All Quiet over the Fisheries.

The New York Times, with what must be considered as pestiferous intent, calls attention to the fact that the lull in the fisheries dispute is so intense that you can hear a fly walk. A holy calm prevades the whole coast line from Cape Cod to Larbrador. Nothing is heard but the lazy creak of loose booms and the soft flap of idle sails. And yet it is the very middle of the fishing season. The homes of our fishermen in Gloucester, Portland, and all up to the Eastport are deserted. Their smacks are no-where to be seen. They have not invaded or hovered about Canadian waters as they did last year, to the great despite of the Bluenose authorities. None has been seized and there have been no reports of annoying encounters or conflicts of authority. Something is the matter. A probable explanation is that our fishermen made a great cry last year over very little fish, and they lost opportunities while they were drawing resolutions instead of nets. This year they have gone off to the deep water, where there is no three-mile limit to avoid, no Canadian cutters to fear, and plenty of fish to catch. They will come home with full holds and next winter they will enjoy the fruits of their peaceful hardihood. It may be, however, that Blaine's European tour has something to do with the rest we are having regarding the fisheries. When he was at Bar Harbour last year there was no other means offered so convenient to keep himself before the public as to stir up the fishermen of Maine into a heat over alleged fishery outrages. This year another plan to rivet public attention on his white plume has been adopted, and he has dropped the fisheries as completely as if he did not care a pin-hook for all the cod-fish that ever salted the ocean—a theory to which he was once committed. And therefore, mayhap, we have a rest about fisheries.—Chicago News.

Salmon Extermination.

Reports from the salmon fisheries of the Columbia river are very unfavorable. Fish are scarce, and the worst of it is that the scarcity is not casual, but marks a stage in the gradual decline of the salmon run in the river. Formerly there were runs of fish in April, May, June and July. The April run has long been a thing of the past. This wear the May and June runs were conspicuous by their absence, and the July run has not yet commenced, though the usual time is past. The canneries have sold in advance more orders than they are likely to fill. Fishermen are earning very little. One statement of fact undoubtedly accounts in part for this falling off in an important industry. Ten years ago there were about 500 boats engaged in the salmon-fishing of the Columbia. Now there are nearly three times that number. There has been a corresponding increase in the number of canneries and the amount of their output. A great trade has been built up with the East and Europe, and this opening of markets has created a rush to supply them. The river has undoubtedly been over fished. So long as proper times and seasons are observed it does not matter very much how many fish are taken; the natural increase will make up for all demands; but when fish are taken out of the season, and reproduction is checked, then scarcity is sure to follow. Reports received from Oregon and Washington Territory last year indicated that unseasonable fishing was permitted to a terribly destructive degree. Some of the canneries in their greed were putting up fish so out of condition as to be absolutely unwholesome, and a cry went up that the Columbia river pack was in a fair way to get a bad name from their operations. Evidently the salmon interest on the Columbia is taking the same course as that of the Sacramento and with like results. But for the United States hatchery on McCloud river, the Sacramento salmon would be a scarce article in our market. Artificial propagation has to some extent made up for the ravages of the fishermen and the canneries. It has been a constant fight between the State Commissioners and the fishermen to keep the latter in check and to prevent them from fishing during the close season. The close season, as it is observed, is not long enough. This is proved by the number of fish taken carrying spawn. With the increase in local demand consequent upon the growth of the community all necessary measures should be taken to preserve this finest of fish. Preservation is easier and cheaper than propagation. In the Eastern States the streams and estuaries were so remoselessly fished that the salmon became almost extinct. Now the State authorities, at much trouble and expense, are seeking to repair the loss by rigid enforcement of fish laws and by artificial propagation. California should be warned by Eastern example before the damage has gone to far.—S. F. Bulletine.

THE THISTLE'S TRANSATLANTIC TRIP.

LONDON, July 22.—In preparing the Thistle for her transatlantic voyage, no structural alterations have been made and she will be rigged with short mast, a very short bowsprit and boom of half racing length, and will sail under storm mainsail and small foresail, a jib and stay sail. AMERICAN PRISONERS IN HAVANA.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—A U. S. consul general at Havana, writes to the department of state under date of 15th inst., that he has just been assured by the chief justice of the superior court that the case against Circlio, a naturalized American citizen, accused of treasonable conspiracy, will be heard without delay. Information has also been received of the acquital of A. S. Horscheck, an American, who was arrested at Cienfugos some time ago on a charge of complicity with bandits.

THE RIGHTS OF ALIENS.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Referring to a cable dispatch from London in regard to Attorney-General Garland's opinion on the alien act, it is stated that the opinion was given to the president some time ago. The president had asked for an opinion at the request of certain persons connected with mining operations, who were desirous of obtaining information. The opinion never chanced to be given for publication. The attorney-general in reply to the president considers the various sections of the act of March 3rd at great length. His conclusions are summed up as follows: First, as mines are real estate or inhabitable interests in real estate, the act does not apply to them; second, the stock in corporation is a personality, or the alien can lawfully have, hold and own shares of stock issued by an American corporation which is now owner of mineral lands in the territory, but if the holding by aliens exceed 20 per cent. such corporation can neither acquire, own nor hereafter acquire real estate while more than 20 per cent. of stock is held and owned by aliens; third, under the act the advancement of money hereafter by aliens for the purpose of developing mining property is lawful, but no interest in real estate can be acquired by such advancement, nor would an alien have a right to real estate which can be acquired by such advancement nor would an alien have a right to purchase the real estate nor any interest therein on the loan made since the passage of the act, even if sold on his own security or lien; fourth, aliens may lawfully contract with American owners to work mines by personal contract for hire or by bona fide basis for reasonable time.

In answer to a request to lead a coup de etat for the restoration of the monarchy Le France demands that Gen. Ferron, Gen. The mother, mistrusting something wrong, hurried home and found the building in flames and her two sons burned to a crisp.

Stanley made camp on the height bordering on the river bank of the Arawimi, commanding the surrounding country. The weather was fine and prospects for revictual favorable. JUBILEE NAVAL REVIEW.

PORTSMOUTH, July 23.—Portsmouth and Southsea have been thronged for days in anticipation of the jubilee naval review fixed for this afternoon. At Spithaad crowds have been immensely augmented this morning by the arrival of innumerable visitors from all parts of the country who came by special trains from London and other centres. Special trains brought from London lords of the admiralty and members of the house of lords and commons, and members of representatives of the foreign legations. Minister Phelps was travelling in a special saloon coach. He was accompanied by his wife and Mrs. Loomis. In the same coach with the American visitors were Robt. McLare, minister to France; Jabez S. M. Curry, minister to Spain; Henry White, second secretary American legation at London, and his wife; Lieut. Chadwick, naval attache American legation, and Mrs. Chadwick; Lieut. Buckingham, naval attache American legation at Paris, and Mrs. Buckingham, Thomas M. Walter, U S. consul-general at London, Jos. R. Hawley and Senator Frye. Minister Phelps and party appeared thoroughly to enjoy themselves, all being in the best spirits. Levi S. Morton and family were aboard the private yacht of August Jay, second secretary American legation at Paris. Chester A. Arthur, Mrs. Frank Leslie, and Mr. Logan Root were also afloat, aboard different crafts. W. K. Vanderbilt's yacht, the Alva, was conspicuous in procession. The sea vessels participating in the pageant as paraders numbered 128 peanants and included 3 squadrons iron clads and cruisers aggregating 34 vessels, 75 torpedo boats, gun boats and iron defence ships divided into 5 flotillas, six training brigs, and 13 troop ships. Besides these 128 ships under drill there were three Imperial and Indian troop ships.

Daily British Columbian

Saturday Evening, July 23, 1887.

According to our despatches today the Ameer of Afghanistan is not pleased at the settlement of the boundary question because the British government has conceded more than it ought to have done. This will not be a pleasant item for the British Tory party, who howled so bravely against the foreign policy pursued by Mr. Gladstone when he held the premiership. The administration of the jingoes has certainly not been characterised by a vigorous foreign policy.

It is stated that the new steel steamer now being finished at San Francisco to run between Vancouver and Puget Sound will carry the American flag. The cost of making her a British vessel is considerable, and it is deemed more convenient anyway to leave her nationality undisturbed. In these waters American vessels do not seem to be disturbed at all by customs regulations. They are allowed to navigate provincial inlets and rivers almost without hindrance. But it is very different with British vessels which attempt to do business on the sound. It comes to be a fact, therefore, that vessels trading between British Columbia and the sound can do so better under the American flag than under the flag that braved a thousand years!

It would not be a matter of very great surprise if the British government should consent at the last moment to such concessions in the Irish land bill as would make it fairly acceptable to the Parnellites and the Gladstonians. There seems to have been manifested lately a disposition towards concessions, and if this gets sufficient encouragement and goes far enough, the Tories may yet have their names handed down to posterity as the saviours of Ireland. Although Parnell declared that no measure securing less than was embodied in the Gladstone scheme would be accepted, circumstances have so changed that it may be considered expedient to take half a loaf rather than go without any bread at all. It is more likely, however, that the usual pigheaded policy will be adhered to, and the government will make no such concessions as the circumstances appear to demand. It is to be feared that such a policy will aggravate existing evils and widen the breach already so conspicuous in the empire.

There is much speculation concerning the purpose of Hon. Mr. Mowat's trip to England. Before leaving he stated that his object was partly public business, and it has been surmised that the other part of his business is to receive knighthood at the hands of the queen. No one would object to such a distinction conferred upon such a man, but there are very few Canadian Liberals who have ever cared for becoming possessed of such distinctions. By the way, what has become of all the decorations which the public were promised in the year of jubilee anyway? It was at one time intimated that all mayors of cities in Canada were to be knighted. Perhaps most of the mayors are so benighted that the queen deemed any further distinction needless. It is very certain that some at least of those who occupy the honorable position of mayor "got there" with much exertion because of the rumored distinction. It is said, however, that all Britain has been greatly disgusted at the miserable programme of decorations prepared. The list, it is said, does not embrace a single person of such distinction as to arouse the slightest enthusiasm among the people.

Some days ago it was announced that the Canadian Pacific Railway company had made a large claim against the government on account of the Onderdonk contract. The agreement between the government and the syndicate was that the road from Port Moody to Savona was to be completed by the government and handed over to the syndicate. But the syndicate now claims that the road was not made according to specifications, and being unfinished the conditions of the agreement have not been complied with. This will not surprise any one acquaintod with the history of the Onderdonk contract. It is well known that the work was never done according to specifications, and everybody was surprised when it was announced that the government had not only accepted the road from the contractor, but had agreed to pay him an enormous sum for his delapidated plant. Those who ascribe the claim of the C. P. R. to natural greed must be ignorant of the facts. It is what a great many people looked for, and there was considerable curiosity to ascertain just how much money the government would have to pay in consequence of its apparent anxiety to gratify Mr. Onderdonk's ambition.

Temperance Sketch.

BY DR. W. J. FAIRFIELD.

It was a small village in Dakota where farmer Pelton went to buy what few groceries his little family required.

He was in the prime of life, and, with his young wife, had but recently sought the far west to make them a home. He was frugal, industrious and honest, a conscientious, God fearing man.

One cold afternoon with a threatening leaden sky (it was winter) Pelton was in the village, and having to get some articles at the little drug store, it happened that this was the last errand he had to do before starting for home. Hurrying through with this, anxious to be on his way home, for it was getting late, he had started for the door when the druggist called to him and said that he must take extra precautions to guard against the cold on his ride home, as it threatened a blizzard, and so persistently urged that he drinks a good stout thimblefull of old Bourbon whiskey to heat him up, that, although he was not in the habit of drinking, he took it, thinking that perhaps it might fortify him to bettor stand the eight miles, with the thought that at all events it could do no harm.

How quickly he felt the warming effects of the liquor. He had gone but a half mile on his journey when he felt that the liquor was having a very happy effect, making him feel that he could stand a hundred blizzards.

The wind arose, and the snow began to thicken, making an impenetrable "white blackness." Onward he pressed, urging his good horse to a brisker pace. Furious the wind blew. Faster came the snow, and he more closely pulled his thick wraps around him and nestled lower in the wagon bed.

His grasp on the driving reins grew more slack, and overcome with drowsiness the reins finally dropt loosely over the dashboard; yet the good horse pressed on, knowing well the road.

At last the home was reached. The loving wife anxiously waiting and watching eagerly, came to the door. She called John but got no response. She found him cold and lifeless. There was grief, but who can describe it?

In the morning he went from her in the strength of his manhood. In the evening shorn of his strength, his life, his inanimate clay returns to her; and although the neighbors believed, as the village paper stated, that he was frozen to death, yet science with unerring certainty and absolute truth points to the glass of liquor as the primary cause of the desolation of that prairie home.

How many there are who believe and teach that rum will keep a man warm when the truth is, it only benumbs the sensibilities and aids the cold in stagnating the life current.

The Teetotaler.

A man said: "I became a temperance man in early life, because I noticed in the harvest-field that, though I was physically weaker than other workmen, I could hold out longthan they. They took stimulants, I took none."

A brickmaker in England gives his experience in regard to this matter among men in his employ. He says, after investigation: "The beer-drinker who made the fewest bricks made 659,000; the abstainer, who made the fewest bricks, 746,000. The difference in behalf the abstainer over the indulger, 78,000."

There came a very exhaustive time in the British parliament. The session was prolonged until nearly all the members got sick or worn out. Out of 652 members, only two went through undamaged. They were teetotalers.

AN EMIR'S DENUNCIATION OF RUM.—The New York Evangelist prints the following letter of one of the most powerful of the Mohammedan emirs, King Malike of Nupe, who writes: "It is not a long matter; it is about barasa (rum or gin). Barasa, barasa, barasa; by Allah! it has ruined our country; has ruined our people very much; it has made our people become mad. I have given a law that no one dares to buy or sell; and any one who is found selling it, his house is to be eaten up (plundered); any one found drunk will be killed. I have told all the Christian traders that I agree to everything for trade except barasa. I have told Mr. McIntosh's people to say the barasa remaining with them must be returned down the river. For God and the prophet's sake! he must help us in this matter—that of barasa. We all have confidence in. He must not leave our country to become spoiled by barasa." The foregoing ought to cause some "civilized" communities to blush for their sleepy acquiescence in these branch establishments of the pit.

KNIGHTS OF LABOR ENDORSE THE ANTI SALOON WAR.—The Knights of Labor of Boone, Iowa, lately took official action endorsing an order issued by the mayor of that city against the "illegal sale of intoxicating liquors, ale, wine and beer," and declaring that "this effort to prevent the bread from being taken from the mouths of innocent women and children ought to have the moral support of all good citizens."

SELF-RESPECT.—The other day there was found lying by the side of a ditch a pig; on the other side a man. The pig was sober, the man drunk. The pig had a ring in his nose, the man had a ring on his finger. Some one passing exclaimed, "One is judged from the company he keeps." The pig arose and went away.

THE BRITISH COLUMBIAN Printing Company (LIMITED.)

ON THE 10TH OF JANUARY, 1887, the COLUMBIAN Newspaper and Printing Concern was purchased by a joint stock company composed of citizens of New Westminster, to be known as the "British Columbian Printing Co., Limited." The concern has been for nearly a year owned and controlled by the British Columbia Stationery and Printing Company, of New Westminster, Victoria and Vancouver. The object of the new company is to continue the publication of the BRITISH COLUMBIAN newspaper and carry on a general printing and publishing concern, controlled entirely by those whose individual interest it will be to promote the development, especially of the Mainland. There will be no slackening of the energy hitherto displayed in the management of the establishment, and its patrons may rely upon receiving full value for their money. The COLUMBIAN will continue to be entirely independent in both Dominion and provincial politics, and will devote itself to the advancement of such schemes as may be considered in the public interest. The concern is now entirely separate from any other business, the book and stationery establishment in this city having been taken over by Mr. T. R. Pearson, who will continue to carry it on in his own name and for his own benefit. It is desirable that a daily newspaper should be maintained in this city, and the new company asks for public patronage on the ground that it is engaged in an enterprise calculated to promote the public welfare. It asks that the COLUMBIAN be judged on its own merits and supported only so long as its policy is enconsistt with its professions. In consequence of this business change all accounts due the concern must be settled without delay so that the books of the former company may be adjusted and closed. Address all communications and remittances to

GOOD ADVICE TO PARENTS.

Somebody Who Knows Gives Valuable Suggestions on the Good Government of Boys and Girls.

It seems as if in this age of civilization that physical punishment ought never to be resorted to. It is not necessary. A parent has full control of a child when it is young, and should keep it.

It can never be done by whipping, for a boy that is punished that way always looks forward to the time when he will be too large to be whipped, and as he grows he has to be whipped a little harder every time, which in itself proves that form of punishment to be useless and wrong.

In any other method of punishing a child can be shown that he is simply enduring the consequences of a disobedient act, unless, of course, more injustice is practiced, for children have a fine sense of justice and are not easily deceived by a pretense of it.

Too much punishment is as dangerous as too little. It is when one has a glimmer of this idea that he quotes the proverb, "spare the rod," etc., to fortify himself, when the proverb would be better forgotten. "Great rewards betoken a fallen state." The same is true of much punishment.

The object of all punishment is, of course, to improve a child, to trim off, or subdue its faults of character as they appear, and give a better chance for all the good qualities to develop. There are ways of punishing besides whipping that will defeat this end, and the whole subject is a matter to be gravely considered by parents of young children.

It is a common practice to deprive a child of some anticipated pleasure because of a disobedience. The effect of such a punishment depends upon the circumstances.

Suppose, for instance, a boy has a promise that he shall go to a certain circus that is coming in a few days, but an occasion arises in which some sort of discipline must be resorted to, and he is told he cannot go to the circus.

In such a case all the antagonism of the boy's nature is aroused. He can see no justice in the punishment. He submits because he is obliged to and the only relief he has is in hating the authority over him, and no doubt feels a contempt for a time, for one that can give a promise and then take it back. All the matters in relation to the coming of the circus, his mates all going, and everything in connection with it will continually keep his angry feelings uppermost and he will all the time feel the injustice of the broken promise instead of repentance for his misdeed.

Now if, instead, he had been told that he could not go out of the yard again for any pleasure, except the circus, for a week, nor have any boys in his own yard to play with him during that time, but must amuse himself as best he could alone in consequence of his wrong doing, he would many times during the week wish he had behaved himself properly and would not have that hateful feeling aroused towards his parents. He would not be made unhappy by his punishment; he would have a chance to think of the matter fairly and would not feel abused and outraged however uncomfortable the restriction became. Instead of feeling angry at it he would wish he had not done wrong. A child needs all the sunshine it can have to be fitted for the storms that come in after life, and if in any doubt whether a punishment, in certain cases, is really a necessity or not, always give the child the benefit of the doubt.

A happy child will be the most obedient. The docility of the slave is not what we want in children. "The camel moves no swifter before the whip, only behind the flute."—[Good Housekeeping.

The Mine Mule.

One of the most amusing and at the same time most pitiful sights to be seen about the coal mines, says a correspondent writing from Nanticoke, is the descent of a mule to the depths below.

The shaft is, say, 600 feet deep, and yawns at one's feet like a spot of ink on the ground. A car, lowered and raised by a perpendicular wire cable, shoots up and down with breathless velocity. On the car is fastened a narrow stall, with iron bars, which can be fastened across the entrance.

By various methods the unfortunate mule is brought as far as the mouth of the shaft, but when he sees the car he knows what it means. That mule fully realizes that if he walks aboard he will never see daylight again, and will have to work in the dark as only a mine mule must.

So he kicks. Argument is useless, persuasion falls on deaf ears. He kicks with a vigor and precision that means business. His heels are a battery that would terrify even the fatalistic valor of the Mahdi.

But a long beam is brought and one end put against one of the uprights at the side of the shaft. At the other end four men push, bringing the beam like a lever against the mule's flanks. Now the beast's backbone curves until his head is next his tail, and his four feet, planted firmly together, seem riveted to the ground.

The beam is a decided failure, though two men are, at the same time, tugging at a halter.

But there is another resource. Even mule resistance can be overcome by steam power.

A rope is fastened around the mule's neck and looped around those vicious hind legs. Then a steam windlass is slowly turned and the unlucky beast is dragged on the car. The iron bars are put up, a bell rings, and the car drops downward, while a last melancholy bray floats up from the black hole.

There is one mule under Wilkesbarre, that has spent twenty-one years of useful life hauling coal in the dark. The miners are proud of him, and he has twice been hoisted to the surface to walk proudly in the miners' parades.

Mules do not, as has been often said, go blind in the mines, but when they are brought out a bandage must be tied over their eyes for several days.

Income of Queen Victoria.

Queen Victoria has a great financial advantage over her heir apparent in the circumstances that, whether times are good or bad, her Majesty's snug little revenue of over £7,000 a week is paid just the same, while it is well known that the Prince has for years past been obliged to make heavy abatements in his duchy of Cornwall property—not so much, perhaps, in the duchy proper as in its outlying estates in other counties.

His allowance from Parliament of £40,000 a year is just what the Queen receives from her duchy of Lancaster as a little extra pocket money, in addition to her £1,000 a day. The prince, moreover, has no country seat kept up for him, while the Queen has half a dozen besides her own houses.

Valuable Household Maxim.

Impress upon your wife that early to bed and early to rise is the best motto for a woman to live up to.

This will insure you a warm bed at night and a hot breakfast in the morning.—[Judge.

It is said by one who has tried it that cayenne pepper sprinkled upon hot flannels will afford instant relief to persons troubled with neuralgia.

Business Directory.

The following Business Directory relates only to persons whose advertisements appear in the DAILY COLUMBIAN. It has been found true, as a rule, that persons who advertise liberally are liberal in their dealings, and many persons make it a rule to give preference in their dealings to those establishments which advertise freely. WHAT PHYSICIANS SAY ABOUT THE

STARR KIDNEY PAD.

"Treatment by Absorption has for some time been recognized by Medical Men to be the most simple and effectual means of conveying to Diseased Organs, "Curatives," but in cases of Kidney Disease and Complaints attendant thereon, successful treatment was practically impossible until the introduction of the Starr Kidney Pad. It costs less than a single prescription and is immeasurably more decisive and effective than any quantity of internal Medicinal dosing. Worn immediately over the seat of Disease, its curative properties become absorbed by the diseased and enfeebled Organs, continuously and directly, as required to insure in return their healthy action and original vigour. It is comfortable to the patient and pleasant in its effects, and cures when nothing else can. The Starr Kidney Pad accomplishes positive, decisive results. A more valuable discovery as a true remedy for Kidney Diseases was never made.—Medical Gazette

The Starr Kidney Pad, manufactured in Toronto, is a permanent sure cure for diseases, disorders and ailments of the Kidneys, Bladder and urinary secretive system, or attendant complaints, causing pain in the small of the back, sides, etc., producing urinary disorders, such as too frequent, scanty, difficult, painful or copious micturition, inability of retention and sedimentary urine, dropsical symptoms, etc., denoting the presence in the system of diseases common to the urinary secretive organs—known as gravel, catarrh of the bladder and passages, Bright's disease, diabetes, dropsy, pilles, nervous debility, etc. Send for pamphlet to LANGLEY & CO., Wholesale Agents, Victoria. A HOME COMPANY.

This Association merits the confidence the Public is reposing in it from the following FACTS:—

The Security offered to policy holders is unsurpassed by any Company doing business in Canada,

It has no schemes of insurance, but the well-established lines, hence the policy holders cannot be misled as to their contracts.

Its statements to the public can be readily understood, its cash statement showing every item of income and how expended.

Its position is ascertained annually from a detailed valuation in which every item of liability is included.

Its progress has been unexampled in the history of insurance in Canada.

Its policies are indisputable after three years, and non-forfeitable after two years' existence.

Its profits are distributed upon an equitable basis. The profits to one class of policy holders are not lessened to give larger profits to any other class, which method affords superior advantages over the uniform bonus plan of distribution.

The buildings will be throughly repaired and sidings will be constructed for the interior trade. According to the agreement between the railway company and the syndicate, the mill property has to be used for wood manufacturing purposes, otherwise a division of the real estate on the basis agreed upon —two-thirds to the syndicate and one-third to the railway company — will have to be made. The management, we understand, will not be changed.—Times.

FROM PEACE RIVER.—George Kennedy, H. B. officer at Fort St. John, Peace River, reports to the Edmonton Bulletine as follows: A party of nine came into the upper Peace River last fall from Calgary by way of British Columbia. Three of these, named Jas. Christie' Lowe and Wright, wintered above Rocky Mountain portage, about 20 miles above Hudson's Hope H. B. post. The other six, including Dan Williams, "nigger Dan," went up the Finlay branch of the Peace. They had some disagreements and Dan and another separated from the rest and came down to the month of the Finlay where they built a cabin in which to winter. Dan took sick in the fall and gradualy wasted away until he died about the middle of Febuary, His death was not heard of until the ice broke up and his companion came down to Christie's camp. He afterward went back to Quesnelle, B. C., by the Parsnip River. The other four men who went up the Finlay prospecting had not been heard of when Mr. Kennedy left. Wright, one of Christi's companions, engaged with Mr. Davis, the trader, to take a boat load of goods down to Vermillion, leaving only Christie and Lowe out of the party of nine remaining for the summer. They have put in a garden as an experiment and will spend the summer hunting and mining. If the garden succeeds and other things are favorable Christie will probably start a stock ranch with a view to the development of the country when a railroad is built through the Peace River pass, as he has established himself almost at its entrance.

M. A. St. Mars, St. Boniface, Manitoba, writes: Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is a public benefit. It has done wonders here, and has cured myself of a bad cold in one day. Can be relied upon to remove pain, heal sores of various kinds, and benefit any inflamed portion of the body to which it is applied.

The Base Ball Match.

Vancouver Boys Win—A Poorly Contested Game.

The second game of the season between the Royal City club and the Metropolitans of Vancouver was played in this city yesterday, and resulted in a victory for the "Mets" by a score of 32 to 31. The game throughout was characterized by a want of practice on the part of the players. The battery of the Vancouver team was very good, but the fielding of the home team was very bad, and gave many runs to the visitors. The game was witnessed by a large number of people. The following is the score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Metropolitans,	4	4	3	2	8	2	5	2	2	32
Royal City,	0	3	0	3	11	6	0	1	1	31

THE THIN CANNOT GAIN IN WEIGHT if they are troubled with dyspepsia, because the food is not converted into the due proportion of nourishing blood which alone can furnish the elements of flesh. But there is no reason, when this wearing, attenuating disease is conquered by Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, why there should not be an appreciable gain in weight, which indeed is usually the case. It is a peerless remedy also for Constipation, Liver Complaint, Kidney troubles, and roots out all impurities from the blood.

Jas. Shannon, Leaskdale, writes: For many years my wife was troubled with chilblains, and could get no relief until about two years ago; she was then not able to walk, and the pain was then so excruciating that she could not sleep at night. Your agent was then on his regular trip, and she ashed him if he could cure her. He told her Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil was a sure cure. She tried it, and judge of her astonishment when in a few days the pain was all allayed and the foot restored to its natural condition. It is also the best remedy for burns and bruises I ever used.

1873. GRIP! 1887.

CANADA'S COMIC JOURNAL

GREAT IMPROVEMENTS FOR 1887.

THE AIM OF "GRIP" is to set forth, in an impartial and independent manner, the passing events of Canadian political and social life. Its Cartoons speak more definitely and more pleasingly than whole columns of editorial. In this pungent, easily appreciable, and artistic style of presenting a subject, the whole situation is revealed at a glance. The success of Grip shows how well this fact is appreciated—its Cartoons on the passing political events of the country being even more eagerly sought after than the chaste and humorous letter-press of the paper,—though the latter is equal to that of any similar publication on the continent.

The publishers of Grip are making extensive improvements for 1886. The old cover is to be discarded, and the journal will hereafter comprise 12 pages, and be printed on heavy toned and calendered paper,—every number being artistically executed as to compare favorably with the best papers on the continent. The advts. will be compressed and more systematically arranged; while similar improvements will be made as to the letter-press. A new and handsome design will adorn the title page; while the Cartoons will certainly not suffer from extensive improvements in the artistic department.

The price of Grip will hereafter be $2 a year, which is lower than that of any paper of its kind in America,—most of them selling for $5. Single numbers of Grip will be 10 cents.

Twice a year, at Midsummer and Christmas, a beautiful special number will be issued, the number of pages being increased, and pleasing features introduced, particulars of which will be given in preceding issues. These numbers will be presented to subscribers without extra charge.

GRIP'S PLATFORM:

Humor without Vulgarity;
Patriotism without Partizanship;
Truth without Temper.

Only $2 a Year, Postage Free.
