NOTES AND COMMENTS.

This jewel is taken from the Jewelers' Weekly: "Did that lady buy anything?" asked the jeweler of his new boy, as the lady in question left the store, apparently in a temper. "She did not. She asked me for an old gold breastpin, and I asked her if she took this store for a junk-shop. Then she went out."

A London correspondent of an eastern paper refers to the approaching marriage of the Governor-General's son in the following terms: "What is called, in the strictest technicology of the upper ten thousand, a very great match will be brought to a happy culmination at the Guards' chapel on the 8th of January, when the eldest son of Lord Stanley of Preston will be married to Lady Alice Montague, youngest daughter of the Duke of Manchester. The importance of the match lies in the fact that the bridegroom, in the natural order of things, will succeed, not only to his father's barony, but also to the great earldom of Derby, to which Lord Stanley of Preston is heir presumptive. The marriage has excited great interest, for both the parties are first favorites in society. Lady Alice has two sisters—one is Duchess of Hamilton and the other Countess of Gosford."

A census of the illiterates of the world, recently published in the Statistische Monatschrift, places the three Sclavic states of Roumania, Servia, and Russia at the head of the list, with about 80 per cent of the population unable to read and write. Of the Latin-speaking races, Spain heads the list with 63 per cent, followed by Italy with 48 per cent, France and Belgium having about 15 per cent. The illiterates in Hungary number 43 per cent, in Austria 39, and in Ireland 21. In England we find 13 per cent, Holland 10 per cent, United States (white population) 8 per cent, and Scotland 7 per cent, unable to read and write. When we come to the purely Teutonic states, we find a marked reduction in the percentage of illiterates. The highest is in Switzerland, 2.5, in the whole German Empire it is 1 per cent; in Sweden, Denmark, Baveria, Baden, and Wurtemberg there is practically no one who cannot read and write.

The London Morning Post captured what was thought to be a marvellous sensation lately. This was a story to the effect that a short time ago a coffin had been found in a cavity of a wall at Holyrood Palace in Edinburgh. In the coffin were the remains of an infant wrapped in a cloth of gold, on which was the letter I. On investigation the wondrous tale has been divested of much of its interest. In the first place it is over half a century old. A box containing human bones was indeed discovered in Holyrood about 1830, but as an examination threw no light upon the find, the relic was restored to its resting place, and the aperture closed up. Fifty years have passed, and no one now seems to know exactly the spot where the discovery was made, so quickly are facts of this sort forgotten, and so easily do they become part of many indistinct legends which cling around old places. This particular mystery must therefore remain a mystery still.

A late despatch in an American paper gives the following interesting details re the present and future occupants of the White House: President Cleveland and the President-elect Harrison have, since the election, been dignified and friendly. It will be remembered that a short time after the election the beautiful mistress of the White House, Mrs. Cleveland, wrote a letter to Mrs. Harrison, and gave the future mistress of the executive mansion a pressing invitation that when she, with her husband, came to Washington, she spent the days preceding the inauguration as her guest. After it was a certainty that Mr. Harrison had been elected, President Cleveland wrote a letter to his successful opponent, extending to him congratulations on the result of the election which would make him the president's successor. This naturally and properly brought forth a pleasant reply from the future president. Since that time a very pleasant correspondence has been carried on between the two distinguished men. Some of Mr. Harrison's letters have been in the nature of inquiries regarding the daily routine of the office, together with many other things which Gen. Harrison would naturally desire to be informed upon. Mrs. Harrison has also been in weekly correspondence with Mrs. Cleveland with reference to many household affairs, which a woman of Mrs. Harrison's domestic thoughtfulness and care would deem important to know. It is said by those who seem to speak from knowledge of past changes of White House occupants, that more friendly relationship with outgoing and incoming families never existed.

SERIOUS RAILWAY COLLISION.

AKRON, Ohio, Jan. 14.—The eastbound passenger train on the N. Y. P. & Ohio Road collided with a freight train at Tallmadge early this morning. It is said five persons were killed, including Engineer Huntington and Fireman Shultz, and 23 injured. The passenger train had two sleepers in which many were injured, some fatally. Physicians have gone from here. It is said that a number of Chinamen travelling in the smoking car are missing and are supposed to be buried in the wreck. Many persons were more or less seriously injured, but their names have not yet been learned. The accident was due to the breaking apart of the freight train. A flagman had been back and mistook his signals and and returned to the train too soon. The wreck of the train was terrible and the track was piled high with debris. It is feared that several of those injured will die.

THE TIMES HUMBUGGED.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 14.—The Courier publishes a number of letters and telegrams written by a special detective from Scotland Yard, sent out in the interest of the London Times to procure evidence to implicate Parnell in the Phœnix Park murder, and in connection with them a story to this effect: In August last a mechanic living near here conceived the idea of making something out of the Times and wrote to the publisher stating that he knew of two Irishmen who were in possession of documentary evidence that would prove the letters on which the Times relied in the present investigation, to be perfectly genuine. The detective reached New York and corresponded with the mechanic. The latter secured from him several sums of money amounting in all to about $500, but finally the detective became suspicious as the alleged documents were not forthcoming and refused to pay out anything more. There was, of course, no evidence whatever of the nature sought.

THE INDEMNITY SETTLED.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—A special in the Mail and Express this afternoon, dated Port au Prince, Jan. 8th, says: The indemnity asked for by the owners of the str. Haytien Republic has at last been settled. The amount is $120,000; of this $50,000 was paid today in cash; $30,000 is due March 1st, and $40,000 on June 1st. The steamer will leave on January 20th and expects to arrive in New York on February 1st.

In two battles fought the north was victorious. The blockade exists at all northern ports and American schooners are warned to keep off.

OFFICIAL REPORT.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 14.—Official information received at New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio general offices at 10:30 this morning in Tallmadge accident, placed the number of dead at eight and six wounded Other news from the scene of the accident increase both.

SAMOAN MATTERS.

WASHINGTON, JAN. 12—The examination of Consul Sewell of the Samoan Islands was continued before a sub-committee of the senate committee on foreign relations this morning. Sewell's testimony was in the same light as that given by him yesterday. He showed that while the German government was negotiating with the state department and the British minister in Washington, on the plea of wishing to reach a harmonious agreement of the islands, the German fleet was sent to Samoa to depose the king and take possession of the country. The state department was aware of this outrageous breach of international courtesy, but declined to interfere or take steps to resent the affront put upon the U. S.

YANKEES FORM THE TAIL END.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—In the house to-day, on the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill being proceeded with, Mr. Macadoo, of New Jersey, said he could not allow the bill to pass without emphasizing what he considered to be the popular demand for abolishing United States ministers abroad. One of the great countries of Europe was unrepresented by a minister in this country. The British government had refrained from sending a minister to Washington for the purpose of resenting what it considered to be an insult. Ninety-nine per cent. of our people did not know or care whether England sent a minister or not, and the interests of the United States would not suffer if it did not send a minister to England or anywhere else It was the most absurd thing to his mind that the United States should send a minister to the royal courts. They came in at the tail end of the bespangled, befeathered and bedizened diplomats of the world. The system was absolutely unfitted to the character of a free country. Mr. Macreary, of Kentucky, was not prepared to say that the diplomatic service should be abolished. The United State, had had many distinguished men to represent it abroad who had reflected much credit upon the country. The appropriation bill then passed.

THE MANLY ART—CHINESE EXCLUSION.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12.—Charles L. Brown, the eastern middle-weight, known as Sailor Brown in sporting circles, has arrived in the city. He will probably be matched to meet Young Mitchell, champion middle-weight of the Pacific Coast.

The council of the federated trades has adopted resolutions recommending to congress and the president of the United States the enactment of such additional legislation as will make the Chinese exclusion act effective in completely preventing the entrance of Chinese over the Canadian and Mexican borders, and if it be deemed necessary some convention will be entered into between the United States and Canada and Mexico, looking to a co-operation of these governments in making such transit impossible.

RUSSO-COREAN TREATY.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12.—The str. Arabic, which arrived from Hong Kong this morning, brings the news that a commercial treaty has been concluded between Russia and Corea, the whole tenor of which shows the groundlessness of the rumors which declared that Russia had arranged to establish a protectorate over the hermit kingdom.

EXTENSIVE BOODLING.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Secretary Fairchild has ordered that all the special treasury agents in the country who can be spared from their posts shall hasten at once to this city to assist in the investigation of the office appraiser of this port. It is reported that enormous frauds have been discovered to have existed during the past three years, in which McMullin, the appraiser who was recently removed, had charge of the office. Certain merchants are said to have been favored, under valuations on enormous scales have been permitted, and the treasury has been defrauded of millions of dollars.

COMPARATIVE CROP STATISTICS.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 12.—Comparison made by the department of agriculture snows that the present corn crop is worth $31,000,000; more than the previous crop, that the present wheat crop is worth $84,000,000 more than the previous crop, and that the crop of oats is worth a million dollars less than the previous crop.

There was a lively scrap at a political meeting in Provencher, Man., Friday night. Cyr, one of the speakers, referred to La Riviere, the Conservative candidate, as an embezzler, thief, etc. La Riviere called him a liar and struck at Cyr, but the latter was too much for Norquay's ex-treasurer, and knocked him against a blackboard, which fell upon his head and buried him beneath it. H. J. Clarke will probably be brought out by the Conservatives, who are disgusted with La Riviere.

The tail end of the cyclone which struck Western Ontario on Wednesday night reached Montreal about midnight on Friday. It played sad havoc with chimneys, telegraph poles and wires, and it will take weeks to restore telegraph communication. Four houses were unfooted at Moulinette on the Cornwall Canal, and Oscar Barwick, Jr., was killed by a falling chimney. At Renfrew every farm was razed and forty head of cattle killed. At Trenton, Gilmour's Mills were damaged to the extent of $60,000 and the Queen's Hotel was unroofed. The bridge from Trenton to Gilmour was swept away and one Allen drowned. It is estimated the damage done by the storm in Ontario and Quebec aggregated $2,000,000.

AN UNPOPULAR BILL ABANDONED.

PARIS, Jan. 14.—The cabinet has decided not to press the passage of the income tax bill in the chamber of deputies. The measure is extremely unpopular and it is probable the government will abandon the measure in view of the election in the department of the Seine. The ministry does not dare to risk any popular support in the contest with Boulanger.

THE RUSSIAN ARMY.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—A ukase has been issued by the Czar increasing the Russian army at once by 20,000 men. Other measures indicates that the army will be strengthened from eighty to 100,000 men during the present year.

THE LANDTAG OPENED.

BERLIN, Jan. 14. — The landtag opened to-day. In the opening speech the emperor said Germany's foreign relations were friendly. He said that during his recent visits to friendly sovereigns he was confirmed in the belief that Germany might confidently cherish the hope of peace; that trade had improved was shown by the large increase in the savings banks. Owing to the satisfactory condition of the country's finances the government was enabled to reduce taxation. The emperor announced several measures to be introduced in the landtag. Among them bills to further an increase in the emoluments of the clergy of all denominations; to improve the position of teachers of the national elementary schools and to regulate the stamp tax. Bills will also be introduced asking for the assignment of extraordinary resources for the purpose of further extending railways and for money to relieve the sufferers by the floods of 1888. A measure will be introduced dealing with the general administration of Posen.

THE PRUSSIAN DIET.

BERLIN, Jan. 14.—The emperor opened the session of the Prussian Diet to-day delivering in person a speech from the throne. He said his relations were friendly with the foreign powers. His visits abroad had afforded him evidence that the powers were in favor of peace. The economic situation had improved and further measures would be introduced to promote the interests of industry, and of the working men. Finances were in a satisfactory condition.

NO ANARCHIST WILL VOTE.

PARIS, Jan. 14.—A manifesto has been issued by the anarchists advising all who share their opinions to abstain from voting in the coming election.

CAPITAL NEWS.

The Wellington Strike. Victoria Nominations. Injunction Granted Against Vancouver and Suit for $50,000 Entered Against that City.

Special to the Columbian.

About forty miners returned to work at Wellington this morning and indications point that this number will be largely increased to-morrow. It is now believed the majority of men will gradually return to work. Each one seems ro be waiting for the other to take the initiative. The strikers are publishing the names of those who return to work. They also published a card requesting all miners to keep away from Wellington until the strike is ended. It is stated the miners of Nanaimo and East Wellington have decided to hold a mass meeting to discuss the best means of aiding the strikers.

The str. Walla Walla arrived from San Francisco last evening.

Nominations for mayor: Jno. Grant and Robert Ward. For aldermen: Johnson street ward, L. Goodacre, J. Coughlan, M. Humber, J. Holland; Yates st. ward, S. L. Kelly, W. D. McKillickan, W. W. Evans; James Bay ward, J. B. Harrison, D. R. Harris, D. Spencer. Two aldermen to be elected for each ward. A meeting will be held to-morrow night for the discussion of questions at issue.

Daily British Columbian

Monday Evening, Jan. 14, 1889.

That some interest has at last been aroused in municipal election matters is clearly demonstrated by the fact that a lively contest has been insured in the election of aldermen by the additional ticket that has been brought out, and by the fact that some of the city's best men have been placed in nomination on both tickets. We have spoken favorably of the first ticket for aldermen that was mentioned, but have urged upon candidates generally that, in justice to themselves as well as the electors, they should give a public individual expression of their views, and intentions if elected, either through the press or on the platform. Before nomination is obviously the time to do so in the first instance, for, as a correspondent in these columns has aptly remarked, only one ticket may be nominated, giving the electors no further choice. A few of the candidates have expressed themselves in the public print, but the example has not been generally followed. Now, that a contest is on, however, there will be ample time, if taken advantage of, for the various candidates to define their views, and this the electors must insist upon in some form or other, as they have to make a choice from a number of apparently equally eligible aspirants for aldermanic honors. Important issues are at stake, of which the Southern Railway question, involving as it does other momentous interests connected with our future well-being, is undeniably the most important. There are other questions, too, that will require the attention of the best men that we can intrust with the city's affairs during the current year. Good men and true are urgently needed at this juncture, and upon the electors is the responsibility of selecting them from those who have been placed in nomination today. While a public expression is desirable from every candidate, the electors will be guided in their choice as well by the estimate which they place upon the sincerity of these expressions and by what they know of the character and general standing and leanings of the different men who seek their sufferages. We shall not undertake to indicate just who should receive the confidence and support of the ratepayers. Some of the ablest and best men of our city are in the field, and it is the duty of each elector to study the matter carefully, and, irrespective of any party or clique, and without personal favoritism or prejudice, to cast an honest vote, according to his own convictions, in the city's best interests.

Considerable interest has been aroused, and some nice points raised, by the Vancouver quarantine embroglio of last week. Our readers are already familiar with the principal outlines of the affair that caused such a stir at the salt water terminus—how that the steamship Premier, released from a week's quarantine by the quarantine officer, Dr. Jackson, at Victoria, acting under instructions from Ottawa, was refused a landing by the civic authorities of Vancouver, working under their health by-law, and that when Capt. Irving, with the Islander, had removed the Premier's passengers to his boat, he also was debarred from landing. The spirited conflict between the two authorities—the steamer having a clean bill of health, and the city, assuming that that bill had been improperly granted, and resisting accordingly, in what was deemed to be in the interests of the public health—has also been reported to our readers. Eye-witnesses of the scene at Vancouver's docks on Saturday—when constables, specials, and an excited populace fought like tigers to prevent the Islander boarding the wharves, and bloodshed was barely avoided—will not soon forget the incident. What will be the upshot of the whole matter, it is impossible at present to predict. It has been stated that there were irregularities and undue influence in procuring the clean bill of health on one side, and overstepping the bounds of civic authority on the other. An incident that will require some explanation on the part of Vancouver is, how they could consistently allow anyone to land from the Islander, which was done in the case of Mr. and Mrs. Rand, who came off in a small boat, and prevent other passengers from landing. It would also have been more creditable for the "empire city" if the constables and specials could have sustained the civic authority, without the intervention of what was very much like a mob; but under the circumstances, there was, perhaps, some excuse for the popular furor, and the unity—one-mindedness—displayed was at least admirable and worthy of imitation by other communities in different matters. One thing that has been very clearly demonstrated by the whole quarantine affair, from first to last, is the inefficiency, not to say imbecility, from one cause or another, of the quarantine authorities in this province. No clear ideas appear to have been possessed by them as to their duty, and a great deal of time was lost telegraphing to Ottawa for instructions, and a policy of delay and vacillation observed throughout. If the "late unpleasantness" shall result in the establishment of a better understanding between the department at Ottawa and the subordinates here, in the matter of quarantine, the memorable emeute of Saturday at Vancouver will not have been in vain.

A suggestive paper by Dr. C. E. Busey, of Lynchbourg, was lately read before the Medical Society of Virginia, says the New York Medical Journal. Dr. Busey stated as a well known fact that those nations which were given to the cultivation of vocal music were strong, vigorous races, with broad, expansive chests. If an hour was daily devoted in our public schools to the development of vocal music, continued the essayist, there would not be the sad spectacle of the drooping, withered, hollow-chested, round-shouldered children. There was too great a tendency to sacrifice physical health upon the altar of learning. Vocal music was a gymnastic exercise of the lungs by development of the lung tissue itself. The lungs in improved breeds of cattle, which naturally took little exercise and were domiciled much of the time, were considerably reduced in size when compared with those of animals running at liberty; and so it was with the human race, which led inactive lives from civilization. Phthisis, or consumption, generally began at the apices or extreme points of the lungs, because these parts were more inactive, and because the bronchial tubes were so arranged that they carried the inspired air with greater facility to the bases than to the apices. During inactivity a person would ordinarily breathe about 480 cubic inches of air in a minute. If he walked at the rate of six miles an hour, he would breathe 3,260 cubic inches. In singing, this increased more than in walking, as to sing well required all the capacity of the lungs. The instructor of vocal music, in addition to his musical education, should understand the anatomy and physiology of the respiratory organs.

This is the age, pre-eminently, of improvements in means of locomotion, by land, water, and even air—although with, respect to the latter, more in theory than practice as yet. One of the latest notions is to do away with horses and propel wagons by means of gas generated from benzine. The Illustrirte Zeitung gives the following description of the invention: At the exhibition of machinery which was held in Munich during the past year, the attention of the visitor was attracted to a vehicle with a motor constructed by the Rhine Gas Motor Works, Benz & Co., of Mannheim. The motor is driven by gas which it generates from benzine or analogous material. The motor, which is not visible from the outside, is placed in the rear of the three-wheeled carriage over the main axle, and the benzine used in its propulsion is carried in a closed copper receptacle secured under the seat, from which it passes drop by drop to the generator, and which holds enough benzine for a journey of about 75 miles. The gas mixture is ignited in a closed cylinder by means of an electric spark—a very safe and reliable arrangement. After regulating the admission of the gas, the motor can be started by simply turning a hand lever. The operator climbs upon the seat and, by pressing the lever at his left, sets the motor into operation, and it starts the vehicle, being connected with the back wheels. The speed of the motor can be increased or diminished at will by turning the lever backward or forward, and it can be stopped by pulling on the lever. The vehicle is steered in the same manner as a tricycle, by a small front wheel. It can attain a speed of about ten miles an hour, but in crowded streets it can be made to move as slow as an ordinary vehicle. A quart of benzine is sufficent for an hour's trip, making the cost of the motive power about seven cents per hour, and the experiments with the vehicle in the streets of Munich during the exhibition proved the practicability of substituting this kind of motive power for the more expensive horse power in many cases.

Job printing of all kinds neatly done at the COLUMBIAN office. Prices will be found as low as at any other office in the province.—Adv.

REPLY.

To R. DICKINSON, B. DOUGLAS, and others:

GENTLEMEN:—In response to the above requisition I have to thank you for the proffered honor of your influence and support to elect me as mayor for the present year.

Fully realizing the importance of the office, and recognizing the necessity of good and progressive civic government, at your request I beg to accept your nomination. Should it be the pleasure of the ratepayers of New Westminster to elect me, I promise them that my best and heartiest efforts will be advanced towards promoting the general interests and welfare of the city.

I have the honor to be, Gentlemen,
Your obedient Servant,
ja5tc JOHN HENDRY.

ELECTION CARD

To the Municipal Electors of New Westminster City:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—

At the request of a number of friends I have consented to place my name in nomination for the position of alderman at the coming election, fully realising the importance and duties of the office. If elected I will endeavor to the best of my ability, to place our city in the front rank of the cities of B. C. The following important questions will have my careful attention:

1. RAILWAY.—I will use every legitimate means in my power to bring to a successful termination the building and completion of the Southern Railroad, and will treat liberally any projected railway which may wish to run into our city, always carefully guarding the best interests of the city. And it is my opinion if we are true to ourselves and bury any little differences that may exist and work shoulder to shoulder, we can make New Westminster the greatest railway center and most important city between Seattle and Alaska.

2. WATER SUPPLY.—I am in favor of the city owning its own watef works, for there is a very large revenue to be derived from this source, if properly conducted, and, if elected, I will at once take up this question and deal with it on business principles. Water rate debentures when issued, bear their own value and will not be one dollar's tax on the ratepayers.

3. SEWERAGE.—This is one of the most important questions that the new council will have to grapple with, and, as there is bound to be a large emigration here this year, it behooves us to be alive and get our city well advanced so as to keep away those dread diseases which we so mercifully escaped last year. And I have no doubt if you elect the right men a scheme can be got up whereby the city can be properly sewered, and the revenue derived from the sale of water be made to pay the interest and sinking fund for both water works and sewerage.

4. STREETS.—Something must be done at once to open up all streets in the city so as to give workingmen and mechanics a chance to get to their lots and buildings, and, if elected, I will give this subject my careful attention and hearty support.

5. CITY HALL.—If any proposition is brought forward for the erection of a suitable city hall, and if the finances of the city will allow it, I will give it my warmest support.

6. STREET LIGHTING.—I will favor the extending and improving of our system of street lighting, for there is no doubt it will stand considerable improvement.

7. PARK.—In order to make the coming agricultural show a success we must put a portion of the city park in a fit condition with suitable buildings, etc. If elected I will do my best to make the grounds a credit to the royal city. I am also in favor of removing the unsightly stumps on Albert Crescent and planting a few shade trees to replace the stumps. Nature has done much for our city and it only wants touching up a little to make it perfect.

8. PUBLIC LIBRARY.—There is no doubt a new building is wanted to replace the dolapidated one now occupying a valuable lot, and there is no doubt in my mind, but that a suitable one could be erected with stores underneath and library above; and the rents from said stores would more than pay for interest and sinking fund, and leave a balance for keeping the library in proper condition.

9. MANUFACTURERS.—I will encourage any manufacturers that contemplate starting business in this city, treating them in a liberal manner, and will use every effort to show them the advantage of doing business here. It is well known that manufactures are the backbone of any city.

10. COMMUNICATIONS.—I will urge upon our representative the necessity of the Dominion government subsidising a daily boat between here and Richmond and also between here and Ladners Landing. We must also get better connections with the surrounding district.

11. LETTER BOXES.—I will also endeavor to have the postal authorities supply and put in place letter boxes in the suburbs of the city.

12. I will also urge on our city member the necessity of having the local government place a sum of money in this year's estimates to put the North Arm road in a fit condition for travel.

13. STREET NAMING AND NUMBERING.—If elected I will urge upon my colleagues the necessity of having our streets properly named and buildings numbered, as is always done in well-regulated cities. In fact, any project that may be brought up for advancing the interests of the city will have my careful attention and hearty support.

I remain,
Your Obedient Servant,
E. S. SCOULLAR.

VALUE OF MESMERISM.

The Therapeutics of Hypnotism as a Medical Study.

How the Conduct of the Responsive Is Directed by the Operator—The Most Successful of All Pain-Killers—Suggestion and Crime.

It is conceivable that mesmerism might injure an invalid. If he have heart-disease, for instance, an exciting or violent episode, a rapture of joy or a convulsion of great grief or fear, it might prove injurious or even fatal, just as it might in his normal condition.

This possibility, writes W. A. Croffut in the North American Review, is abundantly offset by the value of mesmerism as a therapeutic agent. The responsive can be made so intoxicated on water, which he has been told is whisky, as to exhibit all symptoms of extreme inebriety; can be made disgustingly sea-sick by being told that he is at sea in a storm, and can be at once physically affected by an imaginary medicine. His temperature can be changed, his eye dilated and his pulse quickened. Mesmerism is as perfect an anæsthetic as ether, and as harmless as water. Any mesmerized person can at once, by a single stroke of the hand, be rendered totally insensible to pain, and can have a tooth drawn, a cataract removed, a cancer cut out, or an arm cut off without feeling the slightest pain. This has been so often demonstrated that amputations frequently take place under its influence in the Paris hospitals, and it is successfully employed in obstetrics. Though only a fraction of patients will be found eligible as candidates for this annihilator of pain, its utility is so obvious it can not be long before medical societies will take up the therapeusis of mesmerism as a serious study, and army surgeons will be required to have as practical a knowledge of it as of any part of the pharmacopœia.

It is quite erroneous to suppose that the conduct of the responsive is directed in detail by the operator. He only suggests the general line of thought, and each responsive pursues it according to his own knowledge, experience or prejudices. I say to my responsives, for instance, that I have a wonderful educated cow with seven heads. They all want to see it. I call their attention to the imaginary stable door near by; they look toward it, and when I snap my fingers they all see a seven headed cow enter. Now, by questioning them it becomes obvious that they all see a different cow. Unless I have designated her color one sees a white cow, another a red cow, and so on.

Then I tell them that she can dance, can waltz and keep time with music. I hand one a cane, telling him it is a flute, and that he is an eminent performer, and he goes through the motions of playing to the dancing cow. They hear different tunes, but the exhibition is satisfactory. I now add that the cow can sing—can sing a different part with each mouth—can sing seven ballads at once. At this point there is some incredulity expressed. They see the cow stand up on her hind legs and hear the seven ballads—and this, I may as well add, is the narrative of an actual experiment.

Five of the six mesmerized persons believed that she sang. "She is singing 'Tit Willow,'" said one. And "'A Warrior Bold,'" said another.

"I hear singing," said the incredulous one, turning to me. "'Annie Laurie,' isn't it? How do you work her—the machinery, I mean?"

The others laughed at him. "Why, the cow sings," said a young lady. "Can't you hear her sing? Can't you see nor sing?"

"She looks as if she sang," conceded Incredulous. "I can see her mouths move all around. She sounds as if she sang; but she doesn't sing. Cows don't sing."

"Very well, what is it, then," asked one of the others.

"A tube and a hole in the floor," said Incredulous, "or perhaps ventriloquism."

"Aw!" exclaimed the first, derisively, "ventriloquism does not work like that. I've made a study of ventriloquism."

"Well, I've made a study of a cow!" persisted the scoffer, obstinately.

Sometimes I turn the responsives into children and have them play school with infinite fun; sometimes transport them over ocean to Africa or Japan on the enchanted carpet, where for a brief space they enjoy all the delights of travel; sometimes we participate in battles, in political campaigns, in exciting tirade and sometimes Socrates, Moses or Confucius is introduced and interviewed, the intelligent responsive furnishing both questions and answers in a curious dual action of the mind that is highly entertaining.

Not only the reason sometimes rebels as above, but the conscience also.

A young lady, one of the brightest sensitives I have ever seen, steadfastly refuses to play cards. I tell her she is Buffalo Bill, and easily induce her to assume his character, but when cards are suggested: "No, I never play cards. It is wrong!" she says, and I can not move her. I could make her jump out through the window, or put her hands in the fire, but play cards she will not. I was puzzled by it till, inquiring, I ascertained that her religious parents had brought her up very strictly and taught her it was "wicked to play cards."

And this brings us to the question much mooted of late, whether crime can be committed by the aid of mesmerism. If so, it is brought into relation not only with medicine but with jurisprudence; not only with the pharmacopœa, but the penitentiary. It is obvious that if cases of this kind occur the one to whom punishment must be dealt out is the mesmerist.

I could probably induce any one of my responsives to take his life in my presence or to assault any body within reach, but the mind wanders curiously in this strange condition, and generally takes little cognizance of surrounding objects. I have used the word "probably" in this sentence because the conduct of mesmerized persons can not be positively predicted. The mental impression may not in a given case be sufficiently vivid and dominating to induce action, or the intention may be counteracted by the trained moral sense asserting itself and overbalancing the confused hypnotic tendency.

A Story with a Moral.

The story has reached us of an Italian nobleman who at the altar refused to marry a young English heiress because her bridal dress was trimmed with the dead bodies of white doves. The tale is good enough to be true, but unfortunately such stories are not always true, and the use of birds for ornamenting the person is not wholly dispensed with. Ornithologists, however, assure us that the decided progress already made by the press in creating public sentiment against this cruelty and barbarism has largely increased the song birds at the Northern nesting haunts. Any woman who persists in the use of real birds and birds' wings should be socially ostracized. Let her lay aside her prayer-book and learn mercy and grace, and to be faithful to her natural obligations.

Tipping the Hat.

The custom of lifting the hat had its origin during the age of chivalry, when it was customary for knights never to appear in public except in full armor. It became a custom, however, for a knight, upon entering an assembly of friends, to remove his helmet, signifying: "I am safe in the presence of my friends." The age of chivalry passed away with the fifteenth century, but among the many acts of courtesy which can be traced back to its influence none is more direct in its origin than that of lifting the hat to acknowledge the presence of a friend.

A Horse Bird-Nester Bird.

A large eagle was recently captured at Old Lyme, Connecticut. It was of the bald-headed species, and upon its neck was securely fastened an old-fashioned sleigh-bell.

This, perhaps, explains the mysterious bell-ringing which has been heard by sailors and fishermen in that locality within the past few years, giving rise to many creepy surmises.

SINGULAR DEMANDS.

Deacon Blank in Search of "the Right Man for Our Church.

From the "Open Letter" by Forrest F. Emerson in Century, we quote the following: "In proof of the singular demands sometimes made upon the minister, not only for needful qualifications not looked for in other professions, but also for those which do not really form a part of the clergyman's necessary outfit for his work, I offer for perusal a letter written less than five years ago by a member of a church in one of the largest and oldest and—will it be believed!—most cultured of our American cities. It was written by one layman to another. The writer was a member of the "supply committee" appointed to "look for the right man" as pastor, and the epistle is one of inquiry into the fitness of a certain minister who had been recommended to him for the position. Leaving out dates and proper names and a single sentence, which might furnish a clue to identification, I give the letter verbatim, without correction of rhetoric, grammar, italics or punctuation:

Mr. .....

My Dear Sir: I have this day read your letter directed to my friend Mr.....relative to Rev. Mr.....of.....My church relation is with.....church, chairman of the committee &c.—delegated to find just the man for.....in church. We have enjoyed the opportunity in listening to several fine speakers—but very few of them are considered what is needed—or fitted for this pulpit and people,—a defect in voice—physique or mannerism. It requires a strong full sounded voice—to be heard in the auditorium of the sanctuary—we can seat 1200, & everybody must hear in our church. Our congregation dur.ng the time Dr.....has been with us has averaged 700 or 800—We must have a man who has the make up temporally & spiritually, who will bring in 1300 & fill us to overowing—Our church membership is 400—we want a membership not less than 1200—We think with God's help & the right man—who is a good seed sower, can do it—we have a good operative force— & there is material in abundance—needing to be square-hewed & numbered for the building. The streets are full of houses on both sides & there are to be found rough ashlers to be hammered—We need a master workman in the gospel.

Will you please give me the exact measurement of Mr.....(confidentially if you say so) that is to say.....

Is he a man of deep piety? & yet a social & ready man—an original man? in thought & utterances—a real student of God—man and nature? Are his illustrations forcible & impressive? &c. &c. Does he use a manuscript? What is his salary? How much family?—where did he graduate, in Theology? If we does he stand on the Andover question? &c, I am satisfied that some are born to be Teachers. If my request is granted and the reply is satisfactory I feel sure that some of our committee will go and listen to Mr..... Fraternally yours

OLD STYLE COURTSHIP.

How Virginia Gentlemen Won Their Bride a Century Ago.

As an illustration of the stately courtesy and somewhat grandiloquent style of our grandfathers, the Norfolk Virginian publishes the annexed letters, one from Mr. John Wise, the father of the late Gen. Henry A. Wise, written to Gen. John Cooper, seeking permission to address his daughter, and the other Gen. Cooper's reply. In Mr. Wise's letter he says:

"Feeling myself irresistibly impelled by inclination, and prompted by a sense of propriety, I have presumed now to address you upon a subject of importance and delicacy. Having conceived an affection for your daughter (Miss Sally), I beg leave to solicit your permission to make address to her, and at the same time let me express the hope that should I be so fortunate as to succeed in gaining her affections, my first wishes may not be frustrated by your disapprobation. I have thought proper to make this application to you on the subject in this manner, rather than in person, because my character—if I have acquired any—my condition, and my situation in life are not altogether unknown to you, and if objections are to be made they can be more freely communicated in this than any other way. I have heretofore proceeded no further with the lady than merely to obtain her permission to make this application; and, sir, I now pledge you the honor of a gentleman that in case you have objection of an insuperable nature to the proposed union, whatever may be the chagrin, regret and mortification which I may feel on the occasion, I will not disturb the quiet of a parent extremely solicitous, no doubt, for the happiness of a beloved daughter by persisting any further with her."

Gen. Cooper responded, saying:

"Although the application made by your letter of this day was unexpected, yet my reflections heretofore on the subject have prepared me to answer that, however solicitous I may be for the temporal felicity and future respectability of my daughter, she is the only proper judge of the person best calculated to make her happy. Respect and impartiality ought to be shown by me to you or any other gentleman that might make his address to my daughter, and I confide in your candor and judgment."

RELICS OF PENN.

A Magnificent Specimen of an Old Bible Preserved in Lancaster.

There is in possession of the Heitshue family of Lancaster, Pa., an edition of the Bible, in three folio volumes, on the lid of the first volume of which, in large gilt letters, is this inscription:

THE GIFT
The Rt. Hon'ble
LADY JULIANA PENN
to
THE JULIANA LIBRARY,
At Lancaster.

Juliana Penn was the wife of Thomas Penn, William Penn's son, who was one of the proprietors of Pennsylvania in 1770, the date of the publication of this copy of the Bible. The Juliana Library was the third public library to be founded in America, it having been chartered in 1763. It was named in honor of Lady Penn, who was a daughter of the Earl of Pomfret, and she recognized the fact by presenting the Bible to the library. The volumes are eleven inches by seventeen and a half inches in size. As specimens of the binder's art these books are magnificent. They are bound in full Russia leather, and are adorned by elaborate hand-tooling on the backs and outside and inner margins of the covers. The edition was printed in London and contains the famous Commentaries by William Dodd, LL.D., "Prebendary of Brecon and Chaplain in Ordinary to His Majesty," who was executed for forgery in 1777.

The books and property of the Juliana Library were sold by auction in 1843 to satisfy claims against it, and the three volumes were purchased by William Heitshue. Among other valuable relics of this ancient library is the copperplate of Thomas Penn, engraved in 1761 by Martin, one of the pioneer copper-plate engravers of this country, the drawing of the portrait being by an artist named Davis. This plate is in the possession of John F. Schaum, who refuses all offers to permit impressions to be taken from it, fearing that it may be lost or injured.

Don't Bandage Sore Eyes.

The custom, prevalent among physicians as well as the laity, of tightly bandaging or tying up the eye as soon as it becomes inflamed or sore is a bad one. The effect upon the eye is bad. It precludes the free access and beneficial effects of the cool air and at the same time prevents or greatly retards the free egress of hot tears and morbid secretions of the inflamed conjunctiva or cornea, or both. In those cases, too, where a foreign substance has got into the eye the bandage (which is usually clapped on the first thing) presses the lids more closely against the ball and thus increases the pain and discomfort by augmenting the lacerations caused by the foreign body. This can not fail to be harmful. In those cases where the light is painful it is my habit to adjust over the organ a neatly-fitting shade, which, while it excludes the light, allows the free access of air.

—Henry Clay once accused John Randolph of being an aristocrat. In shrill piercing tones which penetrated every ear in the House of Congress Randolph exclaimed, "If a man is known by the company he keeps, the gentleman who has just sat down is more of an aristocrat than I claim to be; for he spends most of his nights in the company of kings and queens and knaves."

At Herring's Opera House on Saturday night the Katie Putnam troupe played "Lena the Madcap" to fairly well filled benches. As on her previous visit Miss Putnam carried the house with her and enchanted all by her graceful and pretty acting. The company ably sustained Miss Putnam and gave every satisfaction.

The corporation of the city of Vancouver has been summoned to show cause in the supreme court of British Columbia, at Victoria, why they prevented the docking of the steamers Islander and Premier, and the landing of their passengers at the terminal city. the C. P. N. Co., will come up for hearing on Monday (this) morning.—Colonist.

The Katie Putnam troupe were unable to reach Victoria yesterday owing to the steamboat and quarantine troubles at Vancouver, and, as they were billed to play at Victoria to-night, it was necessary that they should be at the capital early this afternoon. After some trouble the str. Belle was chartered and the plucky actors sailed at 6 o'clock this morning expecting to reach Victoria by 3 o'clock this afternoon.

The New Court House.

By instructions from the provincial government, Mr. G. W. Grant, architect, prepared plans for the new court house to be erected in this city. These have been approved, and as soon as working drawings are complete tenders will be invited for the construction. The situation will be the old gaol site, bounded by Market Square, McKenzie and Clarkson streets. The building, which will be brick and stone, will be two stories besides basement and attic and have a frontage on each street of about 80 feet. The design is modern Romanesque and will be a substantial and imposing structure. The court room will be lofty, well lighted and ventilated. The heating will be by hot water throughout and the building will contain all modern and sanitary improvements.

The Quarantine Difficulty.

When it was reported on Saturday evening that the s. s. Islander had discharged her passengers at Port Moody and that they would arrive in Westminster by train, there was considerable excitement on the streets and many persons were of the opinion the passengers should not be allowed to enter the city. A dispatch was finally sent to Mr. Abbott announcing that he would be held responsible if any serious result followed the bringing into the city of possibly disease infected passengers. As the passengers could not legally be prevented from entering the city, they were not interfered with on arrival. The Islander returned to Victoria and landed a number of passengers there without any objection from the authorities. No Victoria steamer arrived at Vancouver yesterday and it is the intention of the company to bring the mail by way of Westminster until the difficulty is settled. The Premier at last reports was still at Vancouver. All the passengers for the island and for the sound who arrived by the Pacific Express were brought to Westminster and took passage by the str. Louise.

Mr. John Magwood, Victoria Road, writes: "Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure is a splendid medicine. My customers say they never used anything so effectual. Good results immediately follow its use. I know its value from personal experience, having been troubled for 9 or 10 years with Dyspepsia, and since using it digestion goes on without that depressing feeling so well known to dyspeptics. I have no hesitation in recommending it in any case of Indigestion, Constipation, Heartburn, or troubles arising from a disordered stomach."

MR. HENDRY ELECTED.

Mayor of New Westminster for 1889 by Acclamation.—The Nominations for Aldermen.

The Hyacks' Nominees for Chief and Assistant Engineers Elected by Acclamation.

The nominations for mayor and aldermen took place at the city Hall today commencing at 11 o'clock. At 12 o'clock Mr. D. Robson, returning officer, announced that the time for receiving nominations for mayor had expired, and as the only nominee was Mr. John Hendry, he declared that gentleman elected by acclamation, as mayor for the present year. This announcement was received with great applause. Mr. Hendry, in a few words returned thanks for the honor conferred on him and promised to carefully guard the city's best interest. At 1 o'clock, the time for receiving nominations for aldermen expired and Mr. Robson announced the following candidates for aldermanic honors.

James G. Jacques, proposed by D. S. Curtis, seconded by B. Douglas.

John Reid, proposed by D. McPhadden, seconded by Alex Ewen.

J. A. Calbick, proposed by James Cunningham, seconded by Henry Elliot.

D. S. Curtis, proposed by J. W. Harvey, seconded by Angus Grant.

Henry V. Edmonds, proposed by I. B. Fisher, seconded by C. G. Major.

Thos Ovens, proposed Alfred Smither, seconded by Henry Mathers.

A. M. Herring, proposed by James Cunningham, seconded by L. F. Bonson.

S. H. Webb, proposed by C. McDonough, seconded by James. Wise.

D. McPhadden, proposed by Alfred Smither, seconded by Frederick Eickhoff.

Alexander Ewen, proposed by B. Douglas, seconded by H. Hoy.

E. S. Scoullar, proposed by C. McDonough, seconded by R. Dickinson.

W. B. Townsend, proposed by D. S. Curtis, seconded D. McPhadden.

O. B. Ackerman, proposed by James Cunningham, seconded by B. Douglas.

Thos. Cunningham, proposed by I. B. Fisher, seconded by C. G. Major.

John E. Lord, proposed by H. Eickhoff, seconded by C. E. C. Brown.

James Wise, proposed by C. E. C. Brown, seconded by Thos. L. Briggs.

His Worship Mayor Dickinson then announced that Mr. T. Ackerman, for chief engineer and Mr. W. W. Dickinson for assistant chief engineer were the only nominations and accordingly declared them elected by acclamation.

Mr. Robson said the polls would open for voting on Monday, 21st inst., at 9 a.m., and close at 5 p.m.

Mr. Curtis moved that Mayor Dickinson take the chair. Carried.

His worship took the chair and asked Mr. Hendry and the different candidates to step forward and give their sentiments on the different questions affecting the city's interests.

Mr. Hendry thanked the ratepayers for the great honor they had done him in selecting him as their chief magistrate for the coming year. He would so try to do his duty that when his term expired the people's opinion of him would be as good as it is at present. The new city charter would require some amendments, and these would be brought before the house at its next session. In railroad matters he would work only in the best interests of the city; and the questions of sewerage, water supply and street improvement would be facilitated by him in every possible way and have his hearty support, as would also all commendable enterprises. Mr. Hendry of hearty applause, the amidst rounds

Mr. Curtis asked all present to give the retiring mayor, Mr. Dickinson, three hearty cheers. He had served the city faithfully for 18 years and no more appropriate time than the present could be chosen for showing their appreciation of his efforts.

The cheers were given with a right hearty enthusiasm. Mayor Dickinson said he had been taken by surprise. Since first taking part in the civic government of the city he had done his best in all matters. Concluding Mr. Dickinson asked the people to throw aside petty differences and elect a good council in whose hands the city's interests would not suffer. The city must not be allowed to retrograde but be kept continually progressing. (Cheers).

Mr. Edmonds explained that he had to go to Victoria on business and would not be able to attend any public meeting held before the elections. He would therefore tell the meeting briefly his position. The charter, he thought, would require a great deal of attention and the council's time would be much taken up in connection with it. Railway matters would have his best support and all improvements, which could be judiciously brought about, would also be favorably considered. He did not intend to make great promises but if elected would work only in the city's interests. (Applause)

Mr. Curtis said the city had done much good by electing Mr. Hendry mayor and the next thing wanted was a good council. His platform was: Solid on railway matters and having the contract carried out to its last letter; fire protection for the upper portion of the city; a new and better system of taxation and a city market, to attract the farmers. (Applause).

Mr. Ewen considered the railway question as good as settled, both parties had contracts to carry out and would do so. All improvements, such as water supply, and sewerage hinged on taxation. He thought property should be assessed at its proper value. It would be folly to burden the city with a large debt to make the necessary improvements all at once. They must be done gradually. If elected he would do all he could to conserve the city's interests. (Cheers).

Capt. Scoullar said everyone had seen his election card in the newspaper and they knew he was not trying to get into the council under false colors. It was not expected that all the improvements could be carried out this year, but much of the preliminary work might be done. If elected he would carry out his promises faithfully. (Applause).

Mr. Reid was in sympathy with the railroad and would further its just interests in every way. As there was much work to be done he would not promise anything further than that he would do all and everything to assist in bringing to a successful issue everything which would go to better the city's position. The exhibition grounds and a recreation ground would be among the first things he would urge upon the council if elected. (Applause).

Mr. Ovens said there was no difficulty about the railway; the people had settled that. The many necessary improvements would receive his best attention, and he would work hard in the city's interests if re-elected. (Applause).

Mr. McPhaden announced himself in favor of the railway, city park improvements and all schemes tending towards the advancement and prosperity of the city. If elected he would work in the city's best interests. (Applause).

Mr. Jas. Wise said that if elected he would see that the contract between the city and the railway company was properly carried out, and that not one cent was expended without an equivalent. If elected he would support all commendable enterprises and carry out all his promises to the letter. (Applause).

Mr. Ackerman was thoroughly in favor of the progress of the city. He had no bridges to build over ravines or roads to grade in front of his property and therefore could not be accused of having an axe to grind. He was in favor of the railway, city market, &c., and if elected would do his duty carefully and honestly. (Applause).

Mr. Webb said it was rumored he was opposed to the railway—such was not the case. He had been one of the injunctors in favor of the city. The city must have value for its money—dollar for dollar. He had never sat in the council, but if elected he would use his best ability and do everything in his power for the city's welfare. (Applause).

The meeting then adjourned.

THE CHURCHES.

The Law and the Gospel as Expounded by our City Pastors.

ORDINATION AT HOLY TRINITY.

At Holy Trinity Church yesterday morning His Lordship Bishop Sillitoe conducted the solemn and impressive ceremony of ordination on three candidates. His lordship was assisted by Venerable Archdeacon Woods, Venerable Archdeacon Scriven, Rev. C. Croucher, Rev. Mr. Scholfield and Rev. P. Woods. The ordination sermon was preached by Venerable Archdeacon Scriven, whose effort was both powerful and appropriate and referred particularly to the sacredness of the ceremony. The candidates for deacon, Mr. Wright, presented by the Venerable Archdeacon Woods, and Mr. Stevenson, presented by the Venerable Archdeacon Scriven, took the prescribed oaths so impressively given by His Lordship. The Rev. Wilmot Baugh Allen was then ordained priest, being presented for the ceremony by the Venerable Archdeacon Woods. His Lordship Bishop Sillitoe completed the services by administering the holy communion, which was partaken of by about 50 communicants, Rev. Mr. Allen and Mr. Wright will labor in this diocese and Rev. Mr. Stevenson in the diocese of Columbia.

ST. ANDREW'S PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Yesterday was communion Sabbath in the Presbyterian church, and Rev. Thos. Scoullar took for his text in the morning 1st Cor. 3 c. 2 v.: "For we are brothers together with God." In Paul's address address to the Corinthian Church he had occasion to correct their preference for one teacher or the other, as though the instrument was any thing; some said, "I am of Paul," whilst others said "I am of Apollos," and Paul showed them that God himself was the source of all spiritual life. God had an eternal purpose to redeem men from the curse of his transgressions, and, as His great co-worker, Christ, in offering Himself a sacrifice, made an atonement for sin. The Holy Spirit next comes in for His part of the work—to convince the sinner of his sinfulness and the need of a Saviour, and points to Christ's finished work on the cross and on Him the sin sick soul to believe old world to the coming Redeemer and the apostles preached the word to prove that the Saviour had come and paid the penalty of a broken law. John, the immediate forerunner of Christ, pointed out Him who was about to enter on his life work, as "the Lamb of God that taketh away the sins of the world." The successors of the apostles, by the teaching of the Word, have continued to act as co-workers with God, ascribing to Him the glory of their achievements. Knowing that Paul may plant and Apollos may water, but only God can give the increase; every true follower of Christ is a co-operator with God; parents especially are in a position to work for Him. Timothy is an example of the good effects of parental teaching and co-working with God. As in the natural world, man is the agent to accomplish God's purposes; God gives the seasons, but man must plough and sow or there will be no harvest; it is only through man's co-operation that the great work of redemption can be fully accomplished. The memorial of Christ's broken body and shed blood must be kept up by the believer until he come again, and this is a means of grace that helps to strengthen our faith in God's great plan of redemption through the blood of the atonement.

Twenty-three new members were added to the church.

OLIVET BAPTIST CHURCH.

At the Olivet Baptist Church last evening the Rev. Thos. Baldwin spoke from Mark 8th chapter, 36th verse, and said: "The Lord Jesus Christ was the only real appraiser of values in the universe; God made everything for him, everything was reserved for him, and that he would best know their values wont without debate. Man went down into a gold mine, chipped off a piece of quartz and sent it to the assayer, or gathered some precious ores and sent them to the expert to ascertain their worth: so Jesus Christ took man in his hands and said, 'How much is that man worth before the assembled universe? Suppose he gain the world, how much would he be loser or gainer?' It was a question of values. God had made man after a certain design, and made him with susceptibilities and possibilities, and he knows his worth and says, 'Suppose he possess the whole world for his own and his heirs and assigns, and it is possible in the order of God's will, how much will it profit him if he lose his soul.' It was a calculation in arithmetic, and let man look at it in a commercial, a business, point of view; let him calculate his soul, his personnel, as against the world. The world was not the same as when created; we had advanced and would not care to return to the days of '49 even, to slowly wend our way over the hills in a stage coach. Our mines had produced millions of wealth, and when the forests failed for fuel we had gone down and got coal; our commerce had spread out, our wool had been sheared, and we had been clothed; in short, we had developed. Where the buffalo and the wolf ranged there were the vast stretches of waving corn, seeming to praise God. Man had done wonders, and this went to prove that they were scions of the Great Sire Himself. How wonderful and wise God had been to hide, to put away, things and ideas until we were old enough to use them; when the old sperm oil was getting exhausted, they found coal oil, and when this was getting low natural gas had sprung up, and these things made them feel the fatherhood of God. Then we should think of the treatment Christ had given us; he saw the Mosaic system did not answer; there was no chord between God and man, and Jesus comes down and clothes himself with our manhood, decends from the Majesty on high and becomes man that we may become the sons of God. Could we but estimate the value of man, first made like God; than it took the sacrifice of the Son of God to redeem him, so that man was priceless. Christ had laid aside his glory, endured the cross, accomplished our salvation, and now he puts an estimate upon our value, body and soul, so great that he purposes resurrection. How many a grave, how these fallen bodies lived in his memory, causing him to shed oceans of tears; but these bodies were going to live again — priceless — God's chemistry would stir life in these bones—Jesus would point in triumph to the man waking up after centuries, the same man, praising God in his glorified body. The spirit would be united with the body; and there would be no justice if God punished the spirit and their joint evil acts. Many spirits wanted to accept the Gospel, but the body said no. It was the body that completed the worth of the man, and the life of the flesh must appear in judgment, and it should make us afraid for ourselves when we are resurrected to judgment. God had provided a home for us to go to and when we decay, when we are on the home stretch, it should beckon us on and we should see, like Bunyan, the Celestial City ahead, to which some have crossed and some are crossing now, a place provided beyond all reach of care. Here there was suffering and obstacles, but there, there was no more sorrow, no misunderstanding, no friend missed. It was the home of God, where body and soul would dwell. Man's value was wonderful, and our body and soul had to be saved; it would not be right to put a spirit into a body to be debauched by that body and not bring that body to judgment with the spirit; and in closing the Rev. gentleman said we had an invaluable interest to conserve, and that fact, that both body and soul would live somewhere to all eternity, either in joy or punishment, made it certain that it would not pay to loose ourselves, even though we might gain the whole world

Gilbert Laird, St. Margaret's Hope, Orkney, Scotland, writes: "I am requested by several friends to order another parcel of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. The last lot I got from you having been tested in several cases of rheumatism, has given relief when doctors' medicines have failed to have any effect. The excellent qualities of this medicine should be made known, that the millions of sufferers throughout the world may benefit by its providential discovery."

Illecillewait.

The Selkirk Mining and Smelting Company's mines, several in number, lie near the C. P. R. track, about three miles east of Illecillewait station. Considerable development work has been done on five or six of these properties, in most instances with gratifying success, as bodies of ore of a rich and apparently permanent character have been revealed by these explorations. The most promising mine in the group, and one whose appearance would warrant great hopes in any mining camp, is the Lanark. This location is situated on the mountain side within sight of the railway, some four distant and some 3,000 above the track. Several hundred feet of drifts, tunnels and shafts have been driven on this lode, and some 400 tons of ore, valued at over $60 per ton net, shipped therefrom to the smelter at San Francisco. About 1,000 tons of ore are lying on the dump. The first, or 100-foot level, is thoroughly developed, showing a superb body of ore 29 feet in width. During the winter operations are confined to the driving of a tunnel on the 400-foot level to tap the lode at that depth from the surface. This tunnel is now in a little over 200 feet, and it is expected the mineral zone will soon be encountered; in fact, during the past few days mineral in small quantity has been found.—*B. C. REPLY.

To MESSRS. CUNNINGHAM, FISHER, BROWN and others.

GENTLEMEN,—I thank you very much for the confidence you express in my ability to be of service to this city in the Municipal Council and have, therefore, much pleasure in accepting your nomination. If elected, I will do my best to fulfil your expectations. While I am well aware that the city has many urgent wants yet, the organization of affairs under the new Charter will this year involve a large amount of work, and if too many additional matters are undertaken at this stage some of them are sure to suffer from want of due consideration. I feel, however, I should state with regard to the Southern Railway, that although I run independent of any ticket I shall do my best to further its just interests.

I am, Gentlemen,
Your obedient Servant,
HENRY V. EDMONDS.

IMMENSE SALE
—OF—
DRY GOODS, CLOTHING
HATS, CARPETS,
LINOLEUMS, OIL CLOTHS, ETC., ETC.
Commencing Oct. 10th, 1888.

As we have decided to retire from the retail Dry Goods business this season, we now place our entire stock on the market at

WHOLESALE PRICES. NO RESERVE.
EVERYTHING MUST BE SOLD.

$6,000 worth of Clothing, Hats and Men's Furnishings.
$20,000 worth of Dry Goods, Carpets, Oil Cloths and House Furnishing Goods, etc.

☞As we are known to carry one of the largest and best assorted stocks in the Province, it will not be necessary to enumerate. An early inspection will convince the public that we mean business, and that the stock must be closed out before the end of this season; therefore we have placed our goods at prices lower than have ever been offered before in this Province.

REMEMBER—The Stock must be closed out by the end of the year.
CALL EARLY WHILE THE ASSORTMENT IS GOOD.

TERMS—Under $100, cash; over $100, secured notes at three months with interest.
