NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Dehorning was warmly debated by the Nebraska stockmen the other day. Most of the speakers favored the practice. One advocate finished his little speech by the enthusiastic declaration, "I believe that the day is not far distant when even the hydraulic rams will be dehorned."

The enterprising Washington correspondent of a western paper recently telegraphed to his paper an imaginary interview with Dr. Wharton, the acknowledged authority on international law. When he saw the paper the next morning he was horrified to learn that Dr. Wharton died early in the previous evening, at the time when he was represented as chatting with the correspondent.

Says a western exchange: A practical revivalist in this neighborhood requested all in the congregation who had paid their debts to rise. The rising was general. After taking their seats, a call was made for those who didn't pay their debts, and one solitary individual arose, who explained that he was an editor and could not, because the rest of the congregation were owing him for their subscriptions.

In a divorce court.—Defendant's lawyer—"If your honor pleases, I would like to ask a recess for ten minutes. A maiden aunt of the defendant has died and left him $500,000. I wish to consult with my client for a moment." Plaintiff's attorney (hurriedly)—"The lady whom I have the honor to represent instructs me to withdraw this complaint. If the court pleases, I move that the case be dismissed."—Chicago Herald.

A writer who contends that old-fashioned out-of door games are the best form of excercise for children says: Running makes a trim ankle and a shapely leg, and girls should be encouraged to run as often as possible in old-fashioned games of ball or prisoner's base, which, as it used to be played, left few fibres of the body without stretch and refreshment. The dodging, the feints and sudden dashes for base were good practises in tactics, giving a quick eye and foot and lithe body.

A fish story, which makes up for any inactivity there has been of late in that line of literature, is furnished by the Bangor Commercial. Here it is: Two fishermen at Pushaw Lake who baited a line with shiner and put it through the ice, noticing a great commotion presently, took it from the water, when it was found that a white perch weighing about half a pound had first swallowed the bait, and then an enormous pickerel had swallowed both the perch and its prize.

M. Pasteur thinks that he has discovered another morbific germ—that of diphtheria, and hopes that his discovery will lead to means of preventing the disease by inoculation. If medical science travels much further along these lines the early days of childhood will be taken up with successive vaccinations. If, for example, it takes three weeks for the arm to recover from the operation, and there are, say, thirty diseases to be warded off, nearly two years would be taken up at once with vaccinations!

Mrs. Nancy Clark Marshall Winkle Smith Frisbee McGregor Rawlins, a rich and somewhat masculine woman, who owns valuable cattle and timber lands in Montana and Oregon, has lately reached the extreme Scriptural limit of marrying chronicled of her sex by taking unto herself her seventh husband. She went to San Francisco over the plains in 1849, and the uncertainties of border life have enabled her to gratify her taste for marital change without resort to divorce. Every one of her husbands was dead before another took his place. One was lost in a mountain snow-storm, another was killed by Indians, and a bucking horse assisted another out of the world. Husband No. 7 is twenty-eight years old. He was raised by the much-widowed woman, and calls her "Mamma."

A project is on foot to buy a house in Unter den Linden for the purpose of establishing a Bismarck museum, in which will be preserved objects associated with the chancellor. This shows what whirlabout changes come with the passage of the years. There was a time when the iron-willed chancellor was the most hated man in Berlin. But his calm, rock-like steadfastness of purpose has conquered all opponents. On one occassion he was being pursued by a yelling crowd through the streets in Berlin. Suddenly he stopped, and faced about on the throng, putting his hand in his breast-pocket of his coat. The hooting mob fell back, thinking he was going to draw a revolver. But he only took out his cigar case and laughed. When he had lit his cigar he walked calmly on, while his revilers shrunk away abashed. Now they are going to institute a museum for him. We wonder if it will contain that cigar case.—Ex.

THE PARNELL COMMISSION.

LONDON, March 12.—The Parnell commission resumed to-day. Attorney-General Webster called to the witness-box an accountant who testified he examined the books of the Hibernian Bank of Dublin, where the National League accounts were kept, but he was unable to trace the persons to whom the checks were paid or the sources whence the checks came. He found between Nov., 1879 and Sept. 1882, the league had received £261,269 and paid out £261,276. The bank officers refused to allow him to examine the lodgment slips. The National League had paid the Ladies' League £12,306, relief fund, £2,025, and disbursed £10,000 for the defence of prisoners. The accountant testified he had examined the books of the Land League. The league's total receipts for 1883 were £11,069; for 1884, £11,500; for 1885, £18,000; for 1886, £15,510; total receipts of the National League for the same period £100,613. Parnell assented to the examination of his private account at the National Bank. Mr. Coffee, a Cork reporter, then made a statement about the report that a policeman had promised Coffee big pay if he would testify before the commission. The witness declared the report entirely false. This statement caused a sensation.

GERMANY'S REPRESENTATIVE.

BERLIN, March 12.—It is officially announced Count VonBerchem, under secretary of state, will represent Germany in the conference held at Berlin regarding Samoan affairs.

THE BASE BALLERS HONORED.

LONDON, March 12.—Right Hon. Arthur Wellesly Peel, speaker of the house of commons, has arranged for a visit to parliament of the American base ball players now in London. They will visit parliament in a body. The American Club, upon the nomination of Mr. White as secretary of the American legation, made the ball players honorary members of the club during their stay in England.

EDMUND YATES' CABLE.

LONDON, Mar. 12.—The government kept their secret well about their naval programme. No one knew when Lord George Hamilton rose to speak what the proposal was to be. Lord George did it very well. His speech was well composed, statesmanlike in tone and calm with no swagger or bombast about it. The house knew nothing of the scheme. Lord George worked it up artistically, and his review of the grounds on which the government based the proposal was a cleverly done digression for the sake of conciliating the opposition. Having said a word on every point and patted every one on the back who ought to be patted, he turned his policy on the house, if I may say so, as suddenly as if it were the light of a magic lantern. He comprised the whole scene in a sentence. "Seventy new ships", and they are to cost £21,500,000. Perhaps the suddenness of the announcement took away from its effect, for there was not a strong demonstration of approval in the house. The ministerialists cheered, but not vociferously; the opposition hardly knew what line to take. The scheme looks large and novel, but is only a large development of Lord Northbrooke, and when analyzed does not mean anything gigantic. There is no doubt that in the country it will be popular. Any government that can give employment by the spending of £21,500,000 without having to provide the money by a new and grievous system of taxation must be looked on with favor.

THE DUC'S RETURN.

There are few Frenchmen who do not think the exile of Duc D'Aumale an absurd manifestation of violence, and few who are not glad to see the brave soldier return to his fatherland and end his days amongst his books and art collections at Chantilly, and in agreeable literary and gastronomic commerce wiih his colleagues of the Academy and Institute. The Duc D'Aumale returns to Chantilly to-morrow, and on Tuesday there will be a full meeting of the academy to welcome the illustrious exile. M. Spulter, who has long been eyeing the doors of the academy, hopes now to receive some encouragement, as the reward for his promoting the revocation of the decree of exile, and trusts his candidacy for a place amongst the immortals will have the support of the party of the Duke.

SURPRISE AT BERLIN.

A good deal of surprise and comment has been created at Berlin by the fact that the King of Wurtemberg has conferred grand cross of the order of Olga on the Countess Von Waldersee, wife of Count Von Waldersee, chief of staff. Any special distinction or incident affecting the Countess Von Waldersee is always viewed with interest, as she is known to have great influence with the emperor. In the late scandals about the King of Wurtemberg and his American friends, the Countess Von Waldersee may have had some hand in smoothing the matter over with the emperor, and would doubtless be glad to avoid any further developments, she herself being an American.

THE CRISIS OVER.

LONDON, March 12.—The financial crisis in Paris is over and all signs of excitement have disappeared from the vicinity of the Comptoir des Comptes. Copper stocks here are firm and active.

EARL RADNOR DEAD.

LONDON, March 12.—The Earl of Radnor died yesterday, aged 74 years. He is succeeded by his oldest son, Viscount Folkestone, now conservative member of parliament for Enfield, and treasurer of the royal household.

A NEW EXPLOSIVE.

BERLIN, March 12.—A new explosive for shells, manufactured from carbolic acid, has been discovered by a German naval officer.

THE BARNSLEY ELECTION.

LONDON, March 12.—Lord Compton (Gladstonian) was elected to parliament from Barnsley division of Yorkshire, to-day. Compton received 6,232 votes against 3781, cast for B. C. Vernon Wentworth, the conservative candidate. In the previous election Wentworth received 2917 against 5,425 polled by C. H. Kenney the Gladstonian candidate.

HOOTED OUT.

LONDON, March 12.—W. S. Caine, M.P., and Richard Chamberlain, M.P., were hooted out of a local option meeting last night because they were unionists.

PROMISED AID.

ZANZIBAR, March 12. — Thomas Stevens, the American who is in search of Stanley, was received by the Sultan last night. The latter promised him aid in his search.

STATE AIDED EMIGRATION.

LONDON, March 11.—This year will probably see a renewal of Irish state aided emigration to Canada and elsewhere. Mr. Balfour, the Irish secretary, stated in the house of commons to-night that £18,000 was unspent of the parliamentary grant for emigration from the congested district of Ireland, and that the government would welcome proposals to continue the emigration. The Scotch state aided emigration is also likely to assume importance this season, besides the proposed emigration to Manitoba of 40 crofter families under the auspices of the government. The Scotch emigration office has just reported favorably to the treasury upon Mr. Alexander Begg's proposal for an imperial advance of £150,000 to the British Columbia government for the settlement of crofters in that province. Mr. Begg believes that the treasury will promptly sanction the advance at a low interest and hopes to settle 50 families during this season so as to pave the way for a much larger immigration in a future season.

TURN HIM OUT.

LONDON, March 10.—The annual dinner of Cornishmen residing in London, took place at the Holborn restaurant last evening. Mr. Thomas B. Bolitho, M.P., for St. Ives, presided, and the attendance was unusually large. Toasts were drunk to the Prince and Princess of Wales as the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall. The entire company with the exception of one man drank the toasts standing and concluded by singing "God bless the Prince of Wales." The exception was Mr. Conybeare, member for Camborne. When it was observed that he did not rise to his feet with the others, a wave of indignation swept over the company and the offending member was greeted with cries of "Stand up," "Turn him out." The uproar finally became so general and so intense that Mr. Conybeare seemed to be in danger of personal violence, and realizing his position he stood up.

VICTORIA NEWS.

Rapid Advance in Real Estate.—Mr. Thos. Davie Causes a Sensation in the Full Court by Impeaching Mr. Justice Walkem's Word.—Davie Apologizes.

Special to the Columbian.

VICTORIA, B.C., March 12.—H.M.S. Icarus has gone into the dry-dock for the purpose of undergoing repairs to slight injuries received by collision with an iceberg while coming through the Magellan Straits.

The Oddfellows' banquet last night was a great success. Eighty members were present.

Real estate is advancing rapidly. A block containing a little over five acres, facing on Dallas Road, James Bay, sold this morning for $13,000.

In the supreme court yesterday, while a case was being heard before the full bench, an altercation arose between Justice Walkem and Theodore Davie, Q.C., during which, Davie remarked that his (Davie's) affidavit would be taken anywhere in B. C. while that of Walkem's would not. The chief justice, who was presiding, reprimanded Mr. Davie severly and adjourned the court to give Davie an opportunity to apologize. This morning Davie offered a very humble apology and excused himself on the ground that he was provoked by the judge. The matter was accordingly smoothed over and the case gone on with.

A report from Cape Mudge states there are forty case of smallpox among the Indians of that place. A Catholic priest is nursing the afflicted ones. Very few deaths have occurred and it is thought the epidemic will soon be under control.

LATE CANADIAN NEWS.

Graham, M. P. P. for West Hastings, died Sunday morning, aged 60.

The Crusaders and St. Paul rinks won the international trophy at the Bonspiel at Winnipeg.

Colonel Elijah Kitchison, of Sydney Ontario, has been stricken with paralysis. The colonel is 95 and a veteran of 1812.

The conservative convention to nominate a candidate to contest East Elgin for the local house has been adjourned on account of the smallpox epidemic near there.

Close upon 92,000 pilgrims visited the shrines of La Bonne Ste. Anne last summer. The pilgrimages organized came from all parts of the Dominion and the United States.

There is no abatement of the smallpox scourge in Ontario. In Fingal and the Township of Southwold, there has been 29 cases and 8 deaths to date. One death and one new case were reported Friday. The death was in the Lethbridge family, which has now lost three members. The roads leading from Southwold are guarded by armed men to prevent the plague being spread around as it was at first. All public gatherings or private dances have been prohibited in the neighboring town of St. Thomas.

A deputation from Montreal has gone to Ottawa to look after the project to construct a bridge across the St. Lawrence. The proposed bridge will stretch from Longeuil to St. Helen's Island, with nine spans, and from the Island to Point St. Charles, with fourteen spans. It will be made for a double track line of railway for a train of cars, as well as a roadway for vehicles and foot passengers. It is estimated to cost $2,000,000. A Scotch bridge company have offered to construct it on four per cent. interest on the investment.

Approves of a Committee to Considrer the Means of Improved Relations with Canada.

The Northern Rebels in Hayti Weakening and Many Towns Ready to Surrender.

A Heavy Gale Prevents Vessels from Entering San Francisco Harbor.

RELATIONS WITH CANADA.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—In the senate to-day "a special committee on relations with Canada" was proposed, with Mr. Hoar as chairman. Mr. Payne moved to strike this committee out of the list. Mr. Sherman and Mr. Blair spoke against the motion, holding that closer relations with Canada ought to be encouraged. Mr. Gibson spoke in favor of the retention of the committee on relations with Canada, and suggested that its scope be enlarged so that it include relations with Mexico in its subjects for consideration. Mr. Frye spoke in favor of the committee. He said this country had not given the attention it should to this subject, and especially to the fisheries and their bearing on the relations between the two countries. The committee was retained.

THE VACANT GOVERNORSHIP.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—A. W. Bash, of Port Townsend, dined with President Harrison last night. He says that the contest for the governorship of that territory, soon to be admitted as a state, rests between ex-Governor Watson C. Squire and Miles C. Moore, both of Seattle.

RABBI COHN DEAD.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 12.—Rabbi Elkin Cohn, of the congregation of Emanuel El, the largest and richest Hebrew congregation on the coast, died last night from paralysis of the heart, after a 20-years' pastorate. He was 78 years of age and devoted nearly all his earnings to charity.

THE NORTH WEAKENING.

NEW YORK, March 12.—Haytian advices state that the opposition to Legitime in the North is weakening, and several cities are euger to surrender to his forces.

THE OPIUM SMUGGLERS.

BISMARCK, Dak., March 12.—The case against Archibald J. Curran and J. M. Leonard, charged with smuggling opium from Canada, was called yesterday. It will be remembered that Curran previously testified he was shipping for another man, but did not give the name. The first witness in the case is Miss Carey, station agent at Botineau. She swears Curran made the shipments. One box, shipped by Curran, was valued at over $20,000.

AN UGLY GALE.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 12.—A gale prevails outside the harbor and no vessels are entering. The bar was very rough at 6 a.m., and the wind was blowing twenty miles an hour; it had increased to forty miles an hour at noon.

DREXEL'S ENDOWMENT.

PHILADELPHIA, March 12.—Mr. Drexel, the banker, has purchased a building for the Drexel industrial woman's college, which he will endow with a million and a half dollars.

BRAKEMAN KILLED.

HELENA, Mont., March 12.—W. M. Lowery, a Northern Pacific brakeman, was killed in the Millan tunnel last night. In climbing from a flat car to the top of a box car, by the side ladder, as the train was passing through the tunnel, his head came in contact with an upright and he was knocked off and killed.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

OTTAWA, March 11.—In the house of commons to-day the Hon. Jon Haggart introduced an act to amend the Civil Service Act.

Sir J. S. D. Thompson introduced an amendment to the Copyright Act.

Dr. Wilson introduced a bill to amend the act respecting threats, intimidations and other offences.

Sir J. S. D. Thompson introduced an act to amend the act of the Trinity House and Harbor Commissioners of Montreal.

Hon. E. Dewdney in replying to Mr. Mulock said that the total amount of North-West land scrip now outstanding is $700,000.

Mr. Dewdney, in answer to Mr. Edgar, stated that it was the intention of the government to introduce legislation at the present session to provide for holding elections in the North-West by ballot.

Before the notices of motions were reached, Mr. Barron found time to make two applications to the government to bring down the correspondence relating to the Jesuit's compensation bill asked for by him some time ago. His motion for these papers has not been reached yet, but he thought that the premier should consent to this, as it would facilitate matters when the discussion took place on Mr. O'Brien's motion.

Mr. Charlton spoke in favor of the resolution, declaring the inexpediency of the practice of remaining in session after midnight and providing for a discontinuance of the same. A lengthy discussion ensued, in which Sir John Macdonald and Messrs. Laurier, Mills and Mitchell took part. Finally the resolution was withdrawn, Sir John agreeing to discuss the matter at the beginning of next session with Messrs. Laurier and Mitchell with the object of submitting rules to the house for revision by a special committee.

PEOPLE WHO RESIDE OR SOJOURN in regions of country where fever and ague and bilious remittent fever are prevalent, should be particularly careful to regulate digestion, the liver and the bowels, before the approach of the season for the periodic malady. The timely use of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure is a valuable safeguard against the malarial scourge. It is acknowledged to be the best blood purifier in the market.

Daily British Columbian

Tuesday Evening, March 13, 1889.

There is a proverb, which, of course, is a "chestnut," as all proverbs are, that "All things come to him who waits." This saying may be taken as applying very aptly to the experience of the Royal City at this time. Her citizens have waited long for many things. Now, when we are on the very verge of a full and happy fruition of all our hopes, we can afford to felicitate ourselves for a moment. The information that we publish to-day, as well as that given yesterday, and on other occasions, concerning Westminster's long nourished and pet scheme of Southern Railway connection with the great railway systems of the Pacific coast and the continent, must be most gratifying to every citizen of the royal city. Every one nearly of our readers knows the history of this enterprise, the devoted labors of our citizens in its behalf, the delays, the obstacles met and overcome, the misunderstandings. Now, that we are practically assured of a consummation that shall excel the most sanguine expectations of the most optimistic Southern Railway man, the difficulties and misconceptions of the past will soon be swallowed up and forgotten in the satisfactory issue of the whole affair. The citizens of Westminster can be proud of one thing in connection with the history of the Southern Railway for the past nine or ten months, and that is that they have maintained a consistent attitude throughout. There has been no going back on anything. The city's good name has been sustained in this matter, as on other occasions. In spite of the temptations and pressure from within and from without, the citizens have refused to stultify themselves, but on every occasion have recorded a consistent expression on the question, thereby showing their intelligent determination to have the railway and sustain the city's good name at the same time. The reward is near at hand. As we have treated all parties concerned with the utmost fairness, we have a right to expect, and it is evident that we shall receive, fair and just treatment ourselves from those who have the construction and operation of the Southern Railway in hand. But, apart from these considerations, the fine location and splendid advantages of this city, which arrest the attention of every visitor, will insure that Westminster shall shortly become the great railway centre—as it is now in other things—of the province.

There is a question that is being brought very prominently before the attention of our citizens just now, by the young men of the city principally. That question is, broadly speaking, the Y.M.C.A. institution and its work. It is not necessary to be more specific. Every one nearly—and many to their own benefit—knows what the Y.M.C.A. is, and what it is doing or, at least, aiming to do. The institution, originated in a very humble way, hardly more than half a century ago, has now become world-wide in its operations and its influence, and great good is unquestionably being done through its various agencies. In British Columbia, where branches of the Y.M.C.A. have been only comparatively recently started, and the organization is yet in a crude and weak condition, a very inadequate conception can be formed of the real scope and importance in a city of this institution. Suffice it to say, that no city of any pretentions can afford to be without a good, healthy, and perfectly organized, Y.M.C.A. institution. Nearly all cities, on the American continent, especially, recognize this, and the best men in every respect, those who have hearts, brains, and wealth, are found supporting the Y.M.C.A. liberally in the principal Canadian and American cities. The reason is not far to seek. The real wealth of the state is the individual. What benefits the individual—and the Y.M.C.A. benefits a very large aggregation of individuals, in many respects—benefits the state. It is, therefore, plain that this beneficent institution is supported largely, and will continue to be supported, because it pays the state—the city—the community—society, in a large or a limited sense—to accord this support. As was shown by one of the speakers at the meeting at the opera house last night, the Y.M.C.A. aims (and succeeds) to benefit the individual in a four-fold sense—physically, intellectually, socially and spiritually—in fact its aims and accomplishments are all in the line of building up a perfect manhood. Any association with such a purpose—and one which can show such a good record of success in its noble work where it has been thoroughly tried—deserves and should have every encouragement from all who are able to give it in any form. There are, everyone must admit, no lack of agencies—well supported too—constantly at work, whose avowed object or palpable tendency is directly in opposition to that of the Y.M.C.A. No more practical or effectual way can be taken to neutralize evil than by nourishing the good. In fact, all experience goes to show that it is the only way. A negative policy is simply playing into the hands of the enemy. The Y.M.C.A. of this city, as most of our readers are probably aware, is just now making a laudable effort to rise to the level of that spirit of advancement and progress which has begun to animate the city in every department. The support of the citizens is confidently asked to aid the association in developing itself in keeping with its desires and possibilities for usefulness. This support should be forthcoming. The cause is a worthy one. The institution, properly developed and conducted, will prove a valuable asset to the city in every respect. We trust that those who have this matter in hand, who are devoting their time to the work, will have no difficulty in securing the required support from our citizens to enable the Y.M.C.A. in Westminster to be placed upon such a permanent working basis that it shall be at once a credit and a lasting benefit to the city.

An interesting paper was read at the Society of Arts, in London, recently, by Mr. G. Skelton Streeter, on "The Ruby Mines of Burmah." Sir Charles E. Bernard, who presided, said that the mines of Upper Burmah were now, and had been for years, the only source of good rubies in the world, remarking further that rubies of good color and comparatively flawless were, weight for weight, more valuable than diamonds of the same size. Mr. Streeter was the first European expert in precious stones who ever visited the ruby country, and he and his friends had obtained a concession of the ruby mines, so far as rubies and sapphires were concerned, for the next seven years. Mr. Streeter, at the outset of his paper, explained that the ruby mine tract of Burmah was situated on the hill sides, and in the plain lands, of a valley east and west at an elevation of 4,500 feet in a range of mountain spurs that ran nearly at right angles to the Burmese Yoma. This valley was some 80 miles due north of Mandalay, but, owing to the physical difficulties of the intervening country, it could only be reached after a circuitous journey of some 200 miles. The lecturer proceeded to state in some detail the various primitive modes of producing rubies that had been employed up to the present time. He was unable to describe the country as it would be when worked by scientific appliances, for, though machinery was already on its way there, it would probably not commence running before next November. In conclusion, he pointed out that, in addition to rubies, some of the mines produced red, pink, and blue spinels, sapphires of very fine quality, zicons, moonstones, and tourmalines. How far the British lion was influenced by considerations of Burmah's precious mineral wealth in extending his "protection" over that dependency, is a problem that would not be very hard to approximately estimate. Just leave the "royal beast" alone for "scooping" a "fat take."

PROGRESS.

It is very important in this age of vast material progress that a remedy be pleasing to the taste and to the eye, easily taken, acceptable to the stomach and healthy in its nature and effects. Possessing these qualities, Syrup of Figs is the one perfect laxative and most gentle diuretic known.

JAMES CUNNINGHAM.
Importer of Hardware, Agricultural Implements, Etc.

In every city there are individual examples of men whose connections with its business pursuits, whose prominence in all matters of public enterprise, whose record for unflinching integrity, undaunted energy, and untiring industry, make them objects of special note, not alone in their homes, but wherever exalted commercial reputation is recognized and respected, such a man have we in the subject of this sketch. Mr. James Cunningham established his business in this city in 1862 and has, through all the vicissitudes of twenty seven years' trade, maintained the even tenor of his way. His transactions have increased year by year, and the circle of his customers and patrons gradually widening and his firm extending until he now controls a business unexcelled by any similar establishment in British Columbia. His buildings are large and commodious and admirably arranged and appointed. All this space is filled with a complete and extensive assortment of hardware, agricultural implements, paints, oils, glassware, crockeryware, wall-paper, woodenware, stoves, tinware, hollow-ware, plumbers' goods, house furnishings, iron pipe and fittings. This house also manufactures tinware of all kinds and does every variety of sheet-iron cornice work, gas-fittings, plumbing, roofing, etc. There is no house in the trade which carries a more complete stock or whose facilities surpass those of this establishment for supplying the trade with first-class goods at lowest quotations. The length of time this gentleman has been in business and the success he has attained are better recommendations than the loudest praise we could possibly give. We may mention, however, to our readers who have not yet become acquainted with this firm, that none in the Northwest has a better reputation for fair and honorable dealing. —Mercantile Review.

BLACK PUP PETER.

A Dog That Can Do Almost Any Thing But Talk.

He Shakes Paws with Strangers, Teeters to Amuse Himself, Assists in the Family Worship and Performs Many Other Cute Tricks.

There is a very clever dog in Montpelier, Vt., belonging to Joseph Almon, and the Boston Globe's correspondent went to see him the other day.

The dog was one year old last July, is a full-blooded English bull-terrier, weighs forty-three pounds, and is as black as a raven's wing, only two small white spots—between his forward legs and under his throat—breaking the jettiness of his coat. The dog was raised by Mr. Almon and the only time that has been devoted to his education has been in the evening, after Mr. Almon has finished his day's work.

Mr. Almon spoke to the dog, which was lying apparently asleep, saying in an ordinary tone of voice: "Peter, I want to speak to you."

The dog at once trotted across the room, and standing on his hind legs, turned his ear to his master's mouth. The injunction "Go take your chair!" was whispered to him so slow that no one in the room could hear, but it was evident that the dog understood, for he at once trotted to a chair and took a seat.

A see-saw, consisting of a board twelve feet long, balanced on a fulcrum eighteen inches high, was then produced, and to a waltz Peter teetered with as much apparent enjoyment as any child. A barrel with straight staves, two feet long, eighteen inches in diameter, and weighing about thirty pounds, was next brought out and placed at one end of the see-saw. At the word of command Peter, who had been sitting in his chair calmly contemplating the proceedings, placed his fore-paws on the barrel and rolled it up the incline until it passed the center, then carefully held it while it rolled slowly down the other side. To indicate the quick intelligence of the dog it may be stated that he had been given but two lessons in this trick prior to performing it in the presence of the writer. The see-saw was removed and Peter was called to mount the barrel. He rolled it across the room and back again without changing his position, the latter feat being something that is very seldom done, even by the most thoroughly trained dogs.

His master then said: "Peter, what do the boys do to the girls?"

With what seemed to be almost a mischievous twinkle of the eyes the dog walked across the room on his hind feet, placed his fore-paws around his master's neck, and daintily kissed him on one cheek.

The writer was asked to designate which paw he would have the dog "shake hands" with, and he at once named the left. Without the slightest motion of hand or body Peter was requested to present his left paw, and obeyed with far less hesitation than may be seen in the cases of hundreds of men. Later, when there could be no chance to think he would be influenced by rotation of acts, he was suddenly asked to "shake" with the right paw, when he put forth the proper forefoot at once.

His master put on his wraps and went out-doors for a moment, the dog in the meantime sitting in his chair. The moment that Mr. Almon entered the door Peter rushed to meet him, and without a word having been said stood upon his hind feet, took his master's hat from his head, and carefully carried it to a table. He then returned and removing the master's gloves placed them with the hat. His master then announced that it was time for prayers, whereupon Peter devoutly knelt beside a chair, dropped his head on his forepaws across the seat, and remained in that position until "Amen" was said.

Calling the dog up in front of him, Mr. Almon said: "Peter, what would you do if you were shot?" As quick as a flash the knowing brute dropped to the floor, where he lay limp and apparently lifeless until informed that his illustration was sufficiently lucid. He then performed the difficult feat of standing perfectly still, erect on his hind feet; then, without putting down his fore-feet, he settled to his haunches, rose up erect, and sat down again, repeating the operations several times.

His master then, while looking away from the object, said: "Peter, will you bring me the whip!" The request was obeyed much quicker than most children would have obeyed it. He performed many minor tricks, like catching a swiftly-thrown ball, rolling over, sneezing, tossing up bread with his nose and catching it, jumping through a twelve-inch hoop three feet from the ground, etc. Mr. Almon is constantly teaching him new tricks.

It might be suspected that the tricks had been performed in regular order so many times that the dog had learned them in that way, and in fact the idea entered the mind of the writer. To dispel that thought, Mr. Almon called on Peter to perform several tricks the second time, allowing the writer to select them at random. They were as promptly performed as in the first instance, and with as little hesitation.

Peter also does his own marketing, taking a basket to the butcher's, where he gets a piece of meat, with which he trots home, never tasting it nor allowing other dogs to meddle with the parcel. When on such errands he never yields to the natural bent of all puppies to play with other dogs on the way, but as if realizing the responsibility of his mission trots along regardless of the most friendly advances on the part of dogs with less intellect and poorer training.

Peter is very fond of pets, a little black and tan dog nineteen years old, owned in the family, being an especial favorite. He seems to consider it his especial duty to care for Tip, as the little old dog is called, and the latter does not move out doors unless Peter is his close companion, and woe to any other dog that attempts any undue familiarity with his aged friend. Another pet that he was much attached to when between six months and one year old was a little black kitten. When told that it was time for him to go to bed in a basket near the kitchen stove he would make a thorough search for the kitten, and having found her he would take kitty carefully in his mouth, deposit her in the basket, take his place beside her, and then both would sleep contentedly through the night.

STRANGE DELUSIONS.

Instances of Monomanias in Persons Who Are Otherwise Perfectly Sane.

Among the instances of singular monomanias which I have discovered is that of an important officer of the State Government of New England, writes the New York correspondent of the Pittsburgh Post. His special delusion is that the other members of the family are insane and are plotting to injure him, and that they ought to be put in an asylum. He is an able and celebrated lawyer, and conducts cases with marked effectiveness and success; his briefs and arguments show an unusual vigor and continuity of thought. Nobody knows of his mental conditions outside of his own family and a few intimate friends, to whom they have said, confidentially: "If any of us should disappear suddenly, look for us in an asylum."

Another most curious case is that of a wealthy banker in New York City who fancies that he is a ripe cherry that the birds are eager to pick. He has a terror of all fruit-eating birds, and seldom walks or appears anywhere in the open air. He makes his trips to and from his bank in a carriage, and keeps the doors and windows always shut tight, lest a sparrow should get in and swallow him. He knows very well that the preposterous belief would damage him and probably ruin him if it were generally known that he harbored it, so he conceals the consciousness of his fearful peril from his business associates and contents himself with keeping carefully out of the way of birds.

An interesting society lady of Troy imagines that a big Newfoundland dog always accompanies her, walks when she walks, stops when she stops. "I know perfectly well that it is not there," she says, "but I always see it, and that is what troubles me. When I go to bed it always lies down upon my feet."

There is a lady who has been a teacher for the last twelve years in the schools of New York City, and is still so employed, who imagines herself a wheelbarrow. "I know I am not a wheelbarrow, of course," she says to her physician, Dr. Hammond, "but that certainly makes no difference with the appearance and my sensations. When in school I am always a wheelbarrow, and my feet are the handles and my head is the wheel, and I seem to be trundling myself down the aisles and through the halls. It is ridiculous and painful and mortifying, but, though I know it is the result of a nervous disease, I can not shake off the hallucination."

W. A. Croffut, a journalist and successful mesmerist, gives me the following opinion: "Hallucinations are evidently closely akin to dreams. I can fill any one of my sensitives full of delusions in a minute; can make him think he is Washington or Grant or Victoria, a peddler, an opera singer, a teacher of languages, a rooster or a telegraph pole, and can banish the delusion in two seconds. Now, it seems to me that this hallucination is exactly of the same kind as hallucinations of lunatics, or the dreams of those who sleep, the only difference being that the sleeper holds the key of dreamland and the operator holds the key of the similar trance called mesmerism, while to the permanent trance called monomania the key is lost. I have wondered if it might not be possible to recover the lost key—to often waken the insane from their dream as somnambulists and the mesmerized are wakened."

SHE MADE A SALE.

The Book Agent's Triumph Over a Poor, Defenseless Man.

She was a pretty woman, and she bowed to me bewitchingly as she came in, says a writer in Town Topics. She held up one finger archly, and said, impetuously:

"Now, sir, I want you to stop your writing and look at my book."

Then she blushed charmingly, as if embarrassed at my look of amazement. It was:

"My dear madam, I am busy to-day, and I beg you will excuse me."

She sat down beside me and made herself comfortable at once.

"Now, don't let me hear another word about that; you are going to buy a book, of course."

"But, my dear——"

She took my hands gently but firmly in hers.

"I know—you are a busy man—you write all day and are too tired to read—you hardly find time to look at the paper—you——"

"Yes, madam; that's precisely the case."

She chucked me deliberately under the chin.

"Do you mean to say that you are going to refuse me a miserable little dollar for this beautiful book?"

I gasped feebly and glared at my office-boy. He was evidently interested. I said:

"You must be a successful book-agent; you have the most fetching qualities I have ever seen."

Rash words!

She rose at once, and, sitting down upon the arm of my chair, threw one arm around my neck, and bending down looked tenderly into my eyes.

"Now, you know, darling, you are going to do just what I say; you are going to buy—"

I heard my office-boy chuckle to himself. I protested. I said:

"My dear madam, this is really—embarrassing—do you know—I am a married man—that I—"

She replied: "I have nothing to do with that; I am here for business."

I replied: "That statement is unnecessary; the fact is quite apparent. But I am really fond of my wife. You've got hold of the wrong man."

She seemed a trifle hurt at this, but she did not take her arm from my neck. She remained in this compromising attitude apparently lost in thought. I broke into a cold sweat.

"I'll tell you what I'll do," she said, suddenly, bringing her face dangerously near my own; "if you'll take a copy of that book I'll promise not to kiss you before I leave the office!"

I bought the book.

WEDDING PRESENTS.

Nothing More Than a Legalized System of Levying Blackmail.

The world has hitherto bowed its head to blackmail for wedding presents. Is it, asks the London Standard, a merit in a man to woo and win a pretty woman? Or is it a merit in a woman to captivate a gilded numbskull, that they should immediately levy blackmail upon all their friends; aye, and even their bare acquaintances? Doubtless there is a considerable amount of shrewdness and perseverance displayed in the pursuit; hence it may be considered a highly meritorious action when two young people succeed in the endeavor to make each other miserable for life. But why should we, who are not in the smallest degree gainers by the interesting event, open our sometimes sparsely-lined purses in order to give either gentleman or his betrothed a wedding present? If a man goes up to the city daily for the purpose of making money, the world says he is a shrewd fellow, with no fool's flesh about him; and if by any chance he may make a lucky coup upon the stock exchange, or in whatever business he may devote his labors to the worship of the golden calf, his friends will either say he has the luck of Lucifer, or perhaps that he is a hard-headed, steady worker, and deserves his coveted prize. They do not rush off to Regent street in search of some costly tribute; rather would they expect him to benefit them in some way in giving a little dinner at Richmond or Greenwich. Why then should a man, because his friend writes to him saying: "My darling Chriscable has promised to make me the happiest of men," immediately begin to rack his brains in order to discover what he shall buy as a suitable wedding present? Would it not be far more sensible, and perhaps more heartfelt, if he wrote to his friend and wished him joy of his great good luck in winning the lady of his love? Surely there would be more real feeling in such a course than in the little packet which is sent straight from the silversmith's, with Tom Smith's or John Jones' compliments. At any rate, there would not be the feeling of loss attached to the action which must in many cases render the announcement of a friend's bliss a subject rather of annoyance than of gratification. There are few people who are not glad to hear of a friend's projected marriage, and perhaps there are few also who do not feel the imposition of the wedding present business.

A Town Built on Ice.

Fish City, Mich., is one of the oddest towns in the country, having no existence except in the winter. It is situated on Saginaw bay—not on the shores, but literally on the bay—and is a collection of board shanties built upon the ice. This season it contained 1,000 houses. They are the huts of the men who do the winter fishing for pike, pickerel, lake trout and whitefish, and as soon as the ice forms on the bay their construction is begun. The fishermen live in their huts from the time they are built until the breaking up of the ice in the spring forces them to come ashore. There is a door in each hut, and in the floor a trap door twenty inches square. When this is raised a hole the same size through the ice is discovered. At the side of this the fisherman sits all day and a great part of the night watching for his game, which he captures by a dexterous use of the spear. From 1,000,000 to 2,500,000 fish are caught from the bay each winter.

Blood Will Tell.

Charlie, aged eight, brought home a slinking yellow pup, bow-legged, drooping-tailed and shame-faced. He cared for it tenderly, fixed a dry goods box in the back yard for a kennel, and on every possible occasion exhibited the animal proudly. His sister Ella, aged eighteen, asked him fastidiously:

"Where did you get that dog?"

"I bought him from a man for twenty-five cents," with the pride of ownership.

"Mercy! The idea of paying twenty-five cents for that horrid beast!"

Charlie's eyes flashed indignantly. "He isn't horrid. That shows how much a girl knows. The man told me he is a full-blooded cur."

Harper's Bazar.

ILLUSTRATED.

HARPER'S BAZAR will continue to maintain its reputation as an unqualified family journal. Its art illustrations are of the highest order, its literature is of the choicest kind, and its Fashion and Household departments of the most practical and economical character. Its pattern-sheet supplements and fashion-plates alone will save its readers ten times the cost of subscription, and its articles on decorative art, social etiquette, housekeeping, cookery, etc., make it indispensable to every household. Its bright short stories, and timely essays, are among the best published; and not a line is admitted to its columns that could offend the most fastidious taste. Among the attractions of the new volume will be serial stories by Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett, Mrs. Alexander, William Black, and Thomas Hardy, and a series of papers on nursery management by Mrs. Christine Terhune Herrick.

A meeting of the Y. M. C. A., for members only, will be held at 8 o'clock this evening. Mr. N. H. Jacks will address the meeting.

The attention of parties requiring sand-stone for building purposes is directed to the notice of Mr. F. Rowbottom, in another column.

The reflection from the fires of the railroad camps beyond Herring's point last night, lighted up the heavens, and the effect as viewed from the city was very pretty.

The barometer registered 29.30 to-day, the lowest in many months. This indicates a big storm is blowing somewhere close at hand, but no signs of it were observable in this vicinity.

A meeting of the cricket club was held in the court house last night. No definite action was taken and another meeting will be held on Monday night for the reorganization of the club.

A bylaw will be introduced at the next meeting of the council, providing for the improvement of Fortescue street by the issuance of street debentures, according to the New Westminster Incorporation Act, 1888.

American capitalists are buying up all the suburban and farming property they can lay hold of in the vicinity of Westminster. The Yankees are long-headed enough to know a good place for investment when they see it.

The Westminster foot ball club has sent challenges to the Vancouver, Victoria and Nanaimo clubs to play matches at the earliest convenient date. It is expected the match with Vancouver will take place in two weeks.

A party of Port Haney people, consisting of Capt. Caie, Magnus Sinclair, Mr. Thomas, Geo. Sutherland and Alex. Spence, arrived from their up river home yesterday in the fine lugger Rose. The sail down was made in two hours. The party spent the night in taking in the sights of the city and this morning left for home again.

In answer to a telegram to Mr. Chisholm, M.P., at Ottawa, Mayor Hendry yesterday received a despatch saying the clothing for the New Westminster rifles might be expected to arrive shortly. Mr. Chisholm also said he was pressing the drill shed matter and the appropriation for the rifle range. It is probable he will be successful in both applications.

PERSONAL.

Mayor Hendry went over to Victoria to-day.

G. D. Brymner went over to Vancouver this afternoon.

Ald. Cunningham left for the capital this afternoon.

Mrs. Sillitoe will be "At Home" on Tuesdays, in future, instead of Wednesdays.

Senator Canfield, Mr. Dickinson and Mr. King left for Vancouver this afternoon, en route to Seattle.

Geo. Robertson and bride arrived in the city yesterday from Kamloops. THE COLUMBIAN wishes the happy couple every joy.

Miss Major arrived home from the east yesterday and was heartily welcomed back by a number of friends who assembled at the station to meet her.

Miss Campbell, daughter of John Campbell, merchant, Kamloops, sang at a concert given in the University hall, Toronto, recently. The Empire says that she was greeted with rapturous applause, and her graceful, prepossessing figure, with low-necked crimson gown and flashing ornaments, ingratiated her in the good graces of the audience at first sight. She sang sweetly "I seek for thee in every flower." Miss Campbell will be remembered as the young lady who delighted Westminster audiences on quite a number of occasions about two years ago.

The Proprietors of Parmelee's Pills are constantly receiving letters similar to the following, which explains itself: Mr. John A. Beam, Waterloo, Ont., writes: "I never used any medicine that can equal Parmelee's Pills for Dyspepsia or Liver and Kidney Complaints. The relief experienced after using them was wonderful." As a safe family medicine Parmelee's Vegetable Pills can be given in all cases requiring a Cathartic.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

That Awful Fraud.

It is almost too bad the News-Advertiser did not get the contract for the Vancouver city printing. If it had, the terminal city would have been spared a good amount of bedraggling in the mud. The News-Advertiser reiterates its charges again this morning, against the World, and calls on Mayor Oppenheimer and the city clerk to answer some very solemn questions, and which have a tendency towards inferring that they too are guilty of fraud. The News man seems anxious to bring the matter into court, and he is likely to have his wish gratified, as we learn from a reliable source that an action for $10,000 damages will be entered by the World.

Deserves the Lash.

At the police court this morning a man named Chas. Stark was arraigned on the charge of wantonly and cruelly encouraging two dogs to fight, contrary to the form of statute in such cases made and provided. It appears that Stark wished to make the dogs fight, but had some difficulty in getting them to quarrel. Becoming enraged at their lack of inclination he brutally kicked one of the animals and otherwise maltreated it. Capt. Pittendrigh imposed a fine of $10, or in default 20 days in gaol. It is almost a pity a brute of this kind was not punished by imprisonment alone, and without the option of a fine. The practice of encouraging dogs to fight is altogether too common among the gentry of Stark's kidney. A sound application of the lash would be a splendid antidote for such practices.

Mining Notes.

Mr. J. Hepburn, who owns a mining claim at Nicola, arrived from San Francisco on Wednesday morning, and reports very satisfactory results from the carload of ore he took to that place recently. It turned out $156 in silver and $8 in gold to the ton. He was accompanied on the return trip by Mr. Dowling, of the Vancouver Smelter Co., who went to Nicola to inspect the mines, and was greatly surprised at what he saw. He thinks there are great prospects ahead for quartz mining in that district.

Wm. Palmer, whose claim lies in the same district, is prospecting with a very promising lookout for good developments.

The Nicola Mining Co.'s claim is being steadily developed, and the prospects at present are 50 per cent. better than at any time heretofore since being opened.—Sentinel.

Arrival of the Batavia.

The China ship Batavia, Captain Hugh W. Auld, arrived from the Orient on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. She left Hong Kong on the 9th of Febrary and arrived at Nagasaki on the 13th of the same month. She sailed from Nagasaki on the 15th and reached Kobe on the 17th. She left Kobe on 18th and arrived at Yokohama on the 20th from which port she sailed for Vancouver on 21st. She had an excellent passage, the winds being moderate and the weather fair all the way. After passing Victoria she met a fog in the gulf which delayed her for a short while. She was heavy laden, the cargo being 2,000 tons. She had four European, eight Japanese and three Chinese passengers. The list of saloon passengers is as follows: Miss H. G. Brittan, destination New York; Capt. A. Ogilvy, destination Liverpool, and J. H. Mussell, destination Vancouver; all from Yokohama.—News-Advertiier.

Y. M. C. A. Mass Meeting.

The meeting at the opera house, in the interest of the Y.M.C.A., last night, was fairly well attended. The programme was carried out according to announcement. In the musical part, the quartette, an anthem, by Mrs. Robson, Mrs. Major, Messrs. DeBeck and Pearson, was well rendered and heartily applauded. Mr. George Lyal sang "Nazareth" with perfect taste and feeling, and the audience showed their unmistakable appreciation. The solo by Miss Holden, "Not a Sparrow Falleth," was very sweetly rendered and the singer was loudly encored, and gave with equal acceptance "I cannot Sing the Old Songs." The chairman, Dr. C. E. C. Brown, in a few appropriate remarks, introduced the new general secretary, Mr. C. A. Davie, who thanked the association for the honor they had done him in calling him to be their general secretary. He considered it a very great honor to be thought worthy to work in the vineyard of the Lord Jesus Christ. He had hesitated before leaving San Francisco to occupy this position. He had to leave many advantages and associations behind, and a larger salary than he was getting here, but when he enlisted in the army of the Lord Jesus Christ he promised that he would devote his life to His service. He had accepted the call to work in this field, and would do all in his power, as an earnest Christian worker for the young men of this city.

Mr. G. A. Charnock, the Vancouver secretary, addressed the audience at some length, describing in an interesting and, at times, humorous, manner the workings of a model Y. M. C. A. institution, as found in almost any American city of any pretensions. The work of the Y. M. C. A. was four-fold, the speaker showed, in that it aimed at the physical, intellectual, social, and spiritual good of young men. Mr. Charnock closed by exorting the young men of the association to rely upon the promises of scripture, which were just as sure as they were hundreds of years ago.

Mr. F. W. Teague, Victoria secretary, gave an interesting, amusing, and instructive description of the gymnasium department in connection with properly organized Y.M.C.A. institutions. He believed in the gymnasium, and in the development of the physical, as well as the intellectual, social, and spiritual nature of man. It was through the gymnasium that the speaker had become interested in Y.M.C.A. work, and finally saved. Mr. Teague concluded by showing that the association commended itself to all classes.

Mr. Noel H. Jacks, travelling secretary for the Pacific coast, made the last address of the evening, which consisted principally in urging the claims of the Y.M.C.A. in this city to financial assistance. At the close of his address $500 was subscribed by a number of those present. The meeting closed with a hymn and the benediction.

THE SOUTHERN RAILWAY.

Important Interview with Mr. Chas. King, General Manager of the N.W. & B.B. Railway.

The Building of Passenger Coaches and Cars to Begin at Once.—No Extension to Vancouver.

Railroad matters being all the rage to-day, a COLUMBIAN representative interviewed Mr. King, the general manager of the New Westminster and Bellingham Bay Railway, concerning the intentions of the company. Mr. King had very few minutes to spare and the scribe had to gain the information very quickly.

"What about the report that the line will run to Vancouver?"

Mr. King: "I can see no possible object in extending the line in that direction. New Westminster is the is the best fresh water terminus on the coast and as such meets our objects. I believe it is worth $1,000 to an iron vessel to lie in fresh water for a time, and that will be some inducement to vessel owners. We haven't even considered the possibility of extending our line to Vancouver, and I can't see what we would benefit by so doing. Were we to build to Vancouver we would simply be acting as a feeder for the C.P.R., and as that corporation is not particularly friendly to us we do not care to gorge them with our food. No! the people of Westminster have given us satisfactory inducements, and we have come to stay."

"What arrangements have you made about your rolling stock?"

Mr. King: We propose to build our rolling stock in Westminster and we will begin as soon as the negotiations concerning the Lulu Island reserve are settled. We will build at our shops here this summer the following rolling stock: 4 first-class passenger coaches, 4 second-class coaches, 3 combination mail, baggage and express cars, 50 flat cars, 40 box cars and 6 stock cars. We may also build a number of coal cars, but that depends on the development of certain mines the company is now negotiating for. Our trucks and fittings will be purchased in the East but all work will be put together in our Westminster shops. As motive power we will start with four consolidated engines, which are as fine as any made. Our equipment will be in every way first-class."

"When will the shops be commenced".

Mr. King: "We expect to commence work on the temporary shops very soon, but I will be able to speak more definitely on this subject when the arrangements anent the Lulu Island reserve are completed. The bridge connecting the city with the island will also be commenced the moment this matter is settled."

"What instructions have you given about grading"?

"Mr. King: I have given orders that grading between Brownsville and the boundary be proceeded with as actively as possible, and Mr. Leamy has already got to work".

"The contract for grading the line from Whatcom north to the boundary has not yet been let, but I expect to close the contract for this section in about 10 days."

The impression that the Northern Pacific Railway has secured a controlling interest in the Southern Railway is hardly correct. The company's bonds have been purchased by a syndicate of New York capitalists, who, however, are quite as able to build and operate the road as is the Nortern Pacific Railway. On the other hand, it is not denied that some members of this syndicate have a voice in Northern Pacific affairs, but to what extent this affects the Southern Railway has not transpired. As the matter now stands the public can rest satisfied that the future of the Southern Railway is in good hands, and that the interests of West*minster are not likely to suffer under* the new and more progressive management.

City Council.

The city council met at 8 o'clock last night for the transaction of business. Present, Aldermen Curtis, Scoullar, Ewen, McPhaden, Jaques, Cunningham, Townsend and Calbick.

His Worship Mayor Hendry in the chair.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From Sydney Jas. Pearce, chief of police, asking the council to procure for the use of the police a copy of the Revised Statues of B. C. and a "police manual"; also advising that a telephone be placed in the lock-up.

Referred to the police committee with power to act.

From O. D. Sweet, C. M. C. of Richmond, informing the council that the application of the city of New Westminster to the chief commissioner of lands and works, re the grant of the reserve on the eastern end of Lulu Island, had been approved by the Richmond council.

On motion, the clerk was instructed to acknowledge this letter.

From W. Norman Bole, asking for a settlement of his account.

Referred to the finance committee.

From T. S. Higginson, asking for grade of street opposite lot 5 Prevost street.

Referred to the board of works with power to act.

From Geo. Turner, asking permission to lay building material on Royal Avenue.

Referred to the board of works.

From D. McDonald, asking permission to lay building material on Colunbia street and to remove the sidewalk temporarily.

Referred to the board of works.

A petition was read from the property owners of Fortescue street, asking that that street be opened from Richard street to the North Arm road, by the issuance of street debentures under section 191 of the municipality act. Received.

Ald. Curtis asked if the committee had managed to arrange the matters in dispute between the new and old fire companies.

Ald. Ewen said he had been too busy to attend to the matter. It would be rather difficult to arrange the affair.

Ald. Townsend thought no time should be lost in investigating the matter.

The water works debenture by-law was read a first and second time.

The salaries by-law was laid over for another week.

ACCOUNTS.

The following were ordered paid: Z. S. Hall, $11.75; John Wise, .75; Gas Co. $205.75; Jas. Cunningham, $20.90.

REPORTS.

The park committee reported that work had commenced on the park improvements, and that 25 men and a team of horses were on the work.

Ald. Curtis thought that the work might be done by contract.

Ald. Cunningham said it was almost necessary to do the preliminary improvements by day work, and he considered the system adopted by the committee as the most economical. It was impossible to get up specifications of the work, as the exact nature of what is to be done is scarcely known yet.

Moved by Ald. Jaques, seconded by Ald. McPhaden that the finance committee be authorized to ascertain the cost of a portion of lot 3 in block 8, and of lot 1 in block 23 sufficient to widen Fortescue street to its proper width. Carried.

Moved by Ald. Curtis, seconded by Ald. Ewen, that the board of works be authorized to have Front street between the woolen mills and Sapperton repaired. Carried.

On motion Ald. Reid was allowed one month's leave of absence.

Ald. Jaques gave notice of motion that at the next meeting of the council he would introduce a by-law for the grading of Fortescue street according to section 191 of the New Westminster Act, 1888.

The council then adjouned.

WE HAVE THIS DAY DISPOSED OF OUR ENTIRE Stock of Dry Goods, Clothing, &c., to Messrs. OGLE, CAMPBELL & FREEMAN, who will henceforth carry on the business.

For the support while the business has been conducted by us, we tender our warmest thanks and trust it may be continued to our successors. We are

Yours Faithfully,
D. DRYSDALE & CO.

AS STATED ABOVE, THE BUSINESS OF MESSRS. D. DRYSDALE & Co. has been purchased this day by us and will be carried on henceforth by us under the style of Ogle, Campbell & Freeman.

We hope by strict attention to business to merit a continuance of the support so long accorded our predecessors.

Yours Faithfully,
OGLE, CAMPBELL & FREEMAN.
