NOTES AND COMMENTS.

After all the talk—all the fuss and feathers—the fishing treaty falls dead. Alas, poor Joe! Distrusted by his new tory allies, despised by his former liberal friends, discredited as an ambassador by this fishery fiasco, Chamberlain's lines do not seem to lie in very pleasant places.

All the way from Montreal, the important news is telegraphed that Rev. Dr. Wild has "placed" the beginning of the millennium at A.D. 1935. He adds some information about the manners of those days, but with characteristic modesty, refrains from giving us any points about what will happen to cranks.

How will the failure of the fisheries treaty affect relations between Canada and the U. S.? Rather a difficult question; but in the meantime, Canada has much the best of it. The fault does not lie at their door. Of course we go back to the treaty of 1818—but we can remind Blaine of Maine and all the rest of them that they sent us back.

A twenty-year-old engineering project has been revived in the old country. It is to build a solid connection between Ireland and Scotland from Fair Head to the Mull of Cantire, where the channel is only 17 or 12 miles wide. The projector says that abundant material is at hand along the rocky coast, and that the big dike would reclaim from the sea enough land to pay the bill.

We don't remember to have seen before the statement made by the Globe that Mr. Jones, who is now down Halifax way, booming Canada-Australin telegraphic and steamer connection, was warned in San Francisco not to go east by the C. P. R. as the Indians were on the war-path, and the line in B.C. unsafe on account of bush fires? Canada is beginning to think that she can hold her own with the states in some things, but when it comes to monumental lying, we have to give in at once.

Some days ago the Victoria Colonist printed some very doubtful statics intended to show that the use of intoxicants was conducive to longevity, and signs were not wanting that the "facts," set forth were very acceptable to certain persons. Now it prints a criticism of these statistics from the London Lancet, which pretty well demolishes them. People who pretend to be well informed ought to know by this time that that question has been settled long ago, by much better than "expert" medical opinion—to wit, the insurance tables. No sentiment or prejudice is allowed to influence the cold logic of facts there.

It is told that when Frederick III. of Germany was in London last Sir Morell Mackenzie introduced to him a celebrated American physician, who examined his throat carefully. "I suppose," said the Emperor, "an Imperial throat is very much like that of other throats?" "Well," answered the American quickly, "we will try and make it so, at any rate." Frederick appreciated the answer, and smiting his mighty chest, said: "But this is all right, is it not?" The doctor looked him over gravely and replied: "Yes. As for the rest, you would make a good American." The Emperor enjoyed it all, but the German doctors were simply dumfounded at the levity of the Yankee.

It appears that the story from New York of a brutal husband who plucked his wife's eyes out is not exaggerated. It will sometimes happen in the multiplicity of occurrences that an event which never happened finds its way amongst the authentic intelligence, and it was hoped in this case that a perverted fancy had been the cause of the reported tragedy. Unfortunately the hideous cruelty of the wretch was not exaggerated, and the woman is hovering between life and death, having deposed in a sworn statement to the horrifying details. The death of the victim will, of course, provide the suitable punishment of the gallows for the perpetrator, though the proposed painless method of execution by means of electricity seems almost too merciful in such a case. The punishment which the protection of society needs in such a case is something which will act as a deterrent to others.

LAST NIGHT'S DESPATCHES.

MURDERED BY POACHERS.

CALAIS, Me., Aug. 21.—Major Howes, of Philadelphia, claims to own certain salmon fishing grounds on the Tolique river, near Andover, N. B., where he has been stopping with his family. The people in that vicinity consider the fishing rights to be public property and there has been trouble over the matter. On Saturday Howes drove away several men who were fishing there. On Sunday morning while the major and family were sailing on the river several shots were heard from the shore, and a bullet, probably intended for Howes, entered Mrs. Howes' head, killing her instantly. William Day and Frank Thrafton, accused of being poachers, are suspected of having fired the shots. A sheriff's posse are searching for them. The feeling against the perpetrators of the crime is very bitter and if caught may be lynched.

THE UNHAPPY ALSATIANS.

BERLIN, Aug. 21.—The North German Gazette commenting on a letter from the mayor of Bona to Deputy Antoine in which the mayor promised to do even impossible things to enable the unhappy Alsatians sighing under the German yoke to settle in Algeria but advised them as still better to cross the frontier and enlist in the Foreign Legion, says the document is a clean proof of how easily the French agitation in Alsace is concealed from the German authorities. "We hope in the interest of the Alsatians that the rumor that M. Antoine intends to emigrate and contest a seat in the French chamber may prove true."

TO-DAY'S DESPATCHES.

STEAMSHIP COLLISION.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22,—The steamer Oceanic from China and Japan collided with and sunk the steamer City of Chester this morning at the entrance of the Golden Gate. The Chester had just sailed with over 70 passengers for Eureka. The Oceanic has her boats lowered and is saving lives. A number is known to be lost. The City of Chester, commanded by Capt. Wallace, left her berth at nine o'clock this morning and when she neared the Presidio reservation, which is just inside the Golden Gate straits, atmosphere became very thick and objects were scarcely distinguishable at close range. A few minutes before 10 o'clock a huge vessel was noticed directly in front of the Chester bearing right down upon her. Before any attempt on the part of the Chester's officers could be made to change her course and avert disaster, a terrific crash was heard and she began to sink. Immediately there was a panic on board and many of her passengers leaped into water in hopes of making for the shore. The vessel which had given the Chester her death-blow was the Oceanic from the Orient with 80 cabin passengers and a thousand Chinese. Boats were speedily lowered from her and the work of rescue commenced. Almost immediately the dead body of a man was picked up and found to be the steward of the unlucky Chester. A large number who were floating about in the water on wreckage and life preservers were rescued by the boats and and tugs, and the bay steamer San Rafael, which had come to the Chester's assistance, and taken aboard the Oceanic. The Chester rapidly filled after she had been struck and was under water within four or five minutes. When the work of rescue had been about completed and the roll called of those saved, it was found that fifteen passengers and three of the crew had been drowned. Captain Thomas Wallace, of the Chester, when seen by a postal press reporter, about noon, made the following rough statement: "We were moving on our way out against a strong flood tide when I heard a whistle a head and from the direction from which the sound came I though we were all right, the next instant I saw the dark bulk of the Oceanic above me as she crashed into our port side, off the fore hatch. The fog was so thick we could see nothing, and the disaster happened quicker by a good deal than I can tell it. The water must be 40 fathoms deep at that point, and we went down rapidly. The confusion, of course, was great, but the men did the best they could to get out the boats. Passengers as quickly as possible were transferred to the Oceanic. I was thrown into the water and had to scramble out from the wreckage. It was reported when we started for shore that 15 or 16 had been drowned. One poor fellow was crushed to death between the two vessels. The Oceanic was a long time in getting her boats in the water. I understand that her Chinese crew of 90 were afraid to man them, fearing that when our steamer sank they would be drawn down and engulfed. Among those who were on board when she sank were: Captain Thos Wallace; first mate, C McCallum; second mate, J Lumden; third mate, S M Sundgreen; purser, C J Debeny; chief engineer, F Cookson; 1st asst. engineer, W Bowen; 2nd asst. engineer, R Comstock. There was also a crew of 37, but a good many of them jumped on board the Oceanic directly she struck the Chester. The Chester was valued at $150,000, and was insured in various companies for $75,000. She was an iron vessel of 785 tons burden. Up to 1:30 p.m. the name of only one of the lost was known, that of Edward Chambers, the Chester's steward.

At 2:30 p.m. the following are known to be drowned: G. W. Anderson, Mrs. Meach, Miss Fratzer, Mrs. C. Haney, J. C. Hampton and wife, Mrs. Porter, and three of the crew.

TERRIFIC CYCLONE.

WILMINGTON, Del., Aug. 22.—A terrific cyclone and water spout wrought terrible havoc in this vicinity last night. It is estimated over $50,000 worth of property was destroyed. Five persons were killed and seven seriously wounded, while a large number, more or less, seriously injured. The storm came from the northwest.

FORGER SENTENCED.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Aug. 22.—James M. Breece, the young man who pleaded guilty to forging a check for $24, was sentenced to five years in the state prison.

SHIPYARDS CLOSED.

BELFAST, Aug. 22.—Owing to the strike of 5,000 shipwrights, the shipyard owners have closed the yards.

KING OTTO INSANE.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—King Otto of Bavaria is rapidly growing weaker, mentally and physically. His insane fits are increasing and his condition is such that his attendants never permit him out of their sight.

COUNTERFEITERS ARRESTED.

DENVER, Aug. 22.—Three counterfeiters and considerable material were captured in the Windsor hotel last night. The men were about ready to flood the United States and Mexico with gold pieces of denominations of $5, $10 and $20. Agents at Chicago, Denver, Santa Fe, San Francisco and the city of Mexico were to distribute the money.

HOARDING SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Aug.—It is reported that the sugar trust has succeeded in supplying the deficiency that existed in raw sugar a short time ago and that members of the trust are refining the surplus which they are storing, with what object is not known, unless it be to enable them to hoard it for the purpose of creating a corner and forcing the price still higher.

VESSEL ASHORE.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—The British str. Alicia arrived at Cork yesterday from Baltimore, and is ashore in a dangerous position and is straining heavily amidships. The cargo is being lightered.

UPRISING IN AFGHANISTAN.

BOMBAY, Aug. 22.—The Indian government has received news that the uprising in northern Afghanistan is serious. Troops have left Herat for Maimund, the seat of the insurrection.

A HEAVY FAILURE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—An informal meeting was held this morning at the produce exchange, previous to the regular opening of business, to listen to authorized statements in relation to the temporary suspension of S. R. Polk, who failed yesterday for three-quarters of a million. Mr. McIntyre, who had investigated Polk's affairs, expressed the opinion that by judicious management on the part of the creditors, Polk would be fully able to meet his obligations. His wheat contracts amount to 15,000,000 and corn to 800,000 bushels. The statements produced good effect and the excitement caused by the suspension soon subsided.

C.P.R. EXTENSIONS.

MONTREAL, Aug. 22.—In view of the proposed extension of the C.P.R., the company has made arrangements to extend the Michigan air line in order to form a short line between Detroit and Chicago, independent of the Wabash. The company is also making arrangements to at once make connection between its system of lines and the Toledo, St. Louis and Kansas City. The road reaching St. Louis, South west, by a route equal to the Wabash.

A TOWER FALLS.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—The 158 feet tower of the nearly completed Presbyterian church of the Covenant, fell early this morning into the street. No one was hurt as the people were warned the tower was showing signs of falling.

A GREAT STORM.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—A serious loss of life and property is reported from all over the country by last night's storm. Boston and the coast of New England reports many vessels ashore, and trees, chimneys and stacks blown down. Baltimore and Philadelphia report many vessels ashore and many disasters were caused by vessels dragging their anchors. All over Pennsylvania railroad traffic is almost at a standstill, caused by rivers overflowing, and flooding the tracks. In New York many disasters are reported, but no fatalities.

The Late Charles Crocker's Wealth.

The exact value of the vast property left by Mr. Crocker cannot be given for some time, but many estimates, broad and long, have been made. Those who are in a position to form a somewhat accurate idea, claim that his wealth will not exceed $35,000,000, though some persons place it at $50,000,000, and some as high as $80,000,000. It is probable that the first figures are nearer the exact wealth than any other. The greater portion of the late millionaire's wealth was invested in more than thirty railroads, in nearly all of which he held controlling interests. He was also interested in mining property in Nevada, and owned considerable real estate in San Francisco. He was also a heavy shareholder in 4,205 miles of steamship lines.—Colonist.

Jacob H. Bloomer, of Virgil, N. Y., writes: "Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil cured a badly swelled neck and sore throat on my son in forty-eight hours; one application also removed the pain from a sore toe; my wife's foot was also much inflamed—so much so that she could not walk about the house; she applied the Oil, and in twenty-four hours was entirely cured."

Daily British Columbian

Wednesday Evening, Aug. 22, 1888.

The United States government is claimed to have left unsettled a debt of honor for nearly thirty years. In return for the help which France gave to the American colonies in 1778, the latter promised to aid France in future wars with Great Britain. When war did break out between these two powers in 1793 the United States, however, resolved to remain neutral and was not called upon by France to fulfil the bond. Nevertheless France took offence at the action of certain privateers and seized in retaliation the cargoes and ships of many American citizens. The United States claimed indemnity for these losses, and the matter was settled in 1800 by France releasing the Americans from their former agreement to help in time of war, and by the American government undertaking to settle the claims made by its own citizens for the losses referred to. To this day these claims have never been satisfied, and the history of the remarkable delay is a curious one. As early as 1802 congress began to deal with the matter, and forty-eight different reports have been made to that body on the subject. Eight different bills passed the senate and three the house, authorizing payment. Two passed both houses, but were vetoed by Presidents Polk and Pierce. The other day the house committee on appropriations threw out the item, and payment is again postponed, but the New York Times holds that national decency and honor demand a settlement.

An exchange puts it in this way, referring to the recent novel experiments which the admiralty of great Britain have been making to test the invulnerableness (or otherwise) of the "tight little isle" to invasion from a foreign foe: "The British government have succeeded in proving that the British home fleet is incapable of defending British ports. The naval manœuvres by which the continental nations have been shown how easy a thing it is to elude British vessels and capture British cities have cost the country a pretty penny, but it is a small price to pay for the great discovery made by the long-suffering tax-payer that the sixty or seventy millions of dollars he contributes annually for the support of the navy is no guarantee of safety. If the naval manœuvres have not proved that, they have not proved anything. Perhaps the government set all the clever officers of the navy at the work of attacking and all the stupid ones at the work of defending. If that was the intention the judgment of those who separated the stupid from the clever would appear to have been amply vindicated. The safety of British ports in times of war would seem to rest chiefly upon the timidity or stupidity of her enemies. On the other hand, it seems probable that the ports of any enemy of Great Britain would fall an easy prey to our fleet. It is to be hoped that the clever officers who commanded the attacking vessels will in time of war prove themselves as clever in capturing the enemy's ships and ports."

Our despatches yesterday contained the announcement that Seth Green, the noted American pisciculturist, had died at his home at Rochester, N.Y., aged 71 years. He was born in the same city on March 19th, 1817, making him at the time of his death, on the 20th inst., a few months over the age given in the despatch. A fisherman by occupation, his attention was early attracted by the gradual diminution of fish in the waters of his native state, and in 1838 he began to devote himself to practical fish culture. In 1864 he organized the fish-breeding establishment at Caledonia Springs, in Livingstone county, which he managed with great success for four years. In 1867 he invented a shad hatching box, which has been extensively used in stocking the Connecticut, Hudson, and other rivers. He published a work on trout culture in 1870, and in 1871 succeeded in transporting 10,000 young shad from the Hudson to the Sacramento. He was for some years commissioner of fisheries of the state of New York, and became in 1874 superintendent of the state hatching house at Caledonia. Since then he has been identified more or less with fish culture both in his own state and in a national sense, and has written valuable treatises on the subject. The name of Seth Green has been almost a household word in the states at least, and he has been justly styled the "Father of American fish culture." The hatcheries owe their origin to him, and in his day and generation he did good service for the world. He now "rests from his labors, and his works do follow him."

As Parmelee's Vegetable Pills contain Mandrake and Dandelion, they cure Liver and Kidney Complaints with unerring certainty. They also contain Roots and Herbs which have specific virtues truly wonderful in their action on the stomach and bowels. Mr. E. A. Cairncross, Shakespeare, writes: "I consider Parmelee's Pills an excellent remedy for Biliousness and Derangement of the Liver, having used them myself for some time."

In these warm August days, when streets and lanes are filled with dust, one longs for a cool retreat away from the din and bustle and crowded thoroughfares, and whilst very few have leisure and means to indulge in the luxury of a trip to the Banff or Harrison springs, would it not be economical in future for those who are building residences and tenement houses to roof them flat, with the view of having an elysian retreat in the upper regions, under the blue expanse. A late Harper's Weekly gives a charming sketch of one of these elevated gardens: "A strong wooden frame supports a canvas awning, which affords ample room for swinging hammocks and the arranging of screens and trellises. The tin roof is covered with cheap matting, or wooden slats; around the enclosure are arranged boxes and pots of flowering plants, while creepers climb to the frame above and add beauty and seclusion to the bower. Scattered about are reclining chairs and furniture. In such a nook, with pleasant company, the hard worked body and care-worn brain would for the time forget the grind of business, the glare of pavement, and the pent-up-edness of towering brick walls." With a pipe from the water works, with a hose attached, the watering of flowers, &c., would be a pleasant evening duty. In oriental countries the house-top was valued as a cool and quiet retreat, and in our own country, although we do not have such an extensive warm season, a pleasant resort of the kind would be a thing of beauty and a joy for several months out of the twelve. Especially would these roof gardens be appreciated in large and closely built cities, and it does not require much stretch of the imagination to foresee that with all their advantages of pure air and other healthful influences, the idea must invariably commend itself to popular favor wherever it is introduced, provided the conditions are at all favorable. Hotels especially would add much to their comfort and convenience if the roofs were all furnished in this way. If, instead of the hideous monstrosities which modern so-called architects manage to put on top of dwellings and other houses, all houses in compactly built streets were flat roofed, with parapet walls, it would be a safety against fire, as well as a very desirable convenience for the purposes above mentioned.

A Creaking Hinge

Is dry and turns hard, until oil is applied, after which it moves easily. When the joints or hinges, of the body are stiffened and inflamed by Rheumatism, they cannot be moved without causing the most excruciating pains. Ayer's Sarsaparilla, by its action on the blood, relieves this condition, and restores the joints to good working order.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla has effected, in our city, many most remarkable cures, in cases which baffled the efforts of the most experienced physicians. Were it necessary, I could give the names of many individuals who have been cured by taking this medicine. In my case it has worked wonders, relieving me of after being troubled with it for years. In this, and all other diseases arising from impure blood, there is no remedy with which I am acquainted, that affords such relief as Ayer's Sarsaparilla.—R. H. Lawrence, M. D., Baltimore, Md.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla cured me of Gout and Rheumatism, when nothing else would. It has eradicated every trace of disease from my system.—R. H. Short, Manager Hotel Belmont, Lowell, Mass.

I was, during many months, a sufferer from chronic Rheumatism. The disease afflicted me grievously, in spite of all the remedies I could find, until I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I took several bottles of this preparation, and was speedily restored to health.—J. Fream, Independence, Va. ††

THE WEST SHORE

PORTLAND, OREGON

The West Shore is the only illustrated magazine published on the Pacific coast, and aside from its excellent literary features, its object is to convey information, by both pen and pencil, of the great resources of this region, and the progress of their development.

Special illustrated articles appear in each issue; also, several pages of notes of the progress being made in every section. Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana, Alaska, Utah, California, British Columbia, and the Pacific Northwest in general, are being illustrated. The subscription price is only $2.50. It is not only the cheapest illustrated magazine in the United States, but contains articles and engravings of great interest to every resident of this region, which can not be found in any other publication.

Subscribers for 1888 receive a large supplement every month. The first one is a beautiful oleograph of the "Entrance to the Columbia River," printed in nine colors, and each of the others represents some feature of our sublime scenery. The supplements are alone worth more than the price of the magazine. Try it for 1888, and after reading, send it to your friends elsewhere. You will find it both entertaining and instructive.

A COMPARISON.

I'd ruther lay out here among the trees,
With the singin' birds an' bum'l bees,
A-knowin' that I can do as I please,
Than to live what folks call a life of ease
Up thar in the city.

For I really don't zackly understan'
Where the comfort is for any man
In walking hot bricks an' usin' a fan,
An' enjoyin' himself as he says he can,
Up thar in the city.

It's kinder lonesome, mebbe you'll say,
A-livin' out here day after day
In this kinder easy, careless way;
But a hour out here is better'n a day
Up thar in the city.

As for that, jus' look at the flowers aroun'
A-peepin' their heads up all over the groun',
An' the fruit a-bendin' the trees way down,
You don't find such things as these in town,
Or ruther in the city.

As I said afore, such things as these,
The flowers, the birds, an' the bum'l bees,
An' a-livin' out here among the trees,
Where you can take your ease an' do as you please,
Makes it better'n the city.

Now, all the talk don't mount to snuff,
'Bout this kinder life a-bein' rough,
An' I'm sure it's plenty good enough;
An' 'tween you an' me 'taint half as tough
As livin' in the city.

—JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY.

SHE WAS BUSINESS.

Danger of Trifling with Young Affections.

There was a big excursion from Canada yesterday, and the Third street depot was jamb full of the foreigners all day. One of Detroit's smart Alecks was hanging around the place, and by and by observed to an acquaintance:

"If you find a smart, sharp widow in the lot who wants a second husband just let me know."

He turned to go, when a woman about 35, well-dressed, sharp-nosed, and hawk-eyed, tapped him on the shoulder and said:

"Mister, I overheard you. Do you want a wife?"

"Why—ah—why—ah——" he was stammering, when she interrupted him with:

"I'm a widow. I'm smart. I caught the man a dozen other girls were after. I'm sharp. I've turned a forty-acre farm into a mill paying $2,000 a year. You were inquiring for me."

"Well, ma'am, I—was only in fun, you know."

"You didn't mean it?"

"No."

"You are a married man already?"

"Y—Yes."

"See here, sir!" she continued as she came closer; "how dare you trifle with my feelings?"

"I—I didn't."

"Don't add the sin of lying to your other crimes. Who are you, sir?"

"I never meant it, ma'am."

"Where's the depot policeman? I'll see if I can't come to Detroit on an excursion without having my affections trifled with. Where's the officer?"

She rushed around to find one, and Smart Aleck took advantage of the break to fly. When she found him gone she gave her bonnet a fresh slant and said:

"He has escaped, has he? Well, I want him and all other men to understand that I'm straight business from head to heel, and I don't take anybody's bluff!"—Detroit Free Press.

AN ARCTIC LUNCH.

Taking Food When the Thermometer Is below Forty Degrees F.

About noon, or a little later, it is time to take a lunch, and that rest is consequently a little longer than usual. If there is any cooked meat from the morning meal it is devoured at this time.

Usually this meal is made from raw frozen meat, that of the reindeer being the best, unless it is intensely cold weather, when the fat seal and walrus are deemed better. With a hand ax or hatchet (sometimes a butcher's saw is used), chunks are cut from the hard frozen mass about the size of one's fist, and these solidified pieces, that one could use as a stone, are then converted into brashy masses by pounding them with the back of the axe or hatchet.

If the thermometer is below 40 degrees Fahrenheit, the meat must be breathed on a few times or, if partaken of freely, it will freeze the tender mucous membrane of the mouth and leave a painful sensation of burning.

The first effect of this peculiar polar lunch is to chill the person through and to set him to shivering; but in a very little while a reaction of genial warmth sets in, and the luncher feels much warmer, he imagines, than if he had partaken of a hot meal.—The Chatauquan.

ARTIFICIAL RESPIRATION.

The Preparation of Lifein Certain Cases.

A simple method of respiration artificially produced, proposed by a London physician, and which is claimed to possess all the advantages of the Marshall, Hall, Sylvester, Howard and other methods, without any of their disadvantages, is thus explained:

The body of the patient is laid on the back, with clothes loosened, and the mouth and nose wiped; two bystanders pass their right hands under the body at the level of the waist, grasp each other's hands, then raise the body until the tips of the fingers and the toes of the subject alone touch the ground; count fifteen rapidly, then lower the body flat to the ground and press the elbows to the sides hard; count fifteen again, then raise the body again for the same length of time, and so on, alternately raising and lowering.

The head, arms and legs are to be allowed to dangle down quite freely when the body is raised.

Life's Journey.

We talk of human life as a journey, but how variously is that journey performed!

There are those who come forth girt and shod and mantled, to walk on velvet lawns and smooth terraces, where every gale is arrested and every beam is tempered.

There are others who walk on the Alpine paths of life, against driving misery and through stormy sorrows over sharp afflictions; walk with bare feet and naked breast, jaded, mangled and chilled.—Rev. Sidney Smith.

Two Ways of Looking at It.

"When you ask for my daughter, young man," said the young lady's father, "do you know you are asking a great sacrifice of me?"

"N-not necessarily, sir," responded Mr. Hankinson, somewhat embarrassed, but anxious to reassure the old man. "Mamie says she doesn't care for an expensive wedding."

About By-Gones.

"Let by-gones be by-gones" is no sort of a motto for a woman. She would turn her head around to look after a stylish bonnet if it broke her neck.—Burlington Free Press.

EXPERIENCE OF PEOPLE.

Throwing Light on the Problem: How Long Should One Know Folks Before Making Friends of Them?

In a recent home circle conversation the writer asked the question: How long and well should one know a person before committing himself to confidential friendship? The answers, as was to be expected, were as different as the natures of those who made them.

"I can judge a man tolerably well at sight," said an impetuous New Englander, not yet familiar with metropolitan ways. "If he has an honest eye and a good face, is not marked with a rummy nose, and talks sensibly, I should not be afraid to ask him to my home. He might turn out badly some time, and I might be ashamed of having known him, but that cannot be helped. One never knows the whole of anybody's life history."

There was an ominous pause after this effusive statement. It was not pleasant to express less generous sentiments, but the countenance of the auditors showed that they could not agree with him.

"You will find that you cannot go on that rule here," said one who has lived longer in this city. "I used to feel just that way and acted accordingly, but now I make it a rule never to invite an acquaintance to call until I have known him favorably at least three months. If I am introduced to a stranger and like his appearance, I try to be cordial to him during that time. No hearing anything against him, or seeing anything wrong about him, I then give him an invitation.

"I was awfully taken in once by one of the most charming fellows in the world. He looked like a prince and talked like an angel, but he is in Canada now and a bank down town mourns for him and several thousand dollars which he stole. Since then I have not been hasty in making friends."

"Three months is not nearly long enough," said a bright, chatty lady, the sister of a well known clergyman. "Ben (her brother) and I have to meet all sorts of people in our church work, and we always wait a year. Most of our friends did so with us and they were right, judging by our experiences.

"One of the nicest and daintiest of little women moved into the flat next to ours soon after brother was called here, and I told him I meant to call on her. I didn't go just then because I had to go home and take care of mother during a sickness.

"One day after I had got back I happened to pass her door while she was saying good bye to a friend, and I heard more slang words in one minute than in all my life before. You can guess that I decided not to make her acquaintance."

"You were perfectly right in saying that a year is not too long," said another lady, picking up the conversational thread. "When we lived on —— street we had for near neighbors as nice a looking couple as ever were seen. The man went to his business every morning, and the woman was singing over her work all day long. My husband thought they were nice, and so did I, but we learned better before long.

"One night they had a supper party that began at 10 o'clock and ended at daybreak. Everyone must have been drunk, for they sang and shouted so that nobody else in the house could get a wink of sleep. After that we heard them scolding each other every night, and at last something exploded like a cannon cracker between them. Both commenced divorce proceedings and the wife was turned out of the house because she couldn't pay her rent and the husband would not."

"No doubt all of you are right from the point of view of personal interest," said the unsophisticated New Englander, who has not yet realized that personal interest rules the best of us in an inordinate measure. "You have had bad luck, but most people are good and well disposed. Now, I've just made some new friends in a very queer way, and I mean to stick by them until I find they are not all right.

"Last night when I was going up the stairs of my boarding house, in my usual dunderheaded, absent minded style, I turned into the room below mine by mistake.

"Thinking, of course, that I was in my own room I was dumbfounded at its appearance, with trunks piled up in the corner and ladies' dresses hanging in the open closet. A low, sweet female voice struck on my ear as I stood there amazed.

"'There, baby,' it said, 'is papa,' and before I could turn, her arms were about my neck. Then she saw what had happened and accepted my apology, though not very graciously at first.

"We are good friends now, I am glad to say, and laughed over the accident this morning."—New York Press.

INNKEEPER'S REVENGE.

Getting the Better of a Great Statesman.

John Randolph, being at an inn, in Virginia, was about to leave, when the master of the house inquired which way he was traveling.

"Sir!" said Mr. Randolph, with a look of displeasure.

"I asked," said the landlord, "which way are you traveling?"

"Have I paid you my bill?"

"Yes."

"Do I owe you anything more?"

"No."

"Well, I'm going just where I please; do you understand?"

"Yes."

The landlord was somewhat excited, and Mr. Randolph drove off; but to his surprise, in a few minutes sent one of his servants to inquire which of the forks of the road he should take.

Mr. Randolph, not being out of hearing distance, the landlord spoke out at the top of his breath:

"Mr. Randolph, you don't owe me one cent—take just what road you please."

Drives or Carries—Which?

Hostess (whose daughter is singing)—"Do you not think, Mr. Featherly, that my daughter has a very sweet voice?"

Featherly (ecstatically)—"Sweet, Mrs. Hobson! Why it fairly drives me away!"

Hostess—"Indeed!"

A little later Featherly discovered his mistake. "I beg pardon, Mrs. Hobson, but I should have said that your daughter's sweet voice fairly carries me away."

"Oh!"

What He Furnished.

"Oh, yes," remarked Ketchly, in a self-satisfied way, "Lulu and I will start out in married life under very favorable circumstances. Her mother gives us a neat little home, her father furnishes it, and her Uncle De Long has stocked one of the neatest stables in the city. Besides, Lulu has a snug income in her own name."

"What part do you furnish?"

"Well—principally the name—principally the name."—Tid Bits.

"It Saved My Life"

Is a common expression, often heard from those who have realized, by personal use, the curative powers of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. ☞ I cannot say enough in praise of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, believing as I do that, but for its use, I should long since have died from lung troubles.—E. Bragdon, Palestine, Tex.

About six months ago I had a severe Hemorrhage of the Lungs, brought on by a distressing Cough, which deprived me of sleep and rest. I had used various cough balsams and expectorants, without obtaining relief. A friend advised me to try

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

I did so, and am happy to say that it helped me at once. By continued use this medicine cured my cough, and, I am satisfied, saved my life.—Mrs. E. Coburn, 18 Second st., Lowell, Mass.

I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for over a year, and sincerely believe I should have been in my grave, had it not been for this medicine. It has cured me of a dangerous affection of the lungs, for which I had almost despaired of ever finding a remedy.—D. A. McMullen, Windsor, Province of Ontario.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral saved my life. Two years ago I took a very severe Cold which settled on my lungs. I consulted physicians, and took the remedies they prescribed, but failed to obtain relief until I began using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Two bottles of this medicine completely restored my health.—Lizzie M. Allen, West Lancaster, Ohio. ††

The salmon fishers on the Dee, in Wales, are agitating for a limit to be placed on the number of nets allowed on that river, as it is found the increased number are keeping the fish from entering the river. This complaint is about the same as has lately been made anent the Fraser.

The Vancouver "World".

Mr. J. M. O'Brien, who has been on the editorial staff of the Colonist for about 2 years has severed his connection with that journal and will join Mr. J. C. McLagan in the publication of the World, a new evening paper about to be established at Vancouver. Mr. O'Brien is an able and spicy writer, is well read on general subjects and has the knack of making himself a favorite wherever he goes. With such able and energetic managers as Mr. McLagan and Mr. O'Brien the success of the World is already assured.

The Boundary Bay Resort.

The plans and specifications for the new summer resort on Boundary Bay have been completed, and work has commenced on the building. The hotel will be 2 storeys high, will contain large sitting rooms, parlors, and bathrooms. A store will also occupy a portion of the ground flat, and a stock of general merchandise will be kept on hand. Around the hotel will run a broad verandah which will make a pleasant promenade and will also be a protection from the sun. The building faces the beach which is famed for being the finest on the coast. The hotel ought to be a great success.

The Fraser Improvements.

The Dominion government has at last decided to issue a chart of the Fraser River for navigable purposes. It is to be hoped that this intention will not be delayed but that the new chart will be issued forthwith. The date of letting the contract for the improvements at the mouth of the Fraser has been unnecessarily delayed, the closing date for receiving tenders being fixed at Sept. 4th. Tenders should have been in and the contract let by July 1st at least. Whoever is appointed to superintend the contract should be a person who has a good knowledge of the river, and who has the welfare of Westminster at heart.

Another Fine Steamer.

A company has been formed in this city to build and run a fine stern wheel steamer for the Fraser river trade. The new steamer will be 136 ft. in length, 26 ft. beam and 4½ ft. depth of hold. She will be supplied with 2 16 horse-power horizontal engines and a steel boiler with a working capacity of 125 lbs. Work was commenced on the hull of the steamer yesterday morning at the Brunette saw mills, which company supplies the lumber. Alex. Watson, of Victoria, the well-known ship builder, has the contract for building her and has already a large force of men at work. Capt. Insley will superintend the construction.

Fleeced a Servant Girl.

A Helena, Montana, paper states that a carpenter named Charles Myers came to that city about a year ago, and becoming acquainted with a young girl who was a domestic in a private family, the intimacy ripened into an engagement. A few days ago Myers skipped out, his destination being Victoria. He victimized a large number of people by borrowing from them various sums of money; but his crowning act was the securing of $500 from the girl whom he had engaged to marry. He learned that the young lady had accumulated between $400 and $500, and one evening he disclosed to her a scheme to make some money. He said he had $2,000, but needed just $500 more. The confinding girl entrusted her savings to the rascal, and next morning he left for British Columbia.

A Whatcom Opinion.

The talk about the Canadian Pacific railroad building a line from to Ladner's Landing, thence to Boundary Bay, west of Blaine, there to connect with the West Coast, seems improbable as the West Coast map shows the line crossing the boundary on the Guide Meridian north of Lynden. It may be that the plans have been changed, however, to leave New Westminster off the route, to punish her for voting that subsidy to the Canfield line; or the engineers may be running that line for a—bluff. That game did not work at Winnipeg, and it is old here. Van Horne ought to remember his Manitoba and Red river lesson. There he stormed and threatened and bluffed—and then compromised with competing lines. It is only a matter of time when he will do so with Westminster. —Whatcom Revielle.

Salmon Canning on the Sound.

Salmon are running fairly well on the Sound now, and packing will soon begin in earnest. There are five canning companies on the Sound now, as follows: George T. Myers at Milton, Seattle Packing Company at Muckilteo, King County Packing Company at Seattle, Columbia Packing Company at Seattle, and Puget Sound Salmon Company at Samish. The probable pack for the season on the Sound is estimated variously at from 25,000 to 40,000 cases. It is also estimated that the canneries will pay out about $60,000 this season. The fishermen have organized and fixed the price at 17 cents a piece for salmon. The canners will not pay more than ten cents. The fishermen's union men say they will patrol the fishing grounds and draw all the nets to land if worked by non-union men. The canners declare that there will be a number of impromptu and cheap funerals if such a game is attempted. Next week is expected to bring about interesting developments in fishing circles of the sound.

A. D. Noyes, Newark, Mich., writes: "I have enquired at the drug stores for Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, but have failed to find it. We brought a bottle with us from Quebec, but it is nearly gone and we do not want to be without it, as my wife is troubled with a pain in the shoulder, and nothing else gives relief. Can you send us some?"

Be ready to eat real estate fish, meat, fowl and pastry at the hotels, drink real estate w—ater, sleep in real estate beds, with a real estate bedfellow, for there are corner lots of them hopping all about the streets perfectly tame and unmolested by the law-abiding citizens. There are enough real estate men around Bellingham Bay to form a good-sized military company.—Blaine Journal.

Homeward Bound.

This morning the str. Irving on her trip up river took 190 Indians and their canoes and baggage. These Indians have been employed in connection with the canneries for the last twe months, and are now going home to harvest their crops and make other preparations for winter. Although the fishing season has not been very profitable the Indians all seem to have a little money to take home with them, and are also supplied with many articles, purchased in town, which would scarcely be considered necessary to the comfort of a Siwash. Among the purchases made by them were cook stoves, cooking utensils, rolls of carpet, lace curtains, handsomely framed pictures, bedsteads, mattrasses, fancy quilts, good furniture and many other items which Indians were not supposed to know the use of. They also take large supplies of provisions. With the returning red men is the Fort Douglas band, which has been the delight of the fishing community for a couple of months past. Last evening it played a few parting tunes from the C. P. N. Co.'s wharf; and it must be said the band is worthy of much credit considering the disadvantages it works under.

Lillooet Notes.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

LILLOOET, Aug. 15.—I presume that a few notes from this land of great quartz expectations will not be unwelcome. I left Westminster on the day of your great triumph. The day when Westminster broke open the shell of its long incubation and stood before the world a vigorous and perfectly organized body, fully equipped for the battle of life. The shell was pipped when the junction was made, cracked when the lumber ships came up, and fairly smashed and the bird let out by the boom of the Southern R. R.

To come to this place one should leave on Sunday, when he can come through direct. There is no public conveyance except to Clinton. I got an Indian to bring me here in his buggy for $20 and expenses and came by way of Hat Creek and Marble Canyon. I asked the agent of the B. C. Express Co. what he would charge to take me through and he politely informed me that the price would be sixty dollars—a dollar a mile! I came through in a day and a half, the Indian returning to a rancherie, ten miles on the way back. I hope that I shall never be placed under the necessity of tiring any of the horses or annoying any of servants of the B. C. Express Co.

Ashcroft I found busy and hot day and night. Hotel good, Charley Glasby the most attentive of good fellows; the table, with less glare of white napkins and imitation silver, is quite as good, and more promptly served, than at more pretentious hotels down stream.

Cache Creek, a brief text around which cluster the memories of ten thousand lives. In more favored places time covers his ruins with many vines and flowers, among which the prophetic morning glory shows its lovely smile, here only the drifting sands marks the ruins. Hat Creek, uninteresting and forever useless excepting a few patches occupied by Indians. I saw one place which indicated stranger's hands, and was told that an old white man had lived there alone for 15 years.—Marble Canyon is one of nature's wonders, and doubtless the greatest of all her "marble halls." But I will let Lady Macdonald come and tell of its long corridors and cloud-capped pillars. Its length is about 11 miles. In its course are two lakes, one of about three miles, the other four and a half. At the outlet lives Capt. Marlley, a most worthy and characteristic porter, stationed at the door of that sublime "hall." In his buildings he has had the grand idea, not to mar any of nature's rugged harmony. His buildings—all with earthen roofs—are like massive blocks of weather-beaten rocks which had fallen from the cliffs. The shyest wood nymph would scarcely suspect that a human habitation was there. Yet within those unpretentious walls I found the most courteous hospitality and refined intelligence. The captain has not always lived in a bear's nest, and he has now around him a large stock of animals of all kinds and a very large and varied crop.

My coming was not unexpected at Lillooet, and I was pleasantly received. Many came to the hotel to interview me on quartz, and to cut the matter short I stated at once I had not come to buy, but to satisfy myself and certain other parties as to the character of the ores and ledges.

I have visited a number of claims where croppings appear. Many good assays have been reported, but very little work has been done. Anderson lake district is now attracting attention and I have seen some silver-lead ores which look well. Mr. Jenen and many others are there now.

I am stopping at the house of Mr. Richard Hoey. He has a beautiful place here and another valuable farm six miles down the river. Mr. Pat. Burns, of Lulu Island, is also here for his health, which is rapidly improving. There has been much rain; now clear, and very warm. To-morrow I leave again for the claims at the head of Seaton Lake. Good road to the lake. Thence up, up, away up. More hereafter. J. M. W.

A By-law to Provide for an Adequate Ferry Boat Service.

WHEREAS IT IS DESIRABLE TO provide for the operation of the Ferry for which a license was granted to the Corporation of the City of New Westminster and the Corporation of the District of Surrey by letters patent bearing date the Seventh day of October, 1883.

AND WHEREAS for the purpose aforesaid it is expedient to raise by way of loan the sum of $75,000 upon the credit of the said City.

AND WHEREAS it will require the sum of $6,000.00 to be raised annually by special rate for paying the debt intended to be hereby created and the interest thereon.

AND WHEREAS the amount of the whole ratable property of the said Corporation according to the last revised Assessment Roll is $862,511.00.

AND WHEREAS for paying the interest and creating an equal yearly sinking fund for paying the principal of the said debt intended to be hereby created according to the "Municipality Act, 1881," an annual special rate of seven mills on the dollar will be required.

BE IT THEREFORE ENACTED by the Mayor and Council of the Corporation of the City of New Westminster, as follows:

4. The said Debentures shall bear interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum from the date thereof, which interest shall be payable half-yearly at the office of the said Clerk.

5. For the purpose of forming a sinking fund for the payment of the said Debentures and the interest to become due thereon an equal special rate of seven mills on the dollar shall, in addition to all other rates, be raised, levied and collected in each year upon all ratable property within the said City of New Westminster during the continuance of the said Debentures, or any of them.
