Saturday Evening, May 14, 1887.

The Pharaohs.

Modern research has seldom brought the dead past into more vivid contrast to the living present than in the case of the recent discoveries amid the royal tombs of Egypt. The two most interesting articles in the May Century are on this subject. The one is entitled "Finding Pharaoh," and other "Pharaoh and his Daughter." The particular Pharaoh in question is the same in both cases, the renowned Ramses II., known to the Greeks as Sesostris, and to Jews and Christianity as he who, knowing not Joseph, oppressed the Children of Israel. The first of these articles gives a very graphic account of the finding of this antique majesty's corpse in the place where it had been buried amid mighty lamentation more than three thousand years ago. Time, which blots out so much, had blotted out from the memory of man the location of the royal resting place, and it was accidentally that its discovery was made. The circumstances attending this discovery belong to the romance of this branch of science. For some time the officials of the museum at Bulak had been puzzled to understand how visitors from Thebes brought back so many curiosities known to belong to the time of Rameses II., his father and his grandfather. It was shrewdly suspected that Arabs in the vicinity had made discoveries which they were keeping to themselves and turning to their own profit. Detectives were set to work. Arrests were made. Every means was taken to extort confession, even the bastinado being tried on the more refractory. But it was all in vain. The victims either had nothing to reveal or their cupidity was stronger than their nervous system and they refused to tell what they knew. At length liberal "bakhshish" prevailed over the resolution of one of four brothers who had made a lucky "find" and were in a good way of becoming rich from it. The place was revealed, thoroughly explored and found to be in very truth the tomb of the greatest of the Pharaohs and of many others who in their day and in their several degrees had been very great people. The article on "Pharaoh and his Daughter" is bountifully illustrated with pictures of Rameses and of his favorite queen, who, according to the authorities, seems to have been also one of his very numerous company of daughters. His majesty was fully possessed with the idea of his own glory and determined that future ages should be well acquainted with his features, for he had them cut out in solid stone as often as the fancy seized him, which would seem to have been very often, and many of these old effigies have resisted all attempts of Father Time to destroy them and are well-nigh as life-like to day as when first executed. They are masterpieces of the sculptor's art and give us the highest respect for the realistic ability of ancient Egyptian genius, as it is not at all difficult to trace a really wonderful likeness between them and the face of the recently-discovered mummy which, by the way, as if in mockery of human greatness, is duly numbered and "on sight" among other "antiquities" in the museum at Bulak. This very interesting magazine article enters somewhat fully into the genealogy of Rameses, and by physiological comparisons, as well as from the information gained from the "Tablet of four hundred years," as a memorial slab of syenite found among the ruins of Zoan, is called, and other sources, connects him with those Shepherd Kings of still more ancient days, who made shepherding such an abomination to the Egyptians. His father Seti seems to have been somewhat wanting in royal blood, according to the ideas current at the time on those mysteries, but his mother, Tuaa, more than made up for any of her lords' deficiencies in that respect, her blood being the bluest of the blue, she being descended directly from Thothmes III. and Amenophis III. The monumental records mention her as "Royal Wife, Royal Mother, Heiress and Sharer of the Throne." So much on her father's side. On her mother's none the less was she a princess in her own right, for her father was a powerful king and her mother Queen of Mesopotamia. A portrait of this royal lady shows her to have been attractive enough to have pleased even our modern notions of beauty. The writer of the article, Mr. John A. Paine, very reasonably asks if this Chaldean origin of Rameses on his father's side, and Mesopotamian on his mother's, may not explain that Bib lical verse which says, "For thus saith the Lord God: My people went down aforetime into Egypt to sojourn there, and the Assyrian oppressed them without cause."—Toronto Globe.

Accordingly this morning he detailed several policemen to act as a guard around the mills and repair shops of the Minneapolis and St. Louis railway.

DETERMINED TO SPEAK.

TORONTO, May 13.—A report is current that O'Brien, notwithstanding Mayor Howland's telegram to him yesterday, will come here to speak to-morrow afternoon. If he should come there will be an immense crowd present, as citizens generally seem thoroughly in earnest in their opposition to his speaking.

NO STORING ROOM.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 13.—The banks of this city at present refuse to receive silver as deposit. The refusal is based upon want of storage capacity.

GERMANY INSULTED.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—The Lohengen affair in Paris has made irrevocable the German government's decision not to take part in the Paris exposition. Some German traders, however, will be represented in the exhibition.

LANSDOWNE WILL LET HIM SPEAK.

TORONTO, May 13.—The Globe to-morrow will announce on Lord Lansdowne's authority that the governor general wishes Mr. O'Brien to have full liberty of speech.

POLICE ON THE ALERT.

TORONTO, May 13.—In view of the probability of Mr. O'Brien attending the loyalist public meeting in Queen's park to-morrow afternoon, the board of police commissioners held a special meeting this afternoon and made ample provisions for the maintenance of order. Police arrangements were also made for Tuesday evening next, when Mr. O'Brien propose lecturing here.

AMENDING THE CRIMES BILL.

LONDON, May 13.—In the commons Healy, in order to meet the case of Ulster, moved an amendment to the crimes bill, that inquiry must be directed in the case of crimes, whether in proclaimed districts or not, upon sworn information by the injured party. Holmes, attorney general for Ireland, repudiated the amendment as unnecessary. Healy challenged Holmes to show a single instance where an Orangeman had been hanged for the murder of a Catholic. Holmes was glad of the opportunity afforded him to explain his reason for saying the blood of Giffin was on the head of Earl Spencer. Earl Spencer knew that rival nationalist and Orange meetings were announced to be held in Dremore on the same day, and that they ought to be prohibited; therefore he (Holmes) maintained the expression was justifiable. Sir Wm. Harcourt reproached Holmes with reiterating an expression intended to inflame party passion. Balfour said the last speaker need not fear that the example of Holmes would have any serious effect upon the gentlemen below the gangway, and asked whether the opposition would support an amendment extending to unproclaimed districts the operation of a clause which they were now opposing word by word. Gladstone said he marveled at Balfour wishing for a peaceful close of the discussion after doing everything he could to exasperate the position. He heard Holmes' speech with the greatest regret. It appeared to him Holmes said one thing in parliament and another thing in Ireland. The chairman, interrupting, cried "Order, order. The discussion is traveling wide off the subject. I think the matter should drop." Gladstone resumed his seat after expressing regret that Balfour had chosen to prolong the discussion. The amendment was withdrawn.

SHIPPING NOTES.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 13.—Arrived, str. Columbia, Portland. Cleared, ship J. B. Thomas, Port Townsend. Sailed, str. Oregon, Astoria; str. Geo. W Elder, Victoria; bark Helen Almy, Astoria.

A BIG SEIZURE OF OPIUM.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 13.—The customs officer to-day seized 115 cases marked "nut oil" on the steamer Rio Janeiro, which arrived from China Wednesday. The cases upon being opened were found to contain hermetically sealed cans of opium placed in nut oil. The seizure is valued at $30,000.

AN ELEVATOR BURST.

At 5 o'clock this afternoon the grain in the Mission Bay warehouse, Channel and Fourth streets, began to bulge, causing such a great pressure that the building soon gave way with a loud crash. August Begum, a 12-year-old son of the night watchman, was instantly killed by falling timber, and three laborers were seriously though not fatally injured.

BIG FIRE.

Shortly after 5:30 this afternoon fire broke out in a small candy store under the grand stand at the Central Park base-ball grounds. The fire spread to adjoining stores, and soon the whole place was almost entirely destroyed. Loss $65,000; insurance, $30,000; cause, defective flue.

O'BRIEN WILL SPEAK IN TORONTO.

TORONTO, May 14.—The following are resolutions to be submitted at the public meeting to be held in Queen's Park to-morrow afternoon: That this meeting reprobates the action of Wm. O'Brien in visiting this city for the purpose of exciting hostile feelings against his excellency the governor general on account of differences between his excellency and his tenants in Ireland, and desires to express its unabated confidence in the high character of the marquis of Lansdowne, in his fitness to represent her majesty in Canada; that this meeting looks with perfect confidence to the parliament of the United Kingdom for a wise and just settlement of all questions relating to Ireland. Mr. O'Brien's friends have not succeeded in obtaining a hall in which to hold the meeting Tuesday evening, and likely they will apply for a mandamus to compel the city to comply with their agreement to rent St. Andrews' hall. The following despatch from O'Brien has been received by President Mulligan from Montreal: "Toronto Branch National League:—It is of the utmost importance that a public meeting be held in Toronto, no matter how small. Corporation's breach of contract only strengthens our position."

O'BRIEN HONORED IN QUEBEC.

QUEBEC, May 14.—To-day Mr. O'Brien, accompanied by several most prominent citizens, made a tour of the city. He visited the citadel and "The Falls," a picturesque spot, and at 2 o'clock the return journey for Montreal was begun on the steamer Montreal. An immense crowd gathered on Richelieu Square, and as the vessel steamed up the St. Lawrence a salute of 22 guns and a volley from Winchester rifles were fired from Diamond harbor by the Irish residents of that district. The cannon were draped with bunting, and crowds of persons ashore displayed Irish flags as they passed by, and cheered until they were hoarse.

O'BRIEN'S SUCCESS SO FAR.

TORONTO, May 14.—The nationalists having offered to banquet Mr. O'Brien, he answered that he would be glad to attend without prejudice to the public meeting, which must take place at all hazards, even if it had to be held in an open square. The date of the Kingston meeting continues undecided. A man named Mason, grand master of the Orangemen there, is making dire threats if that municipality be invaded. Mr. O'Brien seems less concerned than anybody else regarding such rumors. He only laughs and says, "Such nonsense." He will speak at London, and Ottawa also. The boat will arrive at Montreal Saturday morning, and he will remain there until Monday, when the journey to Toronto will be begun. Members of the national league are wild at the reports sent hither from Montreal of Mr. O'Brien's reception there, and allege that government officials tampered with the despatches. Mr. O'Brien said to an Associated Press reporter to-day: "I never met with such kindness as I have met since my arrival in the Dominion. Nobody has, so far, even looked angry at me."

THE BUDGET.

OTTAWA, May 13.—Sir Charles Tupper has delivered the budget speech in parliament. He estimated the revenue for the fiscal year ending June 30 to be $35,900,000, the expenditure $35,900,000; anticipating a deficit of $300,000, due to falling off in the excise receipts. He estimated the surplus at the end of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1888, to be $1,300,000. The debt of Canada on May 1st was $225,105,961. The Dominion has no floating debt. He said the outlook for the country was of the brightest, the only cloud on the horizon being the threat of non-intercourse on the part of the United States.

Natural Gas.

An eastern exchange, comment ing upon Prof. Shaler's paper on natural gas, which appears in the last issue of the Forum, conjectures that this gas may probably exist in Ontario. Prof. Shaler says it is only when the rock deposits remain unfractured and in tolerably horizontal attitudes, and when beds of porous rock are overlaid by beds of very compact clay, that we find the conditions in which this material may be firmly imprisoned. Our cotemporary says: "These conditions obtain over large areas of Canada, and if the present director of the geological survey were not above everything practical he might be expected to institute a regular search for natural gas. Nearly all petroleum wells afforded it in abundance, but, though it was known to be a valuable fuel so long ago as 1821, no systematic effort to utilise it was made until during the last decade. In 1873 it was first used in Armstrong County, Pa., for the manufacture of bar iron. From that time its employment has increased rapidly, and the report of the United States geological survey estimates that "the natural gas used in 1885 for heating and illuminating purposes, was equivalent to 3,131,000 tons of coal, having a value of $4,857,000." The value of the same amount of gas in Ontario, where no coal is found, would be not less than from eight to ten million dollars. The advantage of a supply of this fuel is estimated by Prof. Shaler at not less than ten. per cent. on the capital engaged in the American factories that have it, and an effect of its utilisation has already been to transfer large iron works to the Pittsburgh district, where it is obtained. There is, however, considerable economic risk in founding industries upon the supply, because experience has already shown that the subterranean stores are not inexhaustible. The outflow from most of the borings has steadily diminished with the multiplication of wells upon adjacent ground. In most cases the gas is under the high pressure of about 1,000 pounds to the square inch, hence migrates through rock crevices for great distances toward the point of escape provided by each new boring. Each well drains a large territory, and in order to secure a continuance of supply the state ought to regulate their sinking. Should a successful search for rock gas be made in Canada, the legislatures might well step in at once and compel proprietors to refrain from destructive multiplication of borings."

The Case of Shearer.

Notwithstanding differences of opinion respecting the mental condition of Shearer, the slayer of Murne, there is no doubt but public opinion generally demanded his execution. The crime was a monstrous one. Without any immediate provocation Shearer, in cold blood, walked up to his victim and stabbed him repeatedly and viciously after the fashion of a man who is impelled by revenge or whose mental equilibrium has been disturbed. If Shearer was really responsible for his acts, his crime certainly deserves the severest punishment the law could inflict, for it must have been the result of premeditation, and it proved the existence of a brutal nature. But some physicians have expressed the opinion that Shearer might have been under the influence of delusion resulting from mental aberration, and their testimony leaves the impression that they did not regard him as altogether responsible. Against this testimony we have that of other professional men some of whom seem quite clear in the opinion that the prisoner was sane enough to control his actions. The question is one where a good deal of difference of opinion among professional men might be expected. It is often a matter of much difficulty to determine the exact condition of the mental faculties. Some persons are entirely sane, apparently, on all subjects but one, and in some the symptoms of derangement are most difficult to find. The line that separates between a sound mind and a mind diseased is often as indistinct as the line that divides the animal from the vegetable in certain forms of life. It must be evident that Shearer had a motive in committing the crime, or he must have been acting under an impulse beyond his control. No sufficient motive seems to have been brought out at the trial. It has been stated that there was a dispute of $8 between Shearer and his victim some time ago, and that the prisoner threatened that he would kill Murne for it on sight. But one can scarcely imagine that any sane man would commit such a fiendish crime because of a matter so frivolous. We are told, moreover, that the stories circulated respecting Murne's character are not true. We have the assurance of men who have known him for years that his reputation was not bad, but, on the contrary, he was generous and kind hearted, and would never refuse help to a fellow in want. With all the evidence before us we are at a loss to discover any sufficient motive for the murder of Murne, and in the absence of a motive there is the other alternative of mental aberration. If Shearer was not master of himself it seems a pity to hang him; but he could never be trusted with liberty, and there is no doubt that people generally think his crime entitles him to execution.

Try the safe, pleasant, and effectual worm killer, Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator; nothing equals it. Procure a bottle and take it home.

COUNTERFEIT COIN.

How Spurious Money is Made in N. Y. City.

Counterfeiting United States coins and bills is said to be carried on now as much as formerly, says the New York Commercial Advertiser, but there have been many changes in its methods and the manner of getting rid of the "queer" when made.

The days of the hidden nook in the mountain, where, in a hut, the expert maker of base coins carried on his nefarious trade with door carefully barricaded and rifles and revolvers lying about within easy reach, are over. Now the coin is made mostly in cities, and that too in crowded neighborhoods.

In the making of bad coins in this city the Italians have a monopoly, and it is against the Italian workmen that Chief Drummond, of the Secret Service Bureau in this city, is kept busy, procuring evidence and bringing them to court. Almost without exception, every Italian counterfeiter arrested in this city during the last three years—and there have been many of them captured—has said that he came from Sicily.

They are, as a rule, dull-looking, ignorant fellows, notwithstanding their skill in furnishing and manufacturing the coins. Most frequently they have a little knowledge of the jewelry trade, and apparently they take as naturally to counterfeiting as fish to water. A number of Italians in this city who are not makers of bad coins are always ready to pass those made by others, and the skilled devisor of illegitimate money is to them a hero.

HOW THE COINS ARE MADE.

The workman hires a flat in a tenement, into which he moves his family, reserving one room as a workshop.

He lays in a stock of antimony, plaster of paris, moulds, a lathe, and other appliances, and is ready for business. Rarely do his neighbors suspect that anything is wrong. He takes a good coin for a pattern, and soon has the room filled with the coins in various stages of construction.

Never does the maker attempt to pass the money himself. He either sells it to the passer, or, more frequently, to a middle man. For this reason it is difficult to get at the makers, and the Secret Service detectives are always happy when they find a workshop with a kit of tools and good supply of stock. The middle men sell to the man who does the passing.

Bad coin can be bought at the rate of 84 for ten bad dollars, though higher prices are usually charged at first. When the passer gets the coin he usually frequents the side streets, where in small cigar stores and confectionery shops he passes off his spurious dollars, etc., in payment for small articles, thus receiving good money in change.

The law requires that "intent to deceive" must be proven against the offender, and for this reason the counterfeit money passers go often in pairs.

One man carries the coin. He deals it out one coin at a time to his companion, who enters the shop, while the other remains outside. Thus if the passer is arrested no other bad coins will be found on his person, and he can assert that he did not know that the one coin he had offered in payment was bad. Many escape conviction by this method.

THE MEN WHO PASS THE COUNTERFEITS.

The fruit stand Italians are usually unscrupulous in working off bad money, though they seldom have a stock of anything of larger denomination than dimes and quarters. More than half of the small coin that is bad works its way into circulation through these fellows.

You tell the vender that the coin is bad, and he will immediately cry out:

"Me no tell bada money; me just come from Italy."

Comparatively few arrests are made on complaint of the police. When bad money is received unwittingly, few hesitate to pass it on. There is a cheap restaurant keeper on the old Chatham street who, every few weeks, brings all the bad coins he has taken in down to the Secret Service Bureau in the Post Office building. Very few take this trouble.

There is an erroneous idea abroad that the Government makes good the bad money received. This is a mistake. The Government confiscates all bad coins, and the only relief of the person imposed upon is a civil suit in one of the District courts against the passer for the value of the money lost.

The passer of counterfeit money, when convicted, may receive as heavy a sentence as ten years in State prison and a fine of $1,000.

Apparently there is an attractiveness about making the coin, and when discharged from prison the manufacturer almost invariably goes back to the old business.

THE LITTLE QUAKER LASSIE.

There's a maiden in our village,
With hair of sunny hue,
And eyes of woodland loveliness,
Like violets and dew.

Her face is sweet with roses
That blush against the gray
Of her little Quaker bonnet,
Suggesting March and May.

She talks with quaint decision,
Which is music, I'll allow,
When she greets me, as she meets me,
With an earnest, "How art thou?"

Though in manner she is charming,
There is nothing that is half
So perplexing and bewitching
As her pretty Quaker laugh.

Defying rules of discipline,
Its mirth is full and free
Whene'er I greet her in return,
"Friend, is it well with thee?"

She knows I am not of the fold,
Mayhap, she likes to chaff,
But 'tis in certain that I love her
For her little Quaker laugh.

—[Philadelphia News.

Healing Harmonies.

The power of music has always been looked on as very great, but a new use has been found for it.

A Spanish recruit in Havana was stricken down by fever and completely paralyzed.

All efforts to arouse him were in vain. The doctors pinched him, stuck pins in him, tried a battery on him, but he paid no attention to the tortures which usually bring a man to his senses.

When all other means had failed, music was tried as a last resort. A countryman was engaged to play him a few old tunes every day on a stringed instrument.

Gradually he recovered command of his muscles, and before many days was able to throw a stool at the head of the musician. A week saw him fully restored.

A bachelor physician was once called to see a young widow.

"You are lonesome," said the doctor. "Your husband has been dead three years. I'd advise you to marry again."

"Oh, doctor, I'll marry you to-morrow, if you will love me."

"Ah! ah! Well!" muttered the doctor, scratching head and thinking, "you know, madam, that physicians never take their own prescriptions."

RHYMES FOR BORROWERS.

Curious Means of Claiming Ownership in Books.

Some people have a strange way of designating their ownership of books. Of course you remember, when a schoolboy, what ridiculous doggerel some of the scholars wrote in theirs. As for example;

"This book is John Smith's,
My fist is another;
You touch one
And you'll feel the other."

And again:

"Steal not this book, my honest friend,
For fear the gallows'll be thy end."

Once more:

"Steal not this book, for fear of shame,
For here you see the owner's name;
And when you die the Lord will say:
'Where is that book you stole away?'
And if you say you do not know,
He then will cast you down below."

A great many grown-up children have adopted the custom in a graver mood.

The two verses commonly used are:

"If thou art borrowed by a friend,
Right welcome shall he be,
To read, to study, not to lend,
But to return to me."

And this:

"Not that imparted knowledge doth
Diminish learning's store;
But books, I find, if often lent,
Return to me no more."

There is one found in a book formerly belonging to a well-known resident of New York:

"Any one may borrow, but a gentleman returns."

David W. Jayne's books have the following Scriptural quotation:

"Go thou rather to them that sell, and buy for yourselves."

The following rather severe lines were used by a Massachusetts man:

"Stern power of Justice, lift thy wand
In spite of mercy's look;
Strike him who with presumptuous hand
Purloins this valued book."

Aaron Putnam, who flourished in Medford, Mass., about one hundred years ago, used these lines:

"The wicked borrow, but do not return again. See thou art not one of that number."

Duncan C. Pell, of New York, had this rather churlish motto, not at all in keeping with his character:

"He does not lend his books."

W. J. Snelling, one of the early editors of the Boston Herald, had these instructions:

"Do not turn down the leaves to mark the place, but put in a slip of paper. Do not give the book to children for a plaything. Handle not with dirty hands. Return the book when you have read it."

It Was the Other One.

A year ago we were all at one of the lakeside resorts, where Planchette had become all the rage, and everybody was intent upon exploring the mysteries of the future.

Upon this particular evening a young man who had developed strong mediumistic powers, had his hand upon Planchette, when I was called from the room to welcome a friend, a young lady who had just arrived from Lakeside.

A few minutes later I entered with my friend, an utter stranger to them all, upon my arm. With mischievous intent, I stepped forward to the table and said:

"Now, Planchette, if you can tell me truly whether this young lady fell in love while she was at Lakeside, I will believe in you."

"She did," promptly wrote the little machine.

"With whom? Can you tell his name?"

"Certainly; it is a very common name." My friend gave a little shriek.

"Is it Smith or Brown?" I continued.

"It is the other one," answered Planchette.

"Did you ever!" exclaimed my friend.

Sure enough, she married Jones very shortly afterwards, and they have been very happy.—[St. Louis Spectator.

Short Chapter on Chemical Nomenclature.

Persons who undertake to gain through chemical literature a knowledge of what chemists are doing in and for the world encounter a discouraging nomenclature which repels them by its apparent intricacy and its polysyllabic character.

Their opinion of the terminology of an exact science is not enhanced when they learn that "blacklead" contains no lead, "copperas" contains no copper, "mosaic gold" no gold, and "German silver," no silver; that "carbolic acid" is not an acid, and that "oil of vitrol" is not an oil; that olive oil is a "salt," but "rock oil" is neither an oil or salt; that some sugars are alcohols, and some kinds of wax are ethers; that "cream of tartar," has nothing in common with cream, "milk of lime" with milk, "butter of antimony" with butter, "sugar of lead" with sugar, nor "liver of sulphur" with the animal organ from which it was named.

Readers of chemical writings sometimes fail to appreciate the advantages of styling borax "di-meta-borax of sodium," or of calling common alcohol "methyl-carbinol," and they ignore the euphony in such words as pentamethyldiamidothiodiphenylamindiiodomethylate (a substance begotten and baptized by Dr. Albert Maasen.—[Popular Science Monthly.

A Georgia Hunter's Story.

"Did you ever hear about that wonderful shot I made? You didn't; well, it is worth telling.

"One day while out on the plantation near Dozierville, I went out hunting. About twenty steps in front and near some thick grass in the swamp, an old rabbit hopped out.

"The little doggerel about

'The old hare skip, the old hare hop,
The old hare eat my turnip top,'

ran through my mind and thinks I to myself, thinks I, you won't eat many more turnip tops; so I banged away at her; but away went the cotton-tail, as though it had been a blank cartridge.

"I went to the place to see I didn't at least tear up the ground, when what should I find but three coons floundering in the agonies of death.

"I had missed the rabbit but killed three coons."—[Columbus (Ga.) Enquirer-Sun.

A Little "Previous."

The Rev. Mr. Unity was quite liberal, but so absent-minded.

They were making up a whist party, when Miss Mabel said to him:

"Mr. Unity, won't you join us? Mr. De Beans is going to take a hand and be my partner."

Mr. Unity wakes up with a start, and breaks everybody up by remarking:

"Isn't this rather sudden? Have you got a license?"—[Lowell Citizen.

WHAT PHYSICIANS SAY ABOUT THE

STARR KIDNEY PAD.

"Treatment by Absorption has for some time been recognized by Medical Men to be the most simple and effectual means of conveying to Diseased Organs, "Curatives," but in cases of Kidney Disease and Complaints attendant thereon, successful treatment was practically impossible until the introduction of the Starr Kidney Pad. It costs less than a single prescription and is immeasurably more decisive and effective than any quantity of internal Medicinal dosing. Worn immediately over the seat of Disease, its curative properties become absorbed by the diseased and enfeebled Organs, continuously and directly, as required to insure in return their healthy action and original vigour. It is comfortable to the patient and pleasant in its effects, and cures when nothing else can. The Starr Kidney Pad accomplishes positive, decisive results. A more valuable discovery as a true remedy for Kidney Diseases was never made.—Medical Gazette

The Starr Kidney Pad, manufactured in Toronto, is a permanent sure cure for diseases, disorders and ailments of the Kidneys, Bladder and urinary secretive system, or attendant complaints, causing pain in the small of the back, sides, etc., producing urinary disorders, such as too frequent, scanty, difficult, painful or copious micturition, inability of retention and sedimentary urine, dropsical symptoms, etc., denoting the presence in the system of diseases common to the urinary secretive organs—known as gravel, catarrh of the bladder and passages, Bright's disease, diabetes, dropsy, piles, nervous debility, etc. Send for pamphlet to LANGLEY & CO., Wholesale Agents, Victoria. MR. G. ROBERTSON,

Vancouver:

Representing Goldie & McCulloch, Galt, Ont.

SIR.—We the undersigned having witnessed the terrible fire which wiped out of existence the young city of Vancouver, on the 13th inst., have, after the fire, examined the safes sold by you, some of which were put to the most severe test, having been surrounded by large quantities of lard and bacon, and we are pleased to testify to the remarkable manner in which every Safe sold by you preserved its contents, not only books and papers, but also thousands of dollars in paper money were taken out in perfect condition. We can, therefore, with the greatest confidence, recommend them as thoroughly fire proof:

THE BRITISH COLUMBIAN

Printing Company

(LIMITED.)

ON THE 10TH OF JANUARY, 1887, the COLUMBIAN Newspaper and Printing Concern was purchased by a joint stock company composed of citizens of New Westminster, to be known as the "British Columbian Printing Co., Limited." The concern has been for nearly a year owned and controlled by the British Columbia Stationery and Printing Company, of New Westminster, Victoria and Vancouver. The object of the new company is to continue the publication of the BRITISH COLUMBIAN newspaper and carry on a general printing and publishing concern, controlled entirely by those whose individual interest it will be to promote the development, especially of the Mainland. There will be no slackening of the energy hitherto displayed in the management of the establishment, and its patrons may rely upon receiving full value for their money. The COLUMBIAN will continue to be entirely independent in both Dominion and provincial politics, and will devote itself to the advancement of such schemes a may be considered in the public interest. The concern is now entirely separate from any other business, the book and stationery establishment in this city having been taken over by Mr. T. R. Pearson, who will continue to carry it on in his own name and for his own benefit. It is desirable that a daily newspaper should be maintained in this city, and the new company asks for public patronage on the ground that it is engaged in an enterprise calculated to promote the public welfare. It asks that the COLUMBIAN be judged on its own merits and supported only so long as its policy is enconsistt with its professions. In consequence of this business change all accounts due the concern must be settled without delay so that the books of the former company may be adjusted and closed. A HOME COMPANY.

This Association merits the confidence the Public is reposing in it from the following FACTS:—

The Security offered to policy holders is unsurpassed by any Company doing business in Canada,

It has no schemes of insurance, but the well-established lines, hence the policy holders cannot be misled as to their contracts.

Its statements to the public can be readily understood, its cash statement showing every item of income and how expended.

Its position is ascertained annually from a detailed valuation in which every item of liability is included.

Its progress has been unexampled in the history of insurance in Canada.

Its policies are indisputable after three years, and non-forfeitable after two years' existence.

Its profits are distributed upon an equitable basis. The profits to one class of policy holders are not lessened to give larger profits to any other class, which method affords superior advantages over the uniform bonus plan of distribution.

Important Notice.

To our Friends and Patrons:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN.—As we are contemplating a change in business the first of June next, we wish to thank the people of New Westminster and vicinity for their liberal patronage during the past six months.

We have decided to sell our large stock of FRAMES and MOULDINGS at GREATLY REDUCED PRICES in order to clear out the whole lot immediately. This is a rare chance to have your photographs, paintings, engravings, &c., framed in the most pleasing and artistic style.

Parties wishing to have their homes or other buildings photographed will do well to call without delay, as this is the best month in the year for out-door photography.

Parties wishing Copies from old Negatives will kindly call at once.

In conclusion, we would say that during the balance of this month we are determined to give the people of B. C. better work than any we have yet done, and with the assistance of the long-expected machine we hope to finish work more quickly than we have done heretofore.

THOMPSON & BOVILL.

Joseph Lockman, Buffalo N. Y., says he has been using Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil for rheumatism; he had such a lame back he could not do anything, but one bottle has, to use his own expression, "settled him up." He thinks it is the best thing in the market.

Sir John Macdonald has stated in parliament that the government would contribute an annual subscription of $75,000 in aid of the Pacific steamship service, on condition that the Imperial government would grant $300,000 annually. The service proposed was trimonthly, between Vancouver and Hongkong.

The determination of the city council to dismiss certain police officers was not taken, we are sure, without careful consideration. The executors of the law must be beyond suspicion—if they are not, the whole administration of justice falls into contempt. Let us have first-class men in these positions by all means.

THE OCEAN KING.—Captain Sawyer and crew of the ship Ocean King, which was lost at sea, have arrived at Port Townsend from Neah Bay. They were picked up by a sealing schooner and landed at the latter place. The first report was that the ship had been burned, but it is now stated that she foundered during a gale.

BIGGEST CUT ON RECORD.—Last Friday the mill hands at Port Blakely made up their minds they would rustle and see how much lumber the mill could turn out in ten hours. All hands worked with a will and the machinery never worked smoother. When the mill whistled to notify the men that it was time to knock off the tallymen in the mill figured up and annouced that the mill that day had cut 303,000 feet of lumber. This is the biggest day's work ever done at Port Blakely, and we doubt if it has ever been equalled by a mill on the Pacific coast.—Post-Intelligencer.

VANCOUVER'S GENEROSITY.—The following are the amounts contributed up to date by the city of Vancouver towards the relief of the Nanaimo sufferers: News-Advertiser list, $645; employees of the Hastings Sawmill Co., $250; city subscription, $500; Royal City Planing Mills, $160; Leamy & Kyle, Commercial Mills, $100; Knights of Phythias, $130; Odd Fellows' Lodge, $90, or in all about $1,860 to date, with more to follow. The News complains that this journal reported the subscriptions at Vancouver at $450. We are sorry if we under-estimated the amount. At the time the figures were as near correct as could be ascertained.

STATISTICS OF THE NANAIMO DISASTER.—A resume of the dispatches received by this paper concerning the recent terrible disaster at Nanaimo gives the following woful statistics: In the mine at the time of the explosion were 177 human beings—102 white men and 75 Chinamen. Six of the white men were rescued alive. The places of nativity of the remainder of the white men, who perished, were as follows: England 36, Wales 8, Sweden 4, United States 10, British Columbia 15, Cape Breton 4, Scotland 7, Ireland 5, Nova Scotia 2, Italy 4, and Holland 1. Forty-five of the unfortunate miners left widows to mourn for them, and 130 children lost their fathers.

THE NANAIMO DISASTER.—Nanaimo, a western Canadian town, in whose affairs Winnipeg should have an immediate interest, is making an appeal to the civilized world for aid. By a terrible mining disaster upwards of one hundred and fifty of the male inhabitants of the place have lost their lives, and a large number of families have been left dependent on the charity of the world. Times may be hard, and corporation finances in none too satisfactory condition, but cries for assistance in such cases cannot be ignored. It is to be hoped that the council, at its meeting to-night, will take prompt action, and we feel satisfied the public will endorse its action.—Winnipeg Sun.

METHODIST CONFERENCE.—Rev. Mr. Percival has asked leave to withdraw from the Methodist connection, and his request has been granted. It is understood that he purposes going to the Presbyterian church. On Thursday a missionary meeting was held at which addresses were delivered by Revs. Messrs Robson and Green, and Messrs. Wm. Clarkson, Cushan and Gardner. A conference missionary society was organized as follows: Rev. T. W. Hall and Mr. Thos. Cunningham, Westminster district; Rev. E. Robson and Mr. J. E. McMillan, Victoria district; Rev. A. E. Green and Mr. J. B. Ferguson, Port Simpson district. Rev. Mr. Bowell, as secretary of the committee, reported recommending the formation of auxiliary branches of the Woman's missionary society in the province. The educational committee was formed as follows: The president of the conference and Revs. J. Hall, C. Bryant, W. J. Dowler, J. A. Wadham, J. E. Starr, and Messrs. John Jessop, J. B. Ferguson and Jas. Cunningham.

To be Hanged on July 5th.

William Shearer to Suffer Death for His Crime.

THE OTHER CRIMINALS DISPOSED OF.

THE JUDGE'S CHARGE.

The three day trial of William Shearer was concluded last night. His lordship's charge to the jury occupied about an hour and three-quarters, and was as follows:

"GENTLEMEN OF THE JURY:—The prisoner stands indicted for wilful murder, the highest crime known to the law, and one you must consider with care. The case against him as to the actual murder is undisputed. Four of five witnesses testify to this. It is not incumbent upon the crown to prove a motive for the crime. Who does a cruel act voluntarily does it feloniously and with malice aforethought. The defence set up by the prisoner in this case is insanity. Before I call your attention to this I must deal with the other circumstances of the case and the motive for the crime. A motive to kill or revenge is inconsistent with the theory of insanity. The more clear the motive the more conclusive is the evidence of sanity. There are certain things we can't get over; he is in Murne's camp, and the fact of what he said when he gave himself up to Hamilton. A long standing ill-feeling, probably greatly increased by brooding, seems to define a motive for his crime. The onus of proving his insanity lies with the prisoner, and if it is not proved to your satisfaction, why he must take the consequence. Observe the conduct of the prisoner anterior to the crime. He is working for Murne in August and then leaves. He returns again in February. Then he is working for Mr. Hamilton on the C.P.R. wharf and the crime occurs. Observe his conduct as to his insanity. He gives himself up to Hamilton, and throws away the knife. I can't say this is an insane act. He is taken into custody and sends for a lawyer and takes good care to say nothing, except by his lawyer's advice. It is your duty to watch and detect his insanity. Medical men go to see him and he will not speak until advised to do so by his counsel. It is highly probable he had some quarrel with Murne and by brooding over it it became a delusion. If he considered Murne his enemy and with a view to avenge this he takes his life, this explains his remarkable words to Mr. Hamilton. There you have the motive. I can't help pointing out that the motive is a very feigned one. Then comes the insanity. Doctors are called in and asked to tes tify what insanity will justify homicide. Let me tell you what the law is on this point: "Every man is presumed to be sane until the contrary is proved." I must say I can't find evidence that this man did not know he was doing wrong at the time of crime. He has supposed fits. He tells the doctors of his delusions and Murne's persecutions towards him. Another proof that he knew he was doing wrong is his fear of being lynched." His Lordship then reviewed the evidence on both sides, pointing out the peculiar character of the prisoner's defence. He instructed the jury as to the law in such a case. In conclusion, his lordship said: "Gentlemen, there is the case; there is the cruel act; there is the motive and there is the alleged delusion and insanity. There is nothing further that I need call your attention to. If you want any information on any point of law I will be happy to inform you."

The jury retired, remaining out nearly two hours. They brought in a verdict of guilty of murder against the prisoner. His lordship then pronounced sentence of death upon the prisoner, the date of the hanging being fixed for the 6th of July next. As sentence of death was pronounced everyone in the court room turned to see what effect it would have on the prisoner, He did not appear in the least moved by the judgment, His manner was careless and self-possessed. When asked if he had anything to say he answered, "Nothing." He walked with steady step from the dock to the carriage which conveyed him to the jail. On reaching the jail he was led to his cell and locked in. He threw himself on his bed without undressing and slept until one o'clock, when he awoke and called for a cup of coffee, which was given him. Drinking this, he lay down again and slept well until morning.

THE OTHER SENTENCES.

The following are the sentences of the other prisoners as pronounced to-day: Jno. Memorial Service.

In the town of Hope, B.C., on Sabbath afternoon of May 8th a large number assembled in the schoolroom, which was draped in black, and enlivened with flowers, to pay the last tribute of honor to the memory of their late highly esteemed and much lamented friend and citizen, Joseph A. Bowes.

The service was opened by singing "We shall Sleep, but Not Forever," followed by the reading of the 90th and 103rd Psalms, after which prayer was offered, that the Spirit of God might deeply impress the paramount importance of living prepared for the great event that must of a surety come to all. A paper was then read by one of the young men, giving a sketch of the secular history of the deceased and the high respect he commanded during his residence in British Columbia. After singing "Oh Think of a Home Over There," an earnest address was given on the brevity and uncertainty of life, and the advantage and privilege of choosing the service of Christ, embodying the eternal hope of the departed, answers to parental prayers, and the manifest loving kindness of God in the guiding hand of his providence. The dew-drop on many a cheek betrayed the heart's deepest emotions during the hour of felt solemnity. After singing "The Sweet Bye and Bye" this touching and never-to-be-forgotten service was brought to a close by prayer and the benediction.

The Alaska Seizures.

OTTAWA, May 13.—The correspondence with reference to the seizure of British Columbia sealers in Behring's Sea was brought down in parliament to-night. The Canadian government has demanded reparation from the United States for the seizures, but in his latest reply, dated in January, Secretary of State Bayard said he could not come to any decision until certain papers reach him from Alaska. Meantime he gave instructions for the sealing schooners' release. Since then the captains of the vessels have put in large claims for damages. British Minister West, in conversation with Bayard, represented to him the unjustifiable nature of the seizure. Bayard contended that the United States obtained a right to Behring Sea from the Russians. West then pointed out that when Russia had Alaska the United States contested claims similar to those they were now making, which Bayard admitted. West, however, in his despatch to the imperial government, says Bayard is very conciliatory.
