

三 哥 惠 照，

Hong Kong.

Oct. 22, 1924.

Dear brother Mou:

Just a few lines to enquire how the world is treating you and your family these days. Kindly convey my fond remembrance to dear sister-in-law and the children.

Leung stayed in Hong Kong for a week after his arrival here on Sept. 15th and he returned to Kungji How then.

The "lucky dates" for our wedding and pre-wedding ceremony are chosen: Nov. 29th (舊曆十一月廿三) is the date for 過門, and Dec. 6th (舊曆十一月廿五) is our wedding day. Leung and I both regret, that you and sister-in-law and the rest of my dear homefolks are unable to be present at the happy occasions. However, he will surely forward a suitable amount of money for all my homefolks to celebrate with — though far, far away. Leung wrote that he will come out to Hong Kong in the next few days, and send the money per the "Empress of Canada" sailing Nov. 8th. Really, the money is nothing to be appreciated, but the thought is worth while! Don't you agree with sister?

Canton had encountered destruction and sufferings for the last week. Many of our fellow people are seeking Hong Kong for refuge. The enclosed newspaper (大光報號外) will inform you of the situation, so I shall not bother to write the details here. It was indeed a very sad case!

Mother's health has greatly improved. I am busily occupied in making necessary preparation for the coming joyous occasion!

With love to you and your family,
Sister Susan.
