New Westminster B. C. jly16tc

Daily British Columbian

Friday Evening, May 6, 1887.

Mr. Wiman, in his speech at the Canadian Club in New York, last Wednesday, entered a strong plea for reciprocity. The Toronto manufacturers have declared against it. Canada, stretching across the continent in a narrow belt of northern latitude, has clearly much to gain by free commercial intercourse with its southern neighbor. Let us try to imagine how strenuous would be the opposition of New England to any proposal whereby the rest of the union threatened it with separation. Cut off from interstate trade Massachusetts and her sisters would be poor indeed. Exactly what the New England states would fear Canada now suffers. Trade, if left to its natural channels in North America, would move northward and southward across the Canadian frontier. Because it suited a special class of our people to impose a protective tariff on the country, and because that class, by virtue of its organization and wealth, is unduly powerful, the great mass of Canadian farmers and other taxed consumers are silenced and are blocked in their quest for customers where nature placed them. — Montreal Witness.

If Canada and the United States do not enter into a commercial union as the outcome of the fishery dispute it will not be the fault of Mr. Erastus Wiman. Mr. Wiman thinks that the time is opportune, saying that if the farmers of this country exerted themselves they would obtain within a year all the advantages of an open market with sixty millions of people, all the advantages of contiguity, of excellent means of communication, of extreme prosperity among liberal buyers, without the payment of duty, without the sacrifice of a single political principle, while Canada would still remain a British colony and work out in her own way the problem of self-government. Mr. Wiman has painted a most attractive picture, but behind it, in the minds of most people, is the spectre of annexation. Before the people of Canada will enter into a commercial union with the people of the American republic they must be reassured that they are not taking a step which they cannot retrace if they find it leading them in the direction which they are not disposed to go. Canada has a national debt of a hundred and twenty-five millions of dollars and the yearly necessities of government call for a large revenue. If the customs houses be abolished where is this yearly revenue to come from? It cannot well be raised by clapping the taxes on English goods, and surely no one will go so far as to suggest a resort to direct taxation.—Toronto Telegram.

Last week an express train upon the New York Central Railroad, at two o'clock in the morning, ran into a land-slide near St. Johnsville, in the Mohawk Valley. The locomotive was detached, and rolled down the embankment into the river, but the cars kept the track, and the passengers were unhurt. The train from the other direction was due about the same time, and as the engineer, Edward Kennah, went down with his locomotive, he cried out, "Flag the train, boys!" and was instantly killed. This was one of the incidents which are constantly occurring, and which illustrate the noblest character and heroism. There is nothing finer in the anecdotes of famous heroes than the composure and care for others in the moment of certain death which are so frequently shown by railroad employes. They are the perpetual assurance of the survival of the best qualities of human nature under new and less romantic formers. The old legends of Curtius leaping into the gulf, of Leonidas at Thermopylæ, of Arnold Von Winkelried, are stories of patriotic devotion. But the bravery is no truer, the superiority to circumstances is no more ennobling, than in the case of Edward Kennah, the engineer at St. Johnsville. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, by its sturdy hardihood, intelligence, and sound judgment, stands in the front of labor organizations in this country, and with every instance of such conduct as Kennah's, public respect for it is confirmed.—Harper's Weekly.

Mr. W. R. Lazier, Bailiff, &c., Belleville, writes; "I find Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil the best medicine I have ever used in my stable. I have used it for bruises, scratches, wind puffs and cuts, and every case it gave the best satisfaction. We used it as a household remedy for colds, burns, &c., and it is a perfect panacea. It will remove warts by paring them down and applying it occasionally."

The Colliery Disaster.

The Work of Recovering the Dead Being Proceeded With.

The Total is now 171—101 Whitemen and 70 Chinamen.

45 BODIES NOW RECOVERED.

Special to the Columbian.

NANAIMO, April 6.—The greatest grief prevails throughout the city. About 170 men were killed in the mine. Of these 101 are white, the rest Chinese. Forty-five bodies have been recovered to-day. All [illegible] killed by the fatal fire-damp. All had made desperate efforts to escape and were found lying on their faces with coats over their heads to keep off the flames. Many were a long way from their stations. The bodies which have not been recovered will probably be burned beyond recognition and only be known by the places found in. The fire is almost under control now, and if all goes well will soon be extinguished. Forty-seven widows are left, and a large number of children are fatherless. Assistance is urgently needed, and it is hoped those more happily situated will open their hearts and give of their abundance to the poor, suffering, bereaved people who are left destitute in this city.

ONE MORE BODY RECOVERED.

NANAIMO, May 6, 4 p. m.—One more body has been brought up, named Andrew Hunter, mule driver from No. 1 level. Six other bodies were seen there. Scott, of Wellington, has been carried out, and is doing well. Samuel Hudson was buried at 3 p. m., Rev Mr Good, the Oddfellows and the Masons performing the ceremonies. There is no hope of saving any more.

THE NEWS.

Gladstone Lets Himself be Heard.

The General Events of the Day.

By Associated Press.

ANTI GERMAN DEMONSTRATION.

LONDON, May 5.—The Telegraph describes a serious anti-German demonstration which took place in Paris on Tuesday. The mob paraded the streets for hours, shouting "On to Berlin," "Down with Bismarck," "Down with Germany," etc. In front of the Russian embassy they shouted "Vive la Russie," "Vive L'alliance Russo-Francais." The mob then went for the German embassy with hostile intent, but the police interfered and restored order. The popular feeling is very bitter.

AGAINST RECIPROCITY.

TORONTO, May 5.—The Canadian Manufacturers' Association to-day adopted a resolution unanimously opposing any treaty between this country and the United States which would admit American manufactures into Canada free of duty.

THE PARNELL LETTER.

LONDON, May 5.—The Parnellites will hold a conference to-morrow to consider the Dillon-Times affair. Gladstone spent a large part of the evening searching for precedents for the appointment of a select committee to consider breaches of privilege.

THE AFGHAN BOUNDARY.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 5.—It is semi-officially denied that negotiations between the English and Russian commissions on the Afghan boundary question have failed. The commission held its first formal joint meeting to-day.

EXPELLING SUSPECTS.

BERLIN, May 5.—Many prominent men have been expelled from Alsace-Lorraine, and excitement is increasing.

PREPARING FOR POSSIBILITIES.

BERLIN, May 5.—The Cologne Gazette announces that work on the new fortifications at Metz is being pushed forward rapidly. Casements are being strengthened to enable them to withstand new explosives.

FREE PASSAGE OFFERED.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 5.—John D. Spreckels has cabled the delegates of the Australian colonies, now sitting in London at the colonial conference, offering to transport them free from London to their homes. He will personally bear their railroad expenses in this country, and send them to Australia on his steamers. This action is taken by Mr. Spreckels owing to the inability of the railroads to extend any courtesies to travelers because of the inter-state law. The delegates have been offered free transportation over the Canadian Pacific line, but Mr. Spreckels hopes his more generous offer will be accepted and that it will be the means of maintaining and strengthening the present agreeable commercial relations with Australia.

THE POPE AND THE KNIGHTS.

NEW YORK, May 5.—The World this morning says: The following cable despatch was received from Rome by Archbishop Corrigan yesterday: "No decision has been given in the case of the Knights of Labor. It is false that Pope Leo said there is nothing worthy of censure in George's book." The signature was not revealed by officials at the palace. This cablegram confirms what was said by Cardinal Taschereau and already published in the World. The pope has withdrawn his condemnation of the Knights of Labor, but has not approved of them. Henry George said

[illegible] in relation to [illegible] that the [illegible] taken as [illegible] result from [illegible]

[illegible]

MOSCOW, May 5.—A [illegible] correspondent of the Moscow Gazette [illegible] the German military authorities are training [illegible] to hunt French carrier pigeons in the event of war, also falcons and other birds of prey are being trained to chase carrier pigeons should the latter be employed by the French.

COMMONS NOTES.

LONDON, May 5.—In the commons this afternoon consideration of the question of breach of privilege in the Times-Dillon case was continued. Speaker Peel [illegible] the [illegible] amendment of Sir Edward Clarke, solicitor-general, that the house declined to treat the Times publication as a breach of privilege. The Parnellites at once challenged a division. This resulted in a vote of 297 in favor of the amendment to 219 against. Mr. Bradlaugh then resumed the debate. Gladstone, who on rising was loudly cheered, moved in amendment that a commission be appointed to inquire into the charge of wilful falsehood made against Dillon in the Times of Monday. He said he did not intend to suggest that the inquiry go beyond the article he referred to. He objected to Lord R. Churchill calling him leader of the party of separation. Turning to the question of privilege he said it was unfortunate the government proposed the present step against the Irish members while inflicting upon the Irish people by means of a permanent coercion bill the brand of perpetual dishonor.

AID FOR THE PACIFIC LINE.

OTTAWA, May 5.—Sir John Macdonald stated in parliament this afternoon that the Canadian parliament would contribute an annual subsidy of $75,000 in aid of the Pacific service on condition that the imperial government would grant $300,000 annually. The service proposed was a tri-monthly one between Vancouver and Hong Kong. The answer of the imperial government had not yet been received.

A CANADIAN INTER-STATE COMMERCE BILL.

OTTAWA, May 5.—Mulock has introduced a bill in parliament embodying some of the provisions of the inter-state commerce bill. The most important provision relates to discrimination in rates, and provides that no railroad company shall charge for carrying freight a short distance at a greater rate than for carrying the same class of goods a longer distance in which the shorter distance is included. That is, that local freight from station to station along the line shall not have to pay more in proportion on account of there being no competition than shall be charged for through freight between points served by more than one road and where there is competition. The bill further provides that unused passenger tickets may be redeemed at any station office of the company between and including points covered by the ticket, and also provides a penalty recoverable in case of refusal by any railroad company to so redeem any tickets. It is claimed that the formalities connected with the redemption of unused tickets have been such that a great number of travellers couldn't spare time to get the opportunity to carry out the [illegible]

WHITE BRONZE MONUMENTS.—White Bronze is a comparatively new substance, and has come into large use, notably for special purposes in this country. It has been found to be so well adapted for statuary and monuments, that companies have been for some time established at Bridgeport, Conn., Detroit, Mich., Des Moines, Iowa, and St. Thomas, Canada, who are making monuments of all kinds and styles. From experiments made by these companies, it has been found that the material will stand exposure for an indefinite period—it is practically indestructible. White Bronze being non-corrosive and unchangeable, it is claimed to be equal to gold, silver or platinum, and superior to copper or antique bronze, which throws off a verdigris. The monuments are cast from refined zinc, and are given their sparkling appearance by the sand blast, sand being blown against the work under a high pressure of steam, which cuts the surface, but does not adhere to it. A thin film of oxide which forms on the bronze is indestructible; all the elements, it cannot be dissolved by water, and air cannot penetrate it, although the film is so thin as to be immeasurable. No corrosion, it is claimed, can take place.—Boston Journal of Commerce. Chas. J. Robson, New Westminster, is agent for the White Bronze Monuments in British Columbia. Much cheaper and more durable than any other.

Deep Sea Fisheries.

In the year 1866 codfish were first discovered in the north Pacific, and the product of the first year's fishing was 9 tons of fish brought to the San Francisco market. The codfish fleet of last year from San Francisco numbered 14 vessels, with an aggregate tonnage of 2,754 tons and the season's catch was 1,053 tons of dried fish. The vast extension of this industry may be taken as an example of what may result from the explorations that have been undertaken by the Canadian government to locate the banks of black cod and other deep sea fish known to exist on the north-west coast of British Columbia. But if the fish of our own coast prove to be as plentiful as the indications lead one to expect, we may look for even larger results than have been achieved by the codfishers of San Francisco. The fisheries frequented by these men are a long way from San Francisco. The nearest banks are off the Choumagin Islands, distant 2,200 miles, and the most remote are in the Ochotsk Sea, which is 4,000 miles. These fisheries are very extensive, stretching over a distance of 1,500 miles. But their distance, and the perils and hardships incident to a region lying so far north deter many from embarking in the venturesome undertaking. The cod banks of British Columbia are less than 1,000 miles from the terminus of the C. P. R., and both the cost and the risk are infinitely less than the San Francisco men have to contend with. Besides, the black cod has possibly no rival on the coast. It is one of the very best of food fishes, and will, therefore, fetch the highest price in the market. The fishermen who operate from San Francisco are able to make only one trip each year, on account of the great distance and the severity of the winters on the Siberian coast; but in the deep sea fisheries of British Columbia there is nothing to hinder two trips a year. The development of our deep sea fisheries is a matter of very great importance to the country. If expectations with respect to their value and extent are realized, they will add vastly to the wealth and population and resources of British Columbia.

Imperial Policy.

There is no little anxiety as to the result of the debate now going on in the British parliament respecting the policy that shall be pursued towards Ireland. The policy of the Tory party is immediate coercion, with the promise of remedial measures by which the Tories hope to mitigate or remove the grievances against which the Irish are kicking. The administration argues, not without reason, that no treaty can be made with a people who are in open and active hostility. First, they must lay aside that hostility, and then the government will do what it can to redress their wrongs. But, on the other hand, it is urged to the Irish, as well as to the Liberals, that the government will not put forward a measure of relief adequate to the exigencies of the case. The Parnellites, who may fairly be taken as representatives of the Irish people, demand home rule, and have solemnly affirmed that no measure that comes short of this will be accepted under any circumstances. Mr. Gladstone, who has passed through a practical course of education on this question during the past three years, declares that home rule for Ireland is both necessary and just, and he is, therefore, completely in accord with the Parnellites. The measure proposed by Mr. Gladstone, and pronounced satisfactory by Mr. Parnell, is already well-known, and although it is such a scheme as one would like to see amended in several particulars, it is on the whole, perhaps, the best solution of existing evils that can be hoped for. It is urged against coercive measures that the condition of society in Ireland at the present moment is no worse than it is in any other part of the United Kingdom. Indeed, we are told, there is more crime in England than in Ireland. The enforcement of coercion will naturally increase the bitter feeling now existing in the minds of Irishmen, and will, it is believed, greatly increase the extent of agrarian crime. The Parnell letter, which has come to play so important a part in this question, is just now occupying the attention of parliament. If it can be proved that Parnell really wrote the letter as published in the London Times, the cause of Ireland will suffer a blow from which it cannot soon recover. The genuineness of the letter, however, is as yet a matter of great doubt. It seems to be admitted by all that the letter itself was not written by Mr. Parnell, although the signature is either his or very like one. But it has already been pointed out that Parnell is one of the most suspicious men, and could not but know that the issue of such a letter would forever blast his name in the eyes of all loyal and honest people. Moreover, the signature of Mr. Parnell is not in the usual place on this letter, but on the fly leaf, and Mr. Parnell has pronounced the whole thing a malicious forgery. It was believed that Parnell would bring the Times into court with this matter and there vindicate himself, but this has not been done. But Mr. Parnell's failure to prosecute is not conclusive evidence of his guilt. There may be sufficient reasons why the matter should not go into court. It may be thought best that it should be investigated by a committee of the house instead. However the enquiry is made, we hope it will be made, and that Parnell will be either declared innocent or guilty. If innocent, the letter will produce a reaction in his favor: if guilty, it will do immense damage to his cause.

Mr. Alex. Robinson, of Exeter, in writing about on of the most popular articles, and one that has done more good to the afflicted than any other medicine has during the short time it has been in existence, says; "I have used four bottles of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, and have been cured of Dyspepsia that troubled me for ten years. Part of that I had it very bad, and was at considerable expense trying to get relief; but this excellent remedy was the first and only relief I received.

FOR AND AGAINST SMOKING.

[illegible] in the Use of [illegible]

I have had three important kinds, or grades, of experience in tobacco smoking, covering a period of about thirty years, with two considerable intervals of abstinence that were devoted to investigating the effect of nicotine upon my own system.

I may, therefore, be justified in asserting a good knowledge of the subject, because it is experimental knowledge.

I beg to offer a summary of my conclusions:

1. Human beings have probably smoked tobacco longer than history has been. The practice in China is of unknown great antiquity, and there is reason to believe that it was common to the ancient American races.

2. It is an open question whether there is any virtue in smoking.

3. Nobody denies that it is often productive of distressing results.

4. Tobacco contains a volatile oil, a volatile alkali and an empyreumatic oil. The volatile alkali we know as nicotine. The three are dangerous.

5. The proportion of poison is smallest in the best Havana tobacco; therefore it is a wise self-defense to smoke [illegible].

6. The sound man may smoke with no [illegible].

7. If your heart be diseased abandon all use of tobacco.

8. The habitual Turkish bather may smoke with comparative impunity.

9. The smoker who discharges a great quantity of saliva impairs digestion—which means a long train of consequent afflictions.

10. The smoker who swallows his saliva as fast as it is secreted absorbs more poison than the smoker who [illegible].

11. [illegible] relighting a partially burned cigar, the fire in which has gone out, blow through it with all the power of your lungs.

12. Tobacco smoked in a clean pipe with a long stem, or after the Turkish fashion, of filtering through water, is less hurtful than cigar smoking.

13. One cigar a day is better than two or ten cigars a day.

14. No cigar is better than one cigar.

15. The smoker who defends smoking through thick and thin is first cousin to the highwayman who denounces criminal law.

16. The public good demands, particularly, the suppression of the cigarette fiend.—[Detroit Free Press.

The Capitolian Applewoman.

When Dom Pedro of Brazil was here he went through the Capitol, and in passing by Aunt Clara's booth she created a tremendous sensation by rushing out and throwing her arms about his neck and kissing him.

Then she cried in a voice loud enough to be heard from House to Senate: "I've kissed a king! I've kissed a king!"

Of course, the Emperor was greatly astonished at this procedure, but it was explained that she had a weak mind, and he then evinced a curiosity in her wares displayed at the booth.

He gave her a lot of his photographs to sell and wrote his autograph in her book kept only for the signatures of great men.

Aunt Clara Morris was shrewd, for she made copies of the autograph on tracing paper and sold them at a good price.

She is always greatly affected at learning the death of one of her distinguished friends and often closes her booth [illegible] to their memories. She was [illegible] friend [illegible] and [illegible] to Aunt Clara, thanking her for a letter in which she said she was praying for his recovery. She is desperately in love with Ben Butler and says she loves him more than any man since Charles Sumner.—[Baltimore American.

Tragedy in a Lunatic Asylum.

"We had in a little old man, whose nut had been cracked by the law," said the keeper in the Pennsylvania Asylum. [illegible] for, [illegible] I some [illegible] his [illegible] An [illegible] an offer for the papers. I would pretend I had 'em, but always wanted more'n he'd offer.

"One morning he came into my room as usual, an' said: 'Come, now, say four hundred?'

"'Judge, says I (we called him Judge), 'you know my price—five hundred [illegible], take me or leave me.'

"'Four hundred and fifty,' says he.

"Five hundred from me firm as a rock.

"'Now, look here my friend,' says he, 'I give you warning that this is your last chance. To-morrow those papers won't be worth that to me.' And he snaps his fingers, and off he goes in a horrible rage.

"Next morning he was found hanging by the neck in his room. He had killed himself to spite me."

[illegible] View of Death.

The touching [illegible] of childhood is shown in the following:

The death of a well known gentleman had called forth many expressions of sympathy from friends in the way of a profusion of flowers in beautiful designs.

After they had been placed around him as he lay in the casket, his little daughter Alice, of four years, was led by her mamma into the room to look upon the face of her dead papa.

She was naturally attracted by the flowers and by the design of "The Gates Ajar." Her mamma told her that "the beautiful gate" had opened and papa had passed through and would never come back to them again.

The child looked steadily at her papa's face for a few moments, then climbed up as she could reach over and kiss his cold lips, saying:

"Papa, dear, speak to me and say you will come to the beautiful gate and meet your little Alice some day."

The Progress of Enlightenment.

As in the old Greek games the athletes ran with torches, and one handed the light to the other, and thus it passed along the line, so it is with us, each man runneth his race, but he passes the torch on to another, that the light may never go out from generation to generation.—[Spurgeon.

THE OSWEGATCHIE TOAD-HUNTER.

How The General Rescued His Onion Patch From Grubs.

They tell a good story of the dainty reformer, Newton Martin Curtis, up in St. Lawrence County, New York, where he has always lived.

Curtis made an excellent record as a soldier during the war, and as everybody who knows him knows, had an eye shot out at Fort Fisher, where he was the first man into the Confederate works.

After the war he returned to the wild fastnesses of St. Lawrence County and started on a new career which paralyzed his neighbors. He began to show his experienced and expert farmer neighbors how to farm.

It is true that up to that time he could not distinguish the difference between a harrow and a furrow, but his war experience had made him a great man, and his rank of major-general by brevet had placed him in a position where to receive advice would be not only ridiculous but positively mortifying.

He bought a farm of some hundred acres and ploughed into it on his own hook and in his own way. One season he raised nothing but corn, another nothing but wheat. Then came a year when there was an onion famine.

Here was the General's opportunity. He turned his farm of several hundred acres into one enormous onion patch. Some of his neighbors shook their heads. Others expostulated with him. Many tried to advise him to change his plan.

"The weeds will ruin you and the grubs destroy the crops," they said.

In vain. The obdurate hero of Fort Fisher knew it all. Had he come from the command of thousands of men to be told his business by illiterate and obscure St. Lawrence County farmers?

The onions began to sprout. So did the weeds. The General took off his coat and energetically began on the weeds a crusade of extermination.

It was then that he made a fresh discovery. Grubs nearly a half a foot in length, in myriads, were chewing up his precious food. Discouraged? Not he! He merely scratched his head and pondered. He gazed reflectively at his neighbors' fields laughing with plenty. He ransacked his library for an antidote for grubs.

If the question had been one of flanking a victorious army or of charging an enemy's works, he would not have hesitated for a moment what was the proper and most decisive thing to do, but as it was the momentous issue of grubs he was utterly at sea, and in the end had to give it up.

Finally a neighbor came to his relief—a sympathetic and kind hearted neighbor who knew nothing of war but a great deal about farms.

"The only way to kill them 'ere grubs," he said, "is to give 'em toads." So the General advertised for toads at ten cents a dozen delivered on his farm.

"Plagues of Egypt!" he cried, when he saw a procession a quarter of a mile long marching up to his place with from a dozen to ten dozen toads.

Every day, regular as the sun arose, the procession appeared, received its ten cents a dozen for the batrachians and left, and no doubt would have continued till the present time had not the General made the shocking discovery that while the toads were delivered in the morning, they were covertly collected at night and resold to him the following morning. Hence his name—the "toad-hunter of the Oswegatchie, or the disappointed farmer."—[N. Y. World.

WALT WHITMAN'S NEW POEM.

Lecturing recently on "The Death of Abraham Lincoln," Walt Whitman recited the following, his latest published production:

O Captain! my Captain! our fearful trip is done;
The ship has weathered every rack, the prize we sought is won;
The port is near, the bells I hear, the people all exulting,
While follow eyes the steady keel, the vessel grim and daring;
But O heart! heart! heart!
O the bleeding drops of red,
Where on the deck my Captain lies,
Fallen cold and dead.

O Captain! my Captain! rise up and hear the bells;
Rise up—for you the flag is flung—for you the bugle trills;
For you bouquets and ribbon'd wreaths—for you the shores a-crowding:
For you they call, the swaying mass, their eager faces turning.
Here, Captain! dear father!
This arm beneath your head!
It is some dream that on the deck
You're fallen cold and dead.

My Captain does not answer, his lips are pale and still;
My father does not feel my arm, he has no pulse nor will;
The ship is anchored safe and sound, its voyage closed and done;
From fearful trip the victor ship comes in with object won.
Exult, O shores, and ring, O bells!
But I with mournful tread
Walk the deck—my Captain lies
Fallen cold and dead.

The Cattle and Dairy Interest.

T. D. Curtis, of Syracuse, says there are 16,000,000 cows in the United States. The money value of their yearly product is $1,000,000,000, and the total cost of the land and plant necessary for their support $3,800,000,000.

Last year 60,000,000 pounds of imitation butter were sold from a capital of $2,000,000. This is hurting the dairy interests.

Ministering On Business Principles.

Cobb county, Georgia, has an energetic colored preacher who makes each member of his flock responsible for a definite amount of his salary, and when they have no money to give him he makes them work on his farm until they pay off their debt.

By this means, despite their color, his flock has no black sheep.

An Exact Charge.

Magistrate: "Have you ever been arrested before, Uncle Rastus?"

Uncle Rastus: "Yes, yo' honah; jess wunce."

Magistrate: "What was the charge against you?"

Uncle Rastus: "Ten dollars an' costs, sah!"—[Harper's Bazar.

WHAT PHYSICIANS SAY ABOUT THE

STARR KIDNEY PAD.

"Treatment by Absorption has for some time been recognised by Medical Men to be the most simple and effectual means of conveying to Diseased Organs, "Curatives," but in cases of Kidney Disease and Complaints attendant thereon, successful treatment was practicably impossible until the introduction of the Starr Kidney Pad. It costs less than a single prescription and is immeasurably more decisive and effective than any quantity of internal Medicinal dosing. Worn immediately over the seat of Disease, its curative properties become absorbed by the diseased and enfeebled Organs, continuously and directly, as required to insure in return their healthy action and original vigour. It is comfortable to the patient and pleasant in its effects, and cures when nothing else can. The Starr Kidney Pad accomplishes positive, decisive results. A more valuable discovery as a true remedy for Kidney Disease was never made.—Medical Gazette

The Starr Kidney Pad, manufactured in Toronto, is a permanent sure cure for diseases, disorders and ailments of the Kidneys, Bladder and urinary secretive system, or attendant complaints, causing pain in the small of the back, sides, etc., producing urinary disorders, such as too frequent, scanty, difficult, painful or copious micturition, inability of retention and sedimentary urine, dropsical symptoms, etc., denoting the presence in the system of diseases common to the urinary secretive organs—known as gravel, catarrh of the bladder and passages, Bright's disease, diabetes, dropsy, piles, nervous debility, etc. Send for pamphlet to LANGLEY & CO., Wholesale Agents, Victoria. TESTIMONIAL!

Vancouver, 23rd June, 1886.

MR. G. ROBERTSON,

Vancouver:

Representing Goldie & McCulloch, Galt, Ont.

SIR,—We the undersigned having witnessed the terrible fire which wiped out of existence the young city of Vancouver, on the 13th inst., have, after the fire, examined the safes sold by you, some of which were put to the most severe test, having been surrounded by large quantities of lard and bacon, and we are pleased to testify to the remarkable manner in which every Safe sold by you preserved its contents, not only books and papers, but also thousands of dollars in paper money were taken out in perfect condition. We can, therefore, with the greatest confidence, recommend them as thoroughly fire proof:

THE BRITISH COLUMBIAN Printing Company

(LIMITED.)

ON THE 10TH OF JANUARY, 1887, the COLUMBIAN Newspaper and Printing Concern was purchased by a joint stock company composed of citizens of New Westminster, to be known as the "British Columbian Printing Co., Limited." The concern has been for nearly a year owned and controlled by the British Columbia Stationery and Printing Company, of New Westminster, Victoria and Vancouver. The object of the new company is to continue the publication of the BRITISH COLUMBIAN newspaper and carry on a general printing and publishing concern, controlled entirely by those whose individual interest it will be to promote the development, especially of the Mainland. There will be no slackening of the energy hitherto displayed in the management of the establishment, and its patrons may rely upon receiving full value for their money. The COLUMBIAN will continue to be entirely independent in both Dominion and provincial politics, and will devote itself to the advancement of such schemes as may be considered in the public interest. The concern is now entirely separate from any other business, the book and stationery establishment in this city having been taken over by Mr. T. R. Pearson, who will continue to carry it on in his own name and for his own benefit. It is desirable that a daily newspaper should be maintained in this city, and the new company asks for public patronage on the ground that it is engaged in an enterprise calculated to promote the public welfare. It asks that the COLUMBIAN be judged on its own merits and supported only so long as its policy is enconsistent with its professions. In consequence of this business change all accounts due the concern must be settled without delay so that the books of the former company may be adjusted and closed. HEAD OFFICE, TORONTO, CANADA

A HOME COMPANY.

This Association merits the confidence the Public is reposing in it from the following FACTS:—

The Security offered to policy holders is unsurpassed by any Company doing business in Canada.

It has no schemes of insurance, but the well-established lines, hence the policy holders cannot be misled as to their contracts.

Its statements to the public can be readily understood, its cash statement showing every item of income and how expended.

Its position is ascertained annually from a detailed valuation in which every item of liability is included.

Its progress has been unexampled in the history of insurance in Canada.

Its policies are indisputable after three years, and non-forfeitable after two years' existence.

Its profits are distributed upon an equitable basis. The profits to one class of policy holders are not lessened to give larger profits to any other class, which method affords superior advantages over the uniform bonus plan of distribution.

Liberal Conditions as to Residence and Travel.
