ST. HELENA—Most famous of all the solitary islands in the world, St. Helena, far out in the Southern Atlantic, is linked for ever to Europe by the name of Napoleon. Here he died in 1821. Here relics of him are preserved. The ruggedly mountainous island with its picturesque ravines, is richly tropical yet cooled by the Trade Wind which gives a delightful climate. To visit St. Helena is a travel thrill.

RIO DE JANEIRO—Modern and magnificent, Rio de Janeiro reposes like a jewel in a setting of verdant green. Around soar fantastic mountains the "Sugar Loaf," dominating the harbour, and the "Hunch-back" in the background. To ascend the "Sugar Loaf" is to find superb views of Rio, outspread like a magic tapestry that dips into sea of serenest blue—Rio, city of amazing life.

BAHIA—Third largest of South America's wonder cities, Bahia, on the sparkling Bay of All Saints, commands a magnificent harbour. Once the capital of Brazil, Bahia was founded in 1510. The older city has ancient churches rich in treasures and legend. Modern Bahia famed for its variety of trade—coffee, rubber, and tobacco predominating—is full of beauty and charm.

PORT OF SPAIN—City of contrasts, Port of Spain, Trinidad, is infinitely cosmopolitan. Here glistening domes of Hindu Temples rise by wattle huts of native coolies. Graceful women of Hindustan move through streets thronged with negroes, Chinese, Spaniards, Portuguese, French, and Venezuelans with many a European or American there too in the human stream. Fragrance of jasmine and patchouli lingers in the air of a land glorious with flowers, vivid in vitality.

HAVANA—Paris of the New World is Havana, Cuba. Here by a superb harbour are two Havanas—the ancient and the modern. In the old town where towers the Columbus Cathedral, are streets of Creole style houses—Spanish with a difference. Modern Havana is entrancingly entertaining—indeed another Paris, even to its Quartier Latin.

NEW YORK—New York rising tower by tower into the pinnacled perfection of its unique sky-line, brings always a breath-taking thrill. But how welcoming is New York in its urban intimacy. How easy to find the way in those well-planned streets. How infinite the entertainments outspread by New York. The World Fair, newly opened, will be at its height, glorious in freshness when the "Empress of Britain" arrives. Theme of this marvellous Exhibition is "The World of To-morrow." With magical effect for visitors from the ends of the earth will New York reveal the wonders of this World's Fair.
