THE REDISTRIBUTION BILL. Conclusion of the Discussion on This Famous Bill.—Mr. Cunningham suggests Representation by Trial Island.

Mr. Cunningham said that any gentleman in the House deserved sympathy and pity to-night he was the man. He had always supported the honorable leader of the Government.

Mr. Cunningham then detailed what Westminster had done for the benefit of the Province, and he could not see what she had done to incur the displeasure of the Government.

Mr. Cunningham wanted to know if it were right to give three members to a constituency with only 375 voters (Cariboo) and only one member to a constituency with nearly double the number of voters.

REDISTRIBUTION THAT DOES NOT REDISTRIBUTE.

TAKING the last official figures, which do not make the case for this district as strong as it really is, we find that the number of voters per member—taking the whole country—is almost exactly 607.

Table with 2 columns: Constituencies Under-Represented, Constituencies Over-Represented. Lists various districts and their respective voter counts.

That is to say, the under-represented constituencies lead to the rest of the Province nearly 6,000 voters, and of these, New Westminster (that is, City and District, including Vancouver) lends over 4,000, or more than two-thirds.

Now, let us see how the Redistribution Bill proposes to deal with this state of things. Vancouver City is taken out of Westminster District and given two members, leaving the District with a trifle less than the average per member, and putting the new constituency of Vancouver City in the position of the most under-represented constituency in the Province.

Westminster City, which after the District, had the next best claim to an increase, is left as it was, but a new member is given to the 488 voters of Kootenay, undoubtedly, has a much better right to a new member than Lillooet, Cariboo, Cassiar, Comox, Esquimalt, or Victoria District to retain the members they have; but as the City of Westminster has nearly three votes to its one, it is difficult to see why it was increased while this City was passed over.

But after all, it may well be asked, of what use is it to produce these figures? There is a certain ring which has ruled this Province in the past, and which is determined, if possible, to rule it for all time to come, and that ring has decided at all hazards to maintain the "balance of power." The people of the Province outside that ring must determine whether they will be free men or slaves. The absurd pretension stands only by the force of its own impudence—can stand only so long as we are weak enough to abstain from toppling it over.

Of course, while citing the figures we have, and making the most obvious deductions therefrom, we do not perhaps—what is impossible in this, or perhaps in any country—a hard and fast system of representation by population. Other considerations must have due weight, such as number, importance and diversity of interests, extent of area, and distance from the capital. Kootenay, for instance, with its large extent of territory and diverse interests, is fairly entitled to be divided into two districts with an increase of representation, and Cariboo with its special needs, its large area, and its distance from the capital, may well claim special consideration; but no excuse can be found for the barefaced over-representation on the Island. This sectional line must be broken, and the mischievous and outrageous theory of the "balance of power" relegated to the rubbish heap. Not till then will justice be done to the Province as a whole, and not till then will the Province have peace from sectionalistic strife.

INTOXICANTS AND REVENUE. If there is one man more than another in Great Britain who can make popular Tory financing, it is the present Chancellor of the Exchequer. Excepting Mr. Gladstone he is to-day the most competent master of figures in the House of Commons. A member of the banking firm of Frupling & Goschen, his wide practical experience of finance has pre-eminently fitted him for the position he holds, and his work. "The Theory of Foreign Exchange," is probably the masterpiece of authorship upon the particular subject of which it treats.

Mr. Goschen is of Jewish descent, and appears to possess in a more than ordinary degree that aptitude for finance so characteristic of the race from which he springs. His enemies, indeed, aver that his "financing" of the Egyptian loan, was mere barefaced usury, whilst Mr. Gladstone found it absolutely necessary in 1888 and 1889 to oppose Mr. Goschen in regard to the latter's proposals in dealing with death duties. Mr. Goschen, however, earned the applause of all parties by his scheme for reducing the interest on the national debt, and probably his lesser mistakes, like those of the late Sir Stafford Northcote, may be put down to his forsaking the sound financial teachings of the school of Peel and Gladstone for the more brilliant juggling, misnamed finance, of Benjamin Disraeli.

The chief provisions of Mr. Goschen's financial statement recently made are a reduction of the tax on tea, a foreign spirit tax, both good measures, and postage reduction, which will be vastly popular. The full particulars of these particular items are not as yet before us, but enough is known to ensure a liberal approval to the main principles of these three points in the Chancellor's annual statement. The main feature of interest, however, centres in the figures which Mr. Goschen gave to the House relating to the revenue derived from alcoholic beverages. Mr. Smith in one of his books ("Thrill," we think) points out that, often, increased national prosperity means an increased consumption of stimulants. Mr. Goschen's figures verify this view. Towards the middle and end of the financial year it became apparent that the wave of trade depression which had so long paralyzed British commerce was rapidly giving place to more prosperous times, and in proportion as the buoyancy and confidence increased so the revenue from the liquor traffic showed a perceptibly upward tendency. The gross revenue derived from this one source during the year amounted to £29,285,000, the Chancellor calling attention to the fact that in 1878-79 a very similar state of affairs existed, the liquor revenue during that time showing a wonderful elasticity. This amount can only be termed enormous, and, however satisfactory it must be for a finance minister to have so great a sum at his disposal, it certainly is a matter for regret that the hope indulged in during very recent years, that the decrease of the revenue from intoxicants was a sign of the growth of abstinence principles, has but a poor foundation, but that, on the other hand, the lack of money was the cause of the lack of drinking, and that the moment the country awoke from its lethargy of trade depression, its people gave their orders to the brewers.

Mr. Goschen, we notice, will favor reducing the duty on beer, a proposal likely to be opposed, as it is apparent that the increased duty placed in that article last year has had no injurious effect upon the dealers by lessening their sales. In fact, in spite of increased duty, the actual revenue derived from beer exceeded the estimated revenue by £270,000, whilst the drink revenue complete exceeded the estimated revenue by £1,800,000. It is curious and instructive, although not altogether satisfactory, to note that the duties on coffee, cocoa and chicory decreased by £17,500, but a course for congratulation is to be found in the fact that the revenue from tea showed an increase of the substantial sum of £40,000. Taken altogether, the figures of the English budget are satisfactory, as an unmistakable indication of increased material prosperity, but it is questionable whether the same can be said about them as far as they point in the direction of higher morality.

NOTES AND COMMENTS. The young English lady journalist to whose case reference was recently made in these columns, has scored a point on behalf of her demand for the admission of ladies to the reporters' gallery of the British House of Commons in the admission elicited by Mr. Bradlaugh from the Speaker that there exists no law or order against the admission of women to the gallery. Since she so pluckily raised the question, the lady has received four requests, it is said, for "inter-views" in the interest of other journals, one request for her portrait for publication, and one offer of marriage.

According to the records of the Signal Service Office there have been 1,429 tornadoes in the United States in the past ten years. Lieut. Finlay, one of the experts of the office, is inclined to believe that these storms have "periods of maximum occurrence alternating with those of minimum occurrence," and that their cycle corresponds with the sun-spot period. The last maximum was in 1884, in February of which year no less than sixty tornadoes took place in one day. It is supposed that the present is a minimum period, and that in a few years there will be a great increase in the number of these visitations. This is not cheering information, especially after a tornado which wrought so great destruction at Louisville.

General Laurie, M. P., for Shelburne, N. S., has received telegrams from the Conservative Association in Halifax demanding explanations with respect to his conduct in collecting travelling expenses from London, England, to Ottawa and back, under the pretext that he lives in London now. The General says he has no explanation to make; that he lives in London, that he intends to return to London as soon as the session is over, and that he has done nothing wrong in taking travelling fees from London. It is also intimated that the General used his influence as a member of Parliament supporting the Government to secure more remuneration for his services in connection with the Northwest rebellion than he was fairly entitled to.

OFFER FOR SALE FOR A LIMITED TIME, at the undermentioned Prices, the following Properties on terms to suit.

SAPPERTON. Lots in the Sub-Division of Lot 2, Suburban Block 4, from $200 per lot.

These lots are mostly cleared, and are very slightly commanding an unsurpassed view of the Fraser River in one direction, and Queen's Park and the upper portion of the City in the other. This property is only about one quarter of a mile from the Brunette Mills, and is the best locality in Sapperton either for residence or speculation.

WESTERN ADDITION. A few blocks and lots in the Western Addition to the City of New Westminster, Sub-Division of Lot 172, formerly the White Estate.

This sub-division, consisting of 600 lots, was placed upon the market by us a short time ago, and so eager were purchasers to buy that the entire 600 lots were sold out within one month. We are now offering the above property at slightly advanced rates on behalf of former purchasers. Those who missed the chance of buying at first prices have yet an opportunity of investing at prices that cannot fail to yield a good profit. We believe that this is the best speculative property in the City of New Westminster.

SURREY. 5-Acre Blocks in the thriving Municipality of Surrey, midway between the Cities of New Westminster, B. C., and Blaine, Wash., at from $30 to $40 per acre.

This property is situated on the Hall's Prairie road, near the junction of the Langley Road, the Yale Road, and the Clover Valley Road, within 500 yards of the proposed station of the New Westminster Southern Railway. The land is high and dry, and the soil is first-class. Surrey is one of the most prosperous sections of the District of New Westminster, and is at present enjoying quite a boom in real estate; so that purchasers of this property will get the value of their money in good, rich, solid farm land in a locality which at the same time promises an excellent field for speculation.

NORTH ARM. 145 acres in Lot 155, near the North Arm Road, about 2 1/2 miles west of the New Westminster City Post-office, at $150 per acre.

This is fine fertile soil, chiefly prairie, and lies well. It has become a maxim that cities grow westward, and New Westminster is proving no exception to the rule. City lots west of Edinburgh Street, along the North Arm road, have doubled in value in less than a year, while acre tracts have, in the same time, in some instances more than trebled. When the proposed extension of Columbia Street to the Western City Boundary is completed, the North Arm will become the best suburban section of the City. Moreover, it is confidently expected by many that the route of the Electric Railway to Vancouver will traverse this section. Our shrewdest speculators are realizing the possibilities of this portion of the City, and the many sales of acre property in the vicinity recently, indicate that land in the direction of the North Arm is looked upon as one of the best places for investment in the District. Prices are bound to advance rapidly.

In addition to the above we have a large list of City and Suburban Property, at moderate prices and on favorable terms, of which we invite examination.

A ROW IN THE LOBBY.

Detailed Account of the Encounter Between General Laurie and Mr. McMullen.

Our Ottawa correspondent sends us the following rather interesting account of the personal encounter noted in the despatches lately, that took place in the lobby of the House of Commons, between General Laurie, a former D. A. G. of this Province and present M. P. for Shelburne, N. S., and Mr. McMullen, M. P. for North Wellington, Ont.

He read from that sheet a statement that, being a supposed resident in Nova Scotia, he had charged mileage to and from London, England, 10c a mile, total $20. The statement commented on the unusual character of the transaction, and asked whether the General was really resident in London, Eng., or in Nova Scotia, and whether, in the former case, he intended to continue to reside in England and at the same time sit in the parliament of the Dominion, and charge $600 every time he came across to attend the session.

When he went for his mileage the question of his change of residence to England came up. He could not, of course, say he was resident in Nova Scotia when as a matter of fact he had removed to London, Eng., and this necessitated a declaration of change of residence, and the mileage was calculated by the accountant in the usual way, and paid him. He had no fault to find with the manner in which the Globe had stated the facts, and fully intended making the statement earlier, for family and personal reasons which he did not feel called upon to explain to the House of Commons, he had removed his family from his home in Nova Scotia to England. He had done everything in his power to get the House opened on, but failed. When the time came for the re-assembling of parliament, consequently, he was obliged to attend for the performance of his parliamentary duties.

When he went for his mileage the question of his change of residence to England came up. He could not, of course, say he was resident in Nova Scotia when as a matter of fact he had removed to London, Eng., and this necessitated a declaration of change of residence, and the mileage was calculated by the accountant in the usual way, and paid him. He had no fault to find with the manner in which the Globe had stated the facts, and fully intended making the statement earlier, for family and personal reasons which he did not feel called upon to explain to the House of Commons, he had removed his family from his home in Nova Scotia to England. He had done everything in his power to get the House opened on, but failed.

Mr. McMullen then rose and was greeted with shouts of "order, order!" "You're out of order!" He, nevertheless, stood up and attempted to make himself heard. Speaking sharply and in a tone unusual between members, and addressing himself personally to the general, instead of the speaker, he said: "I gave you notice privately I was going to bring this matter before the House, and that's the reason you have brought it up now."

General Laurie, with an appearance of warmth, flatly contradicted the insinuation that he had only brought up the question of privilege under the pressure of Mr. McMullen's threat, and asserted again that he would have made the statement the previous afternoon had the statement earlier, for family and personal reasons which he did not feel called upon to explain to the House of Commons, he had removed his family from his home in Nova Scotia to England. He had done everything in his power to get the House opened on, but failed.

Mr. McMullen rose with an exhibition of considerable temper, but the shout of "order, order!" instantly raised, caused him to resume his seat. Dr. Landerkin rose and was called to order, the noise being almost deafening. He was heard to say, however, that he had simply risen to ask.

Another shout drowned his voice. The speaker interposed. He said the order of business must be observed. There had been too much irregularity already. Dr. Landerkin again endeavored to make himself heard. He said he was only about to observe—

Such a manifestation of the determination of the House to have order took place that he dropped back into his chair amid roars of laughter. BENCHES IN THE LOBBY.

Shortly afterwards General Laurie and Mr. McMullen met in the lobby and exchanged hostilities. Mr. McMullen again reminded the general of the fact that he had given him notice of his intention to bring the mileage matter before the House, and upbraided him with having accepted the course he had taken in order to prevent his carrying out that intention.

The general looked wrathfully at Mr. McMullen and simply ejaculated: "You are a scoundrel, sir." Mr. McMullen, whatever his faults may be in the eyes of members who are obliged to listen to his speeches and have no admiration for them, does not appear to be a paltrion. He met the general's angry aspect with an unquelling glance and hissed back in a voice more rasping than ever: "And you are a sneak."

General Laurie measured the tall stature and sinewy form of the member from North Wellington with his eye, and said with soldierly simplicity and frankness: "You are an infernal scoundrel, sir!" Mr. McMullen, whose composure was considerably ruffled by this addition of an adjective to the epithet previously applied, responded unhesitatingly: "And you are an infernal sneak, sir!"

Then General Laurie remarked, with an access of severity in his tones, "I've a good mind to kick you." Close to the general was Mr. Bowell, the Minister of Customs. The bystanders say they heard him say to the warrior, "Yes, kick him, General!"

Mr. McMullen, surveying the two gentlemen scornfully, flung back with disdain the remark, "You can't do it, either of you or both."

At this excessively interesting juncture, Dr. Landerkin, who was coming up the lobby and overheard part of the conversation, instantly made for his colleague, hooked him by the arm and led him off, the two Grias disappearing in one direction and the two ministers in the other.

The two gentlemen occupied their seats in the House within a few feet of each other until two o'clock next morning, but fortunately nothing further occurred of an expasperating nature between them.

Our beautiful city is dormant no longer, its long silence has suddenly ended, and it now ranks foremost among the cities of the Pacific Coast; its wealth and population have increased at a remarkable rate.

In 1888 the total value of taxable property in the city limits was hardly $1,000,000, while to-day it aggregates nearly $5,000,000. In 1887 the population was 3,000, now it is over 8,000.

The City Council has undertaken immense public works, and a large number of public and private buildings are under construction. The city is now the Fresh Water Terminus of the Canadian Pacific, and by the first of July next it will be connected by the New Westminster Southern with the great American transcontinental routes.

Noting all the foregoing facts New Westminster's future prosperity is assured, and no other city in the Province offers such splendid inducements to investors.

Our lists of city and district property are complete. Call and see us. Correspondence solicited. MOWAT & SLOAN, Columbia Street, New Westminster.

Don't forget the Jubilee concert to-night at the Opera House by the original and only Flak University Jubilee Singers. The str. Delaware left for Chilliwack and intermediate ports this morning taking a large load of freight and 30 passengers.

Gordon & Co. have an interesting announcement to make to the electors of this City and District in their usual advertising space. The str. Gladys left for up-river ports this morning with freight and passengers.

Her repairs were completed on Saturday and she is now in perfect ship shape again. Our first information as to the boundaries of Anicledale, the new settlement in Surrey, was incorrect in one particular.

The southern boundary is Clayton, instead of the Yale road. Every reserved seat has been taken for the jubilee singers concert at Her Majesty's Opera House to-night. Secure seats at D. Lyle's bookstore early for the concert to-morrow evening.

The cricket match on Saturday afternoon was a very pleasant beginning to the season's sport. Mr. Clinton's eleven scored 82 and Mr. Newington's 79. Rev. Mr. Irwin and Mr. Clinton made the top scores. The Yosemite was laid off a trip for repairs and her place taken by the str. Princess Louise.

The latter vessel will be docked and then repaired before being put on a regular route again. The members of New Westminster lodge No. 3, I.O.O.F., by a notice elsewhere, are requested to meet at the lodge room on Sunday next at 2:30 p.m., from where they will march to the Methodist church to attend the anniversary services of the order.

A veteran of the last Zulu war fought a lively battle with King Alcohol this morning. The latter proved the most powerful, and the man who had won victory over immense odds in former battles was carried from the fight to the city lock-up very much hors de combat. The Oddfellows of this city have taken time by the forelock in the matter of celebrating the Queen's Birthday, as they have already arranged for a picnic on that day, to be held at Derby, or old Langley, and have chartered the fine, new and last steamer Delaware for the purpose.

The Contract Finished. Mr. T. F. Sinclair's contract for the improvement of the channel at the mouth of the river was finished on Saturday, when the last mattress was laid. Sinclair began work a few weeks ago. Mr. Sinclair has laid 25 mattresses—extending in a line more than two thousand feet. The work has been done to the entire satisfaction of the Government engineer, and is expected to bear excellent results in its effect upon the channel across the Sandheads. The mattresses were built near Ewens cannery and the stone for sinking and anchoring them was brought from the Pitt lake quarries.

Snagging Operations. The Government steamer Samson, Capt. Robinson in command, will leave for up river to-morrow morning to begin snagging operations for the season. The river is now as low as it will be this year, and it is expected good work will be done before high water season. The channel is said to be in a dangerous condition at many points owing to logs and trees that have become water-logged and grounded in the direct course usually taken by the steamers. Capt. Robinson hopes to have the channel thoroughly cleared within six weeks, by which time work will have to be suspended on account of high water.

Workers or loafers. Some men think they can do a good day's labor, and work as hard as their fellow laborers without troubling to take off their coat. The City is greatly troubled with a number of just such men. And on several occasions the foremen on the different street improvements have been obliged to discharge employees who show this decided disinclination to warm themselves by working so earnestly that a coat would be a burden. There is not a contractor in the city who would keep the men five minutes if he didn't work hard enough to make even a vest an encumbrance on a hot day, but for all this one or two of the discharged men feel sorely aggrieved, and it is said, intend appealing their cases to the City Council. They will not meet with very warm sympathy.

Langley Prairie Items. Mr. Riddell, of Langley Prairie, was in the city to-day. He states that farming operations, owing to the exceptionally unfavorable weather this spring, are very backward, but that plowing and seeding have commenced. A number of farmers are changing hands at good figures in the neighborhood, and real property generally is being sold at a high price. A lightly timbered land bringing about $20 per acre. The purchasers are principally new comers from the eastern provinces, who are buying with a view to carrying on farming, and not for speculative purposes. A gentleman of considerable means, lately from Ontario, has purchased a farm and intends to construct and operate a cheese factory, an undertaking which he is well qualified by experience to make a success.

THE DELEGATION. Third Redistribution Bill Will be Delayed Until Wednesday—Now for a Good Strong Delegation. Mayor Brown, president of the Mainland Association, has received a letter from the Premier stating that the third reading of the Redistribution Bill will probably be delayed until Wednesday, and that "the executive will, of course, be glad to receive the deputation" from the Mainland. The Mainland delegation will be composed of representatives from all the branches of the Mainland Association and of citizens' deputations from this City, Vancouver and every municipality and settlement in the District. The Boards of Trade of Vancouver and Westminster have also been invited, and will probably take part. The occasion is one which demands the strongest possible popular demonstration, and protest, and every patriotic citizen, who can arrange to do so, should swell the numbers of the delegation, and by his presence in the Legislature halls at Victoria, help to emphasize the fact that the Mainland resents the injustice which is embodied in the Redistribution Bill, and is determined to have its rights.

THE CRIME TRACED. The Murderer of the Old Indian Woman at Langley Cleverly Traced. Mr. W. Moresby returned on Saturday from Langley, bringing with him a half-breed named George Roberts, who was implicated in the murder of Slocum, an old Indian woman, the particulars of which were published in The Columbian last week. Mr. Moresby spent three days in the vicinity of where the murder was committed, and so diligently and cleverly did he work that he is now in possession of evidence, which is almost certain to place the crime on the shoulders of the guilty party or parties, both of whom are now under arrest. Roberts and Houston, the men now charged with the crime, were enjoying a drunken spree, and one of them is supposed to have murdered the old woman while they were under the influence of liquor. How the murder was committed will come out in the evidence. Since the murder Roberts boasted openly to his friends of having a knowledge of the crime, and his actions also led to the conclusion that he knew more about it than he wanted to tell. The case will be first heard on Thursday next.

PERSONAL. Mr. C. F. Green, of Ladner's, is in the City. Rev. Mr. Calvert, of Ladner's, is at the Queens. Mrs. Peels returned this morning from a trip to Victoria. Major Wilson, of Victoria, is in the City on a business visit. Rev. S. J. Thompson, of the North Arm, is the guest of Rev. J. H. White. Mr. G. E. Parkes and bride returned from their wedding trip yesterday. They visited Victoria, Tacoma, Seattle and Portland, and were favored with delightful weather during the whole tour.

MAINLAND RIGHTS. Maple Ridge Gallantly Backs the Action of the Mainland Association. A meeting of the Maple Ridge branch of the Mainland Association was held in the Town Hall on Saturday evening, 19th inst., for the purpose of considering what action should be taken in regard to the redistribution bill now before the House. Mr. W. J. Harris having attended the meeting held at New Westminster on Friday evening, read the resolutions passed at that meeting. Mr. Harris stated that the meeting was a very representative one and unanimous in their actions. Mr. McKenney said he thought the resolutions passed at Westminster could not be bettered and was in favor of adopting them. Mr. Webster could not see that the Government were trying to frame measures that were fair. If this bill passed we should be worse off than before, and if the Government try to force it through, none of their supporters need try Maple Ridge for a vote. These remarks appeared to be the feeling of all present. It was moved by Mr. A. Dockstader, seconded by Mr. McKinney, that this meeting adopt the resolutions passed at Westminster.

Several present spoke on the motion, and were desirous that it should be unanimously carried without a dissenting voice. A member contrasted the voting population and importance of some of the Mainland constituencies against some of the Island constituencies, which showed clearly that the new measure was going to be an injury to the Mainland. It was stated that one of the chief factors here in Hon. John Robson's last election was that he brought or try to get proper re-distribution; it was expected then that he meant on a square basis. Moved by Mr. Webster seconded by Mr. Murray, that this meeting view with alarm the Bill to amend the constitution act now before the legislature. The injustice proposed in that Bill is quite apparent, its provisions are based either on representation by population or territorial importance. This meeting therefore resolves that the Government, if the proposed bill becomes law, is unworthy of the confidence and support of the electors of Maple Ridge. Carried unanimously.

It was moved and seconded that the secretary send a copy of the proceedings of this meeting to the members of the Legislature for the district, also to the Westminster and Vancouver newspapers, the Victoria Colonist and the secretary of the Mainland Association. The meeting adjourned till Monday evening, when a public meeting will be held at 7:30 o'clock.

THE NORTH ARM BRIDGES. Mr. Cunningham Moves the Adoption of the Committee's Report.—A Lively Spat in the House on the Subject. Mr. Cunningham, on Friday last, moved the adoption of the report on the North Arm bridges. The report being very short, he proposed to offer a few explanations. The committee had been formed at his recommendation and the sequel has shown that this was the wisest course to take. The committee had been compelled to visit the bridge personally so as to arrive at proper conclusions. He for one had desired that the Government should receive the fullest consideration of the San Francisco Bridge Co., and the investigation had been of the most thorough character and the report in every particular correct. The committee were those over the bridge, excessive. The bridge company was undoubtedly not to blame and they had done all in their power to rectify the damage and bad work by repairing the bridge at their own expense. The settlers of the locality had exhibited an extraordinary apathy during the construction of the bridge and had allowed the building to go on uninterrupted, although some of the most notable breaches of building rules were committed under their very noses. Hostility rather than indifference had marked the attitude of these settlers on this question and they certainly had not displayed much gratitude to the Government which had done so much for them, and exerted itself to benefit their interests in every particular.
