There have been several bad bush fires in this neighborhood during the past fortnight. Two at Comox Lake, evidently from camper's fires, and nearly go into the Victoria Lumber Company's limit near the lake, but owing to the efforts of Fire Warden Baikie and his helpers it was got under control. At Camp 2 a fire broke out and burnover about 600 acres of the Logging Company's land before it was checked About forty acres of this was covered with fallen logs which were more or less damaged, and the Company lost some cable and other materials. The balance will prove a benefit to the Company as the fire consumed the underbrush and left the land clear for logging operations, Over 150 men were engaged in keeping the fires within bounds, and the heat was terrific As soon as the big swamp was reached the flames died out as the swamp was full of water,

The Squire's Sweetheart

KATHARINE TYNAN

Miss East was wired to, and there was a delay before her answer came. When it arrived it bore the stamp of a Cornish fishing village.

"So sorry; finishing my novel down here. Studio at Dolly's service. Mrs. Baggs, the housekeeper, at the studio, has the key."

Dolly had been told what was suggested for her, and had approved. She was a new Dolly since yesterday. The sleepiness which had laid upon her beauty like a mist had passed away, leaving an air of serene and perfect happiness behind it. She looked at the Squire so shyly, yet so radiantly, that he could not remember he was middle aged, and that it ought to have been Hilary and not he the adorable creature had chosen.

She was enchanted at the prospect of having Miss East's studio.

"I am going to work," she said to her lover, "because I shall want some things before I come to you."

She had looked up at him with eyes so starry that they dazzled him. He had been on the point of saying that she must not work any more, that henceforth she should have all she needed without working, when Mrs. Egerton had interrupted them and it remained unsaid.

He was not altogether happy about Dolly's being alone in Miss East's studio—alone, without even a cat or a dog, during the dark hours of the night. Supposing she were ill, or frightened! Supposing—even to himself he would not say what he feared most. There must be somebody to look after her. A trusted servant, or some such person.

Lionel Egerton had no one to recommend. He wished old Nance were still living, he had often wished it for Granny's sake when she found Susan a trouble. Doll would not want the ordinary person bothering about her while she worked. Doubtless they could get someone to fill the gap for the time being.

The Squire walked back to Silverthorne having promised to consult Mrs. Brown. One or two of the maids at Silverthorne were pleasant, trustworthy girls. One of them could stay with Dolly till they found something better, if indeed the arrangement could not stand for the short time it was needed.

Mrs. Brown had an amazing suggestion. She would not recommend Lucy or Flo. Very good girls in their way, but flighty, as was natural to their age. "I should say, sir, why not have Mrs. Bartlett?"

"Mrs. Bartlett! But she would not want to leave her cottage."

"Begging your pardon, sir, she do want to leave it. There's something or someone about this place she can't abide. I've taken a great fancy to the poor soul. Whatever secrets she's got—and our secrets are our own, as I say, sir—the harm's not in her. A good, honest soul that gives a day's work for a day's wage. I took my walk that way on Tuesday, and she only let me in after she'd spied me through the window. I was speaking to her about going through the red damask curtains and chair covers before winter was upon us, and she says to me, "Mrs. Brown I shan't be here when the winter comes. I hope I shall be far away. I thought I was going to have peace here, but peace is not for the likes of me." Not another word she said. Whatever was preying on her mind she keeps to herself. Times and times again she seems on the point of telling all, and I holds my breath to listen; but no more comes. She can shut up tight as a rat trap."

The good woman stopped to recover her breath after this long speech.

"I haven't seen Mrs. Bartlett for some time," the Squire said.

"Go and see her now, sir," suggested Mrs. Brown. "Leastways, if she hasn't gone. I wouldn't be surprised any hour of the day or night if she didn't slip away out of it."

"But—she seemed so frightened of the world."

"We get used to everything—even a wooden leg, as the saying is. She's better in health, sir, than when you brought her here. I think from what she lets fall, that she had a hard time—half starved I shouldn't be surprised. You won't do better, sir, I'm sure, for the young lady. Mrs. Bartlett would lay down her life for you. She's been a lady's maid, too, and she can cook. Her young lady won't be put off her food by bad cooking."

The Squire went off to see Mrs. Bartlett. There had been a day when he and Dolly, caught in a heavy shower, had taken shelter at Mrs. Bartlett's. They had surprised her with her poor face exposed. Dolly had been beautifully gentle, and Mrs. Bartlett had waited on her assiduously—shaking out her damp skirts, wiping the raindrops from her hat and hair, lighting up a fire and making them a cup of tea while the rain went over.

Dolly had spoken to him about Mrs. Bartlett afterwards, without any repulsion for her poor marred face, to which she had referred only indirectly.

"She must have been pretty once," she had said. "A brisk, bright woman, very vivacious and clever. Such pretty hair and such good brown eyes. And her voice—did you notice the voice, with its touch of Irish brogue?"

Mrs. Brown was not given to making wild suggestions. The Squire had told her simply and plainly that he was going to marry Miss Egerton, and she had wished him joy, adding that Miss Egerton was a sweet, pretty creature. Dolly had a way with her social inferiors. It was one of the things her sister-in-law had resented, while she would not have moved a finger to gain the good-will of any one of those who loved Dolly spontaneously.

Perhaps there was something in the suggestion. He remembered how scornful Dolly had been when he had apologized to her for springing Mrs. Bartlett upon her suddenly. The color had deepened in her cheek, and her eyes had lightened, while she said, in her beautiful voice, which had deep tones of richness in it, that she hated more than anything else that form of cruelty which made people shrink from anyone maimed or disfigured.

He had to wait long enough outside the cottage to become afraid that Mrs. Bartlett had gone. It was with a sense of relief he heard her unbolt the door, and followed her into the little sitting room. He sat down facing her, the light from the high window on his face; hers in the shadow she always sought, her hand covering her cheek in an habitual attempt to hide her disfigurement. As she sat so, her face partly turned away from him, her left hand was under her cheek. There was a thin gold wedding ring upon it. Poor creature! She had never spoken to him of a husband.

He unpacked the matter of his errand without delay. She heard him in silence. Once or twice she turned about and looked at him, and her eyes were like the eyes of a dog for their expression of absolute devotion.

"I beg your pardon, sir," she said, when he had finished. "Is the young lady someone you are very much interested in?"

"As a matter of fact I hope to marry her," the Squire said, suddenly young and shy and ingenuous. "And as soon as it can be fixed up, Mrs. Bartlett. Ladies, you know, always require a little time for preparation."

"Sir," said Mrs. Bartlett with startling energy, "if it is the sweet pretty young lady who came here with you that in the early summer, I'm very glad of it. You'll be marrying her very soon, sir?"

"As soon as she will give her consent for a speedy marriage," said the Squire, with a happy laugh.

"I wouldn't be delaying, sir, if I was you. Happiness can't come too soon or last too long. She won't keep you waiting, I'm sure. And after your marriage, you'll maybe be taking her abroad. You'll maybe be taking her for a tour. The world's a grand place for them that can travel it."

"I don't know how you knew it, Mrs. Bartlett, but that is my intention. Miss Egerton has never been in Italy."

"She couldn't see it in better company."

WOMEN! IT IS MAGIC! LIFT OUT ANY CORN

Apply a few drops then lift corns or calluses off with fingers—no pain

Just think! You can lift off any corn or callus without pain or soreness.

A Cincinnati man discovered this ether compound and named it freezone. Any druggist will sell a tiny bottle of freezone, like here shown, for very little cost. You apply a few drops directly upon a tender corn or callus. Instantly the soreness disappears, then shortly you will find the corn or callus so loose that you can lift it right off.

Freezone is wonderful. It dries instantly. It doesn't eat away the corn or callus, but shrivels it up without even irritating the surrounding skin.

Hard, soft or corns between the toes, as well as painful calluses, lift right off. There is no pain before or afterwards. If your druggist hasn't freezone, tell him to order a small bottle for you from his wholesale drug house.

Miss Paul: Grace doesn't obey anybody.

Miss Pry: No, she doesn't even mind her own business.

Government Helps Dairying

Dairying Industry of Saskatchewan Put on a Firmer Basis

Until the provincial government took hold, the dairying industry of Saskatchewan declined. In 1906, the butter output of the province had fallen to 127,000 pounds, whereas in 1897 it had been 346,000 pounds. With the inauguration of a government dairy branch, and the institution of the co-operative creamery, an entirely different state of affairs was brought about. The dairy branch now operates seventeen co-operatively owned creameries, located at central points on the different railways. Express charges on the cream are paid at the creamery, so that the farmer at a distance suffers nothing from the fact that the creamery is not at his own door. The dairy branch markets the product, and distributes the total net profits co-operatively twice a month, Incoming cream is classified and paid for accordingly, and outgoing butter is graded also according to quality. Instruction in dairying has been given to farmers by the operation of travelling dairy instruction cars, as well as throughout the year at the creameries and by travelling instructors. The progress of the dairying industry will be seen when it is stated that in 1916 there were 17 creameries, with 7,205 farmers sending cream, and the production was 2,538,061 pounds of butter, or more than 19 times as much as in 1906.

Farm Labor Secured

That 6,500 farm laborers were brought into Western Canada from the United States during the period from March 1 to May 3 is the statement of T.M. Molloy, Commissioner of the Bureau of Labor; 1,100 of these went to the province of Manitoba, 3,000 to Saskatchewan and 2,300 to Alberta.

Extra Profit from Selected Cows

Cows of Good Dairy Type Repay Cost of Extra Feed

One remarkably satisfactory result of keeping simple dairy records yields of milk and cost of feed, is the knowledge gained that cows of good dairy type do repay the cost of extra feed.

One example may be given. Not far from St. Hyacinthe, Quebec, one hundred cows produced 104,854 pounds of milk more during 1916 than one hundred did in 1915. The 1915 records showed that ten were not paying so they were beefed, and again in 1916 eleven were sent to the block, being replaced by better milkers. Better feeding contributed largely to the above noted big increase in mild yield; more corn was fed, more clover and a little higher meal ration.

The value of the extra feed was $605; this produced more milk to the value of $1,677.66, so that the extra clear return was $1,072.66, and the cows were in much better condition.

Dairy records help to select good cows and to ensure larger profit. Write the Dairy Commissioner Ottawa, for free milk and feed record forms.

Father—What did the teacher say when she heard you swear?

Tommy—She asked me where I learned it.

Father—What did you tell her?

Tommy—I didn't want to give you away, pa, so I blamed it on the parrot.

Ernest—"Now, Mary, it is only fair for me to tell you that I'm a somnambulist."

Mary—"That's all right, dear. We'll take it in turns. I'll go to your chapel with you one Sunday, and you can come to my church the next."—The Sketch.

The debt of Downing street—the hub of the Empire, as it has been termed—to America is worth recalling today. Downing, who built and named it, was born in America and educated at Harvard, where he built his own rooms of timber and glass. Office Men Die Youngest Bookkeepers and office assistants die youngest and farmers die eldest, according to a report based on an analysis of deaths recorded by a life insurance company between 1911 and 1913. The average age of death among bookkeepers and clerks was thirty-six years, and among farmers fifty-eight years. Tuberculosis caused thirty-five per cent. of the deaths of clerks, the highest record for that disease, and heart disease was responsible for the largest number of farmers' deaths, sixteen per cent.

Conserve Young Cattle

Slaughter of Calves Results in Great Loss in Meat Production

Wholesale and unnecessary destruction of calves through the country, has influenced W.W. Fraser, recently appointed Live Stock Commissioner for Manitoba, to warn farmers to conserve their young cattle. He urges them against thoughtless slaughter of calves, and states that thousands are destroyed annualy, with consequent loss in meat production and dairy supplies.

Could the public be brought to realize the astounding loss annually as a result of this destruction of calves, it would startle the most indifferent, Mr. Fraser states. The possibilities of a shortage of all food supplies which is causing already almost famine prices, is alarming.

The Department of Agriculture working in conjunction with Mr. Fraser, is taking steps to protect calves from slaughter, and more especially among the dairies near the city, where thousands of calves have been sold to butchers or destroyed as soon as they were born. An arrangement is being made between dairymen and farmers whereby farmers can secure calves by paying a nominal charge price, and similar to that paid by butchers, thus preserving a calf that would be sold for $61 to one which when two and a half years old would be worth form $100 to $175.

Should co-operation of all persons concerned be established, the present waste would be turned into a food production increase, with enormous financial benefit to the country, according to Mr. Fraser. Prompt action this year is necessary he stated. He added that they should use the best type of sires in order that the offspring may be of the best quality.

How He Felt

The two girls were talking with a young lieutenant who had got a bullet through his arm.

Steel Vessel Launched

A steel steamer, "War Dog," first ship of its type to be built in British Columbia, has just been launched at Vancouver, B.C. This ship, with a length of 315 feet, beam 45 feet and depth 27 feet, is the first steel cargo vessel to be built in this province. The contract was placed by a Japanese company, but since the steamer has taken the water she has been sold to a British firm. Other similar vessels will be built immediately.

Union Stock Yards at Winnipeg to Have Increased Capacity

Directors of the Union Stock yards have decided to increase the capacity of the yards thirty per cent. and the efficiency of handling facilities forty per cent. at a cost approximating $100,000.

The block of pens immediately behind the present covered yards will be roofed, giving 115 additional covered pens; two new alleys with 40 catch pens will be put in off the new scale yards to facilitate the sorting and weighing of stock. At the east of the yards two more new alleys will be installed at the large pens used for shipment of range cattle.

Work on the improvements is to commence immediately with a view to finishing by August.

"To keep from talking about it all the time."

Paper Making Secrets

The Oxford Press Syndicate values its formula for making the very thin, tough paper used in the Bibles and encyclopedias at more than $1,000,000. To perfect the process required twenty-five years of hard work and the expenditure of $1,000,000 in cash.

A secret of even greater value is the formula for making the paper employed for the Bank of England notes. This is a family possession of the Portals of Lavenstroke, to whom already in two generations it has brought an enormous fortune.

Cheapest of All Oils.—Considering the curative qualities of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil it is the cheapest of all preparations offered to the public. It is to be found in every drug store in Canada from coast to coast and all country merchants keep it for sale. So, being easily procurable and extremely moderate in price, no one should be without a bottle of it

Aerial Progress

Remarkable Development in Aircraft in the Past Nine Years

The great progress made in the development of aircraft in the last nine years was the subject of a recent lecture in London. In 1908 the Wright brothers flew at a rate of 35 miles an hour, while at the end of last year a speed of 142 miles an hour was attained by a Sopwith monoplane. The farthest distance flown by the Wrights in 1908 was 71-2 miles; the other day a Frenchman came near flying from Verdun to Russia (984 miles). The Wrights in 1908 reached an altitude of 500 feet; both a Frenchman and an Englishman had recently ascended to over 25,000 feet. The rate of ascent in 1909 by a Frenchman was 300 feet in 15 minutes an aviator in England recently ascended 10,000 feet in 15 minutes, the first 5,000 in five minutes, which was equal to the ascent of the fastest lift. Once they found difficulty in carrying a single passenger; now the largest machines take a crew of sixteen and a load of a ton and a half.

Difficult to Land Well

The most difficult part of flying is landing. In fact, according to high authorities in the British Flying Corps, nearly the whole art of flying lies in landing and a man who can land well under any conditions will be able to do anything else in the air on his own initiative, given a sound nerve. Nothing but experience makes it possible to land almost anywhere in a bad country with the engines stopped dead, and to drop down faultlessly on to a strange landing place without any indication as to the direction of the wind or the slope of the ground.

Note and Comment

Eighty-nine years ago the corner-stone of the pioneer railroad, the Baltimore & Ohio, was laid at Baltimore with imposing ceremonies. This line, like early roads, was built of wooden rails, fastened to crossties of wood or stone buried the ground. Flat bars of iron were spiked spiked on the rails. This method was found to be dangerous owing to the loosening of the rails which often bent upwards and crashed through the bottom of the car, so that the passengers never knew at what moment they might be impaled like flies on a pin. About four years later, July 4, 1832, six miles of Baltimore & Susquehanna Railroad were opened to travel, The cars were drawn by horses, but in the following year steam engines were adopted.

Good roads have a money value far beyond our ordinary conception says, S. R. Henderson, President of Manitoba Good Roads Associotion. Bad roads constitute our greatest drawback to internal development and material progress. Good roads mean prosperous farmers bad roads mean abandoned farms, sparsely settled country district and congested cities, when the poor become poorer. Good roads mean more cultivated farms and cheaper food products. Bad roads mean poor transportation, lack of communication, high prices for the necessities of life, loss of untold millions and idle workmen. Good roads will help those who cultivate the soil. Whatever aid the producers and farmers give will increase our wealth and our greatness and benefit all the people,

The ecooomic value of the bacon hog on the British market is an important topic. According to Mr. Duncan Anderson, who has been talking to the public for many years on this topic. the farmers of Ontario began to change from the thick fat to the bacon type of hog about twenty years ago. During the next eight years as a result of that change. an export trade to England in bacon and ham was developed to the extent of fifteen million dollars a year. What is needed is that a clear knowledge of the situation be propigated among the farmers, so that the best type of bacon hog be produced, that the bacon be prepared and preserved in the way the British people like best.

The Liberals of the riding are very much excited since it has been announced that a Federa election is in sight. Rev. Thos. Menzies is reported to be touring the riding with his ear to the ground list ning for the nomination P. P. Harrison is also reported to be flirting with the different Associations looking for the same favor, while Mr. Lawrence formerly of Bevan, who is reported to have lately invested heavily in newspaper stock, also has aspirations. Had Mr. Lawrence remained in the riding he would have possibly come near to getting the nomination as most of his colleagues in the newspaper are anxious for a fight, A large number of the level headed prominent Liberals r not in favor of running a candieate at this time, They say, and rightly, that there is absolutely no difference in the platforms and that Herb Clements has made an ideal member, and should be returned by acclamation. The matter will be threshed out at a convention at Parksville on Aug. 7th.

THE FORD IS ECONOMICAL

The average man can easily afford a Ford car. It is the most inexpensive car to drive,

20 to 25 miles on a gallon of gasoline is an everyday occurance. 33 miles is frequently reported by Ford owners, Yearly repair expenses of less than one dollar are not unusual. The car is light in weight, and tires give more mileage on a Ford than on any other car.

You can buy a Ford for yourself and one for your wife for the price of one car at $1000. You can run both Fords at about the same expense as one larger, heavier car.

You can always sell a "used" Ford at a good price. You have to accept a big reduction for a "used" larger car

The Turtle Auto

Bullets Cannot Hit This Strange War Machine

One of the weirdest looking machines yet devised for use in the world war is being built for the allies in France and Flanders. It is known as the "Turtle Auto," not from its lack of speed, but from its shape. The car is so designed that every part is curved in such a way that a projectile will glance off. No matter from what side or angle a shell is fired, the curved lines of the Turtle auto will offer but a slight resistaice. The bullet will glance up or down or horizontally.

The driver sees through a periscope and is entirely protected from bullets. Besides the chaffeur the car contains four soldiers who wield rifles through small portholes and man a four inch gun that can be fired at any angle. It will be interesting to learn what weapon or device the Germans will evolve to combat the "Turtle car," which is said to have been the invention of an American.

Stimulate Interest In Live Stock

A Circuit of Fall Fairs Through the West Will Encourage Exhibition

The board of the Saskatoon Winter Fair, of which Hon. W.C. Sutherland is chairman, proposes to offer the following prizes at the Winter Fair to be held Dec. 4, 5 and 6, 1917:

Horses $4,605; cattle $2,508; sheep $1,063; hogs $867 and poultry $2,000; total of $11,000. This is an increase over last winter's fair of $5,000 in prize money. The classification is the same as being offered at the Regina fair. This is the first of the Western winter fairs to be held in the fall.

A circuit of fall fairs, consisting of Regina, Saskatoon and Calgary has been formed. This will encourage the exhibitors to show at all three places.

In addition to the regular prizes for registered stock, provision has been made for graded stock, which will permit of all farmers exhibiting.

One of the special features is the boys' calf feeding competition open to boy residents of Canada.

Food Shortage in Germany

Three Hundred Thousand Poor Children in Berlin

There is no need to exaggerate the hunger condition of the Fatherland. It is revealed day by day in the press, and the following are a few facts culled from the most reputable papers in Berlin and elsewhere: 125,000 Berlin workers struck as a protest aganist the reduced bread ration; bakers' shop windows were smashed and their contents greedily devoured by famished boys and girls; many towns are prohibiting the arrival of visitors, and it is a crime to smuggle food into such towns; Lanshut, in Silesia, has notified the summer resorts within its jurisdiction that they must not cater for guests this year; and Berlin has set apart $250,000 to defray the expense of sending 300,000 children into the country to obtain nourishment and fresh air. And these facts could be added to by the bushel. In one town no butter has been in the stores for five weeks. In the poor neighborhoods of Munich cheese is no longer on sale. Milk is sold at prohibitive prices. A mother was fined 10 marks for consuming more than a half pint on one day for her family of five.

THIN-BLOODED MEN AND WOMEN

Need the Rich, Red Blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Actually Make

Thin-blooded people do not remain so from choice but from indifference, in some cases from despair. People who are pale, languid, with palpitation of the heart, some difficulty in breathing and a tendency to be easily tired are suffering from thin blood. They need only the resolution to take the right treatment and stick to it until cured. The remedy that can be relied upon is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. With every dose they make new blood, and new blood means health and strength. The red cheeks, good appetite, increased weight and strength that follow the use of these pills prove their great value to thin-blooded people. Here is an example: Mrs. J. McDonald, Jr., Hay, Ont., says: "I honestly believe Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved my life. Some years ago I had anaemia, and as I did not realize the seriousness of the trouble I soon became a complete wreck. I got so weak I could hardly walk. I neither ate nor slept well, and could not go up stairs without stopping to rest. At times I had an almost unbearable pain in my back and would have to remain in bed. I suffered almost constantly from a dull headache, and when sweeping if I would stoop to pick up anything I would get so dizzy that I would have to catch hold of something to keep from falling. At times my heart would beat so fast that I would have a smothering sensation. My eyes were sunken and my hands and limbs would be swollen in the mornings. I tried several kinds of medicine without benefit and my friends thought I would not recover. Then I began taking Dr. Wililams' Pink Pills, and before long could see and feel that they were helping me. I gladly continued the use of the pills until I was completely cured and I cannot say enough in their praise, and I strongly recommend them to all run down girls and women."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

War as Tuberculosis Cure

Outdoor Life of Soldiery Results in Remarkable Cures

Some months ago the British medical journal told remarkable tales of recoveries from tuberculosis made by British soldiers in France. Now it is interesting to read the opinions expressed at the New York Academy of Medicine that tubercular persons, unless seriously affected, need not expect to be exempt from conscription on account of physical disability. Sir William Osler was quoted to the effect that army life often results in a complete cure of tuberculosis.

Tuberculosis is an indoor disease, a disease that follows man's stupid habit of shutting himself off with glass and walls from fresh air and sunshine. In protecting himself from the elements the human animal has lowered his resistance to his bacterial enemies, until consumption has become the great white plague. War is relieving us of many artificialities and reintroducing us to the kindly elements. Hence the recovery—under otherwise favorable conditions—of the tubercular soldier in the field.

War is entitled to whatever credit is its due. Dr. Osler says significantly: "The military profession is far less dangerous for a person with pulmonary trouble than many occupations of civil life." These many occupations of civil life are crying out to be made as healthful as war.—Calgary News-Telegram.

"Why are you putting that mark in your hat?"

"I always put one in when I check it. So far this hat has cost me $196.10."

Conscription in U. S.

Rude and Harsh Measures are Necessary in War Time

In legalizing conscription during the war by an overwhelming majority in both houses congress has exhibited the common sense and the power of quick adjustment which in an emergency Americans can usually be depended on to exhibit. War is a rude and harsh business, and people who decide to wage war must follow up the decision with rude and harsh measures. The authorization of recruiting by compulsion is interpreted by one group as a triumph for democracy and by another as its irretrievable defeat. It is neither. Congress has not accepted the principle of universal military service; it has only adopted the expedient of a selective draft during the war. As soon as the war is over the question as to how American armies are to be recruited will be re-opened; and a new decision will have to be reached based upon international political conditions at that time and the enduring international responsibilities of the United States.—From the New Republic.

WOMAN COULD HARDLY STAND

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Fulton, N. Y. — "Why will women pay out their money for treatment and receive no benefit, when so many have proved that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will make them well? For over a year I suffered so from female weakness I could hardly stand and was afraid to go on the street alone. Doctors said medicines were useless and only an operation would help me, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved it otherwise. I am now perfectly well and can do any kind of work."—Mrs. NELLIE PHELPS, care of R. A. Rider, R.F.D. No. 5, Fulton, N. Y.

We wish every woman who suffers from female troubles, nervousness, backache or the blues could see the letters written by women made well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Viviani's Appeal To Canadians

The Great Struggle for the Cause of Justice

Deeply impressive were Viviani's closing words—his direct message and appeal to Canadians. With arms outstretched, he leaned towards the parliamentarians. "Ye Canadians who listen to me," he cried in quivering tones; "ye freemen who sit in this parliament, pray mark my words I realize that you are farther away than we from the battlefields. The roar of guns does not reach your ears. You do not see the return of hosts of wounded men. But, morally speaking, you are just as close as we are to the fray. Confronting one another—you and us—we have autocracy and democracy in a life-and-death struggle. Should, perchance the freemen fail to win, democracy and universal justice will go down to defeat at the same time. It was in the cause of justice that, at all epochs, we drew the sword. It was in the cause of justice that Britain and France, together with their noble allies, entered the war. It is to enable the children of men to enjoy well-assured and prolonged peace that we are fighting."

Looking up to the crowded galleries, peopled by many women, Viviani again stretched forth his arms. "Mothers," he pleaded, "now listen to me. It is for your children's freedom to secure peace and liberty for mankind that a whole generation is giving its life today making the supreme sacrifice. Let pious thoughts accompany those who go to the front. All laudatory epithets have been exhausted. There is nothing left to say in their praise other than that many have given their lives for a sacred cause, and others are still fighting for the salvation of all mankind—fighting for justice, fighting for truth, fighting for right. Their fame and their courage must ever be an immortal example to all men."

"There is land enough in the great hard wheat belt of the prairie country west of the Red River and Lake Winnipeg to produce a very large portion of the world's wheat demand. "Buying Hogs"

Sooner or later the packer and slaughterer are going to buy hogs subject to the post mortem inspection, and the hog raiser who continues to fatten his hogs with tuberculous material should be made to sustain the loss arising from his lack of knowledge, skepticism or indifference.

When the packer buys subject to the post mortem results the intelligent hog raiser will get more for his healthy hogs than he does now, and the careless breeder will get less for his tuberculous hogs, which is as it should be.—Dr. John R. Mohler, Asst. Chief U.S. Bureau of Animal Hlstory.

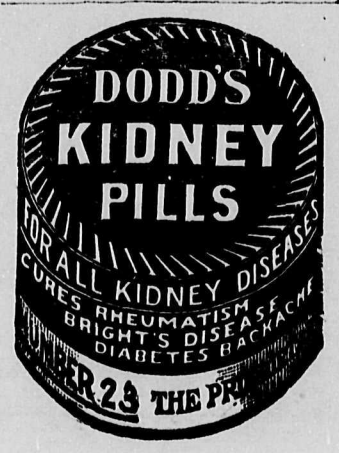
Setting a Good Example

Action of C.P.R. an Incentive to Everyone

Mr. Charles H. Webster, secretary of the Live Stock Section of the Winnipeg Industrial Bureau, advises that he has been informed that the C.P.R., living up to the aims and objects of the Live Stock Section of the Bureau, have discontinued serving on any of their menus, veal, suckling pig, young lambs and squabs.

The order is taking place on all their lake boats, Pacific and Atlantic steamers, B.C. coast steamers, B.C. lake steamers, C.R.R. dining cars and C.P.R. hotels.

It is needless to say that when a large corporation like the C.P.R. takes such drastic steps that it should be an incentive to everyone to assist in a movement of this kind for preserving young animals, and also increasing the live stock production of our country.



WAR WILL CONTINUE LONG TIME IS OPINION OF MANY AUTHORITIES

LORD NORTHCLIFFE VENTURES A PREDICTION

Believes that the War is Just One of a Series, and that Political Upheavals and Revolutions will Occur in Most of Belligerent Countries, and Conditions will Improve

More than a year ago, a prominent Toronto soldier, returning wounded, replied to the question of a bore as to the length of the war: "Well, I don't know how long it will last, but I think the first seven years will be the worst." At the time the retort was made the proper answer was, "Har, har!" Now, there is another answer. Several authorities are predicting a war that will last for two or three years more. The latest of them is Lord Northcliffe, who has been astonishingly correct as regards the development of the war in many phases. He thinks the war will continue for some time yet. In an article he contributes for the New York Tribune he makes a comparison with the American Civil War. He says that in that conflict both sides were unready and that it continued for four years. At the outset it had been expected by some optimists to last for six weeks. He argues that the measure of preparedness is to be considered when the probable length of the war is being discussed. In other words, if the unprepared South against tremendous odds, could last four years, how long can Germany hold out, having prepared for forty years?

When Lord Northcliffe writes for American readers a reasonable discount is necessary. He loves American readers, which is natural for any writer. He also wants American readers to love him, and in the process he will not spare his own countrymen. On the whole, Lord Northcliffe is doing a good work in the United States through the medium of the papers which carry his opinions to the nation. Two years ago his papers were thrown out of clubs and hotels; he was burned in effigy, and was for a few weeks competitor of Hindenburg for the prize of the best-hated man in England. Events proved that his criticism of the British administration was right. His papers were restored to popularity. Soon it became apparent that his criticism had been well-founded. Suggestions he had made were adopted. So, if today or tomorrow he seems to be unduly fond of American methods, we may only hope that if these methods fail, he will not hesitate to speak as frankly to the American public as he did to the British public.

He looks for a long war. He says that the three great events of the war to date have been the wonderful defence put up by France, the entrance of five British nations into the war on the side of England—Canada, Australia, New Zealand, and the minor colonies and India—and the slow arousing of the United States and its entry into the fray. He says in reference to the submarine campaign, that in England they do not take it seriously enough, and that in the United States they take it too seriously. He contends that the submarine cannot win the war. He compares it with the thrust upon Calais and the attack upon Paris. They were, in his opinion, mere secondary thoughts, devised after the grand plan of the German army had failed. The grand plan was the capture of Paris.

Lord Northcliffe says that the war is just one of a series of wars. The submarine campaign he considers a mere phase, and he does not believe that it can achieve anything. Already it has produced a revolution in Russia, an upheaval compared with which the French revolution was a tremor. He believes that other upheavals will follow and that revolutions will continue to accompany the war to the end. In his view it is impossible to conduct such a tremendous and long-sustained war without political revolutions in most of the belligerent countries. He believes, too, what most of us believe, that one of the results of the struggle will be an improvement in the condition of the working classes. They will be contented no longer to accept the wages that were offered them before the war. They will demand greater percentage of the profits which they create. They will get what they demand.

His article is entitled "How the World Shall Kill Its Prussian Cobra," and he asks his readers to imagine that the allies are dealing with a cobra, or, in other words, with a state that will spare no effort to gain its point. A few days ago the Queen of Greece said that her brother was fighting for his dynasty. In the fight he has with him the ruling classes of Germany. They feel that they are fighting for their lives. When a cobra is fighting for its life it is idle to suppose that it will take into account any rules of the game. The recent German order that all hospital ships will be sunk is an illustration of the point raised by Lord Northcliffe. We in Canada have not yet come to this pass. We are fighting for our country, or for our honor, or for democracy, or for representation by population, or for the greatest good to the greatest number, or for some other noble abstraction. We fight well for them. Do we fight as we would fight for our lives? That is how Germany is fighting, and we have to fight the way Germany is fighting before we can beat Germany!—Toronto Mail and Empire.

Russian Monks to be Sent to the Battlefront

Criminal Prisoners Allowed to Join the Army

All the monks of Russia will be sent to the front to serve in the department of sanitation, according to orders issued by the Russian war ministry. Lay brothers will be recruited as soldiers. Recently the monks demanded equal political rights with the lay population, including the vote, and they have been giving other marked evidences of revolutionary zeal.

Five hundred criminal prisoners in the province of Nizhni-Novgorod have petitioned the government that they be sent to join the army. A special commission has examined and accepted 300 of those who signed the petition.

A novel measure to suppress thievery in the soldiers' barracks has been put into practice in Petrograd. A captured thief was forced to walk along the Nevsky Prospect bearing placards with the inscription: "I stole sugar and shoes from the soldiers." After the ordeal tea was given to him and he was released on his promise to be good. A similar story comes from Bessarabia, where a clerk of the war organization was accused of stealing a horse. A yoke was placed about his neck and he was exhibited on a platform erected in a public square.

The palace of Kshesinskaya, property of the dancer and former favorite of Empress Nicholas, which had served as a stronghold for the adherents of Nikolai Lenine, the radical Socialist leader, is on the point of being surrendered to its rightful owner. After a long process in the courts the keys were delivered to the woman, who was permitted to examine the premises.

Young America Would Lend a Hand

California Youths Would Help to Work Alberta Farms

Following the example of three hundred students of the Illinois Agricultural College, who are now in Western Canada, helping in agricultural operations, nearly 100 stout-limbed boys down in Pasadena, California, would like to come to Alberta for the summer and help out on the farms, says the Edmonton Journal. The physical director of the high school in that city has written to the board of trade asking if there is any need of their services in the Edmonton district or other parts of the province. He says the boys are between sixteen and twenty years of age, and have felt the promptings of war time patriotism to the extent of being willing to offer themselves for farm service wherever they may be wanted most. The fact that Alberta has appealed to them as a first choice is taken as a pleasant indication of the feeling across the line toward this part of allied Canada, and Secretary Fisher will assure the young Californians that their action is appreciated. It is possible, however, that the harvest season in Alberta will be too late to come within the school holiday period, and so the offer may not prove acceptable.

Importance of Constantinople

It is idle for statesmen to talk of concluding a permanent peace upon the basis of straightening out the tangle in northern France and Belgium and Poland, and dismiss as something of secondary importance the mighty knot which ties not one or two, but all three of these empires to Constantinople. Let us face the fact. Untie every other knot in the present conflict, and leave untied this troublesome knot in the capital of the Near East, and the ending of the present war will be the beginning of preparations for a war even greater. —North American Review.

German Delusions

The Blindly Obedient Belief of the German People in Their War Lords

There can be no hope of genuine reform in Germany until an overwhelming majority realize and admit the absurdity of their present belief that their country, after exhausting every possible means of keeping the peace, was forced to defend herself against a ring of jealous enemies. That delusion is the foundation stone upon which the government have reared their whole gigantic structure of falsehood. People will fight equally hard for their beliefs whether those beliefs be right or wrong, and until this foundation stone is torn away the combination of millions of blindly obedient industrial human ants, putting all their faith in a set of unscrupulously ambitious leaders, will continue to be a firebrand in the society of nations. This stone is so firmly set that it cannot be moved until Germany is forced to admit that she is defeated.

While the majority of Germans whine at the British blockade of the German stomach, they delight in their own government's blockade of the German mind. If a "neutral" comes to England from Germany he is asked by everyone he meets, "How are things really there?" Reverse the proceeding and the average German would not think of seeking information. Only ideas with the made in Germany label are good enough for him.

The entrance of the United States will have no immediate effect of depression upon the German people. Since the first winter of the war they have been educated to the belief that America has been doing practically all she could against them. —D. Thomas Curtin in London Daily Mail.

"Justice for Everyone"

Roosevelt Outlines Rearrangement of Europe After the War

"Justice for everyone" should be the keynote of peace terms for Germany, says Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, in an article entitled, "Put the Flag on the Firing Line," in the June issue of the Metropolitan Magazine.

"The Prussianized Germany of the Hohenzollerns," says he, "has shown itself more the enemy of freedom, humanity, justice and international right than was Napoleon's France. Let us strive for the peace of justice and of international right Did they but know it, the German people themselves would benefit by our victory; and especially the people of South Germany and Austria, who would be free from the tyranny of Prussia and would be guaranteed their rights.

"Belgium and France must have restored all that has been taken from them. The Turk must leave Europe—a democratic Russia at Constantinople would threaten no one. Armenia should be free and autonomous. Austria is not a country, but a knot of nationalities, of which two tyrannize over the others. Let the Hungarians keep Magyar Hungary and the Austrians German Austria. Let the Italians have the Trentino and Trieste. Let there be a great Serbia, a great Bohemia, a great Rumania.

"Poland should once more be a nation, which should include all of the Polish lands, and have an outlet to the Baltic through old Polish Prussia, old West Prussia. East Prusia, which is German, would be unavoidably separated from the other German lands, but it could be kept united with them politically, by arrangements for through railway traffic, such as we have with Canada on our international railroads.

"The Germans would keep Germany, would lose nothing but the right to oppress others, would suffer no injustice. Ireland should have Home Rule. Seek justice for everyone; the Dane of North Schleswig; the Finn, the Uniate, the Caucasian in Russia. Endeavor to secure a guarantee of real religious freedom and fair play alike for Catholic, Protestant, Orthodox Greek and Jew."

Almost as Good

The sergeant-major was inspecting the men on pay parade, and was seeing that their "locks" were well trimmed. Everything was going all right until one Tommy who badly needed a hair cut marched up and lifted the "large" sum of one shilling as his weekly allowance. This was due to his having been in debt. "Well," said the sergeant-major, "seeing that you've lifted such a small pay I can't very well ask you to get your hair cut, but for goodness sake buy a pennyworth of hairpins!"

"Man, it's fine," commented Tam. "It's richt like ye. An' what micht the like o' they cost?"

"I dinna ken," replied Sandy. "I hivna payed for them yet."

"Man," said Tam, more grimly than ever, "it's awfu' like ye!"

PALESTINE FOR JEWISH NATION MAY SOON BECOME A REALITY

REPUBLIC OF JUDEA WOULD BE ESTABLISHED

The World War May Bring Fruition to the Idea that has Persisted Through Many Centuries, and Many Believe Hope of Jews Is Within Reach

The Republic of Judea or the Republic of Israel, a home-ruled nation—under the protectorate of the United States of America. Site: The land of their fathers, Palestine; capital, Jerusalem.

The world war in the view of many seems about to bring true the dream that has persisted through the centuries that the Jew has wandered the earth. He is about to have his own home back again, to live there or visit in security. That this security should be maintained by America is the idea of Israel Zangwill.

"Such a protectorate," he said, "would be expected, of course, to endure only so long as was necessary to see the Jewish nation firmly established among the nations of the earth."

This statement to the United Press by the great leader of Jewish opinion is significant for its indication of a meeting point between the efforts he has led and the efforts of the Zionists of whom Louis D. Brandeis has been the most prominent in America. The Zionists have made Palestine their sole objective. Zangwill's organization has urged that it is more important that the Jews should colonize somewhere at the earliest possible time than that they should return to their own ancient land. Admitting the strength of the tie that binds them to Palestine, he has urged that if this is not feasible they should settle elsewhere. He has in the past sought the British government's aid for a proposed settlement in South Africa, Canada or Australia.

Now he agrees Palestine itself seems within reach.

The eyes of thirteen million Jews, scattered throughout the world, are on General Murray's army now seeking to drive the Turks out of the country that the Jews once had. From this thirteen million, perhaps, should be excluded the six hundred thousand Jews who are fighting in the various armies; they, by fate's irony, will be last to know that the war may mean something for their race.

There is a strong belief in England that restoration of Palestine to the Jews would be a profitable political undertaking for the British.

"It is not expected," said Mr. Zangwill, "that all the Jews of the world would flock there to make their homes. It is my belief that the Jewish agriculturalists who find living difficult elsewhere, should be aided to return and that they should form the basis of the new nation. Jerusalem's location might make it the site for a great commercial or trading city, but the important thing is not to draw there those who have prospered in other corners of the globe, but to care for the great numbers of oppressed in other lands.

"With a Jewish nation established, the Jews everywhere would feel they have a home again, whether or not circumstances permitted them to live there themselves."

Zangwill won the support of Joseph Chamberlain and Winston Churchill to his colonization scheme before the war, but South Africa, Canada and Australia opposed it in turn. A Jewish nation in Palestine is another matter.

The menace which Turkish possession of Palestine offers Egypt and the trade route to India must be removed, British statesmen agree. Even before the war many considered the recreation of the Jewish state the best solution. Opinion changed, however, during the war, largely because of the sympathy many Jews of German origin in America admitted for Germany. It was feared that a nation sympathetic toward Germany would be a dangerous one to have so close to this strategic link in the British Empire.

The Russian revolution has changed this. Jewish sympathy, alienated by the treatment of the Jews in Russia under the old regime, has been won back by the new regime. Jacob Schiff's declaration for the Allies, following the announcement by the provisional government of equal rights for the Jews in Russia, was not the only one to come to the attention of the British government. A Jewish state in Palestine now would be a friendly, even grateful state, it is believed.

Zangwill's idea of an American protectorate is based on the desire that Jewish interests should be protected by a great power that had no interest there to serve. Whether such a protectorate would appeal to British statesmen is doubtful. It is more likely that in case a Jewish nation is set up, Great Britain herself will garrison the country until law and order and the stability of the new government is assured.

Mr. Balfour

American Paper's Graceful Appreciation of Eminent British Statesman

Mr. Balfour has concluded his mission to this country. His farewell speech to the American people, delivered at the National Press club, was worthy of that great audience and of its author's reputation. He spoke with that deep, restrained feeling, that fine thought charged with generous emotion, that clearness, grace, sobriety and good taste that are characteristic of him. He spoke with a noble sympathy and appreciation of the work done by the government, by the president, the American war work so far. He was just to the country. He was just to the press. He described simply and powerfully the "impressions the most pleasurable, the most momentous" of his month among us.

The American impressions of him are the same. He was received with an enthusiasm that must have surprised him, a modest, shy man, unused to popular applause.

In personal dignity, in urbanity, in the authority of a long, brilliant career, in his manly, thoughtful speech, to the purpose and without glitter of rhetoric, by his evident response to the popular emotion, the feeling of this great democracy, in his demeanor and his work, he more than realized expectation. Here was a great British statesman, equal to his place and fame.

He will be long remembered in America. He has done a high service to Great Britain and all democracies.—The New York Times.

Dear Sir,—Certain persons in this district have insinuated that my collections for the Over-Seas Club Tobacco Fund, etc. would not stand investigation and that the lists were not published in the local papers

I may state that knowing these persons as I do, I knew that it would be made. I therefore took the precaution to have all my collection lists audited by responsible persons and to have the subscribers names and amount donated by each published in the local papers

Dear Sir:—The question of the hour is double taxes and bad roads

During a little discussion on the above a few days ago, a gentleman remarked, using an expletive, "you know it all," Of course I couldn't help feelinga little conceited at the remark, however, I must confess that my knowledge is very limited Still my feelings retain their human sensitiveness, and my intellect is just bright enough to know when my digestive organs need recharging.

Now, Mr, Editor, should we, the Ratepayers of Comox distirict sit and make asses of ourselves, or is this a trick of nature? However, if we are content and take this Liberal dope, Darwinism is all right, and we will own up to a very near relationship to Baalam's steed.

It may be interesting to some of our housewives to can with cold water. It calls for thoroughly clean fresh jars with good sound rubber rings. Pack the fruit or vegetables in the bottles and set the bottles in a bucket. Then pour water on the fruit from a hose or tap and continue until all the air bubbles are excluded, The water must go on with a force in order to pack the fruit tight and exclude the air. Put the cap on under water, seal and invert the bottle to test if it is tightly sealed. This method holds good for all firm fruits and vegetales. Economy jars are not suitable as they require heat to seal them. Any other brand which has a tight sealing rubber ring will do.

Lime for Agricultural purposes contains calcium carbonate 99,5 insoluable acids 0.3, and traces of iron, alumnica, and magnesium carbonate, and is very beneficial to almost any kind of land, particularly low lying lands or clayey soils. Wherever wire worms abound, lime should be used. It is not necessary to use quick lime alone ground limestone is very beneficial. Experiments have shown that, whenever lime has been used the crops have been greater and of better quality than where none has been used. The greatest icraease, however, was where sulphate of ammonia and lime were used. Lime is a constituent of nearly every plant, clover containing the most, viz. 40 ponuds of lime to the ton. This is probably why plowing under a crop of clover gives such good results the following year. The proper proportion of lime required in any soil can only be found by experiment on the actual soil As an approximate figure, however for the lighter soils probably 1500 pounds per acre would be sufficient while for low lying clays, inclined to be sour, 3000 pounds would not be too much. The north end of Texada Island abounds with limestone particularly adapted for the land hereabouts, and the Pacific Lime Co, will be pleased to give any information possible on application.
