FINE COPPER CLAIMS ON DEEP CREEK

Mother Lode Crosscut Has Reached the Ledge—No. 3 Tunnel on the Mystery in 40 Feet.

Within two or three miles of Cascade is a district, rich in precious metals of which but little is heard. Nevertheless it has some of the most promising prospects to be found in Southern British Columbia. The section referred to is that of Deep creek, which stream flows into Kettle river a mile or two below Cascade. The inaccessibility of the ledges has made it rather an unattractive locality heretofore in which to prospect. Now, however, it is rapidly coming to the front, and bids fair to astonish the mining world in a short space of time.

One of the best claims on Deep creek is the King William, owned by a man named Kinnear. It has a 75 foot shaft, on which is a windlass. Assays have run $80 to $180. The ore is a fine looking quartz, in which native copper is readily seen. It is understood that the property has been bonded.

The Copper Wonder, adjoining the King William, is another fine property. It has a 20 foot shaft, at the bottom of which is an eight or ten inch vein of white quartz. Assays of over $100 in copper and gold have been obtained from this ore. Specimens are now on exhibition in the Record office, and are certainly attractive. This property has been stocked.

Adjoining the Copper Wonder is the New Year, largely owned by Bowen & VanCleve, of Cascade. While work on this property has only just been started, there is a good vein of live quartz, which is now being assayed.

Just over the mountain, not over six or seven miles from Cascade, is the Little Gem and Little Giant, both being developed by double shifts. The former gave the astonishing assay of $19,000 in gold per ton, and the latter enjoys the distinction of being the first property on the Colville reservation to ship a carload of ore. Not far away is the First Thought group, owned by Bruce and Byron White, and P Burns and Blake Wilson, now getting ready to ship ore. A number of other promising claims are located nearby, and a number of them are being worked. One of these is the Anaconda, in which Peter Larson and J. W. Stewart are interested.

Strike on Mother Lode.

A strike has been made on the Mother Lode, in the Burnt Basin, which has been under development all summer with W. H. Alexander in charge. At first an incline shaft was sunk about 60 feet, and then crosscutting began. Charlie Willarson, who came down yesterday, brings the news that when the crosscut had been driven 58 feet, the ledge was encountered. Its width is not yet known, as the foot wall has not yet been reached, but it has already been demonstrated that the strike is a valuable one. The rock is a fine grained quartz.

Cannonball Looking Fine.

The shaft on the Cannonball group, on Christina lake, is now down 70 feet, and the bottom is looking fine. Assays recently made are quite satisfactory. J. W. Spaulding, in charge of the property, has been promoted and will hereafter look after the California at Rossland also, on which active development is once more being pushed. The property belongs to the Graves-Miner syndicate. Al. Stewart is now foreman of the Cannonball, where the force was recently doubled. Two shifts are now being worked.

CHRISTINA MINERAL FLOAT.

Angus K. Stewart is having the Shakespeare, adjoining the John Bull, surveyed.

The No. 3 tunnel on the Mystery is now in over 40 feet. This makes over 300 feet of work done on this property this season.

The John Bull tunnel is now in 135 feet, and is looking better all the time. The group is being surveyed by Young & Burnet, of Rossland.

Edgar P. Rathbone, the engineer of the B. C. Mercantile & Mining Syndicate, of Cascade, after examining some Rossland properties, is now on his way to England.

J. H. Inkster, manager of the Pontifex Gold Mining Co., operating on Huckleberry mountain, came in yesterday to meet his foreman. The shaft is now down 65 feet, and other work is being done also. Some splendid assays have been obtained from this property. Much of the ore is identical with that of the Republic mine. The property is only five miles from Cascade.

Wm. Forrest, road master, has received word that the government will allow $250 towards the building of a first-class trail from Gladstone to the Burnt Basin. It will be built on a wagon road grade, and the citizens of Gladstone will put in as much or more than the government to make it first-class in every respect. This will be the first expenditure by the government directly for the benefit of Gladstone.

Will Start Two Papers.

Eber C. Smith, of Rossland Record fame, passed through Cascade Wednesday, en route Grand Forks and Phoenix, in both of which places he proposes starting papers. In Grand Forks he says he will soon have a daily, with dispatches containing the world's news. He had a car with him containing printing machinery, paper, etc.

GREENWOOD BY OCT. 15

Rails Expected To Be Laid that Far By that Date.

ARE NOW ONLY FIVE MILES AWAY

Grading Finally Completed, But There is Now a Shortage of Men at the Long Bull Dog Tunnel.

Tracklaying has been going on steadily this last week and today the steel gang is said to be about five miles beyond the summit at Eholt, and on the down grade to Greenwood, which is but four or five miles beyond. Just this side of Greenwood is the long trestle, which is expected to delay not more than three or four days when reached. Therefore, by the end of next week, or by the 15th, the rails should be laid into Greenwood—unless some other delay is experienced.

No tracklaying has yet been done on the spurs. All work is now done on the new railway grade. Mann, Foley Bros. & Larson still have track, surfacing, bridge and tunnel men at work. Considerable trouble has been experienced lately to get men for the Bull Dog tunnel. In this issue of the Record the firm advertises for machine men at $3.50 per day, and laborers at $2.50. Work on all the spurs is all but completed.

Quite a lot of men have gone to the Rainy river road in Ontario, where less wages are paid. Contractors Videen and Sangrin are both there with their outfits, and both have sent back word that the prospects for making anything are exceedingly small. Thus far the work has been largely of a boulder and mud character. Men looking for work will do better to stay right in the Boundary country, than seek the evils they know not of.

Rumbles From the Rails.

It is said that one of the largest water tanks on the line will be erected at Cascade.

It is getting to be an unusual circumstance when the passenger train arrives on time. Yesterday it was only three hours late.

W. H. Landgridge, division auditor of the C. P. R., with headquarters at Revelstoke, visited Cascade for the first time this week, on official business.

Only four locomotives, outside of the three used in tracklaying, are yet in use by the C. P. R. on the Boundary branch. Rolling stock generally is short.

F. W. Peters, freight agent at Nelson, who smilingly takes the kicks from shippers over the high rates prevalent, went to Winnipeg this week to consult with higher officials about the Boundary tariff to be charged when the line is completed to Midway.

Adjusting the Fire Losses.

H. T. Ceperley, president, and F. W. Rounsefell, secretary of the insurance firm of Ceperley, Mackenzie & Rounsefell, Vancouver, arrived in town yesterday, for the purpose of adjusting the losses of the fire of a week ago. Today Mr. Rounsefell is securing proof of loss for each one of those who were lucky enough to be insured. The list includes Messrs. Eckstorm, VanCleve, Flood & McDonald and Nelson, Olson & Bergman. It is expected that Mr. Rounsefell will take the proofs of loss with him at once to Vancouver and send back checks covering the various amounts of insurance.

Both the Columbia and Nelson & Vernon telephone companies were rendered hors de combat by the Cascade fire, but were in full swing again at eight the next morning.

Gangs of carpenters are now working on section houses along the line.

The Pathfinder has over 400 tons of ore on the dump.

IS NOW IN FULL SWING

Water Power Co. is Vigorously Pushing That Big Undertaking.

WORK STARTED ON POWER HOUSE

Contractor Quinlivan is Making the Rock Fly, and Foreman Simmons is Losing No Time at the Dam Site.

This week Contractor Quinlivan began the work of blasting away the rock foundations for the large power house of the Cascade Water, Power & Light Co. It will be situated at the foot of the falls, just to the right of the wagon road, and several thousand yards of rock will be moved. He is still looking for good rock men, and as he expects also to start on the work of filling in the dam cribbing with rock next week, he can easily give steady work to 40 or 50 more men.

A visit to the dam site yesterday by a Record man showed that Foreman Simmons is letting no grass grow under his feet. With his force of 14 men—and he says he never had a better gang—he has already built the cribbing about 12 feet higher than before on one side, and will soon have it an equal height on the south side. He says he will be ready for Mr. Quinlivan to begin filling the cribs in a very few days. Then it will be a scene of even greater activity.

D. P. Barber, who has the contract for clearing the right of way for the double pole line from Phoenix south, was in town this week. He now has 17 men in camp, and expects to complete his contract in three or four weeks.

In every way possible it is evident that Supt. Anderson will push the work of developing this mighty water power.

CHAS. S. MORRIS ARRESTED.Columbia Townsite's Ex-Manager Charged With Serious Crime

Chas. H. Hinckley, in May, 1884, embezzled $97,000 in cash from the West Side Bank, New York City. He came to Canada, changed his name to C. S. Morris and operated considerably in mines and realty. Last winter he bought a $15,000 interest in the Columbia Townsite Co., and became vice-president and manager. Later he sold out his stock, as his management did not give satisfaction to the townsite people. He then turned his attention to mining properties in the Similkameen, where he has been all summer.

Meantime, through the Columbia hotel fire, the bank officials learning of Hinckley's whereabouts, quietly set about getting him into the meshes of the American law. He was arrested and brought to Columbia, where Constable Darraugh met and took him to Rossland. He is now there, fighting the extradition proceedings tooth and nail. The present extradition law between Canada and the United States took effect in 1890, and it is a question whether it can be made retroactive. The case will probably be carried to Ottawa before it is finally decided, both sides having employed the best legal talent. The prisoner is now in the hands of a special officer at Rossland, where the first fight is being made. The bank has two representatives in Rossland now, and proposes to put Hinckley through and introduce him to the inside of the New York state penitentiary if such a thing is possible.

IN AND AROUND CASCADE.

Columbia now has a telephone exchange.

Harry C. Adams, of Anaconda, was a visitor in Cascade last Tuesday.

There is still a considerable amount of freighting being done from Bossburg.

J. Ed. Beaton, of the contractors' purchasing department, made a trip to Rossland and Nelson this week.

Bruce White came in Monday and went to the First Thought mine, at Pierre's Lake, where he has a dozen men at work.

A fire took place at the new Yale hotel, at Grand Forks, last Wednesday, but was extinguished before much damage was done.

Cabins are about completed on the Pontifex group, on Huckleberry mountain, where a force of 12 men will work all winter.

R. W. Kelman, of Vancouver, has arrived and will be the office man and book-keeper for the Cascade Water, Power & Light Co.

Work has been started on the Mother Lode smelter at Greenwood, and it is stated will be carried on continuously until it is blown in.

Engineer Ashcroft came in on Tuesday's train, and proceeded to English Point with his outfit, where he will do some surveying for Angus K. Stewart.

Harvey Harris and wife went to Rossland last Saturday, to take charge of P. Burns & Co's interests. His place here was filled by Orrin Mullen, formerly of Kaslo.

Freight for Greenwood and other points has been coming into

Grand Forks faster than consignees will take delivery, and some through cars were side-tracked here.

County court will be held at Midway by His Honor, Judge Spinks, Nov. 22

Greenwood's Liberal-Conservative Association sent delegates to the New Westminster meeting.

The adjourned session of the coroner's jury, which was to have been held last Monday at Grand Forks, in the George H. Weed poisoning case, has been postponed until today.

The demand for powder is increasing to such a degree in Cascade that the B. C. Store now order it in carload lots. More work than ever is going on in the contiguous mines and prospects.

Thursday night there was still left 1003 feet between the heads in the Bull Dog tunnel; 1102 feet have been bored on the west end and 883 feet on the east end. Olaf Olson, in charge, is short of men.

Some trouble was threatened in regard to bonding freight going via rail to Grand Forks and thence to Republic. The matter was arranged by sending Mr. Plummer, an American customs official, to Grand Forks.

One day last week Frank Corte, the mail carrier, left his place near Brooklyn, at 7 a. m., walked every foot of the way to Cascade, carried three mail sacks, and got here before the delayed C. P. R. train. The distance is 43 miles.

ACROSS THE BOUNDARY LINE.

The masons at Republic are taking steps to organize a local lodge.

Republic papers think that town is rapidly developing into another Cripple Creek.

It is reported that an enterprising newspaper man will soon start a weekly at the new town of Chesaw.

The great Spokane exposition opened last Tuesday in a blaze of glory. It will continue till the 17th inst.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

Miss E. Wickers, of English Point, has gone to Seattle to visit friends.

F. Elkins, who has been in the city several weeks, left yesterday for his home in Greenwood.

Pete Johnson returned today from the Similkameen, where he has been prospecting all summer.

Hewitt Bostock, M.P., was expected in the Boundary this week, but failed to put in an appearance.

John Lyngholm today received some fine samples of ore from the Bergen claim, on St. Thomas mountain, in which he is interested.

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Dowdy and daughter arrived yesterday from Spokane, and will make their home in Cascade. Mrs. Dowdy is the daughter of S. W. Bear.

Have you got one yet? What? Why, one of those new maps of the Christina lake mining camps. If you have an interest there, you should have a map. Sent post paid by the Cascade Record on receipt of $1.25.

Work on the putting in of the two 150-foot spans on the long bridge over Kettle river, is now in full swing under Foreman Patrick Dowd and his 18 men. There are five additional spans yet to be put in along the line.

Since Brockman & Lay took over the Columbia stage line a week ago, they have had more traffic than they could conveniently handle. For the past week one had to be a past master in the art of crowding in, to get even a glimpse of a seat. They have been running an extra rig also.

Gaine & Roy Stock Sold.

Wednesday the Gaine & Roy stock was sold by Deputy Sheriff Taylor to the highest bidder, G. A. Eastman, who represented J. W. McKinnon, of Eholt. Several bids were received, the successful figure being 42½ cents on the dollar. At the sale were present Manager McLeod, of the Hudson's Bay Co., at Nelson, R. S. Lennie, his solicitor, Solicitor Cochrane, of Grand Forks, Constable Darraugh and Bailiff Elkins. The money, amounting to $1347.45, will be paid into court, pending the legal battle now going on between the assignee and the judgment creditors who took possession.

BOUNDARY MINES MUST HAVE IT.

The acquirement of the water power on the Kettle river at Cascade by the London & B. C. Goldfields, Ltd., is a most fortuitous circumstance—not only for the stockholders, but for the Boundary mines. It means that from now on the utmost energy will be shown in the work of harnessing this great agent and in delivering it cheaply to the mines. As the majority of Boundary mines are low grade, it follows that power for working them economically is imperative. This they will be able to get from the Cascade Water, Power & Light Co.

In a report recently made by the directors of the London & B. C. Goldfields, to the stockholders, reference is made to the prospects of our water power by Managing Director Popkiss, as follows:

"Concerning the Cascade falls power, as this is a scheme which probably will be exceedingly remunerative when carried out, the necessary amount has been remitted for the commencement of the works. In this matter the promptness of the board is to be commended, for as the camps of the Boundary district have no water available for power, it obviously is the place for the introduction of a central electrical power plant for the supply of motive power to the mines and smelters."

It can thus be noted that, not only has the needed funds been provided to carry the work already started to a speedy completion, but that it is expected to supply the power thus economically generated to various mines and smelters throughout the Boundary district.

It is well known that there is practically no water power in the Boundary aside from that at Cascade. The Boundary mines must have cheap power, and they will get it here. Gigantic bodies of low grade ore can thus be profitably worked. The plant will be remunerative because the demand already exists for this comparatively inexpensive power. Industrial enterprises will also doubtless follow and locate here in due course of time, when the demand for the products in British Columbia is of sufficient volume to warrant the necessary investment. This time will come as sure as night succeeds the day.

LESSONS OF CASCADE FIRE.

When fire broke out in the heart of this young city a few days ago, no one could tell where the dreaded flames would stop. Fortunately, through the greatest exertions, it was confined to the block in which it started, severe scorching and broken glass being the extent of the damage outside the block consumed. While it is doubtful, even if the city had a water system, whether the fire could have been stopped, it is certain that only precaution saved the rest of the town.

The lessons to be learned from the fire are few, but they are of prime importance. In the first place every business man should have some insurance on his stock. In the largest city, it is foolhardy not to have partial protection of this kind. If, in smaller places, the risk is greater and the premiums higher, it is only the more reason for seeking such protection as can be had.

Then, every business man should have water always ready. A general conflagration, if once under headway, could not be stopped, but in its insipient stages a little water is worth its weight in gold. Care should be taken in regard to the disposition of waste and rubbish, and this is of the utmost importance. While some incline to the incendiary theory for our fire, no good reason can be advanced for it, and it may have started from a smouldering cigar stub or something of similar character.

There is always danger of fire in a well-built town. Eternal vigilance, it is well said, is the price of safety. We have learned our lesson, though attended with a loss of one life and about $25,000 worth of property. Let us profit by it, and take no unnecessary chances in the future. Cascade will recover, and in due time be better built than ever. We must, however, reduce to the minimum the chances for such a disastrous recurrence.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

Unfortunately, the mining troubles in the Slocan are no nearer settlement today than three months ago, and as a rule silence reigns supreme in those once busy camps. It's a pity some adjustment of the difficulty cannot be arrived at.

If Dewey's head is not turned by the unprecedented ovations he has been receiving in the United States, he will prove to be one out of a million. He performed a great service, and Uncle Sam is taking his own way to show his appreciation. He was evidently the right man in the right place at the right time.

The government organs seem well pleased that the sprightly Daily Globe, of Victoria, found competition too strong and was forced to suspend. The Globe always had the courage of its convictions, and aside from its politics, was a bright and breezy journal. Of that kind there are never too many in the province.

It is given out in eastern papers that a Dominion election is more than likely to take place next January. If an appeal to the people along provincial lines also takes place, the politicians are likely to have their hands full this winter. Already the question is being argued as to whether the provincial election shall be conducted along dominion party lines or not.

The editor of the Record acknowledges receipt of an invitation to attend the Spokane exposition today, which is editor's day, when "high jinks" will be the order. The invitation states that the eight-hour law has been temporarily suspended, the police force has been subsidized, and that a banquet such as the old Romans never dreamed of will be spread. Apparently the highest kind of jinks will prevail, and the editor of this great family journal regrets that a previous engagement with the paste pot and scissors prevented his hitting the road to enjoy the feast of reason and flow of soul provided.

BY THE WAYSIDE

It goes without saying that Cascade's fire was a serious affair to those directly affected. With only $4,450 insurance out of a total loss of $25,000, it is apparent at a glance that it was disastrous to those burned out. Already two of them, however, nothing daunted, have begun business once more, and they were the two whose loss was total, not saving more than the clothes on their backs. This is pretty good evidence of their faith in Cascade—notwithstanding the remarks of croakers, of which every town has its share.

The day after the fire, bright and early, word was received from Grand Forks, asking if any help was needed, the extent of loss not then being known at the Forks. Fortunately the case was not as serious as that, as none of the general stores were located in the burned district. But the thoughtful inquiry was prompt, and will not soon be forgotten by Cascade's citizens.

However it happened, Cascade has no display of ore samples at the Spokane exposition, and in the undeveloped state of the district this was a mistake. There is plenty of Canadian and American capital lying idle in the east, that is only waiting for the right kind of openings for investment. These openings can be found here. It is a pity that more effort is not taken to bring buyer and seller together. By such means only can the exploitation of our mineral resources be hastened.

There is now being formed in New York City a strong syndicate to take over and develop a promising property in the Burnt Basin. Assays have been had that are satisfactory, an engineer's report will be made, and the chances are that another of the Basin's rich ledges will be pegged away at all winter.

A postoffice inspector's life is hardly a bed of roses—especially in Southern British Columbia. With almost innumerable steamboat, stage and railway routes and connections, it keeps him busy looking up the delayed letters and sacks that have a habit, semi-occasionally, of galivanting around the country. Just now, owing to Mr. Bostock's efforts, he is endeavoring to ascertain why so much time is lost in transmission of mail at times, when at others it goes through with little or no delay. After the new railway is completed to Midway, and mails go over it, undoubtedly the service into the Boundary will be somewhat improved. But if we are to get American mail without delay, even then it must come in via Bossburg.

Road Master Forrest has had his force of men at work on the new trail up Shamrock mountain. It is being built on an easy grade, nearly or quite as far as the well-known Elmore property, and will greatly assist in the speedy development of that entire section—and its rich claims. Mr. Forrest has about a dozen men at work, and has greatly improved the road from Cascade to English Point.

AFTERMATH OF THE FIRE

Money Losses Will Figure up Close to $25,000.

SOME INCIDENTS THAT WERE NOTED

Chinese Cook Saved a Ham and Left His Money to Burn—No Clue to Origin of Fire.

Cascade's awful fire, in which one man lost his life and $25,000 worth of property, including some ten buildings, was utterly destroyed, happened a week ago, and nothing now remaining but a block of blackened ruins. The property destroyed was one of the busiest sections of the town, and it is likely that in due course of time it will be built up once more.

The ruins smoked for four or five days after the blaze went out.

Some pilfering was done after the fire, but not as much as might be expected.

Several much-valued canines were victims of the flames, including a great pet of C. H. Thomas.

The Cascade Auditorium, at the rear of the Railroad Headquarters' hotel, was destroyed with the other buildings.

Undoubtedly a number of other buildings were saved by the prompt work done on the Cascade Drug Co's store.

Mrs. S. A. Crowell, fortunately being at the end of the burned block, saved nearly everything, even to carpets, etc.

There were many losses of personal effects not enumerated in the general list, which brings the total loss fully up to $25,000.

Cascade's first hotel was located in the two-story log building, back of the Montana, which also went down in the sea of flame.

Mrs. W. M. Wolverton saw the fire from her window when she says two pailfuls of water would have extinguished the flames.

The Chinese cook at the Grand Central carefully carried a ham out to safety, and left $70 in money to be burned up in his room.

While many believe the conflagration was of incendiary origin, as yet there is absolutely nothing to positively show that such was the case.

The employees of the English store, of the water power and many others did splendid service in the salvage of goods and of buildings on the south side of the street.

C. H. May will probably put another building on his lot, but for the present he will continue to run the Montana hotel at the old International stand. He is a rustler and deserves to succeed.

J. D. Ronald, of Brussels, Ont., wants to sell the town a fire engine, on the same terms lately given to Grand Forks, viz., a note for long time, endorsed. He will submit a proposition.

The remains of Alex Arvoll, who was burned in the fire, were interred at Evergreen cemetery Monday. The services were conducted by Rev. J. McCoy, and there was quite a concourse to the last resting place of the brave man. In a few months he would have come into possession of $4,500 from an estate in Norway. He was well thought of and respected by all who knew him in Cascade.

LEDGES OF OLD SHAMROCK

Record Representative Sees the Big Veins of Ore.

ELMORE AND ALPHONSE ARE GREAT

No Possible Doubt of Their Being Vast Bodies of Pay Ore on the Christina Slope, Directly Tributary to Cascade.

Shamrock mountain has undoubtedly an immense body of gold-copper ore. Those familiar with this camp, which is directly tributary to Cascade, are well aware of this. This week the publisher of the Record visited old Shamrock, to see for himself some of the immense ledges found there.

From the railway siding at Sutherland creek an old trail leads up the mountain, and a couple of miles up forks, one branch taking one to the Elmore and the other to the Alphonse and other well known properties.

The first important claims visited was the Alphonse, owned by Al. Pion, after whom the property was named. The appearance of this claim was an agreeable surprise, its gigantic fine grained iron ledge, carrying copper pyrites, having been uncovered for 30 or 40 feet, and a shaft having been sunk 25 feet. While assays are said to be low yet, there is every evidence of this property turning out to be a most valuable one.

Passing the Ski, the Beach with its well timbered shaft, the Elmore, the pride of the camp was reached. In our estimation the Elmore, owned by the Belcher Gold Mining Co., of which Frank Hutchinson is president, and Smith Curtis, Manager, has not been overrated. A body of magnetic iron and copper has been uncovered 72 feet on the surface, the ledge having a northeast by southwest strike through the claim. Several shafts have been sunk, one of which is down 35 feet and has a 20-foot crosscut. Assays give over $17 in gold and copper.

The Shamrock and Thistle, owned by D. C. Beach, C. S. Wallis, R. Dalby Morkill, Jr., and John Y. McKane are also splendid properties and have yielded some of the highest grade ore yet found on Shamrock mountain.

Development all over Shamrock mountain has been uniformly most encouraging to holders of claims. The ore from these properties is wanted by smelters, and the day is not far distant when a large tonnage will be supplied from the gigantic veins with which the mountain is covered.

The vein on the Morrison, in Deadwood camp, at a depth of 220 feet is 96 feet wide and drifting east and west will be pushed with vigor. Several hundred tons of ore, removed during the crosscutting of the vein, has been piled on the dump. A 10-drill compressor has been contracted for, but owing to prior orders will not be delivered in less than three months.

Old papers for sale at the Record office, suitable for any old purpose.

It is stated that the Athelstan claim in Wellington camp has been sold for $16,000 cash.

Send It Back East.

The Cascade Record will be sent to any place in Canada or the United States for one year on receipt of $2. It pays special attention to mining in the Boundary and Christina lake sections, and aims to give the most reliable information in regard to this fast developing country.

BOUNDARY MINES

Brief Bits From Many Camps.

The B. C. mine, Summit camp, is asking for tenders for sinking its main shaft 100 feet deeper than the present depth of 160 feet.

The Anchor and Enterprise, adjoining the Jewel mine, in Long Lake camp, will be vigorously developed at an early date.

The railway graders have made a cut on the Golden Crown showing a ledge of solid pyrrhotite ore, at least 25 feet wide. It was at a point where it was believed there were no ore bodies.

Values as high as $1,300 per ton have been gotten from ore from the Golden Eagle, on the north fork of Kettle river, but $75 and $100 assays were more frequent. The new strike was on a new ledge.

The double compartment shaft of the Mother Lode, in Deadwood camp, is now down 266 feet, at which depth ore running 30 per cent copper was found. Ore shipments are to start as soon as the railway spur is completed to the property.

A recent strike was made in the Winnipeg, in Wellington camp, of a big body of $100 ore at the 300-foot level. Over six feet of this fine ore, being a massive pyrrhotite, was encountered in one of the drifts. It will undoubtedly greatly enhance the value of the mine. A C. P. R. spur is under construction to the property.

It is estimated that there are 30,000 tons of ore on the dumps of the Old Ironsides and Knob Hill mines, in Greenwood camp, which was taken out in development. A block of Old Ironsides stock, 80,000 shares, was sold last week by S. E. Rigg and D. Cook to S. H. S. Miner, W. H. Robinson, A. L. White and J. P. Graves, at a price said to be close to $1.00 per share.

The Sunset, on Copper mountain in the Similkameen, on which ex-Gov. Mackintosh held an option for $40,000 for a 15-32 interest, but which he did not take up, has been taken over by the Sunset Copper Co., Ltd., with a capital of $2,100,000. It is developed by an incline shaft 50 feet. Assays from 3 to 11 per cent in copper. Smith Curtis, of Rossland, has been promoting the new corporation. The property was owned by R. E. Brown and Dr. Averill of Grand Forks. Notwithstanding it has been turned down by Mr. Mackintosh it is said to be a most remarkable copper proposition, and full of promise for the future.
