BRITISH SENTRY IN CAPTURED STATION.

During the advance toward Cambrai the British took up many positions formerly held by the Germans, using their dugouts and sentry boxes to good advantage. The German retreat was so hasty they had not time to destroy them.

ILO ILO THEATRE

Today's program will be a Triangle Film, "The Sawdust Ring," featuring Bessie Love. Also a Ford Magazine Monthly and a Triangle Comedy.

Next week Douglas Fairbanks, world-renowned comedian, will be seen in "Reaching For the Moon." He is a world favorite and should not be missed.

Mike Bolatovitch, mine contractor of No. 4 Mine, was slightly injured on Saturday last and taken to the Cumberland General Hospital.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Cumberland General Hospital held a tag day on Saturday, June 8th., for the benefit of the local Hospital and as usual the citizens responded generously. The ladies collected $333, and are very pleased and grateful with the result and wish to thank all those who took part in making the day a success.

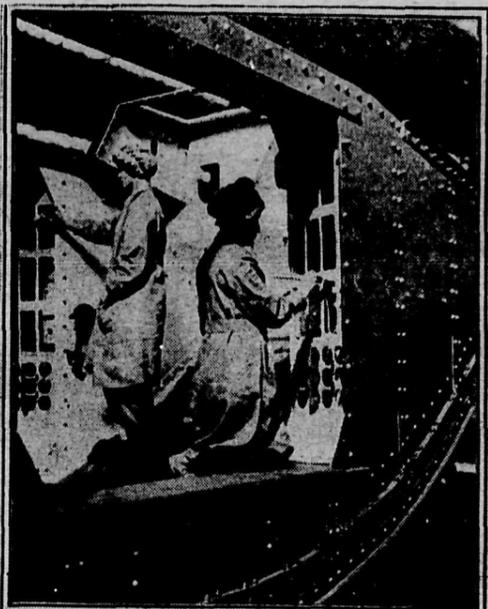

The Garden Fete held last Wednesday at Mrs. Mumford's and Mrs. Spicer's proved a very great success owing to the kind support and help of the residents of the district. The members of Holy Trinity Church take this opportunity of thanking most heartily all those contributing to its success, more particularly the members of the Orchestra for music and the Editor of the Islander for free printing. The net proceeds will be at least $90.

SAD ACCIDENT.

A sad accident occurred on Thursday afternoon on Main Street, Cumberland, when Charlie Sing Chong was driving his Ford car to Chinatown, and just opposite the residence of Mr. Oliver their three year old child, Eric Norman Oliver, it appears, was in the middle of the road. Although Charlie Sing Chong went over the left embankment to the extent of almost capsizing his car in an effort to get out of the way of the child, the unfortunate accident occurred causing the death of the boy. The coroner held an inquest on Friday evening when the jury returned a verdict of accidental death exonerating Charlie Sing Chong from all blame. The funeral of Eric Norman Oliver took place today to the Cumberland Cemetery with Rev. Archdeacon Collinson officiating. The sympathy of the community is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Oliver.

A special meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Cumberland General Hospital will be held at the residence of Mrs. John Bruce at 7.30 p.m., on Tuesday, June 18th. Very important business on hand and all members are requested to attend. The receipts for hospital tag day held on Saturday, June 8th, were: Union Bay, $35; Bevan, $31.20; Chinatown and Japanese Town, $57.40 and around town will total $333 and there is still a little more to come in from Union Bay.

BRITISH WOMEN WORKING ON THE IRON CAVALRY

British women have been pictured at work in practically every industry that will help to win the war. This photograph just received in this country is the first one to show that the women are even now engaged in the construction of the wonderful British tank which accomplished such wonders in demoralizing the Huns.

QUARTER MILLION MEN A MONTH

Boston, June 12.—"The flow of troops from this country to Europe is at the rate of 250,000 a month, and nothing can stop it, certainly not the Kaiser with his U boats," declared Lieut-General Thomas Bridges, British High Commissioner to the United States at a dinner tendered him here last night by a number of prominent British and Canadian residents.

"I have it on the best authority," he continued, "that General Foch, with whom I am intimately acquainted, is very certain he has the situation well in hand and can now hold the Germans."

"We have to-day 200,000 American troops brigaded with British and French soldiers and this intimate association will have a far-reaching effect on the future of the nations."

London, June 12.—As an outcome of recent conferences the Japanese Government is preparing a declaring its attitude toward Russia, according to a Tientsin dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company.

AUSTRIAN SHIP SUNK

Venice, June 11, via Rome, June 12.—One Austrian dreadnought was destroyed and a second one damaged in the torpedo attack made by Italian torpedo boats upon an Austrian naval division near the Dalmatian Islands on Monday, it was officially reported to-night in a communication by the Chief of Staff of the Italian army.

ALLEGED U-BOAT SPY IN CUSTODY.

Philadelphia, June 12.—A man employed as a bartender in Atlantic City is being held by the naval authorities here in the belief that he is a member of a band of German spies, which has been sought for a week, because of the impression that they were signalling U-boats at sea. He was arrested at Atlantic City and brought to this city. He is accused of swinging a curtain back and forth at a window in front of lighted gas jets. The window overlooked the shoals at Brigantine to the open Atlantic.

EXPECTS 2000 TO REGISTER.

Vancouver, June 12.—Up to yesterday 1,616 young men between the ages of nineteen and twenty-two years had registered with R. S. Lennie, Registrar under the Military Service Act in British Columbia. Mr. Lennie stated that it was expected that some 2,000 young men of the prescribed age would register in British Columbia, and he expects this number to be reached by the end of next week.

OVER FIFTY THOUSAND OF NINETEEN CLASS.

Ottawa, June 12.—The calling to the colors of the nineteen-year-old men throughout Canada is delayed. When the proclamation requiring these men to register was published, it was intimated that they would not be required actually to report for duty before July. It is now considered improbable that many, if any, of the men will be summoned before September or October.

Up to the present 51,883 men nineteen years old have registered for military service. Of these, it is estimated, seventy-three per cent probably will rank in Medical Category A, as fit for general service overseas.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT OF 24th MAY SPORTS.

To the Chairman, Officers, Committeemen and Subscribers of the 1918 Victoria Day Celebration Fund, Cumberland, B. C.

Gentlemen:—I beg to submit herewith a final Balance sheet of the above fund, showing in detail the amounts collected by each collector, and other donations and sources of revenue, and the disbursements for flags, fixing of grounds, prizes, free show, etc., and a final balance of $175.00, which is now deposited in the names of W. W. Willard and the City Clerk, in trust for the officers duly elected at a regular public meeting for the celebration of 1919 Victoria Day.

I may say the last meeting was called for June 3rd., vide local press, after due instructions from the president, Mayor Harrison, and was attended by myself only, hence the reason of taking the unusual course of issuing an uncertified balance sheet. All vouchers, bills, etc., are now in the hands of the treasurer, receipted, and can be inspected by any meeting which is called for the purpose.

Before closing I wish, on behalf of those who didn't attend the meeting, to offer a hearty vote of thanks to all who so kindly assisted to make the sports a real success and day of joy for the children, particularly Mrs. Clinton and Mr. Drader for handling the children's parade so well.

Believe me, gentlemen, Your obedient servant, T. MORDY.

RED CROSS VIGNETTES.

What a delightful thing it would be if everyone who has given money or some more personal gift to the relief work of the Red Cross, could go through the hospitals and camps of France with one of the faithful agents who distribute the invaluable supplies! He would see many sights that would bring tears to his eyes—tears of pity, and tears of gladness too; he would feel as he cannot now—unless he is a person of extraordinary imagination—the full beauty and tenderness of the work this great society carries on; and he would return to his home determined to give generously more this year than he has ever given before for carrying on and extending the service that the Red Cross offers to the unfortunate and the suffering. Since our readers cannot do that, they will be glad to read a few brief episodes in the experience of a Red Cross agent in France; they are taken from an article in the Yale Review by Mr. Howard Copeland:

There is a new-fangled theory these last few years about intratomic energy—unsuspected forces inside the dull lead of the bullet that, if released, would incredibly surpass the paltry force of its speeding flight. Well, something like that emanates from the interior of these surprise bags that the women of America have sent to the wounded soldiers of France—more than even the kindest hearts that sent them ever put into them! I recall a dying man in a hospital of the 15th Region a few weeks ago. He just stroked the little bag all day long as it lay on the covers of his bed for three days before his death, taking out all the little objects and putting them back again, one by one, over and over. The last words he spoke were, "Il faut écrire a cette dame, (I must write to the lady,) and he held the card she had written close to his cheek as if whispering words of love to this person, the first, perhaps, who had shown tenderness to him since the shattering of his little home in the north of France, when he went to the trenches and his wife and daughter were deported into slavery.

Many a shirt or a dollar's worth of woolen sweater has saved a human life. I remember heading my motor car across country against a cold, sleety rain one bitter day last winter and meeting a young soldier who accepted the proffered seat by my side. He had just come from the hospital, where he had been sent in the heat of the preceding summer, and he had been trudging now through the snow with evidently the same clothes he had worn then. He was an electric bellhanger from the part of France invaded. He had been invalidated out of military service, and had asked that the railway ticket always given in such cases should be made out for a town just behind us, because he knew of an old employer there. But the establishment, like many others, had been closed since the beginning of the war, and it was on a very faint hope that he was making his way to the next town in search of needed employment. His poor body, long enfeebled by illness and the close air of hospital wards, was shaking so that he could hardly speak. Now, in future years, when all this horrible war shall have come to be to that once young musketeer only a blurred retrospect, if he has a proper sense of proportion there will emerge from it the memory of a shirt, a sweater and a few other woolen garments, which will assume monumental proportions. For if he has survived that day, I am sure it was those humble garments that saved his life.

I recall a French town with ample parks and shade trees by a stream where for some reason there had been an obstacle to the arrival of shoes for the men in hospital, and it was strictly forbidden that those not properly shod should go out of the building. Here were scores of men who had had their shoes cut off by the surgeon's knife before being brought to the hospital on stretchers, now grown strong and quite to walk about, but condemned for lack of shoes to pass the long summer afternoons in the sultry hospital wards. Fortunate ones with enough money bought themselves some kind of footwear sufficient to pass the sentry. I remember a nice old priest serving as a nurse who received me in his stocken feet, and explained that he had lent his shoes to one of the men so that he could go out for the first time to the shade by the river. I should have so much liked to furnish shoes to all those poor, imprisoned men, but there were none among the wares I had with me; and as available funds for buying them were not so ample that year as now, I had to pass on, leaving the men patient and uncomplaining. But, as I say, it is ever some little crevice or chink left in the path of the great steam roller of a national administration that presents opportunity for our services.

Our task of distributing Red Cross wares to the little village hospitals is a very easy one. It is just: "Bon soir, Monsieur le Cure! Here are some warm woolens for your wounded men to put on when they are well enough to be about. Here are some bandages, all sealed in these sterilized boxes. No. there is nothing at all to pay; thousands of women have been knitting them for you over in America, thousands of miles away. No, there no thanks due to you from you. It's all the other way round; it's we who thank you for all the work you have been doing for us here in France these three years and more.

And the old cure, or the rustic village mayor, looking bewildered as the beautiful flannels, bed linen and bandages roll out from the automobile, crosses himself piously and stares at me in a kind of speechless awe as if I were a messenger straight out of the sky. Blue-clad men in bandages hobble out of the kitchen, their potato paring or their dish-washing still in evidence; the whole establishment, like one large, friendly family, begin to press my hand, and I am off across country toward another hospital twenty miles before the wonderful wares have been even comprehended. Truly, every one of the little benevolence hospitals assures a gilt-edged investment for the American dollar, a dollar that in these cases not only speeds not only to its mark with all its initial energy but, like those "explosive bullets" we hear about, suddenly engenders an unsuspected and increased force when lodged in the bosom of the target.

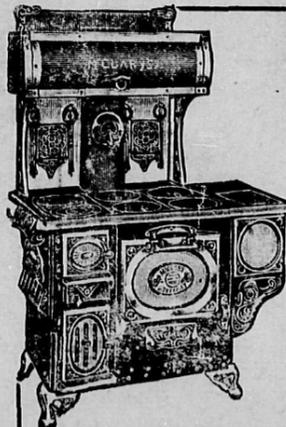

CUMBERLAND NURSE STAYED WITH DYING

The Province of June 10th.. said:

Despite the danger from destructive bombs which were being rained down on a military hospital in France by Hun aviators. Nursing Sister Mary Browne and Nursing Sister Marie Lutwick continued their work of mercy among the wounded and dying in the shattered wards of the Red Cross Hospital where they were located behind the lines. For their devotion to duty they were decorated, Miss Browne receiving the Military Medal. Miss Lutwick was formerly matron at the hospital at Cumberland, B.
