Have a "fair" time!

I've found my PNE party animal! Eight-month-old Alexis Martin of Aldergrove is secure in her mother Bonnie's arm as she makes a new friend in the Dairyland Petting Farm at the Pacific National Exhibition.

The PNE closed a profitable season with over a million visitors, but there's still plenty of good fair times left in the valley, including this Saturday in Aldergrove.

ALDERGROVE - Bring those giant pumpkins and frightful scarecrows down to Aldergrove Mall this weekend, along with your prize-winning needlework and flowers. The Aldergrove Fall Fair is back in action this Saturday, and you could be bringing home prize ribbons that evening.

The fair runs from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday, Sept. 9, and admission is free all day long. There also is no charge for entry submissions in the many categories offered by the Aldergrove Agricultural Association. Prize programs are available at the AAA office in the mall, and exhibits and entry forms are to be delivered this Friday evening, Sept. 8, between 6 and 9 p.m.

Organizer, Tina Nikkel said there will be numerous demonstrations that are sure to capture interest, including the Fort Langley heritage garden display, a quilter and spinner, knitting machine, carver, dried flower arranger, origami and equine art, plus a painter. There will be live entertainment on the stage, and outside the antique engines will be fired up.

"It's coming along quite nicely," said Nikkel. "And we want to see if there's enough interest in bringing it back on a bigger scale; we could be encouraged to do that if the response is great."

Competition categories include domestic science, needlework, hobbies and handicrafts, flowers and plants, fruit, vegetables, art, and the popular pumpkin and scarecrow contests. For entry forms and information call the AAA at 857-0588, or drop by their office in the mall.

"Refugee" case drags on

VANCOUVER - Convicted criminal Bounjan Aii Inthavong will be allowed a private discussion with Laotian officials regarding his deportation.

At his latest detention hearing on Tuesday, September 5, it was decided to allow the conversation, and a follow up hearing is scheduled for next week to determine the results of the discussion and decide the next step.

Fraser Valley West MP Randy White called the decision allowing the discussion 'stupid.'

"The meeting will be in private, so no one will know what's being discussed, but you better believe he's not going to beg to be taken back," he said. "He's going to convince them in private not to take him back. Wouldn't you, if given the opportunity? This whole thing doesn't make any sense at all."

Inthavong was found guilty of aggravated assault in the shooting death of 18 year-old Abbotsford resident Kirby Martin in 1990. He was sentenced to five years in jail.

Immigration Minister Sergio Marchi declared Inthavong a danger to the public and ordered him deported and held in custody until such time. He gets a detention review hearing every 30 days to determine if continued incarceration is necessary.

The case is precedent setting because Canada has no formal diplomatic relations with Laos. The Canadian Ambassador in Thailand supposedly spoke to Laotian officials, who promised in a July 4 letter that travel papers would be issued that week.

The papers have not arrived, and it cannot be confirmed that it was the ambassador who spoke with Laotian officials, only that 'high level negotiations' took place.

STILL CHAMPION OF THE CAUSE

Auntie Meow evicts her cats, with regrets

ALDERGROVE - "Auntie Meow" is putting out the cats and locking the doors for the last time this week. Madalynn Gilmore has her regrets and many will miss her efforts in finding good homes for stray cats, but she simply doesn't have the space for it in her condominium and the tenants' organization has ordered an end to it.

Madalynn and husband, Gordy have provided temporary shelter for what must have been thousands of cats over the years. The couple also work seven days a week at their TLC Pet Sitters business, which will continue to operate -- this service is provided in the pet owners' homes so there is no conflict with the Gilmore's neighbours. Much of the business' profits were put into the thousand dollars a month the couple spent on providing stray cats with food, litter and medical attention.

"I got so many referrals from the SPCA, other animal rescue organizations and individuals over the years," she told The Star last week as she worked in finding homes for the last of her cats. The interview was frequently interrupted by calls regarding cats. "They told me that I can't stop, because I've found more homes than anyone else, but the truth is I have to stop. They have to find a new rescue person -- I can't afford to buy a bigger place in the country." Gilmore said she didn't want to stop but she understands that she can't impose on her neighbours by breaking strata council bylaws which limit households to one cat each.

This doesn't mean she will cease campaigning for the animals, and she intends to actively support measures under consideration in the lower mainland. She is pleased that New Westminster city council is considering a bylaw which requires owners of cats to have them spayed or neutered. The Vancouver Humane Society will also be requesting Langley township to establish a cat rescue fund or facility, similar to that provided to dogs.

Spaying and neutering are "a must" for the cats which she has adopted out over the years. The cost is quite reasonable, she said, pointing to the Langley Animal Clinic which performs the operation for $40 and the Vancouver SPCA's charge of $35 for females and $30 for males which undergo the operation.

"Do you realize that if just two cats breed and none of their offspring or descendants die, within just four years there could be 20,755 cats resulting from those two cats?" said Madalynn. "This is the potential result of negligent owners -- who could look after so many cats?"

As her deadline to cease operation closed in, Madalynn still had a handful of cats looking for homes. Some of these were the 24 kittens left by a farmer who moved away from Satchell Road. Some were from the 100 cats the Chilliwack SPCA sent her over the summer. Many, many more were destroyed by the SPCA in the lower mainland, as "good homes" just can't keep up with the prolific breeders.

Public education is the only way to overcome these disheartening statistics, and Madalynn says this is where she will direct her attention for the future. She welcomes calls from people who want to help change these little tragedies into a better world for the creatures -- she can also still provide references for those who want to find homes for cats or adopt a cat of their own. Her phone numbers are 856-6487 or 856-4866.

Madalynn Gilmore will no longer be able to provide a "safe house" for abandoned cats, but she will continue to push for humanitarian treatment of felines. -Kurt Langmann photo

Police warn local motorists

ALDERGROVE - Police here and throughout the Lower Mainland will be conducting 'Back to school blitzes' for the rest of this month, to remind motorists, that children are back in school after the summer break, and to take care in and around school zones.

Enforcement of school zone speeding and crosswalk and stop sign violations will be increased. Speed enforcement will be conducted using radar and laser detection equipment.

The 'Back to school blitz' is part of continuing safety initiatives aimed at increasing driver awareness and reducing the number and severity of accidents in the Lower Mainland.

Communicating in Langley

LANGLEY – Ten local community groups that were awarded mini-grants under the Communicating in the Langleys project will be showcasing their accomplishments on the evening of September 13.

The public is invited to come and meet these locat people and see what they've been doing to increase their communication skills in order to take more effective action on issues affecting the health and well being of their community.

The program runs from 7 to 9:30 pm and will be held at the H.D. Stafford Secondary School Cafeteria at 20441 Grade Crescent.

The Communicating in the Langleys mini-grants project, which received Healthy Communities Initiative funding from the provincial Ministry of Health, is administered by the Township of Langley and Langley City, in addition to a number of local government agencies and community groups.

The philosophy behind the mini-grant project was that many groups need to increase their communications skills as a first step toward accomplishing their goals. The diversity of groups and the enthusiasm and innovation of the participants suggest that the program has been a success. All 10 groups that received mini-grants will be making presentations at the Showcasing Evening on September 13. These include:

•The Brookswood Youth Coffee Jam Committee has produced a CD and cassette tape featuring Langley-based youth bands that have played at their coffee house-style Kofi Hows and Coffee Jams over the past year.

"We really needed help from the adults in the community to pull this project off. The mini-grant was greatly appreciated," said Harry Friesen of the Kofi Hows Committee.

•The Langley Leisure Link Advisory Committee has developed a brochure to attract volunteers and inform the public and consumer groups about their services. They assist people with special needs to become involved in community, recreational and leisure pursuits.

•The Mayor's Advisory Steering Committee on Accessibility has developed a brochure to inform the public about their services and programs and about accessibility issues for the disabled.

•The Aldergrove Heritage Society will be training about 20 volunteers in the Super Host Program to better equip them in their task of providing visitors with historical information about the community.

June Wilson, Aldergrove Heritage Society commented, "This is a wonderful initiative to help community groups. So often there's no funding for training volunteers."

•The Langley Peer Support Outreach Program will be training 10 volunteers to visit isolated people who have experienced a mental illness. At some time in their lives, the volunteers also have experienced a mental illness.

•The Langley Horse Federation has developed a newsletter to encourage interaction, co-operation and industry pride within the Langley horse community. The Summer '95 issue became available at the beginning of July and a fall issue is currently being prepared.

•The Aldergrove Community Centre Society is holding a series of leadership seminars throughout September and October, at which local community leaders will support and teach people who want to polish their leadership skills and enhance the effectiveness of their organization.

•A partnership comprised of the Langley District Parent Advisory Council, Rogers Cable and Langley School District #35 has developed a video series on ways parents can be more involved with their children's education. The mini-grant funds were used to help ensure wide distribution of the video.

The GAP Committee is working directly with families in Langley to identify the supports that families need to enhance their well-being. It is hoped that, as well as identifying gaps in existing services, the community survey process will raise awareness of family support issues and help community members advocate for more prevention-oriented programs.

•The Langley branches of the Fibromyalgia Society of B.C. and the ME Society of B.C. have produce a brochure to inform the community and the medical profession about fibromyalgia and myalgic encephalomyelitis (two poorly understood medical conditions) and about the Langley FM & ME self-help group.

Doug Pritchard of the Langley FM and ME Societies highlighted the importance of the mini-grants by saying, "This brochure wouldn't have happened without the mini-grant funding!"

New technical university on drawing board

SURREY – The Fraser Valley University Society, which lobbied the government successfully to construct a university in the Fraser Valley area, and which has a representative on the new university's Planning Council, is hosting a public forum to discuss the technical university to be constructed in Cloverdale.

The Fraser Valley University Society's survey of educators, as well as the society's presentations to several community groups throughout the valley such as chambers of commerce, Lions and Rotary clubs, business and faculty associations, and parent advisory councils, revealed an extensive interest in the future of post-secondary education in the region. This forum will allow for information on the University Planning Council's work to be presented and discussed. The type and range of programs to be offered at the technical university are a high priority for the council, which makes public input important.

A panel of distinguished guests will include Ron Dickson, chair of the University Interim Planning Council and assistant business manager of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers; Heather Thomson, Planning Council member, vice-president of human resources of Thomson Technologies and past president of the Surrey Chamber of Commerce; Sharon Shilliday, Planning Council member, founding member of the Fraser Valley University Society and socials department head and teacher at West Whalley Junior Secondary School. The Interim Planning Council consists of appointees from business, education and the community, all of whom are volunteering their time to assist in the planning process.

Robert Lowe, president of the Fraser Valley University Society and retired vice-president of Kwantlen College, will chair the forum to be held on Wednesday, September 27 at the Fraser Valley Real Estate Board's Theatre, 15463–104 Avenue. Doors will open at 7:30 pm, the forum will begin at 8 pm and is planned to conclude at 9:30 pm.

Hit/run probed

SURREY - Police are investigating a hit and run accident that occurred near the entrance to the Wheelhouse Pub in the 12800 block of 96 Avenue, just before 5 p.m, Saturday, August 26.

An 80 year-old woman was driving her electric cart southbound in the alley,when a blue 1970s Ford pick-up truck with a white canopy struck her. The driver stopped and spoke to the woman, who sustained a bump on the head, skinned arms and bruised legs, and then left the scene.

Anyone with information about the driver of this vehicle is asked to contact Corporal Larry Tyndall of the Surrey RCMP Traffic Section at 599-0502, local 3847 or CrimeStoppers at 669-TIPS(8477).

Robbery suspects charged

ABBOTSFORD - Police have charged two 23 year-olds in connection with the August 17 robbery of the Ware Street Market.

Shawn Pope and Tammy Rosalie Huber have been charged with Armed robbery and Possession of a dangerous weapon as a result of a knife that was used in the offence.

Both were also charged with Break and enter after breaking into an apartment later the same day.

Huber also faces an additional charge of Armed robbery after the August 14 attempted robbery of the Chevron Town Pantry on South Fraser Way.

Danes send Nazi south

BERLIN - Gary Lauck, a leading American merchant of neo-Nazi newspapers and paraphernalia, may be extradited from Denmark to Germany, where he is expected to stand trial for breaking federal hate laws, the highest Danish court has ruled.

Germany has been trying for almost eight years to secure the arrest and conviction of Lauck, a Lincoln, Nebraska based publisher whom prosecutors consider one of the Continent's most pernicious distributors of Nazi memorabilia.

Divorced parents face elimination of tax breaks

OTTAWA - Justice Minister Allan Rock's proposal to end a multi-million-dollar tax break for divorced fathers is a blatant "tax grab," a right-wing lobby group has charged.

Rock has vowed to take harsh action against "deadbeat dads" - divorced fathers who fail to make court-ordered support payments for their children. The justice minister raised the idea of taking away their passports to force payment.

But, at a legal conference in Winnipeg, Rock also said he was considering eliminating a current 100 percent tax deduction available to parents - mostly fathers - making child support payments.

The support payments are completely tax-deductible for the paying parents, but must be declared as income by the parents who receive the payments on behalf of their children.

The system has been a boon to low-income mothers, whose payments are theoretically higher because the paying parent is supported by the tax system. But the system has resulted in high-income moms paying more income tax than they would without the payments.

However, the Supreme Court of Canada last May ruled the tax deduction system is not discriminatory and ordered a Quebec woman to pay several years of owed income tax.

Rock told reporters the government could collect up to $200-million more in income tax if the deduction were eliminated. More tax would be collected because the paying fathers are generally in higher income brackets than the mothers.

The Canadian Taxpayers Federation blasted Rock's proposal and accused him of planning to "raid kids' lunchboxes" by lowering the money paid by supportive fathers.

"The justice minister's plan to eliminate the child-support payment deduction means less income for parents to spend on their kids," said Jason Kenney, the federation's founder and president.

"Allan Rock wants to take $200-million out of children's lunchboxes and put it in the hands of government bureaucrats."

The system would result in both parents paying tax, Kenney said. He proposed the government allow parents to decide at the time of their divorce which parent will pay the tax.

"Rock's proposal amounts to a basic tax grab," Kenney said.

Creek improvements

ALDERGROVE – Langley Environmental Partners Society and Aldergrove's Bertrand Creek Enhancement Committee wish to acknowledge the support of the following sponsors for this past summer's environmental enhancement projects along the Bertrand Creek in Aldergrove: Environmental Partners Fund (Environment Canada), Department of Fisheries & Oceans (Salmonid Enhancement), Township of Langley (Engineering), Trans Mountain Pipeline, Eze Rent-It Centre Ltd., Aldergrove Thrift Shop, Tim Horton's Donuts (Langley and Aldergrove), Aldergrove Kinsmen; Community Center and Heritage Park, Aldergrove Chamber of Commerce, Alder Grove Heritage Society, Canada Safeway, Fraser Valley Bakery, Subway Sandwiches and Salads, Otter Co-Op, Extra Food and the B.C. Quebec rift 'an opportunity'

FORT St.JOHN - The Quebec referendum could, in the long run, prove to be good for Western Canada, says a B.C. politician.

Jay Hill (Reform - Prince George-Peace River) says any goodies offered Quebec to stay a part of Canada will likely have to be offered to the rest of the country as well.

"There are some similarities between some of the demands of Quebec for more control of their own affairs and the same types of demands from Western Canada.

"It might ultimately work in favor of some of the demands coming from Western Canada."

Hill says that his party's vision of Quebec is that "it operates within Canada and there are no more powers or special concessions granted (to Quebec) than would be granted to any other province."

Improvements to Hwy.1

VICTORIA – More than $1-million will be invested in highway projects in the North Vancouver–Seymour constituency under the 1995/96 highway rehabilitation program. Transportation and Highways Minister Jackie Pement announced this week.

Design of the seismic upgrading program for the Iron Workers Memorial Second Narrows Crossing will be completed and the first stages of construction to upgrade the structure will be initiated. This project is one of several to ensure ministry structures reflect current seismic standards.

'Newt of the North' will restore our work ethic

TORONTO - Newt Gingrich may be hogging the headlines in the United States with an ambitious legislative program and disclosures about his past affairs, but to the north an antigovernment revolution is sweeping across Canada with less fanfare.

Mike Harris, a former golf professional, small businessman and now the premier of Ontario is spearheading a populist crusade to roll back the frontiers of the state.

In most respects, his agenda is considerably more radical and specific than Speaker Gingrich's "Contract with America."

Two years after the ruling Progressive Conservatives were wiped out in federal elections and reduced to two parliamentary seats, Harris led the party back to power in provincial elections in Ontario.

Since his unexpected victory in June, Harris has slashed provincial spending by more than $2.2-billion, moved to honour a promise to cut personal income taxes by one-third within three years, set about scrapping a quota-based affirmative action employment law, and cut welfare benefits by more than 20 percent.

Next on the agenda is a comprehensive "workfare" scheme which will require all able-bodied welfare recipients to take a job or undergo training or lose their benefits.

Thus far, opposition has been surprisingly muted, and opinion polls show support for the Conservatives is holding up well.

"The public mood," Harris said in an interview with The Daily Telegraph, "is 'cut more and solve our problems'."

As Harris transformed himself from a small town entrepreneur into a political leader, he was ridiculed by his opponents and almost all of the media as a redneck who did not understand the more "caring" nature of Canadian politics.

They accused him of being too brash and - worse still - campaigning like an American politician. But no one underestimates him now.

Until recently, the term "angry white Canadian voter" was almost an oxymoron. Canadians tend to define themselves by virtue of being more compassionate than Americans, more supportive of the welfare state and confident that the government can solve social problems. While most Canadian politicians talk of compassion and equity and racial justice, Harris speaks of fiscal discipline and the work ethic.

His victory is seen as proof that Canada is not immune to the antigovernment tide sweeping North America.

Although he is amused to have acquired the nickname 'Newt of the North', he is adamant that the revolution in Ontario is homegrown, not just a spillover from the Republican victory in the U.S. last winter.

Oh yeah!

One of the great lies of modern society: "I am from the government, and I'm here to help you."

Growing impatient

CALGARY - As Quebec voters prepare for an anticipated fall election on whether to separate from Canada, the rest of the country is sending a new message to would-be separatists: Love it or leave it.

In a reversal of 30 years of Canadian popular sentiment and public policy, Quebeckers are being told not to count on any more compromises or concessions in exchange for staying in the country, and to expect tough negotiations on the terms of separation if they vote to depart.

The message is coming most loudly and clearly from Western Canada, where resentment of the national obsession with Quebec is strongest.

"People say we've tried to make the country a better place for Quebec and ... the question now is, "Are you in or are you out?" says Stephen Harper, a member of parliament from Calgary.

"It's time (for Quebec) to put up or shut up," adds Dave Rutherford, a popular Calgary radio talk-show host whose conservative opinions warm the airwaves daily.

Such attitudes - and polls indicate they are widespread in most of Canada - could have a profound impact on the Quebec referendum, expected in October or November.

Some argue that hard-line tactics could backfire by inflaming nationalist feelings in Canada's only French-speaking province and driving more voters to the cause of independence. That does not seem to be happening yet, and in any case the prevailing attitude seems to be that it is worth the risk to resolve the national unity issue once and for all.

"There is no doubt in my mind that one reason Canada hasn't been able to successfully grapple with its financial problems and other issues is due to the threat of separation,' says Harper.

A few even contend Canada would be better off without Quebec. David Bercuson, and Barry Cooper, two University of Calgary professors, argued in Canadian Business magazine last year that "Quebec and Canada must go their own ways. Although the short-term costs will be high, the longer-term costs of Quebec's staying in Canada, but with bags forever packed and one foot always out the door, promise to be literally without limits."

It's no coincidence that these outspoken voices come from Calgary, a brawny oil and cattle centre of 800,000 people at the foot of the Rocky Mountains. Calgary celebrates its 'redneck culture' - a term not as connotative of intolerance here as in the United States, but emblematic of outspoken disdain for the Eastern Canadian establishment and especially its deference to Quebec.

As many Westerners see it, Canada has coddled Quebec for 30 years - often at their expense - in an effort to keep it from bolting the country. French was declared an official national language on a par with English; Quebec benefits from a de facto quota system for government jobs and contracts; Canadians pay inflated prices for milk mainly to protect Quebec dairy farmers; millions of tax dollars have been transferred out of prosperous Western provinces into poorer Quebec as "equalization payments."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

No more funds

Editor, The Star, Sir,

To my extended family...

It is with deep regret and concern that I, a volunteer of only two years, say goodbye to a twelve year endeavour to help those in crisis. The Langley Crisis Line cut its phone lines today, September 1, 1995, due to lack of funding. A mere seventy-nine thousand dollars – the funding required to run the Langley Crisis Line for one full year and to help thousands of people in that year – is the only thing standing between over thirty volunteers and those crying for help, those in need, those in crisis or those who simply need an ear that will not judge them.

The lack of effort, demonstrated by Langley Family Services administration to secure funding, and no government aid, are to blame for this tragic closure of a much needed service. Incoming calls will be directed by an inhuman voice message to other crisis lines already overwhelmed by many calls, such as Surrey and Vancouver.

To Kathy and Linda, the only paid staff, and to all the caring and unselfish volunteers who made the crisis line happen, good luck and best wishes, you will all be missed. We can only hope that one day those in crisis will once again hear our caring and supportive voices through the telephone receiver.

Student jobs appreciated

Editor, The Star, Sir,

The Canada Employment Centre for Students would like to thank you for your generous participation in our program this summer. Without the support of local businesses and organizations, our program would not be so successful. Enclosed is an Award of Appreciation to recognize your support for the youth of this community.

Every summer from April to September, the Hire-A-Student Program is in operation across Canada. Over forty offices in the B.C./Yukon region, staffed by post-secondary students and graduates, are open during this time to help fill your vacancies each summer.

The services of the Canada Employment Centre for Students are offered free of charge to both employers and students.

We look forward to assisting you again next summer.

If it had to do with sports ...

Editor, The Star, Sir,

I'm writing in regards to Langley's Cultural Centre. If it were to do with sports, I'm sure we would have had this years ago.

My daughter is now twenty-one years old, so I know we have been fighting, wanting, needing this Cultural Centre for a very long time, as she has been in the Arts since I can remember. We have had to drive to many other art centres to work and perform. Now someday she may even open her own studio and be a Langley taxpayer. Wouldn't it be great if her drama, ballet, tap or music students could have a place right here in our town of Langley?

We really need this Cultural Centre more than ever now, as we are falling further and further behind. We have so much talent to show off. So come on everyone, let's do it. "Now!" Thank you.

H. JOHNSON,
Langley

What's the big fuss?

For the better part of three weeks, the big, mainstream media have been falling all over themselves to deify Microsoft grand supremo Bill Gates as he spearheaded the lead-up to the worldwide unveiling of Windows '95, the new updated operating system for IBM and IBM-compatible computers.

Thousands of people around the globe lined up long before midnight on the Big Day to dash in and buy the new software capable of multi-tasking work and hooking computer users in more easily to the on-line world.

The funny thing about the situation is that the initial Windows offering was an attempt to catch up with the operating system introduced by Apple Computers with the original Macintosh in the late 'Eighties. While Windows was jerky and somewhat annoying to use, the Mac system continued on smoothly. But, while Microsoft has gone out and done some updating with its new offering, Macintosh has continued on smoothly, offering the occasional upgrades which made the system even smoother to use.

And, oddly enough, when the stock market figures came out that same day, it was Microsoft which had taken the tumble and Apple which had made the gains.

Despite all the media drooling, all Microsoft has really done with Windows '95 is level the playing field, a fact generally ignored by the media as they fell over themselves at Emperor Gates' feet.

But, with the fact Windows is essentially not the revolution the media has been sucked into reporting it is, it will soon be revealed the emperor is wearing no clothes. He just has a lot of money to convince his subjects he is.

Baby boomers burden children

By NIGEL HANNAFORD

PORT ALBERNI - The Fraser Institute has presented a novel perspective on the national debt, comparing what the baby boomer generation is likely to collect and what the future generation is likely to contribute.

In their study, they assumed that current government policy on expenditures and taxation remained unchanged indefinitely.

Now, everybody pays taxes but many people also receive money from the government, pensions or welfare being an example. The institute claims that those aged 25 in 1991 will receive $157,000 in transfer payments but pay $376,000 in taxes, on average, during their whole lives. Those who were 50 in 1991 can expect to make net payments of $28,000 over the rest of their lives as they pay taxes of $256,000 and receive transfer payments of $228,000.

Anybody lucky enough to be 65 in 1991 is laughing; they will receive $229,000 in payments and pay $123,000 in taxes, while the next generation will apparently have to pay 139 percent of its income in taxes - clearly a logical impossibility.

Quite how the Fraser Institute figures all this out is beyond me, but there is an intuitive logic to it in this, that the baby boomer generation is larger than the one that follows it and would be a burden to it, even without the debt.

A busy and active life

By ANNE MORRISON

ALDERGROVE – Your East Area Parks and Recreation Services staff are pleased to unveil a wide variety of wonderful fall opportunities for residents of all ages and stages that you can easily access through our reception office at the Aldergrove Kinsmen Community Centre – 856-2899.

It already feels like fall as the evenings come earlier and are cooler and already some of our flower beds take on orange and brown hues. This is a great time to take stock of your life: are you finding the time to enjoy relaxing leisure activities? Is that true for everyone in your family? Or, more to the point, are you making time to pursue the interests of your choice?

What do you need to do to enrich your Active Living lifestyle - so that your life is balanced, fulfilling, and you can feel that it is great to be alive?

By now, you should have received a copy of your Fall Leisure Guide, which is loaded with great activities and courses that you will not want to miss. Take a look through it and select what appeals to you and feel free to call our friendly staff, should you wish any more information on any of our offerings. If you did not receive the brochure through our home delivery, you may drop by the centre to pick up a copy.

Then, circle your calendar. This Saturday, September 9 is Registration Day for all the Parks and Recreation programs. Plan to drop by the Aldergrove Kinsmen Community Centre for in-person registration at 9 am, and feel free to take advantage of our "leave behind" registration form process, should you not be able to remain in person to complete the registration process.

The following ongoing preschool programs have been accepting registrations since May 15. Should you wish your child to register, simply call our office to see if there are still spaces. Such courses include: When I grow up, I want to be...(an innovative new program geared to exploring the world of "grown ups"), Children's Social, and Tiny Tunes ...all of them sure to enchant your 3-5 year old!

Holiday preschool fun includes: Halloween Hoot, (creepy crafts and ghostly games and spooky surprises!); as well as family fun with our traditional Dog Obedience Class, geared for dogs eight months or older.

Children's fall activities include both Rhythmic Gymnastics classes as well as Recreational Gymnastics - a great way to increase agility - and an excellent Awareness and Self Defence program that is geared for 8-13 year olds. A special treat is the Dances of the South Pacific series, a great way to learn about new cultures through dance, as well as our Jazz Kids I and II dance classes - always popular.

Teens, of course, have a variety of neat ways to enjoy themselves through activities that they help to plan, from their monthly Kofi Hows gatherings, to their recently produced C.D., and outings like paintball, rock climbing, or snowboarding. Contact Jason at the centre for more information.

Adults, too, have lots to look forward to this fall. We are pleased to offer a wide variety of workshops and courses that are fun ways to explore new hobbies or learn the latest wellness tips. Most of them are new to you this year; so sign up early, as they are sure to be popular. Classes include: a neat three hour workshop entitled Self Help for Stress and Pain - the latest on how to unblock new energy that so often is tied up with physical symptoms (September 19); or register for a unique leadership training series covering everything from speaking tips, to how to run a meeting, or ways to polish your skills as facilitator and learn how to find and keep volunteers, as well as the nuances of community partnership building. The series runs from Sept. 26 - Oct. 30. Register for one or the whole set.

Other intriguing adult courses include Home Preserving, a Wednesday evening workshop to learn the basics, pick up exotic recipes, complete with hands-on kitchen sessions - September 27.

Another interesting workshop is How to Become a Successful Advocate, a workshop to teach you the basics to ensure your issue attracts community support and is successfully resolved - October 14.

And don't forget Christmas holiday magic through the Victoria Christmas Ornaments session that will teach you how to create beautiful nostalgic ornaments - November 1 as well as a special Christmas Breads session on November 15.

And for those adults who want to increase their physical activity: you will not want to miss out on our daytime or evening fitness classes (daytime childminding available); Tai Chi, and our new Dances of the South Pacific Classes.

Older adults and seniors will also not want to miss out on a great fall. Drop by the centre to pick up your Aldergrove Seniors Network Newsletter - which captures a wide array of fun activities available to all members for a reasonable $12/year fee. Contact Scott should you wish more information.

So if anyone tells you "there is nothing to do in Aldergrove or Abbotsford", let them in on the good news that the whole world is at your footsteps through the fall and winter Parks and Recreation offerings. Better yet, invite them to join you at our Aldergrove Arena opening season Public Skating session on Wednesday, September 13. And be sure to enrol your children in our always popular skating lesson sets, a tradition in Aldergrove, and taught by first class instructors.

Make 1995 the year that you take up new interests and resume favourite Active Living pastimes in earnest. You owe it to yourself to have a rewarding, fun filled lifestyle. All of your staff through the East Parks and Recreation Services Area look forward to helping you do just that. For more information, contact 856-2899.

Expectations are high

CHILLIWACK – Expectations for the UCFV men's soccer team have risen with the record return of twelve veteran players and a host of talented newcomers to compete for places on the 18 player roster and the starting lineup.

"We have never before had this combination of talent, experience, competition and depth in our tryout camp," smiled head coach Scott Fast. "Now it's up to us to transform ourselves from good players into a good team."

With that end in sight, the Cascade men will take on Oak Bay, Vic West and the University of Victoria in round robin games in the Victoria Gorge Tournament in Victoria on Labour Day Weekend. On September 9 and 10, the UCFV men host their eighth annual Collegiate Tourney at Townsend Park in Chilliwack, before opening their BCCAA Conference schedule against Capilano College September 16 in North Vancouver.

The 1995 Cascade men will feature fourth year veterans Kyle and Aaron Williams, Mike Hofer, Raj Randhawa and Merv Byres; third year players Ed Bradford, Brad Peterson and Quinton O'Mahony; and second year veterans Mark Fatter, Toivo Hutikka, Dylan Olson and Jamie Dopson.

The William's brothers, along with Peterson and Randhawa have been named to all-league teams in previous seasons.

Newcomers who have made an immediate impact in training camp include keeper Cory Breure (reserve keeper with the Vancouver 86'ers and a part of Canada's under-23 Olympic program) and mid-fielders Shawn Webb and Sean Hayes.

Thomas Dickinson in goal with Vladislav Tretiak.

Goalies learn from the pro

ALDERGROVE – Last week, two of Aldergrove Minor Hockey's up-and-coming goalies, Thomas Dickinson and Scott Matheson, attended Vladislav Tretiak's Elite Goalie School held at 8-Rinks in Burnaby. At nine years of age, Thomas Dickinson was the youngest goalie present, the oldest being 30 years.

Both Aldergrove boys worked hard and received one-on-one instruction from Tretiak and retired Boston Bruin's goalie Gilles Gilbert. The dry-land training was gruelling, but Tretiak stresses that goalies must always strive to be number one.

Tretiak's dry-land training techniques and warm up drills have been copied by coaches and players around the world.

Since the 1990/91 NHL hockey season, Vladislav Tretiak has been working part-time with the Chicago Blackhawks as their goaltending coach. He gives this piece of advice: "The craftmanship of a goaltender consists of character, athletic ability, technique, experience, psychological stability and finally, hard work."

Discovering hidden talents

ALDERGROVE – Discover "Active Living" through the Langley Leadership Series this month. If you like to become a better speaker, rune more effective meetings, improve your facilitation skills, find and keep volunteers, and build partnerships, then this series of workshops is for you. Bring your club executive of five or more for the special group rate, and register for as many sessions as you like.

Register at your local Langley Township Recreation Office of for further information contact Anne Morrison at the East Rec. Office, 856-2899. Dates of workshops are Sept. 25, Oct. 2, 16, 23, 30, all at 7 to 10 pm. Cost is $10 per session. Location is Aldergrove Community Arena's conference room.

Children learn to swim

ALDERGROVE – "On behalf of the parents and participants of Aldergrove Kinsmen Park Place who enjoyed the complimentary swimming lessons and leisure use of the W.C. Blair Recreation Centre, we would like to say thank you to all who rallied in support of this project," said special needs programmer, Lesley Visser, Aug. 30.

Fifteen children participated in swim lessons, while their family members exercised in the pool or relaxed in the whirlpool. This Active Living project was possible because of the community groups' support in waiving costs that otherwise would have made the project impossible.

Thanks go out to those who helped to make this experience a fun one: W.C. Blair Recreation Centre for supplying the swim lessons and for the use of the facility; Aldergrove Community Centre Society for the use of their van; Green Acres Realty for supplying their "Big Green Bus"; drivers Eff Underwood, Jack Shenton, Joanne Hamming, and Ed Unrau; along with parent volunteers Marolyn Liva, Connie Dykstra, Jannette Beauviller, Lorraine Hay, Steve Bossley, Debbie Bossley, Joy Lindberg and Barry Brickwood.

Striper cadets

LANGLEY – CandyStriper/Cadet registration will be held on Saturday, September 9, 10 am sharp in the main lobby of Langley Memorial Hospital. Applicants must be 14 to 18 years of age.

For more information call Margaret Eaton, coordinator Volunteer Services, 533-6412.

CUP CHALLENGE FALLS TO STRIKERS

BC sweeps Western Canadian

SURREY – In a commanding six inning 14-6 victory the Cheers Softball Club from Duncan captured the first ever Western Canadian Mixed Orthodox Fastpitch Championship by defeating Malone's Kings from Vancouver during weekend play at Softball City. The final game was dominated by strong hitting from the Cheers team and marred by several key errors committed by the normally solid Vancouver Media League team.

Cheers victory capped an undefeated weekend through round robin and elimination play and highlighted the dominance of the B.C. based teams over the clubs from Alberta and Saskatchewan. Only the Edmonton Pub Crawlers, with a 4 and 2 round robin record, qualified for the elimination round while the balance of the entries from the prairies were consistently crushed by stronger B.C. competition. Most observers credited the B.C. dominance to stronger, more experienced defence.

The event, itself, was a huge success and associations are all ready planning for the Edmonton event scheduled from August 30 to September 2, 1996. Both this year's tournament and next year's schedule of events are preludes to a full national championship anticipated for the fall of 1996.

B.C. teams dominated the tournament from the outset and seven of the eight finalists selected for the elimination round were from the host province. The lone outsider was from Edmonton and dropped quickly out of the running. Host committee chairman, Ross Ruddick, commented that the Alberta and Saskatchewan teams were nowhere near as polished as the B.C. teams and predicted an all-B.C. final for the championship. The Alberta and Saskatchewan teams probably need continued refinement to be able to challenge the British Columbia Teams.

University hosting tourney

CHILLIWACK – The University College of the Fraser Valley men's and women's soccer teams will host their eight annual tournament at Townsend Park in Chilliwack on September 9 and 10.

Now the oldest and largest Collegiate Tournament in B.C. and Washington, this year the nine-team men's side will assemble Spokane, Green River, Everett, Pierce and Skagit Valley Colleges from Washington State to join UCFV, Capilano College, BCIT and Okanagan University College. Joining UCFV in the six-team women's competition are teams from Spokane, Capilano and OUC, as well as Columbia Basin and Tacoma Community College.

Men's and women's games begin at 9:30 am on Saturday and Sunday, and continue throughout both days. The men's and women's finals are slated to begin at 4:10 pm on Sunday.

The UCFV men take on BCIT at 9:30 am and then face Everett at 4:30 pm on Saturday. The Cascade women, who finished last season as the number three team among Canadian Colleges, will meet the women from Tacoma Community College at 11:10 am and then play Okanagan at 2:30 pm. Sunday draws depend on Saturday results.

All soccer fans are welcome and admission is free.

Picking the parks in the Southwest

VANCOUVER – An advisory committee will begin meeting this month, and by the end of 1995 wil recommend to the provincial government where new parks should be located in the Lower Mainland Region.

Currently 10.7 per cent of this region has been protected. The government has promised to set aside 13 per cent of the region, which encompasses more than four million hectares of land from Vancouver north to Bute Inlet and east to and including Manning Park.

The remaining 2.3 per cent (approximately 100,000 hectares) will be evaluated by the committee on the basis of ecological representation, special habitat needs and recreation potential. Areas selected must also take into consideration the need for a stable sustainable economy in the region and in local communities.

The Western Canada Wilderness Committee has proposed protection for a 260,000 hectare area in the Lillooet/Elaho area northwest of Squamish. This proposal exceeds by two and one half times the protected areas target for the entire southwestern region.

The test of a vocation is the love of the drudgery it involves. - Logan Pearsall Smith

If this park proposal was accepted, says Interfor assistant chief forester Ric Slaco, the impact on forest-dependent communities like Squamish would be unacceptable.

"In Tree Farm Licence 38 near Squamish, the timber harvest in this area alone would be reduced by over 30 per cent. As it is, the amount of working forest currently available for sustainable harvesting represents less than 16 per cent of the entire Soo Timber Supply area," Slaco said.

He adds this proposal does not meet the objectives of the Protected Area Strategy.

Interfor supports the goals of the Protected Areas Strategy and completion of a protected areas system which meets environmental, economic and social objectives. It is proposing areas which: fill the gaps in ecological representations; protect a variety of special features or critical habitats in the region; and avoid adverse impact on the commercial land base.

In Interfor's view, a protected areas system is only one component of good resource management, conservation and responsible development. Application of the Forest Practices Code, careful management of riparian areas, management of visual landscapes, conservation of wildlife habitat and other resource values are integrated with Interfor's timber harvesting and forest renewal activities. As a result, many protected areas objectives are already being met in the working forest.

Interfor represents the forest companies on the advisory committee. Slaco says the company will be working over the next four months to reach a compromise which will satisfy all the requirements of a protected areas strategy.

"Interfor would like to see an end to valley by valley conflict. Land use decisions must be made as part of an overall comprehensive strategy for economic, environmental and social sustainability."

Football is popular

LANGLEY – Minor football team reports are as follows:

Langley Lions 22 – Richmond Tigers 12. The Lions had their season kick off with three touchdowns by Jeff Van Unen and two 2 point conversions by Derek Hoschka. Langley had excellent ball control by the offense led by Ben Hartley and Brent Walker. Key defensive plays were also made by Steve Yzerman and Tyler Sieb. The next game is against Richmond at City Park, Langley Sept. 10, 10 am.

Langley Thunder – Aldergrove. The team performed very well with great defense in the second half. Super performances by Jeff Belanger, Johann Alexander and Adam Johnson contributed to another successful game. The next game is against White Rock at City Park, Langley, Sept. 10, 11:30 am.

Langley Desperados 14 – Aldergrove 0. Coach Nathan Kliem said "Aldergrove put up a lot of opposition, but the hard play of the posse as a team proved put the points on the board". The next game is against White Rock at City Park Langley Sept. 10, 2 pm.

Langley Outlaws 52 – N.D. Colts 0. The Outlaws truly put forth a team effort on both offense and defense in a 52–0 win against the North Delta Colts. The defense only allowed one first down and were never on the field for more than 3 consecutive plays. Interceptions were made by Brian Bath and Jason Ciok. On the first offensive play of the game Rob Cloutier ran 57 yards for a td. This was followed by a series of long yardage td's by Danny Malone - 43 yds., Rob Cloutier - 42 yds., Jason Ciok - 53 yds., Blake Beguish - 45 yds., Rob Cloutier - 58 yds., and Jason Ciok - 6 yds. Jason also successfully completed 5 converts. The next game is against the Aldergrove Spartans at Aldergrove Community Secondary field on Sept. 10 at noon.

Langley Colts 0 – Aldergrove Spartans 20. In a game much closer than the score showed the Colts were defeated by the Aldergrove Spartans 20 to 0. The new Colts team played a good game with only a few costly errors. Keil Neriem, Cody Stiglich and Jason Thomas were standouts on defense. The offense is continuing to improve play knowledge with outstanding play by Marty Boivin, Jeff Azayan and Travis Adams. Jim Cox also impressed the coaching staff at quarter back. Head coach Gord Johnson was quoted as saying "with each game the boys are improving and as the season progresses, for 18 out of 23 players being new to the team, experience will be the teacher". The Colts' next game is against White Rock at Langley City Park at 12:30, Sept. 10.

Langley Mavericks 30 – N.D. Raiders 7. The Mavericks mauled the Raiders in the season opener with a decisive 30 to 7 win. The offensive team racked up 297 yards and scored 5 td's. The offensive coach Julian Kenny congratulated the line on their exceptional performance and great blocking that opened holes in the Raiders defense, that allowed Scott Thiesen to rush for 120 yards and 2 touchdowns - Johnny Hepner to run 2 touchdowns and helped Greg Blair to go 112 yds. for one touchdown. The Mavericks tough defense held the Raiders to only one touchdown. The defense was spurred on by the hard hitting and tackling of Nick Boyd,Kyle Peppler and Mike Shea forcing the Raiders to turn over the ball 6 times. The defensive coordinators Josh Stan and Ryan Mountain said "they will continue to work the defense hard and look forward to a winning season. The next game is against the Aldergrove Spartans at Aldergrove Community field, Sunday Sept. 10 at 10:30 am.

Langley Cowboys 18 – Surrey Cardinals 0. The Langley Cowboys shut-out the Surrey Cardinals 18–0 in Langley this Sunday. After a slow start on offense Josh Longmuir, Kyle Longmuir and Drew Jamieson all scored touchdowns. Both Drew Jamieson and Mike Drew had interceptions of defense. Chris Paterson and Deanna Jesse were the outstanding linemen of the game. "A great team effort" says coach Dave. The next game is against the Coquitlam Wildcats at Coquitlam, Sunday Sept. 10 at 11:30 am.

Langley Mustangs 20 – N. Surrey Tigers 31. A hard hitting entertaining game. Outstanding effort by the Mustang offensive linemen gave Quarter Back Rob Kenney time to throw the ball. Two touchdowns by Shane Findlay which included a pass completion and a 90 run for the TD. The Mustangs' next game is against Cloverdale in Cloverdale. Kickoff is at 1 pm, Sept. 10.

Langley Posse 34 – N.D. Hawks 0. The season opener was a great success for the Posse with a convincing 34 to 0 romp over the North Delta Hawks. Jamie Vinoly with a 25 yd interception set up one of two Jeff Hurd touchdowns. Dan Cowx ran in a 55 yard reception for a touchdown. Head coach Ken Helps said "the offense dominated the game with superb play". The defensive line held the Hawks off the score board with solid play and determination. The next game is against White Rock at City Park Langley Sept. 10 at 3:30 pm.

Spartans down Langley Colts

ALDERGROVE – The Community Football Association's Peewee Spartans played their first ever league game in Langley last weekend.

James Vigh scored on a 60 yard run less than two minutes into the game. Robbie Coombs followed that up with a 45 yard run, for a 13 to 0 Spartans half time lead.

Jamie Silvester scored the final touch down in the third quarter, on a 40 yard run play that went right up the middle on the Langley Colt defence. Matt Pass and Jamie Knight also ran very hard for us, with a combined effort of just under 200 yards rushing, said head coach Ted Bleeker.

"We are trying to build a program out here in Aldergrove, and it is our first year. The win over the Langley Colts was big for us. They are a very good football team," said Bleeker.

"Our boys did a great job out there, I'm very proud of all of them. But we could still use some more." For information call Aldergrove Community Football Association, 857-4963.

Caregivers

LANGLEY – The Alzheimer Society of BC, Fraser Valley region, presents a Family Caregiver Series on Sept. 14 through to Oct. 19. This is a series of six two-hour sessions for caregivers of someone with Alzheimer disease or related dementia, and provides a better understanding of the ailment, the difficulties in communicating, behaviour changes and problems, the process of grieving and the community resources.

The public can choose either the day session, 1 to 3 pm, or the evening session, 6:30 to 8:30 pm. The days are Thursdays, from Sept. 14 to Oct. 19.

It will be held at the Alzheimer Resource Centre, #107-19871–57A Ave., Langley, B.C., V3S 7J4. Registration fee of $20 is payable to the Alzheimer Resource Centre. Registration must be in by Sept. 7. For information call Jeannine McCarthy at 533-5277.

Breakfast of champions! Three champions meet at the 1995 PNE 4-H Auction. Left is Hamish Struthers of Fletcher's Fine Foods of Vancouver, who kept up Fletcher's tradition of buying the PNE champion market hog. He paid $3.75/pound for the 250 pound Landrace cross shown by Susan McLaren of the Otter 4-H Lamb Club of Langley. The August 30 auction capped a week in which 1,000 youngsters from all over the province came to the Pacific National Exhibition for fun and competition.

Children learning to speak German

ABBOTSFORD – Why not give your child the advantage of learning German at Saturday morning classes? Clearbrook's German Language School, based at M.E.I., offers 40 years of teaching experience. Their team of dedicated instructors, who have German as their first language, ensures thorough and authentic lessons, as well as an understanding of cultural and historic values of the German-speaking part of Europe.

The German Language School (Deutsche Sprachschule) is again offering lessons for children from four to 13 years old. All children of German and non-German background are welcome.

Registration for all courses is Saturday, September 9, at the Mennonite Educational Institute, 8:30 to 9 am. Classes begin at 9 am the same day, and run until noon. For more information, call Vreny Schuster at 852-8840.

Artisans are back

FORT LANGLEY - The annual Artisan's Fair with Langley Weavers and Spinners Guild returns Nov. 11-12, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., at the Community Hall on Glover Road. There will be artist demonstrations throughout both days as well as the daily fashion show at 2 p.m., along with refreshments and a raffle.

Guest artists include potters, weavers, woodturners, tole painters, wee mountain folk, paintings, sheepskins and stained glass. For information call 856-3636.

Cut-a-thon is on

ABBOTSFORD – It's time once again for the annual Big Sisters Cut-A-Thon, coming Sunday, September 10 from 11 am to 5 pm at 7-Oaks Shopping Centre. Local hairdressers will be donating their time and talents with all proceeds benefiting the Big Sisters of the Central Fraser Valley. Bring your head of hair, leave looking great and help a worthy cause.

Redheads convene at Fort

FORT LANGLEY – Over 100 redheads will convene at Fort Langley Community Park on Saturday, September 9. The redheads, however, are the four legged variety - Irish Setters.

The Irish Setter Club of Canada will hold its premiere event in the country, the 1995 National Specialty show, followed on Sunday by the Irish Setter Club of B.C. Specialty Show and Obedience Trial. Specialty shows are so named because they are shows for only one breed of dog instead of the usual all-breed shows. This show has attracted one of the largest entries ever for this breed in Canada. It is the first time the National Specialty has ever been held outside Ontario.

The rollicking red dogs are coming from as far away as California, Oregon, Washington, and Alberta. Judging begins at 9 am both days and will continue for most of the day. Also slated for the weekend are a Junior Handling competition, and demonstrations of dog agility and the new canine sport of Musical Freestyle.

Fort Langley Community park is situated just off Glover Road at St. Andrew's Avenue and Nash St. in scenic Fort Langley. The public is most welcome to come and share in the festivities and enjoy Ireland's most cherished export.

Women aglow

LANGLEY - Women's Aglow joins together for a new season with speaker Christina Williams and soloist Saccorsa Haggard, Wednesday, Sept. 20 from 9:15 to 11:30 a.m. at ABC Restaurant, 5978 Glover Road. Newcomers are welcome; for information call Gail, 534-5794.

Dead Sea Scrolls

LANGLEY – The public is invited to attend the first Dead Sea Scrolls Symposium at Trinity Western University, on the topics of eschatology, messianism and the Dead Sea Scrolls. Featured guest speaker is Dr. John J. Collins, University of Chicago, and other speakers include professors from Trinity Western University, Regent College, Vancouver School of Theology and the University of British Columbia. It will be held Saturday, September 30 from 9 am to 6 pm at TWU, 7600 Glover Road, Langley, BC V2Y 1Y1. For more information contact Dr. Craig Evans or Dr. Peter Flint at 888-7511 or fax: 888-5336.

All that water and they can't wash their faces?

By LARA BRODIE

Since opening on July 28, Waterworld has done so-so at the box office. People became obsessed with the cost of the movie ($170-plus-million) and forgot to just enjoy it. After all, what is the big deal, it's not like it's tax dollars or affects the cost of the movie ticket. As it turns out, Waterworld is one of the better movies of the summer. It offers true entertainment. Peppered with a terrific cast portraying interesting characters in a well thought out, highly involving story line, Waterworld is fun, fun, fun.

Kevin Costner stars as the Mariner; he has no name so that "death can't find him." Costner is not my favorite actor. I have never understood the hype that has surrounded this guy. His voice is a horrible monotone that always seems to be saying, "I'm too cool to have to put any effort into life." And this haircut he's been wandering around with really sucks. But as the movie progressed I didn't care.

The polar ice caps have melted. The world is covered by water. Some people live in colonies of floating towns while others choose to travel it alone on tiny boats. The bad guys, lead by Dennis Hopper (Deacon) inhabit the rusting Exxon Valdez; interesting choice.

Mariner is of the loner variety, possibly because he's got gills and he gets into all sorts of nasty problems when others find this out. Life, however, dictates that at least occasionally, he will have to cross paths with people to do a little trading. During one of these little get togethers, Mariner irritates a few people and finds himself caged up, and sentenced to be "recycled." Just before death becomes a close acquaintance, the floating town is attacked by the Valdez troupe. This is an excellent opportunity for escape. Local gal Helen (Jeanne Tripplehorn, Basic Instinct) cuts a deal with the trapped aquatic man and together, with a young girl, the trio take off. This girl is very important, she has a symbol on her back, some believe that it is the map to the last remaining dry land. In fact, this girl, Enola (Tina Majorino) is the very reason the town had come under siege. Deacon wants to get his hands on that map in a bad way. That Enola got away is only a minor set back. The chase is on, the battle just beginning.

A movie as interesting and entertaining as this is a rare find.

Coin and stamp fair

NEW WESTMINSTER – Royal City Stamp & Coin Fair will be held Sunday, September 10, 9 am to 3 pm at Centennial Community Centre, 65 East 6th Avenue. Guests may buy and sell stamps, post cards, covers and coins. There is free admission and parking. For information phone 534-1884.

Singing for my supper at the PNE! Vocalist Gordon Haid of Aldergrove performs for the August 29 semifinals of the Pacific National Exhibition Youth Talent Search, open to 13-to 21-year-old British Columbia youth. Finals of the Search were held September 1. The winner advances to the International Youth Talent Search Finals in Memphis.

At home ... with the VSO

LANGLEY – The Vancouver Symphony Orchestra is performing in Langley, Friday, October 6, 8 pm. The performance will be held at the 1,800 seat Christian Life Assembly church, 21277–56 Avenue.

"At Home with the V.S.O." is a special performance that will help raise money to build Hospice House. For tickets and information contact Ticketmaster at 280-4444, or Langley Hospice Foundation, 530-1115.

Rewarding opportunities

FORT LANGLEY – The Langley Centennial Museum and National Exhibition Centre is seeking individuals to become docents (volunteer educators) for school and public programs. For more information call 888-3922 and ask for Kirstin. Specialized training for the job of a docent begins on September 14. The docent job description requires a wide assortment of talents, so yours will be appreciated.

The museum has a very active and vital group of docents. The docents deliver programs at Langley Museum to over 4,000 school children. The museum needs individuals interested in education, art or history and working with children. This volunteer opportunity requires a commitment of 1/2 day a week from September to the end of April.

The museum is also recruiting for the P. Y. Porter Truck Tailgate Program. This program involves the 1926 Model-T Ford. Several volunteers are needed, who are interested in the 1920s or antique vehicles. The job description includes interpreting the 1920s time period and the Model-T at various public events throughout the year. Training and costumes will be provided.

A volunteer seamstress is required to start and complete some simple projects. This is a position which can be done out of the home.

O WHAT A THRILL!

Led by singer Raul Malo (in the hat), the Mavericks have shot into the bigtime across the continent. Malo's way with a beautiful ballad recalls the late Roy Orbison, and his band is talented, too. The Mavericks open for Mary Chapin Carpenter at the Coliseum on Monday, Sept. 25 and there's still good seats on sale at Ticketmaster.

Village fair coming up

FORT LANGLEY – The Community Improvement Society announces the Village Fair at the Fort Langley Community Hall on Sunday, September 17. From 10 am to 5 pm there's an Arts and Crafts Sale, followed by a dance, 7 to 10 pm. This will be the first monthly community event at the Fort Langley Community Hall, 9167 Glover Road. Arts and Crafts Sale features skilled artists and artisans of the area. The society wishes to open the hall for more community events with this fair. Participation in the society looking after the hall is always welcome; call 888-8391.

Legion news

By MADELINE ROACH

ALDERGROVE – This weekend sees Country Star on stage on Thursday from 8 to 12. Midnight Eagles are on stage Friday and Saturday from 9 to 1 and Sunday from 4:30 to 8:30.

The L.A. are holding their smorgasbord on Friday, September 8 at 5:30 in the hall. This event is open to the public, and on the menu is ham, cheese scalloped potatoes, veggies, salads, and all the trimmings.

There are still tickets available for the Darren Lee Rock N Roll Heaven shows. They are held on Friday, September 22 and Saturday, September 23 in the hall. The shows run from 8 to 12 and tickets are only $12 each. You can pick up your tickets in the lounge.

Camera club starts again

By DAVE BENNETT

LANGLEY – The Langley Camera Club invites old and new members to the beginning of its new season of meetings and outings on Tuesday, Sept. 12 at 7:30 pm, in the Milner Heritage Church Hall at 216 St. and Glover Road. A slide show, Vancouver to the Valley, and a program on How to Take Portraits will be the featured events of the evening.

The month of September also features a club outing to Stanley Park in Vancouver, on September 15. Members and prospective members are invited to meet in the main parking lot, close to the old zoo area, at 7:30 pm. If you wish to travel with other club members, meet at the park and ride lot on 88th Ave., next to the Walnut Grove McDonald's Restaurant, at 6:45 pm.

The Langley Camera Club meets every second and fourth Tuesday of the month, September through June, with the exception of December and June, when there are only single meetings. Contact president Deltlef Klahm, 888-1523, or Ron Kwickzak, 856-9567, for further information.

Langley mugged?

CD and cassette copies of Langley Mugged are now available at local community centres for $8 to $10. The recording features ten local bands featured at the regular, teen-organized coffee houses (Aldergrove's Kofi Hows and Brookswood's Coffee Jam), and some of the bands will also be on stage this Saturday at Big Day Out in Campbell Valley Park.

The recording was co-sponsored by several contributors, including Aldergrove Daffodil Lions Club, Langley Youth Council, Langley Parks and Recreation and the Healthy Communities Project. Proceeds from its sales and Big Day Out will help finance social and recreation programs for youth here.

Several of the bands are based in Aldergrove, too, and the quality of the music is quite good, with influences ranging from the grunge of Nirvana to the other rap and punk styles so popular today. The bands on the album are Dave's Neighbour, Dirty Old Man, Toadl Jids, Split Level, Failsafe, Manner Farm, Scuffle, Reggie, Shermans and Lumpy's Finest.

Bands featured at Big Day Out are Dave's Neighbour, Scuffle, Tiddlow's Lunchbox, Reggie, Lumpy's Finest, Toadl Jids, Jentle Beast, Failsafe, Dirty Old Man and Split Level. Special guests for the concert include Damn The Diva and DDT. The show, from 2 to 10 p.m., also features in-line skaters and skateboarders, volleyball and concessions, and admission is $10.

For information call 856-2899.

Big day out for teens at Campbell park

LANGLEY – The Greater Vancouver Regional District is helping Langley teens organize Big Day Out, an outdoor music festival, Saturday, September 9, at Campbell Valley Regional Park.

The eight-hour event, sponsored by the Township of Langley Parks and Recreation Services Division, will feature 11 Langley teen bands and is expected to attract a large audience.

"This event will be a positive experience for teens and a way to be involved in regional parks. The Little River Bowl site is a good location for this event and should avoid any disturbance to neighbours and other park visitors," says Richmond councillor Corisande Percival-Smith, GVRD Park Committee chairperson.

"Parks' staff have worked together with the 28-member teen organizing committee to create a successful event," she added. "Under GVRD's direction, the committee is handling many event logistics, including safety concerns, site preparation, traffic control and cleanup. Members will also alert local neighbours and park users."

Profits from the event will go back into supporting local youth activities..

Big Day Out runs from 2 pm to 10 pm. For ticket and event information call 530-1323. Tickets will be available in local schools after September 5.

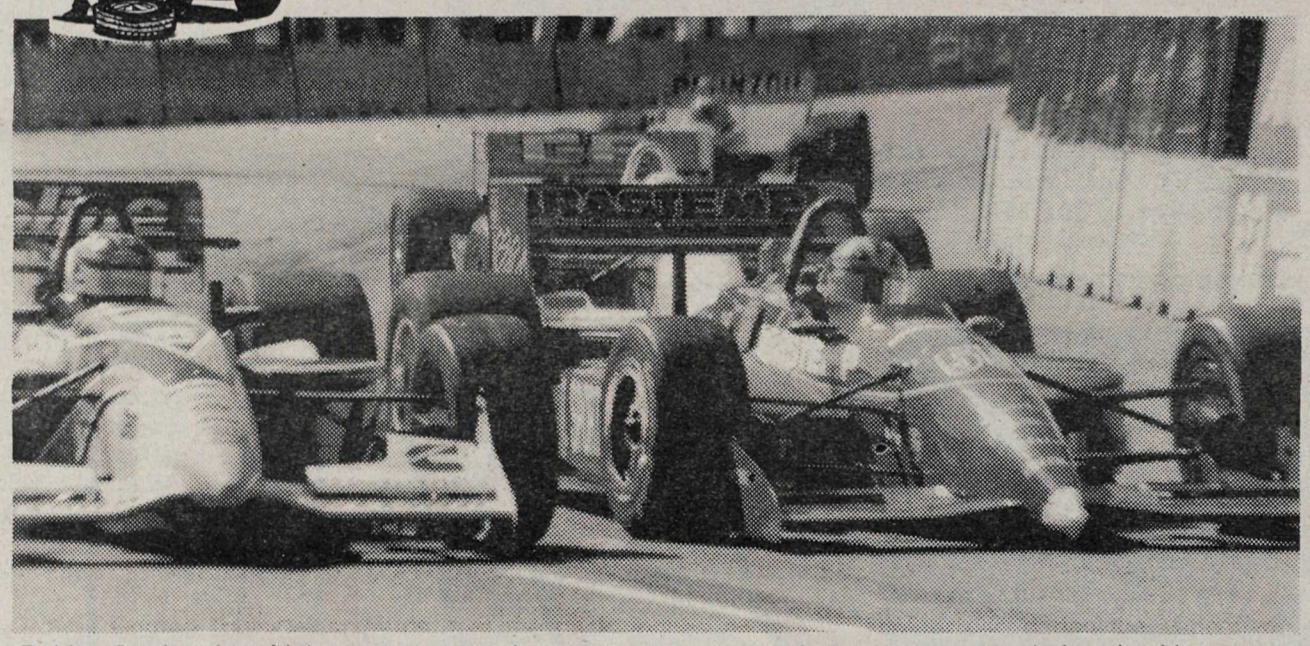
CAR CARE



Robby Gordon (outside) screams past the pack, inches away from another car, during the Vancouver Molson Indy. The cars touched and weaved, but never crashed. -Tim Attwood photo.

Good brakes are an absolute must

When a child on a bike darts out in front of a moving car, that child is taking a big chance. If the driver of that car isn't sure about the condition of the car's brakes, the driver is taking an even bigger chance.

Brake inspections are one of life's little details that car owners should tend to without fail. A brake inspection should be performed at least annually, like getting a physical.

With most braking systems having more than 1,650 different parts, not to mention the advent of computerized anti-lock systems, most of us will leave this job to the well-equipped pros. If faced with the "good, better, best" option, consider that there's no room for anything less than the best in brake work. Insist on quality parts from a reputable source.

When having any type of work done on a vehicle, it helps to know the lingo. Brake inspections are no different.

Among the points included in a close inspection: 1) pads and shoes for lining wear; 2) all wheel cylinders; 3) calipers, drums and rotors; 4) all hardware; 5) brake lines and hoses for leaks, kinks or blockage; 6) brake fluid level. (NOTE: For close scrutiny, items one through four should include the removal of all four wheels.

The hydraulic system should be flushed and replaced as part of a brake system overhaul.

Occasionally, brake problems will occur even though the system has been thoroughly inspected and maintained. The good news is that these problems rarely pop up without warning, but once such symptoms surface, they rarely go away by themselves. Warning signs include:

Pull: Car pulls to one side when brakes are applied.

Drag: Brakes fail to release properly.

Excessive noise: Brakes squeal, chatter or make unusual noises.

Low pedal: Pedal height seems different than normal.

Pulsating brakes: Jerky sensation as the car comes to a stop.

Hard pedal: Brakes require excessive pedal pressure.

An annual brake inspection is a good habit to acquire, so make it a point to set an inspection date that's easy to remember. Consider having the inspection done as a family gift. Unsafe brakes wreck more than just cars . . . they wreck lives.

Evaluating automotive service businesses

Have you ever needed an automotive service facility but didn't know where to go? The Automotive Service Association (ASA), the largest non-profit national trade association of its kind, recommends that you follow these guidelines when evaluating an automotive service business.

Ask if technicians are ASE-certified or I-CAR trained. If technicians are ASE-certified, it means they have passed a voluntary competency test offered by the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (ASE). If technicians or painters are I-CAR trained, it means they have attended a course or series of courses offered by the Inter-Industry Conference on Auto Collision Repair (I-CAR) to help upgrade their repair skills. Businesses with trained personnel are likely to display these and other certificates or diplomas in their customer waiting area.

Ask about the facility's industry and consumer affiliations. For example, a business that is a member of ASA has agreeed to uphold the association's code of ethics, which sets the standards for professionalism in the automotive service industry. In addition, consumers may wish to check the business' affiliation with AAA or consumer organizations, such as the Better Business Bureau (BBB).

Expect the automotive service facility to be clean and well organized. The work flow should be almost unnoticeable.

Note whether the employees are helpful and courteous. This will give you an idea of how you will be treated throughout the service of your vehicle.

Ask the business to provide a list of references and be prepared to contact these customers.

Ask how long the facility has been in business. How long has the business been at its current location? Does the business usually perform the type of service that your vehicle needs? Remember too, that some businesses specialize in repairs for certain vehicle makes and models.

Gain an understanding of the equipment that will be used to service the vehicle by asking plenty of questions. A business must have the proper equipment to correctly diagnose and perform the needed repairs.

Check what guarantees the business offers. Most automotive service facilities guarantee their parts and labor, and these guarantees are usually posted.

Make sure a written estimate is provided prior to letting the business begin the repair. Any changes to the estimate that exceed 10 percent should have your approval. After the repair, ask to see the parts that have been replaced.

Last, a good service facility can usually be found by asking family, friends, neighbors and co-workers for their recommendations.

Exploring the mysterious language of mechanics

(NAPS)—"Your timing belt is slipping," and "your rackamafraka is on the fritz" are two very different phrases on paper, but these words coming from a mechanic's mouth may just as well have the same meaning to some consumers.

"Not knowing what a 'rackamafraka' is or what it does can be confusing and intimidating to a car owner," said Pat Lazzaro, professional race car driver and adviser to Firestone Tire & Service Centers. "But with basic knowledge about the parts of a car, anyone can learn the language of mechanics."

Lazzaro offers "plain English" definitions of these mysterious words as a beginning to overcoming what she calls "autophobia"—the rational or irrational fear of the servicing of automobiles.

- Carburetor: a mechanical device that mixes fuel and air together in proper quantities to suit the varying needs of the engine. The electronic equivalent of the carburetor is the fuel injection system—it does the same thing, only it is computer-regulated and more precise.
- Alternator: provides electrical current that is then stored in the battery. It's called an alternator because it generates alternating current versus direct current.
- Catalytic converter: a pollution-control device which as part of the exhaust system converts carbon monoxide and hydrocarbons into environmentally friendly substances like water and carbon dioxide.
- Thermostat: a one-way heat-sensitive door that regulates the flow of coolant from the radiator to the engine to get the engine to its operating temperature quickly, then keep it there.
- Water pump: so named because it pumps water through the engine and out into the radiator, enabling the cooling cycle.
- Timing chain/timing belt: a chain that synchronizes the internal mechanical operation of the engine, sort of like the conductor of an orchestra.
- ABS: anti-lock braking system. High performance, electronically controlled braking system that pulses the brake pedal when it senses impending lock up. Because the wheels can't lock up, it is easier for a driver to keep control of the car.

Lazzaro, who holds car care clinics at Firestone Tire & Service Centers throughout the country, stresses that there are different maintenance schedules for each of these components and urges consumers to talk to their mechanic about them.

Public backing Counterattack measures, minister says

VICTORIA – The public is responding very favorably to the enhanced CounterAttack campaign against drinking drivers, Transportation and Highways Minister Jackie Pement said, Aug. 23.

"We are receiving lots of positive feedback from police participating in the program," Pement said. "The public is appreciating the roadchecks, because they are getting drinking drivers off the road."

Pement applauded what police see as a growing trend to use designated drivers. "It's a common sense practice that has an enormous social benefit in saving lives," she said.

In the week ending Aug. 21, police stopped 56,324 vehicles at 102 locations, and spoke to 32,611 drivers, of whom 30 were charged with impaired driving offences. In addition, 267 drivers were handed a 24-hour roadside driving prohibition and 196 received traffic violation notices, ranging from failing to wear a seat belt to driving without a licence.

The roadchecks also resulted in 28 persons being arrested for a variety of other offences, including breach of parole and hit and run. In two cases, police had been warned the suspects were "armed and dangerous."

Municipal police forces in Delta, New Westminster, Port Moody, West Vancouver, Vancouver, Central Saanich, Esquimalt, Oak Bay, Saanich and Victoria are participating in the enhanced program, which started seven weeks ago and runs to Dec. 7. Its $3-million cost is being funded by ICBC.

Since the program began, police have stopped 379,386 vehicles at 481 locations and have charged 155 drivers with impaired driving offences. As well, 1,542 drivers have received a 24-hour driving prohibition and 1,113 have been ticketed for motor vehicle violations.

Nose to nose at the PNE! Twelve-year-old Eris Caskey of Langley, a member of the Woodlands Rabbit Club rubs noses with Benjamin, her Netherlands dwarf rabbit, during 4-H Week at the Pacific National Exhibition. Over 1,000 youngsters and their livestock came from all over the province for a week of fun and competition at the PNE.

Rabbit lovers at the fairs

By SHANNON LAU

ALDERGROVE – Congratulations to the members of Woodlands 4-H Rabbit Club who attended fairs: Kimberly Anderson, Lindsay Hubbard, Tyson Jones, Gregory LaForge, Shannon Lau, Danielle Reid, Jessica Reid, Krista Toews, Becky Tylers and Margie Ullrich. All of these members did a great job and gained some valuable experience.

Upcoming events: September 9, club meeting and achievement at the Tylers. Record books are to be handed in.

Regular club meetings are held the first Thursday of every month. For more information contact Mrs. Ingeberg at 530-6561, Mrs. McKay at 581-7666 or Mrs. Reid at 583-2430.

It is harvest time at the farm

CHILLIWACK – It will be a delightful mix of education and family fun as 13 Chilliwack area farms open their gates to the public during the Agriscope Society's fourth annual Harvest Tour.

Scheduled for Saturday, September 9, this year's Harvest Tour offers up everything from apples to zucchini, roses to Christmas trees. Farms are open for visitors from 10 am to 4 pm.

To help visitors plan their day at the farm, Agriscope has again published a Harvest Tour Passport. These booklets give directions to all the farms and outline what visitors can expect to see there. Passports with at least three farm stamps are eligible for the Harvest Tour prize draw. Tour participants may pick up their passport in advance at the Chamber of Commerce office on Luckakuck Way. Passports are also available at all participating farms.

Agriscope president, Bill Weismiller says the Society is delighted to sponsor the Harvest Tour each fall. "This is a chance to build relationships between urban residents and their farm neighbours. People will have a chance to learn how their food, and other farm products, are produced... and its always a great time for family fun."

Free tickets!

ALDERGROVE - The Star is offering a pair of tickets to the performance by Scotland's finest, the Black Watch, to our readers in a random draw to be made on Sept. 15. The show is on Friday, October 6 in Pacific Coliseum.

The performance is an exciting display of theatre and history by Scotland's senior regiment, and this time also features a tribute to the Allies and veterans of the Second World War. Musical selections from the '40s and a variety of traditional Scottish music, Broadway, pop and movie favourites make it a show for all tastes.

Nature's bounty in the Valley

YARROW – Harvest time in the bounteous Fraser Valley brings memories of delicious apples fresh from the tree; remembrances of clear, crisp days in the orchard. At the Apple Farm in Yarrow you can be a kid again, as Saturday, September 9 and Sunday, September 10 the Apple Harvest Festival is in full swing. You can ride the Orchard Express, or take a guided walking tour of the 8,000 fruit trees. Tours of the orchard are given on the hour from 10 am to 3 pm. Hot and cold apple cider and many varieties of fragrant apples will tempt you. Sample the apples, the delicious cider, or a variety of goodies in the country store.

For extra fun, bring a picnic lunch and use the small park. Visit with Pigmalion and Alfred, the pot-bellied pigs, Opi and Billy, the miniature goats, and see the chickens, ducks and geese. There is a small playground outside and a "Kinder Corner" inside for the children.

To get to The Apple Farm, take exit 104 from Highway #1 to Yarrow and follow the signs to 4490 Boundary Road. For further information, call Farmer Klaus or Farmer Gail at 823-4311.

Get on the Internet ... now!

By ROBERT MELYNCHUK

The Internet – If you are just beginning, intermediate, or an expert, I can recommend to you Deep Cove without any hesitation. They have been around for years, and Wayne Duval, the founder, has given Deep Cove good leadership and advice for as many years.

Deep Cove is situated in White Rock, and Duval has extended their board to Chilliwack with over a hundred lines. They have over 5,000 members, with every kind of service offered by the Internet. Now, newspapers are coming on board with them. I hope that sometime the Aldergrove Star will be on the Internet too.

Discovering something new is always interesting, and you can reach them by phoning 541-2025. The straight forward pricing, the service, and the speed they use without any busy signals is worthwhile. It is $35 for 3 months; $55 for 6 months; $90 for a year. The price for a family is $160 for the year.

Antitrust case curbed by court

WASHINGTON - With a stroke of his pen, a federal judge ended one of the U.S. government's most protracted antitrust cases by signing a court settlement that places curbs on how Microsoft Corp. licenses its computer operating systems.

In a session lasting less than 20 minutes, U.S. District Judge Thomas Penfield Jackson signed the agreement, known as a consent decree, in which the Seattle-based software giant vows to change some of its practices to settle Justice Department charges of antitrust violations. Jackson was brought to the case after an appeals court ruled that an earlier judge erred in rejecting the settlement.

"The decree has been entered," declared Jackson, ending the drawn-out and often bitter case he inherited.

WOMEN & WEALTH

By JULIE EDWARDS

I received a phone call the other day from a retired gentleman who expressed a frustration that I hear very often, and that demonstrates the need for proper investment education. This gentleman had invested in a mutual fund that had a successful but short performance history. After reviewing the fund for the past year, he is now dismayed to find the fund has not met his expectations, and, in fact, he has lost a small amount of money. Unfortunately, he doesn't feel he was fully informed of the implications of that investment to his portfolio and now wonder, if he would have been better off putting it all into a guaranteed bond.

I assured this man that he is not alone, but that it is important for him to learn more about investment options and strategies. He was unknowingly placed into an investment strategy that he not only misunderstood, but that did not suit someone in his circumstances. Faced with the prospects of a "hot" tip, or "friendly" advice, anyone might invest in a gamble. But your money is the most important thing next to happiness and health, and the more you know about your options the better decisions you will make.

Firstly, I told him about "asset allocation". In his circumstances, money used for risky mutual funds should be money that will not be required in the near future. This money will go up and down in the short term, but in the long term may provide superior growth to hedge against inflation.

Secondly, I advised that he should have had a portfolio of investments that included many different components. Some components, such as guaranteed bonds and term deposits, will provide safety of his savings. Others, such as dividend-paying preferred shares, RRSP's and RRIF's, provide tax protection. And more aggressive vehicles, such as certain mutual funds and stocks, are necessary for growth and to hedge against inflation.

The proportion of each of these in any portfolio is determined by a very careful examination of a persons circumstances and risk tolerance. Everyone should ensure they are educated about the kind of portfolio they require. The mutual fund this gentleman invested in should be seen as a long term investment, not as something to provide consistent returns. Also, the mutual fund is made up of stocks from volatile companies. Choosing a mutual fund made up of conservative "Blue Chip" companies, such as Trimark's Select Canadian Growth Fund, would have provided a more reasonable chance of good returns.

My advice to this gentleman was to place a greater proportion of his investments into guaranteed bonds, more in to tax minimizing investments, and to retain a small proportion in mutual funds for growth. The most important advice though, is to learn about your options, understand your financial circumstances and needs, understand the strengths and weaknesses of any investment and, choose a mix of investments that you, especially you, are comfortable with.

Reward offered in murder case

SURREY - The family of murder victim Tarlachan Singh Thandi have extended their offer of a $10,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and charge of the person responsible for the crime until September 30, 1995.

Thandi was found in the garage of his home at 13585-79 Avenue on Sunday, April 30. He had been stabbed several times the night before.

Police are seeking the assistance of anyone, who may have knowledge of this event or noticed anything suspicious near the Thandi home between 8:30 p.m, April 29 and Midnight Sunday, April 30. Information should be directed to Cpl. Phil Juby of the Surrey RCMP Serious Crime Section at 599-7635, or CrimeStoppers at 669-TIPS(8477).

Home winner

VANCOUVER - The PNE prize home went to Vancouver resident Steven Lee, whose name was drawn from 2-million entries on the Labour Day weekend.

Among the 17 winners of new cars from Freeway Chrysler were Abbotsford's Barb Kirkpatrick (Plymouth Colt), Langley's Cindy Charles (Jeep YJ) and Langley's Ross and Suzanne Temperton (Plymouth Neon).

Obituaries

ELKEY – Anne Kathleen Elkey, beloved wife of John for 49 years, passed away August 29, 1995 in her 82nd year after a long illness. Besides her husband, she is survived by her loving daughter, Janet (Watts) and son George. She left behind her five grandchildren, David, Brad, Steven, Keith and Susan, and many great grandchildren. She will be greatly missed by her four sisters, Mae, Stella, Pauline, Rose, and brothers Mike and John. She was predeceased by her sister, Emilie, in March of this year. Funeral is under the auspices of Jehovah's Witnesses, with Mr. John Boivers officiating. Interment at Langley Cemetery on Sept. 1, 1995.

MCLEAN – Douglas Rolston McLean, late of Aldergrove, passed away on August 28, 1995, at the age of 73 years, at his home where he farmed for the past forty years. Formerly of Tilston, MB, he was predeceased by his son Donald John and daughter Janice Evelyn.

Douglas is survived by his loving wife Muriel Agnes McLean, daughters Anne (Neil), Judy (Mike), and Louise, sons Roderick (Leona), Norma (Deborah), Barry (Shelley) and Alan. Grandchildren: Michael, Ryan, Kyle, Danyel, Meagan, Darryl, Justine, Jessica, Erin, Matthew, and Alexander. Sister Muriel Bremner and many other relatives and dear friends.

Funeral services will be held on Saturday, September 2, 1995 at 10:30 am from the Aldergrove United Church, 2623–272nd Street, Aldergrove, with Reverend Ken Dean officiating. Burial will be held at Valley View Memorial Gardens Cemerety 14644–72 Avenue, Surrey, B.C. on Tuesday, September 5, 1995 at 2:30 pm. Active pallbearers are Roderick McLean, Norman McLean, Anne Verrault, Barry McLean, Alan McLean, Judy Unger, Louise McLean.

Henderson's Fraser Valley Funeral Home will be in charge of arrangements. Donations in lieu of flowers can be made to the charity of one's choice.

PHILP – Mrs. Enid Philp, wife of George Philp of Abbotsford, passed away on Sunday September 3rd, 1995, Survived by brother-Leslie, sister Cynthia and mother Mary Attwood, all of South Wales. Enid was an Abbotsford resident since 1971. The Funeral Service will be held at 2 pm on Friday, September 8th from the Chapel of Henderson's Fraser Valley Funeral Home, 34536 Marshall Road, Abbotsford. Pastor Dick Reeve officiating. Cremation to follow.

Student centre a 'hurricane'

LANGLEY – Trinity Western University will soon have a new hub for student activity. Plans are underway to construct a $7-million, 58,000 square-foot student centre on the campus. The new student centre will enable TWU to better serve the campus and the community, centralizing offices, providing large meeting areas and offering a wider variety of food services.

"We are still using our modest student centre constructed in the late '60s when we only had 250 students," says Glen Forrester, chair of TWU's Campus Planning Committee. "Today we have more than 2,000 students, and the current facility was never built to accommodate that many. The new facility will help us catch up to the growth we've already achieved, and provide space for the university's continued growth into the next century."

Featuring a student atrium lounge, 600-seat cafeteria and food court area, bookstore, student services and administration offices, language centre and classrooms, the new three-storey facility will be the largest building on campus. It will be located between the Enoch E. Mattson Centre and the Norma Alloway Library, overlooking Trinity Western Lake. In the future, the existing student centre will be renovated for health, counselling and other services.

Tom Bulick, vice president for Student Affairs, believes the new facility reflects the concern TWU has for the development of the whole student. "Facilities are tools," he says. "Student Affairs is looking forward to our community having desperately needed new food services and an enlarged bookstore." But more than anything, Bulick says, "We are looking forward to being located in the eye of a hurricane of student activity."

Construction of the new student centre is slated to begin in late October, contingent on the subscription of $1-million in the silent phase of the University's capital campaign. Arthur Allen has been appointed architect and Metro-Can Construction has been appointed design/build contractor.

Coffee shop robbed

LANGLEY - Police are investigating the robbery of Cravings Coffee Shop on 200 Street, at 11 p.m, Friday, August 4.

Two males entered the closed restaurant through the rear door, and demanded cash from the clerk who was counting the day's receipts. The suspects grabbed the cash and escaped.

No weapons were produced in the incident and the clerk was not injured.

A police dog was called to the scene but was unable to locate the suspects who are described as teen-aged, white males wearing jeans and ski masks.

Anyone with information about this robbery is asked to call Langley RCMP at 532-3200 or CrimeStoppers at 669-TIPS(8477).
