PASSING OF ANOTHER PIONEER

FRANK DICKINSON ANSWERS THE LAST ROLL CALL OF THE MYSTERIOUS GREAT BEYOND.

Frank R. Dickinson, of the firm of Dickinson and McTavish, proprietors of the Jaffray hotel, Jaffray, B.C., died at the Cottage hospital in this city on last Friday morning, October 31st, 1913, at the age of 45 years and one month. He had only been ill for about a week, a serious attack of quinsy developing into blood poisoning.

The funeral occurred on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock and was one of the largest attended funerals ever held in the city. The deceased has resided in this district for the past several years and enjoyed a wide acquaintance. The service was held at the undertaking parlors of F. M. Macpherson and was conducted by Rev. E. P. Flewelling, rector of Christ church. F. J. Dickinson, of Tekoa, Wash., a brother of the deceased, and Mrs. Perkins, of Seattle, a sister, were in attendance at the funeral. The floral offerings were many and profuse. The casket cover was given by the hotels of Cranbrook, and wreaths were given by Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Caven, Napanee hotel, Fernie; Miss Liebrecht, hotel and wholesale clerks of this city, local barbers' union, a cross by Mr. and Mrs. James Bates, anchor by W. J. Kerr, of Elko, and spray by Madame Norman.

Deceased was born near Woodstock, New Brunswick, in the year 1868 and came to British Columbia in the eighties, first locating in New Westminster as a barber. He afterwards went to Rossland and there opened a barber shop. He was married in that city. He came to Cranbrook in 1899 and opened his first barber shop in the Cranbrook hotel After a few months he were into partnership with W. B. McFarlane in the barber business, the location being where McCreery Bros. store now stands. They were associated together for a year and then Mr. Dickinson opened a shop in the Cosmopolitan hotel and later was in partnership with W. Cline in the old Manitoba hotel. His first venture in the hotel business was with Vic. Rollins, purchasing the Wentworth hotel in this city. This did not turn out well and after a few months they dissolved partnership. Since opening the hotel at Jaffray with his partner, Jack McTavish, they have made a success of the business and have continued in business together.

Mr. and Mrs. Dickinson separated a few years ago and the father has been educating the son, George Dickinson, a 14-year-old boy, at Calgary.

Frank Dickinson was universally well liked for his generous impulses and frank manner. He was a very serious minded man, and quite a philosopher in his way, although he liked lively companions and was always in for a good time. He was a good mixer and was one of the best known men, among all classes, that has resided in the Crows Nest Pass.

SCHUBERT CONCERT A SUCCESS

MUSICAL PROGRAMME OF EXCEPTIONAL MERIT GIVEN BY SCHUBERT SYMPHONY CLUB.

The Auditorium was well filled last Friday night when the Schubert Symphony club rendered an excellent programme. The ladies' quartette proved to be a nicely balanced aggregation and its programme was thoroughly enjoyed.

Miss Leita Corder, the soprano, was certainly a pleasant surprise to the audience and her beautiful tones and wonderful control were keenly appreciated. Her rendition of the "Aria" from "The Barber of Seville" was very good.

Miss Hazel Corby gave a couple of recitations and Miss Purcell sang a contralto solo in good style.

Thomas V. Purcell is deserving of special mention as a violinist. His work is of a high order, technique and tone being exceptionally fine. His numbers, "Hungarian Dance," by Brahms, and "Scherzo Tarantella," by Wieniawski, were greeted with hearty applause. The closing numbers of the programme, a combination of instrumental and vocal music, were tastefully rendered and were warmly applauded.

The Knights of Columbus realized a neat sum for the St. Eugene hospital from the proceeds of the entertainment.

PEACE CELEBRATIONS FOR CRANBROOK

THIS CITY TO BE ONE OF FIFTY CENTRES WHERE PEACE FESTIVALS WILL BE HELD.

At a meeting held at the city hall last Monday morning at eleven o'clock Mr. E. H. Scammell, of Ottawa, organizing secretary of the Canadian Peace Centenary association, announced that Cranbrook had been chosen as one of the 50 points in Canada in which will be celebrated the 100 years of peace with the United States. Enthusiastic endorsation was given the proposal by those present and a nominating committee was appointed which will have power to choose delegates from all points in East Kootenay, have charge of the arrangements here, and form part of the Dominion committee. Those named were: Mayor Bowness, ex-officio; N. A. Wallinger, J. D. McBride, Alderman Lester Clapp, Rev. W. E. Dunham, R. L. T. Galbraith and Harry White, secretary.

When the meeting was called to order with Mayor Bowness in the chair Mr. Scammell was called upon to explain the objects of the meeting. He gave a resume of the steps that had been taken in England, the United States and Canada toward the celebration of the 100 years of peace. It was planned to erect monuments at various points in the three countries to hold an annual thanksgiving day in the churches throughout the English-speaking world and wherever the British and American flags fly to arrange exercises in the schools, to take steps toward educating the children and the people regarding the treaties which had made the long peace possible and to provide a new school history for the United States.

"Our history books all glorify war," said the speaker, who remarked that although the importance of war in the world's history need not be minimized, the cause of peace should not be lost sight of, especially in school histories.

Revision of schaol histories was particularly necessary in the United States and the American committee, recognizing that much of what had been written regarding relations between Great Britain and the United States was not true to fact, had made arrangements with an eminent professor of history to write a new history of the United States for the past 100 years on which school text books could be used.

It was also proposed to establish a fund to support travelling professorships in order that an interchange of lecturers on matters relating to the 100 years of peace might be made between the three countries.

Local celebrations would, it was proposed, said Mr. Scammell, make a feature of the children's exercises. Children would come in from the points in the districts surrounding the centres chosen for the celebration and pageants and similar affairs would be arranged. It was hoped to have a speaker from the United States at each Canadian celebration and a Canadian speaker at every United States peace festival.

TO SHOW EUROPE EXAMPLE.

He made it clear that the Canadian Peace Centenary association was not a peace society, although the proposed peace celebration, by showing the world generally and Europe particularly, that the two countries with an international boundary line 3,810 miles in length, garrisoned only by the good sense and good will of the two peoples, could live without war for 100 years, would probably have an important influence in promoting the cause of peace.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICE

The 12th anniversary of the First Baptist church, this city, will be observed with appropriate services on Sunday and Monday. The motto that the pastor, Rev. E. O. Kendall, will present to the church in all the meetings will be "My endeavor to make this year the best year in the history of my church." Anniversary supper and concert will be held on Monday evening. Beginning at 5.30 the ladies of the church and congregation will serve supper, to which all the public are invited. At 8.00 p.m. a concert will be held in the church. The best local talent in matters literary and musical will contribute to the programme. The Baptist church is now spending $200.00 plumbing the parsonage and making needful repairs to the meeting house. To discharge this amount, special offerings are asked at the meetings on Sunday, and on Monday a silver collection will be taken at the door. No admission fee will be charged.

CHANGES AT ARENA RINK

REFRESHMENT BOOTH AND SHOOTING GALLERY IN CONNECTION.

Since taking over the Arena rink Mr. W. H. Johnson has been diligently working to get ready for the winter sport. He had ice started last week but the warm weather the first of the week melted it out and dashed his hopes for early skating. He thinks now that the next change of weather will occur about November 15th and that he may have skating about that time.

Several changes have been made in the interior of the rink. The refreshment booth has been fixed up with new windows and repairs made in the roof so that a comfortable booth is now in shape. This will be in charge of Mrs. Johnson, who will serve all manner of refresnments during the skating season.

Mrs. Wallinger's orchestra has been engaged to disperse music two nights each week during the winter.

The ladies' dressing room has been made more comfortable with new paint, wall matting and other little acesssories.

The office has been enlarged, painted and new linoleum laid. In connextion with the office new skate boxes have been fitted up which will be for rent to patrons for the season. Each skate locker has a private key. These are close to the office stove which will insure warm boots for those who use them.

Mr. Johnson also intends installing a shooting gallery in the rink. This will be fitted with a sixteen inch tube the entire length of the rink, providing a range 190 feet long. Every precaution will be taken to ensure absolute safety.

BRITISH COLUMBIA GRAZING LAND

The opening up of the great hinter lands of British Columbia for grazing purposes is bound to have an effect upon the market for breeding stock sooner or later. The outline of the scheme for opening up this territory to grazing indicates possibilities for increasing the supply of meat-producing animals in a large way. The drawback seems to be winter feeding. While in a great many sections stock can be grazed all winter, it is admitted that in other sections winter feeding will have to be done.—Canadian Farm.

COMMUNICATION

Editor Herald:

Dear Sir: Kindly permit me space for a few lines in your paper, as we are troubled with rabbits in our vicinity. They are getting to be quite a nuisance, burrowing under sidewalks and buildings. We had a lot of young maples destroyed last spring by these pests, and it looks as if the same thing will happen again, if something is not done. I have frequently made complaints but that seems to do very little good. If anyone wishes to keep rabbits all well and good, but they should be kept under control, and not turned loose to become a nuisance to all the neighbors.

John Levett.

"THE BARRIER"

Frank Ireson, the well known character actor who will be seen as John Gale, the Flambeau trader in "The Barrier," which comes to the Auditorium next Saturday, has an abiding faith in the quality of drama that present day writers are sending forth. There was a time some fifteen years ago that Mr. Ireson could lend an air to nothing but Shakespeare and rural comedy-drama, the first because of the lofty ideals it frequently inspired, and the latter because from the point of view of the audience it was universal in its appeal.

Today Mr. Ireson believes the "red blood" dramas that deal with real people and situations instead of the stilted and far-fetched bucolic dramas of decade age are what appeal to audiences. That is why Rex Beach, who is famed for his Alaskan tales has won such approbation, Mr. Ireson thinks. Beach knows the people about whom he writes, knows Alaska and the traditions of the inhabitants, and consequently is in a position to give audiences first hand information couched in as good language and sparkling with as much action and dialogue as any present day fiction writer has at his command.

SOMEBODY LIED

JUDGE UNABLE TO DECIDE WHICH PREVARICATES IN LAWSUIT AND FINDS FOR DEFENDANT.

After the evidence of Nelson Winlaw and J. B. Winlaw vs. Cory, before Mr. Justice Murphy at the local court last week, in which J. B. Winlaw sued T. T. Cory, Canadian Pacific railway conductor, for $100 paid him for an option on land at Duck Creek, the defendant took the stand. He denied emphatically that he had signed the part in question and in several essential particulars denied the story of Mr. Winlaw and his son.

The judge dismissed the action, saying that he was unable to decide whether the signature was made by Mr. Cory or was not; that "somebody was a scoundrel," but who it was he was unable to say. Someone is deliberately telling an untruth, but who I am unable to say. I make no finding on that. But the burden of proving his case is on the plaintiff and I cannot see that that has been satisfied." His lordship also stated that, "Mr. Winlaw appears to be a man of strong character and somewhat irascible temper."

C. R. Hamilton for plaintiff, P. E. Wilson for defendant.

PREMIER McBRIDE OWES AN APOLOGY

Quite a little furore has been created at the capital over the speech delivered by Sir Richard McBride before the Canadian Club on Monday afternoon. The point at issue is whether or not Sir Richard should have dealt with a controversial subject in his address.

The Morning Citizen says:

"It was somewhat unfortunate that Sir Richard McBride did not observe a little more closely the custom that prevails in the Canadian club of discussing no controversial question. The lack of a more hearty reception of his pro-naval sentiments was undoubtedly due to the fact that the audience felt the inappropriateness of his statements under the particular auspices."

The Ottawa Evening Journal says.

"The deliverance will be criticised by some because its text was an advocacy of the voting of that $35,000,000 which the Liberal majority in the senate blocked last spring. Accordingly the speech will be interpreted as a party utterance and the Canadian clubs are not supposed to be open to party utterances. Nevertheless a man may be at liberty to deliver a message from his own home, even before a Canadian club, and even though it tread on current politics."

The Free Press takes an opposite view and winds up a lengthy editorial criticising the British Columbia premier as follows:

"Premier McBride abused the hospitality of his hosts. He took advantage of a non-partisan gathering to make capital for the political party to which he belongs. He owes an apology to the Canadian club of Ottawa and to those Liberals who were compelled to listen to him without having an opportunity to answer back. If he desires to reinstate himself that apology will be forthcoming immediately."

LIBERAL TRIUMPH IN SOUTH BRUCE

REUBEN TRUAX CARRIES THE RIDING WITH A MAJORITY OF 124 VOTES.

Walkerton, Ont., Oct. 30.—Reuben E. Truax, the Liberal candidate was elected in the South Bruce bye-election today by a ajority of 124, defeating Wellington D. Cargill. The seat was rendered vacant by the elevation of Hon. James Donnelly to the senate and the campaign was fought almost altogether on the naval question. Mr. Connelly's majority at the last general election over Mr. Truax, was 103. No figures of the total vote were obtainable tonight, as only the majorities at the different polling subdivisions were brought into Walkerton. It is understood, however, that the vote was even heavier than in the general election.

Both candidates were residents of the riding. Mr. Truax has lived in the district 57 years and his personal popularity made him a strong candidate. Besides supporting the Liberal position on the navy, in practically every speech, he declared his preference for the doctrine of reciprocity with the United States.

Walkerton, Mr. Truax's home town, gave him a majority of 90. At the last general election his majority there was 56.

NEW McFARLANE STORE OPENS MONDAY

LARGE STOCK OF GENTS FURNISHING GOODS WITH STRICTLY CASH POLICY.

Next Monday W. B. McFarlane is opening a new store in the old Pye building, which has been purchased by Mr. McFarlane and will be known as the McFarlane building in future.

An $11,000 stock of gents' furnishing goods will be on sale next Monday. Mr. E. C. Stata, of Calgary, has arrived in the city and will be the manager for the new store. A large stock of men and children's boots and shoes have been ordered and will be placed in the stock later.

The new store will inaugurate an innovation among Cranbrook stores in that it will be a strictly cash store. Mr. McFarlane states that he has had this matter under consideration for a long time and as his principal object in starting the new store was to endeavor to keep much of the money now being sent out of town at home and that in order to do this he would have to sell at a very close margin, which is impossible under credit conditions. He has therefore established a strictly cash store and believes that with this system he can give a much better service, sell at a closer margin and conduct the business to better advantage for his customers as well as himself.

The new store will not interfere in any way with the present business of the C.C.S. which will be conducted as usual in the old stand. This store will give more attention to furniture and use the large store at the front for the better display of furniture and household accessories.

The new W. B. McFarlane store is situated on the corner of Baker street, opposite the Hotel Cranbrook and is one of the best corners in the city. It was the location of the first post office in Cranbrook and R. E. Beattie drug store. It was erected in the early spring of 1898 by the Leitch brothers, being at first only a one-story building and divided into two stores, the post office and drug store being on one side and the store of W. T. Reid on the other. Later a second floor was added, which was occupied as law offices, etc. Then it became the home of the Imperial bank and they remained there until the erection of their present handsome structure. It was then purchased by A. C. Pye, who conducted a store on the two floors until last spring when financial difficulties resulted in the appointment of an assignee. Mr. McFarlane purchased the building through an assignee's sale.

ALLEN PLAYERS WILL OPEN MONDAY

"GREEN STOCKINGS" ANNOUNCED FOR THE OPENING BILL.

A genuine treat is assured by the announcement that the Allen Players will present A. E. W. Mason's exquisite comedy of English home life during their engagement at the Auditorium theatre. "Green Stockings" is well known from the success Margaret Anglin attained with it as a starring vehicle. The story of Colis Daraday, who grows tired of the aspersions cast upon her spinsterhood and announces her engagement to a mythical Colonel Smith, is the foundation for the play. It gives a delightfully informal and intimate glimpse of an English family and their friends, bringing all their petfoibles to light, with a delicate touch of satire that is irresistable. When Celia goes so far as to write a love letter to her fiance she finds she has cast an amatory boomerang, which rebounds with amazing results. Her endeavors to extricate herself from the dilemma, assisted by her American aunt, produce situations hugely enjoyable.

Miss Felton regards this as her favorite role this season. She is a more than interesting type, her mouse-like quietness before her engagement going through a startling change afterward. Mrs. Allen will be seen in one of those roles in which she is considered a riot. Her fund of spontaneous humor will be seen in full play, which means a good deal.

Miss Felton and the Allen Players open their local engagement Monday, November 10th, with this delightful comedy.

SPECIAL PICTURES AT REX THEATRE

CROWDED HOUSE AT "FROM THE MANGER TO THE CROSS" LAST NIGHT.

Every seat at the Rex theatre was sold early Wednesday morning for the production of the great photo biblical play, "From the Manger to the Cross." This play is not only a startlingly realistic biblical production but one of the greatest picture productions ever secured for moving pictures. It was made at an expense of $300,000, the whole cast for the production travelling to Palestine and the various scenes of the play were enacted as closely as possible upon the very place where they were really supposed to have happened during the life of Christ. The pictures will be reproduced again tonight and tomorrow night.

A part of the proceeds of the play is being donated to the Young Men's Club and a special church choir rendered anthems duriog the performance. The choir is composed of Misses Belau, Stewart, Eager and Messrs. Randall, Racklyeft and Ashworth. The orchestra has also been augmented for the occasion by James Austin and Joe Kennedy with clarionet and trombone, making a full six piece orchestra.

The following is the programme of special music and features of the production:

Lord's Prayer.
Selection by the orchestra.
Overture ..... "Poet and Peasant"
First Part.
Hymn by choir ..... "Hark the Herald Angels Sing"
Second Part.
Selection—"Cathedral Chimes" ..... Orchestra
Third Part.
Anthem by choir.....
..... "Joy to the World is Come"
Song—"Sacrifice of Tears" ..... Cyril Newton
Fourth Part.
Song—"Beyond the Gates of Paradise" ..... Miss Stewart
Selection—"The Palms"....Orchestra
Fifth Part.
Selection—"The Crucifix"...Orchestra
Benediction.

In describing the illuminating and instructive effect of the pictures in presenting the life of Christ in such form as to make the history of that life more familiar to everyone who sees these pictures, the story of the actors who took part in the making of the films, best illustrates the faithfulness to detail and the scenic value of the production.

Mr. Bland, the young English actor who took the part of the Saviour, in recounting some of his experiences, writes in part:

"So far as was possible in the absence of any certain knowledge the location of the scenes was the same as that in which the incidents portrayed actually took place. The Kalem company had a letter from the White House to the Governor of Jerusalem, asking that all assistance be given to them, and as showing the interest taken by the authorities in the Holy Land, the studio was visited by the Governor and his staff, the religious Judge of Jerusalem, the American Consul, all the principal residents of the city, and by priests and clergy of every creed, who were kind enough to compliment me on my presentment."

"It must not be thought that the pictures are all studio taken; the studio being used only for the construction of buildings which have since been pulled down. The majority of the scenes were of course in the open street or country. As showing the reality and fidelity with which we worked, I carried the cross—a timber fifteen feet long, ten inches wide and five inches thick—up the incline of the Via Dolorosa, having to halt five times on my staggering journey. At the end I was physically exhausted, all the skin being rubbed off my shoulder, while I had a bad strain of the side."

"Soldiers and police kept the crowd back in those scenes, while, when I collapsed in the Via Dolorosa, the nuns from the Convent of St. Veronica brought out to me cordials and begged me to rest awhile in the cool chambers of their building. The heat of the sun was terrific and the work naturally exhausting.

"The 'Raising of Lazarus' scene was taken in Bethany outside the tomb which tradition points out as the tomb of Lazarus, while the 'Raising of the Son of the Widow of Nain' was taken outside of the Damascus gate. As I moved forward among the people to take my place in this scene the women in the crowd bent forward to kiss the hem of my garment. All through they appeared to regard me as a being apart, and it would be strange indeed if my experience had not taught me in a wonderful and solemn manner what the story of Christ means to the world.

"The most trying of all the scenes were the scourging, which was actually done, and the Passion. I was laid upon the Cross, which was then pulled over a cross bar fixed to two vertical poles by means of ropes. So, swinging, and without a hand to steady it, the cross was reared to a vertical position, to fall with a thud (which shook every bone in my body) into a socket prepared for it. Afterwards the two malefactors were fixed to the crosses formed by the horizontal bar and the posts, the bar was cut in two and they were turned so that they faced me.

"I shall never forget the scene; practically all Jerusalem came out to the hill of Calvary, and the cries and screaming of the people still ring in my ears.

OPEN MARKET CHEAPEN GOODS

A burning topic of today is the "high cost of living." While many reasons are cited for the existing high prices of food stuffs, there are many ways in which the dwellers in town and cities may economize in purchasing supplies for the table. The majority of city dwellers today draw upon the whole world for their food supply and buy from the retail dealer. The telephone and delivery wagon entrench him in his position. Hence comes the difficulty often encountered in maintaining a public market in many of our towns and cities.

A study of the whole subject of the public market leads to the conclusion that it is much more advantageous to the city consumer than to the progressive farmer, though there are certain advantages far the latter, such as the building up of a reputation for certain specialties, the placing of a premium upon excelleoce, and receiving better prices than could be obtained from local retailers. The city consumer gets the products fresh from the farm; and at much more reasonable prices than might be charged by the retailer if there were no local market. Various investigations have shown that in some of our cities, certain staples cost two or three times as much as the farmers received for these products. A recent investigation in a Canadian city of upwards of 100,000 population showed that in no case was the scale of prices of the retailer for farm products as low as that on the public market, and, in some commodities, the price was about double. While there are many city residents who cannot get to the public market to buy, there are many who can, but who are not patronizing it. The difference in cost would pay handsomely. The custom of going to market is as old as city life itself, and as honorable as it is old.

Where a public market has been opened in a town in which it had not hitherto existed, prices to the consumer have been lowered. In towns where they have been allowed to go out of existence, prices have gone up. Markets should be wholly for the use of the farmer and not dominated by hucksters.

PROVINCIAL POULTRY SHOW

CRANBROOK FANCIERS WILL EXHIBIT AT GRAND FORKS.

The Provincial Poultry show will be held this year in Grand Forks on December 9th to 13th. Interior chicken fanciers generally are making every effort to make this show a success, as it will to a large extent determine whether or not the interior people will have another show. A number of local poultrymen are preparing for the show and it is expected Cranbrook will be well represented when the big exhibition is opened.

The prize list is now ready for distribution. It represents $2,500 in prize money and $1,000 in cash, trophies and special prizes for poultry and pet stock exhibits. Those desiring a copy of the prize list should make application to the secretary, W. E. Hadden, Grand Forks.

A bulletin just issued by the census and statistics office gives the result of enumeration of the defective classes in Canada—blind, deaf and dumb, insane and idiotic—in the census of 1911. The number of blind was 3,238, of deaf and dumb, 4,584; of insane, 14,702; and of idiotic, 5,387; making a total of defectives of 28,-611, of which 15,530 were males and 13,081 were females. From 1901 to 1911 the population increased by 34.17 per cent., for the same period the total number of infirm increased from 26,148 to 28,611, an increase of 9.32 per cent in the decade.

President M. A. Macdonald of the Provincial Liberal association in a masterly and well-reasoned speech on Thursday night made hash meat of Hon. Mr. Bowser's defence of the government's land question. It is well the government or Mr. Bowser, which amounts to the same thing, has at last realized that there is such a thing as a land settlement question and that he has been goaded by criticism into making a defence of the government's policy, or lack of policy. This criticism, as Mr. Macdonald has pointed out, is not only from Liberals but from Conservatives themselves and from independent bodies like the board of trade and others. It is curious that Mr. Bowser should find it necessary to defend the lands department, headed as it is by so able a statesman and administrator as Hon. William Ross, the gentleman who describes Sir Richard as "our revered leader." But then, as everyone knows, it is a case of thumbs up in the legislature or the cabinet when any member wants to speak. He must first get the consent of the McBride or the Bowser before he dares to open his mouth and the Bowser is mighty careful that the juvenile statesmen in cabinet get no opportunity of making any breaks. To that end he does most of the talking himself. Even Hon. William Ross himself could scarcely have made a poorer defense of the government's record in the matter of public lands than Mr. Bowser has. Of course he had a mighty poor case to begin with. In fact it was a startling confession he made when he said that practically all the public lands were gone except those now under reserve for pre-emption He was away off in his figures when he said there was one hundred million acres for pre-emption. Neither Mr. Bowser or the minister of lands can show a small fraction of such an amount of land, and it is a fact that none of the government's agents can show the thousandth part of such an area. In fact very few of them, if any of them, could at this moment intelligently instruct a settler where he could stake a pre-emption. It is notorious that hundreds of settlers who wanted to locate in British Columbia have been forced out because they could find no land to settle upon.—Saturday Sunset.

GRAHAM-BROWN WEDDING

WEDDING AT CHRIST CHURCH WELL ATTENDED—RECEPTION AT WILSON RESIDENCE.

At high noon today at Christ church Mr. Alan Graham and Miss Ida Brown were married by Rev. E. P. Flewelling. There was a large crowd of assembled guests. Miss Gladys Brown, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and J. R. McCreery was groomsman. The church was decorated with chrysanthemums and potted plants. The bride was given away by Mr. P. E. Wilson. The bride was gowned in her travelling costume of brown chiffon velvet. The bridesmaid wore a blue velvet dress.

After the ceremony the guests retired to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Wilson, where a reception was held, the happy young couple leaving on the west bound passenger for the coast, where they will spend a fortnight's honeymoon, after which they will reside in their home on Fenwick avenue.

They were the recipients of many beautiful presents, both from their friends here and abroad. Mrs. Llewellyn Brown, of Nelson, mother of the bride, and Mr. R. T. Brymner of Lethbridge, were the out of town guests.

Both young people are well known in this city, having resided here for the past several years, and they were speeded on their wedding journey amid showers of rice, and the hearty congratulations of a host of friends.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Editor Herald:

Dear Sir. Allow me to thank, through the medium of your paper, the writer of the excellent articles that are appearing on Christian (?) Science. I admire the clear lawyer-like way which your correspondent treats his subject, yet, withal, a devout spirit is manifested. In a railway carriage the other day a working man spoke of the great benefit the articles had been in the small community in which he resides. About the end of last August in Galloway a man died. His wife was a Christian Scientist as well as many of her friends. He ailed for some time but no doctor was consulted, his relatives being sure that he was getting or going to get better. Outsiders saw that the man was sinking, and, burning with indignation, sent for a doctor on their own responsibility. He came and hurried the poor man to Cranbrook hospital. But it was too late. He died a day or so after his reception.

Sir, the responsibility of that man's death lies at someone's door. It is an absurdity to say "give everyone freedom in religious matters" if that freedom involve culpable neglect of the sick as the incident just cited shows! Would we give freedom to a Chinaman to throw outside of his door a newly-born baby girl because his religion permits it? Would we in British India today allow a native to throw his child into the Ganges because his religion permits it? or, would we permit the Melenesians of Australia to kill the wife when her husband dies that she might accompany her husband in his shadowy wanderings just because their religion sanctions it? Nay! We are not heathens that we should sanction such practices. Yet under the name of Christian Science the sick are often left to die because their faith will not allow them to call in God's assistants, the doctors.

When one considers the subject of healing he is forced to conclude that it is not the doctor who does the healing. He may apply the knife, or he may give medicines but that is all. It is our Maker, working through nature, who does the rest. The ultimate cure is with Him: the doctor is but the assistant.

You will, Mr. Editor, pardon the digression. I only meant to thank your correspondent for his timely articles and to say that they are doing good.

With your permission I will sign myself.

"Interested."

BRAZIL, GIANT OF THE SOUTH.

It is to be noted that Brazil lately gave a Filipino artist honorable mention at its international art exposition and that it was at the request of the Emperor of Brazil, a good many years ago, that Wagner began to work out his great opera—some people think it his greatest—"Tristan and Isolde," says the Christian Science Monitor. To be sure, Wagner never sent the opera to the royal patron who had asked for it, but it is exceedingly to the point that this early bent of the Brazilians toward what was great in music should be set aside their patronage of art today.

Brazil, next to the United States is the largest of American republics, and its area is a quarter of a million square miles greater than that of the United States, exclusive of Alaska and the islands. The Atlantic coast line is 3,700 miles long, twice the distance from Portland, Me., to Key West, Fla. The population is not quite one-fourth as large as that of the United States.

The principal industry of Brazil is agriculture, though the mines are of great value. Balem is the first port touched from the north, and it is of special interest to tourists for its situation on the Paris river, the southern mouth of the Amazon. Here is a river 3,400 miles long, draining an area two-thirds the size of the United States. This is the region where Von Humboldt prophesied would one day center the civilization of the globe.

The Amazon is a mile and a half wide at Tabatinga, the last Brazilian port to the west, and it gradually broadens until it attains a breadth of 150 miles at the northern mouth alone, where it discharges a volume of water four times the size of the Mississippi. This river is already being navigated by ocean liners for two thousand miles.

Though the stream was discovered by Europeans in the sixteenth century and amazing tales of it were told, it was not until 1867 that it was opened to free navigation. It was probably through the work of an American, William Lewis Herndon, and of Louis Agassiz, then a Harvard professor, that attention was roused to bring this about. Don Pedro, the Emperor, offered Professor Agassiz all the aid he could, and it was he who decreed that the river should be open to international trade.

RELIEF FOR CONSUMERS

LIBERALS STAND FOR REDUCTION IN COST OF LIVING.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier at Joliette on the 17th of October touched a vital point of present day affairs when he declared that the really pressing business for the government to consider was the abnormally high cost of living in Canada. "It is not," he said "the cost of dreadnoughts but the cost of bread and the necessities of life, the high cost of living, that Mr. Borden should look to, and how to reduce this is the important thing. While Mr. Borden is trying to regulate the wars of the empire, we, the opposition, will try to reduce the cost of living."

This was met with criticism from government papers, who alleged that during fifteen years the Liberal government did nothing in this regard.

One of the first things the Liberal government did in 1896 was to enquire into the tariff through a commission of ministers The result was the first Fielding tariff of 1897, when the duty was altered on 140 articles, with such a re-adjustment as to materially lessen the burden on the consumers while at the same time affording scope for an unprecedented increase in trade.

Then came the British preference—a new note in imperial progress—which was gradually increased to 33 1-3 per cent. The immediate result was not merely an increase in imports from Great Britain; the preference forced every other country doing business with Canada to cut prices in order to meet British competition under the new tariff. The benefit was to the consumer.

In addition to this came the development of cold storage facilities and the other improvements under the agricultural administration of the Hon. Mr. Fisher, which resulted in immense development of trade and general advantage throughout the country.

Efforts were also made towards securing reciprocal trade with the United States. The then high tariff Washington government received these approaches in such manner that Sir Wilfrid Laurier declared the next move must come from Washington, and the Canadian people heartily endorsed his stand. Ultimately Washington did move, and this resulted in the reciprocity pact of 1911, a proposition directly calculated to increase trade and reduce the cost of living.

That was defeated by the double faced campaign of the Tory-Nationalist combination. Now the United States have abolished the tariff on most of the necessities of life (taxed from 25 to 30 per cent in Canada), and reduced their general tariff by 28 per cent. The result of this is tersely put by the Weekly Sun, the organ of the Canadian agricultural interests, as "cheaper for them, dearer for us."

For two years the Borden government has been in power. It has almost doubled the National expenditures and increased the taxation to meet its extravagance; it has spent money recklessly on every conceivable project until even the present huge income has not been sufficient, so that while the government boasts of a $50,000,000 surplus it is a habitual borrower in the British financial market. In the face of all this extravagance and huge taxation and the increased cost of living it is announced that there will be no tariff revision next session.

To this Sir Wilfrid Laurier replies "If you do not care to do it or think you are not able to do it, make way for better men. We have done it once and we can do it again."

"WHAT HAPPENED TO MARY"

Since Mr. Owen Davis is the author of the play, it may be taken for granted that "What Happened to Mary" was a good deal. A lot happened to her in each of the four acts at the Olympic Sunday night, until towards the final curtain she won a most estimable attorney for a husband, learned the secret of her birth, came into the fortune that was rightfully hers, and otherwise had a generally joyous half hour, says the St. Louis Times.

"What Happened to Mary," it is recalled, was the title of a series of short stories recently published in a woman's magazine, and also of a long list of moving pictures, which on the screen detailed her adventures simultaneously with their appearance in the printed page. By this double means Mary already had become a familiar character to many in the audience, before she stepped upon the stage Sunday night.

She was greeted with applause, of course. And Miss Ann Bradley, as the young woman of the title, by her playing justified the initial welcome.

In Mr. Davis' version, Mary when an infant had been kidnapped by an uncle, for the purpose of getting her out of the way in order that his own son might succeed to the family estates.

Grown to womanhood, it so happens that she becomes acquainted with the members of her own family, although naturally there is no recognition to either side, except in so far as the wicked uncle is concerned.

He gives the girl employment in his law office. Uncle's partner, who is a man of character, falls in love with her. When uncle, in a final attempt to be rid of Mary, accuses her of stealing a purse containing $2000, his partner's faith in her remains unshaken. And finally this confidence is justified, the mystery of Mary's past is cleared up, and everything goes well.

Miss Jean Patriquin, Edward Maynard and Miss Maud Cooling are prominent in the cast, in addition to Miss Bradley. Two of the scenes are laid in Moses Landing and two in New York.

A new interpretation of the Monroe Doctrine was given by President Wilson in a speech at Mobile, Ala., on last Monday. Morality, not expediency, is henceforth to be the guiding principle in the relations between the United States and neighboring countries. "I want to take this occasion to say that the United States will never again seek one additional foot of territory by conquest," declared the president. "She will devote herself to showing that she knows how to make honorable and fruitful use of the territory she has. And she must regard it as one of the duties and friendship to see that from no quarter are material interests made superior to human liberty and national opportunity."

British Columbia made a notable success at the Canadian Land and Apple Show just held at Winnipeg, winning two gold medals, one for the best collection of apples and the other for the best display of natural resources. The apple exhibit was a carload, containing over thirty varieties. The display of natural resources was perhaps the most complete ever shown in this country. It included fruits, grains, grasses, vegetables, fodder plants and various other field products. There was a splendid display of tobacco from Kelowna and minerals were shown from every paying mine in the province. There were forty-three specimens of food fish of British Columbia and forest products were shown from each variety of native tree. The awards were conclusive evidence of the wealth and variety of resource of Canada's Pacific coast province.

Col. D. R. Wilkie, of Toronto, president of the Bankers' Association of Canada, is a recent visitor to British Columbia who was much impressed by the province. He says British Columbia has more in the woy of natural advantages than any of the other provinces of the Dominion and that her future will outshine most of the others, regardless of their big start.

German investors are more interested in British Columbia than in any other part of Canada, according to Baron Van Campe, who lately arColumbia has more in the way of naHe says the great resources of Canada's Pacific coast province are only beginning to be developed and he expects to see great advancement here with the opening of the Panama Canal.

Australia claims to lead not only the British empire but the world in the value of its per capita production. During the past year that country produced $210 for every one of its population. British Columbia can make a much better showing than that for according to Mr. Price Ellison, minister of finance, this province produced $300 for every man, woman and child during 1912.

Don't Hurry Your Stove Selection

At the present price of fuel a poor stove is about the most expensive thing you can buy, and you can depend on it getting more expensive every year.

Look around and investigate—learn a little something about stove construction, then you can choose a good one. There are lots of good stoves in the market, but it takes more than a pretty outside and a thermometer in the door to make good when cold weather comes

Nearly all stove dealers make fuel saving claims for the stoves they sell Make them take their stoves apart and show you where and how they save fuel We do that with our CANADA B Stoves and Ranges and we don't wait to be asked. Nearly all dealers claim perfect workmanship and materials for the stoves and ranges they sell—never mind claims, look inside and see for yourself We are willing to turn a CANADA B inside out to make good our claim that in everything that goes to make a good stove or range the CANADA B is in a class by itself. We don't want you to shut your eyes and believe what we say—what we want you to do is to come in and say I am looking for the best stove made, I've read your advertisement, now Mr. Big Talker, show me.

SHE LOST HER HAIR AND GOT IT BACK WITH HERPICIDE

Don't become discouraged simply because your hair falls and is thin, weak and wispy, until you have tried Herpicide. "I first began to use Newbro's Herpicide three years ago, after a spell of fever, which caused me to become almost bald. Herpicide soon restored the quantity and natural color of my hair, I feel lost without a bottle of Herpicide in the house." Thus Mrs. Anna C. Layn, 821 Second Ave., Louisville, Ky., tells in her own words how she lost her hair and how she got it back. Mrs. Layn's experience has been duplicated a thousand times and can be repeated thousands more.

Newbro's Herpicide keeps the hair and scalp in a perfectly healthy condition. When the hair papilla has not been destroyed by the ravages of the dandruff germ, the hair will resume its suspended growth.

Newbro's Herpicide eradicates dandruff and checks falling hair. The itching of the scalp stops almost instantly. Others imitate and make similar claims, but the original dandruff germ destroyer is Herpicide.

Applications of this wonderful remedy may be obtained at any good barber shop.

Newbro's Herpicide in 50c. and $1.00 sizes is sold by all dealers who guarantee it to do all that is claimed. If you are not satisfied your money will be refunded.

Send 10c. in postage or silver for sample and booklet to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich.

ENORMOUS INCREASE.

Subscribers to The Family Herald and Weekly Star, of Montreal, are renewing earlier than ever this season. The subscription receipts for October were over 80 per cent ahead of October 1912. The Family Herald grows in popularity year after year. It is the big dollar's worth beyond doubt, and deserves its immense circulation. Any home that does not receive The Family Herald should give it a trial for 1913.

Pullman net profits on parlor and sleeping cars last year amounted to nearly twenty illion dollars. This was the equivalent of more than 16 per cent of its entire caital stock of $120,000,000.

The Financial News' Canadian correspondent says the rumor is again busy with the conjecture that the C. P. R. will shortly be split into three separate concerns, one to control the railway lines; another for lands and natural resources, and a third for the steamships and hotels.

CANADIANS AND THEIR DEFENCE

MENACE TO THE PATRIOTISM OF THE CANADIAN PEOPLE.

The following excerpt is taken from a speech of Arthur Hawkes delivered at a meeting of the Canadian League in Brockville, Ont.

To eliminate the question of party politics and to unite all citizens in non-partisan support of national undertakings, particularly those pertaining to national defence; to explain to all newcomers to Canada the nature of its government and traditions and to inspire in them an intelligent devotion to the country and its institutions; to bring the people of Eastern and Western Canada into a closer understanding of each other so that they may unite in a common Canadianism, and to maintain Canada as a self-governing nation within the empire were subjects most intelligently discussed.

"O LITTLE CANADIANS!"

Mr. Hawkes said in part: "The great harm that has been done to Canada through the delay in putting a permanent policy before the country is not so much that we have been discredited in Britain, but that there has spread through the Dominion the doctrine that we art too feeble, too supine, altogether too little to do anything for ourselves. Everywhere you meet the argument that it is folly to talk about having a Canadian navy. O little Canadians! O slow of heart to believe! The other day I read the memorial volume to Wm. A. Foster, the ardent spirit of the Canada First Movement, to whom and to which every listener here is a debtor. Forty years ago he pointed out that Canada was the third maritime power in the world.

"I cannot tell you what I feel when I read and hear contemptuous references by men and newspapers to the position of Canada. Mr. Foster, minister of trade and commerce, was of sound instinct when he told the house of commons that he wanted Canadian bone and Canadian blood and Canadian sinew to go into the naval defence of Canada. On that vital aspect of defence too many of our patriots have become dumb since December, 1912. I think it is not unkind to say that the departure from that ambition has been as desecrating to the true spirit of nationality as if it had been the work of a society for the Suppression of Canadian Patriotism.

SAMPLE OF SELF-BELITTLEMENT.

"You surely have arrived at the very negation of everything that is essential to true defence when you find people apparently not ashamed to lower this country before the world by belittling its capacity to defend itself. The latest sample of that I find in The Amherst Daily News, which says: "It takes men, big, brawny and brave, to go down to the sea in ships to fight the empire's battles, and, fortunately or unfortunately, our young Canadians are too busily engaged in empire building to enlist in the navy."

"If you can imagine anything more craven than that you must be familiar with the depths of national despair. Its sting, its shame, is the greater that it comes from the premier's own province, from a province which sends thousands of its sons down into great waters, and that it was written in a town from whose heights you can see the roaring tides of Fundy fertilizing the intervals that touch the municipal boundary. This sort of thing is being said so frequently that one is not quite sure whether it is the tommy rot of partisanship or the dry rot of a nationality that fears to come to a full stature. It is at least a warning against policies which breed division and encourage men to say "we can't" instead of "we will." Nobody wants to see a "Canada Can't" party flourishing like the deadly upas tree, which turns a land of promise into a desert.

"Some of our compatriots, who seem to be very anxious about the figure we cut in the British Isles, may perhaps allow one who has lived thirty years in such counties as London, Lancashire and Yorkshire, to say that if Sir John Willison would cable to The Times the extract from the Amherst Daily News as a specimen of the justification of a contribution to the British navy some of the people who have been trying their best to obtain tribute from Canada would begin to wonder whether we have started on the road which brought everlasting death to the Roman Empire.

EXHIBITING CUCKOO PATRIOTISM.

"The menace to Canadian patriotism is not confined to this deplorable tendency. It includes that singular movement of men, who have made money in their native country who have given it no public service, but who migrate to the old country and break into politics there.

"They seem to be the exhibitors of a cuckoo patriotism. The third menace is the threatened exaltation of the military over the civil power. That is indicated by the persistence with which men, who ought to know better, attempt to set up the admiralty as a decisive guide in matters of policy. There has always been a school in Britain that would destroy one of the rocks on which British liberty is founded—the rock of the absolute subservience of the military to the civil arm. If they can induce the people of Canada to set up the admiralty as the god of their idolatry, they will have injected into the imperial relations a most destructive element as well as into your civic progress.

"The admiralty authorizes one of its captains to tell the people of Canada that the admiralty will co-operate with whatever policy Canada adopts, which means that if the admiralty chose it could do the other thing. The captain of a warship has no more business to be making political speeches about policy than the engineer of a train has anything to do with the policy of the railway which employs him."

Mr. Cooper, who followed, explained the first plank in the platform of the Canadian League, which is to educate the new-comers as to the nature of Canadian government and Canadian traditions. He pointed out that this is one of the greatest tasks before the people of both the United States and Canada. The second plank is to bring the people of eastern and western Canada into a common Canadianism. It was self-evident that this is another national duty, and one which must demand a certain amount of self-sacrifice and sympathy from all classes of the community. The third plank is a non-partisan support of national undertaking, particularly those relating to national defence.

Here Mr. Cooper reviewed the situation in Australia and contrasted it with Canada. He quoted from a despatch in a recent paper, showing how the premier and the leader of the opposition both made speeches a day or two ago declaring that the Australian navy was out of politics and would be freely supported by both Conservatives and Liberals. If Canada is to maintain her lead among the overseas Dominions she must raise to the same height of patriotism and nationalism as Australia and New Zealand.

In dealing with the fourth and last plank of the Canadian League platform, "to maintain Canada as a self-governing nation within the empire," he claimed that this plank was founded on the philosophy of Sir John Macdonald. When Sir John was planning Confederation and framing the British North America act of 1867 with the home authorities he desired to make Canada a Kingdom. He wanted Canada raised to the same status as the United Kingdom, but the colonial office objected. In the debate which followed in the Canadian parliament Sir John said that England would look upon Canada as a friendly nation, and that the people of Australia would form such another independent friendly nation He pictured these friendly nations in alliance with England and owing allegiance to the same sovereign. Sir John emphasized the words "nation" and "alliance." He had no idea in his mind other than Canada would have its own flag, its own navy, its own army, its own customs tariff, and be an absolutely free nation in alliance with the other Britannic kingdoms.

Sir John's idea of a Britannic alliance is as valuable today as it was when he propounded it. He would be tremendously shocked at some of the centralizing ideas propounded today under the guise of imperialism. Sir John was not the man to truckle to Downing street because of petty favors, present or future. He was a sturdy Canadian, than whom there has been none greater.

In conclusion, Mr. Cooper urged the audience to give the objects of the Canadian League careful consideration, and if they found they could approve, to join in spreading the gospel of a non-partisan treatment of the navy question and in helping to breed a patriotism which would keep Canada a leader among the overseas Dominions, upon whom depended the future greatness of the Britannic empire.

QUESTIONS BEFORE ELECTORS AT EDMONTON

CITY TO VOTE ON COMMISSION FORM OF GOVERNMENT IN DECEMBER.

Edmonton, Alta., Nov. 3.—Numerous new elements, none of which, however, is political, will enter into the campaign of candidates for the mayoralty and five seats in the council at the civic election early in December. The Edmonton board of trade is preparing a petition to the the city for a plebiscite, to be taken at the same time on these questions:

"Are you in favor of city government by an elective council and separate appointive commissions for each administrative branch of the city and a commission for each of the city's municipal-owned public utilities?

"Are you in favor of city government by elective commissioners, including the initiative, referendum and recall?

"Are you in favor of the present form of city government, by an elective mayor and council and appointive commissioners?"

H. Milton Martin, ex-president of the Edmonton board of trade, who originated the plan of a plebiscite on the foregoing questions, said in discussing the matter at a meeting of that organization, that "likely the majority of our citizens have not been satisfied with the administration of civic affairs. None of us can say where the blame lies—but in a general way the results are anything except satisfactory. We are not receiving full value for the moneys expended."

Henry J. Roche, secretary of the Civic Government League, who outlined the elective commission plan of government, declared that while it is not a panacea for all municipal ills, it would at least insure a business administration. He added that the league has no candidates to foist upon the electors. "Our primary purpose," he said, "is to tell the people about the commission plan."

Mayor William Short, K.C., author of the Edmonton charter, under which the city has the single tax and municipal ownership of public utilities, and candidate for re-election, energetically opposed the plan of government by an elective commission, declaring it would not meet the practical requirements of this municipality.

"We have $14,000,000 invested in our public utilities," he said, "and the investment is a benefit for the people. Our chief trouble, now happily ended by the provincial legislature amending our charter, was that the council which engaged them could not discharge our commissioners without a two-third vote of the ten members. Moreover, we are now settling bills contracted by former administrations. The commission plan is a pretty theory—it may work out in American cities—but it does not fit our scheme of things.

"Our charter is adequate to requirements, but we must have men to carry out its provisions. If the electors of Edmonton will give me the right kind of council and commissioners, I'll save them millions of dollars every year. I cannot do it alone, nor can any other man. A good plan is good only with good men."

The Civic Government League, composed of prominent business men, is carrying on an active educational campaigo, bringing speakers to Edmonton from various American cities working under the new plan. Mayor W. J. Hindley, of Spokane, fired "the opening gun" at a gathering of 2,200 men and women the night of October 24th, when he spoke for two hours amid the closest attention.

Out of forty-three baby shows held in the province this fall, forty-two proved a success. Most baby shows are, as a rule, a "howling" success.

The Dominion of Canada ranks seventh in importance among the countries of the world as a buyer of British goods. This was found in a report issued on the subject by the department of trade and commerce. It shows, among other things, that as a customer of the mother country, Canada does not stand as high in the list of other Dominions as either Austria or South Africa, both as which have smaller populations. As a matter of fact Australia, with a population of only four and a half millions, buys more goods in the British market than any other country in the world save British India and Germany, which rank first and second, respectively. The United States ranks next to Australia.

(Special correspondence).

Mr. Joe Whitehead, from Scolar, Alberta, is here visiting his son, Mr. Jim Whitehead.

Mrs. Brenchley, from Alberta, is here visiting relatives.

Billy Whitehead, from Silverton is here visiting Mts. J. Whitehead and Mrs. Bonner.

Mr. Doyle, of Vancouver, was here this week on a business trip.

Mr. Thorpe, from Kimberley, is here this week visiting friends.

Donald McKay, formerly a resident of this place, is here this week renewing old acquaintances.

Mrs. Doran from Cranbrook, who has just returned from a trip to Ireland, is here this week visiting Mrs. Ewing.

On Monday at noon a thief managed to get into the store of Mr. J. W. Fitch and robbed the till of $7.50. Mr. Fitch had just left the building a few minutes and did not lock the lower door when his assistant, Mr. Roy Birch, returned and seeing the door was not locked he turned the key, so the robbery must have occurred in the time which elapsed between Mr. Fitch's leaving the building and the return of his assistant. This was only a few moments and shows that the thief must have been familiar wieh the surroundings. About a month ago some seven dollars was stolen from the till of Mr. Fitch and a sum of money was also taken from Mr. Foote's store. This petty thieving is getting a little too common in our town and the matter should be investigated at once.

Mr. Mike Thorpy, who is well known in this place, having formerly held the position of foreman in one of the mines here, was recently married to Miss Florence Harper. The happy couple arrived here on Monday evening and are the guests of Mr. and Dimmock. Mr. and Mrs. Thorpy are just returning from their honeymoons trip and will make their home at Beaver Creek, where Mr. Thorpy holds the position of postmaster. He also has extensive business interests in that place.

Mrs. Conrad's sister from Missoula, Mont., who has been visiting her for some time, left on Tuesday for her home in Uncle Sam's country.

The services in the Methodist church from now on will be held at 1.30 noon, in place of 7.30 p.m. as formerly owing to the winter time table having come into force on the C.P.R. Mr. Willan, the missionary here, is unable to make connections with the train to Kingsgate, where he holds service on Sunday also. Next Sunday the service will be at 7.30 p.m., as Mr. Pearly, the Methodist minister from Fernie, will occupy the pulpit while Mr. Willan will go to Cranbrook to hold the service on Sunday.

Mrs. Foote went to Cranbrook this week on a short visit.

Mr. Nordine and family, who have been living at Aldridge, a short distance west of here, moved into town this week and will make their home here this winter.

Mrs. Pierson went to Cranbrook on Thursday with her little son Oscar, who was suddenly taken ill with pneumonia. She returned on Saturday but left Oscar in the hospital. The latest report is that the child is improving but not yet able to return home.

Harold Nordine, son of Mr. Nordine formerly of Aldridge, was taken very ill suddenly on Monday, and it is feared that he has taken typhoid fever. If there is no change for the better in a few days he will be sent to the hospital at Cranbrook for treatment.

A very successful Hallowe'en entertainment was given by the pupils of the public school here last Friday evening. There was a large gathering of the parents and friends of the pupils at the school house and at about 8 o'clock the visitors were startled by wierd groans from the ghosts, which were abroad that night. The ghosts were represented by five of the young girls from the senior division and they certainly acted their difficult parts well. After several Hallowe'en tricks had been played off on the guests the programme began and although rather short, it was very good and much appreciated by the audience. The little tots from the primary room sang a Pixie chorus, which was wgrmly applauded and the wee girls Fairy chorus was received with enthusiasm by the audience. The Brownies and Fairies from the senior room also acted their various parts very well and were a credit to the school. At the close of the programme refreshments were served and then games were enjoyed by the children in the junior room. During the evening a vote of thanks was proposed to the teachers by Mr. J. W. Fitch, which was warmly responded to by those present. It is worth mentioning the fact that no practical jokes were played off by the youth of Moyie this year. No property was destroyed or injured, as the children were provided wieh occupation of a more elevated nature and this is educating them along the right lines.

Father John arrived here on Monday and held services in the Roman Catholic church this week.

On Tuesday afternoon a meeting of the Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist church was held at the home of the president, Mrs. Atwood. Two new members were added to the list and several matters of interest were discussed. At the close of the business part of the meeting the ladies were invited to the dining room, where a dainty repast awaited them, which was much enjoyed and all report having spent a most enjoyable afternoon.

Mr. Z. Raiche who has been here visiting his aunt, Mrs. R. A. Smith, for some time left this week for his home in Quebec. He was much pleased with this western country and hopes to visit our town again in the years to come.

Mr. Willan went to Eastport on Sunday to hold an afternoon service there.

A very enjoyable dance was given at the Central hotel on Tuesday night in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Thorpy.

WARDNER

(Special correspondence).

Mr. Christie and Mr. Brymner, of Lethbridge, Alta., are the guests of Mr. P. Lund this week.

Mr. Thompson, of Vancouver, spent Friday of last week here on business.

The ladies of the Church Mission Guild are giving a supper and bazaar in the Library hall this Friday evening. There will be a fancy work booth, and a candy booth, also a fish pond and a table where refreshments are to be served. Everyone is invited to be present.

Mr. Tamer, of Nelson, was in Wardner last Friday on business.

Mrs. Lesselyang and Mrs. Gaffney spent Monday last in Cranbrook.

Messrs. Fleck and Leacock, of Vancouver, called here on business last week.

G. W. Donahoe is in Cranbrook this week on business.

Billy Anderson, son of Nels Anderson, formerly of Wardner, renewed old acquaintances here a few days ago.

H. H. Blanchett, of Vancouver, was here on business on Tuesday of this week.

Messrs. A. Lovick, Tony and Elmer Thompson were in Cranbrook on business last Monday.

Mrs. G. R. Wilson left on Tuesday of this week to spend several weeks with friends in the east.

The Sunday School teachers and a few of their friends entertained the Sunday School pupils on Friday evening of last week at a Hallowe'en party. Several games were played, which were greatly enjoyed by the children, after which refreshments were served. Miss Jones, who happened to be in town on business for the day, greatly delighted the audience with a number of splendid recitations. The children returned home shortly after nine o'clock.

Mr. M. D. McPhee, operator at the C.P.R. depot, was taken to the St. Eugene hospital last Sunday suffering from dropsy. We hope for a speedy recovery.

Mr. W. H. Mooney, of Vancouver, was in Wardner last Friday on business.

Mrs. C. Pickering and Mr. Wm. Radke were shopping in Cranbrook last Monday.

Mar Jack, proprietor of the Mar Jack laundry, of this place, who has been away for several months in China, returned to town on Monday of this week.

Mr. Lawson and family, of Morrissey returned to Wardner a few days ago and have taken possession of the Wardner hotel. Mr. Lawson has at last succeeded in obtaining a license to sell liquor.

While working at the flume on the Kootenay river near the Crow's Nest camp, No. 8, Mr. Mr. Hayes was struck by a log and hurled a distance of about 25 feet. His injuries are of a serious nature, consisting of a badly broken hip and several small bones as well. His injuries were attended to by Dr. Davis, after which he was removed to the hospital the next day.

The regular meeting of the Ladies' Mission Guild was held in the church on Thursday afternoon of last week. The regular business was disposed of also an election of officers, which are as follows: President, Mrs. W. D. McPhee (re-elected); vice-president, Mrs. Edgar Wilson, secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Geo. Lesselyang (re-elected).

The Crow's Nest Pass Lumber company's sawmill closed last Saturday afternoon for this year, and as a result of this a number of men are leaving town in a few days, also two or three families.

Good progress is being made at the new planing mill which is being erected here and we hope to hear the whistles blowing again shortly.

BAYNES AND WALDO

(Special correspondence).

One of the finest concerts ever given in this town was held in Ross hall last Tuesday. The Ladies' Society of the Presbyterian church inaugurated it. For almost three hours the entertainers kept the audience delighted. At the intermission coffee and cakes, ice cream and candies were sold. Over $90-00 were realized. Mr. A. Beattie acted efficiently as chairman. The programme was as follows: Instrumental, Mrs. Milne; vocal solo, Mrs. Prentice, of Fernie; reading, Mrs. Hyslop; duet, Mrs. Carlyle and Miss McKee, of Elko; recitation Mrs. Ayre; solo, Mrs. Carlyle; reading, Mrs. D. W. Hart; solo, Rev. J. Ross Colquhoun; violin solo, Master Ben Palmer; reading, Rev. C. L. Cowan; duet, Mrs. Prentice and Mrs. Carlyle; recitation, Rev. J. R. Colquhoun, solo, Mrs. Prentice; comic reading, Mr. Mowry, of Elko; reading, Mrs. F. Adolph, jr.; quartette, Mr. Mowry, Mr. Colquhoun, Miss McKee, Mrs. Carlyle. After votes of thanks being given to the entertainers, the enjoyable evening ended with God Save the King.

A large number from Waldo attended the dance given on Hallowe'en night in Adolph hall, Baynes.

The sawmill of the Baker Lumber company closed down for the season last Thursday. Quite a large number of men have left town because of this.

Mr. J. W. Ross came home from Medicine Hat last Saturday.

Almost every available seat was filled last Sunday evening at the Presbyterian service in Baynes. The large crowd came to hear the Rev. C. L. Cowan preach on "Quo Vadis" or the "Destiny of Man." This was the third sermon of a series on man.

Annie Muit came home from Fernie hospital on Saturday. She is well, but it is doubtful whether a permanent cure has been effected.

Welcome news that a butcher's shop is shortly to be established in Waldo comes to hand. Mr. Blunt, of Flagstone, will be the retailer of the flesh. This is a step in the right direction. Waldo and Baynes people should make it a point to support the local man.

Ladies of the Presbyterian church met at the home of Mrs. Milne on Wednesday afternoon.

The reading room in Baynes has now been established. Two tables are placed in what was the former billiard room of the Temperance hotel. The racks hold local and outside papers, and on the tables are to be found the best of magazines, religious and secular. This ought to be well known and supported. Boys, don't forget your subscriptions!

In spite of the fact that in this column attention was called to the shameful way the people south of Fernie are being held up by the changed time-table of the G.N.R. passenger, the people are remaining quiescent. Let us stop grumbling with conditions and let us act! A railway commission is being supported in Canada for the purpose of adjusting such grievances as we have Let us utilize!

The fall communion will be dispensed at the Presbyterian service in Baynes next Sunday at 11 a.m.

The Rev. J. Ross Colquhoun preached for the Rev. Walton in the Anglican church in Fernie. Mr. Colquhoun's successor has not arrived as yet in this district.

Constable Collins went to Gateway on Tuesday.

FLAGSTONE

(Special correspondence).

A son has been born to Mr. and Mrs. Downing.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, of Lethbridge, were visitors last week-end. They had hoped to stay for the winter in Flagstone but on second thoughts they returned for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Blunt have removed to Baynes from this town. It appears that farming is not a paying business in this dry belt.

Joyce's sawmill has ceased cutting this season.

Fred Wood and Wm. Allan have removed to Waldo.

Rev. C. L. Cowan conducted service here last Tuesday in the school house. It was intimated that service will be given once a month—the first Tuesday — during the winter.

Mrs. William Murdoch has been quite sick for over a week.

Mr. Albert Steiner has taken a contract for cutting ties east of Flagstone. Mrs. Steiner and child will go out to live near his work.

Mr. Abbey is doing a good business peddling meat around Waldo and Baynes.

Mrs. Nuremdorf will stay the winter in the south.

Uncle Mike Rosser has built a skyscraper on the bank. Be careful of the strong winds, Buck.

It has kept many a small boy thinking how a bald-headed man keeps his hat from blowing off on a windy day.

WINDERMERE

Two items of intelligence in our local news last week must have caused the soul of the reflective observer to ponder. In the space of one short week our struggling community, it was announced, was shorn of two of its leading public luminaries, a parson and a policeman and it is surely a feather in the cap of our law-abiding and godfearing people that, in matters spiritual and temporal, the powers that regulate and ordain these affairs recognize our sterling qualities and cheerfully risk the withdrawal of our minister and constable to fresh fields and dodbtless wider scope for their respective activities.

J. L. MacKay has returned home from the Kootenay valley. The succulent moose-steak that we enjoyed on his return constituted a particularly satisfying testimony to the sporting success of his sojourn on the other side of our eastern wall.

Progress on the Kootenay Central railway construction in this vicinity is being seriously retarded by the enforced inaction of the steam shovels at two points on the lakeside. This, we understand, however regrettable it may be, is no fault of the contractors, but, whatever the cause, the community of this district would be glad to see this highly unsatisfactory state of affairs remedied.

IMPORTANT AUCTION SALE OF TOWN LOTS

FORT FRASER TOWNSITE TO BE OFFERED AT AUCTION DURING THIS MONTH.

One of the most important announcements that has been made in Western Canada for some time regarding any of its principal trade centres is the one recently made by Mr. J. J. Miller, of Vancouver, official auctioneer for both private and government corporations, regarding the sale at auction of Fort Fraser town lots to be held in Vancouver November 19th; Calgary, November 26th and Edmonton, December 2nd.

Mr. Miller has been instructed by the principal owners of this new town on the G.T.P. in the interior of British Columbia, to sell at public auction all of the unsold town property, including business locations, manufacturing sites and residence property. The primary reasons for this sale, so it has been determined from the head office of the interested parties, is to give the public an equal chance to secure some of the choice locations at figures that are bound to make money for the buyers. This is being done now, to secure funds for the further development of the town and surrounding territory. The owners of Fort Fraser, while owning practically all the territory within a radius of twenty miles, have contented themselves by subdividing a very small portion, thus concentrating the business interests and causing property in this favored spot to have a real and intrinsic value, which will be very materially increased when the G.T.P. is finished next year.

Unlike the average townsite owners, the Fort Fraser Syndicate and other large interests have been pouring money into Fort Fraser. In fact, they have, during the past two years spent many times the original cost of the site in improvements, such as laying out the town, clearing the land, the making of streets, grading, railway station and yards now under construction, in buildings for government headquarters and other requisites so necessary in the making of a big, new town, thus showing their absolute faith in its future and their determination to make Fort Fraser B.C.'s greatest interior city.

The funds received from this sale will be largely used for the further development of Fort Fraser. Already about $800,000 has been invested in Fort Fraser and its immediate vicinity. This represents principally English, Canadian and American capital.

A new company has just been formed to be known as the Fort Fraser Industrial Corporation, with an authorized capital of three million dollars, which has for its object the development of Fort Fraser industrially and the harnessing of large water powers in its near vicinity.

This all goes to show that the foundations have been well laid at Fort Fraser, which is situated in the very center of B. C.'s greatest agricultural district.

A little money invested at this auction sale should bring splendid returns when this new city is opened up to the rest of the world by the completion of the new transcontinental railroad.

The terms of the sale have been made so as to be within reach of every class of purchaser. One-fifth cash and the balance in one, two, three and four years.

Further information can be had by writing Mr. J. J. Miller, 418 Abbott Street, or the Dominion Stock and Bond Corporation, Ltd., Winch Bldg., Vancouver, B.C.

Because a man gets a pickle jar for a present, it does not necessarily follow that he should get "soused."

MORRIS GOVERNMENT RETURNED IN NEWFOUNDLAND

St. John's, Nfld., Oct. 31.—Returns up to tonight indicate that the Morris government has been sustained. Incomplete figures for 19 seats give 13 for the government and six for the Bond party.

One of the surprises is the defeat of the speaker of the assembly, Mr. Warren, by Mr. Grimes, secretary of the Fishermen's Protective Union, which has formed a coalition with the opposition headed by Sir Robert Bond, the former premier.

Grimes, who is registered as the first Socialist in the assembly, had 174 majority in Port de Grade.

In Carbonear, Goodison, government, defeated, Penny by 66 votes.

Harbor Grace elected three government candidates. Messrs. Picotte, Parsons and Young.

The two Bond candidates in Ferryland lost their deposits, Messrs. Cashin and Moore being elected.

Messrs. Woodfield and Kennedy, Morris candidates, were returned to Harbor Main.

The contests in Bay de Verde and St. John's East are close, the opposition probably winning the latter, while the former split. St. John's West, for which Premier Morris sits, is going strongly for the three government candidates. North St. John's will probably go to the opposition, while the east looks like a government victory, though the vote is very close.

The longest aeroplane flight ever attempted was started from near Paris, France, last week by Pierre Daucourt. He was accompanied by another French aviator, Henry Roux, as a passenger. Daucourt departed on the way to Cairo, Egypt, a distance of 3348 miles. Stops are planned at Schaffhausen, Germany; Vienna, Budapest, Belgrade, Bechatest, Varna, on the Black Sea; Constantinople, and at various cities in Asia Minor, including Jerusalem. The flight is to be concluded, by way of Port Said, at the Egyptian capital.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Lloyd George believes that a measure giving the preliminary suffrage to women in the British Isles will become a law within a short time, but not during the present parliament. He said this in reply to questions put to him by a deputation from a number of suffrage societies.

COWBOYS PRANKS

When W. Irving Thomas started his career, he intended it to be scholastic; but at the end of his first year in high school teaching he exchanged the dominie's gown for the sheepskin chaps of the cowpuncher, and went to work for Pat Burns. Among his fellows, he says in November Canada Monthly, was an Irishman named O'Hara, fresh from the ould sod, and unused to prairie ways. The other cowboys promptly took advantage of his verdancy, and entered into an impromptu contest to see who could tell the most bloodcurdling, hair raising yarn about prairie bobgoblins, and night-walking spirits of Indians slain in old tribal wars. One fellow was quite thoroughly convinced that O'Hara had encountered the spirit of an old chief of the Stone Indians, noted for bloody atrocities in the torture of captured enemies, who has been killed while attempting to get water at the spring during a battle with the white men of a wagon train which had camped there when the first settlers came to Alberta. O'Hara was noticeably affected. The cowpunchers observed that he did not go back to get his hat nor to fill his water pails for morning. The prairie which had been to him a vast empty loneliness which inspired him with nothing but the fear that he might get lost in it, now began to be peopled by his imagination with a host of dreadful creatures. As daylight faded into night, the uncertain light transformed moving objects in the distance into veritable confirmation of the worst things he had imagined. O'Hara's experience and the cowboy's fiction to which he eagerly listened, made as marked an impression on the negro teamster as it did on O'Hara.

It was too good an opportunity to miss. The boys took counsel, and found the skeleton of a buffalo, bleached in the sun till it was as white as chalk. They attached the bones to a stake so that when it was driven into the ground the remains of the buffalo looked like the skeleton of a huge man or devil if one took the horns into account.

That evening the cowboys were amusing themselves by hurling at each other whatever came handiest when a boot fell, plunk, into the drinking water; at once a clamor arose for fresh drinking water.

"Go on wid yez," said O'Hara, "ef yez will be after dirtin' the wather yez can drink it dirty." But the cowpunchers, to a man, set up a howl for water and O'Hara had learned that when they were a unit in any demand it paid to concede to their wishes. However, he induced Sam to go with him. In the meantime the skeleton had been set up in the turn in the trail where O'Hara had his former experience with the ghost of the Stony Indian. The eye sockets of the skeleton had been rubbed with matches till they glowed with a cold fire. As O'Hara and the negro turned the bend in the trail, the white, fiery eyed skeleton suddenly confronted them. They dropped the pails and gripped each other in an embrace of terror. They froze to the spot, utterly unable to move till something touched them from behind; as they looked around, a huge dark creature, resembling a man, towered above them, fire and smoke issued from its nostrils, eyes and mouth. They were worse than between the devil and the deep sea, they were between two devils. With a whoop that only a negro can utter, Sam bounded away across the prairie like a coyote, O'Hara doing his best to keep up to him.

When they finally discovered that nothing was following them and sank down on the grass exhausted. In the direction of the camp, they heard the uproarious laughter of the cowpunchers.

British Columbia will this year have exact figures on the extent of land under cultivation and data on agricultural subjects, such as value of crops and products of the agricultural industries. For the first time in the history of the province, the department of agriculture will have a complete statement of what has been accomplished in this line.
