Massive totem poles and B.C. Indian houses formerly located in Totem Pole Park on the UBC campus have now been moved to a site adjacent to the Museum of Anthropology, thanks to a generous grant from the Devonian Foundation of Calgary. The foundation's grant also enabled the University to complete the theatre gallery, used for meetings and multi-media presentations, in the interior of the adjacent museum.

TO OUR FRIENDS IN THE COMMUNITY:

It gives me great pleasure to have this opportunity to extend the thanks of the entire University to our many friends in the community who each year provide tangible support for a variety of campus activities through financial gifts or gifts-in-kind.

While grants from the Federal and Provincial governments are and should remain our main source of revenue, private gifts play a vital role in UBC affairs. Among other things, they enable the University to provide financial assistance to deserving students, aid in the construction of new buildings and the purchase of special equipment and support and expand areas of excellence in teaching and research.

In short, private gifts enable the University to do many things for which funds are not available from governments. We welcome this assistance and hope that it will continue to expand.

The University does everything possible to express its gratitude to donors and the general public by making its facilities available for public use on a year-round basis. In addition to encouraging attendance at hundreds of free lectures, concerts, sports events and other activities, a variety of excellent facilities are available for conferences, social events, seminars and workshops. Free publications on these activities, prepared by our Department of Information Services and the Alumni Association, are available. The University also has resources available to answer enquiries concerning its teaching and research programs and provides advice in seeking sources of information and answers to problems.

I am convinced that the UBC campus is one of the liveliest and most interesting places in all of Canada. Much of this is due to the generosity and continuing interest of donors. I know that other members of the community join me in expressing the gratitude of the University to donors for their ongoing support.

I invite you to maintain contact with the University by directing your enquiries to The Resources Office, The University of B.C.,
2075 Wesbrook Mall, Vancouver, B.C. V6T 1W5.
Telephone (604) 228-3917.

Yours sincerely,

Douglas T. Kenny,
President.

Introduction

The University owes much of its stature to private gifts. Research, teaching projects, scholarships and bursaries have been supported by individual benefactors, alumni, corporations, students, foundations and associations. Many of the major buildings, as well as a wide variety of other projects, serve as testimony to the generosity of those who helped to build UBC.

Gifts have been made anonymously, directly, in memory of relatives, in honour of friends and by bequest. Many alumni and other donors contribute annually. During the year benefactors donated $8,383,298.

The University is deeply grateful to those who have given such generous support and also thanks the many volunteers who have helped generate gifts.

This brochure does not include the names of 8,210 donors to the Alumni Fund. Provincial and Federal grants are recorded in other publications.

The University Wants To Serve You

The University wishes to express gratitude to donors in a variety of ways.

We will be pleased to place you on the mailing lists if you do not receive UBC Reports or the Alumni Chronicle.

You may wish to have a list of faculties, departments, schools and institutes, information regarding a specific teaching or research program, faculty or department, or advice in seeking sources of information or answers to problems.

The published results of research conducted at the University are freely available and we are eager that they should be of the widest benefit.

A variety of excellent facilities are open to the general public for conferences, social functions, workshops and seminars. They cater for ten or a thousand persons and are backed by food, accommodation and programming services.

The magnificant site, the beauty of the campus and the varied activities of its community make UBC an outstanding place to visit. We will be happy to guide a friend or conduct a tour.

Wills and Bequests

The University is grateful for the help, understanding and financial support of its many friends over the past years. Some have indicated that support by making direct gifts to the University, others by naming the University as beneficiary in their wills.

Our Wills and Bequests Committee was formed to inspire confidence in and stimulate the interest of benefactors, potential benefactors and of persons concerned with the drawing up of wills; and to acquaint them with the University's needs and the form of support desired.

Gifts, so made, may be designated to an area of particular interest or may be undesignated for use at the discretion of the University.

Various reasons have been given by donors for considering UBC in their estate planning; the gift is consistent with a lifelong interest in the University or a particular field; experiences as a young person with limited finances struggling to better himself; the desire to memorialize the name of a loved one; or simply that UBC is an institution worthy of support.

The University will welcome the opportunity of acquainting its many friends and their estate planners with the satisfaction to be had, in making provision for The University of British Columbia through their Estate Planning Program.

Gifts-in-Kind

Each year, UBC's library and museum collections are expanded and enhanced as a result of gifts-in-kind. These generous gifts from individual friends of the University, special-interest groups, governments and corporations fill gaps in existing collections or form the nucleus of new collections of material which are used by students and faculty members for teaching and research. Gifts-in-kind also benefit the public generally since most are on display in museum collections or are available through the UBC library system. The University also holds title to property which has been received as bequests in wills or which has been transferred to the University during an individual's lifetime. The University welcomes enquiries from friends on matters related to property.

Outstanding Student Support

This past fiscal year students at UBC contributed $461,063 to the capital development of the University: $105,958 to the Aquatic Centre, $300,000 to the Student Union Building and $55,105 to the Leon and Thea Koerner Graduate Centre.

Since 1928, students have funded or helped fund 11 major campus buildings for more than $6.6 million. This outstanding support is believed to be unequalled by the students of any other North American university.

In addition, students have worked for and donated to six special building campaigns in the past decade. Each year the graduating class supports various campus activities. The class of 1979 donated $400 to the Walter Gage Memorial Plaque, $7,500 to the UBC Crane Library and $2,000 to the President's Committee on the Concerns of the Handicapped.

The UBC Memorial Fund

The University has established a Memorial Scholarship and Bursary Endowment Fund which it is hoped will provide a significant source of student support in future years.

The purpose of the fund is to encourage memorial donations, and to cater for donations that in themselves would not provide sufficient investment income to ensure a meaningful award.

The fund is designed to serve persons willing to leave small bequests to UBC, to serve lifetime donors and to serve corporations wishing to make gifts in memoriam.

A brochure has been produced listing the persons in whose name contributions have been received, and these brochures will be given to each student receiving an award from the fund.

From time to time there have been and will continue to be organized in memoriam funds of sufficient amount to provide meaningful awards over a long period.

A special feature of the Memorial Scholarship and Bursary Fund is the help it will give to individuals and small groups of donors who are not in a position to make major gifts at the time of death of a friend or relative but who may hope to make further lifetime gifts and/or to include an appropriate provision in their wills. By means of this new fund the name of a deceased person will be memorialized regularly from the time the original gift is made.

DONORS INTERESTED IN MAKING IN MEMORIAM GIFTS FOR SCHOLARSHIPS AND BURSARIES, OR CONSIDERING OTHER FORMS OF STUDENT SUPPORT, ARE ASKED TO WRITE OR CALL BYRON HENDER, DIRECTOR OF AWARDS AND FINANCIAL AID, THE UNIVERSITY OF BRITISH COLUMBIA, TELEPHONE: (604) 228-5111.
