On Wednesday of this week, Miss Marion Robertson, youngest daughter of Mrs. J. M. Robertson of this city, was married in Calgary to Mr. Harold Olden Root. The bride and groom passed through the city on Thursday's train on their way to California, and friends here getting word of it, were at the station to meet them and accord them all the honors customary to the occasion.

...AL MECHANICAL INVENTION MAY SOON BE PUT ON MARKET

Steps are now being taken whereby an interesting mechanical invention, of strictly local origin, may soon be put into service. Credit for the invention belongs to Mr. J. P. Patton, a well known old-time railway engineer of this city. His invention consists of an automatic flange lubricating device, which while of special interest to railway men, is also applicable to any transportation interests, and promises great things in this line. By the employment of the centrifrugal principle, the device is made to work only while the wheels are in motion, and with the varying speeds is at all times adaptable, so that the device is entirely automatic.

There have been rumors circulated to the effect that Mr. Patton's invention has already been tried out and not pronounced workable, but such is not the case. Competent authorities who have inspected the drawings are enthusiastic as to its simplicity, and aver that it fills a long felt want. The invention is fully protected by patents both in this country and in the United States. The pattern makers are now at work, and Mr. Patton is leaving for Calgary shortly to arrange for the manufacture of the aluminum housings. It is fully expected that a practical try-out will shortly be made on the C. P. R.

Mr. Patton is organizing a private company which is to be made up almost entirely of local capital. Arrangements are being made for the manufacture of the device, and the assembling will be done right here in Cranbrook shops. There have already been some enquiries for the device from companies which may ultimately become large users, and prominent officials of the C. P. R. who have inspected the details also declare themselves to be interested in it.

C. Y. Jones, Wrigley's B. C. Directory representative, was in the city over last week-end getting information as to all and sundry for his publication.

The dance to be held in the G.W.V.A. hall on the night of the 20th under the direction of the Joy Club is for the purpose of raising funds for the entertainment of the children, and a large crowd is anticipated, judging by the way in which the tickets are being disposed of.

Mr. R. R. Bruce, of Invermere, passed through the city this week on his way to Nelson, where as president, he presided over a meeting of the Mining Association of Interior British Columbia. This body was formed some little time ago, and at the meeting this week formal ratification was given to some of the business tentatively placed on record previously. Mr. Bruce was confirmed in the presidency of the new body, and a permanent paid secretary was named in the person of Mr. W. H. Burgess, of Kaslo. E. G. Montgomery, of the Sullivan Mine, Kimberley, was named as a member of the executive. Mr. Bruce has personally made same visits to Victoria on the instructions of the new body, and secured through interviews with members of the government the amelioration of some conditions which it was felt were militating against the mining interests of the section. He is enhutsiastic that the new organization has a big field of usefulness before it, which will be referred to more fully next week.

NEW YEAR'S BALL

The B. of R. T. and L. A. to B. R. T. Sixteenth Annual Ball will be held in the Auditorium December 30th, New Year's Eve, coming on Saturday, it has been decided to hold the ball on Friday.

Several committees are getting into line planning to give their patrons even a better time on this night than in the past.

The Ladies' Auxiliary are looking after the main part of the program, the eats, so you will be assured of something good to eat, as in the past the Auxiliary cannot be equalled when it comes to looking after the inner man. Dancing from 9.30 p.m. to 5 a.m. Banff Orchestra will furnish the music.

G. W. V. A. NOTES

The third annual banquet of the Cranbrook branch of the G. W. V. A. will be held at their hall on Tuesday, December 27th, at 7.00 p.m. It will be preceded by the general annual meeting at 6 p.m., at which will take place the election of officers who will guide the destinies of the club for another twelve months. The charge per plate will be $1.00. Last year this feast was put up with no charge to the members, but although we would like to duplicate that banquet at the same charge, we are not in a position to do so, and the above price was accordingly set. The officers of the branch extend a welcome to all associates to come along and keep acquainted with our doings. Preparations are being made for the same number as we had last time, nearly 150, and the committee in charge do not expect to be disappointed in their calculations. Don't forget the 27th. Keep that date for us.

The Chrismas Tree treat to be given in the G.W.V.A. Hall on the Friday before Christmas, the 23rd, is a treat open to all returned men's children of the city and district, whether the father is a member of the association or not. And we want to see every boy and girl, whose father enlisted, there between the hours of 4 p.m. and 7 p.m.. Just send in your name to the secretary or give it in at the club premises to Harry Ferguson. Hand them in as soon as you can as ther is a lot of work getting things ready. We hope that the parents will do the same on behalf of their kiddies

The turkey shoot was a distinct success, many birds being shot for, and nobody hurt. The association boys in charge of this little tilt for turkeys wish to thank the public for coming along in such numbers as they did. Next year we hope to duplicate the manouvre, and we hope for the same success, with everybody as well satisfied as was the case this year.

Our Annual will be on sale around the 20th. The novelty of the cover design is but a foretaste of the interest which the contents of the book will inspire. Be sure to get a copy from your newsdealer or at the G.W.V.A.

Complaint is made that some thoughtless young people are apparently in the habit of occupying the time spent in waiting in the Post Office by carving initials, or otherwise defacing the desks and window ledges ges, with knives, post office keys, or some other sharp instruments. The practice must be stopped, as it amounts to nothing less than wilful damage to public property, and the offenders are asked to take notice accordingly.

Will Local Member Go To Cabinet?

"Nothing to it." This was the terse but expressive reply of Mr. R. E. Beattie, Liberal member elect for this riding, when asked by the Herald as to the correctness or otherwise of the story printed in coast and prairie papers to the effect that he was about to give up his seat here in favor of M. A. Macdonald, defeated Vancouver candidate, and looked upon as sure cabinet material, had he been elected. Mr. Beattie further intimated that he intended to hold he seat he has won till told to vacate by the people who had put him in.

In regard to the move being put on foot to secure if possible the appointment of Mr. Beattie to one of the B. C. cabinet positions, he states that he is in no way looking for anything in that nature, and that if it comes to him, it will be entirely unsought on his part. In the meantime various bodies in the Kootenay are taking the matter up, and urging at Ottawa Mr. Beattie's appointment to the cabinet, preferably as minister of mines. Senator Hewitt Bostock, Liberal leader in the senate, and looked upon as one certainly for the cabinet from B.C., accompanied by M. A. Macdonald and Dr. J. H. King are now on their way to Ottawa to urge the appointment of at least two ministers from B.C.

The mining association of the Interior, in session this week at Nelson, passed a resolution urging East Kootenay's claims upon the new prime minister, and a meeting of the Cranbrook board of trade is called for Tuesday evening of next week to consider the advisability of taking similar action.

In an editorial published this week the Lethbridge Herald advanced the view that Alberta, although without any Liberal represenation in the new house, could well be represented by Mr. Beattie, claiming that his farming and mining experience would enable him to look after Alberta's interests quite capably.

1921 CITY COUNCIL IS WINDING UP ITS BUSINESS

Regular Meeting Thursday Last Disposes of Monthly Routine of Business

At the regular monthly meeting of the City Council last Thursday evening there were present the Mayor and Aldermen Sanpto, Jones, Flowers and Arnold. No specially important business was brought up, and the session was taken up largely in passing the acounts and receiving the usual reports.

City Foreman Soden's report showed that the water level in the reservoir is now nearly normal, after carelessness on the part of some in leaving taps running and other causes had caused some apprehension last month. The fire chief's report showed two alarms attended last month, one resulting in damage to the extent of about $800. Dr. Rutledge, dairy inspector, also presented his monthly report and will next month submit his annual report, reviewing his activities for the past twelve months. Supt. Eakin's report on the electric light system showed ten new services put in for the month. Nineteen motors in the city have now been changed over from the two phase to the three phase system in preparation for the coming of the Bull River power next spring.

A report from the relief committee was presented, showing aid given to a needy family, and presenting a bill for meals provided, which was passed for payment.

It was left to the discretion of the Electric Light Committee to make some slight changes in the agreement with the B.C. and Alberta Power Co., made last spring. These changes provide among other things for a sixty day extension for the company and also authorize some slight changes in its transmission lines demanded by the government inpector.

In securing her standing of a fully qualified registered nurse for the province, Miss G. Parnaby, of this city secured a standing that is most gratifying to her friends here. In some of the requirements she secured the highest place in the province, it is understood.

The air is full of rumors of all varieties in regard to impending changes in the cabinet, and the feeling is that while some of the stories are liable to be a little fantastic, there is some re-organization impending, but not likely to become public until after the decision of MacKenzie King as to which B. C. Liberals are to be included in his cabinet. In the meantime a nice problem for the B. C. government arises in how to meet the beer-selling situation in Vancouver, where most of the hotels are understood to have thrown off restraint and takes to seling beer under the thinnest and flimsiest guise as clubs.

Quite the social event of the week was the dance of the Cranbrook Shrine Club, held in the Auditorium, on Wednesday evening of this week. Considerable time was spent in putting the hall into good shape for the event, and the decorations were quite striking. The Banff Dance Orchestra provided the music for the dancing, which was carried on with all due eclat till about 3 a.m.

Two of the C. P. R. Vice-Presidents, Messrs. Grant Hall and D. C. Coleman, were visitors to the city this week for a short time on Thursday. With them was a party of Winnipeg men, including E. H. Macklin, of the Winnipeg Free Press, A. Kelly, of the Western Canada Flour Mills, and Sir. G. W. Alan. Superintendent Watson Hall of this division, accompanied the party over his territory, and Assistant Superintendent for B.C., C. A. Cottrel has also been accompanying them in this province.

Provincial Constable Mortimer this week made some arrests of consequence, some of which it is believed will have the effect of removing some old offenders to safe keeping for a time. On Monday Henrick Drier, a farmer of the Wasa district, was arrested, and a charge of store-breaking and theft entered against him. On his premises was found concealed a large amount of dynamite, still in the original boxes bearing the name of the Fort Steele Trading Co., and believed to be dynamite stolen from that concern very recently. It was found concealed in the hay loft. On Wednesday Benjamin Teed of Gold Creek was arrested by Constable Mortimer on a charge of stealing feed from McCrindle's barn. A search of his premises revealed a number of sheepskins and cow hides, the origin of which the prisoner may have to account for. Both these cases were brought up before Magistrate Leask, and remands made for eight days. Two Italians, Carlo Jaroffa and John Biefare, were also brought up this week by Constable Mortimer charged with being in possession of moonshine whisky. Fines of $50 were imposed in these cases.

Montreal, Que.—Fraser, Bruce and Company, contracting engineers of this city, have been awarded contracts for the contruction work on the $10,00,000 power development scheme at Great Falls on the Winnipeg river by the Manitoba Power Company, Limited. Development work is already under way, with about 400 men employed and the probability of from 1,000 to 2,500 finding employment within a short while.

Brockville, Ont.— Something new in Eastern Canadian transportation equipment was introduced here recently when a gasoline driven car, with accommodation for twenty passengers, was given its trial trip between Brockville and Westport. The car, which can attain a speed of 40 miles an hour, has been put into regular operation between this point and Westport, making four round trips daily.

Fort William, Ont.—A large freight warehouse on the banks of the Kaministiquia River has been leased by R. C. Harvey, of Lethbridge, Alberta, to be used for feeding 10,000 sheep, which he will bring here to fatten on the screenings from the elevators.

Ottawa.—With the object of assisting the entry of the best class of immigrants into Canada the British Immigration Aid Association has been incorporated. British born subjects of good health and character are to be assisted by loans of money or otherwise to migrate to Canada from any part of the world but especially from the British Isles. It is the intention of the company to lease or purchase farms and have homes and equipment ready for settlers. It is proposed to acquire a revenue for the purpose of the Association from the gifts by will or donation and from the membership fees in addition to collecting moneys advanced to immigrants.

CHRISTMAS APPEAL FOR CLOTHING FOR NEEDY IN DISTRICT

The Salvation Army officer is making an appeal for left off clothing to provide for poor families residing in the district, and financial assistance would also be appreciated for this work. Anyone having clothing which would be serviceable could call up Lieutenant Ede, phone 19, who will gladly call for the same.

The Salvation Army Sunday School entertainment will be held on Thursday, December 22nd, in the Presbyterian Schoolroom, kindly donated for the occasion. The program is to prove a very interesting and varied one and the charge for admission is 15 cents which is to help defray expenses for the coming year. Buy a ticket and come. Do not forget the date, December 22nd, at 8 p.m.

C. R. C. NOTES

The C.R.C. sleighing party was held last Friday night and was surely a great success. A party of about seventy persons left the club house at 7 p.m. and arrived in Wycliffe at 9.15 where a short dance was held in the Y.M.C.A. there. After the dance refreshments were served which were much enjoyed by all. The happy party returned about 2.30 a.m. tired but extremely happy.

The C.R.C. skating rink under the management of Mr. Brown is in the pink of condition. Large numbers avail themselves of the pleasure of skating every afternoon and evening. The price of a C.R.C. ticket alone is worth the privieges of this fine rink. A hockey league will commence about the beginning of January and is under the auspices of Mr. Milo Drummond.

On Wednesday evening, December 14th, the C.R.C. gym was the scene of the swiftest men's basketball game ever played in the city when the C. H.S. team met with a pick-up team. Both sides fought well. At half time the C.H.S. were on the short end of the score, 8-14, but he beginning of the second half showed the good old purple and golds' determination to win. With one minute to go the score stood 21-22 in favor of the city but just as the referee, Mr. L. Baker, was raising the whistle to his mouth to blow for time, brave Bobby Beaton shot the ball into the basket and saved the day for the C.H.S., the score being then 23-22 in favor of the high school. Milo Drummond and Percy Adlard played well for the pick-up team—Carl Gill and Frank Bamford scoring. Warren Spence, Bobby Beaton and Art Gill played well for the C.H.S., all three scoring. The guards of both teams did excellent work.

The ladies' basketball game between the Bimboes and the T.N.T.s was also held on Wednesday night, but did not prove as exciting as the boys' game. At half time the score was 1-17 in favor of the Bimboes and with the beginning of the second half their score still raised. The game ended 6-20 still in favor of the Bimboes.

The C.H.S. boys' team will play against the Wycliffe men's teams in the gym on Friday evening, the 16th, at 8 p.m. This promises to be a good game. Admission for non-members will be 25c.

HOW HERALD ADVERTISING PULLS; HERE'S PROOF POSITIVE THAT IT WORKS

Please discontinue our ad. in your paper till further notice. We are getting behind in filling the orders, and have to slack up in getting them in."

If you are not an advertiser, if you "do not believe in advertising," try an intelligently directed campaign suited to your business and note the result.

Friday last was Visitors' Day at the Central School, and it is gratifying that over two hundred parents must have been present during the course of the afternoon. Specimens of class work was arranged on the walls of the various rooms, and special physical exercises and fire drill were also put on for the benefit of the visitors. On Friday of this week, December 16, the schools are adjourning till after the new year, and the occasion is being marked with appropriate class exercises. On Monday of this week Mr. B. G. Hamilton, of Invermere, addressed the pupils of the two entrance classes on the story of John Thompson, famous East Kootenay explorer of the early nineteenth century, and his connection with this section. The week previous, Mr. C. B. Garrett, well known local naturalist, lectured to the same two classes on the fur bearing some two classes on some of the B. C. wild animals, illustrating this with some specimen heads. This was along the line of some of the nature study work of the two classes.

Agriculturists Speak Here

A hastily arranged meeting of those interested in agriculture and live stock breeders of the district was held on Monday evening, the 12th, in the Council Chamber of the city hall. It it had been called together in order to meet Mr. Geo. Hay, of Kamloops, one of the chief provincial district agriculturists of the province who had come in purposely to induct his brother, Mr. Angus Hay, as provincial district representative of East Kootenay. Owing to the absence of Mr. A. B. Smith from the city there was but little time available for calling the meeting and it was largely due to the enterprize and energy of Mr. MacKenzie Morrison that so many persons were present The position of chairman was ably filled by Mr. A. B. Fleming.

Mr. Geo. Hay in addressing the meeting outlined in brief the general idea of the work of a district agricultural representative, which was to study conditions as they exist and that knowledge acquired to endeavor as an unofficial adviser to lead agriculturists into the path of ideal and up-to-date practical methods. He mentioned how this plan had first been tried out in various States of the union, in the provinces of eastern Canada and now in this province. Speaking from his own experience at Kamloops and the result of the work carried on in that district he said it had been an unqualified success, particularly instancing the annual bull sales and the success which had been met with by the junior annual judging team who in contests this year at the fairs of Vancouver, New Westminster and Victoria had carried off the first prizes. He pleaded for a patient trial for the coming work of his brother who is to reside here permanently. The office chosen for the present was in the government building.

Mr. Angus Hay, who is to fill the new position, is a native of Nova Scotia, and comes to his work with a knowledge of practical farming as learned at home, and a scientific knowledge acquired in a four year course of study in the University.

His address on agriculture and an outline of the work which he is to do followed and was listened to with much interest. Amongst other persons who spoke briefly were R. E. Beattie, the member elect; Pete Woods, Rev. Father Lambot, J. F. Hutchcroft, F. J. Harbinson, Fred L. Archer of Canal Flats, and Basil G. Hamilton as representative of the Windermere and districts further north.

Two resolutions of importance and tending to create a closer bond of union between the north and the south and a vote of thanks to the Messrs. Hay were passed unanimously.

Moved by F. L. Archer, seconded by P. Woods: That we, members of various agricultural and live stock associations of the East Kootenay district, being from Cranbrook and the Windermere parts, in impromptu meeting assembled, desire to express on behalf of our various organizations to Hon. E. D. Barrow, provincial minister of agriculture, our appreciation of his having complied with our individual requests in the appointment of a district agriculturist.

Moved by Father Lambot, seconded by B. G. Hamilton: That we, members of various agricultural and live stock associations of East Kootenay, being from Cranbrook and the Windermere districts, in impromptu meeting assembled, desire to urge on our representative in the Dominion government, and ask for his support in pushing forward to a reality two important items which will prove of great benefit to the agricultural interests of the district of East Kootenay, to wit:

First, the extension of the Dominion Government telephone system so as to connect the northern part of East Kootenay with the southern part, and secondly, the establishment of a model dairy on the Dominion Government Experimental Station at Invermere, an institution organized and carried on for the benefit of agriculturists throughout East Kootenay, and that copies of this resolution be forwarded to Mr. R. E. Beattie, M.P., and the minister of agriculture of the Dominion of Canada.

Toronto.—Twenty new horticultural societies were organized in different sections of the province of Ontario during the year 1920, making a total of 120, with a paid membership of 29,000, an increase of 9,000 over the prevous year, according to the annual report of the Horticultural Societies of Ontario. In 1919 the Association expended $70,000 on horticulture.

THIN, FLAT HAIR
GROWS LONG, THICK
AND ABUNDANT

"Danderine" costs only 35 cents a bottle. One application ends all dandruff, stops itching and falling hair, and, in a few moments, you have doubled the beauty of your hair. It will appear a mass, so soft, lustrous, and easy to do up. But what will please you most will be after a few weeks use, when you see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. "Danderine" is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. This delightful, stimulating tonic helps thin, lifeless, faded hair to grow long, thick, heavy and luxuriant.

SOMETHING MISFIRED IN CALCULATIONS LIKE THIS AT VANCOUVER

From a report of a Liberal wind-up meeting in the Vancouver Province last week:

"An interesting feature was the reading by the chairman of estimates which had been forwarded by campaign managers in the three constituencies represented. Col. E. L. Ryan, who is manager for General Odlum, reported that a last-minute canfass indicated that the General would received a 1649 majority at the polls, with the Labor candidate in second honors and the government candidate third. Mr. James Myers, manager in Burrard of M. A. Macdonald's campaign, reported an estimated majority in the Vancouver section for his candidate, and predicted that M. A. would sweep the north shore. He estimated a 3650 majority for Mr. Macdonald. "Ernie" Murray, manager for Mayor Gale in Vancouver Centre, predicted 50-50 Gale-Stevens vote in Ward One, with an overwhelming majority for Gale in Wards Two, Three and Four. He predicted a 3800 majority for his worship in the entire constituency." All three of these "sure thing" candidates lost out.

Winnipeg.—Building permits to the value of $1,079,350 were issued in Western Canada recently during one week, divided as follows: Manitoba $295,000, Saskatchewan $55,600, Alberta $167,500, British Columbia $565,250, according to MacLean's Building Reports, Limited.

"LEOPARD WOMAN" HAS ALL PHASES OF FILM APPEAL

Stewart Edward White struck a popular appeal when he wrote his most famous novel "The Leopard Woman." Now J. Parker Read, Jr., with his picturization of White's literary masterpiece starring Louise Glaum, which comes to the Rex Theatre Friday and Saturday, seeks to win the plaudits of the nation's lovers of fiction and photoplay.

A newzstory in old clother, to reverse the bromide, is "The Leopard Woman," and it reveals the elemental in the natures of man and woman in all its fiery, vibrant glory. It shows that there is more to the love of a woman than meek acquiescence to the humble petition of the adoring male, and more to the love of a man, incidentally, than the aforesaid humble petition.

Madame, exotic queen of her little world in Africa, diplomatic—and secret—envoy of a foreign power, engages in a sub-surface battle with John Culbertson, messenger of the British government. Culbertson must reach M'Tela, savage kingdom of a horde of African aborigines, and get his guarantee of friendship for the British cause before Winkleman, rival emissary and equally influential with the natives, has a chance to dominate the potentate. Madame's business is to check Culbertson's progress. He meets Madame on the veldt. They start out by hating each other. Culbertson berates Madame for her amateurish "veldt manners"—she sharply retorts that the affairs of her safari are her own, But the natures that have clashed learn to bend toward each other. The story of the development of love, the fight of both the man and the woman against it and the overpowering of love's pawns in the game of life, placed against the powerful dramatic background of African Bahouma and the veldt constitutes what Associated Producers, which sponsors this J. Parker Read Production is pleased to herald as "the most absorbingly interesting photoplay in years.

The Story

Nan Rutledge was a baby vamp without equal. She also was inclined to be a little wild. She staged moonlight dances at her father's palatial country home that nearly drove the old man frantic. All men were her subjects, but her particular footstool was Rene, a lavender scented youth of gentle occupations.

One day Papa Rutledge called a halt. Summoning Nan to his office he ordered her to pick a husband and settle down. She promptly picked a man whose shadow she saw silhouetted against the office door. "Trot him in," she commanded.

It was Anthony Griswold, a rich client, and a woman hater. Nan started to vamp him. He didn't vamp well at all. Even when he was the honor guest at Nan's next house party, he was slow in thawing out. Finally he began to slip—and then it happened! He proposed! Nan accepted him and in a few minutes changed her mind in front of the guests.

That's where she erred. She didn't know she had hooked a cave-man. That night he abducted her and whisked her away to the mountains. After roughing it a bit, she finally decided that a pair of cave-man arms made a better resting place than a flock of lavender scented sofa pillows.

Quebec, Que.—The Quebec elevator has been working to full capacity since the grain crop began to move and in the past two weeks a total of 3,200,000 bushels were unloaded and discharged.

To Do Honor To Canadian Soldier

An Unknown Hero Will Be Brought From France And Buried at Ottawa

Ottawa.— The body of an unknown Canadian soldier is to be brought from the old western battle front and buried beneath the Victory tower of the new parliament buildings.

It is proposed that the body shall be placed in a vault excavated in the solid rock foundation under the great archway of the Victory Tower and between the two portals which give entrance to the buildings. The grave will set almost immediately below the altar in the memorial chamber overhead, and will be marked by a marble slab raised above the grave level. This slab will be suitably inscribed. Thus, all who enter the parliament buildings through the two portals under the archway of the tower, whether legislators on their way to their duties, or citizens on their way to the chamber above, will pass by the last resting place of one, who, representing many, was faithful in duty unto death, and whose dust will hallow the place dedicated to his memory and that of all of his follows.

Tower Not Completed

As the tower has not reached completion, and as the arrangements which will have to be made will take some time, it is unlikely that the ceremony will take place before Armistice Day, 1922.

The action taken comes as the result of suggestions to the government from various persons and organizations, and as a result of conferences between the premier, Sir James Lougheed, and representatives of the Great War Veterans' Association. The final consultation took place on Wednesday, when the premier and Sir James Lougheed conferred with H. B. Maxwell, president of the G. W. V. A., and C. C. MacNeil, secretary-treasurer. Further conferences were held with John A. Pearson, the architect of the new house of parliament, and elaborate plans are being prepared.

Official Statement

"It is proposed," says an official statement issued by the prime minister's office last week, "that the body of Canada's unknown soldier shall be interred at the base of the main entrance to the houses of parliament, within the confines of the Tower of Victory and Peace.

"At the entrance of the tower is a symbolical representation of the struggle between civilization and barbarism. The dominant figures upon the tower are warriers with arms reversed. In sculptured stone upon the walls and in the niches is written the romance of history, embracing the beginning of the nation.

Over Sacred Dust

"The memorial chamber forms the first floor of the tower above the archway, and is entered from the main floor of the central hall, the proportions of which attune the visitor's mind to the dedicated place where he will presently stand over the sacred dust beneath it. Around the walls of the chamber will be a black marble base, the gift of Belgium, bearing the weight of the memorial, as the Belgians bore the terrific shock of the war. Behind the niches, with their bronze tablets recording Canadian battles, are to be walls of Savonniere stone, from France, solid and immovable as France at Verdun.

Beautiful Carvings

"On the centre boss of the groined and vaulted ceiling where the mitred ribs unite, will be carved the Dominion coat of arms, the coat of arms of the provinces, the symbols of England, Scotland, Ireland, France and Wales. The stained glass windows, which will cast a cathedral light through the chamber, are the gifts of nine Canadian provinces.

"Stones for the paving of the floor are being gathered in every part of France and Belgium in which the Canadian troops fought. After these have been turned into flag stones, on their surface will be incised and caulked with lead the names of the places at which Canada's forces were engaged. In the centre of the floor, surrounded by those French and Belgian walls, will stand the alter of Great Britain, a marble alter carved out of a solid block, the offering of the motherland; that on her breast may be the book of remembrances, on the pages of which will be written the sixty thousand names of the men who died for her honor and the freedom of the world."

Ottawa.— Two cents per acre instead of four cents for grazing in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and the Peace River tract, and Kamloops division in British Columbia, are provided for by an Order-in-Council. The reduction is for one year to assist the livestock industry in view of the present high price of fodder and the low prices obtainable for cattle.

THE STORY OF "CONFLICT"

A Mighty Epic of the Logging Country

John Remalie and his brother Henry were lumbermen in the Great North Woods; alike in blood yet in temperament as different as a pine and an oak.

John was a religious young man, gifted in prayer and given to a piety that smacked of hypocrisy. He stayed in the woods while Henry went to the city to handle the gregarious portions of the Remalie lumber business, then on its way to a million.

John never married. Once he had planned to marry. He built a magnificent stone castle to house his bride. Suddenly, without warning or reason, he broke off his engagement and altered the appearance of the house. He made it a grim, prison-like structure and moped in with a Miss Labo, daughter of a camp cook, as his housekeeper. She was a silent woman, as grim and forbidding as his house, and for twenty-seven years she had said no unnecessary word to him.

In the city Henry had married and of the union there came a beautiful girl, Dorcas, who grew to eighteen in luxury, the tempestuous blood of the forest coursing unseen in her veins under a veneer of education and culture. Dorcas had only met John Remalie once, and that was at the funeral of her beloved father. She disliked her uncle intensely.

When the will of Henry Remalie was read it provided that his daughter should become the ward of his brother and stay within his house until she had become of age.

Into Weird Surroundings

Rebelliously Dorcas left for the woods, a spoiled and pampered child of wealth. With her went a maid and five trunks.

Miss Labo met her at the door—sullenly. An hour later John Remalie arrived from his lumber office at the mill and told her that her sinful soul would have to mend before she could reap the benefits of his pleasure. They sat down to a frugal meal, unctiously eaten with a pall of hyprocritical piety hanging over the forbidding room like a shroud. Dorcas was miserably unhappy and rebellious.

In a few days Dorcas, with feminine instinct, senses that something is wrong with John Remalie and his whole scheme of life. She cannot understand the sullen housekeeper and trembles with a forboding of evil.

In the town comes Jevons, a splendid figure of a young man, but a person of mystery. No one knows why he is there and everyone likes him for his cheerful manner and his open frankness in everything except himself.

Jevons Enters Her Life

Particularly interested in Jevons is Sloan, Remalie's camp foreman, who wants Dorcas for her beauty, and fears the presence of any other man in the village, particularly one as clean as Jevons. On a pretense he picks a fight with Jevons and is thrashed for his trouble. Accidentally Dorcas meets Jevons, and while despising lumber-jacks, is surprised at his apparent education. The girl and the man become interested in one another until Dorcas overhears a conversation in which Miss Labo tells a certain mysterious visitor that she is his mother and that John Remalie is his father. Dorcas has reason to believe that the visitor is Jevons. She is torn with anguish.

Jevons announces that he is going to compete with Remalie in the lumber business and begins constructing a mill. Remalie plans to have him put out of the way, perhaps unctiously, but nevertheless effectively.

Sloan is to do the work.

Remalie leaves for Boston so as to be absent when Jevons is killed. The housekeeper, to get his fortune for her son as the only heir, tries to poison Dorcas. She leaves the grim house and goes to live with the three Ginger brothers, uncouth but mighty men of the forest, who swear to protect her.

Jevons saves her from annoyances at the hands of Sloan. She learns that Jevons is not the mysterious visitor. She is thrilled by Jevon's plans of getting his logs to the mill and outwitting the timber baron, Remalie. They soon become sweethearts. She pledges to carry on his work in case aught happens to the young lumberman.

The day is set for pitting of forces—on one side the wit of Jevons and the loyalty of his crew—ex-service men who had fought under him in France—and on the other, the hireling lumberjacks of the Remalie interests.

Jevons A Prisoner

On the morning of the day word reaches Dorcas that Jevons is missing. Sloan has taken him prisoner and bound him in a deserted cabin. Dorcas, thinking Jevons is dead, goes to finish his job.

She arrives at the Jevons logging camp in time to see the two forces engage in conflict. She spurs the minions of Jevons. The tide of battle turns against them, however, so she determines to outwit her uncle's forces by desperate means.

She sets off the fuse which blows up the dam behind which Jevons had stored millions of gallons of river water and thousands of logs. The liberated water roars down the dry river bed, the logs rolling and tumbling on their way to the mills below.

It is then she learns from Sloan that Jevons is helpless in a cabin directly in the path of the flood.

The Race For Life

Then begins a terrific race between the rushing waters and the girl on horseback. She is too late to reach the cabin, but soon overtakes Jevons, who is floating down unconscious on a section of the cabin floor. He rapidly is approaching a cataract.

Forsaking her horse, Dorcas takes to the river, jumping from log to log—sometimes falling between them. She reaches Jevons in the nick of time and hauls him to safety.

The rule of the lumber baron is broken. So is his spirit. Dorcas inspires him to honor and right and prevails upon him to marry Miss Labo, so that Sloan, their son, can hold up his head again. Then, with Jevons, her happiness is complete.

COMPACT FACTS REGARDING CANADA

Interesting Booklet Just Issued From Dept. at Ottawa

Few people realize that 26,445 Canadian ex-service men have been established on the land and are nearly all making good; that Canada's water-power development represents an investment of $475,000,000, while the power produced would otherwise require 18,000,000 tons of coal yearly; or that nearly 88 per cent. of the world's supply of asbestos comes from the province of Quebec. The Natural Resources Intelligence Branch of the Department of the Interior has just issued a revised edition of "Compact Facts," which contains in concise form, information regarding Canada; its area, population, trade and industries; their extent, capital invested, wages paid, values of live stock, principal crops and amounts produced; mineral resources and present production; also forest resources and forest products. Copies of the booklet are available on application to the Superintendent, Natural Resources Intelligence Branch, Department of the Interior, Ottawa.

A GUESS FROM FERNIE ANENT KING CABINET

There is just a possibility that Fernie district may have another election shortly. Should M. A. Macdonald, the defeated candidate in Burrard, be given a portfolio in the King government, there are just three Liberal seats to pick from, Westminster, Skeena and East Kootenay, and as Bert Beattie is not in the best of health he might be induced to withdraw in favor of Macdonald. If this happens it might be a good scheme to invite Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, who also lost his seat, to enter the contest against him.—Fernie Free Press.

DANGER FROM SECTIONALISM

Election postmortems are occasionally productive of somewhat amazing disclosures. The federal elections last week, when looked at from some angles reveal a state of affairs that probably has had no parallel in Canadian history up to the present.

The so-called Liberal sweep is a misnomer. Quebec, always strongly leaning in that direction went the limit, which wasn't very much farther than formerly. Outside of Quebec, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island, giving a total of only twenty seats, represent the extent of the Liberal "sweep." New Brunswick gave an even break between the late government and the Liberals, Ontario gave thirty-seven seats to the government, leaving forty-five almost equally divided between the Liberals and Progressives. Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta went about eighty-five per cent. Progressive, and B.C. was the one province to give the late government a clear majority over the other two parties.

It is thus quite apparent that the majority in the house with which the Liberals will rule the country, is scarcely a national affair. The thing does not exist, outside of the three provinces named. The prairie provinces are the Farmers' preserves, apparently, and what Conservatives are returned come from only five of the nine provinces.

What the west can expect from Liberalism is hard to see. From Ontario to the Pacific the Liberals are by far the weakest party numerically, and on the prairies especially but a small degree of confidence was shown in their candidates. Whether people generally like the prospect or not, it is all too apparent that the real power in the new government is going to be Quebec. That province has made the new government and will be able to break it or sustain it at will. Sir Lomer Gouin, whether as premier or cabinet minister, will be the real power in the government, with more seats at his beck and call than Mackenzie King can muster. The memory of conscription dies hard in Quebec apparently, and when Mr. Meighen, with more courage than tact, possibly, told Quebec audiences that he would do the same again under similar circumstances, Quebec shrugged its shoulders and put Meighen into the cold on election day.

Sir Lomer Gouin and Hon. W. S. Fielding, who will be two oustanding Quebec figures in the new government are known to cherish strong protectionist leanings. Nevertheless, it will be good business for Mackenzie King to court the farmers with some tariff changes, though the attitude of the Quebec leaders will mean putting on the soft pedal and playing lightly with the tariff.

In Ontario the Progressive movement failed to make the headway which was looked for there, and the conclusion is that the cities do not take kindly to the idea of group government. As to the solid majorities for Conservatives built up at the Coast, there seems to be but one interpretation to be placed on them—that they are the handwriting on the wall so far as the B. C. Liberal government is concerned.

Latest figures show that the Liberal party in the new house will lack by one a majority over all other parties, the standing being 117 Liberals as against 118 of all other parties.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Extracts from the Cranbrook Herald of this date, 1901

It is understood that a telephone line is to be built between Cranbrook and Moyie next spring.

Supt. Bury has had a first class coach put on the North Star branch of the C.P.R. The next thing Marysville wants is a station and an agent.

People are beginning to come in from all over the district to buy their Christmas goods, and the merchants are better than ever prepared to take care of this business.

The new Athletic and Literary Association is rapidly getting into shape. At its first meeting officers were elected as follows: Hon. President, G. J. Bury; president, Dr. J. H. King; first vice, J. P. Fink; second vice, Mr. Hungerford; sec.-treas., A. E. Watt.

Mrs. J. Fingal Smith left last week for the Coast, where she will remain for the next two or three months, visiting friends and relatives at Victoria and Prince Rupert.

If there was one thing that the vote in the late election proved, it was the high respect in which Dr. Bonnell is held among the miners of the district. He polled over 400 majority over Beattie and nearly 50¢ tie and 27 over MacDonald. Some over MacDonald in the coal mining towns. In West Fernie, that scarlet hard work to discredit the Doctor among the miners proved absolutely useless.—Fernie Free Press.

NOTICE

Press despatches indicate that the Mine Owners Association, and other organizations in West Kootenay have already taken action toward securing the appointment of Mr. R. E. Beattie, Dominion representive for this district, to a Cabinet position, preferably as Minister of Mines. A general meeting of the Cranbrook Board of Trade will be held in the City Hall on Tuesday, December 20th, at 8 p.m. to consider the advisability of the Board making representations to Ottawa in this connection, and any other business that may be brought before the meeting. The Board has always maintained a neutral position with respect to political questions, but it is felt that if Mr. Beattie's appointment to a Cabinet position, particularly that of Minister of Mines, can be secured, the whole province, and this district particularly, will be benefited thereby.

PACIFIC NEVER CHANGES

No matter how the label on a can of milk may read, there is only one milk put up in our province and that is Pacific. This milk (according to statistics from different dealers) outsells all other brands, by about five cases to one. This wide popularity is due entirely to quality, and while there may be minor changes in the label from time to time, there never has and never will be a change in the quality of the milk itself. You may depend upon every can.

ANNUAL MEETING B. C. DIV. CAN. INSTITUTE OF MINING AND METALLURGY

The next annual meeting of the British Columbia Division of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy will be held in Vancouver during the first week of February, 1922. The Institute charges itself with the duty of stimulating in every way in its power the development and industry of mining. Essential to that aim is the encouragement of prospecting. At the meeting, at least, one session will be devoted to the consideration and discussion of ways and means of promoting prospecting activity in B. C. Information will be presented indicating potential areas yet unprospected in the province, conditions of travel, etc., in these areas. The marketing of prospects will also be debated; and there will be general papers upon such themes as "Aerial photography as an aid to the prospector," and "The diamond drill as a means of prospecting ore bodies."

The prosperity of the province is in a very large degree dependent on the profitable utilization to the greatest extent possible of our coal resources. Special prominence, therefore, will be given at this meeting to the subject of coal mining.

The treatment of complex ores continues to be a live issue in British Columbia. Hence, an interesting contribution on this subject by Mr. W. G. Woolf of the Bunker Hill and Sullivan Mining & Concentrating Co. will undoubtedly be appreciated.

The discovery of an important oil field in the Mackenzie valley would undoubtedly be of immense significance to this province. Mr. M. Y. Williams' paper on the "Oil possibilities of the Mackenzie river" will therefore be of great interest.

Other papers promised include: "The Geology of the Britannia Mines," "Mining and Metallurgical Practice at the Brittannia Mine," and "The Dolly Varden Mine," which last will deal in particular with the mode of occurrence of the ore bdy at this property.

DOROTHY GISH IN "FLYING PAT" AT REX THEATRE

Husbands! If you want to hold your wives, keep their feet on the ground.

That's the moral, if any, of Dorothy Gish's new picture, "Flying Pat," which opens a two day run at the Rex theatre, Wednesday and Thursday next week. Peppery Dorothy is at her mirth-provoking best in a rollicking story of young married life. She scampers in and out of airplanes, crashes out of the sky into an apple tree, and finally is reconciled to her distrait husband out in the kitchen, where, unbeknown to him, she has taken a job as cook.

Miss Gish is the "Pat" of the title. Having married an ex-aviator and being told by him that she is to seek a "career," it is natural that she conceives the ambition to be the champion lady airplane tamer. Of course, when hubby mentioned "career" he wasn't thinking of flying and the handsome captain who so kindly offered to teach Pat the finer points of volplaning. So there are complications that finally lead the bride to a teary exodus from her husband's roof. But the world proves cold and the men over-flirtatious, so she comes back — but not to the parlor. She stops at the kitchen, where she supplants a cook who has just resigned. There she listens in on the consultations which her frantic husband is having with the detectives who are searching for her.

Patricia Van Nuys	Dorothy Gish
Robert Van Nuys	James Rennie
William Endicott	Morgan Wallace
Butler	Harold Vizard
Detective	William Black
Reporter	Porter Strong
Policeman	Tom Blake
Old Lady	Kate Bruce
Cook	Mrs. Waters
Housemaid	Miss Waters

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ON FORESTRY

(By the Canadian Forestry Assoc.)

Q. If Canada is so concerned in forest conservation and the timber supply is rapidly decreasing, why not stop the cutting of Christmas Trees?

A. Because the Christmas tree custom is too beautiful and too well established to be interfered with. All the Christmas trees cut in Canada every year would only represent a few square miles of forest, and in comparison with the forest fires of just a single province in any one year are of infinitessimal account. Most Christmas trees are cut by farmers from lands they need as pasture, and it means a handy source of revenue for many a worthy family. Let's be reasonable about tree cutting. Don't let us disturb the joys of Christmas until we have done more to block the ravages of the real tree destroyer, the fire fiend.

Q. Is it possible to cut a spruce or balsam to secure a good Christmas tree without killing the parent tree's growth?

A. Quite easy. Cut the tree off just above the lowest whorl of branches and then trim off all others of the remaining branches except one. The latter will grow erect rapidly and gradually establish itself as the main tree trunk. In this way a plantation of spruces can be kept producing Christmas trees indefinitely. The plan is in effect in several parts of the United States.

Q. How far apart should trees be planted to form a shelter belt about a farm or school property?

A. Four feet apart each way. This will give you a dense shade in a few years sufficient to kill out the grass underneath. If planting in districts where there is abundance of moisture you can afford to space the trees farther apart.

Q. What is the value of the maple sugar and syrup crop in Ontario and Quebec per annum?

A. You will be surprised to know that it goes up to eight million dollars a year. Most of this is credited to Quebec.

Q. If I put on a roof of wooden shingles do I have more insurance to pay?

A. You can lay asbestos paper underneath your shingles and get the same rate as a slate roof. The 'scare' regarding inflamability of wooden shingle roofs is due to the use of poor, cheap grade of shingles that curl at the edges. Really high grade wooden shingles are a minor fire menace.

"SINS OF ROSANNE" NEW ETHEL CLAYTON PICTURE IS COMING

Ethel Clyaton's latest Paramount photoplay, "Sins of Rosanne," which will be seen at the Rex next Monday and Tuesday hat a South African setting. It was adapted from a novel by Cynthia Stockley.

The story centers around Rosanne, a beautiful young woman who lives with her parents near the Kimberley diamond mines. From a Malay native, who saved Rosanne's life when she was an infant, she has received a mad craving for bright stones and the power to curse with misfortunes those who met her displeasure. Her desire for jewels leads her into a scheme to smuggle them from the Kimberley mines. It is the man she loves, Sir Denis Harlenden, who finally gets on track of the smugglers, and, after exciting adventures, Rosanne is proven innocent.

The cast supporting Miss Clayton is an unusually competent one, including Jack Holt, Fred Malatesta, and C. H. Geldart. Tom Forman, who has played important roles in many Paramount pictures, directed "Sins of Rosanne." Mary H. O'Connor adapted the story to the screen.

Abortive Session Comes to An End

Legislature Prorogues Without Accomplishing What Session Was Called For

Victoria, Dec. 10—Remarkable only for it sdecision to impose fresh taxes and increase public expenditure, the second session of the Fifteenth Legislature came to an end last week when His Honor, the Lieutenant Governor, gave assent to fifty odd bills which had been passed during the seven weeks sitting of the House.

Summoned with the special object in view of providing adequate financial relief for municipalities, it has failed in this regard for the relief is not forthcoming. What the municipalities are to receive is an unknown amount of money. The municipal councils to be elected in January will be just as much in the dark as they evere were and the finance chairman of these councils will be forced to go ahead under the old system, facing the danger of having to increase the mill rate which in time will mean additional acreage reverting from private ownership to that of the municipalities.

As pointed out by the opposition who only lacked three votes on the division when the additional five million loan was passed on the closing day, the situation is one to cause uneasiness. Seventeen millions have already been borrowed this year and with this addition of five millions the government is now in a position to borrow nine and one-half millions more before the next legislature opens.

Featuring last week's sittings of the House was the attempt to pass a beer clause in the Liquor Control Act. Led by Ian Mackenzie, Liberal member for Vancouver, the effort was exnteded over several days until finally thrown out by the Speaker on the ground that the amendment dealt with provincial revenue, and coming from a private member could not be entertained. The Conservative opposition stood as one in their decision to remain aloof from liquor discussions unless the government brought down the measure on its own. Six of the seven members of the cabinet voted for the Mackenzie amendment and even Premier Oliver announced that he would be for the resolution petitioning the Lieutenant-Governor to bring down a bill although he had always been, and would continue to be, opposed to the sale of beer by the glass. As a last resort, Mr. Mackenzie made a move which would have allowed returned soldier clubs and other organizations incorporated under Dominion charter to sell beer in their club rooms. This also went by the boards, so that today by the decision of Mr. Justice Murphy, rendered some months ago which gave the right of these clubs to sell beer to its members, is now overrided. About the only way these clubs may now operate with beer is to install the "locker" system whereby each member may stock a supply of his own.

During the recess interest is being taken as to the probability of writs being issued to fill vacancies in Nelson and Vancouver. It is doubtful whether these will be issued much before the fall in view of the narrow escape of the government by the close margin of two votes on the beaver scandal resolution. By that time the government figures it will have re-established itself in the esteem of the electorate.

Saturday's prorogation was featured by congratulations being handed to Hon. W. J. Bowser, leader of the opposition, and to Hon. J. W. deB. Farris, Attorney-General, on the occasion of their birthday.

The Passing of Lord Mount Stephen

Lord Mount Stephen is dead, aged 92 years. He passed away peacefully on November 29th, 1921, at his residence, Brocket Hall, Hatfield, Hertfordshire, dying painlessly of sheer old age. Lord Mount Stephen had been living in absolute retirement for many years.

George Stephen was a Scot, born in 1829 at Dufftown, Banffshire, and his educational advantages were confined to what the parish school afforded. Leaving school at the early age of fourteen, he was apprenticed to a draper and dealer in dry goods in Aberdeen. Having completed his four years' apprenticeship, like many in the northern land, he made his way to London, where he joined a well-known firm which still exists under the shadow of St. Paul's Cathedral.

It was the middle of the 19th century when George Stephen, then 31 years of age, reached Canada in company with his cousin, Donald Smith (afterwards Lord Strathcona). In Montreal he entered the service of his cousin, William Stephen, who was in the dry goods trade, and three years later he went into partnership under the style of William Stephen & Company. Years of steady hard work followed. In 1862 the senior partner died, and George, acquiring the whole business, began to manufacture cloth. This proved remunerative and he soon devoted his entire efforts to it, relinquishing the wholesale trade.

George Stephen was elected a director of the Bank of Montreal, and in 1876 he was chosen as vice-president, and later as president.

The name of Lord Mount Stephen will be chiefly remembered as being associated with the conception and the carrying to completion of the C.P.R., the pioneer transcontinental railway. He joined the small but determined and optimistic group of men who had accepted the offer of the Government to build the Canadian Pacific Railway. He was its first president in 1881, and the first annual report was printed on one sheet of notepaper and signed by George Stephen. It was fitting that he should be its first president, for he had put his all into it, for one thing; for another, he had unrivalled driving power; and, again, he had genius for method and detail.

A year after the completion of the C. P. R., George Stephen was created a baronet. He built himself a magnificent home on Drummond St., Montreal, in which he took great pride, especially in the conservatory, built after the English style, as well as in his pictures, to which he devoted much attention.

In thinking of the public welfare of the community, Sir George Stephen at that period displayed great generosity.

Sir George Stephen resigned the presidency of the C. P. R. in 1888, in which he was succeeded by the late Sir William Van Horne, who consolidated, and at the same time extended the service and earnings of that great corporation. Three years later, in 1891, he was created a baron by Queen Victoria, when he assumed the title of Lord Mount Stephen, and crossed the Atlantic to settle down in England. In his beautiful home, Brocket Hall, Hatfield, Herts, near which the Salisbury family reside, he for many years entertained notable personages and devoted himself to the promotion of philanthropic movements.

Lord Mount Stephen was twice married, his first marriage taking place in 1853, to Anne Charlotte, daughter of Benjamin Kane. In 1897 he was united to Glen Tufnell, daughter of the late Captain George Tufnell, R.N. There was no issue of these marriages; but Lord Mount Stephen adopted a daughter, who married a son of the Northcote family in England.

It is of interest to note that although in his valedictory to the C. P. R. shareholders, Lord Mount Stephen excused his retirement on the ground of health, he lived for a period of thirty-three years thereafter, or the span of another generation.

Much regret was expressed in C. P. R. circles when the death of Lord Mount Stephen became known. All the flags from one end of the system to the other were placed at half-mast, and a laurel wreath was placed on the statue of Lord Mount Stephen which stands in the waiting room of the Windsor street station here.

"It was a cause of great satisfaction to Lord Mount Stephen that he lived to see his 'baby' grow into the greatest enterprise Canada has ever known," said Lord Shaughnessy. "There was a great personal friendship between us," continued Lord Shaughnessy, "which deepened as the years advanced." Discussing the fact that Lord Mount Stephen was in his 93rd year, and that Mr. R. B. Angus, who had been so intimately connected with Lord Mount Stephen, is in his 91st year, Lord Shaughnessy commented: "I am only 68; quite a boy compared with them."

"I was first associated with Lord Mount Stephen in 1882 nearly forty years ago, shortly after the construction of the Canadian Pacific had been commenced by the company, but my relations did not become at all close until the end of 1884. From that time until he retired from participation in the company's affairs we were very close business and personal friends. Indeed, our very warm personal relations continued to the end.

"Lord Mount Stephen was a man with imagination and initiative, coupled with probity and courage.

"During the construction of the trans-continental line he had many anxious hours, and there were times when his personal fortune, as well as that of his colleague, Lord Strathcona, was placed in jeopardy in loans to the company in its dark days.

"To Lord Mount Stephen beyond all others may be attributed the successful completion of the railway.

"During the last 25 or 26 years he had lived in England, but he followed Canadian affairs with the keenest interest.

"In view of the part that he played in the first and most important enterprise connected with Canada's progress, I am sure that the name of Lord Mount Stephen will always be cherished by Canadians, and, indeed, throughout the world."

"My most intimate connections with him were in 1884 and 1885, when the Government, after the first loan, were loath to provide any more money. It was during that emergency that he and Lord Strathcona furnished the requisite funds from their own fortunes, at a considerable sacrifice, no doubt, because they had to sell other securities that they held to raise the money. Finally the Government did make a further loan of $5,000,000, which saw the company through, and enabled it to get along until Lord Mount Stephen, or George Stephen, as he was then, had succeeded in selling the company's first mortgage bonds through Baring Brothers.

"Just as soon as the company received payment for its bonds, the whole debt to the Government was paid. He had said he would repay the loan, and did so. But if he had adopted modern methods he would probably have tried to borrow more money instead."

Head Hunting in the Gatineau

To a great number of people, "the Gatineau" is a term quite as vague as was "somewhere in France" during the war. Even Canadians with confirmed explorative tendencies are abysmally ignorant concerning that section of Quebec that stretches from the Ottawa River north to Maniwaki and then on to a cluster of unnamed lakes in which the Gatineau River takes its rise.

There are, it is true, many Ottawans who claim to know the district for they variously contend that Chelsea, Kingsmere, Meach Lake, Blue Sea, Farm Point or Kirk's Ferry is the real Paradise. But of the vast unsettled, unsurveyed country rolling away from the main road and the railway, they know very little.

The Gatineau has "got me" at last. For years I have fought against it, listening with ill-concealed scepticism to those who years ago succumbed to its magic thrall. I have been driven into corners and forced to hear poems on the Gatineau; I have been trapped into attending exhibitions flaunting pictures of the Gatineau; I have narrowly escaped picnics up the Gatineau, and skiing parties and camping trips. And speaking of skiing . . . oh, you Scandinavians, what a country for winter sport!

Yet, places like people, have greatness thrust upon them! Circumstances took me to Low; circumstances over whom I had no control. They were two stern, uncompromising nueses.

Driving from the station (which we reached by climbing a stiff grade of two feet to the hundred), to the house that was to receive my battered mortal envelope, I decided that Low was an eminently fitting place in which to be buried. Verily, the mournful task seemed half accomplished by merely stopping there! And within a week it "got me"; got me to the extent that I feel no poet and no artist, however inspired, ever did it justice.

Low nestles in the embrace of close encircling hills. Perhaps it would be more accurate to say that Low is a collection of hills, clothed at this season in bronze at early morning, in flame and orange at noon, and in gently fading purple at sunset. Now and again they will be mist wrapped, and their outline will push slowly from the rising vapour as the hulk of a great ship creeps out of a fog at sea.

Upon these hills adventures lurk — adventures expressed sometimes in the sudden whirr of partridge wings, sometimes in the discovery of a liquid jewel set amid scarlet trees; or again in the finding of a cave where prehistoric man surely must have made his home. You may even find a skeleton.

As health and strength returned to me (the Gatineau can work a miracle of healing) I wandered ever farther into the unblazed bush, and one morning thus adventuring, I stumbled over a large bone bleached white and almost perfect in point of preservation. It showed a sharp ridged jaw, a long frontal bone and horns. Considering the antiquity of the hills which geologists compute at fifty million years, it seemed reasonable to suppose that dinosaurs, pterosaurs and ichthyosaurs must have left occasional remains in remote sections. The skeleton proved it. But to which class did the bone belong?

Thrills alternately heated and chilled me. I shouldered my treasure that weighed probably six pounds and set out for home. As the miles diminished, the weight of the thing increased, until I fairly staggered up to the verandah, convinced that Atlas had a feather-weight burden compared with mine. Exhausted but triumphant, I lowered it and myself upon the floor and cried:

"See the gorgeous specimen I have found!"

"What 'yer goin' to do with it?" asked my host, lukewarmly.

"Present it to the Geological Museum at Ottawa," said I. "They are crazy to have things like that."

The man irrigated a small section of the soil with tabac Canadien before remarking.

"Beats me what them fellas down there want with that ole truck! If I'd knowed what you was goin' after, I could have saved you carryin' it all them miles. I got two of them heads in my barn."

I gasped my disbelief. Two? Why, the district must be a regular dinosaur repository, equal to the Red River country.

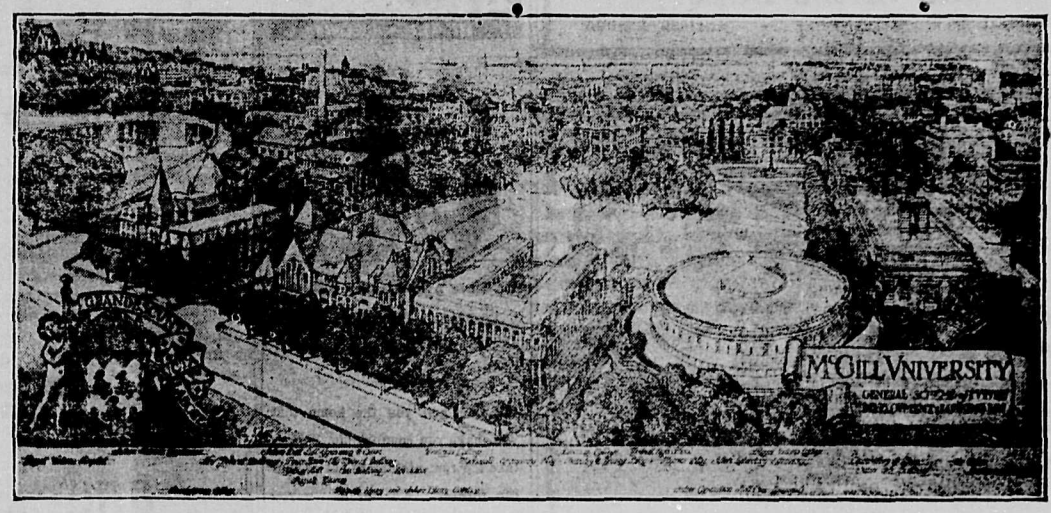
"Sure's I'm tellin' you," protested my host. "Kep' jus' fer fun, as you might say; horns and teeth perfect, too. Better'n yourn, there!"

"Why—why—what are they?" I faltered.

"Steers' heads," he returned, shifting his quid. "I kill a couple every fall. You can have your pick of 'em for that there Zoo-menagerie at Ottawa, and welcome!"

—Madge Macbeth.

Mc Gill a Hundred Years Old



McGill University, as it will appear when the proposed extensions are completed.

Montreal will witness an historic event for five days, commencing Wednesday, October the twelfth, when the one hundredth anniversary of the founding of McGill University will be celebrated, a reunion of former graduates and under-graduates. For a year and a half arrangements have been underway by a special committee of the McGill Graduates Society in charge of the details of the unique event.

From all over the world McGill Graduates have signified their intention of taking part in this memorable gathering. At the present time there are some on the high seas from Japan, China, and India, from Australia, South Africa and South America, to be followed by those from Great Britain and Europe, eager to be present to celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of their alma mater, and to revive the memories of student days.

Invitations have been issued to every recognized university in the world to send a representative. Many distinguished men will receive degrees at a special convocation.

Following registration which will take place in Strathcona Hall, the initial event will be a garden party on the campus, followed in the evening by a fete de nuit. The mornings of the week will be devoted to special lectures and demonstrations in the various faculties of Medicine, Science, Arts, Law and Theology. At eleven a.m., on the second day, a general meeting of all McGill graduates will be held at the Capitol theatre and in the afternoon there will be a convocation. Class Dinners are planned for the evening at which all classes will meet as units, and later all male graduates will gather for a general smoker, the lady graduates having a dinner in the Royal Victoria College. University sports will be held at the Percival Molson Memorial Stadium in the afternoon of the third day, and in the evening a University reception and dance will be given by the President and the Board of Governors. On the morning of October the fifteenth an excursion to the Macdonald Agricultural College, St. Anne de Bellevue has been arranged, followed by luncheon, returning in time for the championship rugby match between McGill and Toronto Varsity. On Sunday, October the sixteenth, a general church service will be held at St. James Methodist Church.

A special souvenir button has been designed in honor of the occasion,—another of the many important events associated with the history of Montreal.

The special committee in charge of the reunion include: Chairman, Brig.-General G. E. McCuaig, Sc. '06; Vice-Chairman, Captain J. G. Ross, Sc. '03; Secretary, E. B. Tilt, Sc. '03; Ladies' Committee, Miss L. M. King, Arts '07 and Mrs. C. McMillan, Arts '10; Entertainment, Gregor Barclay, Arts '06, Law '08, and Jas. C. Kemp, Sc. '08; Transportation, Abner Kingman, Jr. Arts '08, and H. C. Scott, Arts '06; Housing, A. G. Cameron, Law '10 and F. B. Common, Arts '13; Programme, Dr. W. G. Turner, Med. '00; Finance, J. G. Ross, Sc. '03 and H. Y. Russell, Sc. '91; Registration and Publicity, Fraser S. Keith, Sc. '03; Faculty Representatives, Med. Dr. C. F. Martin, Med. '92; and Dr. A. T. Bazin, Med. '94; Cyrus MacMullin, Arts '00; Gordon McDougall, Law '94; General, Dr. J. A. Nicholson, Arts '87; Henry Morgan, Arts '13; Prof. N. N. Evans, Sc. '86; J. M. Eakins, Sc. '09 and J. W. Jeakins, Arts '13, Secretary, McGill Graduates Society.

A greater interest has been created in McGill University through the special campaign inaugurated last fall particularly among the graduates. At this campaign over five million dollars were subscribed to carry on the work of old McGill, and to supply additional buildings and equipment commensurate with the growth of the University. This increased interest is duly reflected by the large numbers who are coming who assure the success of this outstanding event in the history of a great university so favorably known in every quarter of the globe.

Professor Cyrus MacMillan has written a history of the university entitled "McGill and its Stories," which S. B. Gundy, of the Oxford University Press, Toronto, has published in time for the Reunion. This contains extracts from many historic records published for the first time and gives a wonderfully interesting account of the progress of education in Lower Canada and Quebec within the last hundred years.

CRANBROOK'S BIG THE FINK MERCANTILE CO. LTD. MAIL ORDER HOUSE

The School Board is very much occupied at present with the problem of extra school accommodation, and at the civic elections next month will probably come before the ratepayers with a definite proposal to make a substantial addition to the present Central School building, as has already been done at Fernie, where the public school building was erected from the same plans as Cranbrook's. Mr. B. A. Moorhouse, architect, has been at Fernie this week on behalf of the board, looking into the plans from which the eight-roomed addition there was built, and he will report to a special meeting of the board to be held this week. In the meantime efforts are still being made to secure some temporary quarters for a room to be opened after the holidays. The board is not able to secure the Presbyterian schoolroom, but has other locations under advisement, and extra desks have been ordered for the new room.
