1933's Travel Bargain Tours to the Canadian Rockies

Encouraged by the success of the All Expense Tour operated last year in the Canadian Rockies, the Canadian Pacific this year offers a wider, more diversified programme of tours for your entertainment. These tours afford the utmost in travel luxury at greatly reduced cost to fit present-day purses and are ideal vacations. They also give trans-continental travellers an opportunity of stopping-off and gaining a close acquaintance with the wonderlands of the Canadian Rockies and visiting Banff and Lake Louise, now known as the Summer Mecca of North America.

The first three tours listed on the opposite page concentrate on Banff, Lake Louise and Emerald Lake and the spectacular miles of Alpine motoring which connect them. In the fourth tour, two of Canadian Pacific's Chalet-Bungalow Camps, Yoho and Lake Wapta, are substituted for Banff. Special Mountain Trail Hiking Tours have also been planned for out-door people equipped with knapsack and walking shoes . . . all these for your convenience. In the pages which follow short descriptions are given of the places you will visit.

What a thrill as our motor swings up the mountain road and sweeps into the great stone court-yard of Banff Springs Hotel. Here, only a generation ago, the redmen danced around tribal camp-fires. Today the paleface comes in thousands to a great fireproof hostelry, standing at the confluence of the Bow and Spray rivers amid a circle of pearly-grey peaks—the finest mountain hotel on the American continent.

Within, the acme of comfort and good taste. Without, facilities for every sport in a matchless setting. Golf . . . on an 18-hole Stanley-Thompson built course, with three sets of tees to suit all types of golfers. Tennis . . . Swimming . . . diving into a warm sulphur pool or plunging into a crystal pool adjoining. The health-giving mineral waters vie in their tonic qualities with the ultra-violet rays of the Alpine sun.

Add to these the joys of riding the trails on a mountain pony, hiking along fir-scented paths in the cool, sweet mountain air, meeting Indians, scarlet coated "mounties," cowboys. Or fishing for cut-throat trout . . . canoeing along shady streams, or playing on fast clay tennis courts.

Motoring? A tour of Banff is included in our itinerary. We will visit a vast animal corral to see bison, moose, and antelope, the Government Museum, a Zoo with "grizzlies," cougar and other mountain folk, a Fish Hatchery and the Observatory.

And when we return to the hotel in the evening, we will dance after dinner in the great ballroom, listen to some enchanting concert orchestra, play bridge, swim perhaps, or listen to a friendly lecturer unfold the lore of flowers and birds, glaciers and mountains. Or we may stroll on the flower-blown terrace, catching the strains of some dreamy waltz from the ballroom and gazing in wonderment at the Valley of the Bow suffused with luminous moonlight.

Lake Louise

Our regret at leaving Banff is tempered only by the promise of Lake Louise, for this is earth's most beautiful Lake, "the birthplace of the spectrum—the place the rainbow calls home." In luxurious busses we make the transition over broad, uncrowded roads, hard and clean. We stop to explore the wild gorge of Johnston Canyon, crane our necks for a glimpse of the "hole in the wall," watching the serrated cliffs of Castle Mountain, now on this side of the road, now on that, until we are welcomed within the hospitable doorway of the Chateau—and there is Lake Louise.

Across the front of the Chateau, vast single-paned windows open to a scene overwhelmingly beautiful. Great silvery-grey mountains spring from either shore, like titanic stone curtains heavily fringed with forests and drawn back to reveal the blue-green jewel of the lake, with a foreground of Iceland poppies and glittering Victoria Glacier as a back drop. You will drift over the lake in the enchanted silence of a velvety night, dipping liquid stars from the depths and cutting a flaming wake through the reflected path of the moon.

There is so much to do at Lake Louise—such vitalizing, spruce-scented sunshine to do it in. There is a sparkling, glass enclosed pool of warmed glacial-green water, tennis too—but the "real" life of Lake Louise is hiking, climbing and riding. World-famous Alpinists foregather here and, seconded by Swiss guides, pick up the gauntlet of the challenging peaks. But we may content ourselves with exploring, either astride or afoot, some of the easy but picturesque trails, keeping ever in view the incomparable lake.

SO EASY TO REACH!

No matter in what part of the American Continent you may be, Banff, Lake Louise and the surrounding resorts of the Canadian Rockies are surprisingly easy to reach. These resorts lie along, or are in close proximity to, the Canadian Pacific transcontinental line, which connects with all important United States railway systems. Glance at the adjoining map. Under each city the time required to reach this vast mountain playground by most convenient rail connections is shown in hours. On the other hand, you may wish to break your journey on your way, or deviate from the most direct route. Generous stop-over privileges are extended by the railways, and considerable latitude allowed in the planning of your itinerary without any material addition to your costs.

Low Summer rail fares make the trip this year particularly economical.

Moraine Lake

There are other jewels in the Rockies' crown than Lake Louise, and as lovely as any is Moraine Lake. Nine miles of spectacular Alpine motoring brings us to the Valley of the Ten Peaks, not one of which is less than 10,000 feet in height. Scarred and furrowed by glaciers, bare of vegetation and capped with snow, the peaks form a semi-circle round a sapphire lake—Moraine. After this side trip, going west we cross the Great Divide and on to our next objective.

below...The Great Divide is the very backbone of the continent. Here a stream divides, rivulets flowing from it to the Atlantic, others to the Pacific.

Emerald Lake

Turning off the Lake Louise-Golden highway, we drive along an avenue cut from the cool green depths of the forest, with the gleam of snow peaks in the distance—Snowpeak Avenue. At its end lies Emerald Lake. Away back in 1882 Tom Wilson, oldest and one of the most famous trail blazers of the Canadian Rockies, discovered this jewel when searching for lost horses! Tom had originally named Lake Louise "Emerald" but the new discovery made too obvious a claim to be ignored. On the shores of the Lake stand an Alpine Chalet with cosy bungalows flanking it—for all the world like a little Swiss village. Here we shall linger awhile.

Too small to mirror the soaring peaks that almost surround it, Emerald Lake reflects the wooded slopes with flawless accuracy. More often than not the lake is jade instead of emerald, with that peculiar milkiness that characterizes glacial water. Everywhere Alpine flowers abound. Riding and hiking—for nowhere are alluring trails so plentiful—we shall view the lake from all sides for, like a jewel, it has many facets. And we shall fish a bit and go boating a bit, at peace with the world in such transcendingly beautiful surroundings.

Outdoors Days

Glance back at the inside front cover of this booklet. On the first three tours we visit Banff, Lake Louise and Emerald Lake—the beauty spots already described. But if we decide on the "5 outdoor days" we shall omit Banff and visit two of the Chalet-Bungalow Camps in the Rockies—at Lake Wapta and Yoho Valley. An extension of this tour will take us to beautiful Lake O'Hara, pictured on the last page of this booklet. Coupons for rooms and meals are interchangeable at the Camps and this allows us considerable latitude in deciding on our itinerary. Any Canadian Pacific Agent will gladly give further information. (See list on inside back cover of this booklet.)

Wapta Camp

A Chalet - Bungalow Camp consists of a central building or chalet, with dining room and lounge, surrounded by comfortable cabins with sleeping accommodation. While such camps are less formal than the hotels, they are equipped with electric light and running water and are ideal for the lover of the great outdoors. Wapta Camp is beautifully situated near the Great Divide on the edge of Lake Wapta, which is the principal source of the Kicking Horse River. From the camp Mounts Stephen, Victoria, Narao and Cathedral Crags can be seen, while wooded trails lead to Sherbrooke Lake and Ross Lake. Hiking, climbing, riding, boating and fishing are the main activities at the camp.

below...Yoho Valley Chalet-Bungalow Camp. side...Takakkaw Falls.

Yoho Camp

Motor trips between the four resorts on the standard tour—Lake Louise, Wapta, Yoho and Emerald Lake—are included in the fare and from Wapta we proceed by a spectacular mountain road to Yoho Valley Chalet-Bungalow Camp. This camp is situated in an Alpine meadow within sight and sound of Takakkaw Falls. These Falls, which have their source in the Daly Glacier, drop through a narrow fissure twelve hundred feet, or more than 1,000 feet higher than Niagara. Yoho! Could the Cree word signify anything but wonder or astonishment? Point Lace Falls, Angel's Stairs, Laughing Falls, Twin Falls, Yoho Glacier—names these for a rider or hiker to conjure with! From Yoho we continue to Emerald Lake which has already been described.

Lake O'Hara, considered by some the fairest jewel in the Rockies' crown, can be added at nominal cost. O'Hara is reached by trail (8 miles) from Wapta.

MOUNTAIN TRAIL HIKING TOURS

For the tours already described, coupons are issued and the itineraries, while admitting of considerable variation, are more or less decided for us. But perhaps we are eager to plan our own hiking tour in the Canadian Rockies. And for that we may have very definite ideas on what we want to see and where we want to go. If so, we must come properly equipped with knapsack and walking shoes, assured that every assistance will be given us by hotel and camp managements in planning our itinerary. On this and the next page sample itineraries have been mapped out to give an idea of the very moderate cost of realizing our dreams.

Skyline Trail Hikers of the Canadian Rockies

This organization, which is in process of formation, will have a constitution somewhat similar to that of the "Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies." According to present plans, an initial four-day hike will be held early in August, starting from Lake Louise and touching such beauty spots as Moraine Lake, Wenkchemna and Opabin Passes, Lake McArthur, Lake Oesa and Lake O'Hara and Lake Wapta.
