NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The New York Graphic says: The Democracy are on fighting ground, and will hold it for forty years. They are not for free trade, but for such a regulation of the tariff as will give labor a fair chance with capital. They insist that if capital is protected labor shall be protected too, and that is nothing more than good manners and fair play.

An American exchange is responsible for the following: Lord Sackville, whatever may be his qualities as a diplomatist, has reached the highest empyrean of American greatness. The proprietor of a dime museum on Eighth avenue, in all seriousness, sent him an offer of $2,000 a week to hold daily levees in his establishment. As Lord Sackville is out of a job just at present the offer may be considered timely, and the money might tide him over until he gets into business again. The enterprise of the average American showman is something unique and unparalleled.

The Presidential election of eight years ago came along about the same time as the census, and by a simple comparison of figures, the ratio of voters to population was arrived at. Taking the same ratio for the recent election, and estimating the population therefrom, it appears that the leading American cities have not grown nearly so fast as the "boomers" would have it appear. Buffalo, for instance, has been figuring itself at something over 250,000, but the cold logic of calculation cuts it down to less than 228,000. The Globe maintains that Toronto is growing faster than either Cleveland, Detroit, or Buffalo, and the figures referred to seem to justify its contention.

Says America: Americans are glad to recognize candor even in Englishmen, but it is seldom their good fortune to meet with such a bit as the following from the London Spectator: "It is to secure the Irish vote as well as the ultra protectionist vote, that all the nonsense is written about English intrigue in favor of Mr. Cleveland. Cannot Americans understand that if the world were at stake Englishmen are too stupid to intrigue?" Such a confession of stupidity is positively refreshing. All Englishmen, however, are not too stupid to intrigue. Disraeli more than once beat all the diplomatists in Europe, but then Disraeli was not a bona fide Englishmen, as he was a scion of that race which is famous for always getting the best of any bargain.

It is to be hoped that before another general election, says an exchange, severer penalties may be placed upon betting on the result. Turning a solemn duty into a money-making job is a far-reaching evil. The effect is to intensify partisan animosity and to encourage corruption, aggravating the bitterness of defeat, and sometimes bankrupting candidates and their supporters. The heavy losses in the campaign just ended are said to have fallen mainly on gamblers. But the fear remains that the winners may continue the chase of the ignis fatuus chance. As an example of the danger of this growing habit of betting on elections, two young girls, residing at a Chicago hotel, wagered $50 each on Harrison. That amount was all their savings. If they had lost they might have been ruined in more senses than one.

An exchange facetiously discourses thusly: One more consolation gone! When the little busy fly has determinedly improved the shining afternoon by crawling on your nose with a persistence worthy of Bruce's spider, it has been something to reflect on the teaching received at a mother's knee as to the usefulness of the little pest. It was a scavenger, you were instructed, that did untold good in keeping things clean and thus illustrated the wisdom of Providence. You may have had some private reflections as to Province's bad judgment in making the little household scavenger such a versatile and volatile beast, but you never doubted the main fact and were in a measure comforted by it. But now here comes a Brazilian doctor who says that in hot countries flies are the most effective agents in the propagation of yellow fever, and M. Spielmann and M. Haustoutter attribute the same agency to them in spreading plumonary consumption Flies are credited also with being the chief instrument in the dissemination of Egyptian ophthalmia, and Koch, the German scientist, thinks they play the same part in spreading cholera.

THE TRUE PHILOSOPHY OF MEDICATION is not to dose for symptoms but to root out the disease. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, the Great Blood Purifier, has proved itself equal to this task. It is most searching, without being a violent remedy for constipation, Biliousness and Indigestion. It is as well adapted to the needs and physical temperaments of delicate females as to the more robust sex, and is a fine preventative of disease as well as remedy for it.

Job printing of all kinds neatly done at the COLUMBIAN office. Prices will be found as low as at any other office in the province.—Adv.

STORMS AND WRECKS

On the Eastern Canadian Coast. Many Vessels Go Down and a Number of Lives Lost.

A Gigantic Railway Trust Formed to Control Traffic West, South, and North of Chicago.

Hanlan is Defeated Again by Beach on the Paramatta.--The Six Days' Walking match.

STORMS AND WRECKS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—Reports this morning indicate that yesterday's storm was also severely felt along the Canadian coast. The list of Canadian disasters includes the possible loss of the steamship Polina, from Cape Breton, for Quebec, with 40 passengers and a crew of 30. Several vessels were caught in the ice or driven ashore at various points.

RAGING SNOW STORMS.

EATEN BY MOUNTAIN LIONS.

HELENA, Mont., Nov. 27.—The skeleton of James Robinson was found in his cabin in Lincoln Gulch, Deer Lodge Co. on Friday. All the flesh had been eaten to the bones and the hands and head were severed from the body. Robinson had not been seen for three weeks. On the table in his cabin was found some opium, to the use of which Robinson was addicted. It is supposed he took an overdose and became unconscious when mountain lions entered his cabin and killed him and ate his flesh.

A DEMOCRATIC DEPARTURE.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 27. — A secret meeting of nearly 1,200 democratic veterans, members of the Grand Army of the Republic posts scattered throughout the state, was held in the capital building last night, at which it was resolved that every democratic member of the G. A. R. should abandon the order, and all present pledged themselves to withdraw from their posts. A name and constitution for the new order were adopted. The new order is to be charitable and non-political in character. Adjutant-General Koontz, who presided, stated at the conclusion of the meeting that he had letters from men in eight states indicating that the movement is natural.

KILLED BY CARS.

SAN JOSE, Nov. 27.—Edward Jenkins, a railroad employee, aged 33 years, was run over and killed by the cars last night.

DIED OF YELLOW FEVER.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—Surgeon Simon of the cruiser Boston died on the vessel at quarantine last night of yellow fever.

A GIGANTIC RAILWAY TRUST.

CHICAGO, Nov. 27.—It is positively asserted here that the recent conferences of railway magnates in New York was for the purpose of forming a gigantic railway trust, or clearing house, comprising all roads west of the line drawn through Chicago and Milwaukee on the east, St. Paul and Minneapolis on the north, Colorado, New Mexico and Wyoming on the west, and Arkansas on the south. The organization is to be known as the "Western R. R. Clearing House," and its objects are to secure complete reports of all traffic in the territory described and to prescribe rates and character of service.

A RASCALLY RAG.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 27. — Judge Hornblower to-day held Adolfo Carrillo and W. W. Knott to answer for criminally libelling Fredico Picazo in Knott's weekly paper, the Enterprise. The evidence during the trial showed that a contract existed between the Enterprise publishers and Carrillo, by which the latter was to write articles of a scandalous nature with a view of extorting money from the persons thus attacked.

CONVICTED.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 27.—Charles W. Beach, the capitalist convicted by the U. S. circuit court of subornation of perjury in connection with fraudulent titles to land in Humboldt county, was sentenced to 3 years in the state prison with hard labor and to pay a fine of $2,000.

A MISSING SHIP.

NORFOLK, Nov. 27.—The str. Alleghany which left Boston last Wednesday is missing. Much anxiety is felt as to her whereabouts.

GONE TO THE BOTTOM.

BOSTON, Nov. 27.—The coal steamer Allentown, owned by the Phila. & Reading R.R., is reported lost, with all hands, off Cohassett. She was built in 1873 and cost $250,000.

A NOTED MONOPOLIST DEAD.

FRAMINGHAM, Mass., Nov. 27.—Adolphus Merriam, director of the American Powder Co., of Acton, Mass., died this morning, aged 68. He was president of the powder trust in which a few years ago all the mills in the United States and Canada were interested.

THE SIX DAYS' MATCH.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27 (2 p m.)—The following is the score in the six days' walking match: Cartwright, 187; Day, 178; Herty, 185; Moore, 196; Littlewood, 179; Howard, 176; Connor, 172; Golden, 175; Mason, 168; Hart, 168; Campana, 157; Noremac, 157; Elson, 148; Vint, 139; Smylie, 124; Smith, 134; Taylor, 130; Dillon, 100; Peach, 104; Smyth, 64.

ENCOUNTERED THE GALE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—The steamships, Arizona, Gallia, Polynesia and Hansand Kurt arrived this morning, the first two from Liverpool, and the last two from Hamburg. All showed signs of hard weather. They report encountering the fury of the gale.

HANLAN AGAIN DEFEATED.

PLUCKILY PUSHING NORTH.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 27.—James Carnie, representative of the Hudson Bay Co., arrived here last night, and reports that two months ago he met Lord Lonsdale and two servants, in good health, making their way northward on foot. Lord Lonsdale is traveling in the interests of a Scotch naturalists society, and expresses his confidence of reaching a point farther north than has yet been reached.

The girl who takes her engagement ring to the jeweller to find out how much it costs, will never make a satisfactory wife, especially if the young man finds it out.

LATE DESPATCHES.

A LONG CRUISE.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—It is stated at the navy department that the United States steamer Atlanta, now preparing for sea at New York, will be sent for a cruise around the world by way of the Pacific. The cruise will probably last three or four years.

A CHINESE TRICK.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 21.—A Chinese merchant presented himself at the mail dock to-day with the permission of Deputy Surveyor Fogarty to hold a conversation with a fellow countryman on the steamer Acapiato, en route from Panama to China. The conversation was held in the presence of interpreters, and was of a business nature. As the merchant was about to take his leave he attempted to pass a paper to the other. The paper was seized by the interpreter, and on translation proved to be instructions how the recipient should answer certain questions relating to prior residence, which would be put to him by the court when a writ of habeas corpus would be applied for him. It also cautioned him above all to confine his replies to the questions put and not talk too much. Surveyor Fogarty will see that no such writ is granted.

VICE-PRESIDENT ELECT MORTON.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Vice-President elect Morton is in the city to-day inspecting a large apartment house which he is building on the site of his former residence here. He says the time of his visit to General Harrison is not settled. It will be arranged to suit both parties.

DION BOUCIAULT SERIOUSLY ILL.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—George H. Knight is very ill at Orange, New York, suffering apparently from the same disease which resulted in the death of John McCullough and Bartley Campbell, and which has prostrated Toney Hart. He arrived from Los Angeles ten days ago. He may die any day or hour.

A DOUBLE TRAGEDY.

SHREVEPORT, La., Nov. 22.—A. R. Thompson, of Benton, and young Moore, a travelling man from St. Louis, quarrelled at the Texarkana depot last night, and Moore shot Thompson, inflicting dangerous wounds then turned the weapon and shot himself in the head. Both men will probably die. The quarrel was caused by Moore charging Thompson with carrying on a correspondence with his (Moore's) wife.

VICAR OF PHILADELPHIA DEAD.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22. — Very Reverend Maurice A. Walsh, vicar general of the arch diocese of Philadelphia, died this morning.

NATIONAL SABBATH CONVENTION.

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—A recently formed National Sabbath Union met here this afternoon. It was decided to hold a national convention in the interest of Sabbath observance, at Washington, from December 11th to the 13th.

A DESPERADO KILLED.

DENISON, Tex., Nov. 22.—The officers, after a long chase in the Choctaw Nation, succeeded in overhauling and killing a desperado, supposed to be John Barber, one of the celebrated Kep Queen gang. The man had killed an Indian and was wanted for an attempted train robbery.

NO EXPLANATION YET.

LONDON, Nov. 26. — The somewhat curt official replies in the house of commons to-night regarding the Lord Sackville indignity and the fisheries dead lock, are taken to indicate that the government is awaiting some explanation from the United States government before the resumption of entirely friendly relations. Mr. W. H. Smith, first Lord of the treasury, replied as follows amid cheers to Mr. Gourley's fair and elaborate question regarding the fisheries question: The government does not propose to publish the papers or make any statement at present. The modus vivendi is still in operation.

WHITECHAPEL SCARES.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—Scares in connection with the Whitechapel murders increase daily. A lady travelling in a suburban train yesterday was frightened into fits by a man carrying a black bag who attempted to enter the compartment she occupied while the train was in motion and nothing can convince her that she was not confronted by "Jack the Ripper." In the north of London last night a lady's hair was severed from her head while she slept, and a note was found on her pillow reading "This is just to show that I am about." This lady, too, believes that she was visited by the Whitechapel fiend and none other. Assistant-Commissioner Monroe will without doubt succeed to the chief commissionership made vacant by the resignation of Sir Charles Warren, notwithstanding the fact that lameness prevents him from mounting a horse. A private person near Nottingham has received a letter signed "Jack the Ripper's Pal," stating that the murders were committed by himself and a person called "Jack the Ripper." Jack, the writer says, is a Bavarian whom he first met on a ship while returning to England from America, and who exercised a mesmeric influence over him, leading him to join him in the murders.

STARVED TO DEATH.

DUBLIN, Nov. 27.—It is learned 9 fishermen have been starved to death at Romnish, an island on the Donegal coast, severe weather having prevented their return.

THE PARNELL COMMISSION.

LONDON, Nov. 27.—The Parnell commission hearing was resumed to-day. Sergeant Gilhooly, of county Kerry, who recited the story of the outrages, testified that he kept a book to record outrages in. Russell, for Parnell, demanded the production of the book. James, the Times' counsel, said the book contained letters and official communications respecting certain persons and it was desirable that they should not be published. Russell asked why the Times' counsel have access to the book and Parnell was denied the same privileges. Parnell's counsel did not succeed in securing the book. Justice Hannen suggested that the leading counsel on both sides should inspect the book. If they did not agree then the judges would see it. Other policemen testified concerning the outrages.

ANOTHER BALLOT DEMANDED.

PARIS, Nov. 27.—General Cluseret has been elected to the chamber of deputies from the department of Var. A second ballot has been found necessary, as General Cluseret, who is an American, is not eligible to sit in the chamber.

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 27.—Wheat is depressed. Cals. 7s. 1d.

LONDON, Nov. 27.—The British ship Douglas, from Martin Island, for Hamburg, foundered in the North Sea and two of the crew were drowned.

SUPPRESSING THE LEAGUE.

A BAD COLD.

BERLIN, Nov. 27.—The Emperor William has a cold and will remain in his apartments for a few days.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 27.—The number of coal miners on the strike is 2,000. There has been no disturbances.

THE SWISS PRESIDENT DEAD.

GENEVA, Nov. 27.—W. F. Herlensteen, president of the Swiss confederation, died at three o'clock this morning. His leg was amputated on Saturday on account of a disease of the veins, and he died from the effect of the operation.

BRIGHT IMPROVING.

LONDON, Nov. 27.—Mr. Bright, who was very low yesterday, grew easier during the night. His cough somewhat lessened and he got some sleep. He is slightly better, and the physicians and friends are astonished at the strong vitality of the patient. He has survived paroxysms of coughing which would have killed any other man. He has remained conscious all through. Although prostration is excessive.

NOT ELIGIBLE.

PARIS, Nov. 27.—The question of the eligibility of Gen. Cluseret, the communist chief who was elected to the chamber of deputies from the department of the Var, has been raised. It is charged that having served in the army of the United States he is disqualified for the legislature in France. It is probable the government will take advantage of this technical objection to avoid the scandal of the presence of a leader of the communist religion in the house, and will order a new election in the Var.

MR. YATES' LETTER.

LONDON, Nov. 27.—Edward Yates' London cable to the New York Tribune, says:

It is now definitely settled that Mr. Edwards does not return to the post of first secretary on the Washington legation. Mr. Herbert will remain as charge de affaires until after General Harrison's inauguration, when it is all but certain Sir Francis Clareford will go out as minister. Lord Sackville's name is mentioned in connection with a colonial governorship, but I understand he will not receive another diplomatic appointment.

THE JUBILEE PRESENTS.

The queen's jubilee presents, most of which have been exhibited at Glasgow for the last six months, were conveyed to Windsor in three vans. The presents filled every inch of the Waterloo gallery when they were at Windsor last year. It will be impossible to place more than two-thirds of them in the principle vestibule of the state departments, which have been lined with very ornamental cases of oak and glass in which important presents are to be arranged. A few will probably be placed in the corridor and in the white drawing-room, and the remainder will go to Osborne and Balmoral.

THE EMPRESS FREDERICK.

The Empress Frederick is looking very worn and aged, and is a good deal thinner than when last in England. She has driven out constantly with the queen. She will, it is said, in a short time see a few of her old friends and will come to London to visit some of the charitable institutions in which she is always interested. The emperor's farewell to his mother was an affectionate and touching one. The empress has her new ladies in waiting, Count Sekendoff and Baron Rensbach, her secretary, with her. One cause of the quarrel between the emperor and and his mother is that the emperor personally dislikes one of her most trusted attendants. It was in consequence of the refusal of the empress to dismiss him that the emperor spoke out his mind freely and forcibly and offended his mother greatly. However, for the moment the relations between them are much improved.

THE CZARINA'S HEALTH.

Much anxiety is felt in Russia about the health of the czarina although the real state of affairs is concealed as much as possible. It is an open secret that she has never recovered from the terrible shock to her nerves caused by the recent railway accident.

NO FLAGS TO LEND.

The committee for the Paris exhibition seem not to be in favor with My Lords of the Admiralty. It has been the not unusual practice to send flags for decorative purposes to the British representatives at foreign exhibitions even when there was no royal commission. The application on behalf of the British section at Paris met with a courteous, graciously worded reply that the store of flags was limited and as they could be obtained through the ordinary trade their lordship saw no reason why they should lend them. On the other hand most of the chief corporations of the kingdom have promised to contribute each a flag with arms of the city or town.

Daily British Columbian

Although the climate of this "gem of the west," at all points nearly, compares—or more strictly, perhaps, contrasts—favorably with the climate of any other portion of the Dominion, as well as with the greater portion of this continent, if not of the entire globe, it is at such seasons as the present, more especially, that British Columbians have some faint appreciation of the blessings which they enjoy above so many of their less favored fellow-creatures. Every day now the wires bring tidings of howling hurricanes, fierce blizzards, and raging snow storms on the dark Atlantic seaboard and in the eastern states, provinces and territories. Terrible shipwrecks, with loss of life and property, occur on the ocean. On shore much demoralization of traffic ensues as a result of snow-blockaded railroads and damaged telegraph and telephone lines, and before the long winter is over we shall doubtless hear numerous sad tales of starvation and death in many eastern cities, as well as on the wind-swept prairies of the interior portions of the continent. But here, on the balmy Pacific, how different is the story. Not that we would exult over our less fortunate brethren, who, we daresay, with man's almost miraculous adaptability to circumstances, find life tolerable even among their disadvantageous environments; but we would congratulate our own people upon their happy lot, in this clime—where November very often can scarce be distinguished from April or May, and the real rigors of winter or the immoderate heat of summer is unknown—and would invite those, who can make it at all convenient, to come west and share with us our unapproachable climate, and other good things, too numerous to mention.

The Cariboo election for the commons is over, and according to the figures published yesterday, which we received by telegraph, Mr. F. S. Barnard, of Victoria, has been returned with a majority of twenty-two over his real opponent, Mr. R. McLeese, and by a majority of 31 over Mr. S. A. Rogers, who, taking 86 out of the total vote of 298, split Mr. McLeese's vote in all probability, and insured the return of Mr. Barnard. We have not said that Mr. Rogers was run for this purpose; but we believe that, on general principles at least, Mr. McLeese should have been elected to represent Cariboo in the commons, instead of Mr. Barnard. On general principles, we have said, for, other things being equal, or even unequal, it will be readily admitted that mainland men should, whenever possible, be elected to represent mainland constituencies. There are exceptions to this rule, of course; for instance, so long as the capital remains at Victoria, mainland men who happen to be members of the government, and, therefore, cannot well avoid residing at the capital, need not, for that reason, be considered ineligible for re-election by mainland constituencies. In all other cases, however, there is very little excuse in returning a non-resident or island man to represent a mainland constituency. There has, it is true, been a good deal of that sort of representation in the past, but it is time a decided change was made. There are plenty of good men in the various districts of the mainland to represent the constituencies in which they live, both in the federal and provincial parliaments, and even if better men in some respects are obtainable by going outside of the district seeking representation, we do not want them, as a rule. On the face of the matter, without particularizing at all, there is something objectionable about an outsider foisting himself upon the suffrages of a constituency. It is very hard to repress the suspicion that he has some axe to grind and seeks to represent himself instead of his foster constituents. The Cariboo election of a member to represent that district in the Dominion house is not, perhaps, an affair of the first importance; but, although the Caribooites may be satisfied with their member-elect (it might be noted in this connection that 181 votes were actually polled for home representation to 117 for the non-resident candidate elected), we believe that they would have insured themselves as good, if not a better representative, besides adhering to a wiser principle, if they had returned Mr. McLeese—a mainland man, and a resident of the district which he sought to represent. In other respects, we do not know Mr. Barnard, and have no objection to offer to him as a representative per se.

Orion Catlin, 49 Pearl Street, Buffalo, N. Y., says: "I tried various remedies for the piles, but found no relief until I used Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which entirely cured me after a few applications." Since Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has become celebrated, unprincipled persons are imitating it. Get the genuine.

It is said that a number of the wiser heads in the Democratic party are counselling against any effort to hold a small majority in the house. It is understood that Senators Black and Gorman think the party would be better off in the minority, and that with the entire responsibility upon the Republicans during the next congress the Democrats will have a much better chance in the congressional campaign two years from now. The idea of organizing against the admission of new states into the union (a pet Republican project) they are said to regard as unpopular and likely to be hurtful. It would be better for the Democrats themselves, they believe, to undertake the admission of some of the territories this winter. It is said that President Cleveland himself has expressed an opinion that it would be unfortunate for the Democrats to hold the house. Two years ago it was generally believed by Republicans that they could elect a majority of the present congress. There was a great conflict of opinion among some of the managers as to the advisability of making the effort. It was finally decided that they would try only to reduce the Democratic majority, and by leaving them the responsibility for the tariff and some other embarrassing questions, let them work out a defeat for this year. The men who advised this course now plume themselves on its success, it is said. Some of the Democratic managers remember this, and are in favor of adopting the same tactics. With this object in view it is almost certain that the men who until recently were eager to make a fight and get the house, if possible, will yield to what they believe to be better judgment.

The Democrats, it appears, are not at all abashed or "rattled" at their failure to convince the tariff and trust burdened people of the United States that a reasonable measure of free trade would be a good thing for their homes and their pockets, but intend to fight it out on that line if it takes forty years, and with Grover C. as their trusty and doughty champion, too, it would seem from the following extract from the New York Graphic: The tariff issue will undoubtedly be the issue of 1892. Is there any fair man who doesn't believe that Grover Cleveland will be the best man to lead the Democratic principle of tariff reform. He inaugurated it. He labored for it. He was beaten because of it. It was not wise for him to enunciate it so short a time before the national election, but that was a pardonable mistake. The Democratic party believes in tariff reform precisely as he made the issue. It believes in the Americanism that he indorses. He has sacrificed himself to his convictions. He has given the Democratic party more courage than it has had before in thirty years. There is not a single word or action of his that every Democrat doesn't indorse with the single exception of his mugwumpism, and that is to be excused because of his utterances and promises when he was less acquainted with politics than he is now. What is the matter with Grover Cleveland as the candidate in 1892? Mr. Blaine was not retired because he was defeated; and the fact of possession of the first office for two terms did not retire Grant as a candidate. The Democratic party will win in 1892 on the tariff reform issue, and Mr. Cleveland is the man who gave it to them and showed them how to fight for it. No man questions the president's honesty or unselfishness, and four years hence he will be a stronger man than he is to-day.

Perfect Hair
Indicates a natural and healthy condition of the scalp, and of the glands through which nourishment is obtained. When, in consequence of age and disease, the hair becomes weak, thin, and gray, Ayer's Hair Vigor will strengthen it, restore its original color, promote its rapid and vigorous growth, and impart to it the lustre and freshness of youth.
I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for a long time, and am convinced of its value. When I was 17 years of age my hair began to turn gray. I commenced using the Vigor, and was surprised at the good effects it produced. It not only restored the color to my hair, but so stimulated its growth, that I have now more hair than ever before.—J. W. Edwards, Coldwater, Miss.

REPORTER AND REPROBATE

INTERVIEWING OWEN BRUEN, THE WHYO LEADER.

From an Evening Party to a New York Slum — A Newspaper Man Makes Bruen Talk—The Bully's Threatening Pistol—But the Scribbler Is Armed with Courage and a Revolver.

Now that Owen Bruen, the notorious leader of the Whyo gang, has gone the way of his predecessors, and is cursing and raving in his stone cell in Sing Sing, it will be interesting to recall the experience of a New York reporter with this desperado and chief of toughs. It was an experience both interesting and exciting and not unlike the thrilling occurrences in the dives of Paris, familiar to all the readers of the "Mysteries of Paris." In fact, as the reporter told me the story the other day, it presented to my mind a vivid picture closely resembling Sue's representative of Leopold's encounter with the fiendish murderer in the ill-smelling gin mill in the Parisian slums.

The reporter is recognized as one of the ablest newspaper men in New York and also as a versatile correspondent, and it was in large part due to his reputation for pluck and to his skill in adapting himself to any situation, that he was selected for the ticklish and dangerous work of interviewing the worst desperado in New York city.

It was dusk on a stormy April day when the managing editor of the Sun came to the reporter and informed him of his desire to publish an account of Bruen's views on any and all questions.

"Ask him anything," he said, "and we will publish his answers. Only make him talk."

The reporter was prepared to attend a dinner party at the time and was in evening dress. He sought out Police Captain McCullagh and learned from him where Bruen was to be found. It was midnight when, having torn himself away from the social pleasantness in which he had participated, he entered the low dive in Pell street which Bruen made his headquarters. His overcoat was buttoned tightly around his neck, concealing the full dress suit and the pistol which bulged his hip pocket. He had come prepared for emergencies.

Bruen was standing at the bar drinking when the reporter entered. The latter approached him and touched him on the shoulder.

"Bruen," he said, "I want to talk to you for a minute where we won't be overheard."

Bruen looked at him in doubt but finally followed him to a greasy table at which they sat down. The saloon was a vile den, barely fifteen feet square, and dimly lit by gas which flickered from the broken burners. The bar was a dilapidated, broken-down affair, the wreck of dozens of murderous fights. The bar tender was a desperate looking wretch, whose mouth was besmeared with tobacco juice. There were several loungers in the place who eyed the intruder with curious and unfriendly glances.

Bruen's personal appearance surprised the reporter. He wore clean and well-fitting clothes, a neat black Derby, and white linen. There was no mistaking the rough, however. Not over five feet, four inches in height, he still showed evidence of great strength. Enormous hands, massive shoulders and a bull neck were distinguishing features. The most prominent of his physical characteristics, however, was a deep scar in his chin, the relic of a bloody fight.

It did not take the reporter long to discover that Bruen did not want to talk, but he was there to have an interview and he was bound to get it. He at once assumed the offensive.

"I don't know what der Sun is wantin' her bother me for," said Bruen in surly response to the first question.

"Now don't you be a——fool," said the reporter, "you want to get it through your thick skull that the Sun is doing you a great honor in taking any notice of you at all. We are going to give you fair play but you don't want to act like a jackass; understand?"

Bruen winced and his hand traveled around to his pistol, the butt of which was plainly discernible. The reporter pretended not to notice his action but continued to ply Bruen with questions. The big hand was almost on the pistol when the reporter brought his own fist down on the table with a bang.

"You lay your pistol on the table, Bruen, and I'll break you in two," he said impressively, "I can do it; don't you know I can?"

Bruen's face paled, his eyes rolled rapidly and the scar in his chin, the physical barometer of his emotions, trembled noticeably. At the same time his hand came back in front again and the pistol remained undisturbed. He was thoroughly cowed although more than a match, physically, for the reporter. After that he answered all questions but in a guarded way. Several times he relapsed into savagery, but a quick, bold—"You don't be a fool," from his interlocutor brought him back into submission.

"You are too low for me to argue with," the reporter said once, "you would only fight with a crowd at your back."

When the reporter left it was 1 a. m. He had secured a column and a half about Bruen's daily life, his opinions of the great men of the world, his ideas of morality and the studies and pursuits he had engaged in. He had learned that the Whyo desperado was a coward, who used his pistol on his victim's back, and also that he was devotedly faithful to Driscoll, his immediate predecessor in the gang's leadership, who was then in the Tombson charge of murder and has since been hanged. He had found, too, that the Whyo was proud of the good name of his sisters and fearful lest something might be said against them.

He had done all this by putting on a bold front and by an apparent disregard for his personal safety. Nevertheless, he had kept his own pistol in convenient proximity. CHARLES J. ROSEBAULT.

The Other Side.

Fashionable Mother—"What? Do you mean to say you won't rent me one of those elegant flats because I have a child?"

Flat Owner—No, madam, I won't. Those flats have gilded cornices, frescoed walls, castlake dados, haviland fireplaces, French plate windows——"

"Oh! And you're afraid my darling little cherub will tear them all to pieces, I suppose!"

"No, madam, but those flats are utterly lacking in grass, flowers, trees, birds, swings and hammocks, and I'll—ot allow any one to pen up poor little children in any such gilded cages. No, madam, I may be a little grasping, but I don't want any blood money."—Omaha World.

Slightly Mixed.

The mother of two sons, twins, met one of the brothers in the field one morning.

"Which of you two boys am I speaking to?" asked the mother; "is it you or your brother?"

"Why do you ask?" inquired the lad, prudently.

"Because if it is your brother I will box his ears."

"It is not my brother; it is I."

"Then your brother is wearing your coat, for yours had a hole in it."

"No, mother, I am wearing my own coat."

"Good heavens!" shrieked the mother, looking at him intently, "you are your brother after all."

WOMEN IN LOVE.

An Analysis Which May or May Not Be Just, but Is Worth Thinking about.

In the love of a woman there is always a certain element of childishness, which has a reflex, if but temporary action upon her whole nature. The phenomenon is due partly to the fact that she is under the dominant influence of a wholly natural instinct, partly to the fact that the object of her love is of stronger make than herself, mentally, spiritually and physically.

This sense of dependence and weakness, and, consequently, of extreme youth, remains until she has children. Then, under the influence of peculiarly strong responsibilities, she gives her youth to them, and with it the plasticity of her nature.

The moment a woman falls in love, that moment she becomes an object of paramount interest in her own eyes.

All her life she has regarded herself from the outside; her wants and needs have been purely objective; consequently she has not known herself, and her spiritual nature has claimed but little of her attention But under the influence of love she plunges into herself, as it were, and her life for the time being is purely subjective. She broadens, expands, develops, concentrates; and her successive evolutions are a perpetual source of delight and absorbing study.

Moreover, her sense of individuality grows and flourishes, and becomes so powerful that she is unalterably certain —until it is over—that her experience is an isolated and wholly remarkable one.

Naturally she must talk to someone; she is teeming with her discoveries, her excursions into the heretofore unexplained depths of human nature; the necessity for a confidant is not one to be withstood, and who so natural or understanding a confidant as her lover?

If the lover be a clever man and an analyst, he is profoundly interested at first, particularly if she have some trick of mind which gives her, or seems to give her, the smack of individuality.

If he be a true lover, and a man with any depth of feeling and of mind, he does not tire, of course; but otherwise he eventually becomes either oppressed or frightened; he either wishes that women would not take themselves so seriously and forget to be amusing, or her belief in her peculiar and absolute originality communicates itself to him, and he does not feel equal to handling and directing so remarkable a passion.—Frank Lin.

THE PIOUS RUSSIAN.

One of the first things that strikes the stranger in St. Petersburg, and still more in Moscow, is the constant crossing that goes on in the streets. Whenever a devout Russian passes a church or a shrine or a holy altar he lifts his hat and crosses himself in the fashion of the Eastern Church.

In Moscow the number of shrines is so great and the sanctity of some of them so overpowering that it must be difficult for the devout orthodox to get along the street. In St. Petersburg the number is much less, but it is still sufficient to keep your isvostchik's arms in tolerably active exercise.

One thing puzzled me much. In St. Petersburg the women very seldom crossed themselves. For one woman who would make the sign of the cross in passing the shrine of the entrance to the Gostinnoi Dvor it would be made by a dozen men. In Moscow the women were more careful to perform their devotions, but in St. Petersburg the males were much more devout to outward seeming than the women.

Of the women who did obeisance to the holy places in St. Petersburg all were poor. I did not see one well-dressed lady cross herself in the streets all the time I was in Russia. Officers and gentlemen were not so particular as the isvostchiks and workmen, but it was no uncommon sight to see them making the sign of the cross.

I traveled with Gen. Ignatieff from St. Petersburg to Moscow. The moment the train started the General crossed himself twice, remarking that although you should always pray, it was especially incumbent upon you to do so when starting on a journey.

The number of shrines in Russia where candles are burning before holy pictures is very great, and much greater importance is attached to the science of genuflexion than is easily credible to the nonritualistic rover.

Sunday was much more generally observed as a holiday than I expected. The shops on the Grand Morskaya and the Neviski Prospekt are almost all shut all Sunday.

St. Petersburg is not Sabbatarian by any means; it is more a day of amusement and of visiting than of devotion, but there seemed to me to be a much more general cessation of labor on Sunday in Russia than either in Germany or in France.—Correspondent.

AFRICAN RACE OF DWARFS.

One of the most striking things to be met with in the earlier pages of Emin Pasha's journal is a reference to a report which is brought to him between Lado and Dufile, on the Upper Nile, that a race of dwarfs inhabit mountain caves to the west of Beden.

They are said to be only forty inches high, of a brown color, and of great agility, to eat white ants and roots, and to shoot with very small arrows, which are poisoned and very difficult to extract.

The pigmies he was inclined to regard as the remainder of a dwarf population which ages ago spread itself over Central Africa.

Four years later he himself comes upon some specimens of the Akka, a pigmy people divided into numerous small tribes, who lead a nomadic life in the Monbuttu country.

One of these Akka "had a reddish but rather dark skin (probably dirt), was very prognathous, rather swag-bellied, but exceedingly nimble. His height was 3 feet 6 inches. His whole body was covered by thick, stiff hair, almost like felt, which was especially thick on the breast." A girl fourteen years of age measured 3 feet 7-8 inch in height.

These people are said to be very expert hunters, but also very vindictive, so that the neighboring tribes are glad to let them have all they want for maintenance in return for skins and feathers, the products of the chase, which they prosecute with bows and arrows alone.

Ghost and Bullet.

That ghost which haunted a New Hampshire sawmill turned out to be a young woman who used to go spooning around there to imagine that she was in a ruined castle on the Rhine.

After a bullet fired by a constable whizzed by her ear she imagined that she had better get out and give up.—Detroit Free Press.

Revenge Is Sweet.

"My dear boy," said a mother to her son as he handed round his plate for more turkey, "this is the fourth time you've been helped."

"I know, mother," replied the boy, "but that turkey pecked me once and I want to get square with him."

He got his turkey.—San Francisco Wasp.

A Creaking Hinge

Is dry and turns hard, until oil is applied, after which it moves easily. When the joints, or hinges, of the body are stiffened and inflamed by Rheumatism, they cannot be moved without causing the most excruciating pains. Ayer's Sarsaparilla, by its action on the blood, relieves this condition, and restores the joints to good working order.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla has effected, in our city, many most remarkable cures, in cases which baffled the efforts of the most experienced physicians. Were it necessary, I could give the names of many individuals who have been cured by taking this medicine. In my case it has worked wonders, relieving me of after being troubled with it for years. In this, and all other diseases arising from impure blood, there is no remedy with which I am acquainted, that affords such relief as Ayer's Sarsaparilla.—R. H. Lawrence, M. D., Baltimore, Md.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla cured me of Gout and Rheumatism, when nothing else would. It has eradicated every trace of disease from my system.—R. H. Short, Manager Hotel Belmont, Lowell, Mass.

I was, during many months, a sufferer from chronic Rheumatism. The disease afflicted me grievously, in spite of all the remedies I could find, until I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I took several bottles of this preparation, and was speedily restored to health.—J. Fream, Independence, Va. ††

BY-LAWS ISSUED BY HIS HONOUR THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR-IN COUNCIL,

HIS HONOUR THE LIEUTENANT-Governor of British Columbia, by and with the advice of the Executive Council of British Columbia, acting under and by virtue of the provisions of the "Health Ordinance, 1869," enacts as follows:—

1. Whenever small-pox is present in any locality without the boundaries of any Municipality, the Provincial Health Officer nearest to such locality shall at once cause the patient to be removed to an isolated hospital, tent or other suitable place, or cause such person to be otherwise sufficiently isolated, and shall see that he is properly cared for, and shall take proper measures for the disinfection, or, if necessary, the destruction of all clothing which may have been exposed to the contagion, and for the disinfection and purification of every conveyance, railcar, steamboat, railway, vessel, carriage, or other vehicle which may have been exposed to the contagion.

2. Such Health Officer shall have, in his discretion, full power to place in another building or tent all persons who may have been exposed to the contagion, and shall cause them to be supplied with all necessaries until the period of incubation of the disease shall have elapsed, and no such person shall go, or be permitted to go, abroad, until he or she has given satisfactory proof of successful vaccination within the preceding seven years, or shall have obtained a medical certificate of insusceptibility to the vaccine disease, nor until the clothing or effects worn or carried by or with him or her have been properly disinfected, if the same have been exposed to contagion.

3. To assist the Health Officer, he shall have full power to employ persons to be nurses, sanitary policemen, and other to be to aid in the prevention of the spread of the disease, and may himself give and enforce such reasonable directions for the same purpose as to him may seem expedient, and the nearest Government Agent shall see that all articles and necessaries required by the Health Officer are furnished.

4. It shall be the duty of every medical practitioner who shall attend upon, or give medical or surgical advice to or about any person suffering from small-pox, to give notice forthwith after he shall have commenced so to attend or give such advice, to the nearest Provincial Health Officer. When a householder knows that a person within the house occupied by him is taken sick of small-pox, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the nearest Provincial Health Officer.

5. The Provincial Health Officer before mentioned is and includes any person appointed Health Officer under the "Health Ordinance, 1869," by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council.

6. The foregoing provisions shall have no effect within the limits of any Municipality, save as hereinafter mentioned.

7. In case the Council of any Municipality, whenever small-pox is present, or likely to occur therein, shall fail to make or carry out proper provisions to prevent the invasion or spread of small-pox within the Municipality, and complaint thereof shall be made to the Lieutenant-Governor by the Council of any adjacent Municipality, it shall be lawful for the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, acting upon such complaint or in his discretion upon other information, to order that these regulations shall, until otherwise ordered, apply to and be in force within the Municipality in which such neglect occurs, and thereupon any Provincial Health Officer shall have within and in respect of such Municipality all the authority with which he is clothed in respect of localities without Municipalities, and in such case all disbursements and expenses paid by the Province, in the carrying out within such Municipality of the foregoing regulations, shall be paid by such Municipality.

8. These regulations may be cited as the "Provincial Health (small-pox) By-Laws, 1888."

A very enjoyable social was given last evening by the ladies of the Methodist church. About 200 people were present and listened with much interest to a well arranged programme of songs, readings and recitations. To-day (Saturday) the British Columbia Smelting Company at Field had 2 carloads of ore standing on the sidetrack, and 20 more on the dump. PERSONAL.

Mayor Oppenheimer, of Vancouver, was in town to-day.

A. Clow, father of C. A. Clow, architect of this city, returned to Westminster yesterday by the C. P. R. Mr. Clow is well-known as a former resident of this city. For over a year he has been living in Ontario, with the intention of making it his home. One winter, however, Mr. Clow declares, was enough for him, after tasting the delights of the Pacific province climate, and he has hastened back to these balmy shores, determined not to be caught in the rigors of another eastern cold season. This is almost the invariable experience of those who have enjoyed for any length of time our incomparable B. C. climate. None other will suit them.

UNEARTHED AT LAST.

The Police Raid Their Quarters and Find a Quantity of Stolen Goods. Two Thieves Captured.

Apart from the many burglaries which have taken place in Westminster during the last six months there has also been several robberies from shop doors, which though small have proved very annoying to the merchants. The police have been working quietly but steadily to discover the gang, but the progress made was necessarily slow. All suspicious white characters were forced to leave the city, but this did not stop the robberies and the police turned their attention towards Chinamen. All the loose and idle characters were spotted and a close supervision of their habits was instituted. It was finally discovered that a small house in the rear of Wong Goon's store, on Front street, was inhabited by half a dozen of the worst characters in Chinatown, and on this establishment the police determined to make a raid. Yesterday all arrangements for the raid were completed and at 8 o'clock this morning the search took place. This hour was chosen because of its being a most unlikely time to make a raid, and the wisdom of the choice was borne out by the results. The force was divided, half entering by Front street and the other detatchment from the rear. Constables Pearce and Carty were the first to enter the house and their appearance was a genuine surprise to the half dozen inmates it contained. An attempt to stampede followed and one Chinaman, named Ah Sam, jumped headforemost through the window carrying glass and sash with him. Constable Pearce was after him in a moment, caught him and a struggle ensued. But the celestial was no match for the wiry policeman as he soon found to his cost, though he made a good fight and left several nasty scratches and bruises on the constable as mementoes of the occassion. At the instant Ah Sam jumped through the window another Chinaman gathered up a bundle of clothes and bolted through the door towards the rear. Knowing the many intricate turns in this filthy locality he eluded his pursuers and would have escaped but for Constable Dominy who observed him in the act of placing the bundle under a pile of old rubbish. To climb the fence was not an easy feat owing to its rickety condition so Dominy made a rush and went head first through the rotten palings and landed almost on top of the Chinaman. Ah Tom tried to roll down the hill out of the way but the constable managed to grab the end of his queue by which handle Ah Tom was dragged up the bank agair. The package proved to contain a quantity of flannel of a pecular pattern, stolen from W. & G. Wolfenden, and a number of pairs of drawers and some grey tweed the owner of which has not been ascertained. When the two prisoners had been secured a thorough search of the house was instituted but no important discovery was made until the boards of floor were torn up. Here was found, stored carefully away in an old oil can, a new overcoat which turns out to have been stolen from Jas. Ellard & Co's. Nothing further of importance was found although the police rooted deep into the mass of rubbish stored under the floor. As the remaining Chinamen made no serious efforts to escape, and did not act in a guilty manner, only the two mentioned were conveyed to the lockup. At the police court both were committed for trial at the next assizes.

The police are to be congratulated on the success which attended the raid, and it is to be hoped others equally successful will follow.

The cheapest medicine in use is Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, because so very little of it is required to effect a cure. For croup, diphtheria, and diseases of the lungs and throat, whether used for bathing the chest or throat, for taking internally or inhaling, it is a matchless compound.

Police Court.

(Before T. C. Atkinson, P.M.)

George J. Wolfenden, sworn, said, I am a general merchant; the four yards of flannel produced were stolen from me; the goods were stolen on Saturday week and were taken from the door of our store; 130 yds. of flannelette were taken; I recognize the goods by its width and pattern as the goods stolen; the goods were imported direct and I do not think there is any like it in the province; I am sure the goods were stolen.

Jas. W. Harvey, sworn, said: I am a merchant; I lost an overcoat some four or five days ago; it was stolen from the door of the store; I would recognize the coat if I saw it again; the coat now produced is the coat that was stolen; I identify it by the lining and material, and by having other coats like it in the store; I am sure this coat was stolen from the store; it was missed at 7 o'clock in the evening; its value is $17.

Sydney Ellard, sworn, said: I am in the employ of Jas. Ellard & Co. We missed a coat from the store door a few days ago; I would recognize the coat by the lining, the loop on the back and by its material; I do not know the prisoners; we have other coats in the store like it; I am certain the coat produced is the coat stolen from us; I know the coat was stolen because no one in the store sold it.

Constable Pearce, sworn, said: At 8 o'clock this morning I went in search of some goods that were stolen; the house examined was in Chinatown and there I found the goods exhibited and the two prisoners; I arrested the prisoners and brought them to the lock-up; Several constables were with me; there were other Chinamen in the house, but the prisoners were the only ones who showed guilt and tried to make their escape; Ah Sam jumped through the window the moment I entered the room; the goods were found under the boards of the floor; the coat was found in a coal oil can under the floor and the flannel was in a bundle which Ah Tom tried to escape with; I had a severe struggle with Ah Sam; he resisted arrest strongly.

Ah Sam made a statement saying he had bought the drawers which were found in the bundle Ah Tom was running away with; Ah Tom said his friend left the goods with him.

There is nothing equal to Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator for destroying worms. No article of its kind has given such satisfaction.

City Council.

The council met last night at 8 o'clock for the transaction of business. Present, Aldermen Elliott, Shiles, DeBeck Hoy, Ovens, Calbick and Herring.

His Worship Mayor Dickinson in the chair.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From J. Rowland Hett, Victoria, stating he had applied to Mr. Bole for a cheque for the amount of his account. Received and filed.

From the Gutta Percha Manufacturing Co., Toronto, enclosing account for rubber hose purchased some months ago and asking that the enclosed drafts be accepted. The dratts were ordered to be accepted.

ACCOUNTS.

W. N. Bole, $106.10; J. M. Wise, $15; F. G. Strickland, $194.50.

The board of works recommended that Mathers & Milligan be granted a monthly lease of certain water lots and $15 per month rent be charged. The report was received and adopted.

His worship advised that an auditor be immediately appointed to audit the city's books for this year. This would facilitate matters and save any unnecessary delay.

His worship reported that Mrs. Brighouse had complained about her fences.

Ald. DeBeck moved that Mr. W. J. Walker be appointed to audit the city books and that he be paid $50 for the same. The statement to be in detail. Carried.

Moved by Ald. Calbick, seconded by Ald. Elliott, that Mr. Bole be authorized to give the customary notice necessary to amend the city charter, should that be found expedient. Carried.

Ald. Calbick said this motion was merely a precautionary measure in case an amendment to the charter should become necessary.

Moved by Ald. DeBeck and seconded by Ald. Hoy, That a subsidy of $120; be paid to any who will run a steamer capable of carrying passengers and freight from New Westminster to the North Arm making daily trips except when impracticable on account of ice, for a term of six months. Carried.

Ald. DeBeck, chairman of the board of health, reported the cases of diphtheria at the Cleveland Hotel and the quarantining of that establishment. He also reported that Dr. Hall had refused to attend the patients any longer unless the city paid him $25 per day. The board had refused to pay him this and Dr. Smith had been appointed to attend them at $10 per day.

Ald. DeBeck recommended that the pest house be repaired.

Ald. Elliott said he thought the pest house was in the wrong place, being too near the closely inhabited portion of the town.

Ald. Herring reported that Dr. Smith had seen the diphtheria patients and found the cases of a much milder type than at first given out.

The council then adjourned.

That Scott Road.

EDITOR COLUMBIAN.—Having been a sojourner on the south side of the Fraser for a number of weeks, I have had an opportunity of observing the work which has lately been done on the Scott road, about which there has been a little paper tempest. Robert Gray, who resides on the Delta side of the road, has stated that he (three years ago) did more work on the road for $100, than has been done this season, for which the government has paid $400, and some one who seems to be interested in some way contradicts Gray's statement. I recollect very well the time Gray did the work on this road, for which he was paid by the two townships of Surrey and Delta, $100. Gray at the time cut the brush from the McClellan road to Brown's Hill, a distance of about 6 miles; he repaired the culverts and cleaned out the ditches, wherever it was required, to lead the water into the culverts. As far as I have been able to ascertain, only about 4 miles have now been brushed; the culverts have been improved and repaired so far as I have been along the road, but no ditches have been cleaned out so far as I have observed. One mile of the worst part of the road (through the green timber,) has not been touched at all, and when I came through a few days ago on the Blaine stage, the horses were confined between walls of thick brush, up to knees in water in many places. Why this part of the road should should have been left untouched is a question; and why the government was obliged to step in and do the work by the day at this late season of the year is another question; which should be satisfactorily explained to the tax payers. This job is another strong reason why the government should no longer attempt to do the work which properly belongs to the district-municipality. If this is to be taken as a criterion of the work done by the government on the public roads, three-quarters of the money is thrown away. It is to be hoped that the legislature will soon organize county municipalities; and the government cease to meddle with local works. J. KENNEDY, SR.
