Public Notice

New Westminster Public Library.

THE UNDERSIGNED (THANKS TO the kindness and permission of the Mayor and City Council) two weeks ago re-opened the Public Library, and takes this opportunity to offer an invitation to residents of New Westminster to pay him a visit. Papers and Magazines from all directions are received for patrons and visitors, and more will be added in case a reasonable support is obtained. The terms are 50 cents a month, in advance, as papers, &c., are paid for in advance. This will amount to about 2 cents a day, or the cost of one cigar for seven days permission to see news from all over the world, and elegant books which may be changed every 24 hours! There is no compulsion about this, but those who believe in getting in out of the rain and who can enjoy a decent fire will doubtless appreciate this institution. Ladies and strangers are free, so doubtless all the parties who believe in Blue Ribbon will come forward at once and join this attractive affair, both for their own credit and that of others. Come one, come all, and you will be attended to by one who can soap all classes, viz.:

Yours Respectfully,
HENRY W. HUGHES.

The Prohibition League.

The principal question before the annual meeting of the Ontario branch of the Dominion Alliance was that of the starting of a third party, or, as its advocates tenaciously insisted, a first party. Of the enthusiasm and all but unanimity in favor of such a move there was no room for doubt. Hurt by the discouraging attitude of Mr. Blake, and shamed by the political partisanship of professed prohibitionists at the recent elections, men had come from all parts of the country full of the idea of independent political organization, while the members of the Young Men's Prohibition Club of Toronto were there in force, fresh from the most signal series of civic victories, feeling as though the Dominion lay at their feet. The opponents were few, and their evident anxiety lest harm should result to the Reform party, or, in a few cases, to the Conservative party, caused their words to pass for less than nothing with the generous men who had come prepared to sacrifice all their life-long predilections to the cause which was supreme in their hearts. Yet the "First Party" was not formed. It would be entirely false to say that timid counsels prevailed. But discussion showed that the step was not one of wisdom. As the debate waxed warm it came to be seen that the word party had very different meanings with some from what it had with others. With some, it meant simply the organizing of the temperance vote to be thrown every where in favor of prohibitionists, or, at least, to be refused everywhere to non-prohibitionists. Thus far all were enthusiastically agreed; with others the word party meant an organization which would exclude from its ranks all supporters of existing parties, refuse their candidates, and have a platform of their own, expressing itself on all the great questions before the country. One warm-hearted but not over prudent clerical speaker slew this plan with three words. He proposed that the platform of the new party be the three Ps—Protestantism, Protection, and Prohibition. This mischievous and discordant collocation of ideas made it plain to all that while there might be the most brotherly unity among temperance men on the question of prohibition, it only needed the introduction of another question not only to split them hopelessly apart, but to render their aims impossible of attainment. Even the word party was clearly seen to be a dangerous one so long as it might seem to mean an exclusive political organization. The adoption of such a word challenged the enmity of what was now the whole mass of the population, namely, the members of both parties, including, at least, nine-tenths of the temperance men. Snch a split in the ranks would be in the highest degree deplorable, and such a sacrifice to a mere name of present goodwill on the part of the community be unpardonable. Such were the counsels that prevailed, and the hope that by filling parliament with out-and-out prohibitionists the feeling of the country in favor of prohibition may be sufficiently apparent to force the hands of party leaders, all will agree that the time must soon come when, unless some party adopts prohibition, its advocates will have to go into political opposition and refuse support to either till that point is gained. The present duty is evidently not a party so much as a league, in which will be plainly enrolled all prohibitionist voters, and which will be able to exercise over its members a moral influence at least equal to that exercised over them by their political party and which will make it harder for them to vote against prohibition than to vote against their party leaders. Such a league must immediately be formed in every municipality and should use its powers at every election, for there is no office within the gift of the people in which temperance representatives are not needed. The league should, whenever possible, take the responsibility of naming its own candidates. Otherwise there will be a great deal of useless recrimination. Very much of the recent fault-finding has been due to the fact that men have had different views as to which was the best prohibition candidate aud those who voted for one would regard those as traitors who, with equal conscientiousness, voted for the other. It would be out of the question to ask free citizens to vote for whoever the league might name, but we do not think it would be asking too much to ask them to abstain from voting against the league's nominees. To this end, however, such leagues should be careful not to introduce this question of conscience except where the advantage in favor of their candidate from a prohibition point of view is so plain as to be evident to all.—Montreal Witness.

The Coercion Bill.

Gladstone Gives His Opinion—An Insult to Ireland.

More Attempts to Assassinate the Czar—A Steamboat Outrage.

SUDDEN DEATHS—A POISONING CASE.

By Associated Press.

COMMONS NOTES.

LONDON, Mar. 29.—The Rt. Hon. Lord John Manners, vice president of the council of agriculture, stated in response to interrogatories in the house of commons this afternoon that the government's inquiry into Pasteur's method of inoculating cattle for the prevention of anthrix and other diseases was making progress, but the results so far obtained would not justity the department of agriculture in recommending farmers to inoculate according to Pasteur's system.

Gladstone resumed the debate on the criminal law amendment bill. He was loudly cheered when he arose. He said that in an issue so grave proposals such as those now put forth by the government required ample time for consideration. He found himself bound to support Parnell's amendment, because the ground on which Balfour based his argument was absolutely insufficient and unsatisfactory. The government's bill, instead of being a cure for Irish ills or even a palliative, was a measure that would aggravate the deep-seated disorders. With this coercion bill, he said, the prospect of conciliation vanished into thin air. The government intended to exclude the land bill; nothing remains but the figure of coercion, bare, bald and gaunt, and, alas! too familiar. The right hon. chief secretary for Ireland has attempted to excuse the proposals on the ground that crime in Ireland during the past three years has increased, but he refrained from giving the house official information proving his allegations. Continual allusion had been made to previous Liberal coercion proposals. In 1881, when his government proposed coercion, the ground was an agitation then existing. Wherever he went he was dogged by crime. For the present bill there was no such excuse. Among its most insulting and exasperating proposals, the worst ever submitted was the provision that Irish trials be held in London. He never knew such a blow at the national feeling of Ireland. The government could devise nothing more likely to aggravate every existing evil. As to the permanent duration of the bill, the proposals made one's blood boil. To establish what was formerly only a temporary remedy as a permanent rule of the existence of society in Ireland would put a brand of inferiority upon Ireland forever. The government knew that force was no remedy. Since the election of 1885, since the bulk of the liberals had judged it to be both right and safe to grant home rule, Ireland had been free from crime and outrage—a condition long unknown. Why was this? Beacause the Irish people knew a large, though insufficiently large, body of the legislators represented their interests and would abide by them to the last. If liberals acceded to the appeals of the government the result would be retrogression. So long as Ireland continued in her present course of moderation, so long would liberals be bound to persevere in endeavor to assist her. The time would soon come when to the many now supporting Ireland would be added many more, and when it would be seen that in doing what they could to serve the Irish cause they were serving the cause of the wide Empire of Great Britain. (Prolonged cheering.)

MRS. POTTER'S DEBUT.

LONDON, Mar. 29.—Mrs. James Brown Potter, who made her debut at the Haymarket this evening, was very favorably received by a brilliant audience. The Prince of Wales expressed himself as very much pleased with her performance, and predicted for her a successful theatrical career.

A SCHOONER LOST.

NEW YORK, Mar. 29.—The bark Scott's Bay arrived to-day from Lisbon and reports that she sighted, on Mar. 24th, a water-logged and dismantled vessel. A boat was lowered, though the sea was very heavy, and after several attempts the vessel was boarded. The captain and second mate were the only survivors, the mate, steward, and two colored seamen having died the previous night. The survivors were almost exhausted. The vessel was the schooner Marcus Davis, Capt. Williams, from Ferdinanda for Philadelphia.

MORE YACHT RACING.

NEW YORK, Mar. 29.—The steamer Etruria, which arrived yesterday, brought a long letter and sundry official documents from the secretary of the Royal yacht club to the secretary of the New York yacht club, making a challenge in due form on behalf of the new Scotch cutter-yacht, Thistle, owned by Jas. Ball, of Glasgow, to race with any of the American yachts for the American cup and international emblem, which the Puritan and Genesta sailed for last season. The committee in charge of the cup met to-day and in effect accepted the challenge, though it will have to go before the club for ratification.

POISONING.

MACON, Ga., Mar. 30.—Six out of the eleven persons, who were poisoned by the Voodo doctor in Baldwin county, are dead and the five still living will die.

NIHILIST OUTRAGES.

ST. PETERSBURG, Mar. 29.—A wholesale merchant of St. Petersburg, reported to be worth millions, has been shot and killed by a man to whom he refused to give 80,000 roubles towards Nihilistic funds. The murderer has been arrested. Other Russian capitalists are fearful.

CHICAGO, Mar. 30.—Sam Turner, the popular hotel man and part proprietor of the Grand Pacific, died at 12:30 p.m.

MORE ATTEMPTS ON THE CZAR'S LIFE.

BERLIN, Mar. 30.—Authentic information has been received from St. Petersburg that fresh attempts were made upon the Czar's life at the Gatschina palace yesterday. The Czar was not injured.

AN OUTRAGE.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Mar. 29.—Information has been received here of an outrage on the Cooper river, near Oakley. A large number of colored laborers, who had been working on a river plantation on one side of the river were being conveyed across to their homes on the other side in a flat boat, and when in the middle of the stream they were passed by the sloops Barrie and Hallie. After passing about 100 yards the sloop came about and notwithstanding the ample room in the river, ran directly into the flat boat, splitting it partially open and knocking a number of the men into the river. Four of them were drowned. The jury, at the inquest, put the responsibility on Capt. Jainsett, and he has been committed to jail.

THE MAIL ON DISALLOWANCE

Hamilton is to have a $100,000 city hall.

A satisfactory agreement has been arrived at between the C. P. R. and the Grand Trunk and both will push their line to Sault Ste Marie as quickly as possible.

A Brantford young lady saw some boys perform the difficult feat of placing their heels around their necks. A day or so later the young lady was missed, and on search being made she was found in her chamber prostrate on the floor, with both heels around her neck, and utterly unable to get them loose. She said she would have died before calling.

A young girl named Rosanna Charette, 12 years old, met with a very sad death in the convent of St. Henri. She was playing at "jack stones," and had in her mouth one of those small whistle balloons so much in use among children, when, lifting up her head to catch one of the stones as it fell, the toy went down her throat. She at once made an effort to force it back, but this simply made her condition worse, for the air from her lungs inflated the balloon, which then completely prevented the passage of air. The poor child went into convulsions, and the sisters, in despair, at once summoned medical aid, but too late, as the girl died shortly after.

Speaking on the disallowance question, the Mail says: "From an eastern point of view, disallowance is at once justifiable and necessary. The taxpayers of the older provinces incurred an enormous burden of debt for the purpose of opening up the Northwest, and it does appear ungrateful on the part of the Northwest settler that he should turn around and seek to deal with Minneapolis, St. Paul and Chicago. But the first consideration with him is to live, and to tell this man, struggling for existence against stern climatic difficulties, that he should loyally forego the advantages of independent railroad connection with the United States in order to recoup Ontario and Quebec for their outlay on the Northwest is likely, we fear, to prove a vain appeal. We are inclined to think the government will shortly be compelled to abandon its disallowance policy and negotiate with Van Horne for the relinquishment of the monopoly clause. The Northwest is bound sooner or later, with or without our consent, to break its chains.

A FAMOUS MAINE HUNTER.

The Slayer of 275 Moose—A Run for Life.

One day this week Mr. Nathan B. Moore, of Bingham, came into the Journal office in company with one of his old friends, a Lewiston amateur hunter, and remained long enough to spin a few yarns of the moose hunt and leave behind him an envious longing for the woods.

Mr. Moore is one of the most celebrated moose hunters in Maine. He is 68 years old. He is thin and poor, with gray hair and beard, and walks as though he had carried many a burden. He is, however, as active to-day as he was thirty years ago, and as much at home in the woods as ever.

His days of [illegible] hunting are over now, for his boys have grown up and have scattered, and his good wife doesn't want him to be alone in the woods or attending the traps. He has been at it 60 years.

Mr. Moore related a good story of a narrow escape in the forest near the forks of the Kennebec.

"I was out moose hunting once, several years ago," said he. "I had a companion, and just before night we tracked two moose on the light snow into a yard well up the mountain. It was getting too dark to hunt, so we went back and camped for the night.

"The morning was excellent, for a light snow had fallen. We started out as soon as we could and came up to them in about an hour or two. Both of them were up hill from us when we first saw them, one being about 50 rods from the other. They saw us about as soon as we saw them.

"The bull moose started straight down the hillside, when the cow moose made an angle so as to meet him about at the foot of the hill. I never saw any animal go as the bull moose did.

"Half down the side of the hill was a big spruce that had been felled across the edge of a rock, so that between the edge of the rock and the tree there was a space of several inches. The moose was going fastest at this point, and just here I saw him catch and go over in the air and strike broadside on the snow.

"He got up quick and made for the foot of the hill, leaping a rod at a leap. Twenty-five rods further he went into the yard and turned. I fired and he fell, thrashing his head.

"On going up to him I saw that his foreleg was as big as a teakettle and all smashed to flinders, with pieces of bone sticking out. I then saw what made him jump and leap so coming down hill. He had caught his leg in the spruce and had broken it.

"We then left him and went after the cow. We found her where she had slipped, but from the yard to where the moose lies down there is a hard-beaten road which the moose makes. She had left no track on this, but a little further we found where she had gone on, and we followed. A little ahead of us we heard the dogs bark, and we knew they were on the moose.

"We found her in an open place, two rods wide, surrounded by thick cedars and pines. Near here was the moose's beds. They never lie in the same place but once. The snow being soft, their warm bodies melt it and after they rise the melted snow freezes into ice and is too hard for a comfortable bed after that. Beyond the icy places where they had lain was an 'open' with the snow from 8 to 10 inches thick.

"We went into the thicket and threw down our gun cases and made for her. I settled myself along the road that led into the open place where the moose stood at bay. The dogs made for her and she came out.

"I never saw a cow moose so ugly before. She was terrible mad. Her eyes glared, her bristles were all on end, her ears were laid back. It is not often that you see such a sight.

"'Bad business,' said I to myself, 'if that critter gets at us.'

"A funny thing now happened. Instead of making for the dogs, as in nine cases out of ten a moose does, she made for me.

"I was in the middle of the road, wearing snow shoes, and had dropped on one knee with my rifle over my arm, waiting. I knew if I got a sight at her and my gun went she was as good as dead, for in those days I missed nothing. I waited until she got where I could see the little mark to shoot at on her breast and I pulled the trigger.

"There was no report! The hammer fell with a dull sound, and the next minute I had risen to my feet and was going down the hard road with the moose coming a rod at a jump.

"Just then the other man fired and broke the moose's fore leg. It didn't stop her even for a minute. She jumped wilder than ever after me.

"Between me and the opening were the moose beds. If I could cross them and reach the snow I could run away from her on my snowshoes, but there was great danger in crossing the icy beds, where the moose had been lying, of being tripped and of falling. It would have been death to fall under the moose's fore feet.

"I made for the opening, though, and it was the awfulest run I ever made. I could touch the critter's nose once just as I struck the snow. Once her fore foot hit my snowshoe behind and almost tripped me. I won by six inches, and once in the snow she gave up the chase and turned back.

"I looked at my rifle and found that a dry twig had caught over the tube and had broken the force of the hammer, and had made it fail me. We killed the moose five minutes afterward."—[Lewiston (Me.) Journal.

How To Treat [illegible].

Half a century ago one of our former meek and harmless citizens had a virago for a wife. Being asked how he was able to live with her, he answered:

"I have no trouble. When she says 'yes' I say yes. When she says it is cold I say 'yes, mother, it is cold.' Often she woke me up in dark and stormy nights and would say: 'Just see how bright the moon and stars are.' I always said 'yes.' She would then turn over perfectly satisfied, go to sleep, and be happy."

Many a husband can learn a lesson from this example.—[Palmer (Mass.) Journal.

A Family Man.

There is a man near Griffin who has been married three different times, and boasts of having under his roof six different families of children.

His last two wives were widows with children, which makes his home like a young colony of many grades of relationship.

The old man keeps a register of the date of birth, and the family to which they belong.—[Atlanta Constitution.

[illegible]

"Fine girl, Miss Moneybaggs."

"Vewy."

"Got a pot of money."

"Yaas."

"Why don't you try a shy at her?"

"Shall, when she gets tired of all you fallaws."

"But suppose she fancies one of us?"

"She cawn't, deah chap, she cawn't. She's been pwesented to me."—[Town Topics.

THE TALLEST TOWER.

The Marvelous Monument To Be Erected in the Champ De Mars, Paris.

A colossal tower, 1,000 feet in height, will be not only the principal attraction of the Exposition, but the most daring work ever undertaken by any engineer.

The pyramids of Egypt, St. Peter's, the Washington Monument, all these wonderful elevations will seem the work of dwarfs beside this massive iron construction, on whose summit will float the French flag. This tower consists of four iron pyramids, placed 360 feet one from the other, each pyramid being 50 feet square at the base and 16 feet square.

At the first story, 2[illegible] feet above the ground, these pyramids are united by a glass-covered gallery, 50 feet wide, which makes the tour of the construction. This gallery will be used for soirees, etc. At the second story is a room 100 feet square, covered by glass.

At the summit is a cupola with an exterior balcony. There will be placed the electrical apparatus destined to light the Exposition. Each pyramid will have an elevator, constructed in the same manner as the Swiss railways. It is startling to think of an elevator taking one seven times as high as the Column Vendome, but there will be no danger.

The elevator will be drawn by a cable, but steel grappling hooks are to be arranged in such a manner that, if the cable breaks, the elevator will remain suspended. There has never been an accident on the Righi, and M. Eiffel, who is the originator of this stupendous scheme, says his elevators will be even more secure than any yet constructed. A vertical elevator will also take passengers from the central point to the summit of the tower. When at the top we can admire the night, Paris and the millions of lights.

In pleasant weather we can see the most splendid panorama that human thought can imagine. Above the hills which with their green foliage surround Paris, we shall have a view of over one hundred miles. We shall see Compiegne, Rheims, Fontainebleau, Chartres, Dreux, Creil, the villages lost in the woods, and the rivers trailing their silver ribbons across the valleys.

But this metallic tower will not be built expressly for the curious; it will render service to science. In the cupola will be installed telescopes, pluviometers, anemometers, etc. Astronomical and meteorological observations will be made under new conditions, and experiments which have heretofore been impossible can for the first time be attempted. Atmospheric electricity, the velocity of the wind, the transparency of the air, Foucault's experiment to prove that the earth revolves, all can be studied.

Spectroscopes for analysis of the light of the sun and stars will be placed under the dome. A study equally interesting will be that of the variation of temperature with altitude. For the public a very strange sight will be the effect of lightning and the deviation of a falling body.

The tower will be surrounded by a lightning-rod, but in itself the tower will form an immense lightning-rod, by which will descend formidable quantities of electricity. In a thunder-storm everyone in the tower will be struck by lightning, although unconscious of and receiving no injury from this electric shock.

When the night is black with clouds, from the foot of the tower one can see a continuous sparkling fall of lightning.

To produce that effect a lightning-rod will be placed on the summit of the tower and the conductor will be interrupted for the space of two yards. The lightning will thus jump from one section to another, with continual explosions.

At the base of the tower, on immense blocks of marble, inscriptions recalling the history of the century will be engraved in gilded letters. There will be found extracts from the "Declaration of the Rights of Man," the names of illustrious Republicans, etc.

The weight of this tower will not be greater than 7,000 tons, almost enough iron to make a railway from Paris to Saint Germain by way of Versailles.

The cost will be about $1,000,000, but the inventor of this gigantic work asks only the admission fees for ten years to pay all the expenses of the building.—[Chicago Times.

THE TRUE LIFE.

The working life is the life of peace,
The words of the wise are golden;
And down the line of three hundred years
Comes the truth of these words grown olden.

Not the days that are passed amid songs and flowers
In dreamy, inactive leisure,
But the days that are strong with the stress of toil
Are those of the truest pleasure.

The eyes that look straight toward God and heaven,
Nor turn from the path of duty,
Are the eyes that see, in this changeful world,
The sights of the truest beauty.

Who lives for earth and for self alone
Must find his enjoyments shallow,
While he who lives but for God and right
Finds something each day to hallow.

He who is bound by the yoke of love,
And regains his freedom never,
Has his perfect liberty here on earth,
And he shall be free forever.

O, life is short, and its skies sometimes
Are darkened with care and sorrow,
But the loyal-hearted, the brave of soul,
Has always a glad to-morrow.

Then let us patiently bear the cross,
Our service and love confessing;
For the life of labor and faith and love
Is the only life of blessing.
—[Sailor's Magazine.

A Remedy for Hydrophobia.

There is a remedy for hydrophobia which is not generally known.

The treatment consists of vapor baths, washing the wound with a solution of ammonia, and warm drinks to cause free perspiration.

The originator of this remedy, Dr. Buisson, is said to have cured himself and nearly a hundred other people suffering from the bites of mad dogs. When the malady is fully developed, the patient remains in a bath till he is cured.

Fast-Walking Horses.

An old farmer observes that "a fast-walking horse is of much greater value practically to every farmer and to every man who has much use for a horse than a fast trotter."

It is strange that there are not premiums offered for fast walkers.—[Chicago Inter-Ocean.

What She Wanted.

Miss Carrie: "Papa, I want fifty dollars, in small bills."

Papa: "Preposterous, my child; what can you want of fifty dollars?"

Miss Carrie: "The doctor said that I must have it, and I want it."

Papa: "The doctor said you must have that amount? in small bills?"

Miss Carrie: "He didn't say how much, but he said that I must have change."—[Life.

WHAT PHYSICIANS SAY ABOUT THE

STARR KIDNEY PAD.

"Treatment by Absorption has for some time been recognized by Medical Men to be the most simple and effectual means of conveying to Diseased Organs, "Curatives," but in cases of Kidney Disease and Complaints attendant thereon, successful treatment was practically impossible until the introduction of the Starr Kidney Pad. It costs less than a single prescription and is immeasurably more decisive and effective than any quantity of internal Medicinal dosing. Worn immediately over the seat of Disease, its curative properties become absorbed by the diseased and enfeebled Organs, continuously and directly, as required to insure in return their healthy action and original vigour. It is comfortable to the patient and pleasant in its effects, and cures when nothing else can. The Starr Kidney Pad accomplishes positive, decisive results. A more valuable discovery as a true remedy for Kidney Diseases was never made.—Medical Gazette.

The Starr Kidney Pad, manufactured in Toronto, is a permanent sure cure for diseases, disorders and ailments of the Kidneys, Bladder and urinary secretive system, or attendant complaints, causing pain in the small of the back, sides, etc., producing urinary disorders, such as too frequent, scanty, difficult, painful or copious micturition, inability of retention and sedimentary urine, dropsical symptoms, etc., denoting the presence in the system of diseases common to the urinary secretive organs—known as gravel, catarrh of the bladder and passages, Bright's disease, diabetes, dropsy, piles, nervous debility, etc. Send for pamphlet to LANGLEY & CO., Wholesale Agents, Victoria. SIR.—We the undersigned having witnessed the terrible fire which wiped out of existence the young city of Vancouver, on the 13th inst., have, after the fire, examined the safes sold by you, some of which were put to the most severe test, having been surrounded by large quantities of lard and bacon, and we are pleased to testify to the remarkable manner in which every Safe sold by you preserved its contents, not only books and papers, but also thousands of dollars in paper money were taken out in perfect condition. We can, therefore, with the greatest confidence, recommend them as thoroughly fire proof:

THE BRITISH COLUMBIAN

Printing Company

(LIMITED.)

ON THE 10TH OF JANUARY, 1887, the COLUMBIAN Newspaper and Printing Concern was purchased by a joint stock company composed of citizens of New Westminster, to be known as the "British Columbian Printing Co., Limited." The concern has been for nearly a year owned and controlled by the British Columbia Stationery and Printing Company, of New Westminster, Victoria and Vancouver. The object of the new company is to continue the publication of the BRITISH COLUMBIAN newspaper and carry on a general printing and publishing concern, controlled entirely by those whose individual interest it will be to promote the development, especially of the Mainland. There will be no slackening of the energy hitherto displayed in the management of the establishment, and its patrons may rely upon receiving full value for their money. The COLUMBIAN will continue to be entirely independent in both Dominion and provincial politics, and will devote itself to the advancement of such schemes as may be considered in the public interest. The concern is now entirely separate from any other business, the book and stationery establishment in this city having been taken over by Mr. T. R. Pearson, who will continue to carry it on in his own name and for his own benefit. It is desirable that a daily newspaper should be maintained in this city, and the new company asks for public patronage on the ground that it is engaged in an enterprise calculated to promote the public welfare. It asks that the COLUMBIAN be judged on its own merits and supported only so long as its policy is enconsistt with its professions. In consequence of this business change all accounts due the concern must be settled without delay so that the books of the former company may be adjusted and closed. John Hayr, Credit P. O., says: "His shoulder was so lame for nine months that he could not raise his hand to his head, but by the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil the pain and lameness disappeared, and although three months has elapsed, he has not had an attack of it since."

Passed.—The people of Vancouver yesterday voted on the loan by-law ano the same was passed without a dissenting vote.

Contract.—Mr. F. Welcome McCrady, of this city, has been awarded the contract for building the stores of the Vancouver wine company at Vancouver.

The Ministry.—Lieut.-Gov. Nelson has called upon Hon. A. E. B. Davie, attorney general, to form a ministry, and the latter has accepted the task.

Lighted by Gas.—We learn that the penitentiary, post-office, and other government buildings and offices throughout the city are to be lighted with gas very soon.

Masonic.—The Grand Lodge of the Masons from Victoria will attend Vancouver on Saturday next to assist in the dedication of the new Masonic hall in that city. The local brethren from this city will also attend.

Missing.—Two or three of the buoys in the North Arm have been carried away by the ice. Captains say that these buoys are most important and that their loss renders navigation in those waters extremely dangerous.

Late.—The Yosemite did not arrive until nearly 5 o'clock to-day. The cause of her lateness was the immense quantity of way freight she had to discharge, she having made no less than seven different landings since leaving Victoria.

Handsome and Attractive.—The interior of the Baptist church has been finished. The seats have been richly upholstered and the floor is covered with elegant carpets. Altogether we may safely say it is now the handsomest and most elegant, as regards inside appearances, church in the city.

Damage.—Mr. James Wise estimates the damage done to his wharf by the ice jams during the winter at over $100. Mr. Townsend's was also damaged to about the same extent. And all this breaking of wharves, to say nothing of the stoppage of navigation, could be prevented by the Samson or some other iron-protected boat.

Big Demand.—There is at present on the C. P. N. wharf a batch of farming implements from John Elliot & Co., of London, Ont., belonging to W. J. Jenkins, of Chilliwhack. There is also another car-load on its way hither. The value of these implements is $7,000. They include binders, reapers, mowers, harrows, plows, grain drills, etc. Mr. Jenkins states that already his stock is almost all spoken for by eager purchasers, and had he twice the stock he could without the least difficulty dispose of it all.

Teachers' Institute.—The Westminster Teachers' Institute is to be held in this city on the 9th and 11th of April. From the printed programme we conclude that the proceeding will be of a very interesting characte. On each day there will be three sessions, and the evening session of the last day will assume the character of a public meeting, when addresses will be delivered by a number of prominent gentlemen on the subject of education. It is expected the proceedings will be enlivened by appropriate music.

Canadian Indians.—According to the report of the Dominion superintendent general of Indians for 1886, the total Indian population in Canada is 128,761, distributed as follows: In Ontario, 17,267; Quebec, 12,286; Nova Scotia, 2,138; New Brunswick, 1,579; P. E. Island, 323; Manitoba and Northwest Territories, 30,578; Peace river region, 2,038; Athbaska district, 8,000; Mackenzie river district, 8,000; Eastern Rupert's Land, 7,000; Labrador, 1,000; Arctic coast, 4,000; British Columbia, 38,539. Total number of pupils attending Indian schools in 1885 was 5,595.

The Weekly Columbian.—The publishers are desirous to make all subscriptions for the Weekly Columbiaf end with the year. This will enable subscribers to know precisely when their subscriptions expire, and it will greatly simplify the book-keeping. Persons sending new subscriptions during the year will, therefore, be good enough to send, as far as possible, the amount that will pay to the end of the current year. The paper costs, as nearly as may be, 17 cts. a month, and the sum required to pay to the end of the year may be easily calculated. If it is not possible to obtain the correct amount, send $2, and the change will be returned in stamps from this office.

Baptist Concert.—A large crowd was present at the entertainment in Olivet Baptist church last evening. The programme consisted of an anthem by the choir, prayer by Rev. C. Watson, remarks by Rev. Robt. Lennie, duet by Mrs. and Miss Hill, a short address by Rev. Thos. Haddon, song by Miss Holden, recitation by Geo. H. Grant, solo by Mrs. Hill, address by Rev. C. Watson, solo by Miss French, reading by C. E. C. Brown, solo by Miss Hill, address by Rev. Thos. Scouler, and a closing anthem by the choir. A splendid supper had been spread in the basement of the church, of which all present availed themselves after the intellectual part of the programme had been completed.

Mr. Parpetus Boileau, Ottawa, says: "I was radically cured of piles, from which I had been suffering for over two months, by the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. I used it both internally and externally, taking it in small doses before meals and on retiring to bed. In one week I was cured, and have had no trouble since. I believe it save my life."

A New Senator.—W. E. Sanford, of Hamilton, Ont., has lately been appointed to the senate of Canada. During the past few years a great deal has been said against our senate, and there is a widespread opinion that it is not serving the purpose for which it was intended. It has become, to a large extent, a machine for backing up the measures and opinions of the conservative party. If every appointment to the senate had been so well made as the appointment of Mr. Sanford, however, we are sure its popularity and usefulness would have been very much greater The new senator is one of the merchant princes of Ontario. He has amassed a large fortune by successful business enterprises, and is independent of and above all mercenary influences. His character, both public and private, is without blot; and he is a gentleman of judgment and has the ability to express his opinions intelligently. We approve the appointment most heartily.

Row in the Swamp.—Shortly after two o'clock this afternoon a drunken Indian staggered up to the door of one of the Siwash cabins in the swamp and demanded admittance. Immediately the door was opened by a white man who began cursing the Indian and telling him he would kill him if he didn't go away. The Indian attempted to evade the white man and to pass inside. Instantly the white man struck him. The Indian walked away from the door and after a short while again returned. This time two white men set on him and began kicking him unmercifully. A third white man then appeared on the scene with a hatchet in his hand and attempted to strike the helpless Indian with it. One of the squaws, however, wrenched the weapon from his hand, and thus in all probability saved the poor Indian's life. The three white men then fell on the already wounded Indian and beat his face till it was almost a jelly. They then kicked him and threw him out in the street. Shortly afterwards the Indian picked himself up and limped away in the direction of the R. C. P. mills, the white men in the meantime threatening and calling after him, that if he returned they would blow his brains out.

PAPER READ BY THE BISHOP OF NEW WESTMINSTER

On the 8th inst. the Right Rev. Bishop of Westminster, now on a visit to England, read a paper on British Columbia before the Royal Colonial Institute in London. There were present a large number of noblemen and men of distinction both from the United Kingdom and from many of the remote colonies. The chair was occupied by Sir Henry Barkly, G. C. M. G., K. C. B., and among those present were the following persons from British Columbia: Mrs. Sillitoe, H. C. Beeton, J. J. Southgate, G. P. Ness and Mrs. Ness, F. B. Pemberton, W. Sebright Green and Mrs. Green, and Carl Strouss. After referring briefly to the scope of the paper on British Columbia, the bishop first gave a description of the geography of the province and a bit of its early history, mentioning among other things the causes which led to the change of the name of this city from Queensborough to New Westminster. The construction and opening of the C. P. R. was referred to, and it was pointed out that this great work brought London within 14 days of Westminster on the Pacific coast. But from an imperial point of view the great advantage of the road was in its furnishing a new and much better route to the east, and in the facilities it gave for the movement of military forces and stores. He noted, as one of the results of the opening of this road, the fact that in New Westminster shops now might be seen commercial travelers representing London houses. Speaking of the graving dock and naval station at Esquimalt, he said: "It may be a question whether such a provision for necessary repairs of our fleet should not rather have been on Burrard Inlet, in the neighborhood of the terminus, and where fortifications for the protection of both might economically have been constructed." The belief is expressed that the C. P. R. will not long enjoy the distinction of being the only railway in British Columbia. Other roads will be built from it like veins connecting with the life-giving artery. Politics in British Columbia, the bishop thinks, are not pursued with the most patriotic motives, but there is hope for improvement with the influx of new life and capital. In his opinion the term applied by Mr. Blake as descriptive of the topography of this province was most appropriate. It is a sea of mountains, the bishop says, "in sober reality, apart altogether from poetic hyperbole. Minerals he gives first place in the provincial resources, and he mentions that from 1858 to 1885 the value of gold taken from the mines aggregated $49,000,000. With capital and improved machinery this yield could be largely increased. Silver is also known to exist in several localities, but the mines are undeveloped. Attention is directed to the great deposits of iron and coal which are so easy of access and so near to each other that the manufacture of iron ought to be carried on very cheaply. According to the Ironmonger charcoal pig should be produced in British Columbia at £2:6:8 per ton, and coke pig at £1:12:3, equal to Blaenavon or Pontypool best, and at about half the cost. "If these figures be correct," said his lordship, "it is impossible to exaggerate the importance of it to British Columbia." Of mica there has been discovered abundance in the neighborhood of the Thompson River, and it is capable of being cut to the size of 10x14, and should be worth $8 to $9 per pound. Besides these valuable minerals there are copper and lead. The resources in timber are very great, the present produce being estimated at 200,000,000 feet. It was pointed out that the province possessed great facilities for fruit-growing, and the the C.P.R. would enable growers to reach the outside markets. Hops, also, could be raised to perfection, and the agricultural lands, although limited in extent, were very productive. Cattle and horses were raised largely, and the grazing lands were extensive. Of fish the supply was abundant, and no fear of exhausting them need be entertained. Brief mention is made of the valuable mineral springs at Harrison Lake and at Banff, and a paragraph is inserted relating to the Indians, who are described as remarkably peaceable, but the policy of delay pursued towards them by the federal government is described as both cruel and short-sighted. Referring to emigration the bishop very properly cautions people from rushing away to this country without any definite purpose and without a well-digested idea as to what lies before them. The paper concludes by expressing a belief that the resources and the opportunities for getting on are so varied in British Columbia that emigrants with common prudence need not stand seriously in fear of failure.

To lessen mortality and stop the inroads of disease, use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. For all diseases arising from impure Blood, such as Pimples Blotches, Biliousness, Indigestion, etc., etc., it has no equal. Mrs Thomas Smith, Elm, writes: "I am using this medicine for Dyspepsia. I have tried many remedies, but this is the only one that has done me any good."
