VOLUME 16 CRANBROOK, BRITISH COLUMBIA, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1910 NUMBER 40

The New Liquor Act

Mr. Colin S. Campbell, the recently appointed Inspector of Provincial Police and Chief Inspector of Licensed Premises, under the new Liquor Act, is now in Victoria preparing for his first inspection tour in his new and dual official capacity, in the course of which every licensed hotel and every provincial police office in the province will receive a visit—a purely informal call, for the inspector will drop in entirely unannounced and prepared to accept and to note conditions as they exist in everyday practice. The chief inspector is at present familiarising himself with every essential piece of information in respect to each license and each license application in the province: he will report any suggestions he may have to offer as to licensed premises or premises proposed to be licensed, and he will also advise the Department as to the approximate populations in each license centre, in order that the revised scale of fees may be arranged from the first of the New Year, in accordance with the changed requirements of the law in this connection.

It is to be anticipated that from the first of 1911 considerably improved accommodation in the rural hotels of British Columbia will be noted by the travelling public, the new law—the administration of which rests largely with Mr Campbell—demanding as the minimum standard of accommodation, in order that a liquor license may be held, that the licensed premises shall include:

A bar room used only for the purposes of and as a bar room;

A separate sitting room for the use of guests;

A dining room altogether separate, apart from, and additional to both bar room and sitting room;

At least seven bed rooms, each with a floor area of not less than one hundred square feet (10 x 10 ft. rooms) and each properly, adequately and comfortably furnished for the use of guests and to the satisfaction of the inspector;

Adequate arrangements and facilities for ventilation and for the prevention of fire, and for egress and escape from fire should such occur, and for sanitation and drainage also to the satisfaction of the inspector;

Adequate accommodation for the family and employees of the license holder—to the satisfaction of the inspector;

Adequate and sanitary kitchen, pantry and store room accommodation—again to the satisfaction of the inspector;

Premises in connection with the hotel containing stabling for six horses, unless the inspector shall specially certify that stabling accommodation is unnecessary; and

A proper hotel register and adequate arrangements and facilities for the registration of guests and for the recording of the time of the arrival and departure of all guests.

The inspector in his rounds is required to see that all qualifications demanded of licensees are fully fulfilled in the fact, and that those portions of the law requiring that liquors be sold only in the original bottles, pure and unadulterated—refilling and relabelling being absolutely forbidden—are strictly observed.

Those duties and functions of the Chief Inspector are probably not as yet clearly understood by the general public, which recognizes the Liquor Act more particularly as it relates to the conditions and costs of licenses, the regulation of the sale, and restriction of the abuse of liquor. This is, however, but one side or one-half of the purport and effect of the Liquor Act, the twofold object of which is to confine the use of liquor in proper channels from the public standpoint, and at the same time to guarantee a better standard of accommodation for the travelling public. In no other way save under the license system can such guarantee of superior accommodation be secured, an incident and very material fact which is deserving of thoughtful attention by those who unthinkingly may urge the substitution of prohibition for the present high license and strict regulation plan.

THE PROMISE BREAKERS

Canadian electors should always bear in mind that the Liberal party has broken practically every promise that it made when in opposition and has gone back on every profession of principle. For instance:

It stood for purity of election.

In office it has stolen London, purchased Bonaventure, corrupted other constituencies by public works, and threatened constituencies that if they voted Conservative they would not get necessary public works. At Lethbridge in the presence of Sir Wilfrid Laurier Mr. E. M. Macdonald told the people that though they cruelly needed a post office and were entitled to it, they could not expect it as long as tney voted Tory.

It demanded the reform or abolition of the Senate.

In office Sir Wilfrid Laurier maintains the Upper Chamber on the old basis. It is still the haven of partisans.

It preached economy.

In office the Liberals have trebled the annual disbursements. No previous Administration began to be as reckless in the waste of public money as the Laurier Ministry. According to an exceptionally competent authority it wastes ten millions a year in graft.

It denounced patronage.

In office it elevated the patronage system to a science. A few of the visible results were the nest af scandals in the Marine and Fisheries Department, the Printing Bureau thefts, the everlasting purchase of supplies from party heelers at exhorbitant prices, and the brazen awarding of contracts to politicians who were useful at election times.

It stood for true Federalism and defended Provincial rights.

The new Western provinces have been robbed of their rights. They have been deliberately set up as inferior provinces. The older provinces find it necessary to be constantly on their guard at Ottawa to withstand the constant, insidious, and increasing encroachments on their rights; they have, as a matter of fact, to rely on the Conservative opposition to secure fair treatment.

The foregoing are only a few examples, the list could be prolongeh. Electors may choose to support the Laurier Government for one cause and another, but they should clearly realize that this is the record of the Government which they support.

Senator King Tastes Kootenay Gravenstein

Finds the British Columbia Apple Equal of Any Grown Elsewhere — Delighted with F t

Among the visitors to the Nelson fair was Senator George G. King, of Chipman, N.B., who spent the day in Nelson as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Carpenter. The Senator is on his way to the coast, this being his twenty-seventh trip across the continent, and stayed off in order to see the fair on the invitation of his granddaughter, Mrs. Carpenter.

He was very eulogistic regarding the apple display at the fair, but stated that the high quality of the Kootenay apple was no new story to him, as he had seen the splendid exhibit that was made by British Columbia over in London last year.

"But I always thought until to-day that the New Brunswick apple had the better flavor, though it had no advantage over the western fruit in color or size. This morning I tasted a beautiful Kootenay-grown Gravenstein and have changed my opinion. The British Columbia apple in all qualities is the equal of any grown anywhere in the world."

Special to Prospector.

Vancouver, Sept. 30.—Died at Vancouver on September 30, Frederick William, the darling only son of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Malpas, of Portland Oregon.

LUCKY NEWSPAPER MAN.

Not all printers are as lucky as Jack Wallace of the Fernie Free Press. At the annual rifle shoot he won a shield, a medal and a suckling pig, ans a knife to carve his game; a barrel of Al. Mutz's famous beer and three cups to quaff the same. And a grip to pack his outfit in. What more could a fellow ask than a box of old George's Extras and a silver pocket flask with a front seat at the moving picture show.

Wanted—A Parson who Can Drink and Smoke

In the Quiver Rev. J. J. Pool tells of his experiences in Nevada. He mentions that on a death occurring no one was found who could conduct the funeral, so the miners sent a delegate to a neighbouring town to find a parson who would admonish bad men and bury the dead:

"Friends," said this plain-spoken, kindly-hearted delegate, "we want a preacher who is young and a good fellow. If possible, we want one who can handle a gun and who can join the boys in a little jollification now and again. I am commissioned to find a parson who not only can preach, but who can drink and smoke and be a real good fellow." Truly a strange request!

A Baptist, Presbyterian and Methodist minister arrived on the field within a few hours of each other; but the latter being first got the appointment.

Speech Was Noteworthy

Premier McBride's Statesman-like Address to Manufacturers

In his speech at the banquet given in Vancouver to the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, Premier McBride struck a note which places him in the very forefront of Canada's public men. The speech was a statesman's utterance, full of the optimism of the west, the courage of a young, strong man, and the tact of a leader of men. The resources of the province of which he himself plays at present so strong a part, were outlined in powerful language. In part the premier said:

"We British Columbian Canadians feel at home whereever we go in Canada—whether it be Quebec, Ontario or Nova Scotia or any other province, we always feel at home. I am expressing to night the sentiments of the members of this association, I believe, when I say that they must feel at home in British Columbia. (Applause.)

"The distance between the Atlantic and Pacific coasts is steadily diminishing with the development of transportation and so also the distance which separates the Motherland from British Columbia. I think that only yesterday the Victoria press told of the mail being delivered in Victoria from the old country in a little over nine days. I can remember, and I am not a very old man, when it took thirty nine days. The president referred in his address to Imperialism which is back of everything we do in British Columbia. We British Columbians are good Canadians but we are still more intense Britishers. (Applause.) I can say to Mr. Rowley that he never more truly expressed the sentiments of the Dominion when he spoke of the Imperial sentiment which is evident throughout the Dominion. (Applause.)

"While our population is still small, our accomplishments are large. We have created a trade totalling close to $50,000,000 annually; established manufacturers and industries yielding over eighty million dollars a year—and, remember, we are still at the beginning of things.

The assembly rose to its feet in enthusiasm when the premier said: "I hear told of a certain nation wanting to come into Canada for our raw materials. Her manufacturers must have them. Well, they can come and get their raw materials if they want to, but," raising his hand to lend emphasis to his remarks, "on one condition and one only. And that one condition is that they must build their mills here and manufacture from their raw materials in this Province of British Columbia!" For two minutes enthusiasm reigned, some of the members bursting into song.

"What does the future hold for us" It is a question that you must pardon us in answering if we seem too optimistic. I feel satisfied however, that we have already sufficient evidence in the past to say that we can expect in the future to count the population of British Columbia, not by thousands as we do now, but by millions. British Columbia needs no vain boasting to reassure herherself.

"We out here," he concluded, "say that while you come to British Columbia from Ontario and Quebec, we western Canadians are just as proud of Toronto and Quebec, and with as much reason, as yourselves are. When we say this we mean to invite you to feel the same toward British Columbia to feel that when we speak of our mines and timber and our agricultural and marine resources, they are every whit as much your inheritance as they are ours. He would be recreant in his duty who returns to the east feeling other than that the west is as much his as ours. We are all loyal Canadians and with you easterners join in the strongest support in one king, one flag, and one empire.

"This province is peculiarly adapted to the comparatively cheap utilization of the power of falling waters. It is safe to say that on Vancouver Island 70,000 horsepower may be cheaply developed.

"Within one hundred and fifty miles of the city of Vancouver it is estimated that hydro-electric development may deliver five hundred thousand horsepower should that amount be required. At Adams' river, above Kamloops, is another magnificent power site. On the Kootenay river near Nelson, with its own hydro-electric power plant at Bonnington Falls, installed at a cost of over $350,000, is, I believed, prepared to furnish power at a maximum of $30 per horse-power per annum for manufacturing purposes. The Pend d' Oreille river, south of Nelson, it also capable of developing some fifty thousand horse power at moderate cost. On the west flank of the Rockies are many smaller power possibilities. On Willow Creek, within twenty miles of Fort George, a company is even now undertaking the development up to some twenty thousand horse-power as required. Near Prince Rupert the Kataada river may be made to furnish about ten thousand horsepower. At the points already specified we have nearly one million horse-power concerning which we have some definite information or partial development. The full extent of the province will enormously exceed this, though at present it is impossible to make an accurate estimate.

"To secure population we must have convenient and cheap transportation and this is being supplied as fast as possible. The Grand Trunk Pacific will provide a great central trunk line, with branches extending north and south, while the Canadian Northern Railway will serve a large extent of territory in the valleys of the Upper Fraser and Thompson rivers and down through the fruit-growing districts of Kamloops and Nicola."

Printers Make Merry

Last Tuesday night Typographical No. 555 held a banquet at the Waldorf Hotel, Fernie, which was a grand success in all respects. Visitors were present from Cranbrook, Coleman, Frank, Michel, Hosmer and other towns. An excellent orchestra provided a good programme of music throughout the evening. W. R. Ross, M.P.P., and Mayor Sherwood Herchmer delivered addresses which were well received and there were other bright speeches in reply to the usual toasts, among which that of Mr. L. Sullivan, of Cranbrook, deserves mention. His remarks in reply to the toast of "The Sister Unions," were:—After complimenting the people of Fernie on their rapid recovery from the effects of the fire, he said he had a peculiarly grateful regard for this city growing out of an incident relating to the big blaze. He was at that time in charge of the opera house, in which a large number of the refugees were housed. A foreigner had brought down a live hen, half baked it was true, but with her capabilities unimpaired in those lines in which hens should be proficient. He had acquired the fowl and provided her with all the comforts of life. Although she laid soft-boiled eggs her progeny had captured first prize at the Cranbrook fair this year. In reply to a question he stated that the prize was awarded on the score of table excellence, the fowl being already half cooked.

The speaker went on to say he had had a good time since he arrived in the city, and if there were any features of the entertainment programme on which he had not been informed he would be found at some indefinite time after the conclusion of the banquet in room No. 23.

Mr. Sullivan's little talk so impressed the mayor that he handed over to him the key of the city and gave him the freedom of the burg, with the expressed hope that he would enjoy himself to the territorial limit.

The committee in charge are to be congratulated on the excellent manner in which the affair was carried out.

When Sir Wilfrid Laurier was in the West he was a great free trader. He was anxious to see the tariff lowered. The revision was downward. All was very pleasing to the low tariff sentiment of the prairies. With the Premier was Mr. E. M. Macdonald, M. P. for Pictou, who duly made speeches backing up his leader. When the tour was over Mr. Macdonald went east to Pictou, was given a reception there, and lost no time in assuring the people of Nova Scotia that the talk of tariff reduction was all moooshine. The Halifax Chronicle, the leading Liberal journal of the province, reported this part of his speech as follows:

"Mr. Macdonald clearly enunciated the policy of the Liberal party as affecting the tariff question. They had the same policy in the West as in the East. The people of the West did not want free trade any more than those in the East, and they ascertained that the only shouting for free trade in the West came from the Tory camp. He believed that the future of Nova Scotia was wrapped up in its manufactures, and there would be no tariff changes to disturb them.

"The motto of our neighbors to the south had been to look out for number one and previous to fourteen years ago it had been almost the annual custom of the Conservatives to send delegates on tariff missions to Washington. Now the order was changed and the missions are from Washington to Ottawa, and Canada through Sir Wilfrid intended to look out for number one. Some rough spots in the tariff would be smoothed out; but no change will be made that would interfere with the British Preference or with the vested interests of men who had put their money in the East. The policy he declared, was that the tariff would be maintained as it is only remedying where it unduly presses."

There you have the Liberal policy. Promise revision downwards in Saskatchewan. Promise maintainenace of the tariff and full protection for manufactures in Nova Scotia.

—o—

Too bad! Sir Wilfrid Laurier seems to have mislaid that low tariff policy of his. It must have fallen off the train somewhere between Winnipeg and Port Arthur.

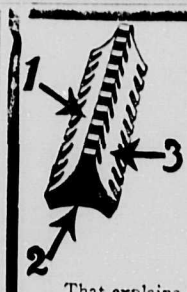
ALFRED C. NELSON. Deputy Assessor and Collector



Each grate bar has three sides-long wear

When only one side of a grate bar is continually next to the fire all the wear is concentrated on that one side. The life of the grate bar is thus naturally just one-third as long as when the wear is distributed on three sides.

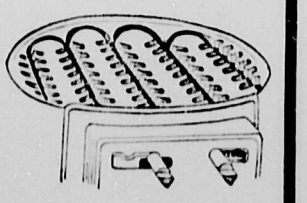
That explains why Sunshine grates have three lives. Each of the four grate bars has three sides. Each time the ashes are "rocked down" (no shaking with Sunshine) the side next to the fire can be changed. Thus the life of the grates is greatly prolonged.

When desired, the heavy bull dog teeth on the grates will seize hold of clinkers, grind them up, and drop the particles into the ash-pan.



Buy the Sunshine—the durable, convenient, economical furnace, guaranteed by largest furnace makers in British Empire. 52
