GIVE FORCEFUL ADDRESSES ON PROHIBITION

Rev. R. W. Lee, and Rev. D. T. McClintock, of Nelson, Deliver Fighting Speeches

An indication of the growing sentiment in favor of prohibition which has been making itself felt in this city of late was clearly seen at the public meeting held last Friday evening at the Edison Theatre. The meeting was called by the prohibition party, and practically every seat provided was occupied, a good proportion of the audience being ladies. Obviously the general sentiment of the meeting was in favor of prohibition, and the addresses of the speakers were frequently punctuated by applause. There were a number present who were then undecided on the issue, and some even who are known to be bitterly opposed to prohibition, but when the call came from the platform two or three times during the evening for a champion of the cause of "moderation" to present their side of the case, no response was forthcoming. This was all the more strange seeing that at least four days previous an invitation hadbeen extended to the local branch of the moderation league to have a speaker on hand at the meeting on Friday, to whom fifteen minutes would be given.

Mr. F. Dezall called the meeting to order, and with him on the platform were the speakers of the evening, Rev. R. W. Lee, of this city, and Rev. D. T. McClintock, pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, Nelson.

Rev. R. W. Lee, the first speaker, has been heard quite frequently in this city on the question of phohibition, from his own pulpit and the public platform. He delivered a fighting speech, trenchantly bringing out a solid array of facts, and marshalling them into one striking indictment of the liquor traffic as a whole. He traced the growth of the prohibition movement in this province, showing how this would be the fourth time the people were to give an expression of opinion on the matter. He also urged that the electors allow no confusion of the issue to arise in their minds, that the lack of enforcement of the existing prohibition law should not be attributed to any weakness inherent in the act itself. Indeed, the act, as now amended, he had no hesitation in describing as one of the finest pieces of temperance legislation extant. The amendments,as affected this summer, had effected great improvement in the workings of the law. As against the continuation of the prohibition act in its amended form was the proposal for the sale of liquor by the government — "government control" so called. Mr. Lee emphasized the indisputable fact that this alternative is an absolutely unformed proposition. The moderation league and other opponents of prohibition have advanced various conjectures as to what will be done under the policy of government sale, but all are rebutted by the statement of the attorney-general of the province that no concrete proposals have yet been formulated on the subject. It was also shown that the control the government would be able to exercise in the event of the government sale proposal going through would be absolutely negligible. There would be mighty little "control" about it. The quantity of liquor one could purchase would not likely be limited, nor would the number of liquor vending stores to any given place; and the appointment of the government vendors would bring politics into the question and presented the strong possibility of the political life of the province coming under the contaminating influence of liquor. Mr. Lee touched also upon the growing sentiment that is arising against the liquor traffic in general, and described the man who "liked his glass" and took it because he thought it did him good, even though without any suggestion of excess, as being behind the times. The moderation league, as the stated body undertaking organized opposition to the present prohibition act, also received due attention from Mr. Lee, who strongly denounced the selfishness of the whisky men who were behind the movement, and were only out against prohibition because its abolition meant more money in their own pockets.

Mr. McClintock, after handing out some encouragement to the local prohibition workers from the Coast section especially, quoted extensively from figures to show how the use of alcohol was diminishing in Old Country institutions for medicinal purposes. He also quoted from Sir Victor Horsley and Sir Edmund Osler to make a case against the use of alcohol medicinally. Leaving his figures, Mr. McClintock got really warmed up when he tackled the provincial issue. He warned voters against voting out prohibition, saying not only would the legal sale of liquor be increased, but illicit bootlegging would also increase. He also urged the support of prohibition in order to stop importation, and so make for real bone-dry conditions. Mr. McClintock also dealt very tellingly with the personal liberty argument, and showed the selfishness at heart of the "beer barons." He said it was everybody's business how we lived, and we reached the highest levels in life when there was a willingness to make some sacrifice. As a matter of fact our personal liberty is already curtailed by law in a thousand and one ways. Mr. McClintock also spent some time dealing with the "England Free or England Sober" pamphlet of the moderationists' propaganda, and showed the fallacy of some of the argument therein. His own personal insight into the effects of prohibition, how it had brought happiness and new conditions into many homes, was also a striking feature of Mr. McClintock's address.

SPIRITED CONTEST AT THE LOCAL GOLF CLUB

Cranbrook Ladies Compete for "Anna Coleman" Trophy — C. Staples Referees

A spirited contest has been going on at the Cranbrook Golf Club course for some days among the lady golf enthusiasts, the competition being for a handsome trophy presented to the club for competition among the ladies, by Mr. D. C. Coleman, of Winnipeg. The trophy consists of a pair of sterling silver candle sticks mounted on pedestals, and they are coveted by all the ladies who have been enjoying sport at the links.

Mesdames G. J. Spreull and M. A. Beale competed in the finals on Wednesday afternoon, the game being witnessed by a number of the club members, Mr. Chester Staples being the referee.

Before her tragic death by drowning at Invermere some time ago, Mrs. Coleman advised the lady members of the Cranbrook Club that she would present a trophy, to be won for two consecutive seasons before being considered as won outright, and recently Mr. Coleman sent forward the trophy.

Mrs. G. J. Spreull won out in the nals yesterday, after a very close game, the result being in doubt right up to the last stroke. She thus becomes the first holder of the trophy.

Popular Banker Leaving the City

Manager Robertson of the Local Branch of the Royal Bank Going to Nanaimo

Manager F. E. Robertson, who for the past two years has been the energetic manager of the local branch of the Royal Bank of Canada, has received notice from headquarters of a promotion to the managership of the bank's branch at Nanaimo.

Patrons of the local branch will regret to learn that Mr. Robertson and his most estimable wife and their little son, will be leaving Cranbrook within a short time. Mr. Robertson and his family have made many warm friends since coming to the city, and with the patrons of the local bank Manager Robertson has been very deservingly popular, because of his cordial treatment of those doing business with the local branch. He has won for the bank a consiedrable amount of new business during his brief direction of its affairs, some of which is quite extensive.

Always taking an active interest in public matters tending to the upbuilding of the city, he will be missed from our midst, but with him will go the best wishes of all for success in his new field of labor.

Mr. Robertson's succcessor will be Mr. G. F. Marsh, who is at present manager of the Royal Bank branch at Courtenay, who will arrive within a short time to take over the management of the local branch and with his family will occupy the residence now occupied by Manager Robertson and family.

GOVERNMENT IN GOOD SPIRITS OVER VICTORIES

GOLCHESTER AND ST. JOHN DISPELS ANXIETY OVER THESE CONTESTS

AFTER ALL THERE WAS NO CAUSE FOR WORRY

Correspondent Says Politicians Occasionally, Like Others, Have Bad Nerve Attacks

(Correspondence)

OTTAWA.—The Government is in good spirits, its victories in Colchester and St. John having done much to dispel the anxiety that attended these two bye-elections. In reality there was not much cause for anxiety, as the event showed, but during these days politicians, like many other class of people, have bad attacks of nerves. It doesn't take much to frighten them.

The result of the two bye-elections confirmed the opinion expressed in these letters. The St. John contest was not even a good camouflage affair. Two weeks before the day of poling the Government was informed that everything was all right, and that while Dr. Enory would remain in the field there would be no figth. Anyone who happened to be a cabinet minister could have won in St. John. The position simply carries the man in on its back. In some quarters down by the sea they don't take their politics nearly as seriously as they do some things that go with it. Politicians from that part of the country are not very keen on the abolition of patronage.

Those well-versed in things political knew right well that in spite of all the reports about the strength of Dixon, the Farmer candidate, McCurdy could win. To defeat a cabinet minister in a bye-election is just about the hardest thing possible. Besides, formidable new political organizations are not built in a day. With both Liberals and Conservatives against him, Capt. Dixon did well to poll so many votes. The Truro returns show that when a Farmer's candidate runs up against a city or town there is a different story to tell as compared with what there is in the country.

If the bye-elections did nothing more they demonstrated that the Government will put up a formidable fight in the next campaign. The Prime Minister has put more aggressiveness into the party he leads than it has had at any time since 1911. By getting out and talking to the people he has also, to some extent, arrested the drift to new political movements among his natural suporters. By making the tariff the leading issue he has also assured himself of a body of support that is always formidable. In politics, fighting counts, and for a government no situation is absolutely hopeless to the leader who will fight hard.

One is now inclined to think that in the next federal campaign the Farmers will not be much of a factor east of Ottawa. They may win several seats in the Maritime Provinces; but are unlikely to amount to much more than a ripple on the surface. Not having the strong co-operative movements to sustain them they are not the strength they are further west. Of course a change may come over the situation; but it has not yet occurred.

All eyes will now be turned on East Elgin, for there it will be demonstrated what the Farmers can really do in Ontario today when pitted against two opponents. In this riding they are admittedly strong; but if W. G. Charlton, the Liberal candidate, remains in the field it is difficult to see how either he or the Farmer candidate can win. On the other hand, if the government cannot carry the seat in a in a three-cornered contest, its weakness in the rural portions of Ontario will have been strikingly demonstrated. It is possible that even if Charlton remains in the field the Liberals may consider discretion the better part of valor and support the Farmer. At present it is impossible to say what may happen.

Eastern interest in the tariff commission is rapidly on the wane, it having been realized that both sides to the controversy have pretty well shot their bolt. There was a certain amount of interest in the Calgary meeting owing to the expectation that there both sides were expected to come back at one another. Those familiar with the situation awaited Hon. George Langley's appearance before the Commission, for in some respects this was looked upon as important as any incident on the whole prairie itinerary.

METHODIST CHURCH ANNIVERSARY SERVICES

Founded 25 Years Ago in This City — Dr. Crummy Special Preacher on Sunday

The members and adherents and the many friends of the Cranbrook Methodist Church will be interested in the fact that it is now 25 years ago since the Methodist Church began operations in this city. During this time the church has made a rich contribution to the life of the city, through its various organizations, activities and influences. The "Silver Anniversary" of the church will be duly recognized on Sunday next, October 17th, when the church and community are to be favored with the presence of Rev. Dr. Eber Crummy, of Moose Jaw, who will preach at the anniversary services of the church at 11 a.m., and 7.30 p.m.

The name of Dr. Crummy is well known throughout the whole of the Dominion. As a preacher he stands in the front rank of the best pulpit of the largest churches in Canadian Methodism. When preaching in uneers. He has occupied the pulpits iversity cities his ministry was the centre of attraction for the university students of almost all denominations. He is a massive, intellectual giant, but withal he possesses the real orator's art of appealing to all hearts and minds. As an educationist he has more than a Canadian reputation. The wonderful development of education in Japan can be largely attributed to Dr. Crummy, who some years ago was closely identified with educational movements in Japan. In Canada his intellectual charm and power have gained for him many honors and distinctions. Some few years ago, when a large number of teachers visited and toured Europe, he was chosen as the leader of the party. As a lecturer in the universities, as a preacher, and as principal of Wesley College, Winnipeg, he has won for himself a warm place in the hearts of many thousands of admirers.

A hearty invitation is extended to the public to hear Dr. Crummy on Sunday next. Special and appropriate music will be rendered at each service.

REPRESENTATIVE OF NAVY LEAGUE VISITING IN CITY

Lieut. H. F. Helmsing, R. N. V. R., provincial secretary-treasurer of the Navy League of Canada, Victoria, B.C., arrived in the city on Tuesday from Kaslo and Proctor. Lieut. Helmsing is touring British Columbia in the interests of the League.

Wednesday afternoon, acrompanied by Mrs. F. B. Miles, of the local school board, Lieut. Helmsing visited the children in their class rooms, and spoke briefly to them all. Today the junior classes are assembling in the Parish Hall at 11 o'clock to view some lantern slides, including some of the surrender of the German Fleet, and at 1.15 p.m., the High School pupils and the entrance and junior fourth classes will assemble at the same place for the same purpose.

After the slides have been shown, Lieut. Helmsing will give a short address to these pupils on the importance of the sea to the Empire. These pupils will then write essays on the subject, the Navy League giving three prizes in each of the following classes: First and second year High School; Third and fourth year High School; Entrance Class; Junior Fourth Class.

It is also hoped that during Lieut. Helmsing's visit to Cranbrook a Boys' Naval Brigade will be organized, as it is felt that something of this nature is very much needed here.

All members of the executives of and Great War Veterans' Association, and Great War Veterans' Association, and any others interested, are requested to attend a meeting at the City Hall at 8.30 p.m., on Saturday, October 16th, when Lieut. Helmsing will be present and address the gathering on the Boys' Brigade, and officers of the Navy League for the ensuing twelve months will be elected.

It is expected that Lieut. Helmsing will be returning to Cranbrook early next month for the purpose of holding another meeting in the interests of the Navy League, pariculars of which will be announced later.

Lieut. Helmsing is no stranger to Cranbrook, having lectured here about a year ago on the famous Zeebrugge exploit of the Navy during the war.

WHO IS THE GOAT? THAT'S THE QUESTION

POLICE COMMISSIONER A. SHANKLAND DECLARES IT'S NOT HE THIS TIME

HERALD REPORT OF MEETING IS CRITICIZED

Chief Adams Avers No Such Statements as Herald Reports Were Made Against Him

There are goats and goats, but in this particular instance the editor of the Herald refuses to be the "fall guy."

Referring to the report of the lively meeting of the Police Commissioners of Cranbrook, which was attended by a large delegation of citizens, the Herald editor was absent, being detained at another meeting. In our report the following paragraph, to which exception is taken, not only by Chief of Police Percy Adams, but by Commissioner A. C. Shankland, appeared:

"Chief Adams denied the charge that was made during the evening that "some people were paying him," as Commissioner Shankland said he had been informed."

Monday in our mail we received the following letter from a firm of local barristers, and imagine our great surprise when we noted that the party complaining was none other than Chief of Police Adams:

"Mr. Adams has asked us to write you in reference to the last paragraph of your article entitled "Citizens demand general cleanup", Oct 7th issue.

"Mr. Adams tells us no charge was made which even required denial and if so, the innuendo of this article is far from fair.

"Under the circumstances we think you should make full retraction."

Then again we received the following from Commissioner Shankland:

"Editor of Cranbrook Herald:

"Dear Sir—Re your report of the police commission meeting in your last issue, the following paragraph appears:

"Chief Adams denied the charge made during the evening that 'some people were paying him,' as Commissioner Shankland said he had been informed.

"I wish to state that this is an absolute falsehood, and I think that the people who were present will confirm this. It would be very foolish on my part to make such a charge, or even think of making such a statement at a public meeting, not having the least bit of evidence to substantiate such a charge.

"The police commissioners are the goats for a lot of people in this town, but I refuse to be the goat in this instance.

"I hope you will give this the same publicity as you gave the 'lie.'

"Yours truly,

"A. C. SHANKLAND,

"Police Commissioner."

The Herald gives the above communications in order that readers may, after hearing our side and our authority for the statements made, decide as to "who's the goat." Here they are:

In the course of our rounds for news the day following the meeting of the commissioners we endeavored to ascertain what took place, learning that Chief Adams, as he admitted himself, was the subject of much of the criticism leveled at the commissioners. We encountered the chief and requested an interview. The article published was based solely upon the information we gained from him, especially this particular paragraph to which the chief now takes exception. The fact that both Chief Adams and Mr. Shankland deny that such statements were made in open meeting does not change one iota the statements made by the chief. Whether the statements he complains of were made by Mr. Shankland "during the evening" is the question.

This remains for the chief to explain—as he gave it to the Herald—not the editor. For since it appears he objects to the publication of the paragraph, we shall accord him this privilege.

The Herald has no fight with the police department; on the contrary, we think they are a most efficient set of guardians of the peace. However, when conditions reach the stage they have and officials are bombarded by such representative citizens as were at the meeting last Tuesday night, we shall endeavor to give the news and all of it.

Moderationists Open Campaign

Largely Attended Meeting Disappointed—Speakers Fail to Make Any Recruits

At a very largely attended meeting arranged by those in the city favoring moderation as set out in the literature of the Moderation League, which meeting was held in the Edison theatre and presided over by Manager Grubbe of the Imperial Bank of Canada, the speakers, Mr. J. R. Seymour for many years chairman of the Vancouver School Board and Mrs. E. N. Cran, special envoy of the Imperial Association and British Press of London, failed to make much headway in enlisting recruits for the cause.

Mrs. Cran was the first speaker and at intervals during her talk, received applause when she introduced some witticisms. It was plainly to be seen that the audience was largely made up of those favoring a continuance of the present Prohibition act with modifications, and the speaker, trying every argument at her command to win over the gathering, failed utterly.

It was not until Rev. R. E. Pow, secretary of the Railway "Y.," advanced to the platform upon invitation of Chairman Grubbe, that a real old-fashioned Cranbrook hand-clapping was noticeable. Mr. Paw said he was at a considerable disadvantage, for he had only just arrived, and heard only the closing remarks of the first speaker, Mrs. Cran. He however gave his reasons for supporting the cause of prohibition and his brief remarks were well-received.

The disappointment of the evening came when Mr. Seymour attempted to expound the cause of moderation. The speaker appeared to feel the effects of the reception accorded the first speaker, and appeared somewhat at a loss as to what to say. He fumbled with some of the literature of the moderationists and read the platform of the party, quoting also from other literature as to the claims of his party as to "increased drunkenness under the prohibition act" and appealed to all to vote that we might "have more prosperous times and an occasional good time" if the moderationists were successful. He was of the opinion the Province would have a period of depression should the prohibitionists succeed.

Rev. W. W. McRae, B.A., of Edmonton, enlivened the occasion somewhat when he asked for and was given the privilege of addressing the meeting. Rev. McRae did not agree with that portion of Mr. Seymour's address wherein the advocate of moderation saw trouble ahead in the event his cause proved a lost one. After questioning Mr. Seymour as to the correctness of his understanding of this part of his address and being advised he was right, Rev. McRae stated if such a condition arose after a majority of the electorate willed for the prohibition cause, he was of the opinion that there would be enough loyal men and women in Canada to combat successfully any trouble of that kind. He also quoted statistics to prove that the drug habit was not as great in the United States since prohibition had become general, this being refuted by Mrs. Cran, who asserted where men could not secure liquor they resorted to drugs.

The outcome of the meeting was the cause for considerable comment among citizens acquainted with the proceedings, many being of the opinion the meeting resulted in the prohibition cause being strengthened. Even some of the those advocating the cause of moderation and taking part in arranging the meeting, admit this.

Justice Macdonald, of Vancouver, accompanied by Mrs. Macdonald, arrived here from Fernie on Tuesday evening and has been conducting a session of court here, hearing civil cases.

LOYAL ADDRESS PRESENTED TO GOV.-GENERAL

Enthusiastic Welcome Accorded Distinguished Visitor Here Last Saturday

Bright weather and an enthusiastic crowd greeted the Duke of Devonshire, Governor-General of Canada, during his visit to Cranbrook for an hour last Saturday morning. The special train arrived promptly at 11 a.m., from Golden and Windermere, and left again for Fernie shortly after noon. Owing to bereavement and indisposition, the plans of the Governor-General were materially altered, and after one or two more stops in the Crows Nest pass, the vice-regal party intended to return to Ottawa.

The Duke was met on the station platform by the Mayor, Mr. A. Genest, Mr. G. J. Spreull, of the Board of Trade, Lieut.-Col. Hungerford Pollem, Hon. J. H. King, M. L. A., and other representative citizens, and the aldermen of the city were present in a body, accompanied by M. T. M. Roberts, city clerk, to participate in the proceedings. The school children were lined up on the platform, and as the Duke appeared sang the National Anthem, and later "O, Canada." Following the first formal introductions and greetings, the Mayor read an address of welcome to the Governor-General, the text of which appears below. To this the Duke made suitable reply, speaking at some length on the national conditions following the war, and how they can best be met by the citizens at large.

The distinguished visitor then made an inspection of the school children lined up to greet him, and gladdened their hearts by having the following Monday declared a holiday in commemoration of his visit. An opportunity was then given for the citizens generally to meet the Governor-General, and many availed themselves of this opportunity. The station was quite gaily decorated with festoons and flags, and some attempt was also made by a number of the business houses along Baker Street to put on a gala air. All things considered, the city acquitted itself very well in the matter of welcoming the distinguished group of visitors.

Included in the party were the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire, Lady Maud Mackintosh, Lady Rachel Cavendish, Lady Blanche Beresford, and Capt. O. H. C. Balfour and Capt. Lloyd.

Following is the text of the address as presented to the Governor-General by the Mayor:

Cranbrook, B.C., Oct. 9, 1920.

To His Excellency Victor Christian William, Duke of Devonshire, K.C.M.G., K.G., C. R. O., Governor-General and Commander-in-Chief of our Dominion of Canada.

May it please Your Excellency:

In the name of the loyal citizens of Cranbrook I have the honor of tendering their welcome to your Excellencies on this, your first visit to Cranbrook.

Of tthe many interesting and thriving cities your Excellencies visited in the course of your tour I am sure that none can exceed Cranbrook in its loyalty.

Three thousand soldiers were recruited from this district and went overseas, and their record is one that the country is proud of. Of those returned their occupations have scattered them over the district, and it has been impossible to assemble all of them on this occasion on the short notice we have had.

This district is rapidly developing its natural resources, and the enterprise of its citizens is laying the foundations of a highly prosperous future.

We believe in natural resource, such as timber, coal, metalliferous mines and agriculture, that we have the largest field for the accommodation of immigrants of any part of British Columbia.

Such an opportunity as this of receiving the representative of the Crown will stimulate our citizens to preserve all the attributes of loyalty.

Had a longer time been at your Excy's disposal, the citizens would have liked to afford your Excellency an opportunity of enjoying the big game hunting for which this district is unique.

The fact that Your Excellencies have given us the opportunity of meeting you at a time of recent bereavement makes us appreciate the honor of the visit all the more.

We hope that this, Your Excellency's first visit to Cranbrook will only be the precursor of many subsequent visits.

I have the honor to be,

Your Excellency's Most Obedient and Humble Servant,

A. GENEST, Mayor.

HOLD UP MEN GET OFF WITH LIGHT SENTENCE

The two hold-up men, Pete Lazuk and Dan Urick, who held up a poker game at Skookumchuck some time ago in one of the logging camps there, taking a considerable sum of money from the players and others in the bunk house, were taken through this city on Sunday by Provincial Constables Kerr of this city, and Walsh of Fort Steele. They were given a trial at Fernie before Justice Hunter on Monday, the jury disagreeing at first, but finally reaching a verdict. The two men were sentenced to five years each in penitentiary at New Westminster, getting off with a light sentence considering the gravity of the crime with which they were charged.

Steve Clark, of the Otis Staples Lumber Co., at Wycliffe, was a business visitor to the city on Tuesday.

CRANBROOK, BRITISH COLUMBIA
THURSDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1920

VOTING IN THE DARK

Despite the emphatic declarations of members of the government, word pictures are still being drawn by moderation speakers and writers as to what "government control and sale" really is. They are all the product of vivid imaginations, but nothing more. The government at Victoria has declared officially, not once but many times, that no details in regard to the alternative policy to prohibition have been formulated up to the present time.

This puts the person who votes for "moderation" in the anomalous position of having marked his ballot in favor of something the real import of which will not be known till it is brought up at the next session of the legislature. Or in other words, the electors, if they vote for government sale, will be handing out a carte blanche as to the composition of the act to govern it. This is not an attractive program, and will not appeal to thinking men and women.

SEES A NEED FOR PROHIBITION

"The records will show that a large proportion of the police court cases are directly attributable to alcohol," said Magistrate John Leask this week, in discussing the prohibition issue with the Herald this week. Thus evidence comes from those who are in a position to know the workings of alcohol in relation to human life at first hand. Moderation may be a fine thing for those who know enough to be moderate, and if a man holds his glass of liquor in little enough esteem to be "moderate" with it, why can he not be strong enough to put it from him entirely, and respect the weakness of his brother man who may not have the same power of discernment? There is food for thought here for those who worship so devoutly at the shrine of personal liberty. The highest conception of personal liberty does not carry it past that point where it interferes with our duty to our fellows.

A MISNOMER

The term "Moderation League" seems an exceedingly strange one to employ in connection with the liquor traffic's present onslaught against the B. C. Prohibition Act. When has John Barleycorn ever displayed moderation? Did he when he had full sweep all over the country, in the days of the open bar? Has he shown any moderation under any attempt to place restrictions on the sale of liquor? Would there be any more moderation apparent under government sale conditions than under any other attempted system of regulation?

There is no moderation about the liquor traffic, and never has been any. It is even now being strangled to death by its own excesses. So it will be in this province, even if prohibition fails to carry on Wednesday of next week. The much-vaunted "moderation" would be thrown to the winds, and in a year or two conditions surrounding the sale of liquor would become so unendurably rotten that public opinion, outraged by such excesses, would rise in self defence and crush out the liquor traffic mercilessly on its own showing. So it has been elsewhere and would be here. One does not need to be a prophet or the son of a prophet to see that this province will become a veritable sinkhole of corruption if the bone - dry referenda carry in the prairie provinces, as seems altogether likely, and B. C. goes wet. It is a pleasant picture to contemplate in conjunction with the plea for "moderation" which the opponents of prohibition are putting up.

They overlook one great factor in this campaign, and that is the growing world sentiment against the liquor traffic. All kinds of epithets and hard names are being levelled at the prohibitionists, even as they were at the men and women who took up the fight for the abolition of slavery, and the amelioration of inhuman conditions in the factories and the workshops last century. But time is marching on, and in a few years the liquor traffic, now fighting at practically its last ditch in this country, will have passed into oblivion, and the "moderate drinker," the man who thinks he knows when to stop, will be a rara avis indeed.

MODERATION!

The "moderationists" take umbrage at the statement that the "whiskey ring of B. C." is hiding behind the Moderation League. Just why they should be ashamed of their ancestry is not quite apparent. There is no attempt made to disprove the assertion that such a ring exists, but the "moderationists' " desire above all else that they be not associated with it. They call the statement "a prohibition lie," and counter very weakly with the assertion that the "bootlegger and the prohibition party are working hand in glove for the present act," and that "the law abiding citizens, both ladies and gentlemen, are voting with the moderation league."

This is a pretty good example of "moderation." It cannot be called argument by any stretch of imagination. It is the sort of clap-trap that is making converts to prohibition every day. The "moderationists" realize that the bootlegger is a great stumbling block in the path of their propaganda, and try to get rid of him by wishing him on to the prohibitionists. A nice piece of bluff, but they can't get away with it. The "moderationists" themselves called the bootlegger into being, and since it may be presumed he knows what is good for his business, there will be mighty few of those gentry found marking their ballots in the top square on Wednesday next.

CONCERNING CANADA

WALLS OF MONTREAL

In the early days of its history the city of Montreal was surrounded on its land side by a wall; the river side was left open. This was essential for two reasons. There was the constant fear of raids by the savages who infested the woods—more so, after Champlain had made his unfortunate error of joining the Indians in and attack upon the fierce Iropuois, an attack that made the tribe the perpetual enemies of the French. The other was the expectation of attack some time by the English.

So in 1722 a French engineer named De Lery was given the task of walling the city in military style. He erected as well a very strong citadel on a hill. The wall ran about where Fortification lane is at the present time. Within that enclosure the French were safe from all attack and there were even subterranean tunnels through which they might escape if hard pressed to boats that were moored at the river front. Some of these were uncovered a few years ago when an old Catholic church in the lower part of Montreal was demolished.

The walls stood unbroken until 1808, when the advance of commerce demanded their removal. Even the hill whereon the citadel stood then was carted away to make a proper building site. Not a trace of the old walls exists now except an ohcasional piece doing dut yas a dividing wall in some of the downtown yards. By the time the structure was removed there were 1,200 houses in Montreal and of these over 700 were outside the safe area. This shows that the old terror of Indians and other foes had alsgst passed. As a result of the wall and the narrow limits of the original city streets were very narrow and they remain in that section of the city as narrow yet.

FROM THE VIEW-POINT OF OUR CONTEMPORARIES

Has Failed to Make Good

There are again rumors that the Oliver Government at Victoria will call an election within the next few weeks, possibly in November. There are indications that the government is, at least, serious ly considering the matter.

If there is to be a hurriedly called election it will not take the people unawares or find them altogether unprepared for it. There is a strong feeling in British Columbia that the yovernment which went into office in 1916 has failed to make yood. It is charged, and with good groundsh, that it has not lived up to the promises it made to the electors, that it has spent wastefully the money raised from increased taxes and that it has failed to display the courage, foresight and breadth of view which British Columbia badly needs in these times of readjustment and reconstruction.—Nelson News.

Her Eyes Opened

Mrs. Snowden, after her return from the land where Lenin and Trotsky and other Communists rule as autocrats, has declared that "the dictatorship of the proletariat means the dictatorship of about six men, aided by an Extraordinary Commission." It is undemocratic and it is un-Christian; it banishes liberty and it imposes slavery. When Mrs. Smillie talks of the social revolution, a large and increasing body of workingmen recall the picture which Mr. T. Shaw, M.P., gave to the Labor Party Conference at Scarborough last June of the conditions in Petrograd and Moscow. "I have seen the workers eatng their meals, and when I tell you that half of a raw herring with boiled birdseed and a dash of what is called kasha, without milk and without sugar, is the best meal the industrial workers of Petrograd and Moscow get, you will form some idea of the terrible state of affairs there."—London Daily Telegraph.

Forty-Eight Years in "Canada's Western Empire"

FORTY EIGHT YEARS AGO

Colonel John S. Dennis, C. M. G., who rode the plains of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba 48 years ago, when Indians and buffalo were plentiful, knows more about "Canada's Western Empire" than any other man. He killed and ate the buffalo, narrowly escaped being scalped by Indians on at least one occasion, suggested and built in Alberta the largest irrigation system in North America, recruited thousands of British and Canadians in the United States during the recent war and not only volunteered for but saw service with the Canadian Expeditionary Force in Siberia.

Now the four western provinces of Canada have a population of 2,500,000, the buffalo are to be found only in parks in the Canadian Rockies and the Indians, are on reservations. There are nearly 20,000 miles of railway in the four provinces, or one mile for each 125 persons and of 225,000,000 acres of good agricultural land, but 35,000,000 acres are at present occupied and cultivated. Of the balance, 190,000,000 acres, some 30,000,000 acres lie within fifteen miles of these railway lines waiting for settlers. "Think of it," says Col. Dennis, "and the world crying out for food." His view is that while Canada has won a standing among the nations by her work in the recent war so that today the name "Canadian" is recognized as distinguishing a citizen of a progressive and virile country, Canada's share in the great struggle has involved her in financial obligations which can only be met and discharged by increasing her population and developing her vast natural resources which, while ample security for many times her war debt, must be made productive of wealth through development.

Between 1905 and 1914 about 2,500,000 people settled in Canada, the largest proportion in the four western provinces. They left Great Britain, the United States and other countries for their new home, and Col. Dennis believes that 500,000 each year may follow them until these provinces have a total population of 10,000,000. Canada, he further believes, is destined to be "the keystone in the arch of the British Empire."

EFFORT WILL BE MADE TO GET PREMIER HERE

Prime Minister May be Induced to Visit Cranbrook On His Western Tour

Pemier Meighen has left Ottawa on his tour of the Western Provinces and during his stay in the west may be induced to pay Cranbrook a visit, at least an effort will be made to induce the Prime Minister to come this way after his visit to the Okanagan country where a bye-election will be held soon.

The tour contemplates a schedule of over thirty meetings, and will probably take him as far north as Prince Rupert, covering every point of importance on the Prairies in the west.

The original intention was that he should be accompanied by Hon. S. C. Mewburn. In the meantime, Hon. James Calder has returned, and after noting the results of the recent bye-elections, expressed a desire to tour his old stamping ground in company with the premier.

Hon. Mr. Calder was selected as a member of the Tariff Commission now in the west, and pervious to his return to Ottawa it was announced that he would join Sir Henry Drayton and Senator Robertson immediately on his return. He has already departed for the west, and it is announced he will join Premier. Meighen there and proceed with him on hsi tour.

The fact that so shrewd and careful a politician as Mr. Calder is thus identifying himself so openly and irrevocably with the new administration ss taken as indicating that his hopes for the future of the new administration are high.

Immediately any defnite information is obtained as to whether or not Cranbrook will be included in the itinerary of Premier Meighen on his westren tour, announcement will be made in the columns of the Herald. It is hoped the distinguished pary can be induced to come this way.

EX-SERVICE MEN ARE FORMING NEW ORGANIZATION

Movement Has Beginning at Nelson and May Become Widespread

With the granting recently of a charter of incorporation to the Loyal Order of Servicemen, Nelson became the headquarters of an entirely new order of the benevolent and protective class, one that may soon make rapid strides in membership anl promises to establish lodges in every town in this province wherein ex-service men and their relatives and dependents are located.

Originating with members of the Nelson G. W. V. A., the new organization is designed to bind together men of military and neval service within the British Empire, and to facilitate social intercourse and co-operative activity among its members. At the same time it has no ambition to supplant or supersede any exsting order of any kind whatsoever.

The Nelson lodge is the parent lodge of the organization, and goes under the name of L. O. O. S. Lodge No. 1. Efforts to establish subordinate lodges in the nearby towns, including Rossland, Trail, Cranbrook, Fernie and Kaslo are meeting with some success, it is understood, and numerous requests have been received from the Coast cities for information from ex-servicemen anxious to link up with an organization fostering the ideals and keeping alive the traditions they prize.

According to the charter the objects of the society are declared to be the facilitatng of socal ntercourse, rational amusement and mehtal and moral improvement among its members; the carrying on of benevolent, provident and charitable activities; the making provision for the benefit of members against sickness, misfortune and death, and the relieving of widows and orphaned children of deceased members, and the perpetuation of the ties of past military or naval service.

The Progress of Manitoba

There is an Indian legend of a race of people who dwelt upon the Canadian Prairies before the Red Men came, but why they vanished or who they were no man knows. Vanish they did and their place was taken by wandering tribes of Indians who hunted and fished, built their wigwams and their camp-fires, told their wild legends and smoked their peace-pipes for many a generation before the foot of the white men ever visited the plains that were their heritage.

The first discoverer of Manitoba was the ill-fated Henry Hudson, exactly 310 years ago. Others followed in his steps. Presently came the adventurer, de Grosseillier, who after spying out the land, went back to England, where, with Radisson, his companion, and under the auspices of Prince Rupert, he obtained large grants of land from Charles II. and formed that Hudson's Bay Company which was destined to play so great a part in the future history of Canada. During the one hundred odd years that intervened between that time and 1912, the story of the Hudson's Bay Company is the story of Manitoba. The years are filled with its treaties with the Indians, its feuds with rival companies and its usurpation of all the trade of the vast country over which it ruled, for the most part, beneficently. Of its rivals the most important was the North-West Fur Company. Bitter was the contest between these two companies and many a skirmish was fought between bands of their adherents, until about 1817 the two companies were united and peace followed.

Early in 1812, however, Lord Selkirk, after buying a controlling interest in the stock of the Hudson's Bay Company, secured from it a grant in fee simple of 116,000 square miles of Red River territory, between the present international boundaries and Lakes Winnipeg and Winnipegosis. This land he proceeded to colonize with settlers from the Scottish Highlands. The Colony grew and flourished. About 1830 the population of Red River was 1,500. In 1835 the Council of Assiniboia was organized to govern the colony and Fort Garry (now Winnipeg) was built.

From this time on the history of Manitoba is one of growing prosperity, broken only by the Riel rebellions of 1869 and 1885. To Sir Edmund Head, Governor-General of Canada in 1861, is due the fact that Manitoba was confederated into the Dominion. In 1869 the Hudson's Bay Company, of which he was a director, transferred back to England, in consideration of a sum of £300,000, the lands which it had received from her some two hundred years before. England transferred the territories and the debt of $15,000,000 to the young Dominion of Canada and on June 17th, 1870, Manitoba became a Province of that Dominion, taking her place among her sisters under the Lieutenant-Governorship of Adams G. Archibald. In 1871 she elected her first Premier, Hon. H. J Clarke.

Manitoba has always been a great cattle raising province. But besides this she possesses many other sources of wealth. In the valuable area now known as Northern Manitoba she has mineral deposits of great value, water powers to develop immense power, fisheries capable of yielding large returns, fur bearing animals innumerable and much good land available for the hardier crops. The climate in this northern part of Manitoba is extreme but healthy.

Up to 1870 the history of education in Manitoba is largely written in the heroic efforts of the Church, both Catholic and Protestant. In the beginning of the Provincial era there were 33 parish schools in operation, but in 1876 the number of schools had grown to 53. Last year there were 3,200 teachers and 115,000 pupils in the public and high schools of the Province.

It is a far cry from the old trading post of Fort Garry to the big, modern city of Winnipeg. Fifty years ago this city was a mere village of only a couple of hundred people. Main Street was only a prairie trail. There was no school, no railway or telegraph connection with the outer world; no banks, except that the Hudson's Bay Company accepted deposits and issued paper money of its own; and property owners paid no taxes. But after 1870 the place began to grow. Three years afterwards it had a population of over 2,000, and in 1874 it became an incorporated city, with F. E. Cornish, a lawyer, as first Mayor.

In 1880 the building of the C.P.R. east and west from Winnipeg was begun and in 1885 the first through train from Montreal arrived in the city. Now the C.P.R. freight yards at Winnipeg are the largest in the world. Winnipeg's growth became steady and solid. In the period just before the war Winnipeg's population had increased to 183,-578 and her aggregate industrial production for the year 1918 was $62,000,000. She is now the third city in Canada and the little colony, begun by Radisson and his fellow adventurers, is now a great and flourishing part of the wide Dominion, whose confines stretch from sea to sea and "whose name is known in all lands."—From the Manitoba Free Press.

GOVERNMENT

The tariff commission is losing weight in public estimation through the realization that not it but the government really makes the decisions.

The recent addresses of Hon. Alphonse Turgeon on the tariff issue have aroused curiosity in some quarters, there being an impression that it foreshadows his entrance into federal politics. Nothing now is said about Premier Martin coming east. His name having been so prominently mentioned in connection with the Liberal leadership it cannot now be suggested for a minor position; but not so with Turgeon. As a lieutenant he would fit in well. He undoubtedly would be a success in parliament there being a splendid opening for men of his age and ability. Indeed it is possible that he might go further than Martin.

But little or no interest has been manifested in the New Brunswick provincial elections. The campaign was of so short duration that the impression prevailed that Premier Foster deemed it advisable to get the operation over as soon as possible, the sooner the better. There has been dissention in the government ranks and dissention in the opposition ranks. The latter followed the dangerous practice of swapping horses while crossing the election stream. Still the change could not have possibly made the situation any worse for the Conservatives. Opinion was that the government would be sustained, but there was also known to be a lot of shifting sand in New Brunswick policies.

At present Ottawa is more keenly interested in the Manitoba situation than in any other political one. From a distance it looks like a coalition or else defeat for the Norris government. A coalition would, it is thought, place Norris pretty much alongside the administration of Hon. Arthur Meighen, for rumor has it that he does not take kindly to Mackenzie King. But the government has to exercise extreme care in its attitude towards Manitoba politics, there being a remnant of old-time Manitoba Conservatives to whom Norris is anathema, and it would hardly do to openly annoy them.

Ontario Conservatives have to choose a new leader, Hon. Howard Ferguson, who has been acting in a temporary capacity having announced that he is not in the running for the permanent position. General Ross, of Kingston, is being spoken of as a possibility, but it would seem likely that Toronto will have a finger in the pie. Drury is getting quite a little Conservative support, his play safe policy on hydro-radials appealing very strongly to the class that naturally votes Conservative.

It is not generally known how near Sir Adam Beck came to being the leader of the Farmers' Party last fall, and thus premier of Ontario. He was within a hair's breadth of it. His name had actually be placedl before the caucus and had a vote taken on it there and then he no doubt would have been chosen. But an important element in the ranks of the Farmers' Party felt that if he were the leader it would be a Beck, rather than a Farmers' Party. A strong plea was made or a week's delay, and this was granted. The opposition to Beck was thus given time to develop, and by the time the caucus reassembled, Beck had no more chance than Hartley Dewart would have had. But it was a close thing.

The prairies will see both the Prime Minister and the leader of the Opposition in October or November. Mackenzie King is a certainty, having already begun his tour. The visit of the Prime Minister also seems to be more certain, but it can only be a flying visit, for with the session coming on in January there is much to engage his attention at Ottawa. He has set a very fast pace for himself, and so far has stood it well; but there is a fear that he may overdo it. Still the strain today is very much less than it was during the war period. But in the most peaceful times even the position of Prime Minister is hever a sinecure.

The success of the luxury and sales taxes has taken a load off the mind of the government. At one time the raising of revenue to meet the greatly increased expenditure threatened to become a bugbear to the government. But any such idea has been dispelled. Not only is the revenue today almost three times what it was in the pre-war days, but there is every prospect of it remaining large and indeed of increasing. Today there are not many real clouds in Canada's financial sky. The big western crop has dispelled them.

NEW INSURANCE ACT FOR SOLDIERS IN FORCE

Can Now Obtain Insurance at Reasonable Rate Under the Plan

All returned soldiers and their families will be interested in the Returned Soldiers' Insurance Act, under which they are provided with the opportunity of obtaining life insurance at most favorable rates. The act became effective on September 1st, 1920, and will remain in force for two years.

Under the provisions of the act any honourably discharged soldier, sailor, or nurse, of the Canadian Forces domiciled and resident in Canada, may insure with the government to an amount of from $500 to $5000. Under certain conditions the widow of a returned soldier, who died subsequent to discharge, may also obtain insurance.

In addition to former members of the C.E.F., the privileges of the act are available to anyone, male or female who served during the late war in the limeprial Army or with the forces of any of the allied or associated powers, providing they were domiciled and resident in Canada before the war and hold an honourable discharge.

Many of those who served overseas, while not suffering from a severe disability, find that their physical condition is such that they are unable to obtain life insurance at all or only at much higher rates than are normally demanded. They, therefore, find themselves severely handicapped in providing protection for their dependents.

Under the Returned Soldiers' Insurance Act all returned men are placed on an equal basis as no medical examination is required.

The premium rates are low. They vary with the age of the insured and the plan of insurance chosen. At the age of twenty-five a straight life insurance policy for $1000 costs $1.24 per month. At the age of thirty-five the rate is $1.70 per month. Beneficiaries are limited in the case of a married man to his wife and children. An unmarried man or a widower without children is required to name his future wife and children as beneficiaries. Should the insured die unmarried the insurance money may be paid to one or more of his immediate relatives according to his will.

An exceptionable advantage of this insurance is the provision made for disability benefit. Under this section should the policy holder become totally and permanently disabled he is relieved from paying further premiums and the insurance money is paid to him direct in annual instalments equal to one-twentieth of the total amount of the policy.

Booklets explaining the act, and application forms may be obtained from all branches of the Great War Veterans' Association; The Soldiers' Aid Commission; Imeprial Veterans' of Canad; Grand Army of United Veterans; Army and Navy Veterans; Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment; Military District Headquarters and District Offices of the Board of Pension Commissioners; or direct from the Commissioners, Returned Soldiers' Insurance, Transportation Building, Ottawa.

TIRED OF PROBING OF HIGH COST OF LIVING

Union of B. C. Municipalities Rejects Numerous Proposals at Nelson Meeting

Voting down overwhelmingly various proposals for further governmental investigations into the high cost of living, the Union of British Columbia Municipalities which closed its sessions in Nelson last week-end, took action of a direct and drastic character on many matters that it deemed of pressing public importance.

Among others of its acts, expressed through resolutions, it urged the Provincial government to take over all the high schools and technical schools and operate hospitals; dissented from both Dominion and Provincial Governments holding their lands within municipalities free from taxation; asked for a conference of federal and provincial, civic and municipal officials, to co-ordinate the income taxe and to correct overlaping; recommend that the municipalities be given control over clubs, the same as aver hotels; demanded that the same qualifications be exacted of police commissioners as of councillors and school trustees; authorized the appointment of a committee to study the whole question of municipal taxation; asked the Provincial Government to inquire into fire insurance rates; asked the Dominion Government to let land once held by soldiers and abandoned remain under taxation; and approved the extension of consolidated arrears privileges to returned men who arrived too late to take advantage of the Act.

The Union turned down a number of resolutions proposing that the Provincial Government take over the entire police administration, but favored a two-eyar term for councils.

In the matter of the regulation of clubs, four mayors urged the change, Mayor R. H. Gale, of Vancouver; Mayor J. J. Johnston, of New Westminster; Mayor Vance, of North Vancouver, and Mayor J. A. Macdonald, of Nelson, a recommendation from the resolutions committee against intervention being overwhelmingly voted down.

The other matter that principally evoked discussion was that of apportioning payments for indigent patients, some twenty delegates participating in the expression of views. The principle of the Government taking over the hospitals was approved.

By an overwhelming vote, the Union refused to approve of the proposal of the provincial government to set up a local government board. With but the change of one vote, the same division went on a proposal to ask larger powers for the inspector of municipalities, this proposal being defeated also.

The last resolution submitted to the convention was one urigng the Dominion government to retain the Balfour sanitarium in use for ex-soldier patients, and this was adopted without a dissenting voice.

Nanaimo will entertain the convention in 1921.

Feels Lost Without It

"We had never used Zam-Buk before but would feel lost without it now," writes a grateful Ontario mother, Mrs. T. G. Miller, of Winona.

"Whilst at play," she says, "my little two-year-old laddie ran up against a cross-cut saw and gashed his forehead badly.

"As we happened to have a box of Zam-Buk in the house I got it down and applied a dressing to the injury. It speedily soothed away the pain.

"After treating the wound with Zam-Buk twice daily for three days, it healed so well that I was able to leave off the bandages. There's not even a scar now, thanks to Zam-Buk."

Our files hold thousands of similar letters confirming the wondrous soothing and healing power of Zam-Buk in Cuts, Burns and Scalds, and for ending obstinate attacks of Eczema, Poisoned Sores Ringworm, Ulcers, and Piles.

There is need of a thoroughly reliable antiseptic healer like Zam-Buk in every home. It ensures safety from festering and blood-poison; prevents little sores from developing into obstinate and chronic skin disease. Zam-Buk has medicinal properties never associated with any ordinary ointment or salve, and it's purely herbal.

ELECTORS, REMEMBER, THE REFERENDUM IS ON WEDNESDAY NEXT, OCTOBER 20

How are YOU going to vote?

More Personal Endorsement for Prohibition

Before Prohibition, one boy out of every four became a victim of the drink traffic. I have been entrusted with the care of precious lives. My duty to those demands that I support Prohibition. Otherwise I would not feel worthy of the name, Mother.

Mary Mackinnon

I support Prohibition so that the rising generation may grow up free from the temptations of an evil which ruins more lives and brings more misery and suffering upon innocent people than any other evil in the world; also because it has been proved that the efficiency and output of any nation are greatly increased by the restriction of the drink traffic. The Government has given no key to the meaning of Government control. Where does that word "Moderation," so wonderfully satisfying and soothing to the freedom-loving citizen, come in Government control — in the quality, in the amount stored in the cellars, in the output of the private manufacturers, or in the consumption by the individual?

Margaret J. Spreull, M.A., B.Sc.

I am supporting Prohibition because I believe that the interests of our province can be best served by a strict enforcement of the Prohibition Act instead of the plan of Government sale.. I want to be on the winning side, so I shall vote for Prohibition.

Alice Phillips

I honestly believe Prohibition has not had a fair chance and should be passed again, thus paving the way for the non-importation of liquor into the province. Government Sale, to my mind, is a myth without body or soul, and would prove a dangerous experiment.

W. C. Adlard

I am in favor of Prohibition, and some day I hope to see a bone-dry Canada, bringing about conditions that will make the hearts of mothers rejoice throughout our great Dominion.

Annie M. Laurie

The reason I am in favor of Prohibition is because I do not believe in asking any government to enter into the liquor trade. Also, I believe that the Prohibition Act, as amended, if enforced, will be a benefit to the younger generation, which in my mind is of very great importance.

W. D. Gilroy

I have as much respect for "liberty" as any man, but when I hear from men who come before me in the Police Court, that they had no intention of getting drunk, I think it is time people tried to help the young from falling into a habit that has caused so much sorrow in the homes of many. They can do this by voting for Prohibition.

John Leask

I believe that if the Prohibition Act is passed and enforced, it will help the man who is weak by removing the temptation; it will afford a measure of protection to the rising generation; it will promote happiness, and contribute to the welfare of the citizens of this province, making it a more desirable place to live in. By passing this measure we shall have an opportunity of doing away with inter-provincial importation, and eventually get at the root of the matter in the manufacture. I am supporting Prohibition because I believe it is the right thing to do.

Jos. L. Palmer

As a member of a fraternal order, believing in the spirit of brotherhood, I am convinced that it is my duty, after many years of experience in the world, to do all that I can to crush anything that robs men of their manhood. I am out and out for Prohibition. Government Sale does not enable us to wipe out this traffic, but licenses the government to sell the stuff that ruins homes and causes so much sorrow in the world.

Sam Fyles

Those who must have liquor now, and can get it, will die; but our children, if real prohibition exists, will not know of it, and will grow up untainted by the stench of alcohol. I think these are sufficient reasons to justify any father or mother in supporting Prohibition.

Will A. Elletson

These represent honest convictions, honestly arrived at. Men and women, are YOU reasoning out the issue for yourselves?

I vote for Prohibition because I believe in it, not because my fathers believed in it, but because when I see the havoc wrought by drink here and elsewhere, I believe that it is my duty to support the Prohibition movement.
