To Adopt Drastic Measures Re Soldiers' Housing Scheme

CITY COUNCIL IN IMPORTANT MEETING DEBATE SOLDIERS HOUSING SCHEME—SPEED ARTISTES TO BE PROCECUTED.

Two communications were read at the City Council Meeting on Monday evening last. One from Mr. Fraser Watson and the other from Mr. Robert Halcrow stating that the Cumberland Electric Lighting Co. had sent an employee to cut the branches from the ornamental trees in front of their residence without asking permission or giving any notification whatsoever. The two correspondents evidently considered it an outrage, and requested the City Council to take drastic measures to prevent a similar occurrence. They also asked for compensation for damage already done. The Mayor and aldermen gave the matter careful consideration and decided that the correspondents should seek redress from the Cumberland Electric Lighting Co.

It appears that the matter had been taken up by the City authorities at some recent date, as the Managing Director of the Cumberland Electric Lighting Co. writes the Mayor and Aldermen as follows:—

May 17th, 1923.

Gentlemen:

Replying to your communication of complaints being made to your Council from property owners regarding cutting off limbs from trees, likely to cause short circuiting of our lines and thereby endangering lives of our patrons, we wish to inform the Mayor and Council that no more limbs will be cut from trees until the Managing Director personally interviews the owner of the trees and pruning done to their satisfaction.

It is not the desire of the Company to destroy property neither will they countenance any employee doing so.

Owners will convey a favor by phoning the light office and the Managing Director will personally see whether it is necessary to lop the trees.

Yours truly,

Cumblerland Elect. Lighting Co.

(Signed) G. W. Clinton
Man. Director.

Accounts amounting to 679.15 were passed for payment. The Finance Committee took exception to some of the charges on the statements of the Cumberland Electric Lighting Co., Ltd. His Worship the Mayor and Aldermen thought some of the items were very exorbant and as on illustration cited the question of a 65c charge for the installation of a 15c fuse. Payment of the account was held up. The Mayor and Finance Committee will interview the Managing Director of the Cumberland Electric Lighting Co. Ltd.

Alderman Partridge, Chairman of the Fire Warden's reported progress on the renovating and reconstruction of the Fire Hall.

Alderman Maxwell, Chairman of the Finance Committee brought up the question of a Trade License by law without any definite action being taken.

Will Check Motorists

The collision of two Ford Cars on Dunsmuir Ave. on the morning of May 24th occupied the attention of the Mayor and Aldermen with the result that the Police Commissioners will be asked to instruct the Chief of Police to check up motorists who exceed the speeed limit within the city of Cumberland. Signs warning auto owners will be displayed on intersections of Dunsmuir Ave. The Council say speeding must stop.

Will Take Steps to Collect

The six houses recently built on the Better Housing Scheme and occupied by the returned soldiers is causing the City Council a great deal of worry. The monthly payments are not made promptly and one of the houses is empty. One alderman who was very excited at the present financial state of affairs said they should be made to pay up or get out and suggested that the City introduce a Money By Law to borrow the money, pay the government off and thus make the houses an asset to the City. It was finally decided to adopt some drastic measure to collect the arrears on the Houses in question.

Don't forget Firemens' Dance on Monday, June 4th, in the Ilo-Ilo Hall.

MINES MINISTER PREDICTS BOOM FOR THIS YEAR

SPOKANE, Wn., May 25.—"Never since I assumed office seven years ago have mining conditions in British Columbia been better, or the outlook brighter," said Hon. William Sloan, minister of mines for British Columbia in an address before the North-west Mining Convention here on Thursday. The day was set apart as B. C. day in honor of the Canadian delegates who celebrated Victoria Day here.

The war years' boom in mining had been followed by a reaction, the minister said, but present conditions pointed to a revival, not of "unhealthy prosperity," but of "progress and prosperity built upon the solid foundation of developed resources and the normal demands of the markets of the world."

The great need of British Columbia and of the whole northwest, Mr. Sloan declared, was capital. Fortunately capitalists were turning more and more to western America and to those few other countries where there appeared to be staple goverment. To secure this capital, mining men must, first of all, be good and reliable sales agents.

"If we adopt this principle, there is no doubt that the Northwest will be opened up in the next decade on a scale unprecedented in any similar period," the speaker declared.

Mr. Sloan gave three reasons for his optimism in regard to the mining industry in British Columbia. First was the wonderful promise of the newly opened up mining district in the Portland Canal; second, the marked advance that had been made in solving the metallurgical problem of the economic treatment of the complex ores of the Kootenays; and, third, that the copper market is now in a healthy condition.

Referring to coal mining, which has been at a standstill in point of production in the province for the last thirteen years, the minister hoped that this industry would be stabilized and assisted to a large extent by the establishment of an iron and steel industry. Expert investigations were now being made, he said; as a result of which he was very hopeful that the capital necessary for the establishment of the industry would be forthcoming.

British Columbia Day was ushered in with the announcement that the ore exhibits from the province had been awarded a special first plize. The Chamber of Mines, of Vancouver, has on exhibit more than 200 samples representative of mines in all portions of the province.

After the business of the meeting had been transacted, the President, Mrs. Richardson on behalf of the Ladies Aid presented Mr. and Mrs. Kinney with a beautiful silver tea pot and sugar shell as a token of appreciation and high esteem. Mr. Kinney very feelingly replied thanking the ladies for their great kindness, and said that both Mrs. Kinney and himself had enjoyed a very pleasant time during their stay in Cumberland and that it was with much regret they were departing from their many friends. Mr. and Mrs. Kinney will leave for Ocean Falls next week.

Dainty refreshments were served during the evening. Mrs. Cunliffe and Mrs. Fouracre assisting Mrs. Stevenson.

May Celebration Held At Courtenay Brilliant Success

HUGE CROWD VIEWS BEST CELEBRATION EVER HELD IN COMOX VALLEY.—MANY BEAUTIFULLY DECORATED CARS IN PARADE.

The fourth annual May Day Gambols of the children of the Courtenay Public School took place on Wednesday last under the most auspicious conditions. The weather which had been anything but pleasant for the previous week broke clear and the sun shone brightly throwing out just enough warmth to make all participants in the festival feel jubilant.

Great preparations had been made for the big event and those who had taken interest enough to decorate their cars or construct floats for participation in the mammoth parade can congratulate themselves that their efforts were crowned with success, making the procession the most imposing that has yet been held within the boundaries of the Valley Hub. The parade was a real feature, in the lineup being not less than fifty cars nearly all wearing gala attire, some indeed being works of art, creating among the long line of spectators who elbowed each other along the full length of Union Street a most favorable impression. Congratulatory remarks were heard on all sides. A great deal of interest centred on the two floats of local fraternal organizations, that of the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks having been borrowed by the local lodge from their brethren at Nanaimo. The color scheme on this immense vehicle was the lodge colors, purple and white. On the front was a large elk head, symbolic of the order it represented. On the deck of the car a may pole had been erected and around this twelve little girls, all in white danced and entwined the varicolored ribbons. Regret was expressed that this float was so massive that it could not reach the terminating point of the parade because it was too large to negotiate the turn in the road at the Condensory bridge. The float of the Native Sons of Canada was a patriotic conception having been designed by Mr. Charles Shannon and its construction superintended by that gentleman, assisted by several members of the local Assembly. In the centre was Miss Canada, represented by Miss Honor Fechner, surrounded by eight other girls, a young Canadian stationed at each of six pillars and with Mrs. W. M. Moore at the piano while this party of young Canucks chorused songs of their home land. In the Industrial class there was keen competition, the float calling forth the most generous praise being that representing the Comox Creamery. This was a magnificent speciment of the car decorator's art, the whole being designed and constructed by Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Baker. Cow bells jangled and milk bottles were in evidence scattered here and there through trellises of evergreens. The effect was magnificent.

The Courtenay Volunteer Fire Department was represented by their truck manned by the members fully equipped for fighting fire. King Tut rode in a golden chariot in all his glory and a wag has said that he found out where Schotchmen originally lived for he said that Tut spoke with a decided accent. Mr. John Thomson played his part well.

The Imperial Oil Company had three cars in this division and it was probably due to their extensive exhibit that first prize was awarded to them. The Union Oil Company was represented by two cars and the Whistle Soda Water Company had a nice display. In the decorated car class some very excellent displays were to be seen, notable among them being the car of Mrs. David Mottishaw, which no doubt was entitled to first honors which she received. Mrs. Millard with a nicely ornamented car won second place and other cars seen were those of Mrs. W. J. Hagarty, Alderman F. W. Kerton, Mr. George Pidcock and several others, including One from Cumberland driven by Mr. Webb. There was only one feature that might have had a tendency to mar the occasion and that was the fact that the old bridge was not open to vehicular traffic, necessitating a long detour by way of Sand-

Forest Fires

The fires that start each summer might have come from YOUR cigarette-stub.

The Forest charred and burned might have been the result of YOUR camp-fire.

The wooded hillsides might have been blackened by YOUR lighted matches.

The burned farms might be the wages paid by YOUR thoughtlessness.

Idle logging camps might be the result of YOUR momentary carelessness.

If forest fires annually destroy our natural wealth, if money is to be spent in fighting fires instead of building up the Province, then the loss is YOURS and that of the generations to come. Be careful.

wick to the Agricultural Grounds where the crowning of the Queen of the May took place on the rais, placed in the shadows of the brances of a giant maple tree with the Courtenay River and the glacier for a background. At two-thirty Queen Muriel abdicated and passed the reins of her royal office over to Queen-elect Marjorie amid the tumult of much cheering by the little people of her realm and the adults who had come from all parts of the district to witness the prettty ceremony. In connection with this ceremony were six maids of honor: Misses Honor Fechner, Kitty Williams, Agnes Williams, Nellie Taylor, Dorothy Fletcher and Thelma Walker. The pages were Master Dick Lucas and Master Melvin McLean. Flower girls were Misses Alice Pidcock, Evelyn Blackhall, Proebe Walls, Elspeth Green, Mary Clarkson and Andrey Booth. On the return of the royal party to Courtenay, a sumptuous banquet, participated in by the teaching staff of the Courtenay Public Cchool and the Mayor and city council. Guests of the day were Queen Olga, of Cumberland and her maids of honor. A community sing under the leadership of Mr. J. H. COURTENAY DEFEATS POWELL RIVER

Larson Pitches his Last Game For Courtenay.

Last Sunday on the local baseball lot the boys of the Courtenay nine defeated the Powell River team in the first league fixture of the 1923 season in the recently organized Comox District Amateur Baseball League. There was not a large crowd present, owing principally to the inclement state of the weather, rain falling during the greater part of the time play was on. The moist condition of the weather no doubt spoiled what would probably have been a real good game. The score was 14 to 3. Larson pitched his last game for Courtenay and Garneau was on the mound for the visitors. Rab Robinson was back on the line up of the Cowboys after an absence of a year. Johnny Cummings, was back at shortstop and George Millard was in his usual place in the outfield. All three have added considerable strength to the team and in a week or so the management expects with the return of Halley Dixon from school that the Cowboy's nine will be striking on all cylinders. At present they are one up in the league standing and intend to stay in that position. Lefty Larson who has been with Courtenay for the past three years has defected, going over to Cumberlannd where he will in future do his heaving. He will be with the coal town boys next Sunday and will most likely twirl against his former team mates, when the two teams clash at Courtenay at 3.30 p.m.

A NARROW ESCAPE

Courtenay, May 31.—Yesterday afternoon two boys, James Webb and Gray went boating on the Courtenay River. They were about a quarter of a mile above the bridge when, their boat capsized after a swift ride in the current and a collision with a snag. They both managed to clamber on to the snag and had been there for some time when they were rescued by Messrs. Len D. Piket and John Robinson. A good ducking and a nasty scare were the results of their adventure.

LAKE CHUZENJI—JAPAN'S LAKE LOUISE

JAPANESE BEAUTIES ▼ ▼ CHERRY BLOSSOMS

JAPAN has so distinctly put herself "on the map" that the well travelled person is now compelled to put the "Land of the Rising Sun" into his life's itinerary. Improved trade relations and growing interest in things belonging to the other side of the globe, make a closer study of the countries there of prime importance.

Transportation, trans-continental and trans-Pacific, has become so highly developed that it is as easy to get to Japan as to Italy. Ninety-two hours from Montreal to Vancouver, trans-Canada, and the fastest time across the Pacific—a trifle more than nine days—puts the traveller into Yokohoma, the chief port of the Land of Nippon.

Here the sights are unusual. Jinrickshas jostle one another in their competition to get the few cents charge for running the traveller in and out among the narrow streets amid crowds of strangely garbed people, curious shops, street hawkers, endless numbers of brilliant kimono-clad children, and carts drawn by men and beasts.

Adding to the natural beauty of Japan is the cultivation. Japanese are the best agriculturists and gardeners in the world. Tomes have been written about Mount Fuji and the mountains, lakes and streams of the country. Lake Chuzenji is the Lake Louise of Japan and Mount Fuji, its Mount Rainier, although not so high. The cherry blossoms are not so wonderful as those of this country—if one remembers the hundred miles of orchards in Nova Scotia's Evangeline Land and Annapolis Valley.

Those who are contemplating an early summer holiday might well select Evangeline's Land, Nova Scotia, for a trip. For miles and miles along the Dominion Atlantic Railway the land is one mass of apple blossoms. Cherry blossoms, too, dot the scene, making a sight that is wonderful and refreshing. The bulk of the Nova Scotia apple crop goes to Great Britain, but great quantities of British Columbia apples are exported to the Orient.

The cherry trees in Japan are raised for their flowers and not for their fruit, as, strangely enough, they bear no fruit.

Although the voyage from Vancouver to Yokohama is longer than the four days at sea from the Eastern seaboard via the St. Lawrence River Route to Europe, the Canadian Pacific Empress steamers, largest and fastest on the Pacific, are so thoroughly comfortable that the time slips away quickly. All of these steamers are so equipped that most all of the amusements to be had on land are also to be found on board.

April marks the beginning of the best season in Japan and even further down the Chinese coast to Manila.

MODERN GOLF

By—W. J. & Frank Thompson

NOTED CANADIAN GOLFERS

MORE FUNDAMENTALS

How should one grip the club? One can not be too dogmatic in this, for good players hold their clubs in many different ways. The overlapping grip is used by most of the stars and certainly helps the hands to co-operate better. If one does not care to overlap, he should hold the club with the fingers and should keep the hands as close together as possible. Some players who have played since childhood with improper grips do exceedingly well, but the experience of most of the stars is overwhelmingly in favor of the over-lapping finger grip, which is illustrated in almost every golf work.

In regard to the stance the tendency is to revert to the square one, and this seems to be the most logical one for the straight ball, for when the feet are parellel to the line of flight the hips and shoulders naturally are so. When the right foot is nearer the line of flight than the left, or one stands open as this is called, the tendency is to push the club out across the extended line of flight and also upwards, which is the way to produce a slice, and when the right foot is drawn back so that the left foot is nearer to the line of flight, one is inclined to swing lower and in from the line of flight, which if exaggerated will produce a pull. The right foot should be turned out slightly, as this will permit an easier pivot on the back swing, and the left foot should be turned out a little as this will allow an easier follow through. It should be remembered that the ball and club adhere for a space perhaps not greater than half an inch and an infinitesimal point of time. Do not exaggerate the after follow through, for if a rifle bullet were to sever the club head, say anywhere beyond an inch after impact, the stroke would not be affected in the least. The follow through proper is only while the club and ball are together. What is usually meant by follow through is better called the "after follow through", or the particular way each one has of relaxing after the blow has taken place. One should, of course, see that his feet are comfortable and natural. One must also be careful not to confuse novel with artificial movements. The former with practice become comfortable and natural, but the latter seldom do, if ever.

A great deal of confusion exists about the initial movements of the golf swing. Beginners are often advised to start the back swing solely with the wrists. This is quite wrong as the pictures of the stars will illustrate. This misconception of the golf stroke results, I think, because the movements of the waggle and swing proper are confused.

Preliminary to the swing proper every good player indulges in a waggle, which, among other things, enables the player to relax his muscles. The movements of the waggle consist, in so far as the left arm is concerned, in a slight turning of the forearm at the elbow joint with no wrist movement whatever. At the same time the right hand is extended at the wrist joint. The reversing of these two movements complete the movements of the waggle.

In the swing proper, although the movements of the waggle take place, they are distributed more evenly over the whole arc. In the initial stages of the swing the left arm goes back almost straight, and there is no roll at the elbow joint as is the case in the waggle. Any player who attempts to commence the golf swing by the wrists, or by rolling or pronating the forearm, as this is sometimes called, is certainly making the game more difficult than it need be. I don't say it is impossible to play golf this way, but it cannot be gainsaid that such a procedure does not make for consistency and length. Apart from the force altogether that one is able to put in the blow with the correct method, the face of the club is kept square to the ball for a number of inches. Whereas when the wrist starts the movements, or again where the forearms are rolled, the face of the club turns away sharply from the ball, and unless the face of the club in the down swing gets square to the ball at the appropriate moment, some inaccuracy or other will result.

For amusement and the sake of brevity it is sometimes useful to think of the fundamentals in three words which form a triangle, which may be called the tripod of success. The three words are: Co-ordination, which will be further amplified in the discussion of balance; Relaxation, which will be treated specifically in an article on "Ease not Effort," and Concentration, which has more to do with the so-called mental aspect of the game and which I hope to deal with somewhat in an article on "Golf Coueism."

STRAWBERRY CROP PROSPECTS IN B. C.

Reports from British Columbia indicate that there will be plenty of berries to supply all possible markets and demands. The season is considerably earlier than last year and excellent spring weather has prevailed in general. Strawberry plants came through the winter with very little heaving and are showing every indication of a fair yield. There is an estimated total bearing acreage of 2,000 acres as compared with 1,500 acres last year.

The present condition of the strawberry plants is generally fair with some in exceptionally good condition. A number of the plants however, bloomed last fall and are consequently weak. Owing to the dry season last year the plants are neither of a size nor in a condition to produce heavy crops. The weather during April has been exceptionally dry with only three light showers. A heavy rain on May 9th, however, did considerable good, but if the weather continues dry the crop will be reduced. The total prospective yield is about 325,000 crates of which about one-third will be shipping stock. Marshalls, Magoons and Dunlops were in full bloom on May 9th and the later varieties were showing slight bloom. There should be some berries on the market by May 24th and carload shipments early in June.

In the Okanagan Valley the plants are in good condition and it is generally expected that there will be a heavy crop.

PREVENTION OF APPLE CRAB

Early Spraying of the Orchard Important.

How many times to spray the apple orchard is a matter of concern to most orchandists. From the results of experiments carried on by the Division of Horticulture of the Dominion Experimental Farms, as outlined in a recently issued bulletin on "Modern Orchard Practices," it appears absolutely necessary to make at least five spraying to control apple scab effectively in bad seasons. In the opinion of the author, Mr. M. B. Davis, who is chief assistant horticulturist, the importance of early sprays as an insurance against the loss of crop has been neglected and overlooked too much in the past. It is the early sprays, he says, which save the crop. The wise man sprays from the early spring to make his crop set.

Apple scab is a disease that spreads or reproduces itself by spores so minute that they cannot be discerned with the naked eye. When the weather becomes sufficiently mild to start the trees, these spores are liberated from the old leaves and infest the young leaves, reproducing new spores in a very few days. By the time blossoms are ready to burst there may be many millions of these spores ready to infect them. At this stage the pistil, which will ultimately ripen into an apple, is very tender and if attacked by a germinating spore, which sends out roots to penetrate the skin, will be killed and the chances of a crop ruined. Ravages of scab are often attributed to imperfect pollination or frost when in reality black spot or scab is the cause of the loss. Cool, moist weather, such as we have in spring, is the most favourable for the development of scab, which spreads but little during the summer. Thus the important sprays are the early ones. Spraying is a preventive, and cannot repair damage already done. It prevents the development of the germinating spore. The bulletin here referred to goes very thoroughly into the details of the cultivation, spraying and management of the apple orchard.

DO HOGS PAY?

A leading agricultural journal is carrying a series of articles on "Do Hogs Pay?"

Our experience with hogs in the newspaper business is that they do not pay. They usually sponge the paper from some neighbor or sneak around to some store and read it and then kick because the editor did not waste a lot of good white space in telling what a prominent citizen the hog is. The same kind of a hog has been known to bring in a column obituary about his wife when she passed away and an elaborate card of thanks. Although he never spent a nickel to help keep the paper alive he wants a lot of publicity when some member of his family dies. We have also known the hog to run large advertisements in the paper and then refuse to pay his bills. One particularly mean, low-down species of the hog will take the paper for several years and then chuck it back into the postoffice, marked "refused" and imagines that he paid the bill. This species is fast becoming extinct, however, because most editors do not send the paper without payment in advance. The same class of hog that infests the newspaper office often belongs to church and lets the poor widow pay more on the preacher's salary than he does.

THE LURE OF THE BROOK

If in the spring the young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love there are otthers whose fancies turn to more material things. Some men's fancies turn to golf, others take advantage of the ethereal mildness of springtime to wander in the peaceful places where one may think and dream and forget that existence demands a continuous struggle.

Have you ever, when the day was fair in spring, lingered beside an old mill and listened to the water splashing over the dam? Have you ever followed a peaceful stream through grassy fields, past greening slopes, and down into the woodland hollows where at every turn some wonder recalled forgotten pleasure was displayed? There is something about a small stream that is found in no other of Nature's miracles. It is friendly and companionable. It seems to be animate; it laughs and it murmurs; no extraordinary imagination is needed by him who hears it singing. It chatters as it flows on its way to join the brimming river.

The brook in springtime is a thing of infinite variety. How carefully it selects its course, turning and tumbling, narrowing and widening, creeping under overhanging ledges, finding its way out of rocky clefts, and keeping ceaselessly, cheerfully on its way. Out of silent thickets, into broad meadows, under patient bridges and down past the yellow willows, where you pause awhile to pipe upon the whistle you have made from a golden branch, as you did in the long ago when all the world was new, the brook flows on and beckons you to follow.

If you are inclined sometimes to wonder whether life is worth the price in toil, and care, and disappointments, and lost illusions, go down along the stream in springtime and let it lure you back to the golden land of dreams where youth abides and brave new hopes are born.

TELL IT TO JANE

Study the home life of most men who have money and have made a success in business, and you will find their wives have been thrifty women.

Look over the list of the men who have shone in society, and the list will reveal that their wives were social climbers, but they slipped on the ladder of success and struck bottom.

More men are made or marred by their wives than by any other human agency. Give a man a gadding butterfly for a wife and he will be a worm in business, nine times out of ten.

Then, there is the other side. Some men are slaves to their business, and if it were not for the influence of their sensible wives they would sleep in the stock room, and that means premature planting.

Back of every successful man you will find a sensible woman.

The empty milk bottles, washed and waiting for the milkman, on the front step every morning, is a sure sign that the queen in that home is standing back of her knight who goes forth to battle each day.

NOT LEARNED FROM BOOKS

All over this land the oratory of commencements is being heard, sermons are being preached to graduates and commencement addresses are being delivered. All the advice, which the graduate is expected to absorb may or may not be good advice, but the following simple hints we know to be helpful:

He must be honest above all things, and allow nothing to convince him there is a compromise between honesty and dishonesty.

He must be an out-and-out believer that a man cannot drink whisky and succeed.

He must, too, decide between being a society man or a business man; he cannot be both.

He must make his life outside the office the same as in it and not be possessed with the idea that his employer has no business to question his movements after business hours. An employer has the right to expect his employees to be respectable at all times.

He must respect other people's opinions, always remembering that a young man has much to learn.

And he must never forget that, being born of woman, he owes an obligation to his mother's sex which, as a loyal son and gentleman, forbids him from listening without protest, to offensive stories in which she is concerned. A young man cannot listen to some of the stories which a certain class of young men are fond of telling without offending his mother, his sister, or the girl, who a little later will teach him through her own sweet life that whatever is said to the moral detriment of her sex is a lie and a reflection upon the two women who will prove his best his truest, his most loving friends—his mother and his wife.

The electric equipment of a home to-day, no matter how simple that home may be, is a scientific problem and warrants a few minutes attention and study.

Electricity is constantly making life easier, more convenient and more comfortable for everybody and, as the world is grasping the place of electricity in the home, soon it will be the exception for a house not to be thoroughly equipped for every phase of electrical service.

Considering the importance of the electrical equipment of the home, nothing should be left to chance. The wiring should be right, illumination properly provided for, electrical outlets conveniently placed and the materials and appliances should be what experts have decided is necessary for a safe, dependable and permanent job. In other words, your equipment ought to be standard.

Your electrical installation requires a specialized knowledge just the same as your heating or plumbing installation. The heating engineer or the sanitary engineer knows better than you do what your house requires. In these cases, if you are wise, you select a man whom you know to be qualified in every respect to give you a satisfactory installation at a fair price.

There has to be a man who knows, and the community has to have some means to find him. The man who knows electricity, so far as it applied to the modern household, is the qualified electrical contractor, who is in close touch with the latest practise in electrical wiring.

For the BEST installation go to

BARTHELMESS' NEW PICTURE PARALLELS "TOL'ABLE DAVID"

Another picture to parallel "Tol-'able David" may sound almost impossible, yet Richard Barthelmess has created just that in "The Bond Boy," his newest production for Inspiration Pictures, Inc., coming to Ilo-Ilo Theatre Friday and Saturday. Henry King, who has directed all Barthelmess' starring vehicles, helps him do it again.

With George W. Ogden's story as a guide, this production has the Virginian hills locale, the people for characters, the old practice of bonding out children to masters until they reach twenty-one for theme. And, in this case, Dick Barthelmess is the boy. He is cast as Joe Newbolt, young son of an impoverished widow who, to save his mother from the poor house, accepts identure to Isom Chase, farmer and taskmaster. Chase, an old man, has taken a young wife —a mere girl who found another job. These two young people are thrown together in a common bond of servitude, but the girl, after failing in an attempt to win Joe's interest, becomes infatuated with a gaudy book agent and plans an elopement with him. Overhearing this, Joe intercepts and also accepts the blame when Chase returns. In a fight the farmer is accidentally killed but Joe is called upon for silence to save the young wife's honor and he stumbled to the very shadow of the gallows—having saved another, but unable to save himself.

The story is a magnificent one, but more striking still is the star's portrayal. There are moments which should not be told here; their enjoyment must be left to the audience and there are other moments about which one should remain silent yet cannot. They are so good they must be revealed. A snatch of cell, a hopeless boy, beyond the window gaunt gallows standing and a noose swinging in the moonlight. Its reflection pours through the cell window and strikes the wall. Its omen numbs the boy. Only one eye moves—from right to left, from left to right throughout the hours, following the shadow of the rope. It's wonderful work. And on top of it comes an escape and a man hunt with bloodhounds which stand high in the year's scale of dramatic thrills.

HAIR-ABLE HAIR-RAISING SCENES IN LLOYD'S SENSATIONAL COMEDY

The location is twelve stories above the street. Clinging to the side of the building, two-thirds of the way up, with a dozen pigeons roosting on his head is Harold Lloyd. The crowd below, amused but frightened, watch breathlessly while the spectacled comedian continues his upward climb, overcoming the most difficult and hilarious obstacles.

This is just one of the impressions you get after seeing Lloyd's new seven reel comedy which comes to the Ilo-Ilo Monday and Tuesday.

How Harold Lloyd performs his thrill stunts is a mystery. It is certain that he did them himself, for his face is seen plainly in every hazardous predicament he encounters. When a young man attempts to climb the side of a twelve story building in the place of a real "human fly," and meets hilarious trouble every foot of the way up the result is a continuous run of uproarious laughter.

But the comedy is not all thrills. There is a real story—a delightful story with pretty little Mildred Davis —now Mrs. Harold Lloyd—the young lady in the case. We don't like to tell too much of it, but Mildred is the cause of everything—as has been with Woman through the Ages.

The first scenes of the comedy take place in a department store in the Big City, where Harold has gone to make his fortune. His trouble commences when the girl, thinking he has acquired a fortune already, comes to town to marry him. And what a time Harold has! The haughty floor-walker in the store glares while Harold tries to get his lady love out of the building and at the same time pretend to her that he is the general manager. But I must not give away too many secrets!

As The Boy, Harold Lloyd is at his best. He has a huge bag of new tricks up his sleeve and a recklessness in facing danger that is amazing. Mildred is sweetness personified. Then there is Noah Young, well remembered as the hard-boiled gob in "A Sailor Made Man." Bill Strothers, a real "human-fly" makes his screen debut and gets into the spirit of the fun splendidly. Westcott B. Clarke is the floor-walker, and Anna Townsend, remembered as "Grandma," is also seen. And there is the funniest "drunk" we have ever seen in films.

You really cannot afford to miss "Safety Last." It's Harold's most hair-able hair-raising comedy that will make you weak from laughing!

Look Extra to be screened with "SAFETY LAST"

Along with Lloyd's comedy Douglas McLean will be seen in "Bell Boy 13" a dandy five reel comedy. This will make a twelve reel show for these two days. Don't miss it.

JAMES McGREGOR RESIGNS CHIEF INSPECTORSHIP

Victoria.—Mr. James McGregor, who has been Chief Inspector of Mines for British Columbia since the 10th May, 1920, has resigned the position because of ill health. The duties of the office will be taken over on the first of June next by George Wilkinson, who was chief inspector from the year 1917 to 1920 and resigned to become general superintendent of the Pacific Coast Coal Mines, Ltd.

In making this announcement Hon. Wm. Sloan, Minister of Mines, stated that it was a matter of sincere regret, not only to himself but to all officials of the Department of Mines, that Mr. McGregor should be compelled to relinquish office on account of poor health. He had been in the service of the Department for about twenty-five years and had a record throughout that period of efficiency and conscientious attention to duty. From the age of fourteen years up to the date of his entry to the civil service he had been prominently connected with the coal mining industry of Vancouver Island. It was Mr. Sloan's hope and that of all Mr. McGregor's associates, that he would be restored to complete health.

Mr. Wilkinson, who takes over the office, has had many experiences as a mine operator and engineer in this province. Prior to becoming chief inspector in 1917 he was manager of the Western Fuel Co.'s Reserve mine at Nanaimo. Born in Cumberland, England, May 27, 1875, he was at work in the mines there for five years before coming to Vancouver Island in 1896, since which time he has been engaged, practically without cession, in and around the coal and metalliferous mines. His techni-cal qualifications are the highest, as he holds a first class mine manager's certificate both in British Columbia and Alberta and is a member of the association of professional engineers of the province of B. C.

Made From The Mildest Cleansers

Palmolive contains Palm and Olive oils. These oils were the cosmetic cleansers used by Cleopatra and kept her skin fresh, smooth and youthful.

Today their scientific combination in Palmolive produces the most perfect of all facial cleansers. Science has discovered nothing finer, milder or more beneficial for the toilet than Palm and Olive oils.

Artful applications of rouge and powder may lend your skin the appearance of smooth freshness. But unless you cleanse the pores thoroughly every day with soap and water, blackheads, pimples and other blemishes are sure to result.

Some persons imagine that soap is too harsh for the face. They should try Palmolive. Its mild, smooth, creamy lather, when massaged into the skin, cleanses without the slightest irritation.

You can buy Palmolive Soap at all first-class dealers.

News Of British Columbia

One million sheep in B. C. in 1930, is the goal aimed at by Hon. T. D. Pattullo, minister of lands, who states that the government is undertaking an educational campaign to increase the number of sheep raised in the province. At present, he says, there are only 50,000 sheep in British Columbia, on the 16,000 farms of the province. There is room for 100,000 farms, but if only twenty head of sheep were carried on each of the 16,000 farms, there would be a total of 320,000. The minister points out that every farmer should carry a few sheep. The cost of their keep is small, while the profits are large. Furthermore, there is a splendid home market for both mutton, lamb and wool. At present British Columbia brings in 50,000 sheep annually for home consumption, as well as 3,000,000 pounds of dressed mutton and products. British Columbia is an ideal sheep country and the farmer has been passing up a sure thing.

More faith in the natural wealth of their own country instead of blind investment in foreign securities peddled by glib salesmen, would have meant a saving of millions of dollars to the people of British Columbia during the past three or four years. Attorney-General A. M. Manson declared when addressing a meeting of the Retail Merchants Association. "British Columbia is the last country in the world than can afford to lack business initiative," he said. "We are commencing to experience a period of widespread industrial readjustment and yet we find that many of our most promising enterprises, based on the natural wealth of the country, are passing into the control of foreigners. Have we no wealthy business men, or do they simply lack initiative and a pioneering spirit?"

A source of income for the government will be the coming sale of building lots at Point Grey. Part of the 3000 acres of goverment property, comprising the University lands, is being cleared and will be placed on the market this summer and fall, states Hon. W. H. Sutherland, minister of public works. It is understood that the proceeds from the sale of these valuable lands will go a long way towards paying for the university.

Premier Oliver and his cabinet have commenced the heavy task of redistribution of seats in the Legislature of British Columbia, and it is expected that at the next session of the House, which must commence by December 15 and probably will start in October, a bill will be introduced providing for a re-arrangement of provincial representation. At the last general election there were less than 1000 votes cast in several ridings, while large electoral districts in some instances have only one member. No decision can be given out as to what changes will be made but Premier Oliver declares he is determined to solve the problem in such a manner as to provide the fairest representation possible for every part of the province.

Hon. William Sloan, minister of mines, has returned from the International Mining Convention, held at Spokane, where he delivered an address on mining in British Columbia, past and present. A special mineral display was taken to Spokane and no little interest was thus created in the great mineral wealth of this province. The minister claims that this will be the banner mining year in British Columbia, with a total production of from forty to fifty million dollars.

British and American capital is becoming interested, while local investors are realizing that the finest investment opportunities on the continent are found within the borders of their own province.

SUGGESTIONS FOR PLANTING HOME GROUNDS

Written for the Canadian Horticultural Council by J. E. Carter, Guelph.

As one result of the wide-spread movements for outdoor improvement that have swept the country, awakening the latent civic pride of individuals and in many cases, of entire communities, considerable progress has been made toward making our country more beautiful.

The neglected grounds of many school houses and public play grounds have been beautified, waste places reclaimed, vacant lots redeemed, back yards tidied and the home grounds generally made more attractive and livable.

As landscape gardening is an art not widely understood or appreciated, it is not at all surprising that mistakes have been made in some of these attempts to beautify. But if these efforts have been instrumental in removing the untidy, tell-tale signs from pleasing and orderly in appearance, they have surely not been in vain.

It is much easier to criticise than to rectify, but a few simple suggestions as to what constitutes artistic planting, may be of some assistance in correcting, or at least modifying, the poor effects of most flagrant errors. Haphazard planting and crowding, cause most of the troubles. To set out quantities of trees, shrubs plants at random without a well debound to produce a "crazy quilt" effect that is confusing and disquieting.

As an artist first makes a study or sketch of a painting he desires to create, so the amateur landscape gardener should study carefully the possibilities of the area to be beautified, and compose a planting scheme that will be harmonious. In this working plan, aim to secure as large and unbroken a vista of velvety lawn as is possible as this gives a restful effect of speciousness. Effectively grouped shrubs and plants may be used to round out angles, screen off undesirable objects and to form a kind of frame along the boundaries or division walls of fences. They should never, for good effect, be dotted promiscously on the lawn proper, as such a method tends to dwarf or decrease the apparent size of the plot.

Plants graduated as to height—the tallest in the back ground—planted along the foundation of buildings soften the harsh outlines and serve as a sort of connecting link in the correlation of buildings and grounds. Stiff, formal lines in the border may be avoided by skilfully massing appropriate varieties, so that the groups dovetail in an irregular fashion. Trees, if used at all, on places of limited areas, are usually better in the background. Those that attain a large size are decidedly out of place in a planting scheme for small yards.

Even the diminutive city yard has its planting possibilities. If the small patch is well sodded or sown with a high grade of lawn mixture, the resulting green sward, bordered with flowering plants and graceful vines trained to drape and screen the fence of the enclosure, will form an oasis that will prove pleasing to the eye, rest to the nerves and a fitting recompense for all the effort put forth and for the faith implyied.

FOR BEAUTY'S SAKE

By JANE HILL

Every real woman wants to be beautiful, so those who are not born so must use whatever means and artistry are at hand.

Complexions, are, of course, of primary importance. But the woman whose skin isn't in good condition, and who refuses to deny herself sweets or meats or whatever it is that experience proves is not kind to her—that woman has disqualified herself for instruction at the very start. Drinking water might clear her complexion—glasses and glasses of water, one every time she thinks of it. But this, too, takes patience in keeping it up. Exercise will work wonders, particularly if taken under a trained instructor. But some women have so little will-power, even in pursuit of their own ends, that a course of action of any kind seems impossible to them. And yet, nothing in the way of cosmetics, colors, or well chosen clothes will disguise fundamentally unhealthy skin conditions. Do, for beauty's sake, attack your problem strenuously, if strenuous methods are needed!

Little Things About the Complexion

Cold cream at night, well massaged in (a thin film in the daytime as a basis for powder) rouge of the right shade, well placed, so as not to spoil the curve o fthe cheek by coming too far forward or emphasize high cheek bones by o spot at the top —the right powder to blend with the natural tint of the skin —these may all be worked out individually, and are well worth the effort.

The powder question, by the way, is not only very important, but much neglected. Half the women who use white powder should substitute brunette; almost all of the remainder should declare for flesh color unless, in individual cases. it is found better to blend one's own powder, using a little of this and a little of that until the exact shade ofone's skin is attained.

Don't Forget Your Figure

There now!.....We've spent hours over our complexions. But, if we're past twenty-five (or even if we aren't but weren't born slim Venuses), isn't there an ugly bit of padding somewhere that Nature has treacherously given us while we wern't looking? Our hips—are they too prominent? (Truthfully, now!) Or have we escaped that tragedy only to grow unnecessarily—side view, please—somewhere else? Or does our problem lie above the equator rather than below?

What i sthe use of a beautiful face if it can't be seen for noticing the ugly, billowy curve from armpit to ankle? A worldly-wise corset is the best friend of most of us; but when you buy this necessary beauty aid, use at least the discretion you do in buying your face powder. In this day of corsets exactly designed to different figure needs there is no more reason for you to wear an obvious, uncomfortable, unbecoming corset than there is need of making a caricature of your face by using a deadly white powder instead of one tinted to the natural color of your skin. Corsetry isn't what it was in the old days—thank Venus.

If you have any corset problem, write to Miss Jane Hill, in care of this paper, and your letter (unopened) will be forwarded direct to her for answer.

82 per cent. of the cost of this car represents money actually spent in Canada for labor, material, and parts, purchased from Canadian parts manufacturers.

This is a much higher percentage than exists with the average Canadian-built car, and represents all that can be possibly produced in Canada at the present time.

The annual pay roll of The General Motors of Canada Ltd., is estimated to run over six millions of dollars, actually paid to Canadian labor.
