VOLUME 24 | NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C., SATURDAY, AUGUST 4, 1883. | NUMBER 10

The British Columbian.

Saturday Morning, August 4, 1883.

Courts and Judges.

Not long ago we referred to the great injustice done to the people of the mainland on account of the practice of postponing our courts for reasons which sometimes seem very trivial. The last county court was postponed because, it was alleged, Mr. Justice Gray wished to attend a supper to be given in honor of Sir Alexander Campbell on his arrival at Victoria. We cannot accept such a plea as that in justification of the act. We do not consider that the pleasure of feasting the minister of justice (however deserving he may be of the honor) should have been regarded by the judge as of more importance than the duty of attending to his court. Moreover, it is not customary to entertain distinguished visitors at dinner just when they have reached our shores. No doubt Sir Alexander will remain for some time in the province—we sincerely hope he may—and opportunities would have presented themselves for the judges to pay their respects without embarrassment and loss to the people. We have been looking for a report of the judges' dinner, but up to the present writing we have looked in vain. In fact it is stated that the affair was formally postponed nearly a week ago, until Sir Alexander returns from his tour through the province. And so it comes to pass that nothing whatever has been accomplished by the postponement of our county court, and the people of this district have not even the consolation of knowing that the judges and the minister of justice were feasting while they suffered! It has been generally understood that the decision of the supreme court of Canada on the Thrasher case established the authority of the province to place judges in certain districts. If a judge had been residing in this district it is altogether probable that neither the last court nor the one preceding it would have been postponed. We are informed that the provincial government had an interview with Sir Alexander Campbell early this week, when, we presume, various matters of importance concerning the relations of the provincial and federal governments would be discussed. It may be that one of the results of that conference is the announcement that Mr. Justice McCreight is to be sent to reside at this city, and Mr. Justice Walkem is to go to Kamloops. This will to a great extent mitigate the judiciary misfortunes which have hitherto existed, and we congratulate the people of the mainland, and the government, upon having achieved so much. If Sir Alexander has ordered these changes, we must say that he has acted with singular promptness, which is strangely in contrast with the usual practice of the Ottawa government in dealing with British Columbia affairs. We hope he will continue so to act during his visit, and that he may be able to effect a complete adjustment of the misunderstandings and embarrassments which have so long existed between us and the federal authorities. If he does this he will accomplish more than any of his predecessors have done, and will carry away with him the best gratitude of British Columbia.

The discovery recently reported from the coal mines of Bully-Grenay, France, seems to be a most important one in its relation to the antiquity of man. In piercing a new gallery a cavern was broken open which disclosed the fossil remains of five human beings, fairly preserved, together with fragments of arms, utensils of petrified wood and of stone, and remains of mammals and fishes. A second subterranean chamber contained the remains of eleven human bodies, several animals, and a large number of various objects, with some precious stones. The human bodies were of large size, a man from the first chamber measuring seven feet, and a woman six and one-half feet. Drawings representing men fighting gigantic animals adorned the walls of the cave. A third chamber found was believed to be empty, but was not explored. If the find proves to be what it at first appears, it is a remarkable relic of prehistoric people.

The French Academy's prizes for 1883 number seventeen and amount to a total of more than 60,000 francs, the largest being one of 25,000 francs ($5,000) for a satisfactory remedy against diphtheria.

Scientific Miscellany.

At the three stations in northern Europe from which special attention was given last winter to studies of the aurora borealis efforts were made to photograph the phenomenon, but no impression on the sensitive plates could be secured.

A committee of Vienna physicians found in Moravia thirty-seven per cent. of rats examined trichinous; in Vienna and its immediate neighborhood, ten per cent.; and in Lower Austria, about four per cent. A late writer insists that it is a well established fact that swine owe their infection with trichinae entirely to the eating of the flesh and excrement of rats.

In a paper read before the Royal Society of Canada Mr. Robert Bell has attributed the fertility of the vast productive tract of the Canadian northwest territories—stretching from the Red River valley to the Liard River—largely to the work of burrowing animals. The mole and ground-squirrel are singularly active in the autumn, and in burrowing bury immense quantities of grass and other vegetable matter, which are thus confined in the soil and have gradually produced a rich mold.

In his experiments at Sherryvore, off the west coast of Scotland, Stevenson found the average force of the waves for the five summer months to be 611 pounds per square foot, and for the six winter months 2,086 pounds. He mentions that the Bell Rock lighthouse, 112 feet high, is sometimes buried in spray from ground-swells when no wind is blowing, and that on Nov. 20, 1827, the spray was thrown to a hight of 117 feet—equivalent to a wave-pressure of nearly three tons per square foot; while during a gale in March, 1845, his dynamometer registered a pressure of 6,093 pounds per square foot. He has also recorded that a rock of 42 tons on one of the Hebrides was gradually moved five feet in a storm. Hagen has reported the moving by waves of a block of concrete weighing probably 125 tons.

In North America the Mississippi river drains a land area of about 1,317,000 square miles; the Mackenzie 442,000; and the St. Lawrence 298,000. In South America the Amazon drains 2,264,000 square miles; and the La Plata 886,000. In Europe the drainage area of the Volga is 397,000 square miles; of the Danube 234,000; of the Rhine 65,000; and of the Elbe 42,000. In Asia the Obi draws its water from 925,000 square miles; the Yenesei 785,000; the Lena 594,000; the Amur 583,000; the Yang-tze-kiang 548,000; the Hoang-ho 537,000; the Ganges 432,000; and the Indus 312,000. In Africa the Nile receives its water-supply from 520,000 square miles of territory. The volume of water the rivers carry to the sea is very far from being proportionate to their respective drainage areas. The discharge of the Amazon exceeds that of the eight principal rivers of Asia together, and is five times that of the Mississippi.

"As quick as lightning" is a phrase well chosen to illustrate an inconceivable rapidity, but of those who use the expression probably very few appreciate its full meaning, for Sir Charles Wheatstone has shown that a flash of lightning lasts less than a millionth part of a second. This is vastly more rapid than our perception of the flash, as at least one-tenth of a second must elapse—according to Prof. Swan—before our sluggish sight can take in the full effect of the light. On account of the slowness of our perception we never see the light at its real intensity. Prof. Tait has suggested that the full brilliancy must be in some degree comparable with the sun, as Wheatstone's and Swan's data prove that the apparent brightness of the landscape as lit up by a lightning flash is less than one hundred-thousandth part of what it would be were the lightning permanent. The apparent brightness, it should be mentioned, was shown by Swan to diminish in about the ratio borne by the length of time the flash lasts to the time required for us to perceive it.

Asleep on an Engine.

English papers relate how the signal man at Llandudno saved the Irish mail passengers from what might have proved a terrible fate. The signal man at the junction received a message from the signal man at Conway, the next station toward Holyhead, that a light engine was coming. The junction signal man, knowing that the Irish mail was due, decided to run the engine into a siding in order to permit the train to pass. He accordingly put up all the signals against the light engine, but to his extreme astonishment the engine came straight into the junction at full speed, swept round the corner, dashing past all the danger signals and disappeared from view down the line toward Chester. A moment's reflection convinced the signal man that both driver and stoker must be asleep. He accordingly wired to the Colwyn Bay Station signal man: "Engine coming; driver asleep; put fog signals on line." The man at Colwyn Bay was equally prompt, for, running out of his box, he had hardly time to lay a number of signals when the engine came thundering along, and an explosion followed which effectually awoke the men. The engine was stopped and run back into a siding, when it was discovered that the fire had gone out, that the water had disappeared from the boiler, and that the men had been asleep some time. Inquiry resulted in their immediate discharge. They had been fifteen hours on duty.

WHAT EVERY PERSON SHOULD KNOW. The grand outlets of disease from the system are the Skin, the Bowels, and the Kidneys. Burdock Blood Bitters is the most safe, pleasant and effectual purifier and health-restoring tonic in the world. Trial bottles 10 cents.

A PLEASANT ACKNOWLEDGMENT—"Had sour stomach and miserable appetite for months, and grew thin every day. I used Burdock Blood Bitters with the most marvellous results; feel splendid."

Saturday Morning, August 4, 1883.

An Angry Organ.

Other matters of more importance prevented us from noticing sooner the Victoria Standard's characteristic reply to our remarks on independent journalism. The omission, however, seems to us of very little consequence, for the Standard's reply is merely a silly exhibition of unreasonable anger. Our readers must be aware that we have always observed the utmost courtesy in referring to the Standard. In our ignorance we supposed that the person who conducts that journal was possessed of at least ordinary discretion and honesty of purpose. His latest reference to the COLUMBIAN seriously weakens our faith in that opinion. It was pointed out, among other things, that the COLUMBIAN never indicated that it felt itself insulted by being called a government organ, and did not make use of any such expressions as the Standard implied in making a declaration of political independence. Our cotemporary does not quote a single sentence from the COLUMBIAN in justification of his assertions, but contents himself with repeating them and indulging in some very unbecoming language. He charges the COLUMBIAN with deceit, treachery, piracy, and other things, from which we infer that there was not at hand any material from which he could construct an argument to meet the case. Such epithets do not disturb our equanimity in the least. They simply show that the Victoria Standard cares less for honesty than we supposed, and that it would be absolutely unprofitable to pursue the subject further.

The Railway Lands.

In view of the fact that the changes made in the terms of settlement were very unimportant, there seems to us no good reason why the Dominion government should not at once place the railway lands in the market. The price of these lands was agreed upon, and both governments manifested a strong desire to have them made available for settlement without any unnecessary delay. We understand that one of the chief objections made by Sir John to the provincial bill was the stipulation that the island railway lands should be disposed of at $1 per acre. Sir John stated that, inasmuch as these lands were to be given to a company as a bonus for the construction of the railway, the company should be left free to fix what price they pleased. But if Mr. Dunsmuir is the company, and if Mr. Dunsmuir agrees to the limitation, surely this objection at once disappears. It was with Mr. Dunsmuir's knowledge and consent that the limiting clause was inserted by the provincial legislature. If he, as the head and representative of the company, did not object, there appears to us no ground for objection on the part of the federal government. We have no doubt these matters will be fully explained to Sir Alexander Campbell during his present visit, and we hope a way will be found out of the difficulty, so that no further delay may occur in the final adjustment. In particular, we hope Sir Alexander will see the importance of having the railway lands on the mainland formally opened to settlement at once. Under present circumstances we understand that bona fide settlers may go upon these lands and make improvements without fear of disturbance. The rights of actual settlers will, we have no doubt, be recognized when the formal opening of the lands is brought about; but it would be much more satisfactory if these lands were put in the market now. Both at Victoria, San Francisco, and on the sound, people are told that there is no land open for settlement on the mainland—that all the lands are locked up in the railway reserve. Let it once be publicly announced that the embargo is removed, and we believe the rush of land seekers from all directions will be very large. Proper safeguards should be placed around these lands, however, so that they may not fall into the hands of speculators. It is of great importance, also, that the Dominion government should aid in the opening up of roads in the new districts. Some of the very best lands are quite inaccessible without roads, and who is to build these roads unless it be the government who own the lands? We hope Sir Alexander will not leave this province before it is announced that these lands are open, and we hope also that an efficient agent will be appointed in this city whose duty it will be to see that immigrants receive every necessary information concerning these lands. Then let the lands be properly advertised, and the result cannot be doubted.

Important Notice

The public are respectfully informed that the Unsold City Property and Tracts of Land that were not put up at auction on the 31st ult., owing to the length of the Catalogue, can be bought by Private Sale, together with a number of other lots that have and are still coming in daily, some particulars of which are given below. Parties wishing to dispose of their property by placing the same in the hands of the undersigned, will have the same fully advertised.

Owing to the success that attended our late Sale, we purpose holding a similar Sale monthly (the next Sale to be sometime in first week in September), full particulars of which will be given in due time.

Remember our Terms are No charge unless a sale is effected, and then the usual fee only is charged.

Section 8, tp 14,* 360 acres of splendid clay loam land; light timber, principally copswood; telegraph road running through. Section 9, tp 14, same as above and adjoining. This is a rare chance for parties wanting a good farm on high land. Terms of payment very easy, to suit purchasers. NE ¼ of sec 6, tp 4, 160 acres; an improved farm, with certificate of improvements. SE ¼ of sec 20, tp 8, 160 acres of good land, principally alder and maple, 9 miles from New Westminster; Yale wagon road runs through this property. Block 5 N, R 5 W, on Fraser river; 102½ acres, east half of lot 19. Block 5, R 5 W, part of lot 19, 43 acres, 20 acres prairie and 26 acres willow and crab apple; 4-roomed tongue and grooved lumber house; the whole has been dyked; is 9 miles from New Westminster. The Mill Site at Harrison river with buildings, 35-foot overshot water wheel, orchard, 160 acres land with certificate of improvements; also 800 acres of leased timber land. Burton Prairie, back of St. Mary's Mission, 1448 acres of as good land as there is in the Province, all in one block; very near the line of the C P R; has one small house thereon. This is a rare chance for one or more parties desirous of getting a large farm, for dairy purposes especially. Eden Bank Ranch, Maple Ridge, situated on Fraser river, containing 480 acres of bush land, 100 of which are cleared, 50 under crop and 50 in pasture; large orchard of from 400 to 500 fruit-bearing trees, apple, plum and cherry; 2 good framed barns 30x40 feet and 30x50 feet; two dwelling houses one 1½ story with 9 rooms, and one 1 story with 3 rooms and kitchen, woodshed, piggery and apple house. This property is splendidly situated, having store, post and express offices on the premises; Canadian Pacific Railway will run in front of houses; is within 1¼ miles of railway station; church and schools close by; the stock, consisting of 13 milch cows, 6 horses 100 sheep and lambs, farming implements, etc., to be sold with the ranch. Lot 284, Township 9; about 47 acres of land. Mountain View Ranch, Langley, consisting of 375 acres of land 100 of which are under crop and thoroughly fenced; commodious and comfortable dwelling house, and upwards of $4000 worth of improvements. This is a rare chance for any one wishing a homestead, as the land is of very superior quality, and next to the far-famed Hudson Bay Company's ranch. Township 6; 160 acres, being the first full quarter section directly east of Hay Ranch, lot 20; will have access to river by lot 20, and by Crescent Creek draw bridge to Ladner's steamboat landing. Sixty-five acres, being a part of lot No. 138, directly adjoining above lot on southeast corner, and bounded by the creek on the east. Two acres, being a fraction on south end of above lot 139, and bounded on the south and east by the creek. These two pieces, sold together, are easily cleared, having a little willow hardhack; principally blue joint grass; soil exceedingly rich; easily dyked and drained. Block 1, lot 90, Hastings; water privilege. Lot 87, Burrard Inlet Road; 160 acres; partially fenced; runs through to Burnaby Lake. This is really good land, and easily cleared.

ALSO,

In connection with the Agricultural Fair to be held in this city, the undersigned proposes holding

AN AUCTION SALE

On the evening of the first day of Fair of Homesteads, Wild Land, Etc. On the second day of Fair an auction sale will be held of Stock and Farm Produce. This will give an opportunity to Farmers of disposing of their breeding and other stock, and also to purchasers a chance of getting what they may require in that line, without having to search to country for the same. This early opportunity is taken with a view to giving parties desirous of disposing of their Farms or property, ample time to make the same public, so that likely purchasers may have an opportunity of visiting and seeing for themselves, which they could not do at a short notice. This will be an opportunity that has never occurred before, and every Farmer should make a point of visiting New Westminster on that occasion. All that is required of those who wish to dispose of their property is that they communicate full particulars to the undersigned as soon as possible, giving the lowest cash price they will take for the same. If such price is not realized there will be no charge made. In this way a farm or a tract of land at Cariboo or Kamloops or Nicola Valley can be disposed of without the owner being put to the least expense or inconvenience thereby. Full particulars of sale in due time.

DIED.

BURNS.—At the Royal Columbian Hospital, on the 1st inst., John Burns, a native of the U. S., aged 30 years.

RUSH.—In this city, on the 2nd inst., V. G. Rush, daughter of G. W. Rush, late of Wiarton, Ont., aged 1 year and 9 mos.

The str. Yosemite yesterday brought an eastern mail.

Smoke, smoke everywhere, and no signs of rain yet.

The str. Irving brought down 124 head of cattle yesterday for Mr. Greaves.

The fish were running freely on Monday and Tuesday, but were slacker yesterday.

It is said that either Lord Dufferin or Mr. Goschen will succeed Lord Ripon as Viceroy of India.

Another case will come up this morning before Capt. Pittendrigh, J. P., for fishing during prohibited hours.

The Oregonian says the salmon pack in Columbia river this season will be much larger than that of any former year.

Constable Wiggins has been granted a week's furlough, and Mr. Knight will take the police work in the mean time.

The city flags were put up yesterday afternoon in honor of two events—the arrival of Mrs. Capt. John Irving and the str. Yosemite.

There was no Blue Ribbon meeting on Wednesday night, as it was found impossible to arrange a sufficiently interesting programme.

The str. Yosemite is advertised to leave Victoria at 4 o'clock this afternoon on an excursion to this city. She will return on Monday morning.

A large tank has been constructed at the public school grounds, and pipes are being laid through which to supply the gaol with fresh water.

It is now stated that, if men enough can be found, the Canadian Pacific Railway will be completed in 1885. We hope the men will be forthcoming.

The provincial government will sell 12,769 acres of public land on Vancouver Island by auction on the 15th inst. The sale will take place at Victoria.

Attention is directed to Mr. Trapp's new advertisement of real estate which appears in this issue. It is proposed to have the next sale on the first week in September.

We learn that the Richmond cannery has put up over 8,000 cases of salmon this season. This, we believe, is the largest quantity put up by any of the canneries.

The bark Campbell, Capt. Taylor, arrived at Port Moody yesterday afternoon with 1650 tons steel rails. She comes from Cardiff, which port she left on the 25th February.

A railroad projected into the interior of British Honduras is expected to do great things in developing the marvelous wealth of that country in mahogany, cedar, ebony, India rubber, etc.

In Great Britain the loss to the Government by worn silver money withdrawn from circulation because of deficiency of weight caused by wear and tear, amounted last year to $140,000.

A young lady residing at Sandusky, Ohio, is said to have the biggest feet in the world. They measure 18 ins. in length and 21 ins. round the instep. They belong to Fanny Mills, and are still growing.

Mr. S. H. Webb, the gunsmith, has lately added considerably to his varied stock of guns and other firearms. His shop is very tastefully arranged, and contains a very large assortment of useful articles.

We are informed that, when the steam ferry is established, a stage will be put on from this city to Mud Bay, and the stage line will be extended through to Semiahmoo as soon as the road is opened.

Mr. D. Docksteader has been commissioned by the provincial government to superintend the road work in Maple Ridge municipality for which an appropriation of $1000 was made. Work began last Monday.

Mr. J. E. Insley has just placed in the parlor of the Colonial Hotel a fine square piano from the celebrated manufactory of Henry F. Miller, Boston. The piano was imported by T. R. Pearson & Co., of this city.

Mr. Ferris informs us that he has on his North Arm farm a single grain of barley which produced 23 stalks, each stalk bearing an average of 65 grains of new barley. This would give a return of 1495 grains from one.

The customs receipts at Victoria last month were $69,280, being an increase of $8,352 over the corresponding period last year. During the year ending 30th June last the customs collections in British Columbia amounted to nearly $700,000.

Dr. Garrow has built an office on Church st., and announces himself prepared for professional calls. The surgical instruments and outfit for which he has been waiting nearly a month arrived on Tuesday evening, 3 weeks from Whatcom!

Last Wednesday a deputation, headed by Mr. T. B. Humphreys, waited on Sir Alexander Campbell to protest against the Kootenay bill. After all that has transpired we should think Mr. Humphreys might find some better employment.

Mr. Wilson, telegraph superintendent, informs us that the lines are in a shocking mess. Both on the mainland and on the island there are miles of trees down where the fires are burning, and covered with trees. In the present state of the fires it would be useless to put the wires up. They have been left on the ground, therefore, and messages can be sent through while the weather continues dry.

Mr. Perkins having failed to apologize and retract the statements contained in his letter published some time ago in the COLUMBIAN, proceedings have been taken against him by Messrs. Sharpe and Paine for libel. Damages are laid at $5,000 in each case.

Mr. C. Carpenter, owner of the Nanaimo and Wellington saw mills, has failed and skipped out to the sound. His liabilities are stated to be nearly $40,000, and the assets not yet known. He owned the fine bark Nanaimo which took a cargo of lumber from Moodyville last week.

Hon. Mr. Trutch and Messrs. Collingwood Schrieber, Fletcher, Jones, Haney and others came over from Port Moody on Thursday afternoon and remained over night at the Colonial Hotel. Yesterday morning they left by the str. Myra to inspect the road and works up river.

The chaingang continue work on Market Square. Most of the stumps have already been removed, and part of the square is leveled off. A culvert is being put in the ravine, which is to be filled up, and McKenzie street will be opened and graded to Agnes street. When completed this square will wonderfully improve that part of the city.

Mr. Collingwood Schrieber, chief engineer of the Canadian Pacific Railway accompanied by Hon. Mr. Trutch, Mr. Pottinger, and Mr. L. H. Jones, left Victoria on Wednesday for Port Moody. They propose to go over the whole line from that point and make a thorough inspection of the road. Mr. Marcus Smith left this city on Thursday morning to meet the party at Port Moody.

SUMAS.—A correspondent at Sumas says "Harvesting is in full blast, and thrashing has commenced. Mr. J. Reece had a fine crop of fall wheat thrashed this week."

CIGARS.—The attention of our readers is directed to the advertisement of John Kurtz & Co.'s cigars in another column. The reputation of these fine cigars extends over the whole province.

THE RAINFALL.—Capt. Peele, of the meteorological observatory in this city, reports the rainfall for June 2.01 ins., being 0.31 below the mean for the past 8 years. For July the rainfall was 0.20 ins., 1.58 less than the July mean for 8 years.

THE FISH CATCH.—It is believed that the entire pack of fish at the Fraser river canneries this season will not much exceed 40,000 cases. Last year the pack was about 190,000. This result is very discouraging to packers, but it is hoped the run next season will be such as to make up the deficiency to some extent at least.

ARRIVAL OF THE YOSEMITE.—The fine str. Yosemite arrived yesterday afternoon at 4:25, under command of Capt. Jno. Irving. There were a large number of citizens at the wharf to see her, and every person was delighted with the steamer. She left Victoria at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, and made the run to the lightship in 3 hours and 20 minutes.

CASAMICCIOLA.—In reply to Z we have to say that Casamicciola, where the disastrous earthquake occurred last Saturday night, is situated on the Isle of Ischia, in the south of Italy. On the 4th of March, 1881, it was visited by an earthquake which destroyed 289 houses, killed 114 people, and caused the loss of about $180,000 worth of property. On the 15th of the same month another shock occurred which did considerable damage.

THE ALICE.—Mr. Sexsmith's new steamer Alice left this city on her first round trip last Wednesday afternoon, and returned on Thursday. On the down trip to the North Arm settlement something went wrong with the machinery, but she managed to make the round trip nevertheless. Mr. Sexsmith proposes to make trips between this city and the North Arm every day if traffic will justify. This will be a very great convenience both to the city and settlement.

PORT HAMMOND.—In another column will be found an advertisement announcing the sale of Port Hammond townsite by auction. We have already referred to the favorable situation of this new town and the possibilities of its future influence upon the local trade of this district and Victoria. Persons who look at the map may get a very distinct impression of these possibilities, and if they have faith in Port Hammond the opportunity for investment is near at hand.

THE REAL ESTATE SALE.—Mr. Trapp's real estate sale last Tuesday night was very successful, and a considerable quantity of property was disposed of. The attendance at the beginning of the sale was large. It was found impossible, however, to get through more than about half the list. We believe it is intended to have these sales about once a month, and the balance of the catalogue will probably come up at the next sale. In some cases the prices realized were exceedingly good.

HARNESS MAKING.—Until lately most of the harness and saddlery used on the mainland has been brought from Victoria and elsewhere. Mr. W. R. Hoar opened a saddle and harness establishment a few months ago opposite the Hyack Hall, and we are glad to find that the business has so far increased that he has found it necessary to secure larger premises. He has taken the new shop next the Bank of B. C., which is both large and commodious. We hope the people of this city and vicinity will support local industry.

SHIPPING ITEMS.—Strs. Enterprise, Irving and Evangel left for Victoria, Yale and Seattle on Wednesday morning. Str. Dunsmuir arrived from Nanaimo at noon on Wednesday with coal for the C. P. N. Co. The str. Rithet arrived from Victoria at 8:30 on Wednesday night and proceeded to Yale. Str. Dunsmuir left for Nanaimo on Thursday evening with a load of lumber. The str. Slope passed up Thursday with ties from Saltspring Island to Port Hammond. She returned yesterday morning and proceeded to Saltspring. The str. Yosemite arrived from Victoria yesterday afternoon at 4:25, and the strs. Rithet and Irving from Yale at 5:30. Str. Rithet left for Victoria at 6.

METHODIST CHURCH.—Rev. E. Robson, pastor, will preach to-morrow at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. Sunday School and Bible Class at 2:30 p. m. Seats free; strangers cordially invited.

The Str. Yosemite.

The str. Yosemite, which arrived at this port yesterday afternoon, is a very important addition to the C. P. N. Co.'s steam fleet. She is 283 feet long, 50 feet beam (over all), and 12 feet hold. This great breadth of beam is obtained by very wide guards. The hull is very straight, and the model good for a fast runner. The main deck affords very large accommodation for freight. The boilers are below the main deck, and the engine has a 55-inch cylinder and 11 feet stroke. The paddle wheels are very large, being 32 feet in diameter, with buckets 10 feet. The dining room is abaft the engine room, and has accommodation for 200 persons. The ladies' cabin runs back to the stern. It is handsomely finished, pannelled in polished wood of light shade, with mouldings of darker material. The grand saloon is 200 feet long, partly separated by the engine room in the centre. This room is plain and painted China white, and into it open the staterooms on each side. The main stairway is directly opposite the ladies' cabin, and at the landing is placed a large mirror in a walnut frame. The roof of the hurricane deck is higher than the ceiling of the staterooms on each side, and the space is filled with lights of ground glass. The officers quarters are on the upper deck. There are several fine promenades, and there seems to be everything necessary to the comfort and convenience of passengers. We hope this fine steamer will realize the highest expectations of her enterprising owners, and that there will be traffic enough for her to make daily trips between this city and Victoria.

From Hastings.

This most delightful and picturesque little place is at present graced by the beauty and fashion of New Westminster and other places. All seem to enjoy the various amusemeats of boating, driving, fishing and bathing, enlivened by music and dancing in the evening. On Friday the ladies intend to entertain at afternoon tea the ladies and captains of Granville and Moodyville at the Hastings Hotel, Mr. Parent with his usual liberality having placed his hotel at their disposal.—A VISITOR.

From Port Moody.

(Correspondence of the Columbian.)

The ship King Ceolric has been ordered to San Francisco for charter. She will take on about 500 tons ballast, which will occupy several days. The bush fires are not now so troublesome. A good shower would effectually stop them. The contract for a new road up the inlet from the end of the north road has, I understand, been let. Some men are at work on the north road, taking out boulders and making other improvements.

From Clinton.

(Correspondence of the Columbian.)

The melancholy news has reached us of the accidental drowning of Eugene English of Chilcotin. He was an energetic young man and highly respected for his gentlemanlike demeanor. It is believed he attempted to swim the Chilcotin on horseback and was carried by the current into the Fraser. His horse with saddle has been seen floating down the river. His body has not been found yet. He was a native of Polk county, Oregon. —The forest fires continue to rage, leaving the country under a canopy of smoke. Game is very plentiful, in consequence of the mountain fires, seeking shelter in the lower valleys. Hay has been harvested in an excellent condition, but only an average yield compared to last year's.

From Clover Valley.

(Correspondence of the Columbian.)

We have commenced harvest operations. The crops are not quite so good as it was expected they would be a few weeks ago, and smut has made its appearance in several fields; still, nothing serious. The potato crop will, in all probability, be under the average; still we need not complain, for the season is splendid for clearing up land and a great many of our settlers are taking advantage of the long, dry weather to get their fallows burned off. There has been a heavy fire raging in the prairie, south of the Nicomekl river, for some days; also on Hall's Prairie road; in fact the bridge was in some danger for a little while. We have had quite a number of land hunters here lately, some of whom have located. There is plenty of choice land yet, notwithstanding that there have been parties who have raised an evil report of this land of promise. I might state that there is a splendid opening here for a stave and shingle factory. There is plenty of power, and almost an unlimited supply of magnificent cedar and spruce, and the facilities for shipping are unsurpassed. We are greatly in need of the post-office. When we get that we must have a newspaper, and we shall soon be able to support one.

The Northern Pacific.

GETTING READY FOR WORK—TICKETS BEING SOLD.

CHICAGO, July 24.—The Northern Pacific Road is gradually receiving all its rolling stock necessary for the opening and the proper operation of its lines. A few days ago two Great Mogul engines from the Baltimore Locomotive Works passed through here, and are now at Brainard. Heretofore, the Company has shipped its engines needed on the Western Division to San Francisco and Portland, going by way of the Union Pacific Road. It is understood that the latter Company charged the Northern Pacific Road $10,000 for the shipment of each engine. This charge was so large that the Company decided to keep all the new rolling stock at Brainard until it could be sent over the completed line. The Northern Pacific has addressed a circular to connecting lines, directing them to prepare and place on sale, in anticipation of the opening of the road September 1st, coupon tickets, reading from St. Paul, Minn., and Duluth to all points on the Northern Pacific, Oregon Railway and Navigation Company's lines, the Oregon and California and the Olympia and Chehallis Valley Railroads. The Northern Pacific yesterday commenced shipping Montana cattle from Miles City to Chicago. The first shipment consisted of fifty-six carloads from Miles City.

LATEST BY TELEGRAPH

NEWS FROM ALL PARTS OF THE WORLD.

LONDON, July 24.—The reported victory over Cetewayo is confirmed. However, he was not wounded, and made his escape from the enemy. An immense number of his men were killed.

BALTIMORE, July 24.—A terrible calamity occurred at North Point, Tivoli, to an excursion party on the Patapsco, ten miles from this city, about 10 o'clock last night, by which many lives were lost. The number is estimated between 60 and 70. The accident was occasioned by the giving way of the outer portion of the pier, on which several hundred persons had congregated, waiting for the boat to return to this city. The barge during the day had taken on board five hundred persons, and on her last trip about seven hundred. A large number of those who went down during the day had remained, intending to return the last trip. When the barge approached all these made a rush for the end of the wharf. As the barge came alongside and struck the wharf, it (the wharf) suddenly and without warning gave way and a large portion fell into the water, which was about ten feet deep. Many were able to save themselves by fleeing toward the shore as the outer end of the pier crumbled and fell. Darkness added to the confusion, and little could be done at once to rescue the drowning, most of whom were women and children.

NEW YORK, July 25.—The rapidity of the construction of the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railroad in the first week of July is without parallel in this, or any other country. On Saturday, July 7th, rails were laid upon six miles of the road, and in one week not less than 25 68-100 miles, exclusive of sidings, were completed, an average of about four and one-third miles per day, the highest ever obtained. The track is now completed for a distance of 728 miles west of Winnipeg, of which 161 miles have been constructed this season.

CHICAGO, July 28.—The Montreal correspondent of the Times telegraphs that great excitement exists among the Irish on learning that informer James Carey is in the city. He crossed by the steamship Montreal, arriving in Quebec last Monday. The captain of the steamship is certain of his identity. Carey came here this morning and took a walk about the city with a slouch hat drawn over his face. He has cut off his flowing beard and moustache. He travels under the name of Pat O'Neil and keeps almost entirely to himself.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 29.—Last night at 10:10 fire was discovered on the top floor of the Syndicate block. The fire gained rapid headway, notwithstanding the quick response by the department, and illuminated the streets for many squares. Thousands of people gathered to witness the efforts of the firemen to save the magnificent building, which covers half a square and is said to be the finest block in the northwest. For a time the fire defied all efforts of the firemen, who worked heroically. It was feared that the entire block would be swept away, but at 4 o'clock the wind shifted and the firemen quickly took advantage of the change and got the flames under control. The total loss will reach $350,080. Work of rebuilding will begin at once. The safes of the two firms were raised and opened this evening and the books and money found intact.

ASTORIA, July 30.—About 6 o'clock on Saturday evening a low, soggy looking iron vessel, with cannon looking from her port holes, with a half-score of scarlet jacketed officers on the quarter deck and the cross of St. George flying from the mizzen, steamed past the Astoria city front. The whole town kept pace with her slow advance, and when at last they learned that the stranger was Her Majesty's ship Heroine—a sure enough gunboat of the "Queen's navee"—curiosity gave place to enthusiasm, and the loyal Britons on the shore, aided by the compliant crowd, who always "holler" when the band plays, raised a tremendous shout which was acknowledged by a lifting of caps on the quarter deck and the dipping of St. George's cross. It was learned later that the Heroine, nine months out from England, by way of various stations, bound for Victoria, found herself short of coal off the Oregon coast and made her way into the Columbia river for relief. But one other man-of-war, we believe, H. M. S. Rocket, which dropped anchor in front of Astoria eight years ago, was ever in the Columbia river. The Heroine rode at anchor all day yesterday and attracted much attention.

Tendency of Scientific Discovery.

We are indebted to the hon. secretary of the Victoria Philosophical Society of Great Britain for a synopsis of the annual meeting, held at 7 Adelphi Terrace, London, during the last week in June. The chair was occupied by Sir Henry Barkly, G.C.M.G., F.R.S. The Hon. Sec., Captain F. Petrie, F.R.S.L., read the report, by which it appeared that the Institute, — founded to investigate all questions of Philosophy and Science, and more especially any alleged to militate against the truth of Revelation,—had now risen to 1,020 members, of whom about one-third were Foreign, Colonial, and American, and new applications to join were constantly coming in. An increasing number of leading men of Science had joined its ranks, and men of Science, whether in its ranks or not, co-operated in its work. During the session a careful analysis had been undertaken by Professor Stokes, F.R.S., Sir J. R. Bennett, Vice-Pres. R. S., Professor Beale, F.R.S., and others, of the various theories of Evolution, and it was reported that, as yet, no scientific evidence had been met with giving countenance to the theory that man had been evolved from a lower order in animals; and Professor Virchow had declared that there was a complete absence of any fossil type of a lower stage in the development of man; and that any positive advance in the province of prehistoric anthropology has actually removed us further from proofs of such connection,—namely, with the rest of the Animal kingdom. In this, Professor Barrande, the great paleontologist, had concurred, declaring that in none of his investigations had he found any one fossil species develop into another. In fact, it would seem that no scientific man had yet discovered a link between man and the ape, between fish and frog, or between the vertebrate and the invertebrate animals; further, there was no evidence of any one species, fossil or other, losing its peculiar characteristics to acquire new ones belonging to other species; for instance, however similar the dog to the wolf, there was no connecting link, and among extinct species the same was the case; there was no gradual passage from one to another. Moreover, the first animals that existed on the earth were by no means to be considered as inferior or degraded. Among other investigations, one into the truth of the argument from Design in Nature had been carried on, and had hitherto tended to fully confirm that doctrine. The question of the Assyrian inscriptions and the recent Babylonian researches had been under the leadership of Mr. Hormuzd Rassam, who, on his arrival from Nineveh, had given a full report of the extent of his new excavations, which were of the highest interest. His discovery of Sepharvaim, one of the first cities mentioned in Holy Writ, was most important. Professor Delitsch and others aided in the consideration of the discoveries and the inscriptions found. Two meetings had been held to consider the questions raised in Mr. Herbert Spencer's Philosophy, and Lord O'Neill and others had shown, by a careful analysis of his arguments, that a greater attention to accuracy in statement would have kept Mr. Spencer from arriving at those hasty conclusions which had made his philosophy remarkable. It was announced that the results of explorations now being carried on in Egypt would be laid before the Institute early in the winter. The discoveries were very important, especially that of the sight of Succoth, which, like the results of the survey of Palestine, was confirmatory of the Sacred Record. The quarterly Journal, which had been published for sixteen years, was now issued free to all Members and Associates, whether at home or abroad. Several interesting speeches having been made, the members and their friends adjourned to the Museum, where refreshments were served.

The Sun's Heat.

In a recent lecture on solar physics at the Royal Institution, Sir Wm. Siemans gave his reasons for setting the temperature of the photosphere of the sun at about 2,800 degrees C., instead of about 10,000 degrees, where Rosetti and other late investigators put it. He agrees, in this lower estimate, with Violle, St. Clair, Deville, and Sir William Thompson, and thinks the solar temperature can not much, if at all, exceed that of the most powerful electric arcs. He recognizes fully the fact that a temperature higher than 3,000 degrees C. would be absolutely conclusive against his theory that the solar heat is due to the recombination or burning of gasses at the surface of the sun. He bases his estimate of the solar temperature upon three foundations: First, the behavior of a carbon rod and a small gas flame in the focus of a reflector exposed to the sun; second, on a comparison between the spectra of various lights—for instance, the Argand burner, an incandescent lamp, the electric arc, and the sun itself, as observed by Langley on Mount Whitney; third, upon experiments on the relation between radiating power, made by means of a ring platinum wire heated by an electric current.

Our Story.

NELLIE'S MEMORIES.

Charlie raised his large, innocent eyes to my face with a look that reminded me of a picture I had seen of the child Samuel.

"I think I know what he would have said to me."

"What, my pet?"

"He would have told me to be a good boy, and to mind what Dudley and you say to me, and not be naughty and always in mischief, as I have been, but more obedient and thoughful."

"Ah, if you would, you do not know how it would lighten our daily load, how it would give pleasure, even in our saddest hours, to find our little Charlie grown a better and more thoughtful boy."

"Would it, Nellie—would it really? Does my naughtiness, then, grieve you so much?"

"You little know how much or how unhappy it makes me to see you, my child, so often punished, so often in trouble."

"Oh, I won't make you unhappy, I won't vex you any more; oh, dear, dear Nell, I won't indeed." And Charlie threw his arms round my neck. "I will always be good, always, always!"

"God grant that you may, my darling; and, now I have not said my prayers this morning, shall we say them together?" So side by side we knelt, his little hand holding mine tightly; and when we rose I felt more strengthened for the duties of the day.

That instant there came an impatient knock at the door, and Halcot's voice querulously demanding admittance.

"I say, Nell, the buttons are come clean off my wristbands, and nurse won't sew them on because she is bathing Rill, and how in the world am I to get dressed?——"

"Come in, Halcot." He entered in a semi-apologetic manner.

"I am sorry to disturb you; but I have my Latin exercise to write, and there's not another shirt in the drawer, and I must go down. It is an awful shame, nurse's buttons always fly off like squibs on the fifth of November. Hallo! what's the matter, Nellie? Is Charlie naughty again?"

I told him hastily and in as few words as possible what had befallen us; but we none of us knew the loving heart and sensitive nature of our Halcot, rough school-boy as we thought him; and when I saw him turn sick and pale, and sink down half-fainting by the bed, I knew—Heaven forgive me!—that I had blurted out the truth too hastily; that I had spared myself, not him. I laid him on my bed directly; and while Charle stood looking sorrowfully at his brother's white face, I bathed his forehead and chafed his cold hands till he came to a little, and opened his eyes and looked at me, and then he turned his face to the wall, and began moaning piteously. I felt terribly frightened, and at first thought of sending for Dudley, only I could not bear to harass him further; and Louie, I knew, was at the bottom of the garden. So I could do nothing but sit beside him holding his hand and listening to his moans. All soothing seemed vain for some time, and I was dreading some lasting injury would result from the shock, when he presently grew calmer, and then an idea occurred to me.

"I must go down and make the breakfast now, dear Halcot, but I will not leave you alone; shall I send for Seymour?"

A faint smile passed over the boy's face—"Please, Nellie."

"Well then, dear, lie still; stay, let me put this pillow more comfortably under your head. Be sure you do not move, and I will send you up some breakfast directly."

"Wait a moment, Nellie," holding me back, "don't let Dudley and Bruce know that I was such an ass as to do this sort of thing—faint, I mean; you'll not tell them, will you, Sis?" Oh, Halcot, with such pride and with such a tender, womanish heart! I promised him faithfully I would not, and then he let me go.

I sent a lad to the parsonage to say I wanted Seymour directly, and while waiting for him I gave Hester to understand what had happened; and before I had done speaking to her Seymour came in. I never loved the boy so well as I did that morning; his deep sympathy expressed more in looks than in words; his mute caress and his anxiety to spare me unnecessary pain of detail, all touched me to the heart; and when I took him up to poor Halcot, it was more affecting still; for Seymour lay down on the bed beside his old school-mate and put his arm round him, and literally "wept over him." I turned away with a heart that was full to bursting, and took my seat behind the tea urn, dreading each fresh arrival, and fearing to see the change that last night might have wrought in each one's face.

Sitting there, I became aware of a little scene being enacted at the other end of the room, which at any other time would most certainly have provoked a smile. Charlie was sitting very dejectedly, poor little fellow, on a low stool by the window wiping his eyes with the cuff of his jacket, and trying hard not to cry, and Rill was standing before him with one arm rolled up tightly in her pinafore, while with the other she administered several smart slaps and cuffs to him, every now and then returning to administer some more. A much harder blow than usual attracted my attention, and I rose to interfere.

"Charlie naughty boy; bad boy, Charlie; Charlie very bad boy!" persisted Rill, red in the face from her exercise.

"Charlie is not a naughty boy; I think that it is baby who is naughty to beat poor brother so."

Rill pursed up her lips decidedly; "Charley cry, Charlie must be naughty."

A light broke in upon me. Rill had so often seen the boy in disgrace for some fault or other, that directly she saw him crying, she immediately thought it must be because he had been naughty, and took the task of correction on herself; but when I explained to her that Charlie was unhappy and yet good, she took her arm out of her pinafore, and putting her thumb in her mouth, regarded him with perplexed and troubled eyes, till I bade her kiss and comfort him; upon which she ran to him, and put her arms round his neck, and hugging up his head to her fat little bosom, commenced by-byeing him in her sweet baby voice, till I thought it better for Charlie's patience to call her off to the table.

Louie was the first to come into the room; she was very pale, but calm and self-possessed as usual; then Bruce, looking white-lipped and heavy-eyed, and complaining bitterly of head-ache, which made him sit throughout breakfast with his hand shading his eyes even from the softened light that came through the closed blinds; and then Seymour, to fetch Halcot's breakfast, speaking and moving quickly and nervously to hide his embarrassment, and catering delicately as if for an invalid.

"Do sit down and have a cup of coffee, Seymour, and something to eat."

"No, thanks, Nellie; I have had my breakfast at home," and with a cheerful nod he went.

And lastly, Dudley entered, coming round and speaking with his old voice and manner, not omitting the usual morning greeting, as the others had, but with a kindly word and look for each. Pausing for a moment with his hand on my shoulder to ask me how I was—but, oh, it went to my heart to see his white face, and the dark lines under his eyes that told of a sleepless night. He paused before sitting down, and scanned all narrowly.

"Where is Halcot, Nellie?"

"Up-stairs, in my room; he is not well!"

"Not well! What ails the lad?"

"I don't know;" then forgetting my promise, "a sort of faintness came over him when he heard—when I told him about it. 'I was too quick, I'm afraid."

"Why did you not tell me? I will go to him at once. In your room did you say?"

"Yes. Seymour is there with him, giving him his breakfast. Don't go to him, Dudley, it will only disturb him; he is much better quiet."

Dudley sat down with a trembling lip, and then recovering himself, pressed us all to eat, while his own food remained untasted on his plate. Once only he addressed his brother, who, with shaded face, seemed anxious to escape all observation.

"Is your head so bad, Bruce?"

"Yes; confound it," groaned Bruce, pressing his other hand upon his throbbing forehead.

"Then you must give up all thoughts of going to the factory this morning; I will try and manage without you; go and lie down somewhere quietly, and Louie will find you her aromatic vinegar, won't you, Loo?"

"I should be no good if I went," said Bruce; "but it will be very hard for you to get through it all alone."

"I shall manage somehow," returned Dudley, in his quiet tone.

I did not dare to say a word in objection, for Dudley was not one who liked to be interfered with in what he considered a matter of duty; and unfit as he was for the wearying details of that trying day, his will alone was sufficient to carry him steadily through.

At that moment, breakfast being over, Charlie, as was his wont, placed the books before him. I saw him start and flush up for an instant, and make a movement as if to push them away; but then, recollecting himself, he opened them, only putting up his hand to motion Charlie from the bell that summoned the domestics. Oh, how I wished he would have spared himself when I heard the involuntary trembling of his voice over the opening verses, and how thankful I was when the brief psalm was read, and we had knelt down to say the old familiar prayer, "We have erred and strayed from Thy ways like lost sheep!" and then there was a sudden silence—an awful pause, and we knew that Dudley had broken down, and was laying his head on the book, and round the room there rose a sound of stifled sobbing instead of prayer; ah me! it was many weeks before Dudley suffered them to put those books before him again. When we rose from our knees he had left the room, and I dared not follow him. Louie was the first to regain calmness and composure; she soothed the frightened children, and sent them out to play in the orchard, and then coaxed Bruce to come with her into the oak parlor, and let her bathe his aching head.

"I will be with you directly, Nellie, and shall be at your disposal the whole morning."

I thanked her mechanically, and then wandered aimlessly up and down the hall, trying to make up my mind as to whether I might go to Dudley or not; and feeling, as all of us do once or twice in our lives, as if the mere burden of existence were too heavy to bear, and as if we must drop it or die. "Hither shalt thou come, and no further and here shalt thy proud waves be staid," is the fiat often of the merciful Taskmaster; yet, when the dread tide of trouble surges up, laying at our feet one wrecked hope after another, we are apt to despair—to say there is no mercy in Heaven, no hope upon earth—that we are sinking—until He sends; He draws us out of many "waters," and behold, our feet are upon a rock. Sometimes we are called upon to sit for three days and nights in an awful darkness—"a darkness that might be felt," a darkness more terrible, more soul-subduing than the Egyptian one of old, of suspense, of fear deferred, of agony; then we rise up, and behold, our first-born is dead! But, "at eventide there shall be light;" not for long shall "we grope for the wall like the blind;" a merciful dispensation will not suffer us to be tried beyond our strength; and we shall one day go our way saddened and cast down indeed, but not in despair.

Louie passed once, and looked at me without speaking, then turning suddenly, came back and kissed me, but I only wrung my hand and walked on. Then Seymour ran down the stair-case.

"I am going off to school now, Nellie; can I take any message to Dr. Merton?"

"Tell him the reason of the boys' absence; but, Seymour, how is he now?"

"Oh, much better; he'll soon be pretty right: Dudley is with him."

"Dudley!"

"Yes; they are talking very comfortably. I've promised to come in after dinner and sit with him, as it is half-holiday, and then I'll get him out into the garden; don't you fret about him, Nellie:" then hesitatingly, "I must stop at the parsonage, and tell father and mother; is there anything they can do for you?"

"I shook my head and turned away, and then I heard Dudley's step on the stairs and sprang to meet him.

He came down very slowly, and taking his hat from the peg began brushing it.

"Oh, Dudley, don't go without letting me speak to you. Must you really be at the factory to-day?"

"To-day of all days in the year, my child."

A REMARKABLE FACT.—It is a remarkable fact that W. A. Edgers, of Frankville, who was so far gone with liver and kidney complaint that his life was despaired of, was cured with four bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters. At one time he lay a fortnight without an operation of the bowels.
