BISMARCK RESIGNS

Owing to Difference Between the Emperor William and Bismarck, the Chancellor Resigns.

And in Consequence the Whole Prussian Ministry Follow Suit.---Bismarck's Successor Appointed.

The Great Strike Still Continues and the Supply of Fuel is Becoming Short.

Bismarck Resigns.

BERLIN, March 18.—The Emperor this afternoon accepted the resignation of Prince Bismarck from the chancellorship.

Yellow Fever.

PARIS, Mar. 18.—A telegram received here from Rio Janeiro states that yellow fever has broken out at Campinas and San Paulo, Brazil.

A Big Cargo.

GALATZ, March 18.—The Russian str. Ivet has arrived here and is awaiting to unload 1,100,000 gallons of petroleum.

The Chancellor's Resignation.

BERLIN, March 18.—In well informed political circles it is announced the differences between the Emperor William and Prince Bismarck consists of the refusal on the part of the chancellor to accede to the request of Herr Windthorst, leader of the church party, to restore to the Duke of Cumberland, claimant of the throne of Hanover, the larger part of the Guelph fund. The report is repeated to-day that General Von Caprioi, commander of the tenth army corps, will be tendered the chancellorship. Dr. Windthorst stated in the Lower House of the Prussian Diet to-day when public worship estimates came up for discussion, that it had been his intention to review the position of the Catholics in Prussia, but owing to the uncertainty of the political situation he concluded to postpone his remarks. All members of the Prussian ministry resigned when Prince Bismarck tendered his resignation.

A Winning Game.

LONDON, March 18.—The outlook for victory for the striking miners grows more favorable hourly. It looks now as if the men would surely win. Many more of the mine owners in Nottinghamshire and Lancashire have conceded the demands of the men. The feeling is growing that the men will refuse to meet on Thursday the committee of owners appointed for the purpose of conferring with the men and adjusting their differences. It is believed the men will insist on their demands in full. The strike of the Liverpool dock laborers on the other hand shows signs of collapsing, the leader of the strike having lost control of the men, and the latter are very much disposed to arbitrate. New hands are arriving at a rapid rate.

An Important Meeting.

LONDON, March 18.—Lord Salisbury has summoned all his supporters to a meeting at the Carlton Club on Thursday next. It is announced important matters are to be discussed. A despatch from Berlin states a rumor is current in that city to the effect that the entire ministry has resigned.

Scarcity of Fuel.

LONDON, March 18.—The supply of coal, owing to the strike of the miners, is rapidly growing less. The cotton mills, on account of the scarcity, have shut down at Accrington, Blackburn, Bury & Bolton. The South Western Railway Co. has been compelled to stop waiting room fires.

Wiggins' Smasher.

BONN, March 18.—An earthquake shock occurred here to-day.

Ship Carpenters on Strike.

STETTIN, March 18.—All the ship carpenters of this city have gone on strike.

Yates' Cable.

LONDON, Mar. 18.—The Queen was looking very well again last week, though not quite so pleasant as at the last drawing room. She did not stay all the time, so many missed seeing her. She sat a good deal, for she cannot now stand very long or go up stairs, and on her visits to Lady Ely and the Duchess of Fife she was received on both occasions down stairs. Rheumatism, from which her majesty is suffering and which has become chronic since her fall, has caused a contraction of the muscles of one leg. It does not impair her general health, as she is well and looks so, but there is no disguising the fact, which every one admits, that the Queen has aged considerably in the last two years.

The Victoria and Albert is to be escorted across the channel by the Osborne, Galatia and Enchantress. The Queen will arrive at Cherbourg at four o'clock Wednesday. She will sleep and dine on the yacht. Thursday morning she will go direct to Aix Les Baines, where she will arrive early on Friday. She will stay three weeks and return to Windsor by the same route. The Queen is to reside at Aix Les Baines in the villa Victoria, the annex of the Hotel Del Europe. The queen's horses and carriages and table servants, with the heavy baggage and Her Majesty's favorite chair and donkey which draws it, have arrived at Aix.

THE EX-EMPRESS.

The Empress Eugenie has rented a villa at Florence, where she will reside the greater part of the autumn. She occupied this same house 14 years ago.

ONLY A PHOTOGRAPH.

One of the losses most acutely felt by the Queen of the Belgians in the recent fire at Laeken, was the destruction of the only picture in existence of her son, the young Duke of Brabant, who died in 1869. Hebelno, the well-known Belgian painter, has contrived to reproduce the portrait from a faded photograph. Queen Henrietta, who inspected the work, was delighted with the extraordinary skill displayed in its execution.

THE QUEEN'S SYMPATHY.

The Queen felt Sir Howard Elphinstone's death intensely and those who saw her at the time described how much she wept at the news, and to everyone to whom she spoke during her stay in London, she described her feelings of sorrow at his loss, and grief at losing one of her oldest and most attached servants. She had seen him recently before he died, as he dined at Windsor to say farewell to the Queen, prior to his departure for a six weeks' trip to recruit his health, which had suffered much from influenza.

MODEST PRINCE GEORGE.

If true, it is not surprising that Prince George of Wales begged that he may not be promoted while still occupying so junior a place. It is no secret that the Duke of Edinburgh regrets the exceptional way in which he was pushed upward in the navy, with the result that he finds himself practically shelved at 45.

Arrested for Bribery.

NEW YORK, March 18.—Joseph Young, Deputy Sheriff, has been arrested and held in $10,000 bail for bribery. Other arrests are expected this afternoon.

Dominion Parliament.

OTTAWA, March 17.—In the House of Commons to-day the debate was resumed on Sir Richard Cartwright's resolution declaring that the conduct of Mr. Rykert in relation to the Cypress Hills timber limit was discreditable, corrupt and scandalous. Mr. Kirkpatrick moved an amendment in favor of referring the matter to the committee on privileges, which was seconded by Hon. P. Mitchell. In course of the debate Mr. Laurier spoke strongly against the proposal to refer the matter to a committee, claiming that there was nothing to refer. Mr. Blake made a judicial speech, pointing out that there was nothing to refer to the committee, but urging that Mr. Rykert should have an opportunity to state before the House anything further that he had to say. Sir J. S. D. Thompson, in a speech of the same tone as Mr. Blake's, urged a reference to the committee, promising there would be no delay and that the report, whatever it was, would be accepted. The Premier backed this by the extraordinary promise that the committee would sit as the opposition desired and not adjourn without the consent of their representative. As the Opposition opposed the proposal of the committee, fearing it was a scheme to whitewash Rykert or delay the proceedings, Mr. Laurier, in view of the pledges, agreed to accept the proposal. There was general applause at this solution of the difficulty.

NORTH ARM NOTES.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

NORTH ARM, March 18, 1890.

The weather grows warmer and more spring-like every day. Frogs hold nightly concerts. "And the yellow catkins cover all the slender willows over." Early gardening has commenced in the preparation of hot beds, transplanting of shrubbery, &c.

The Fairy Queen is doing a good business. Westminster merchants must find North Arm trade worth something, judging from the number of passengers that daily crowd the steamer and the quantities of goods of various kinds that she leaves at the different landings.

New settlers continue to arrive. A gentleman from Ontario has purchased 10 acres adjoining Mr. Walter's lot.

We are sorry to learn that some person or persons have wantonly fired several shots through the windows of the little church at the South Arm, the bullets reaching the opposite wall. We are at a loss to understand the motive that would prompt such an action. It surely could not have been an indignity offered to Rev. Messrs. Thompson and Jaffray, in return for their faithful and zealous services rendered in that place, the former for the past year and a half, the latter since August last. However, the guilty parties will need in the future to take care, as they are being looked after.

Work on the bridge is progressing favorably. Inspector Balfour made his first visit last week.

Councillor Magee is meeting with good success in obtaining the signatures of residents concerned in the scheme for opening a canal through the island to Westminster. If the required number is obtained, the Council will then proceed with the work.

PERSONAL.

Miss Edith Robinson, accompanied by her little nephew, spent a couple of days at home last week, returning to Westminster high school on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Vermilyea returned from Vancouver via Westminster on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Murray, of Westminster, spent Sunday at the North Arm, the guests of Mrs. W. Carscallen.

A volley of musketry from both sides of the river greeted Capt. Younge on his arrival last evening at his accustomed headquarters, Sexsmith's Landing, this being his first trip since his return from the east.

Reeve Sexsmith and Mr. Tuttle left by the Fairy Queen this morning for Vancouver and Victoria.

KAMLOOPS NOTES.

[From the Sentinel.]

Miss Clute, of Westminster, is visiting Mrs. J. A. Mara.

Stock in the Spallumcheen valley are reported in good condition.

Mr. Jas. Vair intends erecting a fine dwelling house on Church street, Kamloops.

Mr. M. Hagan is having the grounds around the Industrial school surveyed preparatory to fencing them in.

J. S. Bennett intends building an office and warehouse on Victoria street, between Mr. F. Robson's store and the Oriental hotel.

The Kamloops base ball boys have started the ball a-rolling and promise to make it interesting for base-ballers generally this season.

A wedding was celebrated in the Presbyterian church on Tuesday evening last, the contracting parties being Miss Cassie Douglas and Mr. Jas. McArthur, both of Kamloops.

The evangelistic services in the Methodist church during the past week have been largely attended, and an exceedingly hopeful and encouraging interest appears to have been aroused.

Mr. J. N. J. Brown, of Chilcoten, paid a visit to Kamloops last week. He reports a severe winter in the Chilcoten valley, with a heavy fall of snow. No serious loss of stock is anticipated, however, as there was plenty of feed in the country and the ranges will afford plenty of provender when the snow leaves.

Mr. W. H. Whittaker is making preparations for the erection of a handsome residence on his lot on Victoria street. The plans show a very pretty two storey cottage of the Queen Anne style of architecture. The building will cost upwards of three thousand dollars and will be one of the finest residences in the town.

A branch of the Mainland Association has been formed in Kamloops, with the following officers and executive: Dr. Tunstall, president; J. S. Bennett, secretary; executive committee—F. H. Robson, W. H. Whittaker, R. E. Smith, M. P. Gordon, J. E. Sancier, H. Smith, Jas. McIntosh, J. A. Mara, M. P., and George Munro.

Mrs. Craig relict of the late John Craig, of Ashcroft, died at the residence of Mrs. Nelson, on Wednesday. She came to town for treatment after having been ill for over a month with la grippe but was beyond medical aid. The deceased, with her husband, were pioneer settlers at Ashcroft, and were well known and highly respected in that community.

A complimentary concert was to be tendered Miss Margie Campbell on the occasion of her leaving town for Westminster, where Mr. Campbell has taken up his residence. For years Miss Campbell has been one of the leading contributors to almost every public musical entertainment, and by giving this benefit her friends hope in some degree and in a befitting manner to recognize the valuable services she has rendered.

On account of the increasing demand for lots in Blaine, B.C., it has been decided to increase the prices of these lots, commencing Monday, 24th instant. Persons wishing to get the benefit of the present low prices should call at once on Richards & Mackintosh. *w1

ST. LEONARD'S HALL.

The Corner Stone of the New Parish Building Laid This Afternoon With Imposing Masonic Ceremonies.

The laying of the corner stone of St. Leonard's Hall, the new parish building in connection with Holy Trinity Church, took place this afternoon during a heavy downpour of rain. The occasion had created general interest and many hundred people turned out to witness the ceremony, but the rain rather spoiled its effectiveness.

The turnout of the fraternity was larger even than expected, and the procession marching up Columbia street presented quite an imposing appearance. Many members of Holy Trinity choir were among the audience, and rendered good service in assisting the brethren in the singing of the odes.

The Lodge was opened in the first degree and the Master announced the purpose of the meeting in consonance with the invitation of the Lord Bishop of Westminster, after which a procession was formed and proceeded to the place of ceremony. The Director of Ceremonies formed the procession in the following order:

Tyler, with drawn Sword,
Stewards, with Rods,
Entered Apprentices,
Fellow Crafts,
Visiting Brethern,
Past Wardens,
Brethern of Union Lodge,
Past Masters,
Superintendent of Works, with square, level and plumb,
Secretary, with Book of Constitutions,
Treasurer, with various coins, documents, etc.,
Brother, with Bible, square and compasses,
Past Masters, with lights,
Chaplain,
Junior Warden, with silver vessel filled with oil,
Senior Warden, with vessel filled with wine,
Master, with gold vessel filled with corn,
Deacon, M. W. Grand Master, Deacon,
Director of Ceremonies.

When the head of the procession arrived at the objective point, the brethern halted, opened to the right and left, and uncovered. The Grand Master, Master and his officers passed through the lines to the platform. The rest of the brethern surrounded the platform (inside the circle of spectators), forming a hollow square.

The Master was then seated in front of the centre of the platform, immediately surrounded by the principal officers of the Lodge. Upon a table before him were deposited, by several bearers, the Holy Writings, the Book of Constitution, the golden vessel of Corn, the silver vessels containing Wine and Oil, the lights, the Working Tools and Dispensation.

All being properly arranged, the Chaplain, Rev. C. Croucher, offered the following prayer:

And now, O God of Israel, who saidst in the beginning, Let there be light, grant us to perform this service unto Thee in holiness; that evermore guarded by Thy power, and guided into the Light of Truth, we may continually render unto Thee all Glory and Thanksgiving, world without end.—Amen, so mote it be.

The Director of Ceremonies, W. Bro. Buie, then proclaimed silence and said: By authority of the Most Worshipful Grand Master of Masons of the Province of British Columbia, and in obedience to the order of the Worshipful Master of Union Lodge, I do now commaud and require all persons here assembled to preserve silence and to observe due order and decorum during the ceremonies of this occasion.

Bishop Sillitoe, the Lord Bishop of the Diocese, then invited M. W. Grand Master J. S. Clute to commence the ceremonies, which work the Grand Master deputed to V. W. Bro. Charleson, who said, addressing His Lordship: The Fraternity of Free and Accepted-Masons have gathered here to-day by your invitation for the purpose of Instruction in Christian Doctrine and the cultivation of the art of Music, and we wish you a God-speed in your noble undertaking. May sympathy and order rest upon each line and curve, and strength and beauty characterize each arch and pillar, from base to cap-stone; and may the grandeur of its proportions attract the admiration and gladden the heart of every lover of order and progress.

The Master then addressed the Senior Warden saying: It has been the custom among the Fraternity of Free and Accepted Masons, from time immemorial, to assemble for the purpose of laying the foundation stones of public buildings, when required to do so by those having authority. Union Lodge having been invited by the Bishop of the Diocese to lay the corner stone of this Hall, to be dedicated to the purpose of instruction in Christian Doctrine and the cultivation of the art of Music, it is my will and pleasure that it do now assist me in the performance of that pleasing duty. This you will communicate to the Junior Warden, and he to the Craft, that they, and all others present, may be duly notified thereof.

The Senior Warden communicated the order to the Junior Warden, Dr. De Wolf Smith, as follows: It is the will and pleasure of our Worshipful Master that the lodge do now assist in laying the foundation stone of this hall. This you may communicate to the brethren, that they, and all others here assembled, may have due and timely notice of his order.

The Junior Warden repeated the order to the assembly as follows: It is the will and pleasure of the Worshipful Master that the lodge do now proceed with the ceremony of laying the corner stone of this hall. Of this you will take due notice and govern yourselves accordingly.

The Master addressing the Treasurer, Bro. J. V. Rankin, then said: It has ever been the custom of the craft upon occasions like the present to deposit within a cavity in the stone placed at the north-east corner of the edifice, certain memorials of the period at which it was erected; so that if, in the lapse of ages, the fury of the elements, the violence of man, or the slow but certain ravages of time, should lay bare its foundations, an enduring record may be found by succeeding generations, to bear testimony to the untiring, unending industry of the Free and Accepted Masons. Has such a deposit now been prepared?

The Treasurer responded: It has, Worshipful Master, and the various articles of which it is composed are safely enclosed within the casket now before you.

The Secretary, W. Bro. P. Grant, read the record of the contents of the casket as follows:

Copy of the Churchman's Gazette, March, 1890; copy of the DAILY COLUMBIAN, March 17th, 1890; copy of Truth, March 18th, 1890; list of the officers of Trinity Church Club; programme of the 27th concert of the New Westminster Choral Union; list of the officers of the Choral Union; coins of the Dominion of Canada, and the usual Masonic records.

The casket was then deposited in the stone with due ceremony. The stone was tested from all points and proved of proper workmanship. After its adjustment the Bishop offered up a prayer.

W. M. Charleson then went forward with the vessel of corn and poured it upon the stone saying: I pour this corn as an emblem of plenty. May the blessing of bounteous Heaven be showered upon us, and upon all like undertakings, and inspire us and the hearts of the people with virtue, wisdom and gratitude. Response: So mote it be.

The Senior Warden then went forward with the vessel of wine and poured it upon the stone saying: I pour this wine as an emblem of joy and gladness. May the great Ruler of the Universe bless and prosper our Dominion, Provincial, and City Governments, preserve the British Empire, and may it be a bond of friendship and brotherly love that shall endure through all time. Response: So mote it be.

The Junior Warden then went forward with the vessel of oil and poured it upon the stone, saying: I pour this oil as an emblem of peace. May its blessings abide with us continually, and may the Grand Master of Heaven and Earth shelter and protect the widow and orphan; shield and protect them from the trials and vicissitudes of the world, and so bestow His mercy upon the bereaved, the afflicted, the sorrowing, that they may know sorrow and trouble no more. Response: So mote it be.

The Master then struck the stone three times with the gavel and standing in front of all, his hands extended, offered the following invocation: May the beneficent Author of Nature bless the people of this city with an abundance of the necessaries, conveniences, and comforts of life; assist in the erection and completion of this building, protect the workmen against every accident, and preserve the structure from decay, and grant to us all sufficient supply of the corn of nourishment, the wine of refreshment, and the oil of joy. Amen. Response: So mote it be.

After the concluding portion of the ceremony the Most Worshipful Master, Bro. A. Charleson, addressed Bishop Sillitoe as follows:

RT. REV. SIR: It gives me great pleasure, and I appreciate the honor of this opportunity to congratulate you, the congregation of Holy Trinity, and this city, on having so auspiciously and successfully begun a new structure, within the walls of which, when completed, will be given lessons in Christian doctrine and the cultivation of the art of music. A building devoted to these great and good purposes must, I feel sure, be looked upon by every good citizen as of very great importance to this, our fast growing and prosperous city, and I trust that the instructions and teachings given and taught therein, in all that is good and true, may be of lasting benefit to those who avail themselves of the opportunities and privileges thus afforded of acquiring such necessary and useful knowledge. To the dissemination of Christian knowledge we owe the safety and protection, the rights and privileges, the peace and prosperity, and I may say nearly all the blessings we to-day enjoy. Here, I may be asked are free-masonry and religion the same? I cannot say that they are, but I can answer the question in the words of an illustrious brother, who said: "Masonry is no usurper of the rights and privileges of the church. It does not aspire to be the perfect embodiment of the religious life of humanity. There are limitations to its fellowship, which it recognizes to be inconsistent with any attempt to embody the religious sentiment in its fullest development. If, however, it is not the sun shining in the perfect day of man's religious life, we may at least compare its influence to that of the refulgent moon which throws no other light over the earth than that which is first derived from the sun itself, and then reflected in glory and beauty over the scene of human life. Freemasonry reflects many of the choicest rays of the Sun of Righteousness, and throws a gentle light over the night of man's sorrows. So while our beloved order does not seek to cover the whole ground of man's religious obligation, it is careful so far as it does go to say and to do nothing that shall be out of harmony with the deepest needs and the highest aspirations of the human soul."

The art of music has been much appreciated and cultivated by the various nations of the world in past ages and is still in great favor with the people of our own day; one ancient writer ascribes its invention to the "Whistling of the winds in hollow reeds," while another attributes it to "The various sounds produced by the hammers of Tubal Cain" Whatever may be its origin the science is truly congenial to the nature of man, yet music never sounds with such seraphic harmony as when employed in singing songs of praise and gratitude to the Creator of the universe. Music is one of the seven liberal arts and sciences and our Ritual says it "Teaches the art of forming concords so as to compose delightful harmony."

Therefore, instruction in Christian doctrine being the harbinger of Peace and music the promoter of harmony, it is eminently fitting that to-day we, as freemasons, stand here and by our presence and with the ancient symbols of the craft assist in the work of laying the corner stone of an edifice in which is to be taught at least two of the cardinal virtues of our order—peace and harmony. In conclusion I may use the words of an eminent brother and say: We have poured corn, wine and oil upon this stone, they being, when taken together, the Masonic symbol of prosperity and abundance, and by it we therefore manifested our sincere wishes that the superstructure might be prosperously raised and abundantly promote the objects for which it is designed. Separately, we employ corn to symbolize health, strength and plenty. May bread, that great staff of our physical existence, be never wanting to feed the inhabitants of this city; may the wine of joy ever be found in its midst, and happiness be a dweller with its people and the oil of consolation pour gladness and peace into their hearts.

Members of Union Lodge and visiting brethren, permit me on behalf of the Most Worshipful Grand Master to thank you for the assistance you have given in this important work. May the sun of your prosperity always remain at its meridian height, that there may be no dark gloomy shadows to overcast your future happiness.

To this His Lordship made suitable acknowledgments, and after the benediction, the procession reformed and marched back to the Masonic Hall.

OTTAWA NOTES.

The Budget Again Delayed.---Grand Banquet in Honor of St. Patrick.

[From Our Own Correspondent.]

OTTAWA, March 18.—Hon Mr. Foster will not bring down the budget till next week.

Lord Stanley, a number of the ministers of crown and members of the Commons and Senate attended the St. Patrick's society entertainment at the Grand Opera House last evening. The Opera House was crowded.

Hon. Daniel Doherty, who delivered the oration at the Opera House, last evening dines with Lord Stanley this evening.

There are thirty notices of motion on the order paper.

Verdict for Gillespie.

The case of Gillespie vs. Black, which has occupied the attention of Judge Walkem and a special jury for the past two or three days, was concluded this afternoon, the jury finding a verdict for the plaintiff. As already stated the dispute arose over a lot at Vancouver which the defendant claimed to have purchased from the plaintiff. The court found that the conveyance had not been made. The property in dispute is valued at $15,000. Mr. Pooley was for the plaintiff, Mr. Bodwell for the defendant.—Times.

TUESDAY EVENING, MARCH 18, 1890.

PROMPT ACTION WANTED.

It is satisfactory to note that Hon. Mr. Robson has moved in the House in the matter of the Fraser River difficulty at Chilliwack to which we called particular attention in these columns a little over a week ago. Last Friday, as will have been seen by our report, the Premier gave the following notice of motion: "Whereas the waters of the Fra- "ser are in several places in the New "Westminster District making alarming "and destructive inroads in the banks, "not only with great damage to the "property of settlers, and in some in- "stances threatening to change the "course of the river altogether, but "seriously impairing navigation by the "formation of bars of the silt thus car- "ried down by the stream; be it resolv- "ed that a respectful address be pre- "sented to the Lieutenant-Governor, "requesting that the Dominion Govern- "ment may be moved to adopt such a "measure as may be deemed the best "protection for property and the preser- "vation of the navigation of the im- "portant waterway in question." This motion amply covers the ground, and it is to be hoped that it may, with other representations, have the desired effect of inducing the Dominion Government to act promptly and effectively in the matter. The interests of navigation involved, as well as of the valuable lands that are being destroyed, are too important to be trifled with. Every season is enormously increasing and aggravating the evil. Some efficient remedy should have been provided before this. The longer it is delayed, the more difficult and costly will it obviously be. Now that the attention of the proper authorities has been so repeatedly and emphatically called to the matter, there will be no excuse for overlooking it, and it is altogether likely that steps will be taken this season to repair the damage already done and obviate further difficulty.

HISTORY REPEATING ITSELF.

The Mail recalls an interesting historical episode in connection with Bismarck's eventful career, suggested especially by the predicament in which the great Chancellor finds himself after the recent German elections, with his powerful coalition practically broken in the Reichstag. Towards the close of the eleventh century, says the journal mentioned, when the power of the Papacy was at its greatest height, occurred an episode in European history which has often since been recalled. For several years the German Emperor Henry IV. and the famous Pope Gregory VII. had been at variance. In 1076 the Emperor was summoned to answer for certain crimes laid to his charge. His sole answer was to assemble at Worms a council of German prelates which solemnly deposed the Pope, and passed judgment upon him. The news of these proceedings was sent by Henry to Gregory VII. in a letter addressed to the false "monk Hildebrand." The Emperor's sun, however, was even then setting, and being in turn excommunicated by the Pope, and soon after deserted by his adherents, he was compelled to sue for pardon. Accordingly, in January 1077, so the story goes, he repaired to the castle of Canossa, in Italy, where Gregory then was, and was there forced to stand three whole days in an outer court, clad in a hair-shirt, and bare-footed, before the Pontiff would receive him. On the fourth day he was admitted and received absolution.

At the height of the long struggle between the German Government and the Vatican over the famous May laws of 1872, which followed the establishment of the present German Empire and resulted, among other things, in the suppression of the Jesuits in Germany, Bismark declared in the Reichstag that he would leave no stone unturned to maintain the full and undivided supremacy of the law, exclaiming in conclusion: "Have no fear; we shall not go to "Canossa, either in body or spirit." And in 1877 a public monument bearing a portrait in relief of the Iron Chancellor and inscribed with these memorable words was erected on the Harz-hill, which had been the site of Henry IV.'s castle. But Bismarck is, and has always been, a politician as well as a statesman, and so it came about within a very few years that he did go in spirit to Canossa, advancing so far in the direction of concessions to the Papacy that his famous saying was repeatedly cast up to him by his enemies as a reproach. Now, it would seem, he is contemplating another trip to the place of humiliation. The recent elections have totally wrecked the strongest combination of parties in the Reichstag by means of which he has been able to work his will since 1884. The strength of the Cartel has been reduced by nearly one-half, its most powerful factor—the National-Liberal party—having been the greatest sufferer. This party, which has been described as the salt and backbone of the Reichstag, has secured only about forty seats, as against the hundred that it before held.

Bismarck is forced, therefore, in order to retain power, to look elsewhere for a Ministerial majority, and it is said that his eyes are now turned towards the Centre party—otherwise called Clericals or Ultramontanes—which is by far the strongest of the many parties in the Reichstag. The Centre owes its origin to the Culturkampf, and under the able leadership of Dr. Windthorst, for whom Bismarck has more respect than for any other of his opponents, it has during several Parliaments exercised a mighty influence upon the Government. To it is due the gradual relaxation of the May laws, which are now said to be mere shadows of their former selves, and any alliance between it and Bismarck will be certain to result in their further emasculation. It fact it is already reported that the first among Dr. Windthorst's terms is the abolition of every vestige of restriction upon the Catholic direction of Catholic schools, and that the Centre party is confident that this will be conceded. It may be as well, therefore, to obliterate the inscription on the monument on the Harz-hill.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

In Siam you can get board for forty-five cents a week, and this includes washing, the use of two servants to run errands, tickets to shows, three shaves and all the cigars you can smoke. This sounds delightful, remarks an exchange, until you learn that it is almost impossible to earn forty-five cents a week in Siam.

The oldest lawsuit on record, perhaps, is one nowbeing tried in the highest Russian court at St. Petersburg. It was brought 500 years ago against the city of Kamenez-Podoisk, by the heirs of a dead nobleman, to recover many thousand acres of his estates, which had been confiscated by the municipality. The written testimony is said to weigh 45 tons.—Ex.

United States Senator Blair is still harping upon the iniquity of the press of his country in refusing to report his speech in suport of his Educational Bill. As the delivery of this great oration occupied about a week it is not at all surprising that the papers "struck." They had some consideration for their readers. The Senator, however, is deeply offended, and has been saying most unkind things about newspapers and newspaper men. The only consolation he has in his affliction is the thought that he is not the only man who believes he could manage a newspaper better than those whose business it is to do so. There are several of them.

A Paris letter to the Chicago Jomrnal says; M. and Mme. de Lesseps had a reception a few evenings ago, where the chief attraction was the presence of all the old man's children, the two by his first marriage and the eleven by his second. His eldest "boy" is about 55 years of age, and his youngest child, a daughter, Gisele, is 4 years old; the age of the eldest of the eleven children is 67. Comte de Lesseps himself is now in his 85th year; he is rapidly breaking up—or down—but still retains a good flow of animation for a gentlemen never at any time mercurial. They say the failure of the Panama canal has never affected him; he believes that his scheme is being victimized by a conspiracy.

In the British House of Commons the other day Mr. Howard Vincent asked if steps were to be taken to keep some check on foreign paupers coming into England and settling there. The enquiry brought out the fact that while foreign immigrants could not be proved to be accepting poor-law relief, yet many were of the destitute class, and worked for starvation wages, to the detriment of native working people. Without making the law regarding aliens burdensome, it is the intention of the Government to collect information regarding the entry into the country of an undesirable class of persons, and to notify British consuls in foreign parts to keep an eye on emigrants heading for England.—Ex.

An unfortunate stumble spoiled an ancient skeleton, and deprived some museum of a chance to get a fine specimen at Hamilton, Ohio, the other day, says an exchange. Mr. Tweedale, who gives his leisure moments to the pastime of bringing the contents of ancient mounds to the light, dug up a giant of old, whose skeleton was indubitable evidence that the person it once belonged to was over seven feet tall. Tweedale, with his valuable freight carefully encircled by his arms, was making his way home when he stubbed his toe, and the fall which followed was as disastrous as any of the McGinty series. The rude shock simply pulverized the skeleton. There was nothing left of it but a pile of dust. The deceased giant of a former ago, however, had found at least one sincere mourner in the nineteenth century.

The flow of British capital into Mexico is almost as extensive as its influx to this country, says the New York Tribune. Nearly $100,000,000 of English gold was invested there last year, and railroads, lands, mines, manufactures and banks have all participated in this Pactolean stream to such an extent that the maintenance of order in the Republic has become almost as important to Great Britain as to Mexico herself. The Mexican railroad, the National, the Interoceanic, the Central, the Mexican Southern, and the Tehuantepec lines are every one of them strictly English companies. British capitalists have undertaken the stupendous work of draining the Valley of Mexico; and, according to a report recently issued by the London Foreign Office, in two provinces alone several millions of acres of fine land are owned by English subjects engaged in cattle raising.

Two collections of rare Bibles have recently been sold in England, says an exchange, among them a first edition of the Bible translated by Luther, and an edition of the famous "Breeches" Bible, containing two other misprints, one of them the well known verse—the ninth in the fifth chapter of St. Matthew—reading, "Blessed are the place-makers." This error has earned for this edition the title of the "Whig" Bible, owing to certain proclivities with which that party were credited. The other mistake occurs in the heading of the twenty-first chapter of St. Luke, "Christ condemneth the poor widow." Copies of the great "He" and "She" Bible were eagerly purchased. The great "He" Bible is of the first edition of the standard version, but contains an error in the fifteenth verse of the third chapter of Ruth, "And he went into the city." In the next edition this was altered into she, hence the edition is called the great "She" Bible.

The late Lord Lamington was a kindly, genial man, and, though a thoroughgoing partisan, entirely free from gall. His death is the break of one of the few remaining links that bound the present generation to the days when "Dizzy" was a wild young Bohemian in politics, anxious above all other things for notoriety, and even involved in a violent wrangle in a disreputable electioneering scandal. Baillie-Cochrane was one of the young men whom Mr. Disraeli found it wise to flatter at a time when he was trying to make his way. He appeared accordingly in one of Disraeli's novels, which was Disraeli's favorite method of attaching men to him whom he wanted to use. Baillie-Cochrane is the "Buckhurst" of "Coningsby." "Buckhurst" is not a portrait which a serious politician would particularly care for. He is a jovial, pugnacious, but rather frivolous young fellow, who when a contested election, with all its fire and fury, its bribes and beer, its speeches and posters and promises, has passed away, laughingly asks what they had been fighting for all the time. Still, it was something to be in a novel which all the young ladies of the period were reading.—Ex.

Foreshore Rights.

It having been currently reported that the Dominion government was contemplating the transfer to the province of control of the foreshore rights of British Columbia, over which the former now exercises jurisdiction, application was recently made to the chief commissioner of lands and works for the purchase of the very considerable area of land forming the foreshores of Burrard Inlet, False Creek and Coal Harbor. The property extending back from the tidal lands in question is rendered principally valuable by its water frontage, and its owners at once took measures to protect their rights, with the result that the provincial government have taken action to effectually preserve the foreshore lands from sale and thus secure the owners in possession of their property and the advantages derived from its situation.—Colonist.

AT AN IRISH WAKE.

Unique Features of a Funeral Observance on the Old Sod.

How Celtic Mourners "Wake" the Dead—Chatting and Story-Telling Around the Corpse—The Ubiquitous Pipe and Black Bottle.

The custom of "waking" the dead in Ireland, says the London Spectator, though by no means existing in its ancient glory and vigor, still obtains in a modified and shorn form in many country districts. Briefly described, it amounts to this—that the neighbors of the deceased assemble and spend the night in the room with the corpse, chatting and telling stories; in the meanwhile, of course, taking "a blast av the pipe," and a drop of "the craythure" to sustain them during their vigil. The conversation on such occasions naturally turns, to a large extent, to the virtues of the departed, which are duly embellished with all the natural eloquence of the speakers. No one unfamiliar with Ireland can at all realize what a scene a "wake" presents; and we propose to give a sort of specimen of the conversation which prevails on such an occasion.

"An ould follyer" is generally in a seat of honor, close by the head of the bed; she has been a nurse, perhaps, in the family, and as she rocks her aged body backward and forward she pours forth with a mellifluous Southern brogue, in a sad, wailing tone, a long piece of delightfully discursive domestic history. "Ah, wisha, wisha, lave me alone, the masther was a grand man; Thade Regan was the grand man; he milked up to forty cows." (This implies that he was a dairy-farmer whose stock amounted to that number.) "Shure it's meself remimbers the day av his weddin'; Lard Edward was at home at the time by the same token, an' as he wint by our cabin I heerd me mother to say: 'By gar, there's the lard up!' An' shure enough he was, for he was on his way to Tim Hoolahan's, who was minding thirty hogs for him. 'Turn thim out, Tim,' says the lard, 'turn thim out,' says he, 'for I want to choose out two av thim,' says he. 'To be shure, and why not, your honor's glory, me lard?' says Tim; and, whin he had thim out, the lard makes chice av wan widout a tail, an' av anoder widout an ear! An' thin he says to Tim, says he: 'Have thim two bastes kilt,' says he, 'an' give them to the people that's comin' to Thade Regan's weddin',' says he, 'for their dinner,' says he. Ah, wisha, deeling, but the lard was mighty fond av poor Thade; may God be wid thim both! An' don't I well remimber the time that poor Thade, rest his sowl, bought a farm near the red bog an' how I attinded at the dinner that same day."

At this juncture, another speaker, thinking he should have an innings, offers the nurse a drink; and while she is occupied with it he observes: "Wisha, awenoch, it was the poor masther that was fand av his marning drop; many's the time he'd take me wid him into Judy Molan's little public, an' he'd say: 'Judy,' he'd say, 'give Nicholas something to warm him, and take the could out av his stumick this frasthy morning.' An' by and by he'd say: 'Nicholas, man, won't ye have a glass?' an' I'd tell him I had wan; but he'd say: 'Don't tell me; you had not;' an' av coorse I'd say: 'It isn't for the likes av me to contradict a gintleman like your honor,' an' Judy would fill it up again."

A driver of a hearse who was present would add reflections which seemed to him suitable to the occasion: "I tell ye's all that I have been a driving a hearse man an' boy these twinty years an' more. I have druv' rich an' poor; an' whin the wind was an me back, the smell av them both was just alike; an' I didn't like it nather. And whin I comes across a man who has two or three hundred pounds, an' sees all his capers an' antics, I says to meself: 'What a gladiathur ye are; but wait, me boy, until I have ye in the hearse, an' then ye'll be quiet an' aisy enough.' Shure I wanst druv a jedge to the graveyard; an' I saw the yalla clay shoveled down on him as well as another—an' he rotting wid money. God save us!" This observation called forth a general exclamation: "Well, Ned, ye're a terror." The old nurse—"a charred and wrinkled piece of womanhood"—being now refreshed, would take up her parable again, and offer her snuff-box, or rather her snuff, to every one present. It was done in this way: holding the box in her right hand, she poured out some of its contents on the palm of her left. Whether you used the snuff or not, it was considered unlucky and uncivil to refuse to take a pinch of it.

Among the lower classes "wakes" are still very prevalent; beggars have their own "wakes," and even little children are "waked." A wake is quite an expensive ceremony to a poor, struggling working-man or tradesman; but he feels that he would loss caste without holding it, and he has not the moral courage to break through the custom. The expenses of a wake in the "strong" farming class are a very serious item, indeed. The Roman Catholic clergy nowadays generally or universally discourage this custom; but it is so deeply rooted that its eradication must be a question of time.

THE DREXEL BROTHERS.

Gath Gossips About Philadelphia's Multi Millionaire Bankers.

The house of Drexel arose in Philadelphia somewhat earlier than that of Jay Cooke, commencing with a Tyrolese artist who painted pictures and shaved notes and currency. Upon careful foundations, writes "Gath" in the Cincinnati Enquirer, he raised a house which at the decay of Jay Cooke seized upon many great occasions and, drawing in such men as Mr. Morgan, of New England, began to play a vast intermediate part between railroads and investment and general financial directions. The fortunes of the three Drexel brothers, though not as large as some fortunes in New York City, have been in the aggregate probably $25,000,000 to $30,000,000. These bankers were wise in drawing young blood into their departments and buying experience as princes formerly bought great military commanders. The Drexels have recently absorbed the Stock Exchange of Philadelphia into their huge marble block which they have put up on Chestnut street opposite the old Hall of Congress, and between that and the Bank of the United States, which still stands and is the American custom-house. A portion of that ground was covered by the Philadelphia library which Franklin founded and before which his statue stood. I know of no American city where the lawyers' offices seem to extend so many miles as in Philadelphia; they commence down by the old and now effete Stock Exchange on Third street and can be followed up Walnut street nearly to Broad. The civil war finding Philadelphia far out upon its frontier, since Baltimore sulked at the recovery of the Union, electrified the former city, absorbed all its functions, and hence to the present day the politics of Pennsylvania is as much directed by the war on the one side as the politics of Virginia by the opposite side.

"Can you let me have ten dollars till next week?" asked the snake editor.

"No, I can't," replied the horse editor, without the slightest hesitation.

"You don't appear to remember what a good thing it is to lend that amount."

"How is it good?"

"It is X lent."—Pittsburgh Chronicle.

DREAMS AND DREAMING.

Some Novel Theories Based on a Number of Careful Experiments.

To-day in looking through some back numbers of the Galaxy I ran across a remarkable article on dreams and dreaming, in which the author, Mr. Lewis, presents some novel theories. The result of any number of experiments, he says, sustain the following facts: Speaking in a low, monotonous tone close to the ear of a sleeper will almost invariably cause him to dream of terrible adventures on water, such as shipwrecks and drowning. Singing or playing on musical instruments induces dreams of dead friends, funerals and other lonesome and gruesome things, often causing the sleeper to moan or even cry outright in his seeming agony.

It seems that sleep soon after meals does not cause worse dreams than the simple and very prevalent habit of seeking to court the sleepy god with arms against the headboard. The worry which may not be caused by the habit of laying with the arms resting above the head, according to this experimenter, could not be induced by an after-dinner nap after freely partaking of sauerkraut and pickles. Mr. Lewis also seeks to explode the old theory that somnambulism is caused by weighty trouble on the mind of the sleeper, and he combats the idea that any great proportion of dreams are the results of trouble, worry and excitement. His theory that "the many dreams we dream" are but the results of waves of thought across the brain he thus aptly illustrates from an experiment.

"While one watched the sleepers and the other the clock, the third loudly slammed the door about ten feet away; the effect was almost instantaneous, the man sprang up at the sound, looked around in alarm, and then exclaimed: 'Thank God that it was only a dream.'" It seems that he had dreamed of being on a crowded street in front of a building which the people about him pronounced unsafe, but that he still lingered near the toppling wreck. Then he tried to elbow his way through the crowd to a place of safety. But the people jeered and laughed and held him fast. He begged, coaxed, threatened and entreated, still they held him, till the building fell and the shock broke the spell. He must have dreamed the entire dream in a second, yet it seemed to him that he was in danger as long as half an hour before the final awakening scene was enacted. To put the thought-flash theory beyond dispute many experiments were indulged in. Sometimes a weight was let drop, a chair struck or the blinds slammed. In every instance the sleeper had dreamed of some startling adventure.—St. Louis Republic.

HARD ON THE FEET.

Washington Pavements Cripple Visitors from the Rural Districts.

"Washington is rather a peculiar city in one respect," said Dr G. A. White, chiropodist. "Of all the cities in the world perhaps not one is so hard on the feet, especially of visitors. The asphalt pavements and brick sidewalks are very nice, but it is not long before their combined influence compel people to limp from painful feet when they come here. I have known thousands of people to come to Washington from all parts of the world and here it is that they have the first trouble with their feet. People who come here from the rural districts can tramp over the streets of this city but a few weeks before corns and bunions begin to make themselves felt.

"The members of the Chinese legation some time ago had a very unpleasant experience with American shoes and Washington streets. Wishing to conform to our customs to some extent, the entire legation ordered shoes of a fashionable style and began wearing them. They had never known what it was to be bothered with painful feet, but after they had made the change in their footgear every one of them had their first experience with corns and bunions."

"Who are some of the prominent men who have had troublesome feet?"

"General Grant had to seek a chiropodist. So did Garfield and Colonel Ingersoll. The latter two were very heavy men, which tended to cause foot troubles."

"What are the chief causes of tender feet?"

"Tight shoes, hard pavements and industry. There is a constant increase of such troubles from the fact that this city is becoming more and more a fashionable center, and a small shoe is as much a necessity for some people, according to their own ideas, as it is to have their clothes cut in the latest style. Then there is no city in the world where so much walking is done as in this. Many people walk miles here, when they would not go a square in any other place on foot. The attraction of our beautiful streets and city lures them out for exercise, when they would take a car or a carriage in any other place. They might take all the exercise they do now, and even more, without foot troubles, if they would but make themselves comfortable with shoes that are large enough."—Washington Post.

THE REAL GENTLEMAN.

Wherein He Differs from the Snob and the Parvenu.

To a sensible woman a gentleman ought to be the equal of any one that wears a title, no matter what his rank or what his nation. To be a thorough gentleman is to be that which neither money nor estates nor insignia can buy. It is peculiarly a birthright. It is inherited in the blood and sure to make its appearance, even under the most unpropitious conditions.

There is a sort of false gentility that is soon acquired and is affected by the snobs and the parvenus that have suddenly acquired riches. But this is a very cheap device in comparison with the genuine article. No one can be deceived by the counterfeit, because the mark of a real gentleman does not alone consist of entering a drawing-room gracefully or of making a bow in the proper form. These accomplishments may be necessary in order to help one to fix his position in polite society, but they are really nothing compared to those graces of mind, manner and morals that a true gentleman is sure to possess.

A good definition of a real gentleman is one that adheres closely to the spirit of the wise utterances of the Saviour: "Therefore, all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them." A strict following of this golden precept is infinitely better for the individual and society than all the finished bowings and scrapings under the sun.—Baltimore Sun.

Mary had a little lamb, its fleece was white as snow; it strayed away one summer day where lambs should never go. Then Mary sat her down and tears streamed from her eyes; she never found the lamb, because she did not advertise. And Mary had a brother John, who kept a village store; he sat down and smoked his pipe and watched the open door. And as the people passed along and did not stop to buy, John still sat down and smoked his pipe and blinked his sleepy eye. And so the sheriff closed him out, but still he lingered near, and Mary came to drop with him a sympathetic tear. "How is it, sister, can you tell why—other merchants here sell all their goods and do so well and thrive from year toyear?" Re membering now her own bad luck, the little maid replies: "These other fellows get there, John, because they advertise."

JOINED THE BRIGANDS.

Adventures of a Detroit Judge and Sportsman in Sunny Italy.

A strange story of adventure, occurring under the most peculiar circumstances, can be got by the novelist from the life of Judge Longworth, so well known in Detroit as a lover of aquatic sport and as the owner of the yacht Minx.

The judge's travels took him to Italy, says the Detroit News. Once there his attention was attracted to the brigands who still infest the country of hand-organs and unrivaled sunsets. He at once conceived the novel idea of joining some band of these freebooters and from this vantage-point studying the character of those whose real identity had been obscured if not lost in the long-maintained environment of legend, story and song. For one of the judge's nature, to conceive was to act. He sought out the leader of a widely-known band, declared himself a freebooter of the deepest dye, and by his inimitable grace of act and language won the heart of the chief marauder. He was received under the prestige of an indorsement that was more to the brigands than any claim of law or morals.

For two months the judge did more to enliven the mountain fastnesses than all the rest of the merry outlaws combined. His stories were the best, his courtly manners the beau ideal of cultivated lawlessness. His hand was incapable of outrage or crime, and it is a part of this true revelation that had the judge remained much longer a member of the band it would have become impoverished. He deftly managed to acquire a virtual leadership, and saved many a traveler from paying the toll so ruthlessly demanded by the bandits. He could shoot better than any of his self-chosen companions, was their superior in every thing that attracts even those who lack the qualities and abilities admired.

All of the band looked upon him as a peculiar good fortune bestowed by some kindly deity of lucky chance or fate, and his advice was accepted where that of others would have been violently resented. To his associates he was the prince of good fellows, and not one suspected that his sole purpose was to study the Italian bandit in life and learn by intimate association just who and what he was. For eight weeks he was a happy, rollicking bandit, and when his purpose was accomplished he was guilty of a well-managed desertion, for bandits, like a certain type of office-holders, may die, but they can never resign. He got out of the mountains and out of Italy.

HUMOROUS.

—Hooker Crook (to chum)—"So you've been getting married during my absence—who was best man?" Hen Peck (sorrowfully)—"Maria."—Time.

—Waiter (at the club)—"There is a lady outside who says that her husband promised to be home early to-night." All (rising)—"Excuse me a moment."—Boston Budget.

—Van Walker—"Ah, old man, bought a new horse?" Van Rider—"Yes; spirited creature, don't you think so?" Van Walker—"He is certainly a rum-looking beast."—Munsey's Weekly.

—Noisy Man (on railroad train, going west)—"Yes, siree, Bob. The place for the World's Fair of 1892 is Chicago, and don't you forget it!" Quiet Man (in seat behind, as conductor enters)—"Conductor, does this train stop at Chicago?"—N. Y. Weekly.

—"Why have you such a complicated lock on your front door? A burglar can get in just as easily with that as he could with a simpler contrivance." "That's very true. Any burglar can get in, but woe be unto him when he tries to get out. Why, it takes me four minutes to unfasten that door from the inside."—N. Y. Sun.

—Managing Editor—"Did you pay the artist who illustrated that great poem, 'Christmas Chimes,' on your first page?" Secretary—"Yes, sir. Sent him a check for $250." "Good. How much did you pay the engraver?" "I sent him $75." "Yes. Is any money left?" "About seventeen cents." "Very well; send it to the man who wrote the poem."—Philadelphia Record.

—Traveler—"See here, my friend, I noticed the way you threw that trunk around and smashed in four sides of it."—Baggage Smasher—"Well, wot of it? A feller ain't got no time to handle de trunks wid gloves." Traveler—"Oh, that's all right; only I would like to make some arrangement with you. I am a trunk manufacturer, and business is a little slack just now."—America.

—Smith—"I am sorry, Jones, that I can't offer you any thing to drink." Jones—"Never mind me; it's a good idea not to keep it in the house." "But I do keep it in the house as a general thing, but Parson Purewater, my wife's uncle, a Prohibitionist lecturer, is visiting us, and—" "I see. You don't want to shock his sensibilities." "It ain't that; he drinks it all up. The last drop went last night after his lecture."—Texas Siftings.

—Brown—"How is it you are such a favorite everywhere you go?" White—"Oh, that's easy enough. Whenever any thing pleasant happens to me I keep it to myself, so as to make nobody envious; but all my miseries and misfortunes I tell to every body who will hear me, and you can't imagine how happy they make every body I tell them to. They say, you know, that misery loves company. I don't know how that is, but company loves misery, every time."—Boston Transcript.

LITTLE WAX MATCHES.

Made in Mexico by Girls Who Work for Twelve Cents a Day.

George Morrison, formerly connected with the Mexican Central railroad, told me some interesting facts yesterday concerning the little boxes of wax matches which the small boys push under the nose of every man that gets off an "L" train at a down-town station.

"Those matches," he said, "are nearly all made in Mexico, and so cheaply that, after paying heavy duty, cigar dealers and others sell them at the cheap rate you see. In Mexico they sell at the rate of two boxes for one cent. There are about fifty matches in a box, and considering the care required in their preparation, this cheapness is wonderful. The body of the match is made with a cotton wick and wax, like a paraffine candle, with a colored mixture of phosphorus at one end for ignition. But this is not all the work. The little boxes, holding fifty of the matches, are complicated affairs, consisting of two peculiarly-prepared pasteboard cases, fastened together with rubber, with gay little pictures on both sides. These matches are made by Mexican girls at about twelve and one-half cents a day, and the machinery in the manufactories is what we would call decidedly crude and unsatisfactory. How they make any money off of them, or even get a living, is more than I can tell. But the little dealers seem to thrive by selling them at three boxes for a nickel. That does not bring them into much competition with our own manufacturers, and I guess none but smokers buy them."—N. Y. Star.

—Graduate (to critic, who has been looking over his essay)—"What do you think of it?" Critic—"Well, the first time I read it I was favorably impressed, the second time less so and after the third perusal I put it down as bosh." Graduate—"That's all right, then. I've only got to read it once, you know."—Lawrence American.

Foot ball players are reminded of the general practice on Queen's park tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. The match with Victoria comes off next Saturday and the team will require some practice in the meantime.

The students of St. Louis college celebrated St. Patrick's Day last night in good style. The band was brought into requisition and played a number of appropriate airs, and a very enjoyable evening was spent by the lads in commemorating the day.

A palace cattle car came in on the Pacific express yesterday afternoon, bringing 17 head of magnificent Clydesdale horses consigned to parties on the Delta. The animals come from Paisley, Ont., and are exceptionally fine in every way. They were taken down to Ladners Landing on the steamer Yosemite.

Mr. Vernon N. Johnson, travelling secretary for the Young Men's Christian Association of the Pacific Northwest, arrived on the late evening train yesterday. An informal reception was held in the association parlor immediately upon his arrival, at which thirty ladies and gentlemen were present. Mr. Johnson reports that there will be forty delegates to the conference from Victoria, Vancouver and Nanaimo.

George Francis Train, the world renowned crank, sailed on the SS. Abyssina to-day for Japan, the first objective point on his great trip round the world. The trip is being made at the expense of the people of Tacoma, who are axious to advertise the city by drawing attention to it through the medium of this generally known and most eccentric individual, Train. There is a fair possibility that Train will kick over the traces before many days, and return home without completing the trip.

The second of the new colonist cars arrived on Sunday. These cars are sumptuously furnished, the upholstering being in maroon, and are provided with all the conveniences of a first class sleeper, porter included, with only an additional cost of $2.50 to Montreal. They contain closets, wash-rooms, cooking range, smoking room, etc., etc. These will add greatly to the excellent accommodation previously furnished by the C. P. R., and will more than ever popularise the road with the travelling public.—News-Advertiser.

The Mendelssohn Quintette Club give one of their delightful concerts at Hering's Opera House on Friday evening. The Buffalo Express says: The Mendelssohn Quintette Club stands for thorough excellence in ensemble playing. The Club won another triumph last night that was richly deserved. The indisposition of Mr. Ryan caused a change in the programme, Mr. Ohliger playing a violin solo in admirable style, instead of the former's clarionet number. The cello playing of Max Droge was one of the first order and highly artistic, and won hearty applause.

A Serious Accident Averted.

What might have proved a very serious mishap to the local train last night was most luckily averted by the thoughtfulness of a man, whose name could not be learned to-day. A horse being hitched to a vehicle somewhere near the station was startled by a passing object, and dashed madly up Front street, taking the middle of the track all the way. On reaching the trestle work opposite the Woolen Mills its legs slipped between the timbers, leaving the animal in a perfectly helpless condition, unable to rise and move out of the way of the approaching train. The man above mentioned saw the plight the horse had got into and instantly realized the danger to the train and its precious cargo of humanity. Without the loss of a moment he rushed into Mr. H. Harvey's store and picking up a lighted lamp ran down the track and signalled the train to stop. He was just in time for the train had rounded the curve and was approaching at a rapid rate of speed when the engineer saw the signal. The air brakes were quickly applied and the train came to a standstill a few yards from the unfortunate animal. By the aid of a rope and the assistance of many strong arms the horse was pulled from its uncomfortable and dangerous position and removed fromt he track and the train proceeded on its way.

Salmon Fishing.

The boat sent out by W. H. Vianen yesterday afternoon succeeded in capturing eight fine salmon in the course of an hour. To-day some twelve boats went out, and at latest reports all had met with fair success. The fish caught yesterday were perfect beauties and of proper color. In weight they averaged from 12 to 20 lbs, rather smaller than the general run of spring salmon, but the fishermen are pleased all the same, as they consider that small fish bode well for a large run. The salmon bring a good price at present and if the run is fairly large the fishermen will make excellent wages. Mr. Vianen will commence shipping to Winnipeg, Montreal and other eastern cities in a few days. Messrs. D. W. Port & Co. are also preparing to ship largely to Toronto.

Solid Improvements.

The improvements contemplated by the Park committee, and sanctioned by the City Council last night, are certain to meet with the hearty support of the ratepayers in general, providing that the different works are got under way and completed without unnecessary loss of time. The committee will have two new wings added to the exhibition building in Queen's Park, which will bring the building into consonance with the original plans. A handsome fence will be placed along Park Lane, and the unsightly temporary affair now enclosing the Park will be removed. The machinery hall will be enlarged to give more room for exhibits—a very desirable change, as the present building is altogether too small. A keeper's cottage will be built and a park keeper appointed.

Moody Square is also to be taken in hand at once and the money voted for its improvement put to use. Tenders will shortly be called for clearing, stumping and grading the new park, and if work is commenced soon the grounds will be fit for use by the middle of the summer. The contract will be let in four sections in order to hasten the work and ensure it early completion. After the stumping on the Crescent is finished the ground will be levelled and nicely laid out. The Park committee has an excellent opportunity to win golden opinions in connection with these works and it is to be hoped it will deserve the applause of all cititizens when the business on hand is concluded.

POLICE COURT.

Before T. C. Atkinson, P. M.

Frank Parr celebrated St. Patrick's pay in the regular old fashioned Tipperary style, getting thoroughly and completely intoxicated. During his somewhat erratic manœuvres he fell through a shop window on Columbia street and alighted without damage to himself in a basket of eggs. The eggs suffered a great breakage and the window glass was shattered into several thousand pieces. Parr denied the charges, but the case was clearly proven and a fine of $5 and the cost of the window and eggs was imposed.

Johnny Ward, a Nanaimo Indian, was arrested yesterday for being mildly drunk. He pleaded he had just been released from the penitentiary and had honored the occasion by overdrinking. After promising to reform and lead a better life he was dismissed with a caution.

Harry, a Comox Indian, and one of the greatest reprobates unhung, was up on the old charge of being drunk and disorderly. He pleaded St. Patrick's day as an excuse, but the magistrate could not be induced to take this into consideration and fined him $5 and costs.

George T. Dunn was fined $2:50 for assaulting a Chinaman named Ah Chin.

John Columbus was charged with using obscene and blasphemeous language to a half breed woman named Mary Houston. On the woman's own evidence the defendant was exonerated of the charge. It was also proved that Mr. Columbus had only taken the part that any man would be inclined to take in a similar case. He had reproved the woman, whom he claims is not of good character, for taking a little child with her in her walks, and thereby endangering the little one's morals. The magistrate very properly dismissed the case, placing the costs of the same on the plaintiff, Mary Houston.

David Bendleton appeared before the court holding his jaws with both hands. He pleaded guilty to the charge, but said in extenuation that he had been suffering all the tortures of a horrible toothache; he had bought a 25 cent bottle of whisky to ease the pain, the liquor had gone to his head and in the delirium that followed he was taken to the police station. He declared that if allowed to go unfined this time his future conduct would be such as to make him a model among men, and for evermore he would abstain from intoxicants in each and every form. The magistrate seemed deeply affected by the defendant's harangue and was about to impose a fine payable next year, when the chief of police informed him that the clerk held $5 of Bendleton's money. On hearing this the court revived and the defendant was fined $2:50. Strange to say the moment the fine was imposed the excruciating pain seemed to leave Bendleton's tooth and a smile lighted up his face and remained playing about his handsome features until the court adjourned.

CORRESPONDENCE.

THE ANTI-CHINESE RESOLUTION MATTER.

EDITOR COLUMBIAN—Sir—Would you kindly spare us a space in your valuable paper for the following letter and reply, also the attached communication:

New Westminster, March 8th, 1890.

TO J. HARVEY, ESQ.—Sir—At the last meeting of the New Westminster Workingmen's League the following motion was put and carried:

That the secretary of this league be instructed to write to J. Harvey, Esq., and ask him upon what authority he signed the defeated resolution proposed by E. S. Scoullar, on Saturday last, and ask him for a reply by return mail.

In accordance with the above request I beg to forward you a copy of the same and hope for an early reply.

Yours truly,
A. I. MICHIE, Rec.-Sec.

New Westminster, March 11th, 1890.

DEAR SIR—I have your letter of the 8th inst. I was requested by Mr. Douglas, as seconder of the resolution to which you refer, to certify to a copy as being a copy of a resolution brought before the meeting and opposed by Mr. Cunningham, which I accordingly did in accordance with what I take to be the duty of any chairman at a public meeting; that is at the request of the mover or seconder of any resolution brought forward at any such meeting, to certify to the fact.

The only other person who spoke to me on the subject was Mr. Mackintosh, who accompanied Mr. Douglas. I remain

Yours truly,
JAMES HARVEY.

To A. J. MICHIE,
Sec'y Workingmen's League.

At the last meeting of the Workingmen's League, a hearty vote of thanks was accorded Mr. Thomas Cunningham, Mr. Beaven and others (irrespective of political standing) who voted with him on the Anti-Chinese clause in the Street Railway Bill.

A. I. MICHIE, Rec.-Sec'y.

New Westminster, March 17th, 1890.

The editorial and business offices of THE COLUMBIAN have been removed to the new Powell Block, Columbia street, where parties having business to transact with any of our departments are requested to call. Our new offices have not been completely fitted up yet, but it was deemed advisable for greater convenience to have the whole working of the establishment under one roof. *tc

CITY COUNCIL.

The City Council met at 8 o'clock last night for the transaction of business.

Present—Aldermen Smither, Johnston, McPhaden, Shiles, Sinclair, Hoy, Batchelor and Lyal.

His Worship Mayor Brown in the chair.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From W. J. Corbett, asking for permission to open up Lorne street to repair water pipes. Granted under the usual conditions.

From George Mead, asking permission to open up Royal avenue to repair water pipes. Granted under the usual conditions.

From E. Burns, asking permission to erect scaffold in front of the Bank of Montreal. Granted under the usual conditions.

From the water commissioners stating that Mr. Wilmot had had an opportunity to consult the commissioners regarding his views; also stating that the commissioners were of the opinion the city's interests were best served under the new arrangement. Received and filed.

From T. J. Forfar, asking permission to lay building material on Agnes Street. Granted under the usual conditions.

From Georgie J. C. Hall, asking for street lines and grade corner Montreal and Halifax streets. Ordered granted.

From Mrs. Gold asking permission to build approach of 1½ inch plank with underpinning for entrance to lot 3, block 34.

On motion of Ald. McPhaden, the matter was referred to the Board of Works with power to act.

From the clerk of Surrey Municipality, enclosing a copy of resolution passed re the necessity of a traffic bridge across the Fraser River opposite Westminster, and asking the Council to urge the Government to make a grant in behalf of the said bridge.

On motion of Ald. Shiles, seconded by Ald. McPhaden, the Council heartily endorsed the resolution, and the clerk was ordered to notify the Government accordingly.

From R. B. Bell, asking permission to lay building material on Columbia and Clarkson Streets. Granted under the usual conditions.

From the Chief of Police asking for a witness stand and prisoners' box for use in the police court. Referred to the police committee with power to act.

From Turnbull & Working asking permission to lay building material on Pelham street; also offering council earth for street filling. Request granted.

Ald. Hoy thought the gravel should be taken by the city as it was valuable, and moved that the board of works be authorized to move it. Carried.

From D. S. Curtis, asking for improvement on Armstrong street.

Ald. Hoy said the street was in a filthy condition and required immediate attention.

Ald. Shiles agreed with the last speaker, and on motion the matter was referred to the board of works with power to act.

From Samuel Woods, president of the New Westminster Electric Supply and Construction Co., asking permission to contract and place electric wires and motor wires; to place poles on the streets for carrying the same; and to be allowed to do all incidental work necessary to the company's business.

Ald. Shiles said he did not understand this application.

His Worship said it looked as if the company was applying to the city for a charter instead of the legislature.

Ald. Johnson said it was simply a manufacturing concern.

Mr. Galbraith, one of the promoters, explained the intentions and objects of the company to the Council.

On motion the Mayor appointed Alderman McPhaden, Shiles and Johnson a committee to investigate the application.

From Joseph Burr offering to build a sidewalk opposite his lots on Cunningham streets if the city will supply the material.

From W. J. Armstrong offering to build the sidewalk opposite his lots on Cunningham street if the city will furthe material.

Ald. Shiles moved that these requests be granted under the supervision of the board of works.

REPORTS.

The Health Committee reported recommending that the pound building be erected on the vacant lot at the rear of the new fire hall on Royal avenue; also that the Chinese ranch complained of at Sapperton had been inspected and found to be in perfect order, there being only two hogs there.

Ald. Hoy said the Government would not allow the city to use the reserve for a pound. At any rate the site for the pound had already been fixed on, lot 18, block 6.

Ald. McPhaden did not think the Government would object, and he thought the Royal avenue site would be more central and convenient tn the general public.

Ald. Hoy said it was evident Ald. McPhaden wanted the pound at some distance from his ranch, but there were a lot of cows down there that the pound would catch.

Ald. McPhaden—The cow that climbed the apple tree. (Laughter).

Ald. Hoy moved that the report be changed to read that the buildings be erected on the site originally fixed.

Ald. Batchelor moved in amendment that the original report be adopted.

His Worship said it seemed that when the cow got into the Council with the crumpled horn it generally raised a considerable rumpus.

Ald. Batchelor's motion was declared out of order.

The motion to adopt the report as amended was defeated, and the report was referred back to the committee to report on at next meeting.

The Finance Committee recommended that the accounts of A. J. McColl and W. Norman Bole, for trip to Tacoma, be referred back to those gentlemen, there being no records in possession of the Council to show that they had been appointed to perform such mission. Report adopted.

The Finance Committee recommended payment of the following accounts, which were ordered paid: Geo. H. Grant, $5,-75; D. A. McDonald, $349; R. Jamieson, $134.50.

The park committee reported recommending that work be immediately commenced on Queen's park; that two wings should be added to the building and that the ground in front of the building be properly graded; that the track on the east corner be put in good condition; that a good fence be erected on Park lane and the rear fence to be extended to the east line; that an addition to machinery hall be built, and a caretaker's dwelling erected; that a suitable person be employed as park keeper to look after the grounds and lay them out properly; that tenders be called at once for clearing and grading Moody square, and that the contract be let in four parts; that work on the crescent is progressing favorably. On motion the report was adopted with the understanding that $500 of the amount at disposal should be held back and not expended.

Moved by Ald. Hoy, seconded by Ald. Shiles, that the board of works be authorized to proceed with the filling in of Pelham street from Edinburgh to the river, 16 feet wide; the material for the same to be taken from city lot 18, block 6; also that the balance of work on the McLennan and Loney contract be finished, and that the material taken from the cuts be put on Queen's avenue between Fortesque and Edinburgh streets. Carried.

On motion tenders were ordered to be called for grading the street through St. Andrews block, and the new street between Douglas and John street.

The streets conveyance By-law was read in committee, and finally passed.

The Sanitary By-law was read clause by clause in committee.

The Council then adjourned.

ROYAL
POWDER
Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER Co., 106 Wall St., New York. dfe8y1
