NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The stealing of an umbrella on a dry day is held to be a theft by an Omaha Judge, but the stealing of the same article on a rainy day is held to be justifiable on the ground of self-defence.

An English jockey says that he makes $70,000 a year. This being so an an English jockey is capable of being a lordly American aristocrat. The horsey smell about his clothes would be highly appreciated among the four hundred of New York.—Am. Paper.

Judge—"Your age?" Lady—"Thirty years." Judge (incredulously)—"You will have some difficulty in proving that." Lady (excitedly)—"You will find it hard to prove the contrary, as the church register which contains the entry of my birth was burned in 1845."

The Cardinal Archbishop of Vienna has a salary of about $30,000 a year; the Cardinal Archbishop of Olmutz has $200,000; the Cardinal Archbishop of Prague has $175,000; and the Archbishop of Eriru has $300,000. The Primate of Hungary, the Cardinal Archbishop of Grau, has $400,000 a year.

Mrs. Harrison has been asked by mail if she approves of dancing, whether she wears a bustle, what she thinks of Mrs. Rives-Chanler's novels, what is her opinion of "Robert Elsmere," how much time she devotes to her toilet, which of the McKee babies she likes best, and other questions equally impertinent. This is indeed, a free country in some respects.—Am. paper.

Says a Washington correspondent: "No minister sent to the United States by Great Britain has ever been so untrammelled by the dignity and power of his place as Sir Julian Pauncefote. He is easy to approach and has a friendly, cordial manner that is very inviting. He takes life easily and seems to want everybody to do likewise. He goes out into the park near the Legation buildings and laughs and chats with the children who there congregate in the evening. He saunters nonchalantly down the street or out in the country roads and lets diplomacy go on a holiday whenever it wishes to do so."

It is said that the Shah on making his first journey in England asked the use of the button which moved the connection with the engine-driver, and was told that it was for the purpose of stopping the train. Thereupon his majesty rose and pulled it sharply with the result that would have rendered any ordinary mortal subject to penalty or imprisonment. On being asked why he wished to stop the train, the Shah said he was tired and desired to go to sleep, and it was some time before he could be made to understand that the traffic of the South-Eastern Railway must not be brought to a standstill for an hour even for the Shah-in-Shah.

Divorce was easy under the old Irish laws, says a writer in the July Century, and the wife took back with her the "tindsera," or marriage portion given by her parents, as well as the "coibche," or reward for her virginity, received from her husband. Here are some of the reasons which might be alleged by a quick-tempered or a frail woman as a cause for separation: Refusal of her rights in domestic matters, misconduct of her husband with other women, abandonment, a public charge of infidelity, ridicule from her husband, a mark on her person showing maltreatment. If a love-potion had been administered, it might be cited as a cause for leaving the man who gave it. In fine, divorce in heathen Ireland was so easy, and the laws were so favorable to the weaker sex, that the man who "caught a Tartar" must have had every chance of continuing to regret it.

Says an American exchange: Mrs. Hayes always declared that a perfectly adequate substitute for liquor when needed as a stimulant could be found in hot milk, and after any cold or wetting she gave this in place of the wine or whiskey which others would have considered necessary. This is, by the way, a custom of Mrs. Cleveland's also, who discovered after the fatigues of the many long and wearisome receptions she was obliged to go through, standing for hours on her feet and shaking hands with hundreds of people, that nothing would restore her so quickly as a cupful of boiling milk brought to her by her maid, and which she drank in little sips as hot as it possibly could be taken. The Washington girls caught the idea from her, and finding how quickly it helped them after a hard day of calls and social duties, they began to substitute it for the various malt preparations they had been in the habit of taking, or the hot wine and water which their maids, usually administered when they came in too tired out to dress for their next engagement.

The Quebec French papers are jubilant at the negative answer of the governor-general to the petition of the equal rights association, praying for the disallowance of the Jesuits' estates act.

LOCKED UP.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Martin Burke, the Winnipeg suspect who gave the officials such a long hard tussle to bring him over the border, was landed in this city last night and locked in Harrison street station.

NO SURRENDER.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—A despatch from Ottawa this morning says that minister of customs Bowell is of the opinion that the United States will not demand the surrender of the sealer Black Diamond.

ABSCONDER ARRESTED.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6.—Moses Deutch, the stockbroker's clerk who absconded with a large amount of money last week, was arrested at Boulder Creek, south of San Francisco yesterday, and will be brought back to-day.

SUICIDED.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6.—W. A. Delaven, 46 years of age, recently from the east, and who is known to have been in ill-health, suicided in his room this morning by asphyxiation.

PREPARING TO FIGHT.

SAN FRANCISOC, Aug. 6.—Jack Dempsey arrived from Portland this morning. He says he will immediately get down to work for his battle with Lablanche at the California athletic club on the 27th inst. for a purse of $5,000.

FLOOD TIDE WON.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 6.—Flood Tide, owned by Porter Ashe, of California, won the Iroquois stakes, a mile and six hundred yards, in 2.21 to day.

TO VISIT BLAINE.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 6.—The presidential party, consisting of the president, Secretaries Windom, Proctor and Rusk, and Private Secretary Halford, left Washington at 9:40 this morning for New York, over the Pensylvania railroad. The president goes to Bar Harbor, Me., to visit Blaine.

A NOTABLE'S DEATH.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—A great many people in and out of the city of London will regret the death of Mr. Robert Wigram Crawford. He had been director of the Bank of England nearly forty years, for a long space in which term he had also been a member for the city, as was his father before him. His fine figure (he was over 6 feet 4), admirable manners, and high spirits will not readily be forgotten. Mr. Crawford did not often figure on public platforms except at the Mansion House.

MURDER, NOT WAR.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—A Times dispatch from Port au Prince, dated July 28th, says the Haytian war has degenerated into a murderous campaign, and is beginning to look like a war of extermination. Hippolyte's forces are gradually closing in on Port au Prince. Legitime is killing prisoners like so many cattle, cutting their throats in the market places, while Hippolyte slaughtered eighteen men who fell into his hands the other day in retaliation for those killed by Legitime.

NEW STEAMSHIP LINE.

CARACAS, Venezuela, Aug. 6.—An English company is having two steamships constructed at Glasgow for a line to be established between this port and New York.

GOLDWIN SMITH.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 6.—Mr. Goldwin Smith, who has made it a point to pay the Northwest an annual visit for the past four or five years, arrived on the C.P.R. express at noon to-day; coming up by the lakes. He looks exceedingly well. It is his intention to spend a fortnight or so in the province taking a look over the harvest fields.

CAPT. LABELLE'S FUNERAL.

MONTREAL, Aug. 6.—Some one hundred citizens of Montreal went to Sorel by the str. Cultivateur at 7 o'clock this morning to attend the funeral of Capt. Labelle, M. P.

ANOTHER SOUTHERN RAILWAY.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 6.—Sir A. T. Galt arrived in the city to-day by the St. P. M. & M. train, accompanied by Mr. E. T. Galt, manager of the Galt coal mines, at Lethbridge. They have just returned from England where it is understood they have been successful in raising sufficient capital to extend the Galt line of railway from Lethbridge into Montana. Sir A. T. Galt will remain in the city for a week or ten days, the guest of his son, Mr. John Galt.

CANADIAN MEDICOS.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 6.—Members of the Canadian medical association, which is to meet at Banff this year, will leave Montreal this evening for the west, travelling over the C. P. R. in special Pullman cars. There will be about 80 medical men in the party, and about two hundred ladies and gentlemen all told. The trip to Winnipeg is made without a stop, the party arriving here by the regular express at noon on Friday next. Here the medical men, and those accompanying, will remain over twenty-four hours, the intention being to sidetrack their cars. The party will be met at the depot by the local medical men and a drive around the city will probably be arranged. Dr. Ross was last year's president, and the president of the association for the following year will be Dr. Wright. Dr. Bell, of Montreal is the secretary.

OTTAWA NOTES.

OTTAWA, Aug. 5.—A private despatch from Halifax says the American schooner Vidette, seized at Guysboro, N. S., for violating the customs laws, was subsequently released, as the action was too hasty.

The utmost satisfaction is expressed in eastern Canada at the escape of the Black Diamond. This feeling is shared by all the government officials here. Nobody doubts the genuineness of the seizure. The good fortune of the Black Diamond is not regarded as likely to complicate matters. Hon. Mr. Bowell, minister of customs, wired Victoria last night for particulars. No official action has been taken thus far. The members of the government state that they are ignorant of the alleged departure of the remainder of the British squadron for the Behring Sea. The Free Press declares the seizure a farce, proving that the Americans are disposed to back down.

WANTED TO SHOOT BURKE.

FARGO, Aug. 5.—When the train bearing Martin Burke arrived at Grafton, 300 men, mostly Irishmen, endeavored to gain admittance to where Burke was chained to the floor and handcuffed to two officers. "Dr. Cronin," said one of the men, "was a cousin of mine, and I would avenge his death if I could get a chance." He drew a revolver, but before he could fire it he was hustled away by Lieut. Ross. Burke heard the man's threats and remarked: "I might as well be shot in Dakota as hanged in Chicago."

BURKE IN CHARGE.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Martin Burke was dropped from the St. Paul train about six blocks from the depot to-night and driven to the Harrison street station and placed in a cell. At the depot was a squad of policemen, waiting ostensibly, to escort Burke from the depot, but really to act as a decoy for reporters. There were very few people about the police station and no one save the police authorities knew of Burke's arrival until he had been safely placed behind the bars.

FOOLISH INDIANS.

STANDING ROCK, Dak., Aug 4.—Much to the surprise of all at the agency, John Grass, Mad Bear, Big Head and their bands to-day signed the treaty and now 600 names are all that are necessary for the opening of the reservation. There was a wild scene when Sitting Bull and his band rode up in in war costume and attempted to drive the friendly Indians from the council, but he was soon suppressed, and the Indians under the three chiefs above named, followed them in signing. Four hundred signatures were secured yesterday, and the commissioners are elated over the propect of success. Chief Gall is still hesitating, but it is believed he will consent in a few days. There is now every prospect of success. It is now reasonably safe to predict that 11,000,000 acres of land will be opened for settlement.

WINNIPEG WINS.

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 4.—Saturday's races at Lake Minnetonka resulted as follows: Senior four cared, 1½ miles straight away, Winnipeg won, time 10:12; Minnesota 10:20; the Lurlines broke out at one mile and did not finish. Junior single, 1½ miles with turn, N. D. Pearson, Duluth, 11:13; H. W. Brown, Minnesotas, did not finish. Senior double, 1½ miles with a turn, Winnipeg rowed over the course in 10:48, the Lurines not appearing.

Police Court.

(Before T. C. Atkinson, P.M.)

Jack, a Fort Rupert Indian, charged with being drunk and disorderly, pleaded guilty. He was supplied with a bottle of whisky by a Chinaman, and the liquor had such a nasty effect on him that he became quarrelsome. Constable Smith undertook to remove Jack to the lockup, but he resisted and a struggle ensued, which resulted in the Indian getting much the worst of the combat and in his final submission to the law. Fined five dollars and costs.

Wm. Devine, charged with being drunk and incapable, pleaded guilty and was fined $2.50 and costs.

Hugh Heney, another drunk and incapable, acknowledged his guilt and suffered the same fine.

More Rich Quartz.

Encouraging reports are heard from the Texada gold mines, more especially from the now far-famed "Nutcracker," which is holding its own in point of richness with any mine yet discovered. We were permitted by Mr. Lewis Griffiths to look at some magnificent specimens which he brought down from that mine yesterday, and without exaggeration it may be said that some of it literally shines with specks of gold, no glass being necessary to detect the particles. The shaft is sunk about 11 feet and looks well all the way down, the ledge holding its own in a most promising manner. Mr. Griffiths also brought down about 100 pounds of decomposed quartz which he, in company with others interested, will wash out to-day. Gold can be plainly seen with the naked eye, and the pulverized rock should pan out well.—Courier.

THE VICTORY COMPLETE.

CAIRO, Aug. 6.—The campaign is over, and Gen. Grenfell is returning to Cairo. A force of Egyptian troops remain at Tarros and a body of cavalry is in pursuit of the one Emir who survived the battle on Saturday. This leader is lurking in the hills above Bellano with a force of 200 men and cannot escape.

MR. YATES' CABLE.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—The queen's rheumatism has not left her and she was advised under these circumstances that the naval review would tax her strength too much. Her majesty was nothing loth to stay away, as she cannot bear the noise of salutes fired from the ships, and, having the emperor, she could not dispense with salutes as she did at the jubilee naval review. It is said on the best authority that it was not considered desirable for political, as well as family reasons, that the German Emperor should come to London. The family relations are more easy at present and he and the Prince of Wales have met and been quite friendly. Still the family party at Osborne can hardly be a very happy one apart from the feeling of soreness which rankles in the minds of the queen and prince as to his conduct to the Empress Frederick. The emperor did not like Princess Beatrice's marriage to Prince Henry of Battenburg, regarding it as Germans do as a mesalliance. The Prince and Princess Christian are at Osborne, and will, no doubt, help to make matters easy, as the emperor and empress are very fond of Prince Christian. Near the flag tower at Osborne and adjoining the principal carriage entrance is an extensive and beautiful garden with shrubbery in which are splendid fuschias and myrtles. Of the latter, the largest bush has been grown from a sprig taken out of the wedding bouquet of the Empress Frederick, and should be particularly interesting to her son.

THE PRINCE OF WALES.

The Prince of Wales goes to Hamburg next week, and thence to Denmark. In the course of his continental wanderings, he will certainly visit the German emperor, who, I hear, has invited his royal highness to attend the autumn manœuvres early next month in Westphalia and Hanover, one feature being the review on the field of Winden.

A great many distinguished passengers have booked places on the Teutonic which sets out on Wednesday.

Captain Labelle, M. P., for Richelieu, is dead. The deceased was a conservative in politics and was returned to parliament for the first time at the last general election, after a most exciting contest in which he defeated Mr. Ladouceur, liberal, by a majority of 71 votes. The deceased was born 53 years ago and comes from an old French-Canadian family, the progenitor of which landed in this country as a soldier. Captain Labelle for 25 years was in command of a steamer of the Richelieu line between Quebec and Montreal, and at the time of his death was general manager of the Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Co. He was also for a term of years general passenger agent of the Quebec, Montreal, Ottawa and Occidental Railway. Though a strict disciplinarian, Capt. Labelle was a genial man, and his death will be mourned by an exceptionally large circle of warmly-attached friends.

Daily British Columbian

Tuesday Evening, August 6, 1889.

Perhaps we don't know what we are talking about, but it strikes us very forcibly that things are making for a grand fizzle, instead of the grand success so often invoked in these columns, in the matter of the provincial exhibition which comes off in this city the month after next. Less than nine weeks will now elapse ere the date for the show comes round, and what preparations have been made? We don't suppose it is anybody's business to answer this question but Echo's, and that sarcastic sprite would only mockingly repeat the interrogatory. So we suppose we'll have to do the best we can ourselves, and the easiest way to get at it is to recount what has not been done. In the first place, then, the prize lists have not been issued yet, something which should have been done months ago. This is nobody's fault, of course, but then it's unfortunate, and the worst of it is, the same thing seems to happen every year. The "cow's tail" would seem to be the insignia of all the provincial exhibition promoters in British Columbia, and festina lente the religiously observed motto. In strict keeping with this spirit and policy, no posters have yet been printed and distributed throughout the country, and the exhibition has not yet been advertised in even the provincial papers. Further still in the same line of masterly inactivity, not a step has been taken by our citizens, or whosesoever business it is, towards preparing a programme of sports and games for the occasion. This is something that should be done without delay, and the programme advertised, if it is expected to attract people in any numbers to the city on the days of the fair. Cheap transfer arrangements should also be made, if possible, and exhibitors apprized of all details of interest to them by poster or advertisement. Very little time now remains in which to arrange for anything like a decent show, and it is to be hoped that it may be well improved. In the matter of preparing the grounds and erecting the necessary buildings, the greatest expedition will also have to be used, as this work is also behind-hand, but it is difficult here as well to find anybody answerable for the delay. However, by pushing matters vigorously from this out, we believe the exhibition buildings, pens, etc., and fences required, can be completed in time, and the grounds got in some kind of shape, so that the show may yet preserved from fizzledom, if there is a general "looking alive" all along the line, which might with advantage extend to the somewhat lethargic subscribers of the "Exhibition Fund."

The proposed new trans-Atlantic cable of the Canada Atlantic Company, which it is fairly certain will be laid within reasonable time, will constitute the eleventh electric cable connecting the two hemispheres over the bed of the Atlantic. The ten lines at present in existence are the following: The Anglo-American Company's cables, four in number, three touching at about the same points on Ireland and Newfoundland respectively, and the other joining France and Massachusetts via St. Pierre; the Direct United States Company's cables, from Ireland to Nova Scotia; the Western Union company's cable, numbering two, from Nova Scotia to England, via Ireland; the Commercial Company's cables, also two, connecting Ireland and Nova Scotia; and the cable of the Compagnie Francaise, from France to Massachusetts, by way of St. Pierre and Cape Breton. The first laid of all these cables was one of the Anglo-American Company's, from France to St. Pierre and Massachusetts, in 1869, and the most recent, the second cable of the Commercial Company's, connecting Ireland and Nova Scotia, thence to Massachusetts, laid in 1885. The total length of the shortest of the ten lines enumerated above is 2,174 miles, and of the longest 3,407. The least cost for a single cable is given as $4,000,000, and the greatest as $8,750,000. The cables mentioned all lie on the bed of the ocean within a compass of about two hundred miles, some of the lines run very close together, and at several points the different cables cross each other. In repairing operations, which are quite frequent, the inconvenience and additional cost of maintenance thus necessitated need only be hinted at. Indeed, it is stated, if the true history of repairing expeditions, both in deep and moderate soundings was made public, the facts would be not a little startling to shareholders. It is with a full knowledge of all the foregoing and other data, says the Dominion Illustrated, from whose map and article on the subject we have compiled the above information, that the direct Canada Atlantic cable (from Ireland or Scotland, via the Straits of Belle Isle) has been projected, as possessing the following decided advantages over all established lines: The Belle Isle route will be over 150 miles northward of any trans-Atlantic cable now laid, and the depth of the ocean will be considerably less; it will thus be absolutely free from all risks during the repairs of other cables and can be more readily raised when required. The company have only to provide the main cable or cables, of not exceeding 1,900 miles in length, the connection eastward being with the Imperial government postoffice telegraph service, and westward with the Canadian government telegraph service at Greenly Island in the Straits of Belle Isle. Hence the company will be at no outlay of capital for terminal cables, and no pooling or other pressure is practicable. The capital expenditure of the company will not exceed $1,600,000, one of the principal cable manufacturing companies in London having tendered to provide, lay and guarantee a cable of the most approved type for the sum of $1,500,000, which, compared with even the lowest figure given above as the cost of one of the existing cables, will be found very low. The annual maintenance charges for the Canada Atlantic will also be very moderate, it is stated, as compared with those of other cable companies. The British admiralty chart is said to show that the cable approaches to Greenly Island are quite as safe (from the grounding of icebergs) as to any other point on the coast of North America. As to the business prospects for the proposed new line, it is stated that the present number of trans-Atlantic despatches relating to Canadian business alone average 800 per day, and are rapidly increasing; and should the proposed Japanese, China and Australian trans-Pacific cables be laid, the business, it is naturally expected, will be almost infinitely added to. It is shown that the present cable companies are enabled to pay good dividends, and the obvious conclusion is that the Canada Atlantic cable, with all its advantages, including comparatively light capital expenditure and maintenance charges, will be able to do still better. There can be no doubt that the inference is warranted, and every Canadian will be glad, and will have reason even to be proud, when these two projected cables—the Canada Atlantic, and the Canada, Japanese and Australian trans-Pacific—are actually completed, thus knitting the various great component parts of the "empire upon which the sun never sets" more closely together with a vast, pulsing, electric nerve. This happy consummation is plainly only a question of time, and of a comparatively short time, too.

B. C. Provincial Exposition Subscription Fund.

For the purpose of raising a fund to contribute towards the patriotic and worthy object of making the next annual provincial fair, to be held in this city, a grand and unprecedented success, the undersigned agree to contribute the sums opposite their respective names (to be paid into the association or to trustees competent to receive the same, on or before 6 months from the date of the last provincial exhibition, and to be applied to preparing exhibition grounds and buildings in the city, for increasing the amount offered in prizes, and for furthering the exhibition in other ways):

THE FOSSIL RAINDROPS.

Over the quarry the children went rambling
Hunting for stones to skip,
Into the clefts and the crevices scrambling,
Searching the quarrymen's chip.

Sweet were their voices and gay was their laughter
That holiday afternoon,
One tumbled down and the rest tumbled after,
All of them singing one tune.

Here was a stone would skip like a bubble,
Once were it loosed from its place—
See what strange lines, all aslant, all a-trouble,
Covered over its face.

Half for a moment their wonder is smitten
Nor divine they at all
That soft earth it was when those lant lines were written
By the rain's gusty fall.

Nor guess they, while pausing to look at it plainly,
The least in the world perplexed,
That the page which old Merlin studied vainly
Had never such wizard text.

Only a stone o'er the placid pool throwing,
Ah — But it told them, though,
How the rain was falling, the wind was blowing,
Ten thousand years ago!

A NIGHT WITH A TIGER.

Being the Thrilling Adventure of Two Bachelors in India.

In entering the drawing-room there were two doors; this must be borne in mind.

The house itself was old-fashioned, a large and many-gabled one, standing quite alone and solitary in a spacious garden; all the windows had been closed and the jalousies shut and secured from the outside; the tatty-grass blinds on the piazza had been rolled up and put away till another blazing morning called for their refreshing shade.

The locality was near that part of the delta called the Sunderbunds, through which the Ganges expands its branches as it approaches the sea—a labyrinth of crooks and rivers, of jungle and stagnant water. The night was perfectly fine, but moonless; there was a heavy dew rapidly falling, like misty rain, which in hot countries is a perfectly natural occurrence.

I went into the drawing-room by what may be called the back door, as it led into the back drawing-room, and smaller one of the two; the other, a far larger apartment, communicated with this one by great folding doors of gold and white. The back drawing room was very full of furniture, rather inconveniently so. As I was carrying an armful of books, and in my disengaged hand a bull's-eye lantern, I proceeded with tolerable security, though slowly, but then of course I knew the room, and could have gone to my destination in the dark. What struck me as both curious and irritative was the fancy that the room seemed more impeded than ever with the furniture, dark, old-fashioned rosewood furniture, that had been made to match the grand piano. The various articles looked as if they had been dragged about the room. Possibly the darkness above and around me helped the illusion; anyway they had the appearance of having been gradually spread toward the center of the room, round a heavy and solid table. It was this table that I wished to go to. I walked very slowly, partly because I did not wish to spill the books that I'd spent the last hour in collecting, and partly because of an unaccountably horrible feeling that had come over me. This part of the house was quite silent; indeed it was often so of an evening. My brother had passed me on his way upstairs, having been all day at Madrepore, and no doubt being tired had gone to bed. There were very few stairs at all, as the house was practically a one-storied one, rambling and full of angles, having been built and added to at various times; here and there little staircases streamed out leading to long passages and unexpected cupboards; the back drawing-room door itself opened from a side flight of five stairs. As I had encountered two small chairs and an overturned music stand, I stood still for a second, looking for a clear passage and thereby holding the lantern high and well in front of me; as I paused amid the complete silence that reigned an immense tiger slowly crossed the path of light, turning on me two burning yellow eyes, gleaming like vivid topazes. I stood there in stiffened terror and heard my heart beat. Its mouth was loosely parted and running with saliva; so wide was it hanging open at the corners that the serrated edges of the lower lips were plainly visible. It gazed with a steadfast look of such grinning cruelty, such conscious malignity, that it froze my blood and turned my limbs to stone. This description of sight and feeling was, of course, the impression of one vivid conception condensed by a minute's agony.

The tiger crossed the India matting of the room with a noiseless swinging gait; as it appeared to have come from the obscurity near the piano, so it vanished into obscurity beyond—that is, outside the pathway of the lantern light. I stood perfectly immovable, still clutching the books with my left arm, still holding the lantern before me, still gazing at the place it had crossed, and apparently forever seeing that awful look upon the tiger's broad face. It seemed as if my eyes saw the face, though my mind had rapidly suggested the frightful probability that the tiger was behind me. At the same time, by some dual mental process, it was holding out hope that the animal had passed through the great folding doors into the dark room beyond. I have no remembrance at all of my mind dictating the next action I pursued; it seemed just an instinct indulged in by the body upon its own account and for its own immediate preservation.

I laid the books very carefully down without making the slightest unnecessary noise or disturbing the hand that held the lantern, and then raising with slow effort one of the heavy little chairs that blocked my passage, I silently swung it on to my shoulders and held it so that it covered my head, then turned slowly sidewise with my mind impressed with the necessity of keeping my lantern as far as possible behind me. This struck me at the time as clever and of unquestionable importance in saving my life. I managed to walk gently out of the room. I suppose I had been in five minutes, but it seemed like a weary hour.

As I closed the door and locked it my brother unexpectedly came down the passage and passed me on the little stairs; he was rather in a hurry.

"Godfrey," I called after him, "do you mind pulling the front door to in the large drawing-room as you go by?" It seems strange now, but I could think of nothing else to say then, and I said it slowly and quite naturally.

He assented and disappeared, and I, without noticing it at the time, took in the chair again and with my lantern ascended the short flight of stairs, and proceeded along the passage to my own room, walking slowly and guardedly. The mind had evidently been so shocked that it had not recovered its dominant sway over the body. Upon reaching my own room I put the chair carefully down and sat upon it. The lantern I had placed on the table at the same time there a few seconds feebly wondering which room the tiger was in. Then I got up with a sudden alacrity, took from its case a large revolver, and turned into the passage again. In a minute or so I was in Godfrey's room. He was half-dressed. "What's the matter!" he demanded, with startled eyes. When I had told him he took my hand and wrung it. "You may thank God that you are alive, old fellow." Then he dressed hurriedly, took a heavy rifle from a rack, filled his pockets with cartridges. "Come along; stay, let me go first; your nerves are a bit shaky yet."

We crept out and awakened the punkah wallah, an old and faithful Hindu, whom my brother once nursed during a dangerous illness—a brave, reliable and trustworthy man, who would have laid his life down for Godfrey.

"It is the man-eater!" said the Hindu, after my recital. "Will the sahib let his servant advise him!"

"Yes, Ramee; tell me your plan."

As the Hindu rapidly unfolded it my brother smiled dubiously at the strange idea.

"Cunning must be met with cunning," said the Hindu.

"It'll take three hours to arrange," I remarked.

"Three hours will bring the dawn; now, who can see in the dark; not the Sahib, but yes, the tiger."

"Very well," said Godfrey. "Let's set about it at once." From the gardener's outhouse we brought a roll of wire netting that had been put there for fencing in a paddock a few days previously. Together we collected armsful of shavings the workmen had not cleared away, quantities of dried leaves, rags, every thing we could find soft and pliable; and having cut the wire into three square lengths firmly lashed them together, one over the other. When completed it was the shape, but rather larger than the window in the room in which the tiger lay hidden and the doors of which had been locked. Our operations so far had been conducted upon the verandah outside, near the gardener's room; we then rolled up the wire netting and carried it round the corner of the house to within a few yards of the big window; here it was unrolled again and flattened out, then upon its surface we poured all the shavings, rags, leaves and the refuse we had collected, and upon this mass smeared and spread a quantity of lime left up the workmen for the morrow. This we smoothed down as well as we were able till the whole mass assumed some consistency and clung to the interstices of the netting. Ramee next took some stout twine and improvised a rough kind of needle from a bamboo cane. With this implement he sewed all over the mass of stuff, thus making a string netting that helped to keep the composition in its place. So far, so good; the most difficult operation yet remained.

"Take my gun," said Godfrey to me, "and give me the revolver."

He pushed the revolver in his belt, laid hold of one end of the netting, and threw off his shoes. With slow and noiseless step the netting, looking very like a large mattress, was carried exactly opposite the window and laid gently down; then both retired as silently as they had advanced.

Ramee then brought from the outhouse a ladder, and with a gesture of entreaty signed to my brother to stand aside and take his rifle in his hand. With bare feet the Hindu crept up to the window again and reared the ladder against the wall. Taking a coil of rope from his neck, he deftly fastened it to the highest wall staple of the outside shutter. Descending, he quickly enlaced the short strand in the netting, placed the ladder on the other side, and ran the thong through the other staple. For the first time no made a noise, but it was unavoidable, and was caused by the netting being drawn upward till it hung like a great curtain covering the shutter and hiding the window from us.

Godfrey and I stood ready to fire.

The Hindu, perspiring at every pore, descended the ladder, which he lowered and placed horizontally on the window sill, and lashed it to the bottom of the netting, and again fastened that to the two lower staples on either side.

The thing was done; far away in the east the dawn was breaking, above which the morning star was slowly paling his silver fire.

"But, Ramee, the shutters are still fastened!"

"Sahib, I unfastened them; they are open as the breadth of a man's hand; presently the light will stream through."

"Quick! fetch another rifle!"

When he returned I took the gun and gave him my revolver.

A light breath of wind passed murmuring through the feathery crowns of the slender cocoa palms, two great spears of light shot up in the sky, somewhere in the garden a bird sang; the sun had risen. "Wait the signal," whispered my brother; "now, Ramee." The Hindu knelt down and imitated the bleating of a kid that had lost its mother. At the instant Ramee sprang to his feet the silence was rent by a sundering crash and a sudden terrific roar; the shutters were torn from their sockets; a great mass hurled itself precipitately through the window, and the tiger with its head and shoulders buried in the lime-covered debris, was grappling in maddened fury with an enemy he could not see nor make much impression upon.

Our guns were at our shoulders.

The animal was twenty feet from us, tearing up the graveled path and coiling itself in inextricable confusion in the broken netting and splintered ladder. Ramee uttered a loud cry. The animal had freed its head, and stood with its bleeding mouth in an enforced and listening attitude. It was the moment Godfrey had waited for, and he fired. The tiger, evidently not seeing him, sprang at the window again, but missed the opening, hurling himself against the wall and falling on the broken shutters. At the minute it alighted I aimed at the spot behind the shoulder and fired; it gave a convulsive leap and turned its bloodshot eyes in our direction. Then Godfrey fired again and told me to do the same.

"Back! back!" cried Ramee.

The animal had gathered itself together and sprang forward with one mighty bound, and rolled over with a scream of dying rage.

When we came to measure the brute afterward we found it was fifteen feet from the nose to the tip of the tail.—Charles Lillie, in Pall Mall Gazette.

THE SAVING HABIT.

Something About the Advantages of Honestly-Conducted Building Societies.

A writer in New Haven Building News has the following to say upon the habit of saving something for a rainy day, or against the time of need: "The savings of the mechanic and laboring man are necessarily limited, and, in the ordinary way of laying by a little now and then they may get discouraged on account of the length of time necessary to accumulate sufficient to accomplish these desires and are very likely to give up in despair when year after year passes and they still see the object far off. But with the assistance rendered by the union of individuals exactly in the same condition of life with himself, he can command, in the beginning of practical life, the means which, without this union, would require years of toil and self-denial, and then he would arrive at the ideal of his mind when his capacity for its enjoyment would have passed the meridian, and his pathway, in consequence of years of toil, is necessarily downward. Here he begins at the end, as it were, and secures the benefits of years of saving before he has made any accumulation; and in liquidating his engagements with the association only returns thereto what he would have had to pay a landlord for a rental, while feeling that only for a short time is this necessary, and then his obligations are ended, renders it a comparatively easy task, for he is working to the end he wishes to attain, and there is positive moral certainty that he will and can reach it. How much better, then, for every man who is within reach of these great and good institutions to connect himself therewith and secure his own independence, and thus feel conscious that his energies have not been expended in producing an income for the support of another, to the exclusion of his own person and family."

Heavy Fogs in London.

Dense fogs are a perpetual nightmare to London railway managers. The erratic character of the fogs is what makes the chief trouble. No one knows whither the fog comes or whence it goes, and it gives no notice of its appearance or departure. The sun may be shining at Hyde Park, and Cannon street may be wrapped in palpable gloom. On the first appearance of the fog men are stationed near every railway signal to place explosive wafers on the line, and so convey to the cars of the drivers the warning which they can not see with their eyes. A foggy winter entails a heavy expenditure on the companies.

An Horological Relic.

Uncle Robert McCue, an industrious colored citizen of Reidsville, N. C., has a timepiece made in 1700. It has been repaired but once in fifty years. Its train is of wood. The weights are tubes filled with sand to the required depth. The clock shows the day of month as well as the hours, minutes and seconds. It is seven feet two inches high, and is as bright, even to the gilding, as a new piece of furniture.

Has just been Surveyed, and the Lots are for sale by

WOODS, TURNER & GAMBLE
—AND—
ALBERT J. HILL & COMPANY
Of New Westminster, B. C.

The advantages and prospects of this Plot for a future thriving Town are many.

The Land in the vicinity is good.

There are inexhaustible IRON ORE DEPOSITS, of a superior quality, immediately adjacent, as well as vast strata of the finest BUILDING SAND and POTTERY CLAY.

On the Townsite are a number of valuable MINERAL SPRINGS.

Communication by land and water is unequalled, by reason of the location of the Townsite on the Fraser River and the Southern Railway, while the natural elevation and lay of the land can not be excelled as a situation for a fine town.

The ground is open and clear of heavy timber.

The site has been selected as one of the most important stations on the Southern Railway, and with the completion of the road, in the near future, must, with all its other advantages, spring into prominence at once.

Those who apply early will have the pick of the Lots.

A clear title given with every purchase.

For lack of a quorum there was no meeting of the city council last night. The meeting was adjourned till Thursday evening.

The regular monthly meeting of the board of directors of the Y. M. C. A. will be held on Wednesday evening, August 7th, at 8 o'clock.

The public schools of this city open on Monday morning next. It is the earnest wish of the teachers that all intending pupils put in an appearance, as the opening is later than usual.

The hearing of the argument to quash the liquor license by-law has been postponed from to-day till the 14th inst., owing to the absence of Mr. Justice McCreight from the city.

Guests at the Colonial: H. F. Keefer, Vancouver; W. L. Cusack, E. A. Pauline, Victoria; F. H. Stinson, J. S. Harvey, Fred Bunsbombe, Geo. E. Smith, Hamilton; D. P. Williams, Montreal; W. H. Young, Winnipeg; J. H. Ashwell, Chilliwack.

On Saturday night a fire occurred in a large hay field at Gordon Head which destroyed a crop of hay owned by Mr. Geo. Bridges. A young man named Peter Merriman lost a valuable binding machine which was in the field at the time. The fire was caused by the carelessness of Chinese who were smoking cigarettes.—Times.

The Nanaimo Free Press reports that bush fires are raging throughout the district, and if they do not reach the settlements, will be a boon to the hunters, by clearing out the underbrush. The potato and turnip, and in fact all the root crop, is a complete failure owing to the long continued drought. The oat crop also is about destroyed, but a speedy rain might partially save it.

The Vancouver World, instead of knocking chips off its periphery as it tears around in its orbit, seems to gather bulk as it rolls. Last Saturday the evening circulator of the "terminal city" bounced along from perihelion to apogee with an extra ring all round, which has been observable on each evening since, to the naked eye. May the World's penumbra never grow less.

Surrey Debentures.

Mr. H. T. Thrift, C. M. C., Surrey municipality, is calling for offers on $10,000 to $15,000 worth of debentures proposed to be issued by the municipality of Surrey to enable the construction of the dyking works. Offers will be received up to the 31st inst. A better investment than these debentures would be hard to find in the province, and undoubtedly there will be lively bidding for them.

I. O. G. T. Installation.

The following officers of Excelsior Lodge No. 8. were installed in their respective chairs last night. C.T., Sister L. Thornler; V.T., Bro. C. T. Williams; R.S., Bro. W. C. Loye; Asst. S., Sister Maggie McIsaacs; F. S., Bro. F. H. Meyer; Treas., Sister W. Baker; Marshall, Bro. Geo. Taylor; I.G., Sister P. Wallace; Sentinel, Bro. N. R. Preston; Chap., Bro. Jno. J. Johnston; P.C.T. Bro. F. H. Case.

Salmon Run.

The salmon run last night was excellent, and as a consequence the canneries were running full blast to-day. The hump backs have kept off surprisingly well this year, only a few having made their appearance up to date, and it is hoped they may fail to put in an appearance. The first cohoe was caught yesterday, but it was only a straggler, and not expected for a month yet. If a good cohoe run follows the sockeye, there is no telling what dimensions the pack may attain.

The Pitt River Bridge.

It is quite evident that the C. P. R. does not consider the Pitt river bridge very safe at present, as a locomotive is not allowed to haul a passenger train across. The plan now followed is: The engine hauling the train uncouples and runs slowly across; another engine, which has been following, couples onto the train behind, gives it a good strong shove, uncouples before reaching the bridge, stops and allows the train to pass over by itself. The first locomotive then couples on to the train again and proceeds. It is quite possible this may mean a new bridge in the near future.

The Kamloops Tournament.

A meeting of the Kamloops base ball club was held at the interior capital last night, when it was decided to hold a grand base ball tournament at that town on September 10th. Committees were appointed to make the necessary arrangements, and it was decided to send out the advertising posters within a week. Every club west of Winnipeg will be free to enter, and the prizes will be sufficiently liberal to induce a large number of clubs to attend. From the spirit manifested at the meeting last night, it is evident the Kamloops people are determined to make this the greatest base ball tournament ever held on the Pacific slope.

The Canfield Road.

Hon. Eugene Canfield writes under date of August 5th that he is going on with his railway the same as if no alteration to his plans had been forced, and that he will build the line from Whatcom to Kingsboro this fall. His original intention of finding a terminus at Westminster still remains, but if debarred from connection into the royal city he will have to look elsewhere. Mr. Canfield has met with pretty hard luck in railway matters, and it is generally hoped he will yet "bob up serenely" and experience a happy realization of all his wishes. Westminster can stand as many railroads as can be built to it, and if the Canfield road comes it will be as welcome as any.

Must be Stopped.

An itinerant doctor (?) held forth on Columbia street last night, extracting teeth and selling some sort of medicine. He treated the crowd to a harangue worthy of such a person as he proved himself to be. His attack on the lady members of the Salvation army was cowardly in the extreme, and unworthy of anyone claiming to have a grain of manhood in his composition. A few of the by-standers deservedly hissed him, but a dose of rotton eggs would have suited his case better. The sidewalks were blocked up for the space of over an hour, which is against the streets and sidewalks regulation by-law, and it is to be hoped if he indulges in such a harangue to-night the police will promptly put an end to the exhibition.

Harrison Lake.

A strange phenomenon is reported from Harrison Lake, and one that is puzzling the brains of the oldest navigators of these waters, as well as the Indians who have lived on its shores for many years. The water in the lake has continued to rise steadily for two weeks, and during that time has raised 3½ feet. This is unaccountable, as there has not been a drop of rain during the past month, and the rush of water from the mountain lakes is not greater than usual, besides which the Fraser river has been falling slowly all this time. Of course there must be a reason for this singular phenomenon, but it cannot be discovered. Any of the river steamers can now pass up Harrison river and into the lake without difficulty, while a month ago only the smaller vessels could find water enough to float them.

The Forresters' Marriage

The marriage at the Forresters' picnic at Victoria on Saturday was quite an excitement for the ladies. At 4 o'clock in the afternoon the chairman of the committee, Mr. Strachan, announced that the public marriage had been unavoidably postponed to 6 o'clock. The truth of the matter was that the committee had been disappointed by the couple chosen by them, and at the last moment had to make arrangements for the marriage of a local couple. Mr. Percy Harcourt and Miss Grace May Trachler, both of the capital, and the former a member of the A. O. F., presented themselves as willing to fill the breach, and at 6 o'clock Bishop Cridge was sent for, a license procured and made out. The crowd could not have numbered less than 6,000 as the carriage containing the bride and bridegroom drove through the gates to the ring. They were escorted by the committee to the canopy erected for the celebration, and were met by the bishop under the Union Jack. The ceremony was performed with all due solemnity, and the bride bore herself throughout her trying ordeal. When the secretary called for three cheers for the newly made bride and bridegroom after the ceremony, the outburst of applause could have been heard miles away. The bride, thanks to the courtesy of several ladies who supported her, was not at all nervous. Large numbers of small children scattered flowers over the path down which the couple walked to their hack. They drove away followed by loud applause, everybody being well satisfied that a marriage had been celebrated as promised.

Kootenay Lake District.

The great want of this important mining district seems at present to be the means of shipping ore to the new smelter which is being erected at Revelstoke. At present all ores which are rich enough to bear the expense are shipped to Montana by way of Bonner's ferry, at an expense of freight and treatment which exceeds $40 per ton. Of course this precludes the possibility of sending the lower grades. By the construction of a short line of waggon road from Sproat's Landing, on the Columbia, to Nelson, on Kootenay Lake, a distance of about 30 miles, these ores could be brought to Revelstoke at a cost of about $15 per ton. Two parties are now intending to place a stern wheel steamer on the Columbia, but are awaiting the action of the government in regard to this road. The estimated cost of the road is placed at $25,000 to $30,000, but for temporary purposes, perhaps a cheaper road would answer. Proposals have been made by parties interested in the mining region to construct the road and wait for next year's appropriation for repayment. With the present strong government it seems as if such action should be taken, and it would undoubtedly be sanctioned at the next session of the local parliament.

Kootenay district is undoubtedly the most promising of any mining section in the province, and the commencement of this work would give the miners renewed confidence in the success of the camps. If matters are left to the uncertain action of the C. P. R. in making a railroad into the lake, the mining interests will languish, and at least another year will elapse before much development will take place.

B. C. R. A. Prize Meeting.

The sixteenth annual prize meeting of the British Columbia Rifle Association was opened to-day at the Brownsville range with the customary formalities. Every arrangement had been perfected for the meeting and all passed off according to programme. A large number of ladies were present at the opening and many of them remained during the afternoon. Sharp at 12:30 o'clock Mrs. W. Norman Bole fired the first shot, scoring a bullseye, which result was received with "three cheers" and a "tiger" for the plucky lady. By request, Mr. W. Norman Bole, Q. C., M. P. P., then formally declared the meeting opened, making a short speech and congratulating the officers of the association on the good prospects for a successful meeting. The firing of No. 1 match immediately commenced.

The number of entries for the first match was not so great as expected, but many marksmen who entered the matches have not arrived yet, but will be on hand to-morrow. The range shows a wonderful improvement in every way and is almost unrecognizable, though much remains to be done before it will be in first class condition. The firing points are all connected with the butts by telephone, which is a great convenience indeed, and a special telegraph line connects the range with the head office in this city. There is a refreshment booth on the range, and seats have been arranged for spectators. The markers and scorers are supplied by C Battery, and the manner in which they perform these duties is highly commendable.

Kootenay Canal Opened.

W. A. Baillie Grohman, Esq., of Kootenay, reached Kamloops Friday evening on his way to the coast. He remained over for a day, and from him a Sentinel representative learned that on Monday last, the 29th ult., there was opened at Grohman, in Kootenay, in the presence of a considerable gathering, the first canal and system of locks in the province. The canal connects the Kootenay river with the Columbia; it is one and one-third miles in length, and has one lock 100 feet in length, 30 feet wide and 17 feet deep, to overcome the difference between the two river levels it connects. It was constructed by the Kootenay Valley Co., of London, England, the contractor carrying out the work being the well-known energetic T. F. Sinclair, who, despite almost insurmountable obstacles in the shape of water and quicksand, completed the work in a very satisfactory manner, the canal having been examined and taken over by the government engineer before the water was let in. The canal is at present practically useless, until the federal government carries out some most essential improvements on the Columbia river about ten miles north of the canal, said improvements consisting of cleaning the narrow channel of snags and other obstructions, and also in cutting a tow path for a distance of about three miles. When these improvements are made, the object of the canal will then be attainable, making the two rivers navigable for a distance of 200 miles or more—or in other words, from the C. P. R. at Golden to the American boundary. Who can tell what bearing this may have upon the trade and transportation of the district, and in fact the whole province, and let us hope the Dominion government will lose no time in having the necessary improvements made.—Sentinel.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Maple Ridge Municipality and the I. O. G. T.

EDITOR COLUMBIAN.—In your last report of the doings of our municipal council there was an important omission, which the concluding item below will supply. Please publish the appended notes containing extracts from the minutes of the last meeting of the I. O. G. T. lodge and the municipal council. They speak for themselves and need not much explanation. A disappointed applicant for a liquor-license is "the power behind the throne," in securing this precious piece of legislation. Temperance people are sometimes taunted with the exploded objection that you cannot make people sober by act of parliament, and are advised to use only moral suasion. But where they act on this advice, as do the Good Templars at Maple Ridge, they are hindered in their noble work by those who would fain make men drunk by act of parliament.

At a meeting of the I. O. G. T. lodge at Maple Ridge, after the usual, routine business had been disposed of, a matter was brought to the notice of the lodge which the members thought ought to be published for the information of the municipality. It is this: The municipal council met June 1st, 1889, and, on motion of Coun. Ferguson, seconded by Coun. Callaghan, it was resolved, "That the I. O. G. T. be allowed the use of the town hall as a lodge room, providing they agree to be responsible for any damage the hall may sustain while in their use, and that they in no way interfere with the municipal property."

But at the next meeting of the council, the 6th July, without rescinding the former resolution, the following motion was successfully carried, viz.: "Moved by Coun. Stephenson, seconded by Coun. Isaac, and resolved, that the Good Templars be charged $5 per month, and pay all damage that they do to the hall."

PLUVIUS.

Maple Ridge, Aug, 2nd, 1889.
