NOW IS THE TIME

Important decisions to make

By IAN CAMERON

ALDERGROVE - This is it. Before you read the next edition of this newspaper, you will be called upon to make some pretty heavy decisions.

Or do you care?

This coming Saturday it is up to you, dear reader, as a taxpaying property owner or tenant in Langley, to decide if you desperately need and want more than $14-million worth of new publicly owned recreational facilities.

You can say yes or no - as you please - to the spending of this money. If it is 'yes', then you should of course realize that it will come out of your wallet during the next 20 years. Whether or not you believe your mayor, John Beales, that it only means you shall have to forsake "one small glass of wine or half a package of cigarettes a week" in order to pay for the three mega projects -- well, that too is up to you.

If you think you really need that $7.5-million cultural arts centre, the $3.8-million extra ice skating rink and that $2.5-million community centre in Walnut Grove, well then you should show up at the ballot box on Saturday and say so.

If you are afraid that you cannot afford the added tax or rent increase occasioned by the building and guaranteed taxpayer subsidized deficit operation of these edifices, why then you ought to tell your elected officials that.

It is totally up to you.

When the weekend is over, once more you go to the polls, dear reader, as on Monday, November 21, you decide on what representation you want to have in the nation's capital.

In this riding of Fraser Valley West, you can vote for the incumbent Conservative candidate, or you may choose from a Liberal, an NDP, or a member of any of the three fledgling parties: Christian Heritage, Reform or Libertarian. (For more information on the individual candidates, see page 2 as well as individual campaign ads inside this newspaper). You may choose to select your candidate on the basis of where he or she stands on issues important to you.

The Free Trade proposition - as we all know - seems to have taken on enormous proportions in this 1988 federal election campaign. I am not sure this is warranted.

Whether or not free trade with the U.S.A. goes through, the universe will keep on unfolding the way it should. You can believe that.

However, it is of importance.

The agreement negotiated between the Brian Mulroney government and Washington could be good for Canada and in particular B.C. It could be good for our beleaguered lumber industry, and a lot of British Columbians depend upon that industry in one way or another.

We are rapidly approaching the 21st century, and Canada cannot keep on hiding behind an isolationist wall.

Sometimes we are called upon to take calculated risks.

No doubt, there are pluses and minuses to accepting the Simon Reisman proposal. So, if you are concerned about this issue, you also should make up your own mind. But for God's sake, don't believe in the political rhetoric that has been flung at you from both sides. Don't let yourself be fooled into the belief that the Tories, the Grits, or the Socialists have a monopoly on Canadian patriotism. That just isn't so.

"Is it going to be good for me, and is it going to be good for my country?" is the question you should be asking yourself.

And then, act accordingly on Monday.

Teachers rally over negotiations

LANGLEY - Teachers rallied at the school district offices, Monday afternoon, to hear B.C. Teachers' Federation president, Elsie McMurphy.

Teachers also constructed a billboard on the lawn, demanding that the school board "make it fly" --- a reference to stalled contract negotiations.

Langley Teachers' Association president, Peter Owens said the board is not following the spirit of Bills 19 and 20, by refusing to negotiate terms of employment into the contract.

LTA officer Lou Anthony told The Star that the issues are not concerned with money, but rather appear to be a "power thing" on the part of school administration.

"The issues were all accepted for years under the School Act, and when Bill 20 abolished the School Act last year, these issues were supposed to be negotiated into contract under Bill 19," said Anthony.

McMurphy exhorted the crowd with a request to "think, feel and act like a profession.

"It's not someone else's responsibility to define our jobs, our hours, by some whimsy of process."

She said administrative power and control is not threatened, and drew a parallel with other professions. "Does a hospital tell doctors and nurses how to do their job?"

Owens also said that the board has refused to take their lawyer, Mary Saunders out of the negotiating room, and therefore the LTA has borrowed the services of nurses' union negotiator, Ray Haynes.

The school board has criticized the LTA for taking the negotiations to the public, and has not been eager to respond publicly, yet. The board did issue a statement last week, which said the major disagreement is over the present process for teacher evaluation by the administration.

Library collapsing under its own weight?

By RUDY LANGMANN

MURRAYVILLE - It is falling apart like an old book.

The Fraser Valley public library system is collapsing under its own weight, if you are to believe civic politicians here.

They are "building an empire", aldermen say about the people who run the library.

If the library were not a separate body, but a function directly under municipal government's jurisdiction, it is safe to say that these charges wouldn't be hurled.

It is costing more and more to operate the library system. The cost is charged to member municipalities who in turn must pass it on to their local ratepayers.

(See also letters to the editor.)

Municipal politicians throughout the lower mainland have long been grumbling abut this cost. And when the library board of directors earlier this year announced a budget increase of more than 11 percent, the complaints became more audible. Langley council instructed their board representative, Ald. Muriel Arnason, to inform the library officials that this township would go for an eight percent increase, but not a dime more.

The Fraser Valley Regional Library board persisted. They needed their 11 percent-plus increase.

Arnason voted agsint the library budget. She was the only one doing so, she says. But that does not mean that the rest of the member municipalities are happy. Far be it from it.

Delta served notice that they are opting out of the FVRL. White Rock would follow them. Surrey did the same thing - and for the same reason: cost -- some five or six years ago. Richmond also decided to go their own way.

If Delta quits the Library in 1990 (two years notice is required), it leaves Langley as the major "shareholder". This is not an exact pleasing prospect to polticians here.

Consequently, they are talking about pulling out as well. Perhaps joining forces with Richmond and White Rock in setting up a new joint library system. Or perhaps merging the public and school library systems in Langley into one unit.

And what is the cause of all this discontent? Aldermen blame the library administration. The FVRL board obviously "cannot control expenses", they say.

Several councilmen refer to the directors as "empire builders."

At the same time as book stocks are dwindling and library branch opening hours are cut shorter, they say, the administration is investing in expensive buildings and sophisticated computers.

The library's new central administration building in Abbotsford has long been a thorn in the side of local politicians. The costly

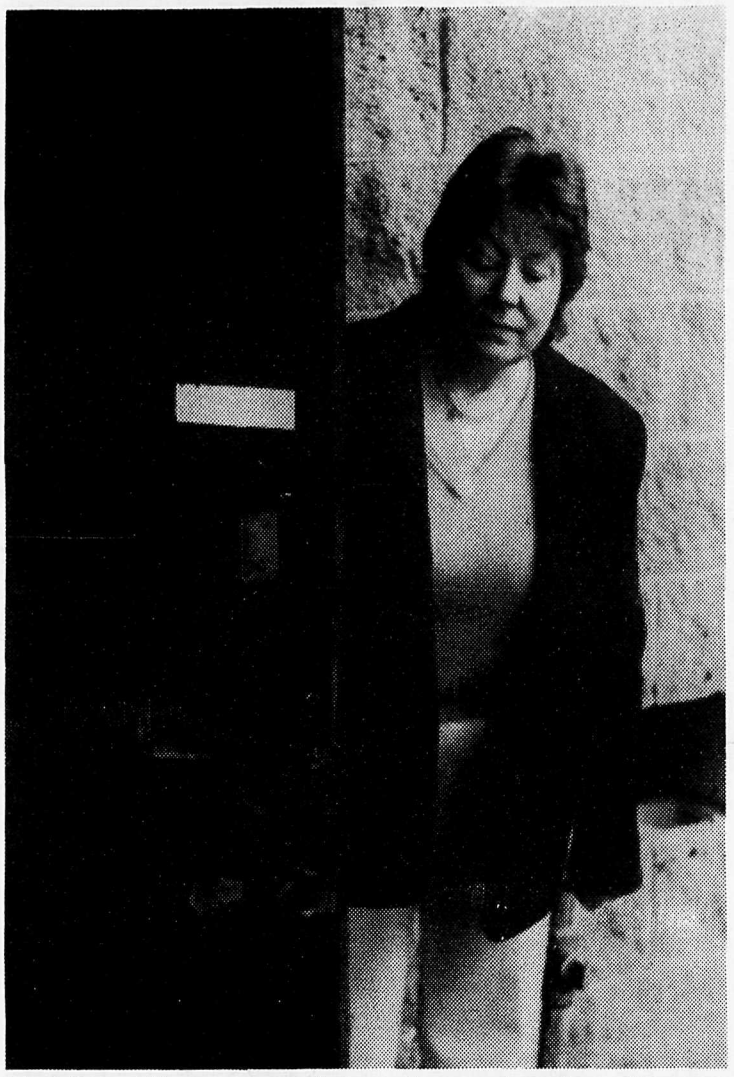
Park vandals overboard

ALDERGROVE - Vandals caused a substantial amount of damage to Aldergrove Park, sometime in the early hours of Sunday morning.

It seems that none of the nearby residents heard suspicious sounds, but when caretaker Madeline Gilmore went to open the gates on Sunday morning, she saw profanity written across the large parking lot.



Madeline Gilmore says that continuing vandalism at Aldergrove Park leaves taxpayers with no alternative but to enforce park curfews. Someone used a pick-axe on a door at the sports facility, Sunday morning and caused other damages.

Vandals had used ten 100-pound bags of lime, stolen from the announcer's booth.

The booth, used for storage by sports groups, had been broken into, and the vandals had taken a heavy pick-axe to break down a door in the changing rooms and concession building nearby. The vandals gained entry to the furnace room, and then crawled above the ceiling to the concession room. They didn't find much there but they did knock several ceiling panels down on their way in and out.

The tally for the damage is quite substantial, but is not as great as it could have been, said municipal parks foreman, Randy Greenizan.

"These were not small kids. The metal door they broke through has a one-and-a-half hour fire rating," said Greenizan.

He added that Aldergrove Park has not experienced an extra-ordinary, high rate of vandalism.

"It comes in waves. One year ago it was real bad in Brookswood Park.

"The caretaker (ast Aldergrove Park) is right on the money. Gord (Madeline's husband) puts the run on kids who are there after park hours," said Greenizan.

Madeline Gilmore said her duties are basically to open the gates before 8 a.m. and to lock the parking lot at dusk. However, the couple do their best to listen for trouble, as community-minded tax-payers, and they encourage other neighbours and passersby to call the RCMP if there is something suspicious taking place.

"It's a very nice park, and most of the kids who use it, appreciate it," said Gord. "There's just this small minority who have caused so much damage. We have no choice but to enforce the curfew as best we can."

"The damage costs come out of taxpayers' pockets," adds Madeline. "We all have to pay for it."

Municipal crews have cleaned up and repaired most of the mess, and investigating police officers are doing their best to follow up on some clues left at the scene. However, all parties concerned would appreciate it if citizens would call the RCMP, 534-4184, when they spot trouble.

Municipalities opt out computer system they installed added fuel to the fire.

"We must have better production for our money," commented Ald. Aubrey Searle this week.

"Maybe we should serve notice now as well," said Ald. Terry Thorne. "Perhaps that will rattle them, bring them to their senses."

Delta and White Rock will be discussing a joint system. Langley might join this study, at a cost to this municipality of about $20,000.

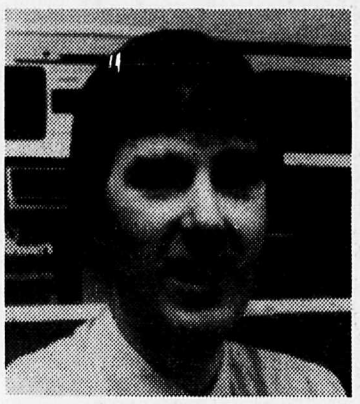
If the three dissidents leave the FVRL, only a few smaller municipalities and scattered school boards will remain.

That could well spell the end of the regional library.

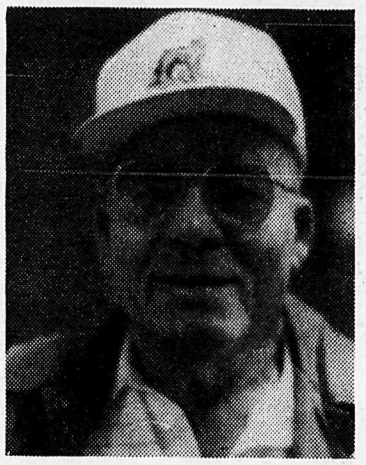
TOWN TALK

By LYNDA ELLIS

Question: A group of businessmen want to build a motorsport park in a gravel pit, south of Aldergrove. How do you feel about this proposal?

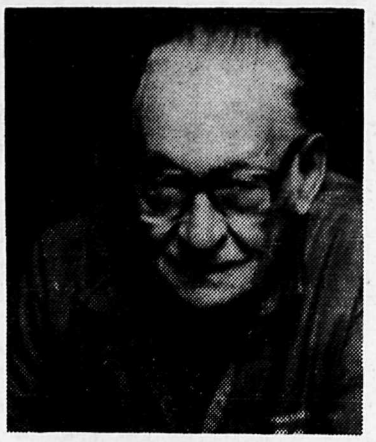


RON BRUCE: Total support! Good for the community as it will bring in people from outlying areas.

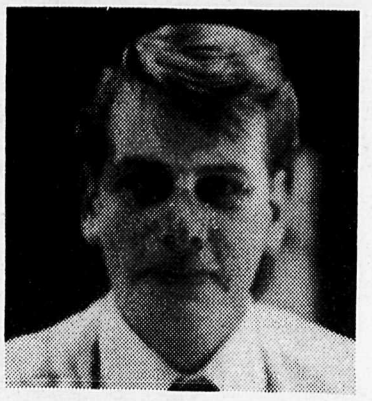


DON PERRY: I don't think we need it because there's too many sports facilities now.

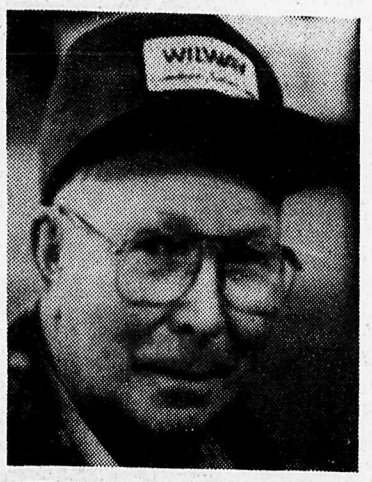
LINDA BEAUCHEMIN: I'm for it. It'll bring people into town. Good for tourism and business.



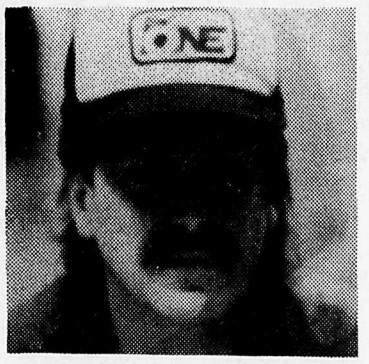
JACK HOULDEN: I don't think much of it, really.



PAT MacCARTHY: It would create jobs and bring industry into the area.



TED HANSEN: I don't race cars or motorcycles, so why should I go for it?



GARRY BROWN: I think it would do nothing but bring prosperity to the area.

On Saturday, Nov. 19, all Langley Township Voters will be asked for their vote on two referendas:

1 YES or NO: "A Community Cultural Centre"

2 YES or NO: "Northwest Langley Community Centre and an Additional Civic Centre Ice Arena"

(See advertisements on page 7 for full details, where to vote, etc.)

On Monday, Nov. 21 all Canadian Voters will choose a new federal government.

In Fraser Valley West (Aldergrove) you may choose one of these candidates:

- FAIRALL, Lynn (New Democrats)
- MARSDEN, Wayne (Libertarian)

Pensioners' problem not really that serious

ALDERGROVE - Local MLA Dan Peterson said he shares the concerns of the senior citizens at Pioneer Park over a 75 percent increase in the assessment values of their property, but he said the "bottom line" on their annual tax bill will not be as great an increase, if any.

Peterson told The Star that he met with Municipal Affairs Minister Rita Johnson over the issue, six times last year. The result was that, with the Homeowners' Grant allowed to seniors, most of the residents were only required to pay the minimum tax of $100 annually, and no further remedy was required.

Even a 75 percent increase on the land value will not raise the tax for many of the residents.

In the case of any B.C. senior who is unable to pay their taxes, the taxes can be deferred under the Land Tax Deferment Act. Any senior can apply to the Ministry of Finance and Corporate Relations, for deferment of property taxes on their principal residence, until such time that the property is sold or until the death of the applicant provided there is no surviving spouse. The Act is available to seniors, widows or widowers, or handicapped persons. Simple interest is charged.

This "safety net" would accommodate any extreme cases of hardship, asserted Peterson.

While he was not in favor of a 75 percent increase on assessments, Peterson did not agree with spokesmen for Pioneer Park, who said they should not be taxed on land leased from the Matsqui Indian Band.

"Everyone has to pay for their services through property taxes, whether it's private land or land leased from the Crown. That's the way it has to be; I can't think of a fairer way," said Peterson.

In an interview with The Star (Nov. 3, 1988), the Pioneer Park committee said more than 180 of the 244 homeowners have filed appeals with the Court of Revision.

The spokesmen said they realized that a 75 percent increase in assessment would not automatically mean a 75 percent increase in property taxes. However, as the current year's mill-rate has not yet been set, and as it would also hinge on the outcome of the Nov. 19 municipal money referendas, they had no way of calculating what they could expect on their next tax bill.

"We set this up as a non-profit co-operative so that we wouldn't be at the mercy of landlords in our later years, while most of us are on fixed pensions," said a spokesman. "If there's too much financial pressure on some of us, we may be forced to go into a care facility before we would otherwise. That is a great financial burden on society, to pay for that treatment, while we can live here at practically no cost to taxpayers."

Use of polls has no value

What pollsters are calling one of the most amazing turnarounds in the brief history of their calling — the sudden surge of the Liberal Party to the top of the heap — is not reason enough to continue releasing to the public an almost daily glut of opinion sampling done during election campaigns.

Do poll results contribute anything at all to the enlightenment of a nation during an election campaign? Of course not. Their chief purpose is to gauge the public's perception of a campaign's effectiveness, and to allow the image-makers to react accordingly — to dress a wolf in sheep's clothing, if need be, or vice versa.

The embracing of public opinion polls to fine-tune product marketing techniques during an election campaign is bad enough, but it is hardly the only sin committed through their use.

The reversal of John Turner's fortunes notwithstanding, the release of polling results during election campaigns poses a significant danger because it has been shown that they tend to be self-perpetuating. What pollsters pick up, over time, is not the true picture of public sentiment, but a parroting of the results of the most recent survey.

Another, equally significant danger of polling results is that they create a strong perception of winners and underdogs. Despite myths to the contrary, the public prefers to back a sure winner. If a poll result convinces just one undecided voter to support the leading candidate only because he or she is shown to be ahead of the pack, a serious disservice is done to the democratic process.

In the current federal race, we have seen yet another dark side to poll results. Rather than concentrate on presenting the differences in policy platforms espoused by candidates, the media has been seduced by neat, no-work packages of polling figures, using them as a platform to launch analysis after analysis of a campaign's effectiveness or ineffectiveness. Don't tell us who is or is not leading, and why: tell us what the candidates are saying, and what it means for the future of Canada.

As far as ordinary citizens should be concerned, the disadvantages of polling results far outweigh the benefits to the public good, particularly during an election campaign. The real value of the results — which is nil — combined with the opportunity to stage-manage the foisting of a sad bill of goods on the public, is enough to warrant banning release of the findings.

Free trade info for the asking

With only a few days remaining before we cast ballots in the federal election, and with the proposed free trade deal between Canada and the U.S. at the top of the issues list, this appears to be a good time to point out where the last-minute, undecided voter can shop for further information.

The best bet, of course, is to browse through the campaign offices of the local candidates.

Let's start with the Tories. Their office has a copy of the text of the complete Free Trade Agreement (FTA), which is available for perusal but not for distribution. Also on hand is Evaluating The Fine Print: The Free Trade Agreement and Western Canada, published out of Calgary by the Canada West Foundation and based on four years of research on the issue. And then there is Let's Get It Straight, a photocopied page from the Toronto Globe & Mail containing an article by Simon Reesman, who led the Canadian team that negotiated the deal. A summary of the main points of the deal, it makes for easy reading.

Now to the NDP office. There, you'll find a wealth of material, ranging from pamphlets to booklets to photocopied exerpts from newspaper articles. You'll find On Guard For Thee, the full text of ex-judge Marjorie Bowker's review of the FTA, plus a synopsis of that review. There is What's The Big Deal?, a booklet of material originally published in the Montreal Gazette, and The Facts on Free Trade - Canada: Don't Trade It Away, a thick book from the Canadian Union of Public Employees, and Selling Canada's Environment Short: The Environmental Case Against Free Trade, put together by a coalition of environmental groups from all across Canada. Also available is Free Trade: What's In It For Business, a pamphlet put out by the Community Business and Professional Associastion of Canada, and several other photocopies of various pamphlets and newspaper articles.

If you don't like dropping into a campaign office you might just want to visit a bookstore stocked with material covering all sides of the issue. Along with some of the publications listed above (i.e., the Bowker Report), there are publications like Canada Not For Sale: The Case Against Free Trade, a collection of articles from well-known Canadians and introduced by Mel Hurtig. Also, The Facts On Free Trade, edited by Ed Finn and Duncan Cameron, copies of the agreement itself, and Free Trade: The Inside Story, a pro-trade book written by John Crispo.

Coming in later this week is a new book, written by a private citizen in support of the deal and being published in Ontario.

There you have it. Happy reading.

Hello, Dolly!

Last question. If the elections were held today would you vote for Mulroney or Turner or Broadbent or Dolly Parton?

Turner's finance record

OTTAWA - If history is any guide -- and Liberal Leader John Turner says it is -- a Turner government would create jobs even faster than the Conservatives while expanding tax breaks for some individuals and corporations.

But the deficit and inflation would jump sharply.

That is the record of Turner's years as finance minister from January 1972 to September 1975.

It is the record he urges voters to consult as he asks them to trust him, despite his refusal to say how he would pay for the more than $30-billion in new spending he has promised over the next four years if he wins the Nov. 21 election.

Inflation was running at 4.9 percent when Turner took over the portfolio. By the time he left, with skyrocketing Middle East oil prices causing havoc in all western nations, it was 10.6 percent. One month later the government announced wage and price controls.

The annual deficit, now almost $30-billion, was $1.54-billion in 1971-72, before Turner took the reins.

In his last budget, in 1975, he projected the deficit that year at $4.97 billion -- an increase of 222 percent. By the end of the 1975-76 fiscal year, seven months after Turner resigned, it was actually $5.7-billion.

But just over one million jobs were created, an increase of 13 percent. By comparison, 1.3 million jobs have been added since Prince Minister Brian Mulroney came to office, an increase of 11.7 percent.

Turner's first budget, delivered just a few months before an election, was directed mainly to helping business.

The top corporate income tax rate was cut to 40 percent from 49 percent for profits from manufaacturing and processing in Canada.

But Turner also tied increases in the old age pensions to increases in the cost of living.

In 1973, expanding indexing to the tax system itself, he dropped an estimated 225,000 low-income people off the tax rolls, cut personal income tax by five percent and eliminated the federal sales tax on some items.

In 1974, he slapped a 10 percent surtax on corporate profits but halved the federal sales tax on building materials and construction equipment, exempted the first $1,000 of interest and dividend income from taxation, and introduced the Registered Home Ownership Savings Plan, which allowed taxpayers to set aside up to $1,000 a year free of tax towards a new home.

In his final year, with the deficit mounting to what was then a record, he reversed course, raising taxes slightly on people earning more than $25,365 a year and zapping consumers with a 10-cent-a-gallon increase in the excise tax on gasoline.

Turner's record doesn't end there, even though he returned to private life.

From a gold-tinted office tower in Toronto, he decried what he said were the free-spending days of Pierre Trudeau and the mounting deficit that went with them.

In 1984, campaigning to succeed Trudeau, he promised to slash the deficit - by then about $30-billion a year - to $15-billion over seven years. He told one interviewer that restoring health to public finances was one of his main reasons for returning to politics.

In the election that followed, he accused Mulroney of trying to "bribe the electors of this country with the taxpayers' own money," citing estimates that the Conservative platform would cost $20-billion over four years.

If elected, he added, Mulroney would have three choices.

"He would either have to welch on those promises because he could not fulfil them or he would have to raise taxes or, because of the extent of those promises, he would have to cut into our social programs."

Turner seems to have had a change of heart. Now he is the one with the expensive promises. And he is the one who won't say how he will pay for them.

Why not wait?

Editor, The Star, Sir,

A few weeks ago I wrote a letter to each Langley municpal alderman asking them to state their position on the upcoming referendum.

Only Muriel Arnason had the courtesy to respond.

I think it's important that we know the position of each alderman so if we are unhappy with the referendum, we can make an informed decision next election.

I also asked why we could not have waited until the next municipal election to hold the referendum.

Surely this would have saved a lot of money and also would have forced each candidate to take a position on this huge expenditure.

Money for the mind

Editor, The Star, Sir,

On November 19, Langley residents have the opportunity to do something positive for their community by voting "yes" on the referenda to authorize the building of a community cultural centre, an additional ice arena and a community centre in northwest Langley. Unfortunately, Langley has a history of requiring a number of runs at it before finally agreeing to spend money. By the time we do agree to build such facilities, inflation has escalated the costs so that we either get much less than we originally planned, or we pay much more for it without having had the benefit of its use in the meantime.

I recall that Jerry McGeer, the mayor of Vancouver in the 1930s, was roundly condemned for having the nerve to build a new city hall away out of the centre of the city and especially such an "expensive edifice". It wasn't many years later that he was hailed as a man of vision and that "edifice" still serves Vancouver well.

I have always been perplexed about the emphasis in our community on providing sports-related facilities to the virtual exclusion of facilities for the artistic side of lives. We seem to have been prepared to spend money for muscles but not for the mind. Surely, as with the body, so with our community, we need to develop the muscles and the mind.

I noticed an editorial in the Vancouver Sun of November 7 that referred to a recent finding that Americans are visiting museums and galleries in expanding numbers, buying more books and participating in cultural organizations at unprecedented levels. It also referred to the fact that 20 years ago Americans spent twice as much on sports as they did on culture but in 1986 cultural spending surpassed that spent on sports. I note that Canadian studies show a similar picture.

For over 25 years I have paid taxes on my home in the township of Langley and on my business property in the city of Langley. I personally do not use our ice arenas, our swimming pools or our playing fields but I am delighted to see others in our community doing so. I am quite prepared to pay my share of the taxes needed to provide such facilities for that is part of living in a community.

Most of us have knee-jerk reaction when it comes to paying taxes but I wonder how many of us consider the services that are provided by our taxes. A residence in the township of Langley assessed at $100,000.00 had gross taxes in 1988 of approximately $1,500.00. After deducting the homeowner grant of $380, the net was $1,120.00 or approximately $93 a month. If the owner is a senior there is another $250 off the taxes for a net of $870, being $72.50 a month. For that we have our children or grandchildren educated, receive fire and police protection, have our roads maintained, have parks, arenas, swimming pools, libraries and someone to administer it all for us. It strikes me as a good return for our money.

We have the rare opportunity to do something worthwhile for our community by voting 'yes' and we will never do it any cheaper.

Centre sorely needed

Editor, The Star, Sir,

The arts community in Langley is very much in need of the proposed community cultural centre.

The respective institutions to be using the facilities are known on a national and international scale and have been the backbone of the arts in Langley for close to 20 years. These institutions, namely the Langley Community Music School, the Langley Players, the National Exhibition Centre and the Langley Arts Council deserve to be recognized so that their work can continue for the future benefit of the community.

As a professional pianist and touring artist for overture concerts, I have played in almost every town in B.C. that presents public concerts. I have encountered magnificient theatre-concert hall facilities in terms of audience and performer in such towns as Dawson Creek, Fort St. John, Powell River, Terrace, Kitimat, Prince George, Quadra, Surrey, Abbotsford. Small towns, of course, use school lunch rooms, libraries, gymnasiums or whatever, as we do in Langley. Generally speaking, towns such as Valemount, Ashcroft and Lillooet, with a total population of 1,200 to 2,500 have a total of 300 to 500 people in the audience for each event held. In Langley, the existing structures are past their prime in terms of qualilty and capacity. The Langley Community Music School has been struggling for years in a building with a 60-seat capacity, inadequate washrooms and inadequate parking, not to mention a close proximity with vandalism. Thereofre, in comparison with other communities and in light of the above, the situation in Langley seems absurd. But we have an opportunity to rectify it by means of the coming referendum on November 19.

Users should pay

Editor, The Star, Sir,

I am a long time resident of Willoughby and we have been promised city water since 1952. This was to eliminate our need to buy water by the truckload. Now in 1988, we are told that the taxpayers of Langley cannot be asked to help pay the cost of city water to Willoughby Hill, but that somewhere in the future we will be permitted a vote on a local referendum that would bring water to our street. This referendum is on a "user pay" basis. In my case, this cost will be (in 1988 dollars) $8,534.00 which amortized over 20 years will add $1,002. to my taxes annually. That is the reality of today.

On Nov. 19, the taxpayers of Langley are asked to vote on two referendums:

1A CULTURAL CENTRE

Allow me to elaborate. In 1986 we opened the Blair Centre Pool which I had also voted for. It started with over 2,000 clients per month and has maintained a high user rate. In spite of this, the pool had a deficit of $120,000. last year and we, the taxpayers pick up the tab. So be it. A lot of young and old citizens use it. I suggest that the Cultural Centre will never achieve this volume of clientele and therefore the deficit will be extensive. I suggest that the people who need the Cultural Centre now can pool their resources and establish a centre on a "user pay" basis.

2A. WALNUT GROVE COMMUNITY CENTRE

This is what the name implies and should be financed by the Community. That area has a large number of residents and since they will be the benefactors, let them have a local referendum and proceed from there. Do not ask the residents of South Langley, Brookswood, Willoughby and Aldergrove (who incidently have just completed their own Centre) to pay for this facility. Again this should be user pay.

2B. ADDITIONAL ICE SHEET FOR THE CIVIC CENTRE

Everyone I have talked to is in favour of this project. All young people of Langley that want to skate use this facility and therefore the taxpayers should pay for it. But the keepers of our destiny at the Hall saw fit to place the Walnut Grove Community Centre on the ballot with the Ice Rink. This is not right and should not pass at this time.

I say that essential services come first and when Langley is serviced with water and sewer can then entertain a referendum for a Cultural Centre, etc. In the meantime I will be volting 'no' to the referendum and urge other taxpayers to do likewise.

A rotten apple

Editor, The Star, Sir,

The money referenda issue before the voters this Nov. 19 should be defeated for the following reasons:

1. The financing of these multi-million dollar recreation proposals is to be placed on the collective backs of the homeowners and renters in the form of several hundred dollars a year increase in taxes. Recent increases in taxes have been so huge as to buckle the knees of the homeowners. The insensitivity of the council that has proposed these new projects with the resultant further tax increases needed to pay for them is beyond belief. Renters have no doubt -- your rents will go up as the owners of the buildings in which you reside look at the new and bigger tax numbers these proposals would create.

2. The craftiness and the trickiness of the council in the way these items are proposed to the electorate is a pure and simple attempt to manipulate the voters into approving something which they should not approve. By combining two of the proposals together they have attempted to twist a voter so that if he is in favour of one of these proposals and opposed to the other he must approve both to get the one item he feels is affordable. The ice arena should have the broadest appeal and they have used that as a $3.8-million dollar jelly bean in the heart of a $40-million dollar rotten apple and then are asking us to swallow it. I would urge the voters to put this away in their memories and recall this action when it is time for re-election of those who have planned this scam.

Let's send this back to the rascals who proposed it by resoundingly defeating these issues. When it is brought back in the form of three separate proposals as it should have been we can consider if there is any of these proposals that are worth our support. This is the kind of nonsense that the people of California rebelled against in the early '80's with the passing of Proposition 13. Get out and vote. Defeat these issues because you're going to have to live with them for a long, long time if you don't.

Demands increasing

Editor, The Star, Sir,

In recent weeks media reports of some council and school board meetings have made reference to large budget increases requested for the Fraser Valley regional library. These concerns arise from a five year plan document that has been discussed with municipal councils and school boards.

Like all fiscally responsible institutions, the library board is anxious to project library financial needs into a future time frame that also enables it to plan library service development to meet increasing demands from a dramatically increasing population.

The plan has three funding levels that see different levels of achievement over a period of five to ten years. It was purposely developed with variable alternatives so that member councils and school boards, not just the library board, could decide what level of funding, and therefore service levels, the library would have in the future.

It was the responsibility of the library board to clearly show its members what the needs of the library system are in the long term and what the effects on library service will be, given the different funding levels displayed in the plan. This is still a discussion document and no decision has been made on what level of the plan should be adopted and no consequent budget increases have been adopted.

The Fraser Valley regional library board is made up of council and school board representatives from each of its members and is responsible for meeting the library needs of 385,000 people residing in communities from Delta to Boston Bar. It is the second largest public library in the province and one of the busiest, but for many years has had the unenviable position of also being one of the lowest funded. In 1987 the average local tax support per capita for FVRL was approximately $13.13. For the five largest municipal libraries in the province it was $23.95.

It should be clearly understood that while library budgets may increase in the plan, these increases are being spread over a larger population base. This means that the percentage increase on the individual taxpayer's bill is significantly less than the percentage increase required by the system as a whole.

Because the system has not been able to generate sufficient funds to keep up with demands, the book stock and opening hours have fallen far behind the accepted levels which are made available in other comparable library systems.

The main objectives in the plan are to increase the book stock to two books per capita (presently it is at 1.39); to provide Monday openings and to replace the computer system

If all the objectives of the plan were to be met in five years it would mean an additional $10-milliion being made available over that period.

Three options were presented to the member municipalities and school boards.

Option one would have implemented the plan immediately, causing a 43 percent increase in member contributions in 1989 and then more modest four to six percent increases thereafter.

Option two expanded the implementation over seven years and would mean a 13 percent increase in the first year and similar increases in the following years.

Option three was presented for comparison, which showed little implementation of the plan - virtually a continuation of present operation.

Recognizing that option one would be difficult for most municipalities to handle, the board recommended option two as the most practical alternative.

The library board is now evaluating the responses of member councils and school boards which will form the basis of its future planning decision.

Needed recreation facilities for a growing area. This is what the Langley Recreation Facilities Referendums will provide if approved by City and Township voters.

All Langley residents will benefit from these facilities — whether your interests lie in being an active participant or simply as part of the audience.

Until it provides for the interests of all its residents, no community is complete. Langley is no different.

Families...seniors...youths and adults...we'll all benefit from these needed new facilities.

LANGLEY RECREATION FACILITIES REFERENDUMS

Community projects needed

LANGLEY - The Civic Centre Additional Arena and Northwest Langley Community Centre projects being voted on by Langley residents, Nov. 19, will go a long way to meeting the increasing demand on recreation services and facilities.

If approved by voters, the addition of a second sheet of ice at Langley Civic Centre and the construction of a 20,000-square foot multi-purpose Community Centre for Northwest Langley will begin in 1989.

The proposed facilities and a needed Community Cultural Centre which would be located on a five-acre site just west of the Municipal Hall make up the Langley Recreation Facilities Referendums.

City residents will cast separate ballots on the Civic Centre Additional Arena and Community Cultural Centre projects while Township residents will cast one ballot on the Arena and Northwest Langley Community Centre projects, and a separate ballot on the Cultural Centre.

While each project requires a favourable vote of over 50 percent for approval, the Arena and Cultural Centre projects require a favourable vote in each area to proceed.

With 100 percent of prime ice time already allocated, the Civic Centre Additional Arena will allow more residents to use the facility. Some Langley residents, and in particular adult hockey teams, are presently unable to obtain ice time in their home area and must now travel to Burnaby for games.

'Twinning' -- adding a second arena -- of Langley Civic Centre at a cost of $3.8-million (1988) will help create a multi-purpose facility which in addition to present winter and summer uses, could be used for trade shows and exhibitions.

The Northwest Langley Community Centre would contain a fitness centre, racquet courts, gymnasium, youth activity area, pre-school area, crafts room, multi-purpose rooms, community office space and adequate parking at a cost of $2.5-million (1988).

The Cultural Centre would include a 600-seat theatre, a new and enlarged music school, the National Exhibition Centre-Gallery and meeting rooms at a cost of $7.5-million (1988).

The City and Township are applying for provincial and federal government grants which, if approved, would reduce the capital cost of the three projects by as much as one-third.

All grant opportunities are being explored.

Guts not lacking

SCARBOROGUH, On.t - Gus Harris has decided he does not want to be Canada's first 100-year-old mayor after all.

After 34 years in politics, the mayor has decided to throw in the towel at the tender age of 80.

In the past, Harris, who has been mayor of the city for the past decade, has said there was no reason for him to retire and he would likely be the first 100-year-old mayor. He is in perfect health and continues to walk 30 kilometres each weekend.

At the close of nominations this week, Harris, the grandfatherly mayor of the Toronto suburb, failed to show up.

In the last two elections, he did not file until the very last minute, claiming if candidates would not declare until they found out what he was going to do, they lacked guts and should not run for office.

Funds for soccer

VICTORIA - The Langley United Youth Soccer Association has received approval of a $22,879 award from the British Columbia Lottery Fund to help construct a facility at Buckley Park for the use of sports groups, Bill Reid, Minister of Tourism and Provincial Secretary, announced today.

"The facility will house meeting rooms and office space plus washrooms and equipment storage," said Reid, minister responsible for the Fund. "The association promotes soccer to boys and girls and has 1,300 members comprising 103 teams," he noted.

Langley MLAs Carol Gran and Dan Peterson joined in the announcement.

"I am very pleased to see the government participate in this project which is also being supported by the City of Langley," said Gran. "The building will be well-located at Buckley Park which has two all-weather soccer fields with night lighting."

"The building will be used year-round as the primary headquarters of the association. However, they will make the facility available for the use of other sports groups as well," said Peterson.

Letting steelheads go

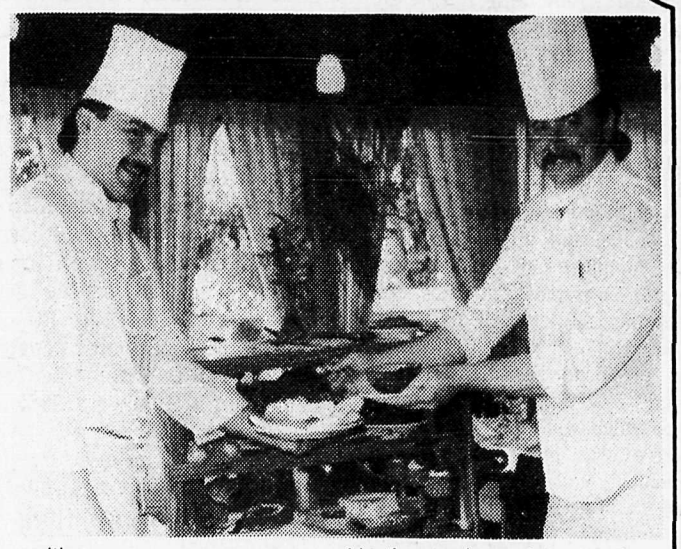
KAMLOOPS - Anglers will be required to release all steelhead taken from a large part of the Thompson and Fraser systems, beginning Nov. 15.

The ban extends until Dec. 31, and applies to fish from the Thompson River and its entire watershed or from the mainstem of the Fraser River upstream from the Harrison River confluence.

This conservation measure is being taken to allow stocks to recover following this year's relatively low total run of steelhead and increased fishing effort during the peak run earlier in the fall.

Monitoring of the recreational fishery by the Ministry of Environment indicates that catch success rates -- which normally reflect fish abundance -- are about 50 percent below the five-year average.

Local Boy Makes Good



To become a first rate chef is a grinding road of persistence and talent. It takes years of long hours and hard work.

An Aldergrove boy, Brian Avery, had always wanted to be a chef. At Aldergrove Secondary he enrolled in cooking classes, and, after graduation, attended BCIT for three years. Through studies and conscientious attitude he finished top of the class.

Bruce Brown, proprietor and head chef of the Hourglass Restaurant recognized dedication and the makings of a fine chef in Brian and employed him as an apprentice.

Brian started at the bottom of the ladder and is making a steady climb upwards. It usually takes 15 years or more before recognition, and some 30 years before being classed as a good chef.

Brown has an excellent reputation as a chef, but he too knows that he is still climbing the ladder of success and there is always more to learn.

Brian's ambition to eventually reach his goal has meant the sacrifice of his social life. Sometimes he has had to work seven days a week, doing double shifts, and on the job for eighteen hours. It may seem to be a thankless grind at times but to Brian it is exciting.

He says that he has learned more in the seven months of employment at the Hourglass than he did at school. "It's a constant learning experience which is a lot of fun."

The chef allows me to progress by rotating challenges." Presently Brian is making the pastry dough, preparing lunches and sauces. His lemon meringue pies are a favorite with the clientelle.

Brown's plan for Brian is to give him the experience of meeting the customers, let him find out what they need and listen to the complaints and compliments.

Soon we will see Brian preparing flambe dishes at our tables.

For Brian the good times are working for an excellent chef who treats him like a son, and a good staff who are like family, and the hope that he will one day be an executive chef, with his own restaurant.

Canada -U.S.A. Trade Agreement

"Today a full 80% of our trade with the US is duty free. The purpose of the Canada - US Trade Agreement is to eliminate all tariff barriers over a 10 year period. Canada's culture, health care, pensions and other social programs are not affected. This agreement will allow us to build a stronger Canada." R.L.W.

The Trade Agreement will drop restrictive tariff rates that impede the export of manufactured products to the U.S.

Agriculture

"Canada's largest processor of mushrooms, Money's, compete successfully in the US Market — even with a 25% price increasing duty added on by the Americans! The new all-weather sports facility came another $40,000 closer to reality last week when MLA's Carol Gran and Dan Peterson presented the cheque from the Lottery Fund.

Langley Voluntary Sports Association officers Linda Ford, Bud Saunders and Eric Bysouth received the money on behalf of the council.

Ron Ralph legacy lives on

LANGLEY - Ron Ralph passed away in 1985, but his legacy is surely working its way to completion.

His brainchild was the building of a major athletic field complex on the 18-acre site at 216 Street and 56 Avenue, the former Langley Fairgrounds and Horse Track. It is adjacent to Langley secondary school, and is owned by Langley municipality.

The late Ralph initiated the incorporation of the Langley Voluntary Sports Association under the Societies Act in 1982. Over $100,000 worth of labor, equipment and material was invested in developing the property before Ralph's demise.

After a hiatus following his death, the project was revitalized as a "total community project", under the direction of Bud Saunders and Eric Bysouth.

Under a new 1987 agreement, the association will raise the funds to develop and operate the athletic park.

The project is laid out in five stages by the architects, and the concept has been approved by Langley Township, City and School District.

"The need for a top quality major sports complex has been documented over the years," said an association spokesman. "There is a dearth of playing fields in the Langley area. The Soccer Association has had to host tournaments on inferior gravel soccer pitches. The lack of slowpitch and fastball pitches is also growing. The leagues are currently unable to serve the growing numbers of teams that wish to participate."

Treasurer Eric Bysouth said they are two-thirds of the way to completion of phases one and two, thanks in great part to corporate sponsors. He added that the $40,000 cheque from B.C. Lottery Fund, "is the first of many, we hope."

Development will proceed as money becomes available, and the association will operate and maintain the facility upon completion. The operating budget will be provided by the City and Township of Langley.

Americans are worried, too

Editor, The Star, Sir,

The coming election in Canada will be as fateful for Americans as Canadians. We were given no say in whether we wanted this Free Trade treaty, but fortunately spirited opposition in Canada has now forced an election. It certainly wasn't planned that way.

The politicians are making a big deal out of the loss of Canada's national identity. This is a very valid fear, but it also applies to America's national identity. This economic merger is just the second in a series that is meant to establish a one-world economy. This will require a one-world government to run it. It won't be run by democratically-elected politicians but by the big financial giants of this world -- the mega corporation chiefs and international bankers. Our present constitutional guarantees will be worth nothing.

The first stage is already under way in Europe. Now the financiers are pressing for a common currency unit to allow them to move huge sums of capital across national boundaries at will. Mrs. Thatcher has wisely and courageously revolted by saying she is not about to surrender political control over British affairs at Westminster to a group of planners in Brussels. She added that each nation is far better off being itself, with its own identity, culture and monetary system. Once these are given up it will be next-to-impossible to retrieve them.

I have been a lifelong Conservative, but on this issue they deserve to be kicked out of office. I hope Canadians will do Americans a huge favor by doing just that on November 21.

Will real Turner rise?

Editor, The Star, Sir,

Which is the real John Turner?

One John Turner says he's in a battle with big business. His campaign co-chairman, Senator Michael Kirby, even went so far as to liken big business to the Ku Klux Klan! Does this mean Turner is giving up his corner table at Winston's?

This same John Turner, however, has served as a director for such big businesses as Bechtel Canada Ltd., MacMillan Bloedel Ltd., Marathon Realty and Massey-Ferguson Ltd.

There is nothing wrong with being associated with big business. There is something wrong, however, with a man who wants to lead our nation and who is either confused or deliberately misleading Canadians.

Some Canadians think Brian Mulroney has a credibility problem. We think John Turner has one, too.

Who is paying?

Editor, The Star, Sir,

Since Simon Reisman made a special trip to the Vancouver area to campaign for the Conservative party, and he is not a party candidate, can anyone tell me who paid for this junket? The P.C. Party, the public or himself.

Stand on guard

Editor, The Star, Sir,

It's time to consider what we value as Canadians. Canada will be expected to come down to the U.S.A. level in all aspects.

We could become a chemical and nuclear dumping ground from sea to sea. Expect to see no medical coverage for the majority of Canadians. We will be forced to become a military nuclear force, then we would no longer be looked upon as an international peace force. We would, like U.S.A., be a union basher.

Expect big money trophy hunters to be able to rape our wildlife as we know it. All our food chain will be left at the mercy of big brother, U.S.A.

Open your eyes, look at history: it is not the first time this country was used as a testing ground, for the military, for chemical testing, and mind altering drugs. Wake up, everybody, the time is near. Let your voice ring out loud and clear "O Canada, we stand on guard for thee.

Anyone knows?

Editor, The Star, Sir,

Several weeks ago I received in the mail a report from Bob Wenman, MP. It was a list of his accomplishments over the past four years. Slim reading indeed! During the election campaign I have been following the news and attended all candidate meetings (Mr. Wenman didn't show up) and still there is nothing to add to his report.

I find it hard to understand how a member of the governing party could do so little for his riding. Why isn't Mr. Wenman fighting to get a fair share of federal tax dollars for Fraser Valley West? Perhaps if he had been more active on our behalf, he wouldn't still be languishing on the backbenches. In spite of his new found love of trees, it was newcomer Gerry St. Germain who got the cabinet post. Does anyone in Ottawa know Mr. Wenman? Is there any reason to send him back?

ALDERGROVE - West Pro Energy Novice Fireflies swept their exhibition series, winning all games. They are starting this season where they left off last year.

The Provincial champs have been able to keep most of last year's team in tact. Sheri Harty, Heather Gray, Amy Russenholt, Willow Unrah, Michell and Shannon Bettles, Erin Miller, Erin Henthorne, Shannon Water, Petra and Masria Mack all returned this year to the novice team.

The coaching chores have also remained the same with the return of George Gray.

All the girls are contributing to the team and only time will tell if a repeat season can be accomplished.

Don't take the keys

MURRAYVILLE - Ride the bus, says B.C. Transit.

This could, says Transit spokesman J. N. Pezzaro, "reduce the life shattering consequences of drinking driving."

It starts with a change in attitude, says Pezzaro. 'Don't take the keys' is the name of a campaign started by B.C. Transit as a follow-up to the provincial government's Counter Attack program. "It's about saving lives."

The campaign urges party-goers to take the bus, the Skytrain or the Seabus if they do not choose to go by taxi.

Gold medalist new chairman

VANCOUVER - Lori Fung, Olympic gold-medallist, member of the Order of Canada, actress, model and teacher, has accepted the position of Honourary Chairman for the 1989 fundraising campaign of the Canadian Cancer Society, British Columbia and Yukon Division.

Lori has an exceptionally busy career: working with the provincial government's "Best Ever" athletic program, she travels with members of her Vancouver Rhythmic Sportive Gymnastics Club to communities throughout B.C. demonstrating the sport in schools and community centres.

Lori can also be seen as a fashion model and an actress in several televsion features. And she coaches every day (starting at 6 a.m.!) about thirty-five young girls in both competitive and pre-competitive rhythmic gymnastics at the University of British Columbia.

"The Canadian Cancer Society, B.C. and Yukon Division, is proud to have Lori on their fundraising team. Thanks, Lori!" said spokesman Debby Altow.

Sidewalk moved

MURRAYVILLE - The township was all set to lay down a blacktop sidewalk on 68 Avenue between 200 and 208 streets.

Then the school board decided to do away with the elementary school in west Langley.

So, council decided to spend the projected $41,000 a few blocks to the north.

There is a secondary school on 202 Street. Its students will benefit as a sidewalk will be built on 72 Avenue instead, also between 200 and 208 streets.

Rhinos started the free trade debate

OTTAWA - Charles McKenzie says his Rhinoceros party can wallow in mud just like the others, so he flung a little muck at Mila Mulroney on Monday.

"Mila has a magnetic personality; everything she sees she charges," he told several bemused beer drinkers and a few journalists at the Chateau Lafayette tavern.

He had billed the gathering as the Rhinos "international convention" and took the opportunity to make a few campaign promises.

Accompanied by (Leaping) Liz Johnson, part-time Ottawa-Centre candidate and full-time stripper, McKenzie apologized for starting the free-trade debate four years ago when he chaired the Ronald McDonald commission on the economy.

He said the commission had come up with a logical free-trade proposal: The Paul Anka Plan.

"Our American cousins would have an additional 25 years secure access to Paul Anka with a no-deposit, no-return clause and we in turn would get our pick of Thanksgiving debates and free access to both Disneylands," said McKenzie, banging on the arborite table for emphasis.

He admitted he hadn't read the deal, but neither had Trade Minister John Crosbie, "the merchant of menace."

But the party was dead set against the erosion of medicare and the incursion of U.S.-style health care in Canada, said McKenzie.

"In the United States, socialized medicine means everyone sits around talking about the high cost of facelifts."

A new language would be introduced to end confusion over Canada's two official languages and Vanna White would be brought north to explain the new alphabet, said McKenzie.

But his party had no real quarrel with either French or English, he explained.

"It doesn't matter how bad your French is or how bad your English is as long as your scotch is good," said McKenzie, nursing a quart of Molson Canadian.

His other promises included:

-- "A blatant attempt to woo the environmental vote. I will ask my mother to patch the hole in the ozone."

-- A pledge to extend the St. Lawrence Seaway to Alberta "so that when next summer's drought comes in we can ship water in by boat."

So far, the cost of the Rhino campaign promises had been estimated at $51,783 dollars, "but that's a rough, ballpark figure," he said.

The bearded and bespectacled McKenzie is running in Ottawa Vanier, which includes the prime minister's official residence.

"If I'm gonna live at 24 Sussex I might as well run in the riding," he said.

ASK ANNABELLE

Dear Annabelle,

My problem is my mother. She insists on borrowing my clothes and, what's worse, my makeup. She and my father even go out dancing and to rock concerts. She is so embarassing in front of my friends. We are all sixteen and my mother seems to want to be one of us and be young again. Annabelle, she is 39 years old and my dad is 42. Is there anything I can do to get them to act their ages? Thanks.

Signed: Melanie
(not my real name)

Dear Melanie,

Have you been living all of your 16 years under a rock? Give your mother some credit for still trying to get some fun out of her life before she turns a decrepit 40. As for your father, any minute now he should be walking with a white cane in one hand and shopping around in the yellow pages for a wheel chair with the other. Get real, Melanie, don't put your parents in the grave yet. They have a lot of living left to do, and how they do it is strictly up to them. When you are 39 in 23 short years your mother will be a very ancient 62. Not even old enough for the pension yet. And in 23 years I will be 78 and probably still getting letters from silly little girls. Think about it.

Dear Annabelle,

My problem is I'm not allowed to be normal. I'm an elderly lady who is not supposed to cry or show a temper. I'm not supposed to lose my dignity by imitating bird or animal calls. I'm cautioned not to sing because it sounds like coyote calls. Recounting UFO sightings is out! If I meditate in my clover patch in nice weather, people think I'm dead, when I'm just reducing my blood pressure. I don't eat meat because I feel close to all nature, but not voraciously so. I tread softly on the clover so as not to make it scream by squashing it. Have you ever heard a bitten carrot yell? Well, neither have I, although I wonder about the sensitivity of plants and trees.

Should I be a hypocrite and pretend to be less normal?

Signed: Miss L'aura.

Dear Miss L'aura,

I think you are perfectly normal. You sound like a lovely, sensitive lady and if there were more like you in this world it would be a finer place. Go ahead and make your bird calls and meditate in your clover and you will probably live to a ripe, happy old age. People who scoff at your way of life are not worth bothering about. And remember what we save today will be here for our tomorrows to enjoy.

Star readers are invited to mail in their questions or problems to ASK ANNABELLE. Use a nom de plume if you wish. The address is ASK ANNABELLE, c-o The Aldergrove Star, Box 220, Aldergrove, B.C., V0X.1A0

Dictatorships arise when voters apathetic

Editor, The Star, Sir,

Why is the U.S. so anxious to have 100 percent free trade with Canada? We already have 80 percent free trade with the Americans. Is it possible that this is the reason that Canada, a country so rich in natural resources and space, has not made the economic progress that smaller countries not so well-endowed as Canada have made. If free trade as envisioned by the Conservatives now bcomes a fact, the Fraser Valley farmers will not be able to compete, and then what will happen to the thousands of farmers here? If there is no one to operate the farms, will the land become vulnerable to developers with acres of blacktopping that will destroy the food-producing potential for centuries to come? The Fraser Valley is one of the world's most fertile food-producing areas. All this at a time when it is evident that the food-producing areas of the world are diminishing due to man's mismanagement of our planet; the climate heating up, so that the central regions of this continent are suffering for lack of water necessary for plant production, destruction of tropical rain forests with the ultimate change in the world's climate, and so on. Canada should be well able to supply all of our own basic needs and thus benefit our economy, and this means that we cannot afford to destroy our agricultural potential and that our governments must negotiate in such a way that our agricultural potential is fully developed and protected, particularly, from U.S. dumping.

It is, perhaps, worthwhile to look at other countries and how trade laws have affected them. First, a look at a country that entered into a free trade pact with the U.S., Puerto Rico. There were all the usual glowing promises of "what we can do for you", but the final outcome of free trade for the Puerto Ricans meant that thousands became unemployed and immigrated from their homeland, helpless because of lack of education, skills and language barriers. The U.S. firms owned the best plantations and sugar mills with all the profits going to the U.S. And, what was further devastating, was the fact that when the U.S. went to war, Puerto Ricans could be conscripted to fight for the U.S. So much for a smaller country joining a larger country in total free trade.

The European Common Market has both large and small countries joined together in a free trade agreement, but there are at least nine countries together, so it is impossible for one larger country to exploit a smaller one. And the reason it came into being was to protect their markets from the then very dominant U.S. power. (At the end of World War II, the U.S. accounted for 75 percent of the world's gross national product. It has now slipped to only 22 percent.)

Japan, now one of the world's richest trading nations, is well worth looking at. Oh, yes! we hear of some of the problems that Japan has, but how much of this is propaganda to detract from what can be truly admired in how a nation can be governed to give the best in quality of life for its people? In 40 years, Japan has risen from its utter devastation at the end of WW II to become one of the world's richest nations. How did they do it? - By protectionism - the exact opposite of free trade. By imposing tariffs on imported goods, they encouraged their own people to supply all of their own needs. This has resulted in Japan having one of the world's stablest and most productive economies even though it has very little in natural resources.

To be against free trade does not mean that one is anti-American. It simply means that Canadians would rather take a slower route and work towards balanced trade that would be more in harmony with all the nations of the world as they evolve. When Canada's GNP equals that of the U.S., then perhaps it will be the time to consider free trade, but until then we should be looking at all of the markets of the world, particularly those of the Pacific Rim nations.

Only 25 percent of the Americans eligible to vote cast their ballot in the recent U.S. election. This says much about how helpless or hopeless they feel about their situation, or perhaps their standard of education, which is in decline. It seems that a country is in danger of becoming a dictatorship when its citizens do not vote. Let's hope that Canadians are so concerned about issues in our federal election (and other elections, too), - not personalities - that everyone will exercise his or her democractic right on election day.

RUTH ERICKSON

Aldergrove

MURRAYVILLE - She thinks "they shouldn't go again."

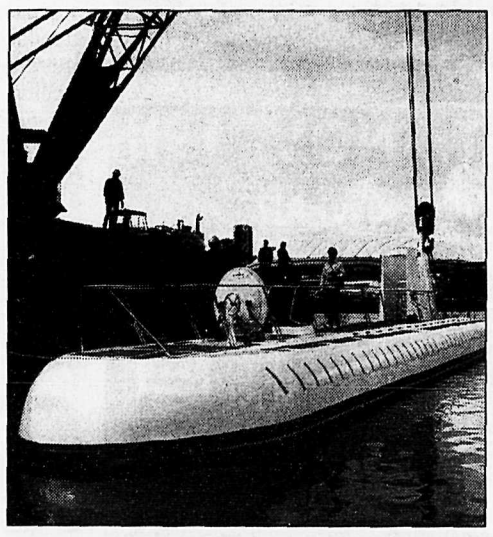
But other township officials do not agree with Ald. Muriel Arnason.

The council woman does not believe two staffers from the township's purchasing department benefitted from attending a conference in Washington state sponsored by the Pacific Northwest Public Purchasing Association.

All they heard about was "free trade", says Arnason.

But municipal administrator Jim Godfrey says the conference was "very worthwhile" and already has resulted in savings to the township.

We're giving tourists in Hawaii a British Columbia perspective.



Just off Hawaii's sandy shoreline and 50 metres down, visitors are getting a close-up look at some of the world's most beautiful underwater scenery – all thanks to the Sub Aquatics Development Corporation of Vancouver, a world leader in shallow water submarines. More than 300,000 tourists, in five countries, have ventured beneath the waves on board B.C.-made submarines.

And like the 50 B.C. firms involved in our expanding subsea industry, Sub Aquatics has helped make us a leader in underwater technology. From unmanned submarines to the world's most advanced diving suit, the 1,000 men and women involved in our subsea economy account for annual sales of $60 million, an increase of more than 35 per cent over last year, and that's keeping us on the shores of tomorrow.

For more information about B.C.'s subsea industry, contact your MLA, your nearest Government Agent, or write to the Ministry of Regional Development, Parliament Buildings, Victoria V8V 1X4.

NOTICE OF SPECIAL MEETING

FRASER VALLEY WEST
PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVE ASSOCIATON

to consider proposals for amendments to the Founding Constitution.

DATE: Monday, December 5, 1988

TIME: 7:30 P.M.

PLACE: Aldergrove Kinsmen Community Centre
26770 - 29th Avenue, Aldergrove
(Fraser Highway to 264th St., south one block to 29th Ave., turn left)

Registration begins at 6:30 P.M.

Those intending to vote on any amendments to the Constitution must have been members of the Association on or before October 21, 1988.

Servicemen paid their respects at the cenotaph, on Remembrance Day. Many youngsters showed up, too, but the highlight was 107-year-old George Ives, a veteran of the Boer War.

Questions about centre

QUESTION: WHAT DOES THE PROPOSED COMMUNITY CULTURAL CENTRE CONSIST OF?

ANSWER: a) A 600-seat theatre for drama and musical productions, school district drama festivals and graduation ceremonies, popular children's entertainment - such as Mr. Dressup and Charlotte Diamond - professional performances such as symphonies, modern and western music, classical and modern dance, and major provincial festivals of the arts.

b) An enlarged Community Music School facility capable of accommodating the greatly increasing interest in music education. The present music school has an enrolment of 770 students studying piano, string, brass and woodwind instrucments, as well as voice. Students perform in concerts as soloists and as members of youth orchestras. The music school complements the musical training that children receive in our public schools.

c) A new National Exhibition Centre and Gallery which presents travelling and self-generated exhibitions of art, science, and history which are drawn from local, regional and international sources. Over 7,000 students from the Lower Mainland visit the present N.E.C. Gallery each year.

Q: WHERE WILL THE COMMUNITY CULTURAL CENTRE BE LOCATED?

A: On five acres of land owned by the Township of Langley located just west of the Municipal Hall on the south side of the Fraser Highway - just across from the Hospital. This location is as central to our community as possible and is adjacent to other community facilities.

Q: WHEN WILL THE COMMUNITY CULTURAL CENTRE BE BUILT?

A: It is proposed to commence construction in 1992 for completion in 1993.

Q: WHAT WILL THESE NEW FACILITIES COST THE AVERAGE TAXPAYER?

A: Residents having a 1988 assessed value of $100,000 in the Township of Langley will be subject to a tax of $4.22 per month starting in 1993. A similar City of Langley property will have a tax of $4.60 per month starting in 1993. Applications have been made to the provincial government by the city and township councils for funding up to one third of the cost. This would reduce the taxpayer's cost from the above amount to $3.11 per month in the township and $3.45 per month in the city. The above amounts cover capital costs and operating costs for the entire facility. The Music School will be self-financing.

Q: WHEN IS THE VOTE TO BE HELD?

A: Saturday, Nov. 19, 1988 from 8 A.M. to 8 P.M. Polling locations and locations of advance polls have been advertised in local newspapers. If in doubt, call the Clerk's Office at either City or Township Hall.

Audrey Hepburn hosts concert

VANCOUVER - Special UNICEF Ambassador, Audrey Hepburn will host "The Gift of Music", a concert for UNICEF, at the Orpheum in Vancouver on Wednesday, Nov. 23 at 8 p.m. The concert, sponsored by Central Guaranty Trustco of Canada, celebrates the brilliance and potential of youth as expressed through 'the gift of music'.

The program features noted columnist, actor and broadcaster, Mavor Moore, CC., the CBC Vancouver Orchestra, and the Vancouver Bach Children's Chorus. Pianist Naida Cole and violinist Juliette Kang, both 13 years old, will demonstrate the brilliance of contemporary Canadian youth. As well as hosting the two-hour program, Miss Hepburn will narrate a new Canadian work specially commissioned for the event.

The concert will be recorded as a CBC Network Radio production for later broadcast. A TV production, sponsored by Central Guaranty Trustco, will be aired early next year. Miss Hepburn's involvement with UNICEF goes back to the Dutch "hunger winter" of 1944-45 when, a child herself, she was the recipient of relief provided by UNICEF. "The Gift of Music" is her first major event for UNICEF in Canada.

Tickets are on sale at all VTC outlets. Prices are $15. and $20.

Polka Dot a first

FORT LANGLEY - Since it was first broadcast in 1971, hundreds of thousands of youngsters have entered the world of adventure through the Polka Dot Door. As one of North America's oldest and most successful children's shows, the Polka Dot Door show continues to hold the interest of a very large and demanding primary and pre-school aged audience. Children in the Langley area will have the opportunity to see them live for the first time, on Nov. 30 at the Fort Langley Junior Secondary School, 9096 Trattle Street. The Langley Arts Council is sponsoring two performances at 5 p.m. and 7 p.m.

Tickets are on sale in Fort Langley at the Balloonery (9199 Glover Road), in Aldergrove at The Rainbow Room (27256 Fraser Highway), at Willowbrook shopping Centre at Rainy Day Games, in Langley City at Country Lane Gifts (103 - 20560 - 56 Avenue) and Penny Lane Gifts & Accent Pieces (109 - 20151 Fraser Hwy.).

The new live show combines stories, songs, dances and games in a lively format. The live hosts, Cindy Cook and Tom Rickert along with guitarist Kevin Knelman are joined by the magical Polkaroo and his friends the Toys - Humpty, Dumpty, Marigold, Bear, and Story Time Mouse. When the Polkaroo makes his surprise entrance, the eyes of every child become huge as saucers with delight to see their favorite friend from television.

Canada's Patio

Langley Players are pleased to announce that they will be performing Canada's Patio, written by Rae Purcell, at the upcoming Douglas Day banquet, Nov. 18 at the Civic Centre and the Heritage Dinner at the Fort Langley Community Hall on Nov. 19.

Directed by Brian Leonard and ably assisted by Lori Jones, the play is comprised of a series of vignettes portraying historical events which occurred in the area from 1808 to 1885.

Jennifer Crabb and Michael Sainsbury play the part of a young couple immigrating to Canada, their new home. Gary Saunders plays dual parts; McMillan and a clerk at the Fort. Barry Whaites also has a dual role in James Douglas and Ottawa. Harry Jones rounds out the cast in the character of Fraser McLangley, patterned after the Langleys' mascot of the same name and devised by the Chamber of Commerce.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sad commentary

Editor, The Star, Sir,

Hopefully, you will allow me to express my views as I have done for the past 20 years as a weekly newspaper columnist in Saskatchewan.

Perhaps I'm getting too old, too conservative, out of touch with the times. Perhaps I possess too much of that rustic purity of our primitive prairie people. There is one news item in this federal election campaign that did shock me into writing this letter.

In the November 1 edition of the Regina Leader-Post, Dale Eisler, the paper's political editor wrote the following news story.

The NDP National Party President, Johanna den Hertog, has campaigned with the self-proclaimed "gay" MP Svend Robinson, doing what they refer to as "the gay-bar-tour." The same NDP party president is running for election in a Vancouver riding and has a very active worker in Dennis Dahl, a lawyer and yet another self-proclaimed homosexual.

I quote Mr. Dahl, "The NDP is the only party where "gay" and lesbians can actually get organized." Dahl goes on further to say, "There can be a "gay" caucus in the NDP."

There could well be homosexuals in the Conservative or Liberal ranks, but none have made it public. I thank them for that.

The openness of the NDP on the question of homosexuality appears to be the next thing to the promotion of his way of life.

It is a sad commentary of our time and smacks those of us who have respect for the traditional family values.

New outlet

Editor, The Star, Sir,

Thank you for the generous help you have given us with ticket sales for our "Mr. Dressup" show. It is of vital importance to have an outlet where local people can drop in and purchase tickets for our events. We could hardly function without it and our many cultural services would have to be abandoned.

Linda has been very kind and gracious, but I feel that we should not impose on you and her for every one of our shows, or it would become a nuisance. Therefore, I have found a different location this time for tickets to our upcoming "Polka Dot Door" performance. They are at the "Rainbow Room", 27256 Fraser Highway, in Aldergrove.

Again, may I say what a delight it has been to be associated with you and Linda, and how much we all appreciate your good nature and helpfulness.

Haunted house

Editor, The Star, Sir,

Recently Soroptimist International of the Langleys held a fundraiser for the Langley Memorial Hospital. The Haunted House at Willowbrook Shopping Center was a great success. We want to thank the residents of the Langley area for their support. Over, 2,000 children and adults shared Hallowe'en with us and we hope you all enjoyed yourselves. The business community also helped us with donations and to them we also give our sincere appreciation.

We would be remiss if we did not draw attention to the significant contribution made by the local print media. We would like to thank you for your assistance in this community event.

Soroptimist International of the Langleys raised in excess of $2,000 for the Langley memorial Hospital. This would not have been possible without the participation of the community.

A message to Ottawa

Editor, The Star, Sir,

The West now more than ever has to send a message to Ottawa. That message is that we are part of Canada and want the same treatment as that accorded Ontario and Quebec. By voting for any one of the three major parties the message will simply never get there. The NDP, Liberals and PCs all have their leadership based in Central Canada and that area is all that they worry about.

Originally the NDP (formerly CCF) was a truly western based and led party. However, it is now anything but that. With the parliamentary procedures that we have in the House of Commons the result is that our western MPs from the three major parties vote according to part lines, rather than as their constituents would wish. Thus we are simply not represented.

Accordingly, as it has been since time immemorial in Canada, Ontario and Quebec are always the winners.

There is an optional-alternative for western voters. It is the Reform Party of Canada. It is fielding 72 candidates in the four western provinces. It has a sound platform standing for - economic fairness to all regions of the country - representative democracy - a revised language bill - long term programs for the restoration and protection of the environment - a revised immigration policy - free and fair trade east-west as well as north-south - fiscal responsibility - senate reform. Its motto is "The West Wants In".

I suggest to your readers, Mr. Editor, that they get on the bandwagon and vote Reform. By electing their Reform candidate they for once will have an MP to truly represent them and at the same time send the message to Ottawa "We have had enough".

B.C. to host space forum

VICTORIA - The Minister Responsible for Science and Technology, Stan Hagen, has announced that the province will host a forum designed to explore opportunities for British Columbia in the Canadian Space Program.

"On Nov. 24, leading researchers and business people in B.C. will have an opportunity to meet with senior federal government officials and representataives of Canada's major space contractors in Vancouver," said Hagen. "It is my hope that bringing the buyers and sellers together in this way will make B.C. a bigger player in the space race."

Man in the hoosegaw for overdue tickets

MONTREAL - David Smith, sentenced recently to serve two years and five months for not paying his parking tickets, received more bad news when the National Parole Board advised him he is not eligible for privileges such as day passes, temporary absences or full parole.

The board also said he cannot be released from prison until May 16, 1990, when he will have served two-thirds of his sentence.

Smith said he was shocked when he got the news.

Smith, 40, wound up at a minimum-security federal penitentiary in nearby Laval for not paying $12,529 in fines and court costs on 128 parking tickets.

"Since you are incarcerated under municipal legislation, you cannot benefit from any of the privileges offered by the National Parole Board," says a memo to Smith signed by Sylvie Paquette, a prison case worker.

Serge Lavallee, regional director of the board, said Smith is a non-person in the eyes of the parole board and is therefore not eligible for release after serving one-third of his sentence.

Drug awareness week is practical

LANGLEY - Family Services is observing national Drug Awareness Week with a number of activities to increase public awareness about drug and alcohol abuse.

On Friday, Nov. 4, the Alcohol & Drug Program presented a gift of 10 books on addictions, recovery and co-dependency to the Langley Public Library for the use of readers. A total of 58 books have been purchased by the Regional Office for distribution to Fraser Valley libraries.

British Columbia has the highest per capita alcohol use in Canada. Stats Can estimates that accidents and injuries related to alcohol and drug abuse costs B.C. $216-million annually. It is hoped that events like Drug Awareness Week can inform the public of the consequences of abuse and be instrumental in promoting healthy lifestyle choices.

In addition to the mall tables LFS will be speaking to several community groups and hosting a workshop for professionals on working with addicted clients. For information, call LFS at 534-7921.

Volunteers help charities

By EVELYN UNDERWOOD

The regular monthly meeting of the Thrift Shop society was held at the O.A.P. Hall, Monday, Nov. 7. Our next meeting will be Dec. 5; all shop workers are welcome to attend.

This month we donated $500. to Aldergrove Figure Skating Club. Good luck in future competitions. We look forwad to hearing that you have qualified for competitions in California.

$500. was donated to Langley Family Services for the bus to be used by teenage mothers enrolled in the program at Aldergrove High School.

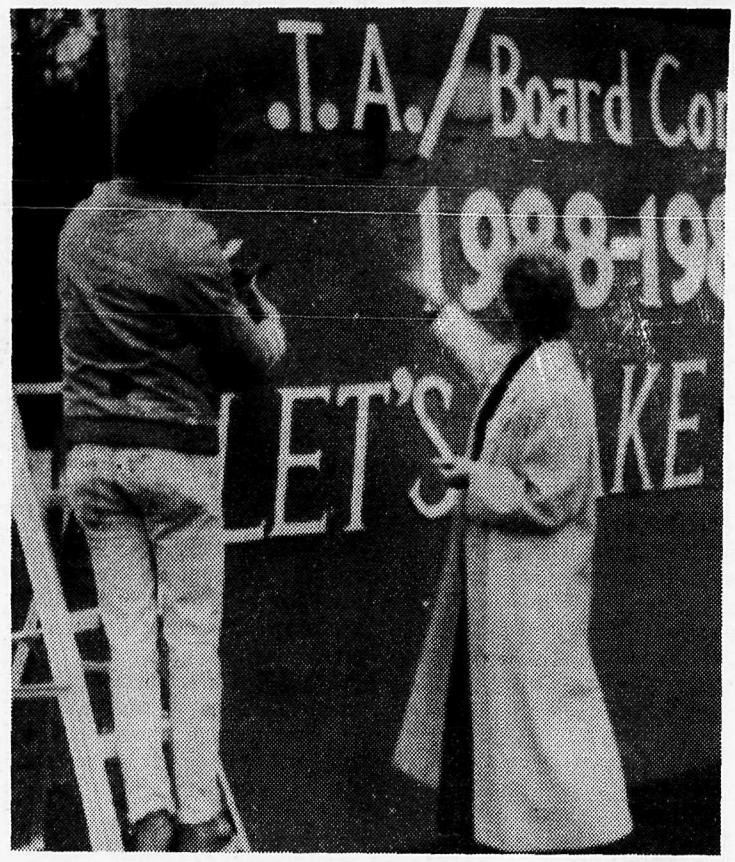
Next month, we will have a speaker from B.C. Special Olympics.

Thank you to all workers who gladly volunteer their time each week and to customers for helping us to have a successful business. We also thank all those who donate goods to the shop. Please continue, but help us to keep costs down by donating clean clothes in good condition. Shoes, purses and small household items are also welcome, but due to lack of space, we are unable to take large pieces of furniture.

We also offer 10 pounds of good quality coloured rags for $3.50 and 10 pounds white $6. Please phone 856-7680 to arrange pick-up or delivery. Cut rags are always available, but it would be most helpful to give us a few days notice for large amounts (over 10 bags).

Congratulations to Aldergrove Kinsmen, Kinettes, K40 and teens on the opening of the Community Centre.

The Thrift Shop is open Monday, 10 to 1 and Tues. to Sat. 10 to 4. New workers are always welcome.



Langley teachers crowded the school board parking lot, Monday afternoon, to protest their stalled contract negotiations. The rally featured speaker Elsie McMurphy, B.C. Teachers' Federation president and Peter Owens, Langley Teachers' Association president. The teachers also built a billboard on the lawn, telling administrators to make the new contract "fly."

An evening to remember

ABBOTSFORD - Three of Canada's best will perform for Food Banks, Dec. 12, 8 p.m. at the Abbey Arts Centre. Once again, CFVR-850 is proud to sponsor a fund raising concert for the Abbotsford and Mission Food Banks. This year you can expect another sold out show so it is advisable that tickets be purchased at the earliest convenience.

Just out of the studio with her newest album, Shari Ulrich is back this year, as is Valdy, who since last December's Food Bank Concert has been on the road for the better part of 1988. This year organizers are also pleased to have B.C. Country Music Award winner Gary Fjellgaard.

Tickets can be purchased at Flyer's restaurant in West Oaks, the Town Stationer on 1st Ave. in Mission, the Hobby Hut on the Fraser Highway in Langley, and CFVR-850 on Allwood Street in Clearbrook.

The combined talent of Shari Ulrich, Valdy and Gary Fjellgaard will truly make this an evening to remember as well as help the Food Banks through one of their most critical times of year.

The doors for the Dec. 12 performance will open at 7:15 and the show will start at 8 p.m. The Abbey Arts Centre is located at 2329 Crescent Way in Abbotsford.

Gamble a bit

ALDERGROVE - "Try your luck at blackjack and roulette. Have a fun evening and support the Aldergrove Secondary Music Society," suggests a society spokesman.

The fundraiser will be held next week, Nov. 22 to 24, at Great Canadian Casino Co., 20371 - 56 Avenue (near Langley Hotel).

Times are 6 p.m. to 2 a.m., each evening, Tuesday to Thursday.

Christmas cards discounted

OTTAWA - Canada Post Corporation announced the 1988 Greet More program through which Canadians again will receive a discount on postage for greeting cards - five cents off each card mailed in Canada.

In response to consumer reaction in previous years and in cooperation with the Canadian Gift Packaging and Greeting Card Association, Canada Post has continued to make improvements to the Greet More program to make it even easier for customers to use.

"This is clearly a program which responds to our customers' needs and is growing in popularity every year," said John Aiken, Canada Post Vice President. "It is also an excellent way to encourage the most effective and efficient use of the postal system at this time of year when volumes of mail are tradtionally highest."

The combination of the coded envelopes and the special 32-cent postage stamps allows consumers to save money, and speeds up the mailing process to the point where Canada Post can handle millions more cards more quickly at less cost.

Some 30 greeting card manufacturers are involved in the program this year, as well as charitable organizations such as UNICEF.

Previous years' coded envelopes can be used again this year with the 32-cent Christmas stamp, for those customers who may still have a supply on hand.

The special stamps are available at all postal outlets until Dec. 24, and can be used for cards posted between Oct. 27 and Jan. 31, 1989. The Greet More greeting cards are available where cards are normally sold, and are easily identified with the Greet More logo.

The stamps will be sold in booklets of 10 for $3.20. The postage may also be used at any time on other mailable matter by combining them with other stamps to make up the amount of postage required.

Filly wins

Doelcam Mary captured the $60,322 final of the B.C. Sire Stakes for three-year-old fillies, Saturday, Nov. 12 at Cloverdale.

Driver-trainer Cal MacLeod sent his charge authoritatively to lead immediately off the start and was never challenged. The victory gave Doelcam Mary her eighth win in 15 starts this year, and a new life-time mark of 2:01.1.

Voters to decide on facilities, Saturday

Langley residents go to the polls Saturday, Nov. 19 with an opportunity to provide vastly-improved recreation facilities for their community.

A total of 8,440 City and 31,303 Township voters are eligible to cast ballots on the Langley Recreation Facilities Referendums.

City residents will cast separate ballots on the Community Cultural Centre and Civic Centre Additional Arena while Township will cast one ballot on the Additional Arena and Northwest Langley Community Centre, and a separate ballot on the Community Cultural Centre.

For approval, the Community Cultural Centre and Additional Arena must receive a favourable vote from over 50 percent of those casting ballots in each area. The Northwest Langley Community Centre requires a favourable vote of over 50 percent from Township voters.

Councils for the City and Township support the projects and point out that because of increasing construction costs, the proposed facilities could not be built for less than at this time.

Councils are applying for applicable provincial and federal government grants which, if approved, would reduce the capital cost of these projects by up to one-third.

If approved, the Civic Centre Additional Arena and Northwest Langley Community Centre would be constructed in 1989. The Community Cultural Centre would be constructed in 1992.

The need for the facilities is well documented.

For example, interest and participation in cultural activities is growing at a faster rate than other leisure pursuits.

The Community Cultural Centre would include a 600-seat theatre, a new and enlarged community music school, the National Exhibtion Centre-Gallery and meeting rooms at a cost of $7.5-million (1988).

'Twinning' of the Civic Centre Arena would not only alleviate current crowding but also create a multi-purpose facility for trade shows and exhibitions at a cost of $3.8-million (1988).

The Northwest Langley Community Centre would provide Langley's major area of population growth with a multi-purpose, family-oriented recreation facility at a cost of $2.5-million (1988).

Many people carefully review the availability of schools and recreation facilities in determining whether to live in a particular community. Langley is no different.

A brochure detailing all aspects of the Langley Recreation Facilities Referendums has been mailed to Langley households.

Residents are asked to read the brochure carefully and make sure they vote. A favourable result would help build a better Langley, said spokesmen for the City and Township.

Take care of your feet

Don't let the snow and cold put a damper on your schedule this winter. Whether you're an active winter sportsperson or you simply must face the bitter cold enroute to the office -- preparation is the key!

The foot care experts of the Dr. Scholl's Foot Health Advisory Board offer these suggestions for keeping feet warm and comfortable.

• Simply stated, a loss of body heat results in cold feet. To retain body heat, keep your feet insulated and dry, since a wet surface loses heat much faster than a dry one. Wear a pair of nylon socks under a pair of soft cotton ones to insulate feet from the cold. Foot powder also helps to keep feet dry.

• Put some distance between your feet and any cold surface. Thermal insoles or ones made of sheep wool fleece can provide that insulation by preventing the foot from coming into contact with cold surfaces and absorbing moisture. Slip a pair of winter insoles into each pair of shoes or boots which come into contact with the cold outdoors.

• Circulation is especially important in the foot, since the cold constricts blood vessels and blood already is at a low temperature in the part of the body furthest from the heart. Exercise and massage your feet to stimulate circulation, especially in the morning.

• Under certain winter conditions, more than half of your body's heat loss can occur through your scalp, and the body reacts to this by curtailing circulation in the arms and legs. So to keep your toes warm, wear a good woolen hat.

Proper winter foot care doesn't stop here! As temperatures continue to drop and tender tootsies step into winter footwear, these boot-walking tips will also help combat winter weather.

• Be sure boots fit comfortably over insoles and socks to allow feet "breathing room." Tight boots restrict circulation and allow the heat to escape.

• Leave fashion for better weather; comfortable, low-heeled walking boots are best for battling snow drifts, slush and cold. On icy or muddy days, opt for rubbery corrugated boot soles that grip slippery pavement.

• High-heeled fashion boots often cause problems for feet; the steep angle from heel to toe puts extra pressure on the toes and balls of feet. This fatiguing pressure, coupled with the foot's sliding action at each step can produce callouses or blisters on the ball of the foot or on the toes. For protection, pad the metatarsal area with a half insolde that adheres to the shoe.

Following these simple precautions won't prevent bone-chilling temperatures or make you want to break into a spontaneous rendition of "Let It Snow", but it will give you a solid foundation for your winter treks.

Credit union strong

Surrey Credit Union's third quarter results indicate that it is well on its way to another record year in 1988.

The company is showing earnings before income taxes and dividends of $3.8-million as at Sept. 30, 1988 compared to $2.7-million for the same period in 1987.

Total assets have grown to $635-million from $533-million while deposits have increased $91-million to $614-million.

"1988 has been an exceptionally good year", said Surrey Credit Union CEO Lloyd Craig.

'Jack and the beanstalk'

SURREY - Returning to the Surrey Arts Centre for their seventh season, the Fraser Valley Gilbert and Sullivan Society presented this year's pantomine "Jack And The Beanstalk". Filled with hilarious comedy, beautiful songs and fun for all ages, musical pantomine is always a great family treat for the holiday season. Judging from last year's sold out shows you should order your tickets early.

Featured on stage are the hilarious Bob Newcombe as Dame Trot, Mila Yee-Hafer as Jack and Darlene Robinson as the Princess. Supplying more comedy are Jim Smith as King Satupon, Robert McCulloch as Silly Billy, Chad Matchette as the bad guy, Fleshcreep, and Carolyn Kaminski as his arch rival the Vegie Fairy.

Other roles are taken by Pete McCreath and Janet Glassford as Spick and Span and Ann Rowlands playing Mrs. Blunderbore. The show is directed by Dan Steele, choreographed by Carol Seitz, with musical direction by Gary McGill.

Evening performances will be Nov. 24, 25, 26, 30 and Dec. 1, 2, 3 at 7:30, with matinees Nov. 26, 27 and Dec. 3, 4 at 2. Children student and senior tickets are $5.50 with adult tickets $7.50. Group and school rates are available for Wednesday and Thursday nights. All performances are at the Surrey Arts Centre, 13750 - 88 Ave., Surrey. Phone 596-1515 for tickets.

Mysterious disease discussed

LANGLEY - Alzheimer's disease is a fourth leading cause of death in Canada. At least 300,000 people are afflicted, including some 35,000 British Columbians. Between 10,000 and 12,000 Canadians die of the disease each year.

No one knows the exact cause of Alzheimer's disease, but several theories are under intense investigation: genetic causes, abnormal brain structures, chemical deficiency, reduced synthesis of proteins in the brain, aluminum concentration and potential virus infections. The alzheimer syndrome, characterized by increasing memory loss and grave personality and behaviour changes, can occur at any adult age.

Join Dr. John Brynjolfson at the Langley Library, Wednesday, Nov. 16 at 7 p.m. in a discussion of Alzheimer disease and research. Dr. Brynjolfson is a family practioner in Langley and an active member of the BC Medical Association Speaker's Service.

This important program on Alzheimer's Disease is free to the public. However, seating is limited, so please call the Langley Library at 534-3284 to register.

The Foundation has developed a world-wide reputation for providing state-of-the-art computerized equipment and environmental aids for people with physical disabilities. Funds for these services are raised through the annual Kinsmen Mothers' March.

New Surrey Kwantlen campus

VICTORIA - Minister of Advanced Education and Job Training, Stan Hagen, has announced plans for construction of a new permanent campus for Kwantlen College in Surrey.

The new $20-million campus will replace leased portable facilities and accommodate up to 4,000 students. A proposed second phase will increase capacity by a further 3,000 students.

"The first phase of this project was scheduled for construction next budget year," said Hagen. "We undertook the project sooner to help address the need for increased capacity in lower mainland colleges. We expect to call for tenders early next month and start construction in January, 1989. The new campus should open early in 1990."

The new campus will comprise 27 classrooms, a 125-seat lecture theatre, and provide increased capacity in science, business, fine arts, computer labs, and adult basic education facilities, as well as library, cafeteria, student study and lounge areas.

Survey will examine heart risks

VICTORIA - B.C. Health Minister Peter Dueck and federal Health and Welfare Minister Jake Epp have announced the development of a survey to determine risk factors of heart disease in British Columbians.

The British Columbia Heart Health Survey, co-ordinated by the B.C. Ministry of Health and using Ministry-trained staff, will investigate the prevalence and distribution patterns of risk factors of cardio-vascular disease throughout the province.

"The valuable information gathered by this province-wide survey will assist in developing programs to help battle one of the leading causes of death in our society," said Dueck.

Results of the survey, expected next fall, will be used in conjunction with existing information to plan and evaluate public health programs aimed at reducing the risks of heart disease.

Heart diseases have ranked as the number one cause of death in British Columbia for the past three years. In 1986, there were 6,297 deaths related to heart disease and a total of 480,335 hospital days were utilized for circulatory-related illnesses.

Christmas Carol opens this week

langley - Trinity Western University's Drama Department is offering a traditional celebration of the Christmas season: the Charles Dickens classic, a Christmas Carol.

TWU drama instructor Tim Heins says the Dickens story "captures the spirit of sharing and caring in a manner that has become a family favorite."

On Dec. 1, A Christmas Carol moves to the Abbey Arts Centre in Abbotsford for three performances: Thursday and Friday, Dec. 1 and 2 at 8 p.m.; and a 2 p.m. Saturday matinee, Dec. 3.

Tickets for all performances of A Christmas Carol are available at the Trinity Western University Book Store for $7.

The Surrey Arts Centre also has tickets at the box office.

A limited number of reservations for both the Surrey and Abbotsford productions will be taken at the TWU switchboard at 888-7511.

Saturday evening, Dec. 3 at 8 p.m. there will be a special free musical performance by the Trinity Western University choirs and instrumental ensembles at the Abbey Arts Centre.

Many families 'adopted'

LANGLEY - The Christmas Bureau reports that a total of 61 families have been "adopted" as of Nov. 7.

The bureau hopes to reach their target of 500 hampers for families this year, the same number as last year. To date, over 400 families have been identified as in need of some assistance with the expenses of the season.

The size of the hamper varies according to the size of the family, but the average cost is $100 per hamper. Toys for the children are usually included, courtesy of the bureau, which holds the names of the families in confidence.

The public is invited to call co-ordinator Iris Mooney at the bureau to make their pledge. The office is in the Treland Building, 5718-B Glover Road or call 534-2330.

Jamboree time, Sunday

By OPAL THOMAS

First, I must correct a goof I made about the Hallowe'en prizes. Lorraine Verboom gave them out but they were donated by Money's Mushrooms. So, thank you Money's Mushrooms for the tins of mushrooms used for prizes. Many of the prizes are donated. The beautiful flower arrangements we've had all summer were made and donated by Mary Sanderson and her brother Roy Lockhart of Dogwood Nursery.

The prizes at the Wednesday night dance were won by Mae LaFond and Elsie Wild.

The Spot dance prizes by Nap LaFond and Ann Chisholm.

At the Saturday dance an almost full house enjoyed the music of fiddler Norm Gunter, Audrey Wood on piano with Ben (didn't get his last name) on the guitar.

A beautiful clock was donated to the hall by Mabel and Herb Parker and Edie Roberts.

A card was signed for Bob Hare, who is in Lions Gate Hospital in North Van for an operation on his back.

The prizes were won by Mildred Bennett, Fred Chisholm, Evelyn Hartley and Agnes Minty.

The Spot dance prizes by Evelyn Hartley and Charlie Milward, Ellen and Bill Jackson.

The prizes were donated by Sunny Days Florist and one of the hairdressers in Aldergrove.

There will be another Jamboree on Sunday, Nov. 20. Come and hear the different orchestras and dance the evening away.

Xmas Dinner tickets are still available, $7.00 for members, $9.00 for non-members.

New approach to drawing goes on the airwaves

Aldergrove area residents wishing to explore a fresh approach to drawing and visual systems will benefit from a new course to be offered next January on the Knowledge Network. "Mark and Image", an eleven-part telecourse offered jointly by Emily Carr College of Art and Design (ECCAD) and the Open University, will introduce participants to new ways of drawing for function and expression.

The first course of its kind in Canada, "Mark and Image" takes viewers into a drawing studio to watch a class of young students learn to research, analyze and explore objects and ideas to arrive at a personal visual language. The instructor is Tom Hudson, former Dean of Instruction at ECCAD, and writer-presenter of the award winning telecourse, "Colour: An Introduction".

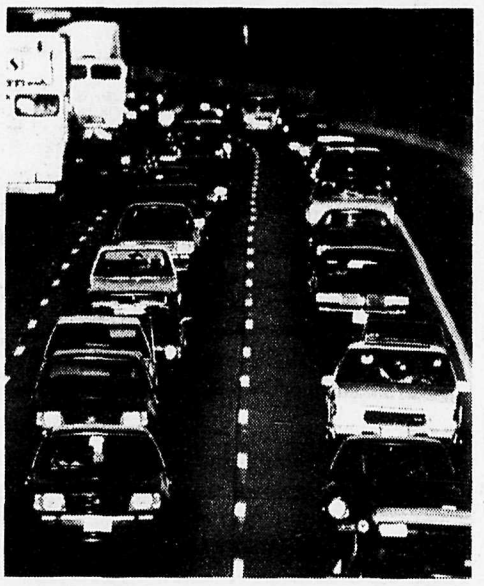
Following the introductory half-hour, each of the ten one-hour programs explores a theme: the effect of physical action on materials, the language of form, the analysis of natural and manufactured objects, the study of the human figure in light, action and concept, and drawing for practical demonstration.

Hudson shows reproductions of drawings by great traditional and contemporary masters, briefs the class and then works with each student, allowing the viewer to watch the creative process in action. Computer generated images parallel explorations undertaken by students using traditional materials. An exhibition of the work produced concludes each hour.

Participants will receive a comprehensive course manual, extensively illustrated with diagrams and drawings by Tom Hudson and reproduction of students' work, as well as all the materials needed to work on the assignments. Credit students also receive the assistance of telephone tutor.

"Mark and Image" may be taken in Aldergrove, for 4 ECCAD credits or 3 Open University credits. Enrolments will be accepted until Dec. 19. Course fee is $210. Persons wishing to register by telephone may call ECCAD at 687-2345 or the Open University at 1-800-663-9711. Registration is limited.

The Cassiar Connector, for people going places.



With 100,000 vehicles passing by every day, the section between the Trans Canada Highway and the Second Narrows Bridge is the busiest stretch of road this side of Toronto.

That's why the new $85 million Cassiar Connector, with its interchange and state-of-the-art tunnel between Adanac and Triumph, is such an integral part of the Lower Mainland's transportation system. With work starting next year, the project will be open for traffic in 1992.

Together with the City of Vancouver and the Federal Government, the Province is working to keep British Columbians miles ahead. After all, when you're a province on the move the last place you want to be is stuck in traffic.

Choir and conductor 'communicate'

LANGLEY - Trinity Western University's Concert Choir is "an exceptionally enthusiastic and committed group", according to choral conductor Jon Thompson.

The 66-voice mixed choir was selected from over 100 vocal auditions. The Women's Choir is comprised of 25 voices. Both will be performing in early December concerts in Langley and Abbotsford.

Thompson is 25 and a 1985 graduate from Trinity Western's music department. He graduated from Western Washington University in '86 with his Masters in Music, and joined the TWU music faculty the following year; this school year he replaces Wes Janzen as choral conductor.

Janzen is taking a year's sabbatical leave to study for his doctorate at the University of Cincinnati.

Thompson says his own main interest and career focus is choral music and musicology. His goals include pratical research into unpublished choral music, especially in the tradition of Baroque and Renaissance pieces.

"My purpose is to edit and perform this type of music. It will involve travelling, and I'm taking advanced Italian and French in preparation."

He says he plans to take time off to study for his doctorate in a year or two, and 16th and 17th century music will be part of that.

Thompson says he likes the fact that the rehearsal situation provides opportunity for interaction between choir and conductor.

"We have good communication. It's almost a musical dialogue."

In the upcoming program, the Trinity Western women's choir sings Benjamin Britten's Ceremony of Carols, which includes harp and soloists from TWU's music department.

The concert choir will perform an assortment of Christmas carols, and Christmas readings will be given by a faculty member. Two instrumental ensembles will also be a feature.

"At the end of the evening we'll have a "carol sing" with the audience. It should be fun!"

Dates for two performances of the TWU choirs are Dec. 2 at the Langley Evangelical Free Church, 208th and 48th, in Langley; and Dec. 3 at the Abbey Arts Centre in Abbotsford.

Both performances are 8 p.m., and everyone's invited!

Looking for gift?

FORT LANGLEY - Are you looking for the perfect Christmas gift? If so, visit the Langley Centennial Museum and National Exhibition Centre and see the superb collection of woven rugs created by the Langley Association for the Handicapped. The rugs are on display in the Museum's foyer space until Nov. 26.

Inez Niemeyer, craft supervisor, oversees the cleaning, dyeing, spinning and weaving of the 100 percent wool rugs. The rugs can be purchased at a reasonable cost and come in a variety of colours, from a blend of brilliant blues and greens to a contrast of chocolate brown and winter white.

The Museum and National Exhibition Centre are located at the corner of King and Mavis Streets in Fort Langley. They are open Tuesdays to Saturdays, from 10 a.m. to 4:45 p.m., and on Sundays from 1 to 4:45 p.m. Admission is free.

Forage competition

ABBOTSFORD - Farmers in the Fraser Valley and Vancouver Island wanting to enter the forage competition being held in conjunction with the Dairy Producers' Short Course, Feb. 14 and 15, 1989 in Matsqui, should submit samples to their local Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries office between Nov. 21 and Dec. 2.

Ministry field crops specialist Don Bates of Chilliwack said that this year marks the tenth anniversary of the South Coastal Forage Competition. "It is very encourageing to note the improvement in forage quality that has occurred in the past ten years," says Bates. "On the whole, farmers can be proud of the job they are doing in growing high-quality feed."

Samples may be entered in three classes - hay (locally-grown only), corn silage and grass silage. Only one entry per class per farm is allowed. In the case of silage, samples that contain physical additives such as alfalfa cubes, beet pulp or rolled barley will not be accepted. Samples of silage treated with a preservative, however, may be entered. Judging is on the basis of feed analysis and visual characteristics. Farmers will be sent a report of the feed analysis results of their sample or samples.

Trophies will be presented to winners in each class during the short course. Top entries will be displayed, along with the feed analysis results and the production practices used to grow the crop. The aim of the competition is to create an awareness among farmers of the quality that can be attained in home-grown forage and to spark an interest among all producers in improving forage quality.

Samples must consist of two parts in order to allow one part to be used for feed analysis while retaining the other for visual judging. A hay sample, therefore, will consist of two separate packages, each containing two 4-inch flakes. A silage sample will consist of two bags, each containing five pounds. Plastic bags are the most convenient containers for silage. Hay may be packed in large plastic bags or cardboard boxes. All packages must be labelled with the farmer's name, mailing address, telephone number and the name of the class.

Samples can be delivered to local Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries offices from Nov. 21 - Dec. 2. Silage samples should be brought in as soon as possible after they are taken out of the silo.

The Abbotsford office is at 33780 Laurel Street, phone 852-5211.

War artist honored

November 11 marked the 70th anniversary of the Armistice that ended the slaughter of World War 1. The scenes of devastation left behind by that war are the subject of a powerful collection of oil paintings by Canadian artist Mary Riter Hamilton.

Until now, Hamilton's battlefield paintings have remained virtually unknown to Canadians. The War Amps is hoping this will change with No Man's Land, a video production it has just released featuring the Canadian artists's life and work.

The half-hour production chronicles Hamilton's remarkable life, dwelling mostly on her three years travelling in war-torn France and Belgium as she attempted to capture the scenes of carnage on canvas. Appearing throughout the production are Hamilton's moving and reflective works. The images she captured convey the horror and futility of war -- a theme that is very much a part of the War Amps "Never Again" message to outlaw war forever.

It was in 1919, just after the signing of the Armistice, that this patriotic Canadian -- a widow already in middle age -- began her journey through the battlefields. During her travels she endured incredible hardships: makeshift shelters, poor food and hostile weather. Emotionally and physically drained, she was never able to paint with the same intensity again after she returned home.

Hamilton refused all offers to buy the battlefield paintings, choosing instead to donate her 227 canvases to the National Archives of Canada for the benefit of veterans, their families and future generations. Unfortunately the paintings have received only limited exposure over all these years.

The War Amps have long known about the story of Mary Riter Hamilton. It was this group that provided her with a modest amount of financing for the trip when she first decided to do her pilgrimage through the battlefields of Europe.

The War Amps would not have been able to bring Hamilton's story to the Canadian public if it weren't for the assistance and guidance of Dr. Angela Davis, visiting fellow in history at St. John's College, University of Manitoba. Dr. Davis has studied the artists's life, and greatly encouraged the veteran's organization to bring her story to the Canadian public.

Copies in various formats are available on loan to the public. There is no rental charge and copies can be requested by writing to: The War Amputations of Canada, 2827 Riverside DR., Ottawa, Ontario. K1V 0C4.

A lot of beans

By PAT PROZESKY

ALDERGROVE - Now it can be told ... there were 2,535 beans in that jar. And the winner, Mrs. N. Eden, was within eight with her guess, 2,543. How about that!

It made for some fun at the Aldergrove Choral Group's bazaar, Saturday last, a bean guessing contest. The weather remained fair for the event and there was good support, people buying and partaking of the delicious goodies offered at the Tea. Many thanks.

The monthly Whist Part at the O.A.P. Hall, sponsored by the Choral Group, will be held Thursday, Nov. 24, 7:30 p.m. Should be another fun evening.

And on Friday, Dec. 2, 7:30 p.m., at the Aldergrove United Church, the Aldergrove Choral Group will be holding its fourth annual benefit in aid of the Food Bank.

Outdoor tips and tales

By C. HERB WILLIAMS

We're always told to skin out a deer or elk as soon as possible to keep the meat sweet. Some game enforcement officers demonstrated that it takes about twice as long for an unskinned animal to cool down as it does a skinned one.

Meat sours and then spoils if not cooled quickly enough. A goal for safe temperature in the field should be below 45 degrees Fahrenheit (7C.).

The officers understood that. What they wanted was guidelines which would tell them whether an animal had been shot a day or two before a season opened, then hidden until opening day.

The unskinned hind quarter of a cow elk was checked along with a skinned quarter from the same animal, in a chilly air temperature of 10 degrees F. (-12 C.)it took more than 20 hours for the temperature to drop to what was considered the safe temperature in the unskinned quarter. The skinned quarter reached that in about 10 hours and was below freezing in the 20 hours it took the unskinned quarter to reach the safe temperature.

They ran a test in 36 degree F. weather (2 C.) on a calf elk, which wasn't much larger than big deer. That warmer temperature still isn't much above freezing, but it took nearly 40 hours to reach the safe temperature, which is plenty of time for some of the meat to spoil. The skinned quarter reached the safe temperature in 20 hours.

Even a small unskinned deer at 42 F. (6 C.) took more than 20 hours to reach the safe temperature. When the temperature was at freezing, it took 15 hours for an unskinned deer to reach the safe temperature.

They won court cases with that information. It proved beyond doubt that we should get game into the shade and skinned as quickly as possible. Wild game that is taken care of properly seldom has a "gamey" taste. That strong flavor comes from not cooling an animal off quickly enough.

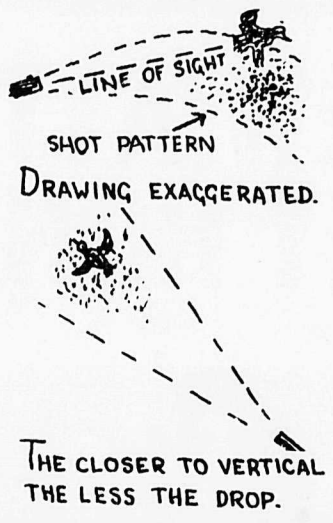
Many fishing lures have treble hooks despite studies which show that singles hold a fighting fish better. With a single, all your setting power is concentrated in one hook.

Once hooked, a treble often creates leverage which lets the hooks work loose during a fight. Then during a leap, the hook comes out.

Herb's outdoor tip of the day

SHOT FROM SHOTGUNS CAN DROP FROM LINE OF SIGHT IN SOME CASES.

THE CLOSER TO HORIZONTAL THE GREATER THE EFFECT.



THE CLOSER TO VERTICAL THE LESS THE DROP.

Too hot

NORTH VANCOUVER - Skiers looking to keep warm this winter on the slopes should beware of cut-rate buys - the clothing may be too hot to wear. Crimestoppers is looking for $90,000 worth of brand name skiwear stolen from Hogarth's Sport & Ski.

Thieves entered Hogarth's 1020 Marine Drive outlet, sometime during the night of Oct. 6 (a Sunday) and took 44 pairs of skis and approximately 500 items of clothing. The clothing - including jackets, suits, pants, and gloves - is mainly quality, label names such as Sun Ice, Far West, and Head. The skis are mainly Fischer and Atomic.

Anyone having knowledge of this theft or the goods taken or has knowledge of an unauthorized dealer selling quantities of skiwear, should contact Crimestoppers at 669-TIPS (8477). Crimestoppers will pay up to $2,000 for information leading to the arrest of an individual or individuals involved in a crime. Callers do not have to reveal an identity or appear in court.

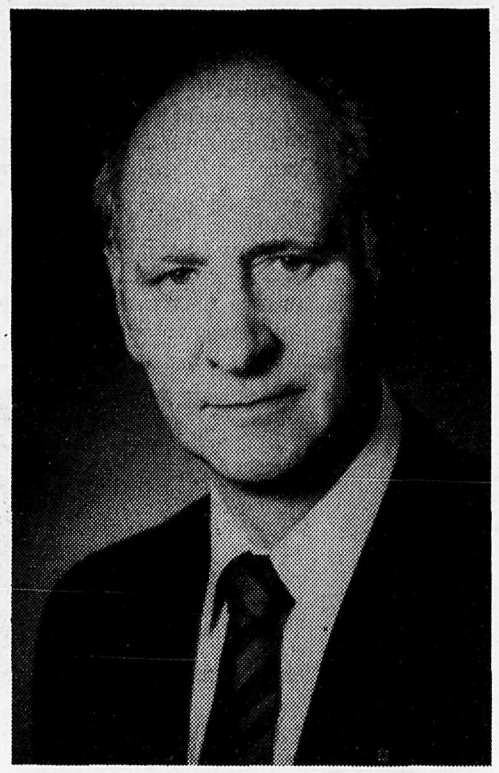
ELECTION '88

MEET YOUR CANDIDATE

FRASER VALLEY WEST



ED VANWOUDENBERG
National Leader of
The Christian Heritage Party of Canada

THE CHRISTIAN HERITAGE PARTY OF CANADA

Canada's Responsible Alternative

DEAR FRIENDS
On Nov. 21 voters have the precious opportunity to influence government decision making.
So many issues demand our attention.
Canada is a nation divided in attitude and spirit, without a vision, a nation FINANCIALLY and morally bankrupt.

OUT OF CONTROL - NATIONAL DEBT.
300 billion dollars-up 100 billion in 4 years. We pay approximately 32 billion a year to service this debt. Yet Mulroney, Turner and Broadbent promise billions to buy your vote, money the taxpayers are taxed for. Can you be bought?

OUT OF CONTROL - ABORTION
We hear clamor for social justice and more programs to address injustices. Let's get our priorities straight and first defend those unable to defend themselves _ the unborn. The CHP wants to retain Canada as a childloving and God fearing nation.
Where do you stand?

OUT OF CONTROL - TAXATION
Taxes increased 30% over 4 years, and the proposed V.A.T. tax will further hurt the consumer. Must we be taxed to death?

OUT OF CONTROL - WELFARE
More handouts without corresponding responsibilities. The CHP wants to be generous to those in need, but calling those who abuse the system back to contributing behavior.

THESE ARE DISTURBING TIMES
The NDP expounds socialism instead of social justice, and forsakes its allies of freedom - they are scary!
The Liberals can't manage their own affairs, and have lost all integrity. We can't afford to turn these architects of misguided attitudes loose on our country.
The conservatives have forgotten what needs to be conserved, and have failed to protect the unborn, retain a family day of rest, or keep us from escalating debt.

OUR SOCIETY HAS SUFFERED A DERAILMENT - LET'S GET IT BACK ON TRACK!! ON NOVEMBER 21, VOTE WITH YOUR CONSCIENCE.

Skeptics challenge graphologists

BURNABY - Barry Beyerstein is willing to be persuaded that graphology works, but practioners are making it difficult for the Simon Fraser psychology professor to regard the 'art' of reading handwriting as anything different from the 'art' of reading tea leaves.

Beyerstein, chairman of the 150-member B.C. Society of Skeptics, last spring issued a challenge to graphologists to submit their 'skills' to scientific scrutiny.

"The Committee for the Scientific Investigation of Claims of the Paranormal, an international body which we support, has investigated a number of paranormal interests such as psychic surgery, clairvoyance, predicting the future, and astrology," says Beyerstein.

"We became really concerned last spring when news media reported some local employers were using graphologists to analyze the handwriting of job applicants, and that one school board was contemplating using graphology to detect child molesters among the teaching staff.

"It's one thing to 'dabble' in spoon bending, but quite another to predicate a person's career and indeed their whole future on something as unproven as graphology."

No local graphologists accepted Beyerstein's challenge, but Linda Pitney, owner of Toronto's Canadian College of Kinesiography offered to take part in a test and signed a protocol outlining exactly how the study would be carried out.

"Using graphology, she was to identify the personal characteristics of 25 subjects at a greater-than-chance level," Beyerstein says. "If she failed, she voluntarily offered to close her school."

Since the original protocol was signed, attempts by Beyerstein to begin testing have met with a series of delays.

"This sort of avoidance is not uncommon among those who claim to have paranormal skills and abilities. Pitney picked up a lot of media coverage by agreeing to our study," he says. "In the eyes of some people, that gave some credence to what she was doing.

"But it appears she has no intention of actually taking part in the study."

Beyerstein says paranormal phenomena or pseudoscientific claims investigated by the society are often not fraudulent in nature.

"Sometimes it involves people deceiving themselves by setting up flawed studies. It isn't deliberate, but even in scientific circles, self-deception can happen."

Members of CSICOP include behavioural researcher B.F. Skinner, author Isaac Asimov, astronomer Carl Sagan, paleontologist Stephen Jay Gould, and Novel laureates Francis Crick and Murray Gellmann.

"With an international network including people of that calibre, we have access to the most advanced research techniques and equipment. And we have a truly impressive bank of experience upon which to draw."

Beyerstein says the main function of the society is educational, using the scientific specialities of members to investigate paranormal and pseudoscientific claims, and to bring their results to the attention of the public.

"Most of the things we investigate have to do with comforting beliefs. The world can be a pretty scary place and it would be nice to think that there was some way of protecting yourself by creating your own reality.

"I guess we'd all like to know what the future has in store for us, and to be able to control it for the benefit of ourselves and our loved ones.

"One of the basic tenets of many of these comforting beliefs is that good people will be rewarded automatically, and bad people will somehow get their come-uppance."

Beyerstein says some research into ostensibly paranormal phenomena has resulted in corroborative findings, which suggest areas for further research.

"Hypnosis is a good example of something once thought magical but now routinely studied and used therapeutically."

Positive thought is another area which can be effective.

"Now, I have to qualify that somewhat," he says. "For example, some people truly believe you can cure disease just be thinking positive thoughts.

"Research has established that people with a positive attitude do appear to have an advantage in some cases.

"Doctors will tell you that given two patients with life-threatening diseases, the person with the positive attitude has a better chance of survival than the person who just resigns to fate.

"But the scientific research has to ask what has really happened: has the body's immune system been stimulated by the physical concommitants of positive emotions, or do people with a positive attitude do other things that reinforce the healing process -- things like being more conscientious abut diet, rest, or taking medication?

"We know a good mental attitude has beneficial effects, but by itself, it doesn't stop a cancer from growing.

"We're concerned that people who fall into the hands of paranormal healers will turn their backs on proven techniques and place their faith -- and their lives -- with something that is untested and unproven."

The B.C. society plans to form a 'health quackery' information service. "This will deal with fringe health claims, including some within conventional medical practice," says Beyerstein. "If people want to call us, we'd be happy to give them information on the subject, and perhaps they can help us find new areas for research." (Beyerstein can be reached through the Simon Fraser department of psychology, at 291-3354.)

Drastic assessment increases

MURRAYVILLE - A letter from Mayor Marilyn Baker of North Vancouver "merits consideration", says local Ald. Aubrey Searle.

Baker wants the provincial government to put a lid on increases in property assessments.

"We are concerned," says Baker, "about a significant redistribution of the tax load within the residential category all in one year."

Assessment increases in the lower mainland average 11.8 percent this year, with some property values going down and others far outstripping this number, says municipal manager Jim Godfrey.

Councilors here have asked their finance department to come up with a report on this problem.

Young child didn't

By DR. BOB YOUNG

Finding a young child to borrow for a day in a city away from home was a bit of a challenge for a young medical student. It had to be done as a prelude to an assignment in the child psychology course.

It was managed - the landlady had a friend who had a daughter with a two-year-old. I was more than welcome to borrow the child for a day. The mother was a bit disappointed to find that she had to be there. She was hoping I would provide some baby-sitting.

It was a long time ago, but I remember setting the alarm so I would be awake before the baby. Clipboard in hand I followed the kid around all day, making notes of everything he did, how he responded to feedings, his bath, diaper changes, music on the radio, and being put to bed for naps and for the night.

His attention span with toys was recorded and his reaction to a bedtime story noted. I watched him fall asleep and wake up, all for the sake of science - or at least my education.

I was supposed to accomplish all this and more while remaining unobserved, or at least in the background, as far as the child was concerned. This was soon abandoned as the child was friendly, spending a lot of time climbing over me trying to steal my pencil.

The notes were organized, the assignment completed, the course passed, and the incident forgotten.

But not by everyone. The landlady, a lifelong chum of my mother, passed away recently. The clan gathered at the service, along with family friends, and the usual reminiscing occured.

Among those there were the landlady's friend, her daughter, and a handsome man in his mid-thirties. He, of course, was the object of my 'scientific study' of so many years ago. The older folk seemed to remember everything that had happened on that day - the story had been a conversation piece for years.

Until reminded, I had forgotten all about it. And maybe I did do a pretty good job of stayed unobserved.

At least the child involved couldn't remember anything at all about that day!

Many come to aid of Food Bank

ALDERGROVE - The local Food Bank might be "small potatoes" in the scheme of things, but it does put real nutrition on the table for a substantial number of people each week.

Food is distributed according to need each Tuesday from 1 to 3 p.m. The numbers of recipients fluctuates greatly, ranging up to an all-time high of 60 families recorded last July.

It is run by volunteers from the community, under the leadership of Larry and Joy Clement. Larry, a disabled, former Ontario Provincial Police officer, said they organize the disbursement of available groceries so that all receive a fair share, whether the family is one person or six.

The Clements also co-ordinate food trades with other Food Banks, whenever they have too much of one item and not enough of others.

The Food Bank has received substantial donations of goods and money from all segments of society; individuals, organizations, businesses, unions and churches over the years. Some residents, like Mount Lehman's 80-year-old Lyle Lehman, grow a garden for the Food Bank. Anonymous school teachers make cash donations. Safeway, Super Valu and Fraser Valley Bakeries, among many others, provide food by the palletload.

"We sincerely thank all these people," said Larry, but adds that there are still times when the demand is greater than the supply.

The Food Bank welcomes donations at any time, of cash or goods.

"We hardly ever throw anything away," said Joy, with a laugh. "If it's too old to give to people, we give it to a farmer for his pigs or chickens. No reason to waste it."

Larry also sparked a decision by his men's group at the United Church to sponsor a benefit next month at Aldergrove Centre. The U.C. men will be serving a pancake breakfast at Jay's Burgers, and local Scouts will be selling the tickets at the mall.

He encourages other clubs to stage similar benefits to help local families make it through the winter.

"It's a worthy cause, and it makes you feel good when you help people out. If you saw the happiness on the faces of the little tykes who come here with Mom or Dad, you'd know what I mean," said Larry.

Cash donations can be sent to the Aldergrove Food Bank, care of Aldergrove United Church, 2623 - 272 Street, Aldergrove, B.C. V0X 1A0. Arrangements can be made for delivery or pick-up of goods, by calling 856-8925 or 856-8675.

The Food Bank is located in the rear of the United Church. It is a registered charity, number 0688978-09-27, and will issue tax-deductible receipts on request.

Brothers Brenden and Shelby Goertzen delivered a truckload of goods to the Aldergrove Food Bank last week, on behalf of the Bakerview Pathfinders. The 30-member club collected the food on Hallowe'en night in about two hours time.

The Pathfinders, a club for 10 to 16-year-olds, is affiliated with the local 7th Day Adventist Church.

Maximum sentence

LANGLEY - Provincial Court Judge E. A. Sather gave the maximum sentence to a young man convicted on the charge of second-degree murder of Aldergrove mother, Wendy Cochrane.

The 18-year-old, tried under the Young Offenders' Act, is to be imprisoned for three years. The Act does not allow the publication of the man's name.

The sentence will be reviewed in one year.

The Crown had attempted to have the case raised to adult court, but the Crown Counsel application was denied. An adult would have received a life sentence, with no parole considered for the first ten years of the sentence.

Langley RCMP found Cochrane, 48, stabbed to death in her home on April 3. Police had responded to an early morning distress call from Cochrane, who reported an intruder in the house.

Defense lawyers had cited the man's consumption of alcohol and drugs as contributing factors.

Retaliation is expected

WASHINGTON - If the free-trade agreement is scrapped, Canada could face a rash of U.S. trade actions, say economists and business groups here.

"There would be a flood of new trade cases filed against Canada," if Prime Minister Brian Mulroney fails to get the majority he needs in the Nov. 21 election to push the deal through, economist Jeff Schott said.

"The complaints will come forward against Canadian practices that were quite thoroughly exposed during the trade negotiations," said Schott, an analyst with the Institute for International Economics, a Washington think tank.

Judge Morris, trade director for the National Association of Manufacturers, predicted groups such as natural resources producers and auto-parts makers would use a sweeping new U.S. trade law to go after Canadian subsidies which they say hurt the United States.

Michigan, for example, has already filed an unfair-trade complaint against Canadian government subsidy program used to lure Asian automakers to Canada.

Washington consultant Charles Blum, also a former U.S. trade negotiator, said the "pent-up demand" for trade retaliation could lead to more unfair-trade cases against subsidized Canadian exports.

"There may be a feeling (among U.S. industries) that there's no reason to be restrained in trying to use trade laws or perhaps seek some changes in a few things like the auto pact," he said.

The Liberals and the New Democrats have promised to scrap the agreement if they win the election next Monday.

Councilors mull over change

MURRAYVILLE - A couple of "lawnchair pilots" say local aldermen have a fear of the unknown and that is why they won't let them take off from their 15-acre farm in their two ultralight flying machines.

Gordon and Dorothy Brogan of 3350 Livingstone Road came to council Monday night and asked for a minor change to the zoning of their property.

The Brogans say their neighbors have nothing against this use of the land. They even brought one former neighbor who urged councilors not to put an excess of restrictions on the use of private property.

Aldermen told the delegates that they "sympathise with the dilemma" but are caught "betwixt and between" on the issue.

They asked for more time to "explore" the request.

Nurses protest

LANGLEY - Nurses at Memorial Hospital, angry over the loss of nursing supervisors, staged an hour-long sit-in, Thursday morning.

Four supervisory jobs were deleted in September, and were offered a choice of alternate positions at LMH.

Nurses' spokesman Kay Davidson charged that LMH administration deleted the jobs because a recent contract settlement allowed more pay for jobs with greater responsibility. About $175,000 is owed to nurses under this agreement, dating back to 1980.

Nurses called it "a blow to already low morale" among staff, who recently also saw the deletion of orderlies' positions.

Hospital administration said the changes were carefully planned, and the new division of duties would result in greater effectiveness and efficiency. Other hospitals, including Vancouver General, initiated similar changes without staff action, said Page Wheatley.

Greed the cause

ALDERGROVE - "War is a disgrace," said one of Canada's last surviving Boer War veterans.

George Ives of Aldergrove is 106 years old.

He fought in South Africa in 1899, when he was only 17 years old.

Ives walked to the cenotaph at the Legion building to lay his wreath at Remembrance Day ceremony.

"All wars are caused by greed," said the crusty old soldier.
