Cumberland Still League Leaders

With Changed Line-Up League Leaders Played Good Game, Winning By Three Goals.

VICTORIA.—Stung by their rather unexpected reverse at the hands of the Metropolis seniors, the Cumberland soccer players fielded a changed line-up Saturday afternoon, when they defeated the redoubtable Victoria Wests by 3 goals to nil. The Up-Islanders retained their pretty combination, but they sent some men on the forward line who could shoot—in great contrast to Friday's game—and the score shows the result of their strategy, says the Colonist. At that, the Wests lost two almost certain goals when their outside left twice missed completely, when all he had to do was to trap the ball. Then Archie Muir missed a penalty kick in the second half, sending the ball wide of the goal, and the second score made by Cumberland through a surprising miss by Shandley, who failed to field a ground shot.

However, the victory, which keeps Cumberland well up in the Vancouver Island League, was a well-deserved one, and the visitors played a far superior game to the Wests, their combination being splendid, their forwards aggressive, and dangerous shots. On the contrary, although the Wests' defence was good, their forwards, with one exception, gave a very poor display.

Wests on Defensive.

The Wests kicked off against the sun, and they were almost immediately on the defensive, the neat combination of the Up-Islanders apparently bewildering them, and although they broke away once, the visitors came right back, and after a particularly fierce rush, Horne, the inside left, got close in and scored with a swift shot, five minutes after the start. This success was greeted with cheers from a strong contingent of Cumberland supporters, and the Northerners kept up their pressure, Shandley being called upon to make two saves in quick succession. The Wests then began to liven up a little, and J. Sherratt crossed nicely, Baker getting his head under the ball, but Walker made a brilliant save. The Wests then secured the first corner of the match, but the sphere was cleared. J. Sherratt afterwards sent a beautiful pass right to Mulcahy's feet, close to the goal, but, to the

Badminton Results

The tournament promoted by the Cumberland Badminton Club is coming on apace. The ladies' singles have been completed, and also some of the gent's singles. In the ladies' singles the semi-final game between Mrs. J. Spicer and Miss V. Campbell proved to be a regular humdinger, both contestants being apparently played out at the finish. Mrs. Spicer eventually won out by a score of 15-11, thus passing into the final stage, meeting Mrs. W. A. Owen and winning by a score of 15-4.

The scores by rounds: Mrs. Clinton beat Miss Geoghagen, 15-3; Miss Weldon beat Mrs. Cameron, 15-5; Miss Campbell beat Mrs. Stacey, 15-love; Mrs. Spicer beat Mrs. Leversedge, 15-2; Mrs. Owen beat Mrs. Scott, 15-6.

In the next round Miss Weldon beat Mrs. Clinton, 15-3; Mrs. Owen beat Miss Weldon, 15-13; Mrs. Spicer beat Miss Campbell, 15-11. Final, Mrs. Spicer beat Mrs. Owen, 15-4.

The tournament will be continued tonight, Saturday, and the courts will bebe open from 5.30 to 10 o'clock only. Members who have not played their handicap game are asked to make an effort to be at the courts Saturday night. It is hoped to finish the tournament early as possible next week.

WORKERS BUSY CLEARING LOTS FOR BUILDING

The vacant lots opposite the Islander office present a busy aspect these days. Men are busy clearing the lots of the huge stumps preparatory to building commencing. Judging by the size of stumps being extracted from the ground, Cumberland must have been the home of some monster monarchs of the forest in years long gone by.

On one of the lots Messrs. Kierstead & Fouracre will erect a big garage, and the other two lots are being cleared for buildings to be erected for Mr. E. W. Bickle.

At the G. W. V. A. Hall work is going on in connection with the erection of the Memorial Arch.

Grocery Business Changes Hands

Burns & Brown Take Over Old Established Business From Simon Leiser & Co. Ltd.

On Monday, April 4, the oldest-established business in the city will change hands. The firm of Simon Leiser & Co. Ltd., who have been pioneers in B. C., will be transferred to Messrs. Burns & Brown, two of their old employees, who have been in their service for many years.

The firm of Simon Leiser & Co. is a household word in Cumberland, and has grown up with the place practically since its inception, has shared its ups and downs, and weathered all kinds of times during that period. About a year ago the family interests of the Simon Leiser Co. bought out all the interests of the shareholders, and at the same time made up their minds to sell all the different branches which they had in various localities, so as to be able to give their undivided attention to the wholesale end of their business.

In keeping with their policy of appreciation of services rendered, about a year ago they sold the Dry Goods end of the business to Mr. Sutherland, who had been in their service for thirteen years, and now as a completion of the total sale of their interests in Cumberland they are selling the Grocery Department to their two employees.

On the decision of the firm to sell out their various branches, they at once placed themselves in touch with their various managers in the branch stores and told them they would have the first chance of the business in the event of their desiring to buy. So one branch after another has been sold to their own employees, who have availed themselves of the opportunity to purchase a well established business.

Mr. Jas. Burns, who comes from Bevan, has been in charge out there for several years, and previous to that time was manager of their Grocery Department in Ladysmith for seven or eight years, while Mr. Mat. Brown has been in the Cumberland Branch for quite a number of years. No doubt when the energies of Mr. Burns and Mr. Brown are joined it should go a long way to build up a still larger business.

Proceedings Of City Council

"Cut-Out" Noises By Motor Cars to Be Stopped—Against Telephone Increases.

The regular meeting of the City Council was held on Tuesday evening, His Worship Mayor MacDonald occupying the chair, and Ald. Parnham, Pickard, Brown, Bannerman and Thomson being also present.

The request of the Board of Trade to be allowed to hold their meeting in the City Hall was agreed to.

Re Telephone Co. Application for Increased Charges.

A communication was received from the Union of B. C. Municipalities asking the Council for support in their fight against the application of the B. C. Telephone Co. to increased rates. After considerable discussion it was decided to inform the solicitor for the Union that Cumberland is strongly against the increased rates, but owing to the present financial condition can not pay money to fight the case.

The Barrett Co. of Vancouver, who supplied the tarvia for Dunsmuir Avenue, wrote asking for information about the same. The City Clerk was instructed to supply the needed information.

A communication was received from the Fraternity Hall Co. asking that permisison be given to connect with a sewer. The Board of Works was instructed to take up the matter with the committee representing the company.

Owners of Noisy Motor Cars to Be Proceeded Against.

Ald. Thomson referred to the noise made by motor cars and trucks when using the cut-out, also to cars racing through city streets. These are violations of the Motor Act, and the Mayor intends to put a stop to the nuisance.

Bills and Accounts.

The following bills and accounts were read and referred to the Finance Committee for approval before being paid:

T. E. Bate, supplies	$ 4.55
Willard, supplies	9.06
Electric Light Co.—Supplies	19.15
Light	51.55
Water	.50
Cumberland Motor Works—
Repairs	5.35
Tires	152.10
Tubes	17.60
Labor	55.25
Fire Insurance on Fire Truck	42.95

Ald. Bannerman, reporting for the Board of Works, drew attention to the unsatisfactory condition of the sanitary arrangements at the city hall.

He also reported that the dangerous piece of sidewalk at rear of the Methodist Church had been fenced, and the danger was now done away with.

Also that the sewer pipe at rear of Mr. Stewart's place needed fixing.

Ald. Parnham objected to the Fire Department purchasing large items without the matter being first referred to the Fire Wardens. A resolution to this effect was carried and ordered sent to the Fire Department.

The Board of Works was instructed to inspect the septic tank at the Waverley Hotel to see if it is suitable for its purpose.

The Board of Works was authorized to engage another man to help the city teamster in clearing up the town.

No tenders were received for the raising of the sidewalks on Dunsmuir Avenue, though it was said that one contractor was figuring on the work.

Ald. Brown, reporting for the Fire Wardens, said he had been informed that monies had been collected in No. 5 Town for fire hose without authority, and he had ordered the matter stopped, as it savored of getting money under false pretences. He suggested that the Fire Chief be notified that the question of getting hose, etc., must first come before the council.

This matter is to be taken up with the Fire Department and investigated.

Memorial Arch.

Ald. Brown reported that the sum of $584 had been subscribed towards the memorial arch at the G. W. V. A. hall, with some returns yet to come in. Together with the $200 held by the city for this purpose, it is anticipated that about $900 will be raised.

Hydrant for No. 1 Town.

In order to give better fire protection to No. 1 Japanese Town, on motion of Ald. Parnham it was decided to install a fire hose connection with the water main in that vicinity.

Tarvia Collections.

The City Clerk reported that the sum of $457 was outstanding on the collections for tarvia. The Council decided to instruct the Chief of Police to call on the people who have not paid. It is intended to put another coat of tarvia on the avenue in the near future.

Children's Social Enjoyable Affair

Soldiers' Kiddies Had Time of Their Lives at Easter Monday Entertainment.

What proved to be one of the happiest and merriest of parties ever held in Cumberland took place at the G. W. V. A. Memorial Hall on Easter Monday afternoon, when the Women's Auxiliary entertained about 100 children of returned men. The hall and tables were gaily decorated and the tables loaded with good things. Judging by the happy, smiling faces of the children it was the time of their young lives. Fruit was suppleid in abundance, and Easter eggs, all artistically colored, were to be had in plenty. Small fancy baskets were filled with a high-grade of candy and handed to the children. After the spread the rooms were cleared and a number of games and guessing competitions indulged in, also a walking contest and prize waltzes. The winners in the prize waltzes were Kathleen Brown and Marjorie Brown, and for the waltz for older children Connie Bird and Hazel Marsh were successful.

The Women's Auxiliary is to be congratulated on the thoroughness with which the party had been organized, everything going off splendiddly. They were fully compensated for their trouble by the happy children around them. After a very strenuous afternoon the children went home very tired but supremely happy.

Dance for Adults in Evening.

The festivities continued during the evening and well into midnight, but only for the grown-ups, dancing being indulged in until even the grown-ups were dead tired.

Songs were also rendered by Miss Bird, Mr. Barton and Mr. and Mrs. Waddington.

Auxiliary Thanks Public.

The Women's Auxiliary of the G. W. V. A. wish to thank the public for their generous gifts of supplies for the children's social on Monday.

Boys Decide To Suspend Club

Boys Decide to Confine All Their Energies to Studying for Coming Examinations.

The temporary suspension of the Cumberland High School Club, which took place last Friday, was put into effect by the boys themselves. While the activities of the boys in the club and sport were not in excess, nor beyond that indulged in in the usual run of clubs of this nature, it was deemed expedient that the entire efforts of the boys should be devoted to the pursuit of their studies. The examinations will be upon them before they are aware of it, and it was thought advisable to keep their education before them as their main consideration. While naturally the boys regretted this movement, they were sportsmen enough and sufficiently foresighted to see that it was to their advantage to discontinue for the present their club life.

The boys are a fine type of young manhood and are bright and alert, and it is a pleasure to come into contact with them. Every encouragement should be given the boys of Cumberland to get an education, and the value of the same should be continually brought home to them.

While they have not the environment around them that show the advantages of education, those who have been further afield and seen for themselves the disadvantage of having no education beyond the rudiments, should be anxious that their children stay in school.

The high school boys all realize and appreciate the sterling qualities of manhood and the intellectual abilities of Mr. Wood, their principal. This has been a great factor in their willingness to more or less drop all sport and respond with all their ability to the principal's request for closer application to study. They realize the necessity of this to themselves and the justice of it to Mr. Wood, and are acting accordingly. They have never failed to respond to any request on the part of the men behind the club and if they fall down this time it will be the first occasion. Now boys, get down to business—dig in and make good, and no one will be more pleased with the results than the men in whose hearts you have all found a place, and who will be ever interested in your welfare.

PROPOSED SIX-HOUR DAY FOR MINERS DEFEATED

VICTORIA.—By an almost unanimous vote the Legislature on Tuesday turned down the amendment to the Coal Mines Regulation Act proposed by Thomas Uphill, Labor member for Fernie, that the present eight-hour day from bank to bank in coal mines should be reduced to six. The member claimed the production would not be affected, many idle miners would be given work and the health of the miners conserved.

Opposing, Hon. Wm. Sloan, Minister of Mines, said under the present eight-hour day, miners are actually working but six hours and that to adopt the amendment would result in practically the closing of the coal mines of the Province in view of the fact that in competing territory of Alberta and Washington, longer hours are in effect. Of 5,495,000 tons of coal mined in B. C. in the past four years, 3,901,000 had been sent to the United States, the local market not being sufficient to absorb the production.

Development of Utah mines had resulted in the San Francisco market, once commanded by the Vancouver Island product, being practically lost. In Uphill's amendment to amend the act to provide that miners may choose their mine committee not from their own number, as at present required, but from outside sources, was also defeated.

VANCOUVER BEAT OTTAWA BY 3 TO 2

On Thursday night the Vancouver hockey team scored their second win in the series being decided in the Terminal City, making the score two wins for Vancouver and two wins for the Ottawas. The deciding game is schedude for Monday.

The game is said to have been the roughest of the season, no less than 13 penalties being recorded, of which Vancouver had eight.

Skinner, the Vancouver star, was back in the game and scored two of the winning goals.

Masonic Ball Event of Season

Two Hundred and Fifty People Attended Annual Ball of Cumberland Lodge

Decorated with the colors and emblems of the fraternity, the Ilo-Ilo Dance Hall presented a beautiful sight on Monday last when the annual ball given by Cumberland Lodge No. 26 was held.

Under the artistic designing of Bro. W. A. Owen the hall had been transformed into an Ionic court, all the posts being treated with Ionic capitals, with pale blue flutings on the dark blue posts, the four corners of the orchestra stand being similar. Masonic emblems, etc., the most striking of which were the large emblem of electrically-lighted square and compasses and the five-pointed star, were liberally displayed about the hall.

Under the central decorations on the ceiling a stand had been erected for the orchestra, which proved to be a decided improvement in that the music was heard equally in all parts of the hall.

About two hundred and fifty people were present, who all voted it a most successful and enjoyable ball. Dancing was kept up until three a.m.

Supper An Innovation.

An innovation in the serving of supper was introduced, overcoming the difficult problem of serving refreshments to a large assembly in the absence of a banqueting hall. This consisted in the supper being done up in individual boxes, on which were printed Masonic emblems, the boxes being tied with blue ribbon. Enclosed were sandwiches and cakes of dainty kinds. These boxes were prepared by Mr. J. Halliday. The packages, together with the cups and saucers, were distributed by means of a large table mounted on rubber wheels, and all those present were served in a very few minutes. This met with all-round commendation. The committee is to be congratulated on so nicely overcoming the difficult problem.

Another pleasing feature was the abundant supplies of malted milk for the dancers during the evening.

CITIZENS INVITED TO BIRTHDAY DANCE

SILVER TEA PROCEEDS HELP ORGAN FUND

As a result of the "silver tea" in the afternoon and bridge party in the evening, given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Walton on Wednesday last, the sum of $41.25 was added to the organ fund of Holy Trinity Church.

At the tea in the afternoon there was a large attendance and a very enjoyable time was spent. The singers were Mrs. McAdam, Mrs. R. P. Christie, Mrs. Colin Campbell and Mrs. J. Pinfold.

The ladies assisting Mrs. Walton in serving tea were Mrs. Mumford, Mrs. Leversedge, Mrs. F. Pickard and Mrs. Pinfold. Tea was handed round by the little Misses Rhoda Walton and Madge Bryan.

Bridge Party in Evening.

In the evening a very pleasant bridge party took place when some forty ladies and gentlemen attended. For getting the highest number of points in the ladies' division, Mrs. G. W. Clintin received first prize, Mrs. McMillan getting the consolation. Mr. J. Cameron secured the first prize in the men's section and Mr. Mumford the consolation.

Income Tax Returns Due End of April

25 Per Cent. of Tax to Be Remitted With Returns—Penalties for Non-Fulfilment.

Under the Dominion Income Tax all unmarried persons whose gross incomes exceed $1000, and all married persons whose gross incomes exceed $2000, are required to file returns.

In the case of partnerships each individual partner should file a return showing his share of the partnership, together with any other income he may be personally in receipt of. Partnerships are not assessed as such—it is the individual partner who pays the tax.

Incorporated companies whose gross incomes exceed $2000 are required to file returns.

The following returns are required to be filed on or before the 31st of March, and a penalty for failure to file them by that date is $10 a day, that is:

Form T3.—Return of income required from trustees, executors, administrators, etc.

Form T4.—Return of employers showing salaries, wages, commissions, fees, bonuses and all other remuneration of directors, officials, agents, etc., who received $500 during the year or who are paid at the rate equal to $1000 per annum.

Form T4B.—Return of amounts paid to operators of threshing and tractor outfits.

Form T4C.—Return required from all persons purchasing agricultural products, railway ties, pulpwood, lumber, fish, furs and other commodities direct from the producer.

Form T5.—Return of dividends paid out by corporations during the calendar year.

Form T5C.—Return required from persons paying interest on bonds, notes, mortgages, loans, etc.

Form T5D.—Return of interest, dividends and rents received by financial and real estate agents, brokers and other persons on behalf of clients.

In addition to the above forms which are required for supplying information to the department, individuals other than farmers and ranchers, that is persons receiving salary, wages, persons in business (whether individually or in partnership), and retired persons.

Employees should obtain the exact amount of salary or wages earned during the calendar year 1920 from their employers in order that the income reported by them may agree with the amount reported to the Tax Department by their employers.

Form E1A.—Return of farmers and ranchers only. Farmers and ranchers who dispose of their produce through associations, etc., should obtain particulars of the amount reported by the association to the Tax Department as having been purchased during the calendar year 1920. Returns must be filed for the calendar year in all cases, not the period over which the crop was sold.

Form T2.—Return of corporations and joint stock companies.

These returns are to be filed on or before the 30th of April, and every person who fails to make a return within the time prescribed shall be subject to a penalty of 25 per cent. of the tax.

Under the 1920 amendment to the Act, penalties are imposed for underestimating the correct income. The Act reads: "If the income omitted exceeds 10 per cent. of the correct income, but is under 20 per cent., such person shall pay an additional amount equal to one-half of the deficiency. If the deficiency amounts to 20 per cent. or more of the correct income such person shall pay an additional amount equal to the amount of the deficiency." This amendment will be strictly enforced and persons not reporting all their income will be liable to penalties as stated. These penalties will be added to the assessment and collected in the same manner as the tax is collected.

Payment of Tax.

It should also be noted that under the 1920 amendment to the Act, at least 25 per cent. of the tax payable must be remitted with the return—the balance being payable in three further equal instalments, due 30th June, 31st August and 31st October, together with interest at 6 per cent. upon each instalment. If a taxpayer pays an instalment of less than 25 per cent of the tax or fails to make any payment at the time of filing returns, or at the time the instalment is due, he shall pay in addition to all other penalties a penalty of $5 or one-quarter of the tax unpaid, whichever is the greater. It is suggested, therefore, that taxpayers should pay one-half of their tax to allow margin for any error in statement or calculation.

The department is issuing a booklet which will be available for distribution, together with the new forms, about the first week of this month. These forms should be obtained from the Tax Office or from any Post Office.

EMPIRE CENSUS TO BE TAKEN ON APRIL 24

For First Time in History the Census of British Empire to Be Taken on Same Day.

LONDON.—As midnight booms out from Big Ben, in the heart of the capital, on April 24, every man, woman and child within the British Empire will be counted. For the first time in history the whole of the Empire will take a census on the same day. With one-third of the world's population to be numbered, it will undoubtedly be the biggest census of all time.

Special plans have been made to get uniformity in the statistical information to be collected, but the enumeration will be carried out separately by the different governments concerned. Even in the British Isles, Scotland and Ireland will have their own censuses.

When a census was last taken, ten years ago, the suffragettes, in many cases, stayed out all night to evade the count, and others refused to fill out the forms. With the vote now granted, all women will do their duty as responsible citizens, but in Ireland the Sinn Feiners threaten a boycott. How far they will succeed in getting counted out remains to be seen.

Task Declared Gigantic.

It is a gigantic task to number any people. How big it is in this case may be seen from a few facts about the census of England and Wales, which represents one-tenth of the Empire's population.

It means a cost of $2,500,000, about twice that of ten years ago. It demands the distribution and collection of 11,000,000 householders' forms, the preparation of 150,000 special forms in Welsh, and the issue of an explanatory pamphlet in Yiddish.

More than 38,000 enumerators will be engaged for a week, and 2000 registers will supervise their work. Each enumerator will be responsible for 200 to 300 families.

In the last census the preparation of the tabulated results was equal to the sorting of 344,278,000 and the counting of 147,950,000 cards. There will be about 400 people engaged for two years on compiling the complete returns.

The population of England and Wales has been estimated at 36,000,000. When it was first counted in 1801, the total figure for Great Britain was 10,942,646. The cost is about 4 cents a head, as compared with 20 cents in America. The last British census cost £5 8 shillings 8 pence—or about $27—per thousand population. The Netherlands spent roughly $35, Norway $41, and Austria $28.75. So that the British census is probably the cheapest in the world. The Irish, counting in 1911, cost $95,000. Today's estimate is $450,000.

New Zealand Gives Forecast.

In New Zealand the government statisticians give an advance forecast of the official reckoning. In 1911 they were only 1707 out, in a population of over one million. A census has been taken for the last 80 years. The first was not without its thrill. In 1842, the actual figures for Nelson were unobtainable "as the resident magistrate was killed by the Maoris." It is quite possible that the taking of the Irish census may be attended with similar tragedies.

PIGS VERSUS SNAKES

Turn some pigs loose in a swamp infested with rattle snakes and watch the fun. F. V. Williams did not do exactly that but he tells in April "Rod and Gun in Canada" what happens when swine meet serpents. Mr. Williams tells of the snakes found in the vicinity of Tobermory on the Bruce Peninsula in Ontario, and what happened to them when some pigs were turned loose to slay and slaughter. "A Happy Hunting Ground" is the title of the leading story in this month's issue of Canada's national sportsmen's monthly. This article tells of the thrilling experiences of hunting bears in British Columbia. In addition to these stories and articles there are nine others that will delight the heart of the nature lover. The Guns and Ammunition department and the editorial comment on the gun permit law will take the attention of the gun "crank" while Robert Page Lincoln and Geo. Goodwin take care of the anglers and dog men, respectively. Rod and Gun in Canada is published monthly at Woodstock, Ont., by W. J. Taylor, Limited.

MALE BIRTHS PREDOMINATE.

The excess of male births in Great Britain in 1919 was considerably larger than in any previous year since the start of registration in 1838. The higher the cost of living goes, the greater the number of boy babies born is the remarkable fact established by the annual reports of the Registrar-General.

SPRING FOREST FIRES

One of the most dangerous seasons of the year in regard to forest fires is now approaching and it behoves all who go into the forst on any business to be careful with fire. When the snow leaves the forest, last year's leaves, grass and twigs are left as dry as tinder, and a lighted match or cigarette stub thrown down carelessly falls into material as inflammable as a barrel of shavings. After the spring rains come on and new grass and new foliage starts the danger is greatly reduced. People do not realize that just at the close of winter, through which there is scarcely any danger from fire in the woods, comes on the most dangerous season. Care by all who go into the woods at this time means a great reduction in the fire hazard.

MADE IN B. C.

Nothing in the way of explanation is required to emphasize the importance of the "Made in B. C." campaign which is now being conducted throughout the province. Spasmodic attempts have been made from time to time to interest British Columbians in the industrial possibilities of their own part of the Dominion. It has been pointed out on numerous occasions that if each household would take stock of the various commodities that are manufactured between the Pacific Coast and the Rocky Mountains they would realize what large quantities of the imported product might be done without. It would be patent to them that if a more liberal patronage were extended to the locally manufactured article the payroll would be increased by millions of dollars each year, and unemployment would be almost unknown. But there is a tendency in human nature to make the grass in the next door neighbor's garden appear a great deal greener than it is.

Absence of organized effort to counteract this tendency has been very largely responsible for its existence. On that account the campaign which is now well under way should bring about a new sense of obligation in the mind of every British Columbian and produce the desired results. At the same time, however, this imposes upon local manufacturers just as pressing an obligation to give good value and service at reasonable prices.

THE SPIRIT OF HERO-WORSHIP

In the course of an address, remarkable for its forceful appeal, delivered at a meeting of the Gyro Club in Vancouver the other day, Lieut. Gordon B. Jackson, secretary of the Navy League of Canada, referred to the recent visit of the Canadian fleet, and remarked that it was not out of character with the thoughts that still remained in the minds of Vancouver citizens, particularly of the young men, to hold a discussion on matters naval, and in that connection to consider the life and actions of that idol of the fleet, Admiral Nelson, in whose shadow the present British Navy still lives and moves.

Lieut. Jackson dwelt on the spirit of hero-worship with which the England of Nelson's time and the whole world after him had endowed the glorious courage and spirit of the admiral. "There is much that was characteristic of him that we might introduce into our life, political, industrial and social, of today," said the speaker. "It is recalled how he returned his sword to the last captain of the Spanish fleet, as a tribute to a gallant enemy, and when he was criticized, replied: 'I do always what I think right, regardless of custom.' What an example to our politicians. And again when he had returned from the Bahamas—'Only to do nothing disgraceful. I always take advantage of my opportunities.' Consider the reforms this might bring about if properly introduced into our industrial and commercial life of the country. Then at the last, six weeks before Trafalgar, he said: 'Whatever happens, I have run a great race.' Socially and religiously this precept might be well followed to the ultimate betterment of the people's welfare. Living in the shadow of that great man, there are no limits to which we may not attain."

A YEAR OF PROHIBITION

The prohibition amendment in the United States came into force just a year ago. From official records the results attained up to date may be summarized as follows:

During 1920 the American people consumed 41,000,000 proof gallons of distilled spirits, while there are still left in the bonded warehouses 51,000,000 gallons, and spirits are still being made in over 14,000 illicit distilleries.

The number of stills demolished in the year was 93,789, and 123,494 gallons of spirits were destroyed.

The storage taxes and penalties against offenders totalled $23,340,000.

At the same time "bootlegging" and whiskey running are becoming harder and harder to suppress, and the fact that $1,000,000 worth of motor cars have been seized by federal agents in raids is significant in this connection.

DON'T BE AFRAID!

The greatest enemy of the human race is Fear!

If we could banish Fear in all its forms, it would mean more to civilization than any previous step in evolution. Health would be immeasurably improved; much unhappiness would be greatly decreased, and success would be the rule. With the removal of Fear would come real human brotherhood. True democracy would begin.

If you are not as well, as happy, as efficient, or as successful as you would like to be, you may find the why in your Fears.

"As a man thinketh in his heart, so he is—physically, in disposition, and in circumstances. Fear thought is toxic, destructive and harmful. Some forms of fear thought are worry, hatred, jealousy, despair, anger, melancholy, discouragement, depression, confusion, negativeness, nervousness, lack of self-confidence and foreboding.

Faith is the antidote. Faith opposes fear through such forms of thinking as love, optimism, peace, harmony, poise, courage, determination, self-confidence, strength and wholesomeness. Faith is harmonizing, revivifying and healing.

Fear of failure is also caused by not thinking well enough of one's self. To banish this and all other forms of fear, one needs another kind of thinking. Replace Fear thoughts with Faith thoughts, and systematically cultivate the new line of thinking until it gets to be a habit.

Take a mental inventory today! Seek out your hidden mental weaknesses and expose them to the light of fearless analysis. Get to work upon your Fears and run them out. Flood your whole mental region with Faith.

Repeat daily and the results will amaze you.—Forbes Magazine.

Landlords who discriminate against tenants with children under 14 years old will find plenty of grief in the California Senate Bill. This Bill provides that any landlord who refuses to rent or lease property because the tenant has children, or who inserts in a lease a proviso that the tenant shall have no children under 14 years, would be guilty of a misdeameanor. The purpose of the measure is to curb the practice of landlords in refusing to rent or lease property when the tenant has children. Under present conditions in large California cities, a man with children can hardly find a place in which to live.

There was much mystery about a perpetual motion machine, set up as a sign and advertisement over a street in Los Angeles not long ago. It had the form of a huge wheel that revolved slowly all day and all night, being driven by a number of metal balls which ran along spokes from the centre to the circumference and back. Gravity was supposed to furnish the power, and thus the machine could go on forever without depending upon any other source of energy. Unfortunately, however, there came a day when the city's electrical plant was shut down for repairs and the wheel stopped turning!

amazement of everyone, he made a complete miss. The Wests came once more, and Thomas put in a fine centre, but Mulcahy again missed. Up-Islanders then broke away, and until the end of the first half they were all over the Wests, only the sterling work of Archie Muir, Bob Whyte and Copas keeping them out. Just before the close of the period they made another goal, following a characteristic combined run, Milligan, the inside right, testing Shandley with a daisy-cutter, and, to the surprise of the spectators, the ball rolled past the goalkeeper into the net. Half-time was called with the score 2 goals to nil in favor of Cumberland.

In the second period the Wests steadied themselves and made a number of attacks, but Strang and Hitchen were remarkably steady, and Walker was a wonder in goal, all the well-meant attempts to score ending in failure. Allan was playing a nice forward game for the Wests, and he tried hard to beat Walker, on one occasion just clearing the bar with a "stinger," and then putting a puzzling high one right into his hands. After a rush by the Greenshirts, they were awarded a penalty, but, to the great disappointment of their supporters, Archie Muir could not find the goal.

Cumberland Again Score.

Cumberland then rushed hard and after some futile heading by Copas and Whyte, Horne dashed in and scored the third goal for the Northerners. This score was made despite the fact that the visitors were only playing ten men, as Carle, the centre half, received a nasty cut over the right eye early in the period, and although he attempted to resume playing he was compelled to retire. No further score was made, the Wests being unable to penetrate the Cumberland defence. The ground was in fine condition, and play was fast all through the game.

For Cumberland, Walker played brilliantly in goal, and Strang and Hitchen made a splendid pair of full backs. The halves were very steady, and all the forwards were good, Horne being the most dangerous.

Of the Victoria West players, Copas at full back was excellent, his fine kicking breaking up a number of rushes. Bob Whyte was steady, and Archie Muir was the pick of the half-backs. Thomas also played a hard game. Allan was the best of the forwards.

The teams were:

Cumberland—Walker; Strang and Hitchen; Brown, Carle and Jackson; Bowman, Milligan, Conti, Horne and Harrison.

Victoria Wests—Shandley; Whyte and Copas; Thomas, S. Sherratt and A. Muir; J. Sherratt, Allan, Youson, Baker and Mulcahy.

Referee, Pearson.

UNION BAY JUNIORS DEFEAT BEVAN 2 TO 1

The Union Bay fast junior football team defeated Bevan Juniors by two goals to one in a Cumberland and District Junior League at Bevan last Sunday. Right in the early part of the game Union Bay pressed and within ten minutes from the start Auchinvole, the outside right for Union Bay, beat Walker, the Bevan goalkeeper, with a hard shot. The Bevan boys tried hard to equalize and continued to have as much of the play as the clam boys, but Bevan's forwards finished up poorly in front of goal on several occasions. Aitken and his partners should have had Bevan on equal terms but lost their opportunities probably owing to being over anxious. Shortly before half-time Johnson, the Union Bay inside left, broke through the Bevan defence and beat Walker again, making the half-time result two goals to none in favor of Union Bay.

More Pep in Second Half.

The second half started at a fast pace. The Bevan boys seemed determined to even up and within three minutes Aitken scored their first goal. After this there was lots of pep in the game, but both teams failed to do any further scoring.

Bevan boys had hard luck throughout the game, consequently the Union Bay team were fortunate in getting away with the two points on the day's play. A draw would have been a fair indication of the game. The Bevan forwards are too slow in front of goal.

James L. Brown of Bevan refereed the game to the satisfaction of all.

Getting Even.

"The doctor made me show him my tongue, and it cost me $3; but I got even."

"How?"

"In a poker game last night I made him show me his hand, and it cost him $5."

BREEZES

By X-RAYS.

The best team does not always win. Cumberland gave a good exhibition of soccer on Good Friday against the Mets and the score of 4 to nil can hardly be explained.

The boys fought doggedly until the last and went down with flying colors, treating the 800 spectators to some fine classy ball.

The game on Saturday proved to the people of the Capital City that Cumberland were a team of superior qualities. The whole team worked like a well-oiled machine.

The fine work of the United's half-back line gradually wore down the attacks of the West's forwards.

Carle was playing the game of his life when he met with his accident, and much sympathy was extended to him by the opposition.

The Victoria supporters claimed that Milligan was the best inside right that ever played in Victoria. We support the claim.

The fun commenced on Saturday when a Cumberland enthusiast offered to bet a nickel on the game. But owing to lack of funds and general unemployment the bet was not contracted.

Horne, Conti and Milligan were the real live wires of the attack.

Bill Walker talked Archie Walker out of the penalty, thereby hanging on to his reputation as Penalty King.

Alex. Rowan's walking stick should have been brought back and placed in the Bevan Museum as a memento of the visit to Victoria.

The Victoria press stated that Cumberland surprised the Wests. It does not seem natural to say the league leaders surprise the holders of the lowest position on the chart by inflicting defeat. Where do they get that old——

Who was the guy that said "gelatins" was a French instrument for chopping off people's heads?

The United players were treated to an unusual turn when they witnessed the Human Fly scaling the dizzy heights of the Victoria Town Hall.

Cumberland have a fine share of "rooters" when they go to Victoria, even though they don't take any with them from the camp.

How Nanaimo football fans did whoop her up when Cumberland lost the match at Victoria on Friday. And what a change on Saturday!

If a man falls out of bed when asleep,
Is it wrong to lay the blame on his pal?
Because there may be something wrong with the bed.

Room 214 was the most popular one at the Douglas Hotel last Saturday.

Jock Clark gave a few good musical turns after the game on Satuday.

There was a certain amount of jealousy when the members of the Vancouver expedition saw one of their company—wearing a Butterfly Jazz Tie.

'Twas a dark and stormy night when the bunch traversed Johnson Street.

Next time the "Human Spiders" exhibit their prowess we would suggest that they spread the drag-net in case of accidents—instead of allowing a friend to remain below in order to catch them if they fall.

The Victoria committee men were nervous when Hitchen started in to punt the ball from his own 18 yards line to the opposite goalmouth.

The price of balls in Victoria is almost out of reach.

Five stitches in Geordie Carle's optic did not prevent him from taking his usual hour training every night this week.

Dunk Ferguson was a visitor to Cumberland this week.

Ned McAdam is training again every night up at the park.

Who witnessed the four-mile race between Desperate Dick and Honest Jock?

Tommy Carney returned to Cumberland on a visit this week.

There was one milk shake at least that had a real good shaking "up" last Monday evening.

Tom Costello, the Cockney comedian, would have loved to see a certain individual characterizing him in his favorite song, "Clinging to the Garden Railings."

Fifteen minutes from the gate to the front door—whew! There is someone slowing up!

At Victoria on Saturday at least 300 more people witnessed the game than on Friday—yet the gate receipts were $35 less. The price of admission was two-bits both days.

As Jack Sullivan said—
"There's summat up—or summat."

With the exception of Boyd, who is almost fit, the casualty list is a thing of the past.

Williams played a sterling game for Bevan last week. "Watty" will turn out to be a fine defender if given a chance.

Young Parkes, the paper weight, is a clever little player. But his weight is against him considerably.

Burns played another star game.

Aitken missed all kinds of chances of placing hsi team ahead. He should be taught to shoot much oftener, and better results will be the issue.

The most popular song last Saturday night: "I'm Sorry I Made You Cry."

Taffy is a Welshman,
Taffy is a dot,
He went to Shorty's Pool Room and stole a blooming pot.
He thought his luck was in and chanced another five,
But, alas! poor Taffy went one five too high
And lost the blooming lot.
He mortgaged next month's pay cheque
And lost all that as well;
Now poor Taffy wishes he had gone to —— instead.

REPORTER CAUGST TRYING TO "VAMP" STAR

Interviewer Says a Vampire Always Wears a Tiger's Skin to Make Her Look Wild.

By John P. Medbury.

I have seen Louise Glaum in the moving pictures a good many times and noticed the way she vamped cashiers and made them take their hat and about fifty thousand dollars and leave the bank.

* * *

These cashiers didn't really steal the money—they just drew about ten years' salary in advance.

* * *

Well, I went out to the studious to interview Miss Glaum and see if she would give me some lessons in vamping so that I could try and get back some of the money I have loaned to different people.

* * *

She has a beautiful big dressing-room on "Stars' Row," opening off which is a reception room for her friends, and I went there, and just as I was about to enter a boy came along with a big basket of flowers for her. I told him that I would take them in to Miss Glaum, and when I got inside I found that my card had got mixed up with the flowers.

* * *

I little later when I was going through my pockets I found the card of the guy who sent them.

* * *

After, Miss Glaum thought that I had sent her the flowers there was no use in disappointing her, so I tore the other card up.

* * *

I went in and sat down and pretty soon she came in wearing a tiger skin coat. I don't know why it is that a vampire always wears a tiger's skin, but I suppose they do it to make them look wild.

* * *

I guess the only one it makes wild is the one who has to pay for it.

* * *

By the price they charge for them you would thing they had to dig for the tigers the same as they do for diamonds.

* * *

I told Miss Glaum that I wanted to take some lessons in vamping so that I would know how to protect myself in case I ever ran up against one.

A lot of girls have learned how easy it is to vamp a fellow out of his whole week's salary by making him take her to dinner, a theatre and then supper afterward.

* * *

Louise, I mean Miss Glaum, says all that you have to do is make eyes at a person. I made eyes at a dame once and her husband came along and closed 'em up for a couple of weeks!

* * *

Before I would do it again I would have to make sure that she didn't have a husband, and then meet her out in the middle of the desert, where there is plenty of running space.

* * *

Besides, it takes a lot of sand to flirt with a girl these days.

* * *

When I walk by a cafe or a candy store I would much prefer to be alone.

* * *

If you want to walk with a girl it is much the best to go out near the shipyards, where there are no stores.

* * *

The trouble with a vamp is that she is always worried about food. She thinks of her stomach first and you afterward.

* * *

I found out that I went to the wrong girl to take vamping lessons, because she isn't a vamp at all. She knew I had fifty cents in my pocket and never tried once to get it.

* * *

A vamp is really nothing but a pickpocket who works with her eyes.

* * *

When a cop arrests a vamp, instead of snapping the handcuffs on her, they put goggles over her eyes.

* * *

Nobody ever saw a vamp wearing spectacles.

MARRIAGES IN RUSSIA OF FLIMSIEST NATURE

The Rev. Courtier Foster, addressing a National Party meeting at Caxton Hall recently, described some of his experiences in Bolshevist Russia and Austria, where he lived under three Communist Governments.

He said the general apathy of the public and ignorance of what Soviet rule really meant had helped the Bolshevist movement in this country. There was one clause in the Communist Party programme for Great Britain which he would like to call attention to, and that was the demand for equality of sexes. That clause was also included in the Soviet decrees in Russia, and really meant the nationalization of women. Marriage as a religious ceremony was not recognized as binding in Russia today. The only contract was a civil one, the persons who wished to be married merely taking each other as man and wife in the presence of a commissary. This so-called contract could be dissolved immediately by the parties re-appearing before the commissary and stating they did not agree, but if one or the other objected the "divorce" was postponed for three months. It was, however, quite easy to be married at least four times a year. The women of Russia, however, were showing considerable opposition to Lenine's marriage laws, and they would not accept that extraordinary insecure tenure of married life. He believed that the break-up of the Soviet system, when it came, would be directly attributable to that clause.

Brutality to women was a natural sequence to Communism. The treatment of women in Russia was ghastly, hideous and shameful. He had verified several terrible instances, one in which the wife of a Lemberg university professor was seized, together with her daughter of seventeen, and left to the mercy of a band of Bolshviks for the whole night. This lady and her daughter were then shot by these fiends, who amused themselves by making the wretched woman's son of twelve dig a grave for his mother and sister.

Bolshevism, or the system of Soviet rule, in this country would mean the ruin of all commerce and industry, the complete absence of freedom, but, on the other hand, would be of great benefit to Germany, and this Germany knows full well.

"Shopping" in the vocabulary of womanhood, covers a multitude of pastimes.

School Studies And Homework

The following is the second and concluding portion of the very able paper read by Mr. C. B. Woods at the last meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association. It should be read by all parents and teachers.

The amount of work on the public school curriculum is really very small if repetition is reduced to a minimum. There are only a limited number of facts and principles to be mastered. These have to be enforced by exercises, but exercises are only necessary until the principle involved is enforced. If by increased attention the principle can be grasped more quickly a large number of exercises can be eliminated. Too often the pupils, and in many cases the teacher, consider the exercises as an end in themselves and judge their accomplishment by the number of problems worked irrespective of the progress in mastery of the principle. This means that large tasks are assigned in school and for home study that bore the pupils by repetition, are accomplished by note and in the end completely distract the mind from the point that was intended to be emphasized. See that everything at home and at school is done with a purpose and the quantity will automatically be reduced.

The question arises how are we to secure the attention that is necessary on the part of the pupil, and the most obvious answer is by appealing to his interest. At this stage the interest must be immediate and direct, while at the high school age it tends to become ideal and remote, and to hinge upon the ultimate goal at which the pupil is aiming. In the years before adolescence we do not find the remote ideal of much influence, therefore the teacher must make the school work interesting in itself. Loss of interest appears most in the fourth reader, especially among retarded pupils. If it could be avoided there would be far fewer leaving school to go to work at this stage.

Interests are looked upon from two different standpoints by the educator. In the first place they are ends and should be encouraged or discouraged as the case may be, and in the second place they are storehouses or agencies for furnishing energy and motive power for the acquisition of knowledge. Interests may be classified into instinctive and acquired, and into practical, intellectual and emotional. Instinctive interests are present when we attend to a thing without previous teaching; acquired interests develop through instruction. Instinctive interests should be made the starting point for acquired ones; for example, the instinct to collect things may be used as the starting point for interest in nature study.

A practical interest asks, "What use is it?" The intellectual, "What does it mean?" The emotional, "What is it worth in itself?" The first leads to all kinds of invention, the second to the increase of knowledge, and the third to the development of all forms of art. Each or all may be utilized in appealing to the pupil.

The followers of Herbart have allowed interest to become synonomous with ease or pleasure, hence its failure as a pedagogical doctrine. The teacher must remember the satisfaction that comes to a pupil on the completion of a hard task, and that permanent interests are only developed under the stress of voluntary attention. Children should therefore be given hard tasks but not so hard as to be beyond their powers. Interest in abstract thinking is rare while practical interest in doing things is omnipresent. We have inherited a tradition which puts the emphasis in the wrong place, and we are changing our methods far too slowly.

Under the present arrangement of the curriculum much can be done to create interest by careful planning of lessons, variety, visualizing and rendering concrete all possible ideas by illustrations and examples. Still more can be done by placing everything on a basis of cause and effect. Geography is an admirable subject for the application of this idea, and yet it would appear that in many schools it is still taught as an enormous list of capes, bays, cities and products to be memorized. Present-day educators are interested in devising ways and means by which to give the initiative to the pupil wherever possible. They have coined the word "motivation" to express what they mean. Out of this general idea there has arisen what is called the project method of teaching, a method which if it could be fully applied would practically solve the whole problem of interest. It consists in short of working out practical tasks which are not only worth doing in themselves but teach in a practical way the facts and principles that will fit the child for life. The following will illustrate what I mean: In many schools in Canada and the United States playground supervision is done by the pupils themselves by elected representatives on the model of a civic organization, with mayor, aldermen, chief of police, etc. This system not only works well in the maintenance of discipline and in the training of the pupils in responsibility, initiative and cooperation, but is the most effective lesson possible in practical civics. Let us apply the method to the subject of arithmetic. Suppose someone near the school to be building a house. Get the class to make actual measurements and work out the various practical calculations necessary. This would involve departing from the text book and its orderly sequence, but would be far more effective in the end. The same idea can be worked out in a modified way for most subjects.

The merits and shortcomings of plan are a broad study in themselves and are today egaging the attention of many progressive educators. The great advantage is that it arouses the interest and supplies the motive power to what is otherwise meaningless.

When we pass to the high school stage we observe a decided psychological change. Adolescence is the period of ambition—of air castles, if you will. It is a matter of common knowledge that the 'teen years are the ones in which the ideals are formulated which shape the rest of life. It ought to be our endeavor as parents and educators to influence and direct this motive power of ambition. This is the stage when cooperation at home can help more than at any other. We have too low a conception of the meaning and value of education and too low a goal for our boys and girls. There are at present in high school boys and girls who have the stuff of which greatness is made —brains, potential leadership and sound judgment. Several of them would do well in professional or managerial careers. There is probably not one of them who, if he chose, could not have a university training, for there are throughout Canada hundreds of lads annually working themselves to positions of eminence by persistence, thrift and an unswerving ambition. But these boys and girls of ours do not know what positions are open to them nor what steps are necessary to reach them. They will never know unless we tell them; but the telling alone is not sufficient. To that must be added the confidence on our part which assures the boy that it is really within his reach.

For girls there are fewer positions than for boys, but none the less many. Mrs. Vincent Massey of Toronto has recently done valuable service by publishing a little book on "Occupations for Trained Women in Canada," in which she gives carefully compiled statistics on all classes of opportunities that are available. For boys the most attractive opportunity is the Rhodes scholarship, an appointment worth $4500 to the recipient. The fact that Greek and Latin are requirements limits the number of candidates each year to a very few, so that I venture to state that we could find a boy in this school who might easily win the prize. In addition to these special opportunities there are all the professional and highly trained business careers which should attract the best intellects. It rests with us to inspire confidence in the pupils, show them clearly the possibilities, steady their efforts, and keep their minds firmly fixed on their objective. Cumberland has already produced some distinguished scholars. Their success did not depend so much on genius as on persistent, well-directed application.

Too often I fear that the fact that the finances are not at hand for a higher education leads a parent to dissuade children from ambitions which they fear could not be realized. This is unfortunate in these days when every facility is being given the student to finance his own career. People forget that a university education costs no more than a moderate priced automobile.

Although I have said considerable about the university and its attractions, I do not wish to be understood as claiming for it more than its due. Some professions are overcrowded (except at the top), many graduates make failures, and brainwork is underpaid. Education is not primarily a money-making investment, even though a certain American investigator claims that each day spent in high school is worth ten dollars to the pupil. However, practically all trades are becoming so technical as to require more than a public school education and the boy who goes no farther than the fourth reader is badly handicapped indeed.

We claim to be living in a scientific age, yet we have endless scientific devices in common use of which the average layman knows nothing. The sociologist tells us that the hope of the world lies in education, but never before, I venture, was the average person so far behind the outposts in scientific matters as today. How much have scientific methods of thought influenced us when we permit charlatans, quacks and palmists to thrive at our expense? How far have we gone when people on every hand avow mistrust in modern medical practice based on becteriology and the use of antiseptics? How far have we been successful in inculcating the principles of so practical a subject as hygiene when the government of this province will build this "thoroughly modern building" (the new school) with absolutely no provision for ventilation except by opening the windows? The average layman may know a few of the results of science, but as for the scientific attitude of mind which bans prejudice and deals with facts alone, it has yet made little impression on our generation. If we have any interest in the betterment of the race we must believe in education in its broadest sense, and if our youth are to receive this benefit we must show them that we have profound faith in the value of school work because it makes them broader-minded citizens.

Then there is the whole realm of the aestetic. Growing importance is being attached to the development of taste in the several branches of art. It is unfortunate that in school we do so little music, and drawing so very imperfectly. The one great realm we do explore is literature, and too often it is made the scape-goat for barren word-study and analysis. Few pupils feel great interest in poetry because they have not been taught to appreciate it and because the examples before them constantly require so much effort of the understanding to obscure the emotional appeal. Here again it is our duty to know the value, to assure the novice that the reward is worth the effort, that a real appreciation of art is one of the most precious attainments a person can have.

I have taken pains to show you that secondary education as we have it at present is worth while, first because it leads to positions of distinction and responsibility which are not beyond the reach of anyone who is ambitious. Second because it is absolutely necessary for efficient life in an ordinary occupation, and lastly because training is the only entry to the endless enjoyment of the pleasures of art. Let us believe these things firmly ourselves and let us act upon that belief in such a way that our pupils cannot help but be impressed by the same ideas. Let it be our first aim to encourage each one to adopt a definite goal, even if it has later to be modified. At present practically no boy in high school has made up his mind what he would like to be, much less what he is determined to be; hence we lack the motive force which causes difficult things to be attacked with vigor and optimism. There is much in school work that is difficult and much whose value is not apparent to pupil or parent. True, there is much room for improvement in the curriculum, though we must remember that the present subjects are pre requisites for more advanced work, and so long as the high school stands as the connecting link between the common school and the university the course must remain the same. When the public are ready to provide technical education, of course school will appeal much more to the average person, but in the meantime we must make the best of what we have.

At the high school age we must assume that school work is a whole-time occupation. The curriculum is designed to suit the ability of the average student. Unless a pupil is unusually brilliant (in which case it is usually better not to tell him so) he is courting failure unless he is giving his work his maximum of attention. The question then is, what is the best disposal of a pupil's time in the interests of true economy. Too much mental work produces dullness. Sleep, exercise, fresh air, sport, are as essential for the adolescent as at any period, or even more so, because some of the best traits of character can only be developed by such means as team games and cooperative action on the playground. We all remember the famous saying that Waterloo was won on the playing fields of Eton.

Today there are too many side interests which demand attention, notably the pictures and the dances. Children are growing up too young and we must look to the home to correct the trouble. United action will be necessary to avoid discrimination, but in the interest of education it must be done. It is quite unreasonable to expect pupils to make progress if these and similar things are indulged in to the extent they are at present. Education means sacrifice as does everything that is worth while, and failure to learn this lesson is the first cause of disaster. The counterpart of this youthful pleasure-seeking is the lack of appreciation of the value of money. Those of us who won an education by economy and self-denial are appalled by the amount spent by children in this town on things of no real value.

Returning to the time question, the school day in high school is taken up almost entirely by recitation and writing of text exercises, therefore the preparation must be done at home. The requirements are very specifically laid down and the standard of accomplishment is set by the Matriculation Department. The amount of homework to be done is simply the amount required to accomplish this work with a margin of safety. Granted systematic methods of study, concentration, regular habits, and freedom from interruption, it ought to be possible for a pupil to make satisfactory progress by doing two hours a night five nights a week. Still the time rate of study varies so greatly that one is scarcely safe to venture a specific prescription. The amount must always be judged by the accomplishment. Examination results are the only sure guide. It is very certain that every gramme means progress sacrificed A pupil cannot go out in the evening and then return at ten o'clock to do successful work; and yet we hear of girls doing their work after returning from a dance at two in the morning. Many people praise the residential schools, but their chief advantage is that they impose a discipline which parents are unwilling to insist upon at home.

As a final point let me suggest that the work of the high school would be made much easier if boys and girls were encouraged to adopt hobbies of some sort even if it were nothing more than a little serious reading. When we consider that the matriculation class of today are your teachers a year from now, the fact that they are not training themselves to make use of or appreciate serious literature takes on a different aspect. Several of the senior subjects in high school take for granted collateral advancement in general knowledge, and the fact that this side effort is lacking is one reason why the work of the school is found more difficult as the pupil advances.

Two men were wandering through a cemetery examining the quaint tombstones. "Look here," said one, "here's a queer one: 'Sacred to Thomas Sitter, a Lawyer and an Honest Man.'"

"What did they want to put all three in one grave for?" asked his companion.

"Trotter seems to be a very happy man. He has no bills to pay."

"How's that?"

"No one will trust him."

When two young people stop to look in a jewelers' window, there's something tentative in the air.

THE EXCHANGE RATE

IX.--What Controls It?

IN the previous numbers of this series we have endeavored to explain the various factors bearing on the exchange value abroad of our dollar. We will now summarize the methods by which this value may be restored.

By increasing Canadian production we can supply our domestic requirements and enlarge our surplus for export. This, if accompanied by a drastic decrease in our imports, especially of luxuries, will go far to adjust our trade balance.

As exchange becomes favorable to us, gold will flow in more freely, the reserves against paper currency will regain their former sound basis and the restrictions on the export of gold will be removed. The great stabilizing factor in exchange fluctuations will therefore be restored.

There are two further matters of equally great importance; the first, that so far as possible we cease to purchase luxuries, even those of domestic manufacture, and divert the sums thus saved to productive enterprises, either by direct investment or by depositing the money in the bank; the second, that we must all strive to work at our greatest capacity, not shirking, but taking pride in achieving a full output, whether we are doing manual or mental work.

The personal advantages of accumulating savings are so obvious that they need not be repeated here.

If this series has achieved its object, the national importance of industry and thrift to insure the prosperity of Canada and to re-establish the value of the Canadian dollar throughout the world will be clear to you.

Will you do your share?

METROPOLIS SENIORS DEFEAT CUMBERLAND

Victoria Team Played Superior Game and Shut Out Visitors By Four Goals to None

VICTORIA.—The Metropolis senior soccer team scored a notable victory Good Friday when they defeated the redoubtable Cumberland team in the Vancouver Island League fixture by four goals to nothing. It was a well-deserved win, though until near the end of the game the difference between the two teams was not very marked, and the Cumberland men were fighting up to the end. In the first half, with the wind and sun in their favor, the Mets had a little the better of it, and were more often on the attack than were their opponents. Soon after the start Petticrew narrowly missed scoring for the Mets and some minutes after the Cumberland goal was in imminent danger when the ball rolled out of the goalkeeper's hands after his stopping a hard shot, and there was nobody there to boot it in.

Cumberland were having their share of the game, however, and a fine shot by their inside left would have just gone under the bar had not Leeming saved it with a good effort. The Cumberland men played a clever passing game, but the Mets seemed to have a little more "pep," and when Plump scored at short range a few minutes before half-time, and made the score one to nothing, he made it a very fair indication of how the play had gone.

With the wind behind them in the second half, there was good reason for thinking that the Cumberland boys might easily even up and possibly win out. They started away in good shape and then missed a soft chance to score almost immediately after the kick-off. They continued to press, and Leeming was the busy man for a while and was called on to make several good saves. Cumberland was undoubtedly playing the better football of the two teams in the first half of the second period. Then the Mets seemed to get a fresh supply of "pep" and after the ball had been kept fairly continuously in their half of the field things began to be more even again. The Met forwards came down the field with a determined attack which ended, after one or two ineffectual shots, in Petticrew heading the ball in for the Mets' second goal. The Cumberland forwards came right back, and Leeming brought off another good save just by the corner of his goal. A corner kick resulted but came to nothing, and the ball traveled rapidly to the Cumberland end again. It hovered in that vicinity for a considerable time, and then at last Plump got an opening and made it three to nil for good measure. There was still thirteen minutes left for play when one of the Cumberland backs had to go off with a damaged foot, but the game was already won and lost, although it is true that the Mets' goal had a narrow escape almost immediately afterwards.

Pearson handled the game well and the line-up was as follows:

Cumberland — Clark; Strang and Campbell; Irvine, Conti and Horne; Bowman, Milligan, Hitchens, Boothman and Harrison.

Metropolis—Leeming; Church and Taylor; Wale, Byrnjolfson and Menzies; McInnes, Plump, Petticrew, Cumming and Totty.—Colonist.

YOUR TEETH

INLAYS IN TEETH

By Rea Proctor McGee, M.D., D.D.S.
Editor of "Oral Hygiene."

An inlay is a filling that is made outside of the mouth and when finished is fastened in the tooth cavity with a dental cement. The making of inlays is a very ancient process that was a lost art for many centuries. The Aztecs of old Mexico used a green stone as we use inlays, but was purely decorative. The Aztec nobility had fanciful designs in their front teeth, probably tribal marks on the order of our coat-of-arms, then the green stone was cleverly cut to fit the cavity and cemented with a very durable transparent cement. The durability of these prehistoric inlays is proved by the fact that there are in existence a number of Aztec skulls with the green stone still firmly in place.

Inlays of porcelain were the first to be made in modern times. Porcelain was used because it can be made to closely approximate the color and characteristics of the natural teeth. The process of making a porcelain inlay is very difficult but the result is so satisfactory that many are made for fillings where gold would be objectionable.

The gold inlay is now very widely used. There are many ways to make them, but the object is the same; that is, to perfectly fill the cavity, to restore the original contour, and to be durable. All of these things a gold inlay does. The miniature casting that is required to make a gold inlay is an art of modern times. Gold inlays are made with remarkable accuracy, and as they are made outside of the mouth, they are much less painful than gold fillings that must be malleted into the tooth. Whether a good gold inlay is better for the tooth than a gold filling that is also good, is not yet decided. I should say that either one is all right.

COATPOCKET TENT.

A tent which may be folded up and put into a good-sized pocket, the fabric being exceedingly thin, though tough and waterproof, has been invented by an Englishman. The tent-pole is hinged in the middle and when folded may be used as a walking stick. This remarkable tent when set up is four feet high—just big enough for one person to sit in comfortably, although two may occupy it at a pinch.

"I dunno how Bill's a-goin' to vote in this election," said the campaign worker. "I've heard he's on the fence."

"He was," repuied the neighbor, "but one o' the canderdates let fall a dollar on the off side o' the fence, and Bill got dizzy and fell over."

Musicus: "You ought to hear our new organ. It has more stops than any other instrument in town."

Motorly: "Stops, eh? For repairs or on account of the police?"

"Finnegan, yez owe me $2."

"Oi know it, but Oi'm going to keep it as security for the 50 cints yez borrowed from me a year ago."

"Ah! So you're a farmer! How jolly! Tell me—how's your hay?"

"Best crop in years, young feller—no need for you to worry about food this winter."

Paying Teller: "Rastus, you'll have to endorse that cheque."

Rastus: "Endorse it? Say, boss, I'll eulogize dat cheque if you'll jess give me dat good old money."
