SPRING WEATHER HARD ON BABY

The Canadian spring weather—one day mild and bright; the next raw and blustery is extremely hard on the baby. Conditions are such that the mother cannot take the little one out for the fresh air so much to be desired. He is confined to the house which is often overheated and badly ventilated. He catches cold; his little stomach and bowels become disordered and the mother soon has a sick baby to look after. To prevent this an occasional dose of Baby's Own Tablets should be given. They regulate the stomach and bowels, thus preventing or curing colds, simple fevers, colic or any other of the many minor ailments of childhood. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

In the Absence of Clergy

Some time ago a dinner was given in New York at which a well-known actor, who is something of a free-thinker along theological lines, sat at the guest table. When the hour for starting the feast arrived the toastmaster, a very religious man, discovered that no minister of the Gospel was present, though several had been invited. In this emergency he turned to the actor and asked him to say grace.

The actor rose, bowed his head, and in the midst of a deep hush said fervently:

"There being no clergyman present, let us thank God!"—Saturday Evening Post.

Athenians Declared it Monstrous to Be Prevented From Doing What They Chose

On a memorable occasion the assembled Athenians declared it monstrous that they should be prevented from doing whatever they chose. No force that existed could restrain them; and they resolved that no duty should restrain them, and that they would be bound by no laws that were not of their own making. In this way the emancipated people of Athens became a tyrant; and their government, the pioneer of European freedom, stands condemned with a terrible unanimity by all the wisest of the ancients. They ruined their city by attempting to conduct war by debate in the market place. Like the French republic, they put their successful commanders to death. They treated their dependencies with such injustice that they lost their maritime empire. They plundered the rich until the rich conspired with the public enemy, and they drowned their guilt by the martyrdom of Socrates.—From Lord Acton's Essays.

WOMEN! IT IS MAGIC! LIFT OUT ANY CORN

Apply a few drops then lift corns or calluses off with fingers—no pain

Just think! You can lift off any corn or callus without pain or soreness.

A Cincinnati man discovered this ether compound and named it freezone. Any druggist will sell a tiny bottle of freezone, like here shown, for very little cost. You apply a few drops directly upon a tender corn or callus. Instantly the soreness disappears, then shortly you will find the corn or callus so loose that you can lift it right off.

Freezone is wonderful. It dries instantly. It doesn't eat away the corn or callus, but shrivels it up without even irritating the surrounding skin.

Hard, soft or corns between the toes, as well as painful calluses, lift right off. There is no pain before or afterwards. If your druggist hasn't freezone, tell him to order a small bottle for you from his wholesale drug house.

A Chapel for Lord Kitchener

It has been decided to erect a chapel in St. Paul's Cathedral in memory of Lord Kitchener. A site on the ground floor of the cathedral has been offered by the dean and chapter, and at a private meeting of the committee of the Lord Kitchener memorial fund at the mansion house the offer was accepted. In addition, the fund is providing 20 scholarships for one year to overseas sailors and soldiers who gave up their university studies to join the colors at the outbreak of war, and who have been disabled. Two have already gone to Cambridge, one to Edinburgh, one to Oxford and two to the imperial college of science.

They not only drive worms from the system, but repair the damage that worms cause and so invigorate the constitution that it speedily recovers from the disorders of the digestion that are the result of the work of these parasitic intruders. Dangers of the Front

Two Irish women were sympathizing with each other on the terrors of the war. One of them said:

"Sure and you have heard of the trouble of Denny, my husband?"

"Naw; what was it?"

"Sure he was shot at the abdomen."

"Oh, that's too bad. And where is the abdomen?"

"I don't know, but it is somewhere at the front."

German Sword Cannot Bring Peace

No World Peace Can Ever Be Assured Through Dominant Germany

The coming world peace, the exultant kaiser is reported as saying in a message from the battle front, will be assured "through the German sword." It is inconceivable that he accurately forecasts the future. It should be said in what is, perhaps, the darkest hour of the war, that no world peace can ever, by any possible decree of fate, be assured by the German sword. The worst might happen on the continent, and the broken British army be driven into its boats out of France, retiring to its island fortress, and still America and Great Britain could continue a maritime war against Germany for years. It was done in the case of Napoleon and it is not apparent that the thing has become impossible today.—Springfield Republican.

A Cure for Rheumatism.—A painful and persistent form of rheumatism is caused by impurities in the blood, the result of defective action of the liver and kidneys. The blood becomes tainted by the introduction of uric acid, which causes much pain in the tissues and in the joints. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are known to have effected many remarkable cures, and their use is strongly recommended. A trial of them will convince anyone of their value.

Continuous and monotonous Work -most trying on the Nerves

DOING the same thing, in the same way, day after day and week after week, means destruction to the nerve cells and collapse of the nervous system of the human body.

Whether in the munition factory or in the home, in the store or in the office, it is monotony that kills. And it is because woman's work is more often monotonous than men's that so many women suffer from nervous exhaustion and prostration, nervous headaches, neuralgic pains and general run-down condition of the body.

It is easy for the doctor to say you must have change and rest, but the expense of living is so great at this time that few can afford to follow such advice.

But there is restoration and health awaiting you in the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. This great reconstructive treatment cures by supplying the elements which Nature uses in the formation of new, rich blood and the creation of new nerve force.

If you are a regular reader of this paper you will find cures reported almost daily, and no matter where you live you will find people who will tell you with enthusiasm of the benefits obtained by using this great food cure.

Carmen's Messenger

— BY —

HAROLD BINDLOSS

WARD, LOCK & CO., LIMITED

London, Melbourne, and Toronto

It looked somewhat bulkier and he examined it carefully, but the cover did not seem to have been removed. It could not have been replaced by another, because the original address was there and he knew Carmen's hand; then there was a seal, which he did not think could have been tampered with. Besides, the man had only had it for a minute or two, and if he had opened it, would probably have taken something out instead of putting something in. Foster decided that he was mistaken about its size and returned it to his pocket.

Then he wanted a cigarette and took out the case he had got in the fur coat. Since he had left the coat in Montreal, the case was the only record of his adventure on the train and he wondered whether he would ever be able to restore it to its owner and speculated languidly about the man. As the latter knew his name, it was strange that he had not communicated with him at the Windsor, as he had promised. He had obviously not been attacked, because there had been nothing about it in the Canadian newspapers. The thing was puzzling, but after all it did not concern Foster much and he thought about something else.

It was late when he arrived at Newcastle and went to a hotel. There was fog and rain next morning, and he saw very little of the town, which seemed filled with smoke. Taking a tram car that carried him past rows of dingy buildings and shops where lights twinkled, he got out at the corner of a narrow street that ran back into the haze. After looking at the address on the packet he plunged into the gloom beside a row of tall, sooty buildings. There was no pavement and here and there a cart stood beneath an opening in the wall. The buildings were apparently warehouses, but some of the doors had brass plates and lights shone in the upper windows. By and by he found the number he wanted and entered a dirty arch, inside which a few names were painted on the wall. Graham's was not there, but he went up the steps to inquire at the first office he reached.

The lower storys were used as a warehouse and he came to the top landing before he saw a name that seemed to be Danish or Scandinavian painted on a door and going in knocked on the counter. The office was small and shabby and smelt of bacon, which he thought indicated that its occupant dealt in provisions, but he could not see much because of a glass partition. When he was getting impatient, an old man came to the counter.

"Can you tell me if there's a Mr. Graham in this building?" Foster asked.

"Yes, he's here," said the other. "What do you want?"

Foster said he had brought a packet from Canada and the old man, who looked rather hard at him, lifted a flap in the counter and told him to pass through. A door in the partition opened as he advanced and another man beckoned him to come in. It looked as if the latter had heard what had passed, but this saved an explanation and Foster, who asked if he was Graham, put the packet on a table. There was not much else in the small, dusty room, except a cupboard fitted with pigeon holes and a safe.

"This is from Miss Austin of Gardner's Crossing," he said.

Graham glanced at the packet carelessly, as if he did not consider it of much importance, and Foster felt puzzled. The fellow was not as old as Carmen's father, but Foster thought there was nothing about him that would attract a girl used to admiration, as Carmen was. He was certainly not handsome and had, on the whole, a commonplace look, while he was obviously in a small way of business.

"Thank you," he said. "It seems you have been to Edinburgh. We had a branch there, but closed it recently. Newcastle has more facilities for importing our goods. I'm afraid you have been put to some trouble."

Foster replied that he did not mind this, since he had promised Miss Austin to bring the packet and she was a friend of his, but although he studied the man's face, saw nothing to indicate that he was interested.

"Are you staying here?" he asked, and when Foster told him that he was going back as soon as he could, resumed: "If you had been staying, I would have been glad to take you about the town; but, after all, there's nothing much in the way of amusement going on. I might arrange to meet you in the afternoon, but must now finish some letters for the Continental mail."

Foster, who said he could not wait, went out, feeling that the other was pleased to get rid of him. Graham was obviously a small importer of provisions, and he could not see why the girl in Edinburgh had warned him to post the packet. Carmen's reason for sending such a man something she valued was impossible to discern.

This, however, was not Foster's business, and after lunch he caught a train to Hexham, and, finding he could get no farther, spent the night in the old border town.

VIII.

An Offer of Help

It rained and the light was going when Foster sat in a window seat of the library at the Garth. He was alone, but did not mind this. The Featherstones treated him as one of the family; he was free to do what he liked, and Alice, who had talked to him for half an hour, had just gone away. Lighting a cigarette, he mused and looked about.

Outside, the firs rose, black and dripping, above the wet drive. Between their trunks he saw the river, stained with peat, brawling among the stones, and the streaks of foam that stretched across a coffee-colored pool. Then a few boggy fields ran back into the mist that hung about the hills. A red fire threw a soft glow about the library. The room was somewhat shabby but spacious. Rows of old books in stained bindings, which Foster thought nobody read, faded into the gloom at its other end. It was warm and quiet, and he found it a comfortable retreat.

He had now been at the Garth a fortnight and did not want to leave. Featherstone and his wife obviously wished him to stay; he was grateful for the welcome they had given him, and felt as if he belonged to the place. What Alice thought was not clear, but she treated him with a quiet friendliness that he found singularly pleasant. By and by he began to wonder why his comrade had not written, particularly as he had brought away a bag of Lawrence's. He had one like it, and as both had its owner's initials stamped outside, he imagined the baggage agent had been deceived by the F when he affixed the check. Lawrence's bag, however, had his name engraved upon the lock.

Foster sat down in a big chair by the fire, and imagined he fell asleep because it had got nearly dark without his noticing it when the opening of the door roused him. Looking up, he saw Featherstone come in with a letter in his hand. The post did not arrive until the afternoon.

Precept and Practise

Kathleen had proved to be all that a servant should be in regard to her duties; but unfortunately her energies never seemed to extend to keeping her face clean. Her mistress desired to tell her to wash it, but not wanting to offend a valued servant, she tried to be diplomatic.

"Sure, an' it's a wonder yer niver thried it yersilf, ma'am!" was Kathleen's surprising answer.—Vancouver Province.

Experts say that in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta at least 6,500,000 h.p. of water runs to waste every day. 1,172,000 is on the Saskatchewan and Winnipeg rivers and their tributaries, and the balance in the great rivers of the north, the Athabasca, Peace, Churchill and the Nelson. ONE TOUCH OF PUTNAM'S STOPS CORN SORENESS

No need to walk on the edge of your soles to save a sore corn—Putnam's brings instant relief. Apply it to a tender corn, and watch that corn shrivel and dry up. Absolutely painless. No matter how tough the corn is, you can peel it right off by using Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. Costs but a quarter—why pay more for something not so good. Get Putnam's today.

Corn as Food and Fuel

Was Greatly Valued in Stove and Fireplace

Food serves substantially the same purpose in the body as fuel in the engine. It provides the energy for work. The carbohydrates, that is the sugars, starches and celluloses, can all be used as fuels and can all be used as foods. The final products, water and carbon dioxide, are in both cases the same, and necessarily, therefore, the amount of energy produced is the same in the body as in the engine.

Corn is a good example of the equivalence of the two sources of energy. There are few better foods and no better fuels. I can remember the good old days in Kansas when we had corn to burn. It was both an economy and a luxury, for—at 10 cents a bushel—it was cheaper than coal or wood and preferable to either at any price. The long yellow ears, each wrapped in its own kindling, could be handled without crocking the fingers. Each kernel as it cracked sent out a blazing jet of oil and the cobs left a fine bed of coals for the corn popper to be shaken over.

Drift wood and the pyrotechnic fuel they make now by soaking sticks in strontium and copper salts cannot compare with the old-fashioned corn fed fire in beauty and the power of evoking visions. Doubtless such luxury would be condemned as wicked nowadays, but those who have known the calorific value of corn would find it hard to abandon it altogether, and I fancy that the western farmer's wife, when she has an extra batch of baking to do, will steal a few ears from the crib. —E. E. Slosson in the Independent, New York.

How Farmer is Affected.

Christian Science Monitor:—There is naturally some curiosity to learn just how the daylight savvving law will affect the farm worker who has has always worked from sunrise to sunset, or, as he has been heard to put it, "from can to cant." An hour added to his evening and taken from his morning would make no differnece, so far as may be seen now, between the time he could and the time he couldn't.

Opposite the Opera House

Kaiser Bill's S. O. S. Ignored by Hell.

The Kaiser called the devil up
On the telephone one day
The girl at Central listened
To all they had to say,
"Hello!" she heard the Kaiser say,
"Is old man ruler home?
Just tell him it is Kaiser Bill,
That wants him on the phone."
The Devil said "Hello!" to Bill,
And said, "How are you?"
"I'm running hell here on earth
Now tell me what to do."
"What can I do the Devil said,
"My dear old Kaiser Bill."
If there' a thing that I can do
To help you sure I will."
The Kaiser said Now listen,
And I will try to tell
The way taat I am running
On earth a modern hell."
"I've saved for this for many years,
And I've started out to kill
That it will be a modern job
You may bet," said Kaiser Bill.
"My army went through Belgium,
Shooting women and children down
We tore up all her country,
And blowed up every town.
"My Zepps dropped bombs on cities,
Killing both old and young,
And those the Zeppelins didn't get
Were taken out and hung.
"I started out for Paris,
With the aid of poison gas;
The Belgians, darn them stopped us
And would not let us pass.
"My submarines are devils,
Why don'tyou see them fight
They go sneaking through thesea
And would sink aship on sight
"I was running things to suit me
Till a year or so ago,
Then aman called Woodrow Wilson
Wrote me to go slow.
"He says to me dead William,
We don't want to make you sore,
So be sure and tell your U-boats
To sink our ships no more.'
"We have told you for the last time
So dear Bill, its up to you
And if you donot stop it,
You'll have to fight us too
"I did not listen to him,
And he's coming after me,
With a million Yankee soldiers
From their home across the sea
"Now that's why I called you, Satan,
For I want advice from you;
I know that you will tell me
Just what I ought to do.'
"My dear old Kaiser William,
There"s not much for me to tell,
For the Yanks will make it hotter
Than ever I could in Hell.
"I've been a mean old devil,
But not half as mean as you,
And the minute that you get here,
I will hivve thejob to you.
"I'll be ready for your coming
And I'll keep the fires all bright,
And I'll make your room all ready
When the Yankees start to fight
"For the boys in tan will get you,
I have nothing more to tell;
Hang up the phone and get your hat,
And meet me here in Hell"

GERMANY HAD THE OPPORTUNITY FOR PRESERVING WORLD PEACE

MORE REVELATIONS CONCERNING ENEMY'S GUILT

Memorandum of Prince Lichnowsky Shows That Germany Could Have Reached Agreement Acceptable to Great Britain, But Balked Efforts of Ambassador to London

Further sections of the memorandum which Prince Lichnowsky, German ambassador at London when the war began, wrote for the purpose of justifying his position to personal friends, are published by The Politiken, organ of the Extreme Left of the Socialists. In the preceding sections Prince Lichnowsky described his efforts to secure a better understanding between Germany and Britain after his appointment as ambassador to London in 1912, and how they were thwarted because of the persistence of the German foreign office in backing up the Austrian view on Eastern questions, the following out of which he felt would lead to a collision with Russia and a world war.

The new portions of the memorandum deal principally with the negotiations over the Anglo-German colonial treaty. Prince Lichnowsky remarks at the outset that the good relations he had established in London had effected a noticeable improvement in Germany's relations with Britain. Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign minister, devoted himself honestly to this rapprochement, says the prince, and his intentions to this end were especially noticeable as regarded the colonial treaty and the Bagdad railway.

In 1898, continues Prince Lichnowsky, Count von Hatzfeldt-Wildenburg, the German minister to Great Britain, signed a secret agreement with the British government dividing the Portuguese colonies in Africa into economic spheres of interest between Germany and Great Britain, insuring the inviolability and independence of the Portuguese kingdom, and declaring the intention to support Portugal financially and economically. The agreement, therefore, he points out, did not clash with the old Anglo-Portuguese treaty dating from the sixteenth century. Nevertheless, at the instigation of the Marquis de Soveral, Portuguese minister to Great Britain, a new Anglo-Portuguese treaty, the so-called Windsor treaty, was signed in 1899, reinforcing the old treaty, the prince sets forth.

The Anglo-German negotiations, which began before Prince Lichnowsky's arrival, were intended to secure the revision and improvement of the treaty of 1898, and, thanks to the accommodating attitude of the British government, Prince Lichnowsky says he was able to give the new treaty a form conforming to German wishes and interests.

"Sir Edward Grey," continues Prince Lichnowsky, "wished to show us good-will, and also in the main to further our colonial development, while Great Britain also wished to lead the German development of power from the North Sea and Western Europe to the Atlantic and Africa. 'We do not grudge Germany her colonial development,' a member of the cabinet said to me."

Prince Lichnowsky goes on to say that the treaty was practically in readiness in 1913, but that "new difficulties arose to prevent its signing, and only a year later, shortly before the outbreak of the war, could I receive authority to conclude the treaty. It was, however," he adds, "never signed."

"Sir Edward Grey would only sign it on condition that the treaty be published, together with the 1898 and 1899 treaties. England has no secret treaties, and it was contrary to the existing principles to keep the treaty secret. Sir Edward could therefore conclude no treaty without publishing it, but the German foreign office, where my successes in London had created increasing distrust, stated that the publication would jeopardize German interests in the colonies, where, moreover, the Portuguese would give us no more concessions. The treaty, which offered us exceptional advantages, consequently fell through. This was another war sacrifice."

CHEWING TOBACCO

Simply Place It In The Mouth Between Lower Lip and Gum.

This is the way to get all the flavor and satisfaction out of every pinch of Copenhagen Chewing Tobacco.

You see, "Copenhagen" is made of the best, old, high flavored leaf tobacco.

The snuff process—by which the leaf tobacco is converted into tiny grains, and scientifically prepared — retains all the good of the tobacco.

Those who are trying "Copenhagen" for the first time, should remember to use only a small quantity, and to place the pinch in the mouth between the lower lip and the gum, without any attempt at chewing it

Sailors of Britain Hostile to Germans

Members of National Seamen's Union Have No Use for Pirates

The attitude of British sailors with regard to Germany's submarine campaign was shown by J. Havelock Wilson, general secretary of the national seamen's union, who, speaking at a meeting of sailors at Cardiff, Wales, asked those who had been torpedoed to stand up. One hundred and seventeen men of the 300 present arose. Mr. Wilson then remarked: "You men who are standing have had some experience with German kultur. Are you prepared to follow the advice of some of our Labor leaders and shake hands with the pirates? All those who are willing to shake hands with the Germans will remain standing."

Not one of the 117 men remained on his feet.

An order in council has been passed suspending for a further period of five years the collection of royalty on coal mines in the Yukon. This step has been taken by the government because it is believed to be in the public interest that the mining of coal in the Yukon should be encouraged.

Engineering Wonder

Suspension Bridge Built of Wire in British Columbia Has Collapsed

When the suspension bridge that Indians of Hagiglet built across the Bulkley Canyon in Northwestern British Columbia recently collapsed the world lost one of its engineering wonders. With only the tools of the wilderness, with no knowledge of the laws of stress, vibration, tensile strength and carrying load of various materials, the red men succeeded after two failures in throwing across the canyon at a height of one hundred feet a suspension bridge one hundred and forty-six feet long and ten feet wide.

A little while before the first successful Atlantic cable was laid an American telegraph company conceived the brilliant scheme of connecting North America by wire with Europe. The plan was to run a line through the wilderness at the extreme end of North America, then over the very narrow strip of water of Bering Strait to land in Siberia. Thence the wire would connect with all the capitals of Europe. The company started work and at immense expense carried a great deal of material into the the Canadian wilderness. While the work was still proceeding, however, the unbelievable happened; the Atlantic cable was successfully placed across the bottom of the ocean. That put an end to work on the overland project, and great piles of wire were abandoned in the wilderness because of the prohibitive cost of taking it out.

This wire was the only white man's material that the Indians of Hagilget used in making their remarkable suspension bridge. Their chief reliance was the timber from the surrounding forests. No nail was to be found in its entire length; the joints were made by dovetailing and by burning holes through the logs and fastening them together with strong handmade wooden spikes.

When the Klondike rush occurred the bridge helped many gold seekers over the difficult canyon, for it lay on the route that a great many men took going into the mines.

Its collapse was owing to neglect, for, although several requests had been made for a grant to preserve it, nothing had been done. This neglect is probably explained by the fact that the bridge was no longer needed commercially, for not long ago an English firm of bridge builders spanned the canyon with the latest type of modern suspension bridge. The new structure, one of the highest of its kind on the North American continent, is two hundred and fifty feet above the river. It is four hundred and fifty-one feet long and nine feet wide, and is capable of sustaining a moving load of eighteen thousand pounds. A photograph shows the two bridges, a striking contrast, now unfortunately lost to view forever.

More Freedom the Cure

Violence and Outrages Due to Ignorance of the People

If it were possible that a people brought up under an intolerant and arbitrary system could subvert that system without acts of cruelty and folly, half the objections to despotic power would be removed. We deplore the outrages which accompany revolutions. But the more violent the outrages, the more assured we feel that a revolution was necessary. The violence of these outrages will always be proportioned to the ferocity and ignorance of the people and will be proportioned to the oppression and degradation under which they have been compelled to live. It is the character of such revolutions that we always see the worst of them at first. Till men have been some time free, they know not how to use their freedom. The final and permanent fruits of liberty are wisdom, moderation, and mercy. Its immediate effects are often atrocious crimes, conflicting errors, skepticism on points the most clear, dogmatism on points the most mysterious. It is just at this crisis that its enemies love to exhibit it. There is only one cure for the evils which newly-acquired freedom produces; and that cure is freedom. The reader who has got thus far may be tempted to exclaim: "What twaddle!" But what he has been reading was written by Macaulay in 1825. We admit, however, that it seems to have its application to events in Russia in 1918.—From the New York Evening Post.

RUSSIA HAS LONG BEEN UNDER THE DOMINATION OF GERMANY

WORK OF UNDERMINING NATIONAL STRUCTURE

Collapse of Nation was the Logical Result of a Campaign that Has Been Going On for Generations, According to Writers Who Have Intimate Knowledge of Conditions

It is a mistaken idea that the collapse of Russian resistance to Germany was a matter of a few months. For fifty years or more the Germans have been undermining the national structure of Russia, and only a miracle could have prevented what has happened. It was the logical result of a campaign that has been going on for generations, and as we look back over the events of recent years it seems that the alliance between Russia and France was an artificial alliance, and that the natural fate of the Russian people was that of subserviency to Germany. Prussia knows Russia better than any other country knows her. The French were strangers in the alliance, however honestly Russian statesmen strove to fulfill the terms of the pact. There is a common Russian saying, "The money comes from France, but the brains come from Germany."

In Russia we are watching the last act of the drama; we see military penetration following the peaceful penetration that was going on even before the birth of the German empire. Attention is called to this fact by K. Bercovici in the New York Sun, who seems to know as much about foreign affairs as his name implies. He quotes from C. L. Schnizler, who wrote a history of Russia in 1847, in which he says with simple Teutonic modesty: "Russia contains within her a nation of Germans, who in all respects possess an unquestioned superiority over the Russians. And it is from them, the Germans, that she draws the most distinguished of her statesmen, her politicians and her warriors. And why is it that these are, comparatively speaking, so superior to her Russian subjects? Precisely because as men they were born Germans; their intelligence have been cultivated, have been developed in the more genial soil of a richer, a more elevated, a more enlightened civilization." Old kultur again.

But there is truth in the boasting, and in the old saying about the brains coming from Germany. The penetration of Russia by Prussia which has been going on for generations with the approval, if not with the suggestion, of the German government, has had the tendency of putting Russian business in the hands of Germans. They have been the lawyers, the professors, the "intellectuals" of the country. It is said that in the eyes of the ignorant Russian peasant every German is a doctor, and there is a story to the effect that when the German doctor died in a certain village the populace insisted that his German servant should carry on the business, and beat him until he consented to do so. The higher educational standards in Germany enabled the German professional man to outstrip their Russian competitors and just as other countries, against their will perhaps, have become resigned to see the banking business largely in the hands of Jews, so the Russians have become accustomed to seeing Germans controlling the commerce of the country and becoming leaders in other walks of life.

In Lithuania the richest tradesmen are Germans. The Baltic provinces have been thoroughly Germanized, and the aristocracy is almost wholly German. Poland, Finland and Courland acknowledged German predominance long before the events of the past few months. It is true, as the historian boasted, that Russia has been indebted to Germany for many of the men who have directed her public affairs. Russia's greatest oppressors—Buhren, Pahlen, Benckendorff, Berg, von Plehve, Minn, Riman, Kaulbars and Steurmer have been Germans; and at the head of the Russian army have been such Teutons as Stakelberg, Stark, Stossel, Rennenkampf, Grippenberg and Graner. In many cases where the Germanic name of a particular Russian does not explain his pro-Germanism his affection for Germany was derived from a German mother, or perhaps from a handsome German bribe.

Germany has always formed a barrier between Russia and the outside world. We have been obliged to see Russia through her eyes, and her desire was to show Russia to the worst advantage in order that the Russians might drink in the belief that Germany alone understood and loved her. The Jewish massacres were approved by Germany with this end in view. Germany had also the motive of particular hatred for the Jews because they promised eventually to open the eyes of the Russians to the fact that they were being exploited by Germany. German agents were also active in promoting revolutionary uprisings and in any other enterprise which would weaken the strength of the nation, lower it in the estimation of the outside world and make its final downfall more certain. For generations she continued to "bear" the stock of the Bear in order that at the meeting of the creditors she could buy in the hide at her own figure. She appears to have succeeded, although her present title is none better than that of a man who buys property at a tax sale.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

Russian Crazy-Quilt Farms

Peasants Always Claimed the Land As Their Own

Russian life has always been patriarchal, and the villagers live as one great family. The idea of the undivided ownership of land dates back almost a thousand years. Even when held as serfs, the peasants always claimed the land as their own. "We are yours," they said, "but the land is ours." When the peasants were freed, sections of land were given to each village. This is parceled out to the various families every few years by the village elders. If the land is of unequal fertility, each family is given an allotment of both the best and the poorest soil, in the effort to administer absolute impartiality. As a result the land is frequently divided into very narrow strips. They may be as wide as fifty yards, but I have seen many not more than three yards wide.

IMPURE BLOOD IN THE SPRING

The Passing of Winter Leaves People Weak and Depressed

As winter passes away it leaves many people feeling weak, depressed and easily tired. The body lacks that vital force and energy which pure blood alone can give.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are an all-year-round blood builder and nerve tonic, but they are especially useful in the spring. Every dose helps to make new, rich, red blood. Returning strength commences with their use and the vigor and cheerfulness of good health quickly follows.

There is just one cure for lack of blood and that is more blood. Food is the material from which blood is made, but Dr. Williams' Pink Pills double the value of the food we eat. They give strength, tone up the stomach and weak digestion, clear the complexion of pimples, eruptions and boils, and drive out rheumatic poisons.

If you are pale and sallow, if you feel continually tired out, breathless after slight exertion, if you have headaches or backaches, if you are irritable and nervous, if your joints ache, if your appetite fails and food does not nourish nor sleep refresh you, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will make you well and strong. To build up the blood is the special purpose of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and that is why they are the best spring medicine. If you feel the need of a tonic at this season give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial and you will rejoice in new health, new strength and new energy. Japanese in Canada's Army

Two Hundred of Them Were Drafted Into Various Canadian Units

Those who are influenced by what probably is a secret propaganda of the Germans to distrust our gallant ally Japan, might well turn their eyes to the Canadian overseas forces for an answer. When the war started, the Japanese in Vancouver and vicinity immediately commenced the formation of a Japanese battalion to offer Canada. Two hundred of them were drafted into various Canadian units which went across the sea. One was awarded the Victoria Cross after his death for distinguished bravery. Others have been awarded various decorations on the field of battle. Their honor roll up to now consists of forty-five killed in action with numbers of others returned home unfit for further duty. The Japanese were more loyal to their alliance than Canada had been cordial to them.—Montreal Herald.

Let Coal Pay for Tunnel

It has been proposed to construct a railway tunnel under the Firth of Forth, Scotland, paralleling the famous bridge now spanning that body of water, and to pay for the tunnel by making it largely a coal mining proposition. Mining engineers point out that coal is now being mined on both sides of the firth from the same seams and that much of this excavating is done under water. At this point the estuary is only about two miles wide and it is contended that a continuous passage could be made beneath it by properly co-ordinating the mining operation. In this way, what would otherwise probably prove too costly an improvement, could be made with profit.—From Popular Mechanics Magazine.

WHY DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS HOLD THEIR POPULARITY

Dame Clement Collin Tells Why She Recommends Them to Her Friends—How They Have Made Their Reputation

Breche A Manon, Que., (Special)—Among the many friends Dodd's Kidney Pills have made in this part of Quebec is Dame Clement Collin, a well-known resident of this place. "I received great relief from Dodd's Kidney Pills," is the reason she gives for always recommending Dodd's Kidney Pills to her friends, and she adds that a great deal of her health and vigor is due to the help she got from the great Canadian kidney remedy.

Dodd's Kidney Pills hold their popularity not because of the promises they make, but because of the good they do. They are no cure-all. They are purely and simply a kidney remedy. The reason they are credited with cures of rheumatism, heart disease, dropsy, etc., is because all these diseases are caused by sick kidneys. Cure the kidneys, and the cause of the disease is removed.

Dodd's Kidney Pills have made their reputation as a kidney remedy by the cures they have made. Ask your friends about them.

HOW TO GROW SUGAR ON A VACANT LOT.

"One of the most effective ways to make up the sugar shortage is to grow sugar beets in the home garden," asserts Prof. P. G. Holden, world famous agriculturalist. "Sugar beets can be grown pretty generally in all of this country. There are few more profitable or important crops at the present time.

"A small plot of ground in the back lot will grow enough beets to provide an average family with sugar and syrup for a whole year. The percentage of sugar in beets is surprisingly large and any housewife, boy or girl can exract the sugar with little trouble and with such utensils as are found in every home.

"Soak the beets in cold water to make them crisp and brittle. Remove the dirt. Peel and cut off the crown slice the beets thin or grate them. Put in real hot water, not boiling, and let stand about thirty minutes then strain off teh water through a cheesecloth, and boil the lipuid to a proper consistency for syrup. While this boiling is taking place, constantly removve the scum which rises to the top.

"This syrup should be canned or bottled while hot, tightly sealed and corked to prevent moulding. If made for sugar let it stand in an open vessel. Fifty pounds of beets will make about a gallon of syrup.

Sugar beets are sown and cultivated like the ordinary garden beet, raised by gardeners. They require no more care or attention.

AN APPEAL TO FARMERS.

Department of Agriculture Victoria, B.C., May19, 1918.

By mutual arrangement between the Dominion Census and statistics office, and the British Columbia department of Agriculture, for the collection of agricultural statistics, card schedules calling for a return of crop areas and live stock on farms as on June 15th 1918, are being mailed to all farmers whose names appear as such on the Provincial voters lists, as revised in 1917.

Last year the Provinces of Quebec Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia adopted this plan with such success that this year all the other provinces in the Dominion havve cooperated.

In appealing to farmers for their hearty co-operation, by filling in and returning the cards sent out it is unnecessary to point out the extreme shortage of food products in our allied countries as aresult of the present war, but it is desired to emphasize the importance of the Govvernments having as accurate knowledge of conditions and supply as possible, in order to accomplish proper distribution. Compiled results will guide farmers in marketing their products and making future arrangements.

The satisfactory response from farmers in 1897, when 46 per cent. of the farms in this province were reported upon, was perhaps due in no small measure to the spirit of patriotism applied in a practical sense. It is hoped that this same spirit will be even more manifest in June 1918, and when every farmer in the Province will send in a report.

Your individual return is imperative towards the most reliable results, and the sucess of the system now adopted. It is by far the most economial plan and one which can be used every year.

Failing in such a plan where the farmers' co-operation is necessary, in order that the collection of statistics be continued, the Dominion would then require to resort to a census as taken by personal visit, but which would at the present time cost over $1,250,000. This would at once prove unpopular with our tax payers, and would be an unnecessary drain on the public funds.

Farmers are assured that their individual reports will be treated as strictly confidential and will not in any shape or manner be used as a basis for taxation or other liability. Only tota's will be published.

Those farmers whose names do not appear on the Proviincial Voters' List as such and therefore, have not received a card shedule, may obtain one as well as a return envvelope, from their postmaster or the secretary of of the Farmers Institute.

A report is desired from every farmer who is raisinb crops or livestock whether owner, tenant or operator on shares.

More than one report from one farm should be avoided as far as possible.
