HON. W. J. BOWSER, PREMIER OF B.C., AND HIS COLLEAGUES, VISITS THIS CITY

The Hon. W. J. Bowser, Premier of British Columbia, and party arrived in the city at 5 o'clock on Friday afternoon and were met at the city limits by a dozen automobiles occupied by the executive of the Cumberland, West Cumberland and Bevan Conservative Association and escorted to the Union Hotel, which was gaily decorated for the occasion. The West Cumberland Conservative Band played suitable selections as the Premier and his party approached the Hotel. In the party were the Hon. W. Bowser, Premier of British Columbia, Hon. Lorne Campbell, Minister of Mines, Hon. Thomas Taylor, Minister of Public Works, Hon. Wm. Manson, President of the Executive Council, Michael Manson, M. P. P., Comox District, H. B. Thomson, M. P. P., of Victoria, Ex-Mayor Planta, of Nanaimo, Marsh Gordon and Niel McIntyre, Deputy Commissioner of Fisheries.

A hundred and fifty invited guests were present from Cum-and asked the guests to rise to the toast of "The King," when "God Save the King" was sung by those present. Next was a toast to the "Allies."

Thomas Taylor of Victoria, Minister of Public Works: Friends and Gentlemen: Our chairman has requested me to answer to the Toast of the Allies. The toast is one that would take much more time than we have at our disposal this evening; I think that everyone feels that the Allies are doing their utmost and are working for the benefit of the whole world. If it were not for the Allies what would be the color of the map to-day. The Germans have for a number of years been building up a vast war machine and segregating large armies of trained men; which vast machine and armies they intended to let loose on the world, and in 1914 were turned loose marching on through Belgium and over to the Marne. The Belgians and French checked the onward march. Hundreds of berland, Bevan, Royston, Courtenay Union Bay and other points in the district, and gave the Premier a hearty welcome to Cumberland. The management of the Union Hotel had made elaborate arrangements for the entertainment of the Premier's party, and various Conservative Executives of the district. The spacious dining room was gaily decorated with evergreens, bunting and flags of the Allied Nations. The tables were laden with the best in the land. Prompt at six o'clock the appointed time for dinner Mr. Thomas E. Bate, president of the Cumberland Conservative Association, who acted as chairman for the evening, took his seat at the centre of the table at the head of the dining room with the Honorable W. J. Bowser at his right and Mr. M. Manson, M. P. P. for Comox district at his left. First and second sittings all enjoyed the sumptuous repast prepared by Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Jones, of the Union Hotel.

Dinner over at half past seven Mr. Bate, in his opening remarks paid a tribute to the Premier and his party, pointing out that it was reported that all speakers should be brief owing to another meeting being held at Courtenay, thousands of our Allies have been slain in this great battle. The freedom of the World will be gained through the victory when the Allies win this greatest war in history.

We now grieve the loss of that great and noble man Lord Kitchener who was a great and able soldier and feel that in his loss we have lost a great and mighty man and regret that he could not see the victory of the war.

Ex-Mayor A. E. Planta of Nanaimo replied.

Lorne Campbell, Minister of Mines said in proposing the toast to "British Columbia:"

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen: In proposing this toast it would be well to listen to the leader of the Opposition, (laughter) and dwell extensively upon the resources of the Province.

Ms. M. Manson, in replying for the District to the toast "Guests of the Evening," said: "We have never had the pleasure of such a representative gathering of prominent men in the District on any occasion before. We are not going to talk much politics tonight as this is a get-acquainted meeting. From the way the Liberal party have talked of these men you would think they were something terrible. Here they are, you can see for yourselves that they are not such bad fellows after all. Before the session you were led to believe that these fellows had got away with almost everything in sight and if they would get into Victoria they would lift the lid off, and if you have read the papers you will know what has been said during the last month. Instead of the Government being up against it the Liberal party has been up against it. You will see when the Government reports are gone into that during the last seven years not a single dollar has been misappropriated. We have here Mr. Taylor, Minister of Public Works, who is in the spending department. $350,000 has been spent on the roads, etc. during his term of office, and not one dollar misappropriated.

If the Liberals cannot be trusted with a little by-election, would you like to trust them with the affairs of British Columbia? Some future day before election I will take time to tell you of the good legislation which has been gone into.

Hon. W. J. Bowser, Premier of British Columbia: "Mr. Chairman, ladies and gentlemen, I am pleased with the enthusiastic way we have been received here this evening. I wish to thank Mr. Manson for the good way in which he has carried on this programme. He has a great failing or I might say faculty of bringing us to the Comox District to see the great timber. All along the line we were told of the wonders we should see further on.

I have been several times in Cumberland but not as often as I would like to. I promised my friends that I would try to get through the whole province and give the people a chance to size me up, and I invite criticisms.

We are going to try to give you as far as we can a good clean government. This trip is in no sense of the word a political one. It is to get acquainted with the people and find out their needs."

It was his desire to get out among the people and ascertain their requirements and criticism and touched on the reconstruction of the Cabinet to a very limited extent. The Premier did not give a political address, it was an after dinner speech only, and received rounds of applause upon rising and taking his seat.

Marsh Gordon proposed a toast to the Conservative party and H. B. Thompson replied.

Mr. F. J. Dalby moved a vote of thanks to the Premier and his party which was given with three rousing cheers and a tiger that could be heard several blocks away. Premier Bowser appreciated the kindness shown towards him and his party.

The party left at nine o'clock to attend the Courtenay Conservative smoker.

LOCALS

J. R. Lockard, General Superintendent of the Canadian Collieries, Dunsmuir, Ltd., returned on Friday morning from a visit to Ladysmith and Victoria.

A Tea and small Sale of Work will be held in Mrs. D. Picket's garden on Tuesday, June 27th., from 3.30 to 6 p. m., in aid of the repairs to Holy Trinity Church roof. Tea tickets 15c. Special attractions, strawberries and cream, candies, icecream.

The preacher at the Masonic Lodge service on Whitsunday, June 11th., at 7 p. m. at Holy Trinity Church, will be the Ven. A. H. Collision, M. A. Archdeacon of Quatsino.

A Congregational Social will be held in the Methodist Church on Monday evening, June 12th. Anyone wishing to give our Pastor a hearty greeting and God-speed during his second year amongst us will be welcome.

Dominion Day will be celebrated at Union Bay on the 1st. of July as usual. Collecting and Sports committees are appointed. The sports at the Town, on the water front are expected to be on a larger scale than ever this year. Particulars later.

The Military Band of the 102nd, Battalion visited Cumberland on Thursday evening and held a Band Concert and Dance in the Ilo Ilo Theatre. As usual there was a good crowd at the dance.

D. M. Morrison, late manager of the local branch of the Royal Bank of Canada, and now occupying a similar position at Vancouver was a visitor to this city on Sunday, arriving by the Australian liner S. S. Makura and remained in town while the steamer replenished her bunkers at Union Bay.

GERMANS ADMIT MORE LOSSES IN NAVAL BATTLE

London, June 7—The Copenhagen correspondent of the Daily Mail has learned from Kiel that the first German unofficial estimate of the German losses in the battle of Jutland gives the number of men killed at 800, of wounded at 1,400 and the missing at 4,600.

There is great significance in the German unofficial estimate reported in the above dispatch. The German admiralty admitted only the dreadnought Westfalen, the complement of which was 963; the Pommern, the complement of which was 729; the new light cruiser Wiesbaden, the complement of which must have been about 370; the cruiser Fraunlob, the complement of which would be about 480. Thus the total complement of the ships admitted by the German admiralty is only 3,176.

But it is apparent from the statements of the British admiralty has been concealing the loss of certain large ships and a submarine. British officers have stated that the German battlecruiser Lutzow, the complement of which was about 1,100; the German battlecruiser Hindenburg, the complement of which must have been about 1,100 were sunk. Adding these numbers and 30 for the crew of a submarine, to the total complements of the ships admitted by the Germans as sunk, the total is 6,506.

The German unofficial estimate is 6,800, but the total of the ships admitted by Berlin to have been sunk is only 3,176, and the difference is more than equal to the total of the complements of three battle-cruisers. There is confirmation in this of the statements made by the British that the British fleet sank three of the German battlecruisers.

If one allows a margin of 400 German sailors rescued after their ships had gone down and not included in the unofficial estimate as killed, wounded or missing, the total German casualties would stand at 7,200.

The highest official estimates of the British losses have not run more than 6,000.

London, June 7.—A dispatch received here from Copenhagen says that not a single private message has been received there from Germany concerning the naval battle.

The newspaper correspondents in Germany, the dispatch says, evidently are not allowed to deal with the subject, for only German admiralty announcements and two Wolff messages, containing nothing new, were received there yesterday.

The above confirms the statements made by the British that the German admiralty is concealing the sinking of several German battle-cruisers in the battle of Jutland. Undoubtedly there would have been many private messages sent to Copenhagen about the sea fight if the censorship had not been exerted to the full. On events of infinitely less importance than the naval battle there have been many dispatches sent from points in Germany to the Danish capital during past months, and in this way the outside world has learned much of what has been going on in Germany that otherwise would have been hidden.

The message from Copenhagen explains why only the statements of the German admiralty and statements sent through its news agencies have reached the outside world.

The Wolff news agency is a semi-official mouthpiece of the German government.

BRITAIN MOURNS HER LOSS

But a Grim Imperturbable Resolution is Underlying Sentiment in Every British Heart.

London, June 7—Britain has never showed herself to better advantage than under the heavy blow of yesterday. A grim, imperturbable resolution is the burden of every leading article and every speech. The Times exactly expresses the public sentiment when lamenting Earl Kitchener's death. It says:

The man to whom we owe these new armies had nothing left to do in life which could steel them for the conflict so surely as his soldiers' death.

Under Gen. Sir William Robertson's firm guidance the work of war goes on as before.

Lord Milner is suggested in some circles as the new war secretary, but if a civilian be chosen it more probably will be Mr. Lloyd George. The most likely choice is a soldier like Gen. Sir William Robertson or Field Marshal French.

The suggestion that the cruiser Hampshire was torpedoed leads the Daily Mail to lead a new crusade for the placing behind barbed wire of the 10,000 or 15,000 uninterned German subjects, even though they have been naturalized.

Earl Kitchener recently said to a friend: "One more year and it will be over." Also, "If only our people would stick together, if we would fight only Germans and not one another, we would soon win through."

London, June 7—The passing of Field Marshall Earl Kitchener resembles the passing of a great king. All controversy and criticism are dead and every section of the nation joins in a common tribute to the man whose like we shall never see again.

London was stupefied yesterday and affected as I have never seen it affected before by any piece of news. Day laborers, shop girls, statesmen, generals, people of every class, spoke and acted as though robbed of their nearest kin.

The loss of Kitchener will be felt mainly on the political, international and diplomatic sides of the war. The actual direction of the fighting army recently has been controlled by Gen. Sir Wm. Robertson.

The choice of a new war secretary already is being discussed.

The liberals in town this morning are wondering where all the conservatives came from that attended the Union Hotel gathering yesterday afternoon.

If you can ride a bicycle and talk intelligently about a Motor to drive it, I can offer you a means of making money. Write Fred A. Caton, 611 View St., Victoria, B.C.

A Red Cross Fete will be held on Mrs. J. R. Lockord's grounds on Tuesday, June 20th., under the auspices of the Womens' Patriotic Society, of Cumberland. Tea will be served in the afternoon, ice cream etc. The West Cumberland Conservative Band will be in attendance during the afternoon. It is understood that the Girl Guides, dressed in the colors of the Allied Nations, will wait on tables. The day will finish up with a Red Cross dance in the Ilo Ilo Dance Hall in the evening. ### WHEAT AND THE WAR.

One of the most comprehensive articles in the Agricultural War Book of 1916 deals with the subject of "Wheat and the War." It is written by Mr. T. K. Doherty, L. L. B., commissioner of the International Agricultural Institute. The author traces the course of events, as regards the wheat market, in the momentous years of 1913, 1914 and 1915, the first named sharing with the last two years some of their importance, although preceding the war, by reason of the decline of prices from those of 1912. In 1914-15 prices of wheat per bushel jumped from $1.05 to $1.61. In this connection Mr. Doherty asks readers to examine a table giving quotations of prices since the year 1800. In 1812 the figures reached their zenith, Britain having wars with France and the United States on her hands. Wheat was then $3.86 a bushel, or more than three times the standing of today. During the first quarter of the nineteenth century the lowest price was $1.37 This was in 1822. In the second quarter, the lowest figure was reached in 1835, when wheat stood at $1.35. In the third quarter prices ranged from $1.17 in 1851 to $2.27 in 1855, fluctuating after that from $1.22 in 1864 to $1.95 in 1867 and down to $1.37 in 1875. In 1877 the price was $1.75. In 1878 the quotation was $1.40. A period of steadiness followed until 1883, when there was a drop to $1.25. The decline continued, the even dollar being reached in the following year. Then, for the first time in the period covered in the table, below that figure was reached, 94c. being the quotation. The lowest point, namely 68c., was touched in 1894. Fourteen years elapsed before a dollar was again exceeded. In 1909 the highest quotation stood at $1.13. Mr. Doherty briefly outlines the cause for these fluctuations, and proceeds to deal with the situation arising from the supply and demand in the last three years. He also deals with the output of other crops during these years, referring to the best known authorities in support of his details and deductions. He goes largely into the requirements and productions of the world in wheat, giving tables showing the yield in 32 countries of wheat and 22 of oats. In his conclusion he also suggests that every aspect of the wheat situation appears to indicate the improbability of a return to the large average prices of 1910-11-12, and that following the declaration of peace there will be a greatly increased demand. His final words are "Economic interests unite, therefore, with patriotic duty in stimulating the agriculturists of Canada to extraordinary productive efforts during the forthcoming season." As an appendix a description is given of marketing conditions in Australia. The article deserves and should attract wide attention. The War Book can be had by ad-

THE PUT-IT-OFFS.

My Friend, have you heard of the town of Yawn, On the Banks of the River Slow, Where Blooms the Wait-awhile flower fair, Where the Sometime-or-other scents the air, And the soft Go-easys grow? It lies in the Valley of What's-the-use, In the Province of Let-'er-slide; That tired feeling is native there It's the home of the listless I-don't care, Where the Put-it-offs abide, The Put-it-offs smile when asked to work, And say they will do it to-morrow And so they delay, from day unto day, Till death cycles up and takes them away, And there families starve, beg or borrow.

Famous "Whens"

When her papah has barred you out, Don't hang yourself before their door For father very plainly said, "Don't hang around here anymore."

Either Acceptable

Dick heard of Harry's engagement and went round to congratulate him. "Well, old boy," cried Dick, as he grasped his friend's hand, "my congratulations; is it true that you are engaged to one of the pretty Robbins twins?"

"Yes," replied Harry heartily. "I am happy to say it is."

"But," inquired Dick, "how do you ever tell them apart?"

"I don't try to," was the reply.

Si Small

Regrets Too Late

They had had a quarrel. Wifey was in tears and hubby looked gloom. "Oh, dear! Oh, dear!" moaned wifey. "I wish I'd taken poor mother's advice, and never married you!" The man swung round on her quickly.

"Did your mother try to stop you marrying me?" he demanded.

Wifey nodded violently.

A look of deep remorse crossed hubby's face.

"Great Scott!" he cried in broken tones. "How I wronged that woman!"

Nurse and Patient

Patient (to pretty nurse): "Will you be my wife when I recover?"

Pretty Nurse: "Certainly."

Patient: "Then, you love me?"

Pretty Nurse: "Oh, no! That's merely a part of my treatment. I must keep my patients cheerful. I promised this morning to run away with a married man who had lost both his legs."

Leading Up To It

Travers: "I want to ask you a question. Suppose that five years from now I should be walking the streets, clothed literally in rags, wearing a battered old hat and shoes full of holes, would you think enough of me then to take me by the hand, buy me a new outfit, give me a bath, put five dollars in my hand, and send me away with your blessing?"

Dasher: "Why, of course I would. How absurd!"

Travers: "Then bring the scene a little nearer. Suppose that in four years from now you should meet me as I have described myself, with this exception—that I had a good hat. Would you still do the square thing?"

Dasher: "Why, certainly! What?"

Travers: "Make it still nearer. Call it three years and say I didn't need a bath. Throw off the blessing and make it two years."

Dasher (facetiously): "Make it a year, with a good pair of shoes, eh? Substitute a new suit and—a great light dawning on him—"oh—"

Travers: "And, if you are a man of your word, let me have five dollars."

Knickers: "So he said I was a polished gentleman?"

Trousers: "Oh, no. He said you were a slippery fellow!"

Not Satan's Idea

A certain little girl was discovered by her mother engaged in a spirited encounter with a small friend, who had got considerably worried in the engagement.

"Don't you know, dear," said the mother, "that it is very wicked to behave so? It was Satan that put it into your head to pull Elsie's hair."

"Well, perhaps it was," the child admitted, "but kicking her shins was entirely my own idea."

"Fast"—and Furious!

"Now, who can tell me how to make a slow horse fast?"

"I can, teacher. Starve him!"

Nature's Fault

Flannigan was ill. The machinery of his body that up to now, had run so smoothly, seemed to have got out of hand.

Flannigan's wife was deeply troubled. And no wonder, for her spouse's temper was not improved by the state of his health.

"It's the doctor you ought to be seen!" said she.

"Doctor, is it?" said Flannigan, in contempt. "Is it yourself, Mary, that's tellin' your man to go to one of them murderin' chaps to be cut about and all?"

But the pains got worse, and at last, though reluctantly, Flannigan rang the doctor's bell one morning.

"Put your tongue out, please," requested the medico.

Flannigan poked out the tip of his tongue.

"Put it right out, if you don't mind!"

"How can I put it right out, doctor, fear? Isn't it myself that is fixed to the other end of it?"

A Long Tramp

Mr. Binks: "My good man, however did you become a tramp?"

Wearly Walter: "Well, yer see, it's like this: Me doctor ordered me to take long walks after me meals, an' blowed if I ain't been a walking after them ever since."

Rubbing It In

"Well, did he pay you?" asked the wife of a dentist who had been to collect a bill for a full set of false teeth that he had made for a man almost a year before.

"Pay me?" growled the dentist. "Not only did he refuse to pay me, but he actually had the effrontery to gnash at me—with my teeth!"
