NOTES AND COMMENTS.

America says: Robert J. Burdette declares that, though he writes continually for the Sunday papers, he has not read one for four years. He has not suffered by this neglect, as nothing is more detrimental to the moral, mental, and spiritual improvement of the American people than the Sunday sheets, which poison the mind with sensational trash and stutitify the taste for good reading. If there were not a Sunday paper in the country, more than four pages in size, it would be a blessing to the American nation. In England there are no Sunday papers, except professedly immoral sheets, whose circulation is confined to the slums, but the English have the Spectator, the Athenæum, the Saturday Review, the St. James's Gazette, and a score of similar publications, which are elevated in tone and instructive in contents. Sunday papers, such as we have, are a bane to civilization, and if there were a law to forbid their circulation, the country would be better off.

The Sackville incident has brought forth from the instructive past a number of similar episodes. One is that William Henry Harrison, who was appointed by Present Quincy Adams to represent the United States in Columbia, was recalled on the ground of diplomatic indiscretion, he having written a letter to General Simon Bolivar, then at the height of his power, urging him not to accept the office of dictator. The people at home were indignant at Harrison's recall. They thought then, as many United States citizens think now, that one of their ministers abroad can do as he pleases, while a foreign minister at Washington may be brought to book for a private letter written in strict confidence. The Washington Star wonders that this case of Harrison was not referred to before, but we do not. The fact is that the notions of treatment of friendly foreign nations held by the United States government need a thorough overhauling and reconstruction.

The American Analyst thus sums a baker's profits, or what a barrel of flour is worth when made into bread. A baker will toss a barrel of flour into a trough. Then he tosses 104 pounds of water on top. A quantity of yeast is added, and then the jolly baker has 300 pounds of dough to operate on. The 300 pounds cost him $5. In short order the dough is turned into "twists," high loaves, pan loaves, and other styles of the same quantity. The oven's heat reduces the 300 pounds of dough to 260 pounds of bread. The baker sells his bread at the rate of four cents a pound, or at an advance of over 30 per cent over what it cost him. There are 1,400 bakers, great and small, in New York, and to them is committed the trust of supplying bread for 1,300,000 persons. There are many bakers in the city who make 1,300 loaves of bread per day and sell it for from $80 to $150, or at a net profit of $40. Little money is lost in the business, and most bakers do a cash trade. It is very seldom that bakers fail. The business is steady, reliable, and attended by a very few risks, unless incompetent workmen.

An exchange says: The failure of the Nile flood this year has been fancifully attributed to engineering operations of the Mahdi's successor. It has been alleged that the Soudanese may have deflected the course of the Albara River, which usually pours into the Nile a great flood from the Abyssinian mountains. But the low Nile flood can be much more reasonably accounted for. The rush of water down the Albara may have been less than usual, or the equatorial rains which supply the White Nile may have failed, like the rain in some parts of India. Or several of the great feeders of the Nile may have been dammed back by growths of weeds and rushes. In 1863 the White Nile was thus obstructed. Two years later Sir Samuel Baker found a dam of vegetable growth three-quarters of a mile wide and on a level with the surrounding country. In 1874 this was cut away by Egyptian engineers. In 1878 many bars across the equatorial rivers were created by unusually high floods, and communication between the upper and lower reaches of the Nile was not restored till 1880. The presumption is that the floods of 1887 established bars that block the descent of the water of this year, just as the flood of 1878 created dams that made low water in 1879. The water that should have come down the Nile probably lies in great lakes over the Bahr-el-Gazel swamps. This may account for the long lack of news from Stanley and Emin Bey.

Dyspepsia and Indigestion is caused by the want of action in the biliary ducts, loss of vitality in the stomach to secret the gastric juices, without which digestion cannot go on; also being the principal cause of headache. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills taken before going to bed, for a while, never fail to give relief and effect a cure. Mr. W. F. Ashdown, Ashdown, Ont., writes: "Parmelee's Pills are taking the lead against ten other makes which I have in stock."

The Manitoba legislature spent Tuesday afternoon in discussing the address in reply to the speech from the throne. Colclough made the opening speech and was followed by Greenway Norquay and Sifton.

BLAINE WILL ACCEPT.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—The Press says this morning: News comes to this city in semi-official way that Gen. Harrison has determined to invite Blaine to a seat in his cabinet and that the Maine statesman will accept.

TO BE INCORPORATED.

MONTPELIER, Vt., Nov. 15.—The governor has approved the bill incorporating the Nicaragua Maritime Canal Company.

DEAD.

NORWICH, Conn., Nov. 15.—Lorenzo Blackston, millionaire cotton manufacturer, is dead, aged 69.

A GOOD SHOWING.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 15.—T. K. Stateler, local representative of the Northern Pacific, has received from Chas. S. Fee, general passenger agent of that line, a statement, just compiled, which shows a phenomenal increase in the earnings of the company this year as contrasted with 1887. For nine months, ended Sept. 30th, the road made gross earnings of $12,160,340, while during the same period in 1887 it earned but $9,357, 525. Oct. earnings, not included in this statement, show an increase of $544,013 over the same of last year.

UNSETTLED YET.

BROOKLYN, Nov. 15.—The car strike is still unsettled. The company this morning attempted to run a few cars when the strikers appeared in a body and overturned trucks and ash-barrels on the rails. A strong body of police dispersed the mob. No arrests were made. The company meanwhile postponed running the cars. A riot is feared.

HANGED.

WATERLOO, N.Y., Nov. 15.—Chas. Johnson was hanged here this morning for murdering Turnkey John Watters on January 20th, '88, while attempting to break jail. Johnson died firmly, protesting his innocence.

CHAMBERLAIN MARRIED.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15. — Joseph Chamberlain, M.P. of Birmingham, and Mary Endicott, daughter of Endicott, secretary of war, were married in St. John's Protestant Episcopalian church, at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Rev. W. A. Leonard, of Washington, assisted by Rev. J. R. Franks, of Salem, Mass., officiated. Despite the bad weather the church was crowded. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland, members of the cabinet, and their families and many officers of the army and navy, and Justices Lamar and Gray of the supreme court.

A DENIAL.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Herr Most denies that the anarchists contemplate a rising all over the world on the 14th of next July, as stated by Inspector Bonfield, of Chicago.

CHEATED THE GALLOWS.

LOS ANGELES, Cala., Nov. 15.—It is stated this morning that Frietz Anchalag, murderer of the Hitchcock couple, who was to have been hanged to-morrow and who suicided in his cell early this morning, obtained the poison by use of which he cheated the gallows from a cell mate named Wolff who is also charged with murder. Wolff became very intimate with Anschalag while in the cell with him, and as he is a druggist by profession and Anschalag had a little money at the time, there appears to be no doubt that he sold the poison to him. All day yesterday Anschalag professed to be resigned to his fate and declared to the jailers that he had given up all hope and would die like a man. He completely deceived the jailers and none of them had any suspicion that he would attempt suicide. He seemed to take the greatest interest in the preparations for his hanging and was eager to make a good appearance on the scaffold.

GRIFFIN'S ANTECEDENTS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 15.—Dr. G. Hamilton Griffin, who is being tried in Victoria for alleged threats against the life of Hon. Robt. Dunsmuir, has a very unsavory record. He came from England and his first operations were in London, Ont. He bought a hotel on time, sold out and pocketed the proceeds. He was arrested three times for various swindles and served six months in jail. In San Francisco he pretended to be agent for a railway guide, and collected money for advertisements which never appeared. In Los Angeles he was accused of selling property that was not placed in his hands, and even of inducing eastern tourists to buy lots which existed only on his bogus maps. His embezzlements footed up to a large sum and he was arrested finally on complaint of some of his victims. He gave bail and then left this place and his whereabouts remained a mystery until his arrest in Victoria.

C. P. R. EXTENSION.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—The Star is an authority for the statement this morning that the C. P. R. Co. is pushing the construction of its line westward from London, Ont., toward Komoka with, it is believed, the ultimate intention of entering Detroit. Meantime it is surmised that the Canadian Pacific may ultimately buy the Grand Trunk line from Komoka to Detroit.

A FOOL AND A PISTOL.

WATERLOO, Ia., Nov. 16.—At Hawveyville last night Stephen Franks shot his fiance, Miss Carrie Love, because she refused to consent to a speedy marriage. Franks then shot himself. Both are seriously, though, it is believed not fatally wounded.

A DISHONORED GRAVE.

ANNVILLE, Pa., Nov. 16.—The body of the murderer Showers, who was hanged at Lebanon for killing his two grand-children, was brought into town late last night and immediately taken to the grave, followed by a jeering mob of old neighbors, and buried by the light of a lantern by the side of his victims. There were no mourners and no ceremonies, and the crowd threw stons at the coffin.

CAR STRIKE ENDED.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—The strike on the Brooklyn street car lines was declared at an end at 1 o'clock this morning. It is said that both sides have made concessions.

ALEXANDER ACQUITTED.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 16.—The second trial of J. E. Alexander, bookkeeper, who shot and killed Louis S. Cravens, March 6th last, during a quarrel, resulted in Alexander's acquittal last night.

SHIPPING NOTES.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov 16.—Sailed; ship Levi S. Burgess, Seattle; steamers Ajax, Coos Bay; Walla Walla, Victoria. The following are the passengers in the Walla Walla for Victoria: Miss M Gale, J McKay and wife, C E Redfern, Miss M Smith, J Golden, wife and daughter, A Barnes, Mrs H C Wilmot, and O H Goodwin.

TERRITORIAL SYSTEM TO BE WOUND UP.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 16.—The Examiner, democratic, in an editorial this morning headed "Let them come in" says: "One of the duties that congress cannot put off much longer is admission of most of the remaining territories as states. The matter has been treated from a political point of view too long. It is simply a question of justice, and no other consideration should have any weight. It is time to consider whether we may not at once get rid of almost our whole territorial system. Washington, Dakota, Montana, New Mexico, Arizona, Wyoming and Idaho have at least 100,000 inhabitants each and they have resources which make it certain that they will never be rotten boroughs.

THE PERUVIAN AFFAIR.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Assistant Secretary of State Rivers says that the department has received no further information regarding the Peruvian complications at Mollendo. He is of the opinion that it will not amount to very much, and thinks the United States legation there were of the same opinion or they would have cabled. Further news is expected by letter.

WHEAT.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 16.—Wheat quiet; buyer 161½; season, 171¾

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Wheat steady; Nov., 109½; Dec., 110¾; Jan., 113⅞; May, 118¾.

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—Wheat steady; Dec., 112⅞; Jan., 111¼; May, 114⅜.

A REIGN OF TERROR.

OZARK, Mo., Nov. 16.—Lynching of the five witnesses against Dave Walker, the leader of the Bald Knobbers yesterday, has created a reign of terror throughout the country. Sheriff Williams has gone to the scene of the murders with a large posse of men, and says he will hunt down the perpetrators of the deed, if it is possible.

GALES AND WRECKS.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—Violent gales are reported along the west coast of Great Britain. Numerous wrecks have occurred.

LATE DESPATCHES.

TALK OF WAR.

PARIS, Nov. 10.—In reply to a criticism upon war bulletins in the chamber of deputies to-day, M. Freycinet insisted that all hopes of helping it were in vain. Even necessary preparations for war required exceptional effort in order to insure the defence of the country. A great nation must maintain its honor. [Cheers.] Nobody was surprised that France desires to secure her independence in the face of all Europe.

M. Freycinet's remarks were greatly applauded.

BRUTAL TREATMENT OF THE G. O. M.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone made a journey from Birmingham to Wolverhampton in a carriage drawn by four horses. They were heartily cheered along the route. On arriving at Wolverhampton, Gladstone proceeded to the drill hall, where he received a number of addresses. In replying he was repeatedly interrupted, the disorder finally culminating in an uproar that compelled him to abruptly close his remarks. Great confusion followed, the crowd making a rush and demolishing the benches that separated the members of the press from the public. Stewards guarded the private door by which Gladstone left the hall. The ex premier proceeded to the railway station, the platform of which was closely guarded, and started for Oxford. At Snowhill the crowd that had gathered groaned and hooted. At Lemington the former mayor of the town welcomed Gladstone and his wife and presented Mrs. Gladstone with a bouquet. At Banbury he received a similar welcome. At Oxford the crowd, which was composed largely of undergraduates, groaned and hooted at Gladstone as he was driven to the residence of the warden.

TURCO GERMAN-AMERICAN TREATY.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 10.—Negotiations for a Turco-German-American treaty have been concluded and the draft of the convention has been submitted to the sultan.

ROUGH WEATHER AT SEA.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Unusually rough weather at sea during the past two weeks has delayed all incoming steamers. A dense fog overspreads the lower bay. Up to noon not a passenger vessel was sighted. A dozen steamships are one to three days overdue.

SCRAMBLE FOR OFFICE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—A Washington dispatch says: It is understood that both Whitelaw Reid and Murat Halstead are candidates for foreign missions. Mr. Reid has long aspired to represent the United States at the court of St. James, and Mr. Halstead wants to go to Germany.

SENATOR GORMAN'S OPINION.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Senator Gorman states that in his talk with the president yesterday he told the latter that no explanation could hide the real reason of his defeat. The republican party had won a fair victory. He frankly told the president that his tariff reform and civil service reform schemes had beaten the democratic party.

Work on the Portage extension railway has been suspended by the government, owing to the opposition of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Attorney-General Martin left for Ottawa to argue the crossing case before the supreme court.

The contract for the construction of Sault Ste. Marie canal has been awarded to Hugh Ryan & Bro., of Toronto and Brockville, the price being $1,200,000. M. J. Haney & Co. are connected with Ryan in the contract.

PARNELL COMMISSION.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—In the Parnell Commission to-day Lady Mountmorris, whose husband was murdered at Clonbar, County Galway, in 1880, testified that a friendly feeling existed between her husband and the tenants on the Ebor Hall estates at Clonbar until the land league began to hold meetings there. In July 1880 her husband obtained a writ of ejectment against a tenant, and the following September, while the witness was in Scotland, her husband was shot. She went to Ireland to attend the funeral, she heard the men refused to assist in putting the coffin in the hearse. The witness left Ebor Hall in October. While on her way to the steamer the people laughed at her and stones were thrown at her eight year old son. Her husband received threatening notices only after the league meetings had been held. Sir Charles Russell was proceeding to cross-examine Lady Mountmorris when she fainted. Sir Charles thereupon would not proceed any further in the cross-examination.

LATE CANADIAN NEWS.

John Burt, Grand Trunk engineer, was crushed to death Thursday.

Friday Evening, Nov. 16, 1888.

From reports of several miners who came down on the Idaho on her last trip, says the West Shore for October, it would seem that it is a waste of time and energy for miners to go to the Yukon placers. These miners, the first to return this season, report mining on Forty Mile Creek as fair, though many places are worked out. The most paid yet by any one claim in the Yukon region was on Hamilton bar, where $1,200 were taken out by sluicing in three days running, night and day shift. Many miners have made nothing. Wages were $8 to $10 per day, flour $17 per barrel, and beans and bacon thirty cents per pound. A reported strike on Beaver Creek drew many old hands from Forty Mile Creek, and about seventy-five new arrivals, who, however, were disappointed. Gold existed on the creek, but not in paying quantities. About a hundred of these miners went down to Saint Michael's, hoping to secure passage by the revenue steamers or whaling vessels to San Francisco. Very few men are mining on Stewart river, and they with poor results. About a hundred men will winter on Forty Mile Creek. Three men died on the creek last winter of scurvey. Two men were drowned in the White Horse canyon, Yukon river, during the spring. An Indian killed a white prospector at a point far down the river, and white miners on the way to St. Michael's stopped at the village, demanded a young Indian, and after being assured of his guilt, hanged him. The Indians, as a general thing, are peaceable. It would seem that the results of the brief season in that region, even to the lucky few, do not compensate for the hardships and expense, while the great majority of miners there have nothing whatever to show for their season's work.

The marriage of Mr. Joseph Chamberlain and Miss Mary Endicott, which took place yesterday at Washington, D. C., has called the attention of the English press to the fact that the American girls are waltzing off with all the British lords and other first-class eligibles right before the eyes of the home-bred Saxon beauties. If one is to judge by the expressions of the press, the English people are beginning to view this state of things with alarm and a measure of indignation. It is alleged that the English girl is the better article of the two, but that the fair American, having more of an eye to business, succeeds in capturing British masculinity, titles and estates (more or less encumbered, often, but still desirable), while the rightful sharers of these things, like the "last rose of summer," are "left blooming alone." One thing that ought to reconcile the people of England somewhat to these foreign alliances is that in the majority of cases, instead of British gold being depleted thereby, it is just the reverse, and estates that have been ruined by one cause or another are quickly rehabilitated through the magic agency of the American dollar, which the fair alien pours in overflowing measure into her husband's coffers. The aristocratic stock, it is true, may be slightly watered by the infusion of republican blood; but, then, a bankrupt aristocracy must sooner or later degenerate (!) into a state of having to work for a living, and, of the two evils, an American wife with lots of greenbacks is doubtless considered the least. To a disinterested observer, this phase of international reciprocity — which has assumed almost the dimensions of a craze, and flourishes in spite of presidential campaigns, fishery disputes, and retaliation messages — promises, in time, to have a very marked effect upon the political and commercial, as well as the social relations of the two countries. History furnishes instances of national barriers broken down by the insiduous, but none the less potent, agency of intermarriages. It may be that the great question which engages some lofty minds, a united Anglo-Saxondom, is to be solved, to a great extent, in this way.

The Canadian Copyright Association, comprising booksellers, publishers, authors, printers, manufacturers, and others interested in book and periodical producing of all kinds, met at the Board of Trade rooms, Toronto, about the middle of last month, and after a full discussion of the subject prepared a draft for a new Dominion copyright act governing the reprinting in Canada of imperial copyright works, the productions of British subjects, or of the subjects of those countries that have an international copyright with Great Britain. In opening the meeting, the chairman, Mr. J. Ross Robertson, president of the association, reviewed the situation, showing that the Berne bill, which had been introduced at the last session of parliament threatened the most disastrous consequences to the book, printing and publishing interests of Canada. After its adoption every British copyright book would be copyright in Canada, without requiring manufacture in Canada (as is required by the present law) in order to secure Canadian copyright. This of itself was felt to be a most serious menace to the printing and publishing interests of the Dominion, but in addition to this the bill excludes all foreign reprints of British copyright books, throwing the Canadian market entirely into the hands of British publishers and printers. This is where the book trade and the public are deeply interested, as it is well known that the best and most popular books are issued in England at a very high price at first, and it is months, and in some cases years, before they are issued in cheap editions for the people. Haggard's books afford a good illustration of this. Many thousands of copies of "She" and "King Solomon's Mines," have been sold in Canada simply because we have been able to buy the cheap 25 cent American editions. And yet the cheapest English edition of these books today is six shillings sterling, a figure utterly beyond the pockets of the Canadian people. Section 1 of the draft bill provides that no Canadian copyright shall be issued to American authors until such time as the United States government enters into an international copyright treaty with Great Britain and Canada. Any person domiciled in Canada or in any part of the British possessions, or any citizen of any country which has an international copyright treaty with the United Kingdom, who is the author of any book, map, chart, musical composition, or of any original painting, drawing, statue, photograph, etc., shall have the sole and exclusive right, and his legal representatives also, of producing and vending such literary, scientific or artistic works in Canada for the term of twenty-eight years from the time of recording the copyright. Other sections provide that the work must be printed and published in Canada within two months after its first publication elsewhere; that any work intended to be copyrighted in Canada shall, simultaneously with its first publication elsewhere, be registered in the office of the Dominion minister of agriculture, and that, should the person or persons entitled to a copyright fail to take advantage of the act, any person domiciled in Canada may print and publish the work in question (not exclusively, however), upon registering his intention with the minister of agriculture, and agreeing to pay the author or his legal representatives a royalty of ten per cent. on the retail price of each copy sold. Matters of detail are treated of in other sections. Having a strong conviction that they are working in the interests of manufacturing industries of the Dominion, in which over five millions of dollars capital are invested, and being assured that the author is being fully protected, the promoters of the bill have no doubt but that the government will see that justice to home industries necessitates the adoption of the suggestions of the association.

THE THIN CANNOT GAIN IN WEIGHT if they are troubled with dyspepsia, because the food is not converted into the due proportion of nourishing blood which alone can furnish the elements of flesh. But there is no reason, when this wearing, attenuating disease is conquered by Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, why there should not be an appreciable gain in weight, which indeed is usually the case. It is a peerless remedy also for Constipation, Liver Complaint, Kidney troubles, and roots out all impurities from the blood.

Constipation

Is a universal and most troublesome disorder. It causes Headache, Mental Depression, impairs the Sight and Hearing, destroys the Appetite, and, when long continued, causes Enlargement of the Liver, Inflammation of the Bowels, and Piles. Constipation is speedily cured by Ayer's Pills.

For a number of months I was troubled with Costiveness, in consequence of which I suffered from Loss of Appetite, Dyspepsia, and a disordered liver. My eyes also troubled me. I was compelled to wear a shade over them, and, at times, was unable to bear exposure to the light. I was entirely three boxes of Ayer's Pills. I have no hesitation in pronouncing this medicine to be the best cathartic ever made.—James Eccles, Poland, Ohio.

I suffered from Constipation, and, consequently, from Headache, Indigestion, and Piles, for years. Ayer's Pills, which I took at the suggestion of a friend, have given me effectual relief. I commenced taking this remedy two months ago, and am now free from Constipation, the removal of which has caused my other troubles to disappear, and greatly improved my general health.—W. Keeler, Amherst, Mass.

I suffered from Constipation, which assumed such an obstinate form that I feared a stoppage of the bowels. Two boxes of Ayer's Pills cured me, completely.—D. Burke, Saco, Me. ††

TAKE CARE.

Take care of the pennies,
For, know, they are seeds,
No matter how few they may be;
If prudently planted,
In time they will grow
To a thrifty and beautiful tree.

Take care of the minutes,
The jewels of time,
Life's sweet opportunities given;
Th's safer we keep them,
The brighter they'll shine—
Oh, waste not one day of the seven.

Take care, as you journey
Along the highway,
Good care of your strength and your health;
Without them in vain
Are the beauties of earth,
In vain all the blessings of wealth.

Take care of your honor,
Your name and your fame,
Deal justly with men as you go,
And reach out your hand
To the poor and the sad,
Who suffer so much here below.

Take care of your footsteps
And which way they tend,
Press steadily on to the goal;
Take care that you live right
And strive for the best,
And God will take care of your soul.

OUR NEXT-DOOR NEIGHBOR.

A Recent Writer's Good Word for the Mexicans.

In a book on Mexico, by Mary Elizabeth Blake and Margaret F. Sullivan, Mrs. Blake combats several beliefs regarding Mexicans.

The chief of these is as to the indolence of the common people. This she insists is an absolute mistake.

"They are not only ready for employment, but anxious to procure it. They work with an earnestness and honesty that shame our slovenly Northern laborers, whose chief anxiety seems to be to accomplish the smallest amount in a given time. Digging in the fields, carrying water, bearing burdens, the Mexicans work without ears, eyes or concern for aught save the object in hand; they spare themselves no more than if they were burros or horses."

Again she says:

"There is something at once inspiring and dreadful in the intensity with which these men work. Where or how the fallacy concerning their indolence has gained ground it is hard to understand. To see a Mozo climbing five or six flights of stairs, and traversing acres of corridors at a swift pace with a heavy Saratoga trunk on his back, or to meet four laborers rushing through the city streets with a Chickering piano on their shoulders, is a sight to which we are becoming so much used that familiarity robs it of its first painfulness."

Other notions Mrs. Blake endeavors to refute are that the Mexicans themselves are dirty and dishonest, and their towns filthy.

She admits that the standard of personal cleanliness is not high in towns where water has to be dipped with a gourd from a basin or a stone fountain with scores awaiting their turn, or bought from a carrier. But in places where water is plentiful, the population is constantly bathing or washing clothes.

The cities lack proper drainage and good sanitary administration. Yet every city, of any size, in the Republic, is swept each morning with whisk brooms and dust-pans.

As for the honesty of the common people with whom travelers are brought into contact, the party had so many remarkable proofs of it, that Mrs. Blake declares with enthusiasm that "the lost art of honesty seems to have been found again in Mexico."

RIVALS STRANGELY RECONCILED.

A Snake Story Which Has the Merit of Being Truthful.

Just a year before the war, in a little town of one of the Southwestern States, two young men lived, and had lived all their lives. They grew as strong friends as the fabled Damon and Pythias.

In the same town was a beautiful young girl, and in an evil time both the young men fell desperately in love with her, and fell more desperately into hating one another. In fact, they never spoke to one another, only to curse and revile.

Finally they decided to fight it out, and appointed to meet in a grove a mile off, having no one to witness the scene, and the victor was to have the girl.

The time to fight was about 4 o'clock one August afternoon in 1860.

One of the parties took his pistol, proceeded to the rendezvous, and sat down at the foot of a tree to rest, and fell asleep. He was awakened by the report of a pistol to see his hated rival standing about ten feet off with a smoking pistol in his hand, while at his feet was a very large and ugly rattlesnake, twisting and squirming in the throes of death.

He looked at the snake, then at the enemy, and jumped forward with hand outstretched, saying:

"John, I'll give her up. I would rather have your friendship than hate."

"No," said John, "she is yours, Dick. I did not see any sense in fighting for a girl without knowing that she cared for me, and she told me frankly that she preferred you, so I came to tell you and found that serpent ready to kill you, and I killed it; we are always friends hereafter," and so they remained until he fell at the first battle of Manassas a year or two later.

Food for a Lover.

He—"Amanda, this is the neat little restaurant where I have those delicious lunches I have mentioned to you, but could not describe, and this is Tom, the waiter, who serves me my favorite dishes so nicely."

She—"How sweet, Adolphus."

He—"What will you order, Amanda? They have birds, oysters, and all the delicacies of the season."

She—"Your favorite dish, Adolphus, of course. Waiter, you may fetch me Mr. Wigwag's favorite order, which he says you serve so nicely."

Waiter—"Yes, lady. (Giving order)—Draw one in the dark. Soused pigs' feet on de iron."

Mr. and Mrs. Hayseed in Town.

A very green couple from Virginia attended Albaugh's last night, and after they had taken their seats the young man began to look over the programme.

"Thunderation, Mary," he said with a sudden start, "we can't see this show out."

"Why, John, what's the matter?" asked the girl in disappointed tones.

"Why, look at here, this bill says three weeks elapses between the first and second acts, and by gravy, I've got to git home by to-morrow night to tend to cutting the corn in the hill field."

An usher explained the matter later and they remained.—Washington Critic.

He Wouldn't Be Swindled.

Mr. Byam Kegge (from Kalamazoo, with intense disgust)—"Here, waiter, I ordered raw oysters. What on airth are those nasty black stones?"

Waiter (petrified)—"Oystahs, sah—on de haff shell, sah!"

Mr. Byam Kegge—"Haff shell, is it? Oh, git out. I've eat 1,000,000 canned oysters out home and never saw a shell on any one of them."—Puck.

Mrs. Lott—"And has nothing been saved from the wreck?"

Job Lott (tragically)—"Nothing—absolutely nothing—except my honest name."

Mrs. Lott—"H'm! With that, and the trifling assistance of the property you transferred to me three months ago, may be we can start again."—Puck.

THE FIELD OF SLAUGHTER.

Reminiscences by Two Officers of the Union Army.

General Henderson, of Iowa, was talking the other day of the little attention paid by man during the war to their wounds, when he said:

"At Corinth I was a lieutenant in the 12th Iowa. There was a man in my company whose gun had got clogged in some way or other and refused to work, and that fact utterly deprived this fellow of his nerve. I suppose he thought that if he had to face the enemy with a weapon worse than nothing he was a 'goner' sure.

"I saw what was the matter and so I said to him, and a man isn't apt to be very choice in his language at such times:

"'You infernal fool, why don't you pick the tube out with a pin like you used to when hunting prairie chickens?'

"The words prairie chickens had a familiar sound and he accepted my advice and was soon all right again. A little later that man was badly wounded in the thigh but he dragged himself behind a tree and didn't give up until he had fired his last cartridge.

"I saw another instance of what excitement will do for wounded men.

"At Donelson I was wounded in the neck and was in the hospital with a good many other men suffering from bad wounds.

"The next day after the battle we heard the sounds of cheering and were told that a flag of truce had been sent out. We knew what that meant.

"Now, an hour before we heard that news we were all so badly wounded that we couldn't do the slightest thing without assistance, but when we knew that our army had won a great victory we forgot wounds and everything else and cheered and shouted like healthy men.

"The effect of the ebullition of enthusiasm was to reopen many a wound and in several cases cause relapses, but that was something we didn't consider or didn't care for."

Congressman Laird, of Nebraska, was in the group listening to General Henderson:

"Fear," he said, "is a peculiar thing. I came to appreciate the horrors of war in a curious sort of way:

"After the battle of Hanover Court House, Virginia, on the 25th of May, 1862, I saw the dead piled upon the field. Their frightfully distorted faces, their gaping wounds, from which the blood still trickled in some cases, the shattered limbs and the general air of carnage was horrible to one not used to such scenes, as I was not at that time, and made a great and lasting impression on me.

"A few days later while watching some men drilling I fell asleep under a pine tree. And as I slept the horrors of what I had seen on the field rose before me, only more awful, if such a thing is possible. The agony on the contorted faces were so terrible that I could appreciate how those men had suffered, and all the hideousness of battle was brought so vividly before me that it was more horrible than even the real thing.

"While gazing on this picture in my dream I had this proposition presented to me, and it was put as plainly as if I had indulged in an argument. Something said to me:

"'You have seen what war means. Will you take the chances and perhaps end as these men have, or will you try and save yourself by playing the part of a coward?'

"That was the condition that confronted me, and I realized just exactly what it meant. I made up my mind to take my chances, and I believe I can fairly say without vanity that after that dream I had very little fear of the consequences."

BABY'S TOILET.

Some Excellent Counsel for Mothers.

Every mother knows how difficult it is to clean the baby's fingernails. By folding some tissue paper into a sharp point, and when using it, calling the attention of the baby to something else, this simple task can be easily performed. The paper is so soft that it does not hurt the tender flesh, yet it is sufficiently firm to remove every particle of dirt.

My children sometimes cry when taken out of the water, but never when they are put in. I think it is because they have such a good frolic in the bath that they dislike to leave it.

The tub should be but half full of water, and should be placed on two chairs or a low stand, for there is danger of draughts if it is put upon the floor. Set it before an open fire if possible, and see that all the baby's clothes are warm and well aired before putting them on.

In winter, when giving a very young infant a bath, it is best to wrap it in a large piece of old flannel, and then put the baby into the water gradually, without removing the flannel until it has been in the water for a minute or two. The water should be lukewarm.

Always wash the baby's head, face, mouth and tongue thoroughly before putting it into the tub, and give it a teaspoonful of cool water to drink. If possible, let the hour for feeding come directly after the bath, and then the baby is ready for the long morning nap.

When the child is old enough to sit up in the tub alone, it is always well to let it have some toy to take into the bath, such as a tiny rubber doll or animal, or a little wooden or paper boat.—Farmers' Review.

COMPLETING THE JOB.

The Same Place but a Different Girl.

A Boston artist declares that a newly-betrothed lover commissioned him to paint a certain secluded nook in the rocks on the shore, because there he had declared his passion.

The picture was painted, but before it was done the lover said to the artist:

"Of course I will see you through on that picture, but my engagement is off, and, of course, it would be painfully suggestive to me. If you can sell it to somebody else I will take another picture and be extremely obliged besides."

The painter assented to the arrangement, but within a week his patron again presented himself.

"It is all right," he announced, joyously. "I'll take that picture."

"Am I to congratulate you on the renewal of your engagement?" the artist asked.

The other seemed a little confused, but quickly recovered his self-possession and grinned, as he said:

"Well, not exactly. It was the same place but the girl was different."—Providence Journal.

Love and Business.

"I confess, sir," said the widow, with some shyness, "that I might in time learn to love you, but, er—you are quite poor, are you not?"

"Well, yes, my income is not large, but with you, dear Mrs. Tompkins, to cheer and encourage me, it would soon——"

"Ah," interrupted the widow, with a sigh, "that would be giving hostages to fortune. I am drawing $15 a month pension, and I wouldn't like to give up a dead sure thing for an uncertainty."—Epoch.

On the Instalment Plan.

Jawkins (after gazing admiringly at the Slimley triplets)—"H'm! Slimley, my boy, I suppose I ought to say I hope you are very happy; but for my own part I confess I'd rather take my family on the instalment plan."

Slimley—"Instalment plan! Heavens, man! What is this but the instalment plan? I took the whole lot at once before I could afford to pay for 'em."—Judge.

Pimples, Boils,

And Carbuncles result from a debilitated, impoverished, or impure condition of the blood. Ayer's Sarsaparilla prevents and cures these eruptions and painful tumors, by removing their cause; the only effectual way of treating them.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla has prevented the usual course of Boils, which have pained and distressed me every season for several years.—G. Scales, Plainville, Mich.

Public Notice

THE ATTENTION OF THE PUBLIC is hereby directed to the "Provincial Health (small-pox) By-Laws, 1888," issued by His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, under authority of the "Health Ordinance, 1869."

Having been appointed Provincial Health Officer for Districts lying south of Fraser River, I hereby give notice that the provisions of said By-Laws will be strictly enforced, and all persons are required to govern themselves accordingly.

R. I. BENTLEY, M.B.,
Provincial Health Officer.
New West., Oct. 6, 1888. doc8m1

[L.S.] HUGH NELSON.

BY-LAWS ISSUED BY HIS HONOUR THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR-IN COUNCIL,

UNDER THE AUTHORITY OF THE "HEALTH ORDINANCE, 1869."

HIS HONOUR THE LIEUTENANT-Governor of British Columbia, by and with the advice of the Executive Council of British Columbia, acting under and by virtue of the provisions of the "Health Ordinance, 1869," enacts as follows:—

1. Whenever small-pox is present in any locality without the boundaries of any Municipality, the Provincial Health Officer nearest to such locality shall at once cause the patient to be removed to an isolated hospital, tent or other suitable place, or cause such person to be otherwise sufficiently isolated, and shall see that he is properly cared for, and shall take proper measures for the disinfection, or, if necessary, the destruction of all clothing which may have been exposed to the contagion, and for the disinfection and purification of every conveyance, rail-car, steamboat, railway, vessel, carriage, or other vehicle which may have been exposed to the contagion.

2. Such Health Officer shall have, in his discretion, full power to place in another building or tent all persons who may have been exposed to the contagion, and shall cause them to be supplied with all necessaries for the period of the isolation or of the disease shall have elapsed, and no such person shall go, or be permitted to go, abroad, until he or she has given satisfactory proof of successful vaccination within the preceding seven years, or shall have obtained a medical certificate of insusceptibility to the vaccine disease, nor until the clothing or effects worn or carried by or with him or her have been properly disinfected, if the same have been exposed to contagion.

3. To assist the Health Officer, he shall have full power to employ persons to be nurses, sanitary policemen, and other wise to aid in the prevention or the spread of the disease, and may himself give and enforce such reasonable directions for the same purpose as to him may seem expedient, and the nearest Government Agent shall see that all articles and necessaries required by the Health Officer are furnished.

4. It shall be the duty of every medical practitioner who shall attend upon, or give medical or surgical advice, to or about any person suffering from small-pox, to give notice forthwith after he shall have commenced so to attend or give such advice, to the nearest Provincial Health Officer. When a householder knows that a person within the house occupied by him is taken sick of small-pox, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the nearest Provincial Health Officer.

5. The Provincial Health Officer before mentioned is and includes any person appointed Health Officer under the "Health Ordinance, 1869," by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council.

6. The foregoing provisions shall have no effect within the limits of any Municipality, save as hereinafter mentioned.

7. In case the Council of any Municipality, whenever small-pox is present, or likely to occur therein, shall fail to make or carry out proper provisions to prevent the invasion or spread of small-pox within the Municipality, and complaint thereof shall be made to the Lieutenant-Governor by the Council of any adjacent Municipality, it shall be lawful for the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, acting upon such complaint or in his discretion upon other information, to order that these regulations shall, until otherwise ordered, apply to and be in force within the Municipality in which such neglect occurs, and thereupon any Provincial Health Officer shall have, within and in respect of such Municipality, all the authority with which he is clothed in respect of localities without Municipalities, and in such case all disbursements and expenses paid by the Province, in the carrying out within such Municipality of the foregoing regulations, shall be paid by such Municipality.

8. These regulations may be cited as the "Provincial Health (small-pox) By-Laws, 1888."

Dated at Victoria, this 3rd day of October, 1888.

By Command,
JNO. ROBSON,
doc8m1 Provincial Secretary.

RAND-CLUTE.—At St. Andrew's Church, New Westminster, on Thursday, Nov. 15th, by the Rev. Thomas Scouler, Chas. D. Rand, Esq., of the firm of Rand Bros., of Vancouver, B.C., to Kate Genevieve, eldest daughter of John S. Clute, Esq., Collector of Customs, New Westminster.

The str. Irving left for Chilliwhack this morning with 25 tons of merchandise and 20 passengers.

The str. Princess Louise cleared for Victoria this morning with 30 passengers and a full load of farm produce.

Parties who have ordered fruit trees from J. L. Walworth will see by an advertisement to-day that the trees have arrived.

There was a thin coating of ice at the head of Burrard Inlet yesterday morning, the first that has formed there this season.

A piece of cornice work fell from the Hamley block this afternoon making such a racket as to draw a large crowd to the spot.

Ex-Treasurer Russell, of Victoria, was at Tacoma on Monday. His wife joined him at Spokane Falls and the two journed together to Tacoma.

Westminster Avenue, Vancouver, is said to be in a rather bad state of repair, and two or three accidents are reported to have occurred recently.

A. T. Stewart, New York's millionaire merchant, had a pretty level head. He said: "The man does not do justice to his business who spends less in advertising than he does in rent."

Avoid the harsh, irritating, griping compounds so often sold as purgative medicine, and correct the irregularities of the bowels by the use of Ayer's Cathartic Pills. They are invaluable as a family medicine.

It is complained that the lack of name on the streets and numbers on the houses is a considerable inconvenience in this city, to new-comers especially, who have been accustomed to such things. Westminster is assuming such dimensions that this matter will have to be attended to by our next city council.

At five o'clock this evening an alarm of fire was rung, the fire being at the house of Mr. M. A. McRae on Queen's avenue. Before the brigade arrived the whole building was on fire and nothing could be done to save it. Most of the furniture was removed before the building became too hot for occupation. It is supposed the fire was set by children playing with matches.

A man named Phœnix was subpœned to act as interpreter at the court to-day, but treated the subpœna with contempt and was arrested. When brought before Judge McCreight he complained that he acted as interpreter on several occasions and had never been paid, and would not interpret again unless the fee was paid beforehand. Mr. Drake, Q.C., promised to see that he was paid.

Yesterday, it is stated was a good day for the croakers to air the grievances again, knots of them taking possession of Columbia street, and gesticulatingly enforcing their ideas. An artist is said to have sketched the scene, while an enterprising photographer will in a few days produce what will make some wish they had made the day a day of thanksgiving instead of growling against the progress of the city which they can never stop.

On Wednesday evening about 8.30 o'clock an alarm of fire was rung, and in a few seconds a thousand men were rushing towards the fire hall. At first it was supposed Mr. I. B. Fisher's residence was on fire, but this proved a mistake, as it turned out that the blaze occurred at Mr. J. K. Suter's. The fire was of an incipient character and was easily extinguished without the assistance of the brigade. The Hyacks deserve credit for the prompt manner in which they reported for duty.

The ventilation and heating of the court house in this city are simply abominable, and it is to hoped the much delayed new court house may be put under construction soon. The assizes that are being held in the city just now impress very forcibly upon all who attend the court in any capacity the immediate need for a building that should be less of a barn than the present temple of justice and more suited to the requirements of the place. It is not very creditable to the powers that be see a judge sitting on the bench wrapped in a rug in the endeavor to keep warm, while the windows have to be kept open to prevent profound asphyxiation.

A single bottle of Ayer's Sarsaparilla will establish the merits of this medicine as a blood purifier. Many thousands of people are yearly cured of chronic diseases by the faithful use of this remedy. It is unequalled for the cure of scrofula.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

A Victoria Lawyer's Opinion.

The following was handed to us too late for publication in Wedesday's paper. The legal opinion below is probably the one quoted by Ald. Herring at the meeting in the Hyack Hall, Tuesday night. Our readers will fail to find anything alarming in the rather indefinite utterance of the Victoria lawyers, as given below, which was telegraphed to Alderman Herring, in answer to an enquiry on the subject:

"We think council cannot give over control of the money to a trust; committee will be individually liable for any monies they receive.—DAVIE & POOLEY.

The Late Archbishop Seghers.

The U. S. steamer Thetis, commander Emory, arrived at Esquimalt yesterday morning, having on board the remains of the late Archbishop Seghers. The casket containing the remains was on the quarter deck. On top was a wreath of flowers and a rude cross which had been erected over the temporary grave at St. Michael's. The remains will be brought ashore this morning and conveyed to the Bishop's palace on Yates street. On Friday morning the funeral ceremonies will be held in the pro-cathedral, when Archbishop Gross will celebrate a solemn requiem mass and bishop Brondel will preach. Members of the St. Joseph Society and the Young Men's Institure will attend the funeral, and are requested to be at their rooms at 8:30 a. m.—Colonist..

Thanksgiving Day.

Thanksgiving Day was generally observed throughout the city. The stores were all closed and services were held in the Presbyterian, Methodist and Reformed Episcopal churches.

Many small shooting parties went to Pitt Lake, Pitt Meadows and down the North Arm in search of wild duck and geese, while a few enthusiastic hunters scoured the country on both sides of the river in search of grouse and larger game. A couple of well-known gentlemen, both passionately fond of the chase, after a long drive, a long and tiresome tramp brought home two small grouse which cost them $4.50 each. Several other parties met with fully as much luck. The beautiful weather induced nearly everyone, particularly the ladies, to enjoy outdoor exercises, such as walking, driving, riding and boating. A great many people attended the football match at the Athletic grounds being drawn there under the impression the contest was to be between the Canadian and Old Country members of the club. A sufficient number of players did not turn up so sides were chosen irrespective of the player's place of birth and a scratch match played. Some very good play was noticeable, particularly among the members of the first team. It was also noticeable that one or two members of the first team are particularly fond of holding the ball longer than is necessary and generally to theadvantage of his side. Selfish play is not good play and one man cannot hold his own against fifteen.

In the evening Herring's Opera House was well filled, the occasion being the representation of "Chip O' the Old Block." The play is a very funny one and pleased the audience greatly. The Old Chip, Mr. Scott, made a deserving and emphatic hit. Mr. Mills was also a favorite with the audience as was in fact every member of the company.

Wedding Bells.

The marriage of Mr. Charles D. Rand, of Vancouver, and Miss Kate Genevieve Clute, daughter, of J. S. Clute, Esq., collector of customs, at St. Andrew's church yesterday morning, was one of the greatest events in society this season. The church was most handsomely decorated with flowers arranged in excellent taste. Long before the hour appointed for the ceremony the church was filled to overflowing with friends and acquaintances who were anxious to see the auspicious event take place. In fact the crowd was so great that many could not gain admittance, but remained outside in hopes of catching a glimpse of the bride as she left the church. Sharp at 10:30 o'clock a gentle commotion ran over the audience as the bridal procession entered the church. First came the ushers, Messrs. A. E. Rand and J. S. Clute, Jr.; then the flower girls, Florence M. Clute and Annie L. Clute, loaded with flowers beautiful and rare. Next followed the bride, leaning on her father's arm, and lastly came the four bridesmaids, Miss Rand, and Misses Alice C. Clute, Mabel E. Clute, and Connie V. Clute. The bride, who was dressed in white silk and white striped moire with veil and orange blossoms, looked lovely, and bore herself gracefully and prettily. As the procession reached the head of the aisle and turned towards the altar the bridegroom, who was supported by Dr. Wetham and Mr. E. E. Rand, joined it from the right. Rev. Mr. Scouler advanced and commenced the ceremony, which was impressive and solemn. Above the heads of the bride and groom hung a gigantic horse-shoe, fashioned of flowers, the work of friends who wished the happy couple all manner of "good luck." When the final words were said that joined the young couple in that indissoluble knot of marriage the party retired to the vestry to sign the register. The groomsmen now joined the bridesmaids, who all looked the picture of fashion and beauty. Miss Rand was dressed in a lovely pink silk dress with cream lace trimmings, and the remaining bridesmaids wore pink and white satin dresses. As the party re-entered the church, Mr. Morey, the organist, struck up the joyful strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, which were continued till the happy couple had entered their carriage and driven off. The departure of the carriage was the signal for a perfect storm of rice, old shoes and slippers. The wedding breakfast at Mr. Clute's residence was a very recherche affair. Some 40 ladies and gentlemen, all relatives of the bride and groom with the exception of Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Scouler, sat down and discussed the excellent spread. Many toasts were proposed and responded to, and a very jolly hour was spent in this manner. At one o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Rand left for Vancouver where the str. Premier was taken for the Sound, where the honeymoon will be spent. The presents which are handsome, costly and useful, number over a hundred. Mr. and Mrs. Rand will be absent about two weeks and on their return will commence house-keeping in the handsome residence lately erected by Mr. Rand at Vancouver. THE COLUMBIAN extends its heartiest congratulations.

FALL ASSIZES.

Mr. Justice McCreight Presiding.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

In the case of Frank Donahue, charged with forgery.

Ada Isaac, sworn, deposed: I keep store in Vancouver; I know prisoner; he came into my store on night of 6th Oct. He purchased two cigars and gave me $20 bill in payment. I changed money at Mr. Davis' store and gave change to Donahue. The next day I was sent for by the bank. I went to the bank; they showed me a bank note and asked me if I recognized it as the bill Donahue gave me; I said that I did.

Cross-examined by Mr. Atkinson: I had no particular acquaintance with prisoner more than that he came in my store at times and bought fruit and other little articles; I have been in the business for several years; I am not ashamed of my age; I have been in the business since I was able to work at it. I often shake dice with people for cigars but never for money. I can swear to the bill as the one taken by me from Donahue.

Wm. Davis, sworn, said: I am a storekeeper at Vancouver. I remember Oct. 6th; Ada Isaac came into my store with a $20 bill for change; she often came in for change. My partner thought there was a discount on the money but I said no, as there is no discount on Dominion bills. I gave her the change and put the bill with some other money. Next day I took the money to the bank and the teller said, "Why, who's been passing a twenty on you." I got Miss Isaac and took her to the bank; she saw the bill and said it was the one given me by her. I have seen the prisoner before. The paying teller passed the bill on three or four merchants afterwards for a trick.

A juryman—"A d—d queer trick."

James Isaac, sworn, said: I have known the prisoner since July; he does little carpenter jobs. I saw the note when my daughter brought it back from the bank. I informed the police and found the prisoner on the city wharf a few days afterwards about 5 a.m. I said, "I have a job for you—come round." We went to the store and I showed him some work to do. I said to him: "You gave my daughter a $20 bill the other night and it is dirty and old and hard to pass. I also said it made no difference if he had spent a few dollars of the change it would be all right. He pulled out $15 and gave it to me and said he would pay the rest either in cash or work. He asked for the bill and I told him it was in the bank and had some false figures on it. He said he knew where the bill came from as the man was batching with him.

Gerty Hill, sworn: I know prisoner. Prisoner went to my house on 3rd or 4th Sept.; I saw a bill pass from Donahue to Miss Smith; I supposed it was a $10 bill; the bill I got from Miss Smith I gave to the Chinaman, who brought back $10 in silver, and I gave that silver to Miss Smith; Miss Smith gave some of the silver to Donahue; I judge it was about 7 or 8 o'clock in the morning; the following night the Chinaman came back about 8 o'clock and said that I gave him a spurious bill.

Joe, a Chinaman, and servant to the previous witness, sworn, corroborated the evidence of Miss Hill.

Ah Lung, on being sworn, corroborated the evidence of the two previous witnesses.

This concluded the evidence in the case.

Mr. Drake, Q.C., addressed the jury at some length and was followed by Mr. Atkinson, who strongly claimed that the evidence was too weak to prove utterances against the prisoner.

His lordship, in summing up the evidence, said that he would draw their attention to two points in the matter, identity and guilty knowledge. He thought that they would have no trouble to find sufficient proof for the indentity, and although there was no direct proof of forgery against the prisoner, they could contrast his conduct in the matter with that of the others concerned. The prisoner did not deny that he passed the bill, nor did he refuse to take it back.

The jury retired and after an absence of half-an hour returned with a verdict of "guilty." Sentence deferred.

The grand jury entered the court room and presented the following true bills: Regina vs. Cotea, manslaughter; Regina vs. Jones, murder; Regina vs. Hen Cook, murder; Regina vs. Kane, attempt to rob.

His lordship then discharged the grand jurors.

FRIDAY MORNING.

Munday and Johnny, charged with larceny, pleaded not guilty. Undefended.

A jury was sworn with Mr. R. B. McLennan as foreman.

Johnny Cutlas: I live at Ladners and know the prisoners. Four weeks ago the prisoners came to my house about dark and asked if they could sleep there; I was in bed at the time and told them they might stay; we all went to sleep; I had $24 in my vest, which was under my head; Johnny slept next to me; I awakened at six o'clock and found Johnny and Munday had gone; another man slept in the tent with us, and when we saw the men were gone, we looked in each others clothes and found the money missing; friends told us the men had gone down to the landing to take the str. Rainbow for Victoria; I did not waken during the night; we saw the prisoners at the boat and asked them for the money, but they only laughed at us.

Munday, an Indian, sworn, said: I was in the tent when the prisoners came in and asked to sleep there; I had $20 in my pocket when I went to sleep; the prisoners knew Cutlas and I had been paid; in the morning I found my money gone; when we got a policeman and went to the wharf the boat was backing out.

Annie, an Indian woman, swore she saw Johnny and Munday at 5 o'clock in the morning counting and dividing the money.

Thos. Jas. Lindsay, constable, Victoria, testified to arresting the prisoners at Victoria. On searching them he found $18 in silver.

Mr. Drake, Q.C., refused to charge against the prisoners and after his lordship's charge the jury retired.

After an absence of five minutes the jury brought in a verdict of not guilty.

In the case of Munday and Johnny, the Indians charged with larceny, found not guilty on the first indictment, the crown prosecutor entered a nolle prosequi.

After an adjournment of an hour for lunch the court sat again.

Patrick Kane, charged with highway robbery, pleaded "not guilty." Undefended.

A jury was called and sworn with N. A. White as foreman.

Henry Insley, sworn, said: I was in Vancouver last Saturday morning; about 3 o'clock in the morning when I was returning from a friend's house I heard steps behind me but I thought nothing of till I was suddenly caught by a man who said, "Where are you going!" I said I was going down town to get a bed; he asked me if I had any money, and I told him I had a little; he then ordered me to give him the money or he would shoot; I told him to shoot away and threw my umbrella down; I coaxed him to come near the lamp; then the policeman came and Kane ran away; the prisoner in the box is the man who stopped me.

John McKeon, sworn, said: About 3:30 o'clock last Saturday morning I met Insley who said he had been stopped by a man who wanted to rob him; he said he would know the man again and gave me a description of him; I went in search of the man and and finally arrested Kane and took him to the house where Insley was staying, who immediately recognized him.

Patrick Kane made a short statement saying he had been drinking with a few friends and was going down town to buy a bottle of whisky when arrested.

His lordship, in charging the jury, said the whole thing lay in the identity of the prisoner.

The jury then retired.

After an absence of two hours the jury returned with a verdict of "guilty."

A letter from P. O. Sharples, Druggist, Marion, Ohio, in writing of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, says: One man was cured of sore throat of three years' standing with one bottle. We have a number of cases of rheumatism that have been cured when other remedies have failed. We consider it the best medicine sold.

Supreme Court.

Before the Hon. Mr. Justice McCreight.

Dunn vs. Elwood.—The court sat yesterday morning and at night to take further evidence, which, except as to the defendent's, is now finished. Owing to the assizes and other important engagements coming on the further hearing of this case has been postponed to a day to be fixed by the court. It is expected that the further hearing and argument will take a day, making six days that the trial will have lasted.

Mr. Jenns (Corbould & McColl) for the plaintiff and Mr. Eckstein (W. N. Bole, Q.C.,) for the defendant.

Mr. J. Leist, warehouseman for Lautz Bros., Buffalo, N. Y., says he had a swelling on his foot which he attributed to chilblains. He used Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and is troubled no longer. Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil may be imitated in its appearance and name, but not in its virtues.

Information Freely Furnished.

EDITOR COLUMBIAN.—Sir, In reply to Mr. Bole's question, in your issue of the 14th inst., with regard to my occupation of the civic chair, I would say, if he will kindly call on me I shall be pleased to give him the desired information.

ALDERMAN A. M. HERRING.

N. W., Nov. 15, 1888.

[With regard to the squib in Wednesday's paper, referred to above, we are in a position to say that Alderman Herring has not made a correct guess at the author.—ED.]

Why go limping and whining about your corns, when a 25-cent bottle of Holloway's Corn Cure will remove them? Give it a trial, and you will not regret it.

At the opening of the inquest upon one of the Whitechapel victims a respectable looking woman came forward and testified that the body was that of her sister, Elizabeth Watts. The witness gave a curious account of a marvellous presentiment by which she was induced to examine the remains. She swore that at about the time the murder must of been committed she felt three kisses on her cheek, heard them, and at once understood that her sister's ghost was doing the kissing. This strange story might have gone down to posterity as true had Elizabeth Watts not soon afterwards turned up in the flesh at the inquest. The body was clearly identified in the end as that of one Elizabeth Stride.

Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is pleasant to take; sure and effectual in destroying worms. Many have tried it with best results.
