COLUMBIAN SUPPLEMENT.

VOLUME VIII. NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C., JUNE 25, 1890. WED NUMBER 122.

FUN FOR EVERYBODY.

REGISTRAR OF VOTERS—"How old are you, madame?" Female—"I have seen nineteen summers, sir." Registrar—"Er, how long have you been blind?"

"THOMAS, spell 'weather,'" said the master. "W-i-a-e-t-h-i-a-e-r, weather." "You may sit down, Thomas; you've given us the worst spell of weather we've had this year."

STOUT MAN (in something of a hurry)—"I'll give you five dollars to get me to the station in three minutes." Cabman (with provoking slowness)—"Well, sor, you might corrupt me, but you can't bribe that horse."

A MAINE man told his wife he was going to Asusangwatousogamagogwongtongowa fishing, and got all his friends to go to his house and ask where he was. When he returned the poor woman was so exhausted she couldn't speak for a week.

A POST-MORTEM examination revealed in the stomach of a bull terrier that died suddenly several yards of string, burned matches and a cigarette-holder. The cigarette-smoking youth appears to have been thoroughly digested, but it is rather strange that a few buttons were not also found.

A CLERGYMAN preached several sermons from the text: "Peter's wife's mother lay sick of a fever." One morning the church bell tolled, and the minister asked the servant who was dead. The man replied that he believed it was Peter's wife's mother, as she had been sick for a long time.

"PERHAPS," said a fresh young man, as he plumped himself down on the sofa between the two giddy girls, "perhaps you were discussing some choice secret?" "Oh, no," said one of them, "I was just saying to Minnie that 'nothing should separate us,' but really I didn't expect it to happen so soon." And the beating of his own heart was all the sound he heard.

MR. DE DREAMER—"I couldn't help running in to see what all this scandalous talk about you means. It was reported at the Faith Cure Society last evening that a doctor, a regular doctor, was seen leaving your house yesterday afternoon." Mr. de Faith—"It is true." Mr. de Dreamer—"True? You, who were cured only last month of rheumatism, dropsy, pneumonia, consumption and paralysis, sending out for a doctor." Mr. de Faith—"I had to do it. It's a boil this time."

A POET asks—"What are the dreams of the days gone by?" The poet has no business to ask such foolish questions. They are gone, irrevocably gone. You can't put up dreams like you can bottle ketchup or can preserves. You have to get all the good you can out of a dream while it is on tap. That's the time to enjoy dreams. Then when the dreams are gone by, if the poet hankers after more, let him eat a mince pie or some pickled tripe before going to bed, and he can secure a new, fresh batch of dreams with no trouble at all.

QUEER CRIMINALS.

IN 1266 a pig was burned at Fontenay aux Roses, near Paris, for having eaten a child.

IN 1386 a judge at Falaise condemned a sow to be mutilated and hanged for eating a child.

IN 1389 a horse was solemnly tried before the magistrate and condemned to death for having killed a man.

IN 1694, during the witch persecutions in New England, a dog exhibited such strange symptoms of affliction that he was believed to have been ridden by a warlock, and he was accordingly hanged.

"CRIMINAL" animals frequently expiated their offenses, like other malefactors, on the gallows, but subsequently they were summarily killed without trial and their owners mulcted in heavy damages.

DURING the fourteenth century oxen and cows might be legally killed whenever taken in the act of marauding, and asses for a first offense had one ear cropped, for a second offense the other ear, and if after this they were asses enough to commit a third offense their lives became forfeit to the Crown.

IN the fifteenth century cocks were somewhat credited with the power of laying accursed eggs, from which sprang winged serpents. In 1474, at Bale, a cock was publicly accused of having laid one of those dreadful eggs. He was tried, sentenced to death, and together with his egg was burned by the executioner in the market-place, amid a great concourse of people.

Bullfrog Battle in Japan.

A strange battle is reported to have taken place in Tokio. A stream runs through the compound of Tobukuji Temple at Sugamo, and a few days ago some hundreds of bullfrogs gathered on either bank. Then a terrific battle ensued, lasting from nine a. m. to four p. m., and it is stated that, when the combat was finished, the brook was blocked to such an extent with the bodies of the slain that the course of the water was almost totally impeded. Large numbers of people have visited the place to witness the strange spectacle.

—Belinda — "I see that Clara has taken to sending liberal donations to the hospitals and asylums." Annabel—"Yes, you see she has every thing she could possibly want, she has not a wish ungratified, so she is going in for self-denial and giving to the poor."—Amer.
