower mainland must reduce the amount of garbage they produce, Ald. Muriel Arnason advised Monday night. This, she said, must be done by recycling and composting.

Other councilors agree.

When municipal garbage collection begins this spring, the trucks will take away three bags a week per household. "Later in the year," said Mayor John Beales, "this will be reduced to two bags."

However, for people who cannot compost or in other ways get rid of some of their waste, the option will still exist of buying bags, at 65 cents each, to have additional bags hauled away, the mayor said.

Seniors enjoy 'Winter Wonder'

By MAUDIE MacPHERSON

ALDERGROVE - While I was enjoying condo living in Kelowna last week Opal did a fine job in keeping everyone informed on seniors news. Thanks Opal.

Our bus trip was interesting, the weather was good and travelling through Manning Park was like a winter wonderland. The trees had little balls of snow, fastened to their limbs just like Christmas decorations; but the scene soon changed and once out of the park there was no snow, even in Kelowna. As I mentioned condo living is a different life style, and when the time comes in your life that a house and yard are too much work, I'm sure a condo with all its amenities is certainly the answer.

The Wednesday dance had a crowd of forty-seven. Winners of the Spot Dance were Fran Ganton and Frank Luxton. Fifty-fifty draw was won by Florence Mehden and Charlie Reid.

Saturday dance was down in attendance; sixty-two was the count. Door prizes were won by Mary Sanderson and Norm Short. Spot dance prizes went to Alfredo Freemont and Elsie Wild, and Georgina Onstine and Nap La Fonde. Other prizes went to Stella Jackson and Frank Muff.

There were several visitors; Geri and Norm Short from Bellingham, Nels Rickard from Fresno, California and Louise Schedder from Chilliwack and Josie Kowalinski from Langley.

Six bands performed at the Jamboree on Sunday, Jan. 21. Though the dance attendance was smaller this week, everyone enjoyed themselves.

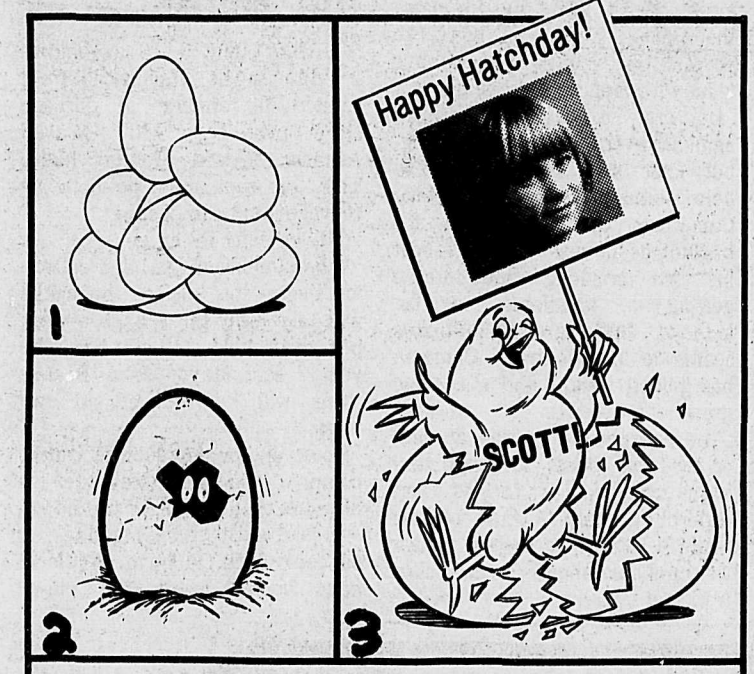
There was a good crowd at Carpet Bowling Thursday afternoon. Three carpets were in play. A few first time bowlers were there, the Bowers, and Ria, Ev Zytveld's daughter who brought her Dad joined in as well. Evert has not been well so we were all glad to see him out and hope he continues to improve.

The Art Club are planning an Art Show in Langley Mall, April 5, 6 and 7. This is a little premature, but I will give you more information later.

On Monday, Jan. 15, the Choral Group resumed practice, the first of the year. There was a good crowd and everyone enjoyed coffee and a bit of socializing after practice.

Don't forget the Whist party, Thursday, Jan. 25 in the OAP hall at 7:30 p.m. Hope to see you there.

That seems to be all for this week, except for this thought: "The only thing worse than being old and bent is being young and broke."



Lotsa hugs, kisses, smooches & all that mushy stuff!
Uncle Keith, Auntie Lynda & Tamara.

Home-based business workshops

LANGLEY - Small business firms which employ less than five people are responsible for over 75 percent of the total jobs created in the province since 1975.

The home has proven to be an effective incubator, allowing time for small businesses to grow and establish themselves without the burden of large overhead costs. Most home businesses, if successful, will graduate from the home and move to a commercial or industrial location. Unfortunately, about 80 percent of these businesses fail within the first two to five years.

To increase the awareness of the legitimate nature of home-based businesses and to increase the success rate of home entrepreneurs, the Ministry of Regional Development has undertaken the Home-Based Business Program.

The Ministry has developed two eight hour workshops to assist entrepreneurs in starting up and successfully operating a Home Based Business. Topics covered in Workshop No. 1 include: entrepreneurship, preparing a business plan, marketing surveys and strategies, and financial planning. Workshop No. 2 will address how to effectively market Home Based Business products and services.

Dates: Workshop No. 1 - Feb. 27 and 28 and Workshop No. 2 - March 6 and 7, 6:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. at Langley Conference Centre.

Costs is Workshop No. 1 - $30. and Workshop No. 2 - $48.

Fees include all course material, workbooks and coffee and are refundable if participant is dissatisfied.

For information or registration call: Aldergrove Chamber - 856-8383, Langley Chamber - 530-6656, or Fort Langley Chamber - 888-1477.
