The Weaker Sex No Longer.

Society women now-a-days thoroughly realize the importance of good health in the matrimonial market, and New York women are today much stronger and healthier, as a rule, than the men are. A few minutes on Broadway, between Fourteenth and Thirty-second streets, on the west side of the street, of a Saturday afternoon, will demonstrate the truth of this assertion. The women, as a rule, are fresh of face, erect of carriage, their heads are well poised and their arms well rounded. Their figures are trim, and they walk along with a strong, regular stride. The men, on the other hand, are too often sallow and loose-jointed, hollow-eyed and flat-chested, and certainly but little else can be expected when the late hours usually kept by them are considered, and it is remembered how many deadly liquors they imbibe.

Rosa Bonheur's Attire.

Rosa Bonheur has often been commented upon by her biographers for her male attire, and the idea commonly obtains that it is her usual costume. But in the streets of Paris she is a large, elderly lady, rather plainly dressed in black, her gray hair gathered under a close bonnet; and unless for the peculiar strength of her face and her piercing, attentive eyes, it would not be noticed that she differed from any other woman in the crowd, except that she wears the red ribbon of the Legion of Honor. Years ago she dressed as a boy so as to attract less attention from the hangers-on of the stables, cattle-yards and menageries, which were visited chiefly by men, and she still wears male attire at home at work. Trousers make her feet appear small, and she also wears a wide-brimmed felt or straw hat. In this costume she appears lower in stature and resembles a remarkably well-preserved middle-aged man.

Heine and His Mother.

Visiting Heine one evening, when he was just dictating a letter to his secretary, I asked him to whom he was writing. He replied, "To my mother." "Is she still alive, the old lady who lives by the Dammthurf" "Oh, yes," said he, "it is true she is old, sick and weak, but she has still the warm heart of a woman." "And you write often to her" "Regularly, every month." "How unhappy she must be on account of your condition?" "Oh, as regards that there exists between us a peculiar arrangement. My mother believes me to be well and healthy. She reads no newspapers. I write often to her, as well as I can, in a merry humor, and then she is happy. That a son can be as sick and miserable as I am, no mother would believe." After this Heine became silent, and my soul was deeply moved when from his bed of torture, where he lay for long years, I saw him seal and send off to the post his letter, which was full of consoling news and assumed serenity.—Alfred Meissner.

To Make Hands White.

Now that the tomato season is coming on, I wish to tell young and old ladies, and gentlemen, too, that there is nothing in the world which will make their hands and faces so soft and white as to wash them in tomato pulp. The way to do it is to take a large, ripe, red tomato and deliberately mash it in the hands, wash the hands in the mash, and afterwards rinse them in clear water. There is an acid in the tomato which is very penetrating, and will remove stains from linen as well as from the human cuticle, and will take moth patches and stains from the face just as easily. There may be some who would not care to use a plebeian tomato. Such can procure a lemon, cut off the ends, and then cut the lemon in two in the middle. Stand the parts up, the small cut ends downward, and put on each piece four lumps of sugar and set them in the oven until the sugar is dissolved and gone into the lemon. Then rub one half of the lemon on each hand, put on an old pair of gloves and keep them on till morning, when the hands will be soft, and white, and smooth. The juice is not sticky, as one might suppose, but appears oily, and is a very excellent remedy for rough, red, or chapped hands. It is much used by Turkish women.

Do not take quinine for malarial disorders. Ayer's Ague Cure contains none, or any other injurious ingredient. This preparation, if taken strictly in accordance with directions, is warranted to cure all malarial diseases.

LAST NIGHT'S DESPATCHES.

THE CELESTIAL.

LONDON, June 9.—The Chinaman is just now causing the British government considerable anxiety. In addition to the trouble to the home government, caused by the action of the Australian colonies regarding the landing of Chinamen in Australia, the Chinamen in India are now creating difficulties which are rapidly assuming alarming proportions. Desperate fights between the members of the secret societies, the Ghi Hin and the Ho Sing, are now of almost daily occurrence. The police in a number of instances having to be reinforced by the military to quell the disturbances. In Calcutta and other large ports the celestials are in a small minority and the existence of the Chinese secret societies does not matter much to the general public, but in other parts of India, Burmah for instance, where the Chinese muster very strong, the subject is one of considerable importance to India, and affects the peace and security of the civil population. The Chinese throughout India, and in fact Australia, Singapore and Sarawak, are honeycombed by the Hoey or secret societies. Originally formed in China, they attain their full force and vigor in outlying countries, where, under British freedom and laws, they find themselves practically unchecked until some desperate fight reveals their existence. These secret societies, of which the Ghi Hin and Ho Sing are chief, hold their victims with the grip of a vice, body and soul. There are officers and members initiated into their mysteries with the most direful threats, which are actually carried out. They monopolize several branches of commerce and the interloper is killed forthwith. They utterly command the labor market, regulate wages and acknowledge neither law nor justice. At Sarawack the evil was found to be so serious that the government made a law in 1870, decreeing death to every member ipso facto. In Singapore, time after time, they have raised fatal riots, some of which have only been quelled by calling out the military. In Burmah they are supported by the Dacoits and are believed by the Indian government to be at the bottom of the trouble with the Thibetians.

THIS AFTERNOON'S DESPATCHES.

A SLIGHT REPHYR.

MILWAHKEE, June 11.—A great wind and rain storm passed over northern Wisconsin, Michigan, and Dakota, Saturday night doing immense damage. At Wyates, Dakota, several persons were killed by lightning and falling debris. At Grand Forks it had been raining and continued incessantly for 48 hours, flooding cellars and the business portion of the city and making the streets impassable. To add to the general demoralization the sewer burst on Demers Avenue, flooding the basements to a depth of 5 feet and destroying furniture and perishable goods. At Marquette many houses were undermined and in some cases swept away. Culverts and bridges were destroyed and miles of fences and sidewalks carried off.

SHOT AND KILLED.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 11.—Samuel Robertson, a porter, was shot and killed late last night by Albert Bean, book-keeper. Bean, in company with John Gould and two girls, had returned from an excursion. They entered the park known as Columbia square when they were approached by a stranger who threatened to arrest them. A quarrel and scuffle ensued, ending in Bean drawing a pistol and firing a bullet, killing Robertson, who was one of the crowd which had been drawn to the scene by the noise. Bean surrendered.

The sale is a portion of the Dorralites grant, and the purchase money aggregates $500,000.

From Vernon.

(Correspondence of the Columbian.)

VERNON, June 6.—The seasonable rains of last week are showing their influence on the crops; and the prospects of an abundant harvest is exhibited in the cheerful countenances of the farmers.

Hon. F. G. Vernon is spending a few days in town, and on his extensive estate. The arduous labors of the late session apparently leave no traces behind. He contemplates shipping a portion of his large band of horses to the Northwest this summer.

Messrs. Fox & Norris' lease of the Centreville hotel expired on the 24th ult., and the hotel relapsed into the hands of its proprietor. Mr. Fox and family have gone to Illicillewaet. Their loss will be greatly felt here, for they had won many friends. It is hoped they will return to Vernon in the near future.

There are no recent developments in mining matters, either placer or quartz. Mr. Morrison's company were obliged to cease sinking their shaft on account of foul air; but they are about to erect machinery to overcome this difficulty.

Mr. Coryell, C.E., was surveying several weeks in the region contiguous to Osoyoos, and returned recently. He will soon repair thither on professional work.

When Mr. O'Keefe was shearing sheep the corral caught fire while the Indian was away having dinner, and over 20 sheep were burnt. It is not clear whether the fire was caused by the Indian smoking, or by matches in the hands of Mr. O'Keefe's children.

Bunting floated from every mast in town to-day on receipt of the news that a subsidy had been granted to the Shuswap & Okanogan railway.

Beautiful weather and an occasional, tiny, sanguinary, irate mosquito.

From Chilliwhack.

Camp meeting closed on Wednesday, June 6th. A few gentle showers fell during the first three days, just sufficient to lay the dust. The services were well attended, especially on Sunday; the day being so fine there was a large attendance. No excitement (so called) prevailed, and about 25 Indians and 15 young white people resolved henceforth to lead a Christian life. Many who were present acknowledged the services were seasons of wonderful spiritual power, and never has it been our privilege to listen to clearer expositions of the gospel than were given by those who took part in the services, viz: Revs. E. Robson, White, Tate, Hemlaw, Bryant, and Hall; also the Rev. Flynn, of Nootsack Crossing. Our resident minister, Rev. T. W. Hall, had the management of the camp, and many thanks are due to him, not only for the able discourses he delivered, but also for the assistance he rendered in making this year's camp meeting one of the best ever held.

The river, which reached to last year's level, is again sinking slowly, and let us hope that all dangers of very serious floods is past; some have had more than their share of the water; but for their own good it is to be hoped they will try and prevent it next year; they can if they will.

Why the cattle are allowed to roam about as they do here, I cannot understand; we might not be troubled with the mosquitoes, but the cattle bring them to our very doors; besides the music of the cow bell is anything but nice to our ears; especially during divine service. See to it ye who have the management of Centreville, for many good and lasting improvements might be made and at a very small cost.

A well-signed memorial has been sent to the postoffice inspector asking him to use his influence in establishing a postoffice savings' bank here; we mean to go ahead.

The life-giving properties of Ayer's Sarsaparilla have established its well-earned reputation, and is the most effectual and popular blood purifier of the day. For all diseases of the stomach, liver, and kidneys, this remedy has no equal. Price, $1.

Daily British Columbian

Monday Evening, June 11, 1888.

In the matter of the proposed railway and traffic bridge over the Fraser at this city in connection with the projected Southern railway, there has been considerable talk about Westminster city giving a bonus to the company constructing the railway. We believe $100,000 has been mentioned as the probable sum required. Such a bridge, if we overlook altogether the fact of its being a railway bridge and connecting this city directly with the great American system of railways, would be invaluable to us as a traffic bridge. Westminster would thereby be put in direct and easy communication with all the splendid agricultural settlements on the south side of the river, from which it has been too long all but isolated, owing to governmental and municipal neglect. As we mentioned in these columns recently, farmers are dissuaded from coming to this, their natural market and trading centre, by the indifferent ferry accommodations provided. The farmers are thus inconvenienced and have to go elsewhere, and this city loses the advantage of their trade, which is a much larger item than many would suppose. With a bridge across the river, open at all times for traffic—with the exception of short intervals when the draw would be in operation to admit the passage of the larger craft—we would do a large and constantly increasing trade with the surrounding settlements, which are gaining a steady accession to their population and wealth. More especially would the benefits of a bridge be apparent during the winter months, when, owing to float ice, and sometimes a partial "freeze-up" for two or three weeks, the service, at no time satisfactory, becomes exceedingly intermittent, and sometimes ceases altogether for a few weeks. The inconvenience and loss which is thus sustained by people on both sides of the river is impossible to estimate, except by those forced to travel at such times. In view of all the facts in the case, it would seem desirable that the city should "strain a point," so to speak, to secure a railway and traffic bridge opposite this city, in connection with the Southern railway. There are other things, however, for which we shall be called upon shortly as a city to raise money, in addition to our ordinary expenditures, as, for instance, a sewerage system, water works, clearing and beautifying our new park and other public grounds and perhaps bonusing some new industries, such as a flouring mill, smelting works, &c. In the matter of the bridge across the Fraser, Westminster will do well to note and profit by the example afforded by the Richmond municipality, which is securing the substantial aid and co-operation of both the provincial and federal authorities in the construction of their bridge across the North Arm. We fear that $100,000 will not be found sufficient assistance for the proposed railway and general traffic bridge across the Fraser, but this city need not shoulder the whole burden alone.

It has been said, and with truth, that it is harder to stand prosperity than adversity, yet few would elect the latter. A mean—known as the happy medium—is no doubt best. Anyone who has witnessed one of those "booms" such as raged in Winnipeg a few years ago, especially if he was engaged in the fray and chanced to come out "at the small end of the horn," must be convinced that "slow and sure" is the wisest and safest course. Some of the transactions that are occurring at present in Westminster prove that even slow going people may be susceptible of entertaining "boom" ideas. A piece of land, twenty-four acres, situate in the suburbs of this city, was purchased from the government a few years ago at a nominal price. The purchaser at that time was considered to be a little fond of retirement, when he isolated his family so far into the bush. He made some improvements, built a comfortable house, &c., and in the meantime the steadily growing town began to encroach on his solitude. The other day he sold his piece of land to a local syndicate of speculative proclivities for something over $5,000. Similar transactions are occuring every day, and some of the most eligible property in the city is passing into the hands of speculators, at high figures. Such transactions, while pleasant to record, have another aspect, which should also be noted. While there are unmistakable evidences that we are progressing as a city, that property is becoming valuable and population increasing, this practice, which has been carried to an excess in other places that we know of, of buying up property and holding it for speculation, does not furnish the best guarantee for continued prosperity. Considerable injury has been done to the province, and to this district, in the past, the effects of which are still apparent, by the operation of this same principle. Speculators and "land-grabbers" have secured at different times large tracts of the public domain from the government for a mere stride. They will not improve these, and they hold them at such high figures, especially at a time like the present, as to frighten intending settlers and drive them out of the country. Such instances have happened, where would-be settlers have become disgusted, owing to the difficulties of obtaining land, and have gone across the line and settled in Washington Territory or Oregon. Government lands yet remaining should not be sold to speculators, but should be reserved exclusively for pre-emptors, who would occupy and improve the land. Otherwise the whole country will be in the hands of speculators, and instead of prosperity we shall soon have adversity; and the most unfortunate will be those who are in possession of the lands, which must be unproductive so long as they are left in a state of nature. To check this selfish greed for land-grabbing there ought to be a heavy tax on all unoccupied lands. The trouble is that those composing the governments themselves favor this practice of land-grabbing, very often prostituting their positions to enrich themselves and their friends off the public domain. In fact it has been very common for those intrusted with the disposal of crown lands to be the chief land grabbers. The recollection in our own day of some of these transactions is anything but pleasing. The motto, "He that ruleth among men should be just," would appear to be terminated by many, "should feather his nest." Responsible government is thus terribly travestied in the whole Dominion. Governments, however, can never be better than the people, but form a pretty fair index to the character of those whom they represent. It is for the people to take a proper hold of these questions, and then to employ stewards who will obey their masters. In Mexico there was a law that in towns and cities, as well as rural lands, if after a certain date land was unoccupied, it was subject to entry by any one who would occupy. How the Spaniards got so far ahead of Britons in political and social economy, it is difficult to imagine. In our cities and towns development is arrested and progress hindered by a like manifestation of the same spirit. Speculators get hold of city property and hold it at a high figure, with no intention of improving it, while all the time it is being enhanced in value by the improvements of their neighbors. Some even will not build when guaranteed a fair interest on the investment. Thus hindrances are thrown in the way of enterprise, which is often driven to seek other fields. Everyone, of course, has the inalienable right, within certain limits, to do as they will with their own, but governments, federal, provincial and civic, should so adjust taxation as to encourage the real bone and sinew of country or city—those who own and improve property—and to discourage the mere speculator and the moss-back landholder. We have some really enterprising men in this city and district, and we want more.

A Sluggish Liver

Causes the Stomach and Bowels to become disordered, and the whole system to suffer from debility. In all such cases Ayer's Pills give prompt relief.

After much suffering from Liver and Stomach troubles, I have finally been cured by taking Ayer's Cathartic Pills. I always find them prompt and thorough in their action, and their occasional use keeps me in a perfectly healthy condition.—Ralph Weeman, Annapolis, Md.

Twenty-five years ago I suffered from a torpid liver, which was restored to healthy action by taking Ayer's Pills. Since that time I have never been without them. They regulate the bowels, assist digestion, and increase the appetite, more surely than any other medicine.—Paul Churchill, Haverhill, Mass.

INVIGORATED.

I know of no remedy equal to Ayer's Pills for Stomach and Liver disorders. I suffered from a Torpid Liver, and Dyspepsia, for eighteen months. My skin was yellow, and my tongue coated. I had no appetite, suffered from Headache, was pale and emaciated. A few boxes of Ayer's Pills, taken in moderate doses, restored me to perfect health.—Waldo Miles, Oberlin, Ohio.

Ayer's Pills are a superior family medicine. They strengthen and invigorate the digestive organs, create an appetite, and remove the horrible depression and despondency resulting from Liver Complaint. I have used these Pills in my family, for years, and they never fail to give entire satisfaction.—Otto Montgomery, Oshkosh, Wis.

TELEGRAM.

OTTAWA, 27th March, 1888.

TO LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR

Your Government should issue public notice cautioning persons going on Sealing expeditions to refrain from assertion of their rights by force, and from taking on board arms and ammunition in excess of their usual requirements. The whole matter is engaging the attention of Her Majesty's Government and forms the subject of diplomatic negotiations now in progress. Any intemperate action in the meanwhile would be most detrimental to British Columbian interests and might lead to serious complications and be followed by grave consequences to those concerned.

A PLANTATION PLOW SONG.

The Quaint Melody Sung by the Simon-Pure Southern Darkey.

The following is a crude photograph of a plowing scene on a Louisiana plantation. As the picture is taken from life, the names of the two mules in the team, Sherman and Morgan, are given; the prose interpolations are rendered verbatim, and the uncouth song reproduced as nearly as possible:

Git up mules!
Brer Moses say dar music
Is gwine to int'e de soul,
And Satin's in de fiddle
Sho's sugar's in de bowl!—

"Git dar, Shumman.

De blackbird ax de jaybird
What make him war such close,
He better put on mo'nin',
'Case all de groun' is froze.
Dis worl' is full o' trouble,
F'om summer til de spring,
Den pra'rs an' tears is proper
For dem dat dance an' sing.

"Haw, Morgin—don't you heah me tell you to haw, mule! Now go 'long.

"De jaybird tell de blackbird,
De winter's sho'ly hard—

"Wough, dar! you pestiferient beases, you! You been pas' dat birnt stump fo' times already dis mawnin', and now yo's cockin' yo' ears an' cap'n an' prahncin', like you 'lows it must be a great big tar-rifyin' black bar, or sech. Wough, dar, I say! Git up.

"I been down to de weddin',
I see Miss 'Mandy Green;
She's 'bout the livelis' lady
Dat ever you has seen—

"Hi! dat ain't what I was singin'—pleg tek a mule, nohow! dey 'stroys eber bit de sense a man was born wid—what wid strivin' an' nater'l contrary'ness dey's nuff to make even a hungry man forgit 'bout he vittles—Oh, yes, I 'members now.

"Dey jaybird tell de blackbird
De winter's sho'ly hard,
But what's de use of grumblin'
'Less yo' po'k ain't got no lard;
You gwine to let you 'ligion
Freeze up yo' sperrit, too,
An' help along de misery
We's got to trable fron it—

"De Lawd bless dese mules! dey been workin' o' cane craps nigh on to fifteen year, an' de ain't larnt de diffunse betwixt de water furrow an' de stubble row yit! Will you! Git up dar, consounded varmints, you!

"Miss 'Mandy look so smilin'—

"Look a heah, ain't I got dat 'Mandy gal chune out'n my head yit?

"Brer Moses shout at meetin'
An' we can't sing at wurk,
Brer Moses jump to hymn tunes
Tell all de flo' is shuk—

"What yo' doin' dar, Shumman? You wants to kick up, does you? Ween yo' ole heels gits to fannan' de yar hit look like you got a spite again de sun, an' gwine to kick it up all de way to 12 o'clock. Take dat—an' dat—an' dat! Now you got sumpen to kick up 'bout—don't you heah me? Now go 'long, I say!

"Dis yarth warn't made for trouble,
Nor 'penten he was born;
Some sinners at salvation
Is gwine to play de horn.
An' some dat heah de fiddle
Will git a higher place
Dan some dat w'ars dat 'ligion
Upon a solemn face—

"Bless Gawd, dar goes de dinner bell! You heah it, does you? Oh, yes, you's a hollerin' now! Stan' ronn' heah, Morgin, tell I gits on yo' pleggity ole back. Dar now! If Shumman ain't done gone an' fuk de bridle clean outen he mouf an' gone home a clattin'. Git up, Morgin!

"Miss 'Mandy looks so smilin',
An' her mouf chirp like a chune;
I wish I had o' axed her
For anudder weddin' soon."

DRINK THAT WON'T "REACH."

Strength Better Appreciated than Quantity.

A prominent official of the Treasury Department, who has the reputation of being a connoisseur of fine wines, had as guest at his table a prominent South Carolina judge.

The judge's glass was filled several times by his host with some exceedingly fine Sauterne, of which the host was particularly proud. The judge drank the contents of his glass down at a single gulp, every time; still he did not seem to enjoy his wine very much.

The host turning to him, finally said: "How do you like that wine, Judge? Is some that was sent me from France a long time ago."

The Judge filled his glass once more and did not set it down until he had drained it of its last drop.

"It tastes first-rate," he answered at last, "but somehow or another, it doesn't quite seem to reach."

The host laughed, and handing down a little of whiskey, said:

"Suppose you try that.

And from the expression on the Judge's face, it was quite apparent that it had reached."

The Point Of Old Score.

A party of wits once stopped at a tavern. When the feast was over one of the members called in the hostess.

"Angelique," he said, "I am going to give you a lesson in astronomy. Have you not heard of the great Platonic year, when everything must return to its former condition? Know, then, that in 16,000 years we shall be here again on the same day and at the same hour. Will you give us credit till then?"

The hostess, however, had her reply.

"I am perfectly willing," she retorted; "but it is just 16,000 years since you were here before, and you left without paying; settle the old score and I will trust you in the new."

On the Road to Fame.

Friend (to young physician)—"How are you getting on professionally, Doctor?"

Young physician—"Famously. Since I was fortunate enough to be called in the case of old Mr. Trillion of Fifth avenue my reputation has rapidly extended; another case and my fortune is made."

Friend—"But Mr. Trillion died."

Young physician—"That doesn't matter"—Epoch.

Poor Little Flies.

He (excitedly)—"By Jove, did you see that left fielder catch that fly?"

She (petulantly)—"Of course I didn't. Didn't we know you can see a fly so far away, when it is all I can do to see the ball. What do they do with the poor little flies anyway, John, when they catch them?"—Washington Critic.

Brain Food.

A young man was discussing with more spirit than was comely what he was pleased to call "brain food." He urged that no article of food furnished more brain matter than baked beans. Just then an old man looked up and said:

"Young man, be sure and eat all the baked beans you can get."—Richmond Religious Herald.

The Charms of Music.

Fair visitor (to convict)—"I suppose, sir, that the singing of the birds relieves the monotony of your dreary life?"

Convict (profoundly nonplussed)—"The singing of the birds, miss?"

Fair visitor—"Yes, sir, the little jail birds, you know. They must be such a boon."—New York Sun.

BABY IS KING.

A rose-curtained cradle, where nestled between
Soft cambric and flannel, lie pounds seventeen,
Is the throne of a tyrant whose praises I sing,
Of an autocrat awful—for baby is king!

Good solemn grandfather dares scarcely to speak,
Or walk, lest the sleeper should hear his boots creak
Grandmother's a martyr in habits and cap,
Which the monarch unsettles as well as her nap.

Father, stately and proud, just home from the House,
Grows meek on the threshold, and moves like a mouse,
To stare at the bundle; then outward he goes
Like an elephant trying to walk on his toes.

Mother, queen of the ball-room, throws loyally down
Before him the roses she wore in her crown.
And sings ditty love-songs of how she loves best
The fair baby blossom she rocks on her breast.

Good aunties and cousins before him bow low,
Though he rumples their fringes, twists collar and bow;
He bids the nurse walk with his majesty's self,
And cries when she stops, like a merciless elf.

He flings right and left his saucy, fat fists,
And then the next moment expects to be kissed;
He demands all your watches to scatter about,
And meets a refusal with struggle and shout.

Then failing to conquer with passionate cry,
He quivers his lips, keeps a tear in his eye,
And so wins the battle, this wise little thing—
He knows the world over that baby is king!

THE BOYCOTTED LETTERS.

A Frantic Effort To Tell His Love without Using M or N.

"Laura, is your heart free?"

The young man who spoke these words sat on the extreme periphery of a cushioned chair in the elegant apartment and leaned forward in uncomfortable agitation. The handkerchief with which in the excess of his emotion he wiped his nose ever and anon trembled visibly, and his voice had that dreamy, touching intonation that marks a sensitive, high-souled man in the last stage of influenza and unrequited affection.

"Why, Mr. Hankinson," replied the lovely girl, with downcast eyes, but with a kind of don't-come-any-nearer expression on her face, "your question takes me by surprise, and I hardly——"

"Laura," burst forth the young man impetuously, as he glanced in a laboriously careless way at a small ivory tablet concealed in his left hand, "it is hardly possible for you to realize the difficulties that beset—that are peculiar to the crisis which at this hour I face. You would be disposed to laugh, perhaps, if I should tell you what a trifle clogs the free cry of a heart filled with devo—with excess of love, yet which affec—which love will be heard, despite the barriers that adverse fate appears to have erected at this period. Hear the feeble yet eager cry of a heart, Laura, that——"

"Mr. Hankinson," interrupted the young lady, with a puzzled air, "you speak most singularly. What is the matter with you?"

The youth wiped his nose again with nervous haste, threw the ivory tablet frantically across the room, and once more began:

"The batter with be, Biss Laura, is a cold id by head—a beasly, horrid iddluedza. Id by igdoradce add idexperiedce I had fadcied I could tell you of my affection; that I could bake byself udderstood without usig ady words that could codvey to you ady idea of the real idfirbity udder which I ab sufferig. I shall dever agaid," continued the youth, bitterly, "try to bake a codfessiod of love by boycottig the letters eb add ed. You sbile, Biss Laura! You laugh! You bock at by bisery! Good evedig, Biss Kajodes!"

Waving his handkerchief wildly the unfortunate young man blew a blast that shook the house, grabbed his hat, rushed out into the chill night air and was followed all the way home by four Chicago detectives, who mistook him for the lamented Mr. Tascott.—Chicago Tribune.

INTELLIGENCE IN THE HORSE.

Its Value to the Owner—The Fate of an Equine Fool.

In selecting a family horse, the first requisite is intelligence. If the animal be intelligent he is pretty sure to be safe, whereas even a gentle horse who is stupid is always a source of possible danger. He may be so lazy and lifeless that the most timid woman would not fear to drive him, and yet if he lacks mind, he will be pretty sure to kick the carriage to pieces or run away whenever anything breaks.

On the other hand, it is almost impossible to scare a really intelligent horse. He may be disconcerted or alarmed, but he won't lose his head.

It is, however, astonishing how little interest in this all-important question of intellect the usual horse dealer takes. The reason probably is that he feels perfectly competent to manage any horse, no matter what the animal's character may be, and he regards him simply as a beast of burden, and not in the least as a companion or a friend.

An acquaintance of mine sent a very shrewd jockey to Kentucky for the purpose of selecting a saddle-horse. He brought back a handsome animal, thoroughly trained and perfectly satisfactory to his new owner. But anyone who had studied horse's eyes would have seen at a glance that the high-priced "saddler" was a fool, and so he turned out to be, for he was easily frightened, and he finally ran away, and had to be sold in disgrace.

WHAT LED TO FORTUNE.

Value of a Simple Device to the Man Who Saw Its Value.

There may be no such thing as luck, but there is a potential influence surrounding some people which inevitably brings them to wealth or celebrity, or both. As an instance, I can cite a personal experience in my early life while practicing law.

In the same city there lived a young man by the name of McGill, who was also a lawyer, but devoted his entire time to the claim department of the business.

One day, in my office, I was fastening a lot of legal documents together with the crude fasteners then in vogue, when McGill spoke up and said:

"I have an idea that I can produce a better fastener than that."

The next day he handed me a rough specimen of the present popular fastener which is shaped like a letter T. McGill offered me a quarter interest to get it patented, but I laughed at him. He persevered, secured his patent and to-day has an income of between $400,000 and $500,000 per year. He resides in Paris, France, and the last time I was abroad tendered me a banquet there.

It was his luck, or whatever it may be termed, to strike fortune through a simple device and my luck to refuse to share it with him.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Bucket Shop.

Omaha boy (in New York)—"What are all those men rushing into that place for?"

New York Boy—"That's a bucket shop."

"What's that?"

"They buy and sell stocks there on margins same as they do in the Exchange."

"Oh! It's another Exchange, eh?"

"No, it's a bucket shop."

"Well, how do you tell the difference?"

"Why, one is in a great big building and the other in a little bit of one."

Scrofula

Is one of the most fatal scourges which afflict mankind. It is often inherited, but may be the result of improper vaccination, mercurial poison, uncleanliness, and various other causes. Chronic Sores, Ulcers, Abscesses, Cancerous Humors, and, in some cases, Consumption and Consumption result from a scrofulous condition of the blood. This disease can be cured by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

I inherited a scrofulous condition of the blood, which caused a derangement of my whole system. After taking less than four bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla I am and, for the past year, have not found it necessary to use any medicine whatever. I am now in better health, and stronger, than ever before.—O. A. Willard, 218 Tremont st., Boston, Mass.

I was troubled with Scrofulous Sores for five years; but, after using a few bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the sores healed, and I have now good health.—Elizabeth Warnock, 54 Appleton street, Lowell, Mass.

Some months ago I was troubled with Scrofulous Sores on my leg. The limb was badly swollen and inflamed, and the sores discharged large quantities of offensive matter. Every remedy failed until I used Ayer's Sarsaparilla. By taking three bottles of this medicine the sores have been healed, and my health is restored. I am grateful for the good it has done me.—Mrs. Ann O'Brian, 158 Sullivan st., New York. ††

On Saturday afternoon the Vancouver and Westminster cricket clubs play the return match, from the 24th of May, in Vancouver. The club will practice every night this week, commencing to-morrow, and the members are requested to attend regularly.

The str. Rithet brought up one of the largest freights of the season on her trip from Victoria yesterday. Among the freight were 3000 cases of tin for the different canneries along the river and a large number of agricultural implements for up-river ports.

The baseball match, Vancouver vs Westminster, takes place on Wednesday afternoon in Vancouver. The members of Westminster club have not been practising steadily of late and there is some liklihood of their losing the championship. A practice will be held this evening and every man is expected to be present.

A correspondent who appears to be in very bad humor from loss of sleep apparently, goes for our worthy mayor with a sharp stick on the calf question. It is a notorious fact that calves do make the nights and the days sometimes melodious, on Front st., but whether our irate correspondont has struck the right man, is another thing. We hope, however, that, if possible, the nuisance will be abated.

While lying at Brodie's cannery last evening discharging freight the str. Rithet swung out a short distance from the wharf causing the gang-plank to drop into the water. At the time the plank fell a deck hand, with a truck containing half a ton of tin, was on it, and both truck, tin and man were precipitated into the water which was nearly up to the flooring of the wharf. The man and tin did not get out of the gangway, but the truck was lost.

Reports from all points along the river say the water is falling rapidly, and that with a few trifling exceptions, the high water has done much more good than harm. At Chilliwhack last night the water fell 8 inches and is still falling, and at Agassiz a fall of 12 inches is recorded for the night and a fall of 18 inches since the water began to subside. At Kamloops the Thompson river has fallen two feet after doing an immense amount of benefit to the grazing land along the river.

Rev. Mr. Webb's Lecture.

The Drill Shed was packed last night by a very attentive audience to hear the Rev. J. W. Webb, of Salem, Oregon, lecture on temperance. The rev. gentleman delivered an eloquent and highly instructive lecture and impressed his hearers very favorably with his abilities and reasoning powers. At the conclusion of the lecture a unanimous vote of thanks was given Mr. Webb. It was announced he would lecture to-night and to-morrow night, but previous engagements which demand an immediate return home will prevent Mr. Webb from keeping the engagements here.

Mr. Stramberg's Dismissal.

At a meeting of the school board, held on Friday night, at which were present Messrs Trapp, Turner, Johnston and Calbick, the majority decided to request the resignation of Mr. Stramberg, principal of the high school. Mr. Stramberg on being notified of this motion refused to resign until he heard the grounds of complaint against him. The board then sent Mr. Stramberg notice that his services would not be required at the end of the present term. Much public comment has been passed on the dismissal of Mr. Stramberg, but as the grounds of complaint have not been made public we are unable to express an opinion on the matter.

Still Another Victory.

Mr. W. H. Higgins, representing Ross, McLaren & Co., the great Ottawa lumbermen, left this afternoon to visit the large sawmills on Puget Sound with a view of noting the class of machinery necessary for a first-class mill, and to inspect the working of the latest improvements in sawmill machinery. Messrs. Ross & McLaren have definitely decided on establishing their new mill on the property lately acquired by them from Senator McInnes and immediate steps will be taken for its erection. The new mill will have a capacity of 300,000 feet per day, and the lumber manufactured will be exclusively for the foreign trade. Fuller particulars of this gigantic enterprise will be made public in a few days.

The Colonies Win.

The cricket match on Saturday proved a complete victory for the Colonies, and of such a decisive nature that no room was left for the Old Countrymen to put in the plea of "chance." In our partial report in Saturday's issue of the match, the excellent fielding, wicket-keeping and bowling of the Colonies were noted, the play all round being much more brilliant than is usually seen in Westminster. On going to bat the Colonies showed themselves as strong in defending the wickets as they had been in assaulting them, and so well did the youngsters handle their opportunities that a score of 100 was to their credit when the last man went out. The batting of Dockrill, Lewis and Fletcher was exceptionally good and might even be called brilliant, their scores being 26, 24 and 16 respectively. Mowat with 6 runs to his credit was the fourth on the list. The score on the Old Country side was 34 against their opponents 100, leaving the Colonies victorious by 66 runs. The Old Countrymen are not at all satisfied with the result of the match and it is probable a return game will be played shortly.

Jos. Beaudin, M.D., Hull P.Q., writes: Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil commands a large and increasing sale which it richly merits. I have always found it exceedingly helpful; I use it in all cases of rheumatism, as well as fractures and dislocations. I made use of it myself to calm the pains of a broken leg with dislocation of the foot, and in two days I was entirely relieved of the pain.

Hot Spring Notes.

The festive mosquito is not proving a very great source of annoyance this year.

Lieut.-Governor and Mrs. Nelson are stopping at the springs and will remain for some time.

Visitors are daily arriving from all parts of the province and other parts of the Dominion as well as from the Pacific states.

Fishing is good in the vicinity of Harrison Hot Springs. One afternoon Messrs. Innis and Slater, of Vancouver, caught 161 fine mountain trout and could have hooked many more but for fatigue.

A large panther, 7½ feet from tip to tip, was shot on Saturday within 3 miles of Harrison Hot Springs. It has been sent to Victoria to be mounted. Harrison is as good a spot for the sportsman as for the fisherman.

On Saturday many Vancouverites and Westminsterites with a fair sprinkling of Victorians arrived to spend Sunday, and all were delighted with their stay. The resort is becoming quite a favorite for Saturday-till-Monday-excursions with people residing in adjacent localities.

When the Vital Current is vitiated from any cause, scorbutic blemishes in the shape of pimples, sores and blotches begin to disfigure the skin. For Female Complaints it has no equal.

THE GARDEN OF CANADA.

The Delta Municipality—Fifty Thousand Acres of the Finest Farm and Fruit Lands on the Continent.

We often hear new arrivals in the province giving expression to the opinion "that there is no farming land in British Columbia." This erroneous idea is formed from what they see of the country from a car window as the train winds its way along the magnificent rivers, rocky canyons, and wooded valleys of the mountain ranges between Calgary and the coast. If one wished to see as little as possible of the great improvements that have taken place in the last five years and to close their eyes to the vast changes that this year is bringing about, no route would be more suitable for that purpose than the C.P.R. In locating the line of this great railway the engineers found it necessary to follow the natural chain of mountain passes, which, of necessity, debarred the road from running through the splendid stretches of agricultural country, finer than which are not to be found on the continent. From Chilliwhack to the mouth of the Fraser river runs a stretch of the famous bottom lands, noted for their wonderful fertility and for the increasing crops raised from year to year. Lands that have grown 120 bushels of oats to the acre, 80 bushels of wheat and 4 tons of hay, not once, but scores of times.

LADNERS.

Fifteen miles below Westminster the village of Ladners lies prettily situated on the south shore of the Fraser. Protected from the raw north and east winds by a belt of handsome timber and with a free and open southern and western exposure, giving a view of surroundings almost unequalled on the continent, leaves an impression on the mind of the visitor that time cannot remove. To the right, left and rear of Ladners lies the finest stretch of agricultural land in Canada, and what will be in 10 years the garden of our great Dominion. This is known as the Delta municipality, which embraces within its limits 50,000 acres of the celebrated bottom lands and every inch of which can be brought into the highest state of cultivation. The farms along the main trunk road, from the landing to the timber, six miles across the country, are any of them worth a visit. The orchards, gardens, fields of grain, hay and vegetables in a perfect state of cultivation and promising most prolific yields must be seen to be properly appreciated. A representive of The Columbian, within the last few days, had the pleasure of paying a visit to a few of these beautiful farms. The crop of small fruits is remarkably large and are now maturing fast and will soon be found on the market. Strawberries in particular have yielded most prolifically, and gooseberries, currants, and raspberries give promise of equally good results. In Mr. W. H. Ladner's garden we saw a bunch of strawberries, grown on a single plant, that weighed 7 ozs., and several berries that weighed about an ounce each. Mr. Hicks has about an acre under strawberries, the finest on the Delta, which means a great deal. Mr. Kirkland's orchard is worthy of more than passing notice. Almost every kind of apple, pear and small fruits are to be found in it, from the early to the late varieties. Mr. Kirkland has spared no expense in securing the best trees that could be bought and the wisdom displayed in this course is rapidly becoming apparent. Caterpillars have been very destructive on the delta this season and nothing but constant attention to the trees has saved the fruit. The loss, however, from these destructive pests will be light. Mr. Hutchison, proprietor of the mainiand nursery, is doing an ever-increasing business in trees and shrubs and what speaks best for his nursery is the fact that the trees are clean, healthy and hardy, and give every satisfaction to the purchaser. The nursery covers a large acreage and contains many thousands of apple, pear, peach, walnut and prune trees, besides every imaginable variety of small fruit plants. The advantage of having a nursery on the delta, where the trees best suited to the soil and climate are easily distinguished, is of immense benefit to the farmers, as the quality of the tree or plant being known and tried does away with all speculation in setting out orchards and gardens.

JUBILEE FARM.

Of all the sights on the Delta, the Jubilee Farm is probably the most worthy of note. This beautiful farm is owned by Ladners' most enterprising and progressive citizen, Mr. Thos. McNeeley, and not only is it a credit to himself but to the province at large. The farm is situated about two miles back from the landing on the left hand side of the main trunk road, and embraces about 130 acres, all of which are under cultivation. Mr. McNeeley realizing that British Columbia is naturally the fruit producing country for the great Northwest has set out an orchard, the largest in the province, that will, within a few years, yield an annual income of many thousand dollars. Of apple and pear trees 1900 are set out already, and will bear fruit next season, and this number will be largely added this fall. The currant and gooseberry bushes number 2500 and will also yield next year. A field of 25 acres contains almost every variety of vegetables grown on the north Pacific coast. A large force of men are kept continuously at work on this farm, and it is certainly wonderful the excellent condition it is kept in. The whole is as free from weeds as any well kept garden generally is, and the beds and trees are set out with much artistic taste, clearly showing that the management of the Jubilee farm is in good hands. In Mr. McNeeley's model garden at the landing we noticed half a dozen fruit-bearing English walnut trees, a bed containing 100 black currant bushes, which are expected to yield half a ton of fruit; a pear tree with 25 varieties of pears on it; 25 varieties of the dwarf rose and many other things worthy of more than ordinary notice, but which space prevents us from describing. Scores of farms on the delta might be particularized in those notes, in fact any one of them might be made the subject of a special article, but, unfortunately, space for bids a lengthy description such as we would like to give.

THE CROPS.

A more happy and contented lot of people than the farmers of the delta would be hard to find. Crops never looked more promising than they do at present, and the late rains have set aside all chances of a middling crop. We say a middling crop for a poor crop is unknown on the delta. Hay is looking splendid and will average from 3 to 3½ tons to the acre, and grains are looking remarkably well. Two fields of barley, about a mile apart, already headed out and standing almost 6 feet high were noticed on the trunk road. Root crops are doing well and will give a much larger yield than last year. It is estimated by close figuring that fully 2000 acres are under crop more than last year and that next season this will be added to by 5000 acres.

HOSPITALITY.

Who can visit Ladners without carrying away the most pleasant remembrances of the hospitality of the good people of that place? Although we had heard many favorable remarks on the subject yet we were not prepared for the kindness extended on every hand, especially as we were a stranger to the delta and almost unknown there. But with such whole-souled men as our popular and genial representative in the local legislature, Mr. W. H. Ladner, Mr. C. F. Green, Mr. McNeeley, Mr. Rich, Mr. Guichon, and a host of others, the delta could not be otherwise than hospitable, and our great regret in parting from the garden municipality of the province was that time would not admit of our enjoying another day in such congenial society.

To the visitor, the tourist and the land-seeker we can heartily recommend a visit to Ladners as one that will result both in pleasure and profit. And the person who visits British Columbia and returns without viewing the delta cannot claim to have seen or learned anything of the agricultural resources and capabilities of the province.

Dyspepsia and Indigestion.—C. W. Snow & Co., Syracuse, N. Y., writes: "Please send us ten gross of pills. We are selling more of Parmelee's Pills than any other Pill we keep. They have a great reputation for the cure of Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint." Mr. Chas. A. Smith, Lindsay, writes: "Parmelee's Pills are an excellent medicine. My sister has been troubled with a severe headache, but these pills have cured her."

W. A. Cunningham, brother to Mrs. D. S. Curtis, arrived in the city a day or two ago. Mr. Cunningham, who has been book-keeper for the Oregon Furniture Manufacturing Co. for several years, comes to B. C. to spend his summer holiday.

Gilbert Laird, St. Margaret's Hope, Orkney, Scotland, writes: I am requested by several friends to order another parcel of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. The last lot I got from you having been tested in several cases of rheumatism, has given relief when doctors' medicines have failed to have any effect. The excellent qualities of this medicine should be made known, that the millions of sufferers throughout the world may benefit by its providential discovery.

Communications.

The Calves Heard From.

Editor Columbian.—Is there no law in this country against cruelty to animals? From noon on Saturday till this morning a number of calves were left on the wharf without anything to eat, and their bleating was pitiful to hear, all day and night. This is not the first instance that this has occurred. I have noticed some remarks in your paper on the subject before, and I would like to know whether our mayor, to whom I am told these calves belonged, has a special permit to create a nuisance to his neighbors and also to break the commonest laws of humanity. I would like him to have been forced to live the last two nights and days on Communications from the lieut.-governor's private secretary were received and filed. The clerk was instructed to purchase a safe. A number of accounts were passed and ordered paid. Coun. Pybus was empowered to have a trail cut along the river bank from Fisher's dyke northerly. A committee was appointed to consider the appointment of a constable. Thos. Robertson was appointed pound-keeper for the eastern division of the municipality and Wm. McKee for the western division. The highway bylaw passed its third reading. The clerk was instructed to procure a ward account book. Council then adjourned.
