NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Says the Toronto Mail: "Victoria, B. C., is reforming. The city council has prohibited Sunday theatrical performances, and it has under consideration the Sunday drinking shop. It is strange that the smaller evil should be the first to go." The thin end of the wedge, you know, Mr. Mail.

The Swiss people do not believe in proselytizing children, but on the contrary think that they should be left unbiassed by parental or other influence until they reach an age when they can intelligently choose a religion for themselves. The other day an English lady was sentenced to one hundred days imprisonment for converting children under age in the Canton of Vaud to the doctrines of the Salvation Army. The same principle carried out here would close all our Sunday schools.

The death is reported in Turkey of a Mohammedan named Hadzi Suleiman Saba, who had reached the respectable age of 132. He had seven wives, sixty sons, and nine daughters, and had survived them all. At the time he married his last wife he was 98, and when she joined the majority he was still so far under the influence of love's young dream that he wanted to marry again, but the state of his finances did not permit of any further participation in matrimonial joys. With the exception of meat at the Bairam festival he lived exclusively on barley bread and beans, drinking only water, but on this spare diet he managed to preserve his health so well that until four days before he ended his long career he did not know what it was to be ill.

An eastern Canadian exchange says:—The pride which the patriotic American takes in the fact that the United States is gradually collecting a navy is tempered by the reflection that when a first-class fleet has been built and equipped, it will be impossible to man the ships except with foreign seamen, unless some means can be found to encourage native Americans to enlist. The present pay for ordinary seamen is $210 a year, and it need hardly be said that this amount is no inducement at all to Americans of spirit or enterprise to join the naval service. At present a large proportion of the enlisted seamen in the U. S. navy are foreigners, and the proportion is rapidly increasing. It has been suggested that all ranks in the service should be thrown open to graduates of the school of naval apprentices and to the cadets of the Annapolis academy, but it is doubtful whether even this inducement would be strong enough to attract the youth of America.

An exchange says: The Lee rifle, the Canadian invention which has been adopted by the Imperial authorities for the British army, was put to a severe test recently, and came out of the ordeal very satisfactorily. The shooting was made at long ranges, the target representing a battalion of seven companies, each of 24 files, standing in quarter column. The first company was represented by iron and wood screens; the remaining companies by wooden screens of thicknesses varying from a quarter to three-quarters of an inch. At 2,000 yards 43 per cent. of hits was obtained; at 2,400 yards, 25.90 per cent., and at 2,800 yards, 14.90 per cent. A heavy mist caused the target to be absolutely invisible at all the ranges; therefore the fire had to be directed by using an intermediate object to aim at. At 2,800 yards the bullets penetrated the wooden screens and were flattened against them. At this distance, which is about a mile and a half, the penetration was, it will be seen, sufficient to kill.

The means of communication between passenger and guard or engine driver on English railway trains appears to be susceptible of improvement. A party of domestic servants were going by train from the North of England to London recently. A footman in one compartment, for a lark stretched himself as far as he could out of the window in order to tap at the window of the next compartment to frighten a comrade there. Before he finished the "joke" the train reached a bridge and his head came in contact with the side of it. He was instantly killed, to the horror of three young women who were in the compartment. They pulled the communication cord, which was as insensible to all influence as the average Pullman car porter in America, for the train travelled 80 miles before the cord acted. The man's life could not have been saved even if the cord had accomplished its purpose sooner, but the incident suggests a better means of communication, as well as the advisability of keeping one's head inside the car window.

Out of Sorts.—Symptoms, Headache, loss of appetite, furred tongue, and general indisposition. These symptoms, if neglected, develop into acute disease. It is a trite saying that an "ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," and a little attention at this point may save months of sickness and large doctor's bills. For this complaint take from one to three of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills on going to bed, and one or two for three nights in succession, and a cure will be effected.

THE FASTEST YET.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—The Cunarder Umbria, which arrived at Queenstown last evening, made the fastest eastward run on record. Her corrected time was 6 days, 2 hours and 39 minutes. Her best previous eastward run was 6 days, 7 hours and 15 minutes. The best eastward run of the Etruria is 6 days, 4 hours and 40 minutes, made in April last. The Umbria thus beats the record by 1 hour and 45 minutes.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—President and Mrs. Cleveland have accepted an invitation from Secretary and Mrs. Whitney to be their guests for a week after March 4th.

Mr. Joseph Chamberlain and his young bride are spending a portion of their honeymoon at Chevey Chase, Captain and Mrs. Rodgers having courteously placed their old country home at the disposal of the newly-wedded couple. The bride and groom spent the greater part of the afternoon driving about the country roads in the vicinity of their temporary quarters, Mrs. Chamberlain handling the reins. Chevy Chase is about as lonesome a place as could well have been selected for the honeymoon, but the couple appear to greatly enjoy the solitude. As heretofore stated, Mr. and Mrs. Chamberlain will spend a few days in the city as the guests of the latter's parents previous to sailing for England on the 26th instant.

THE WHALER OHIO GIVEN UP FOR LOST.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 20.—The whaling bark Little Ohio, owned here, has been given up for lost, being long overdue. She carried 32 men, and was valued at $150,000. As no tidings have been received of the boat or crew, it is supposed she must have sunk with all on board.

A FATAL BOILER EXPLOSION.

BUTTE, Montana, Nov. 20.—The boiler of the Boston & Montana Copper Co. at Meaderville exploded yesterday afternoon, killing Engineer Edmunds, Wm. O'Connor, Jacob Kraemer, Harry Winters and injuring three others.

NOTORIOUS BRUISERS MOBBED.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 20.—Kilrain and Mitchell posed at the Central theatre last night as gladiators. Kilrain when introduced as the champion of the world was hissed and hooted by the gallery, who yelled "Sullivan, Sullivan." Mitchell posed as Sullivan, and was given an ovation. After the performance Kilrain and Mitchell were mobbed by a crowd at the stage door and narrowly escaped without injury.

BOILER INSPECTORS CONVENE.

PITTLBURG, Nov. 20.—A convention of boiler inspectors to form a national organization met here this morning. Delegates from nearly every state in the country were present. The principal object is to accept a uniform system of boiler inspection and prevent the employment of incompetent engineers.

SHIPPING NOTES.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 20.—Arrived, steamers G. W. Ellis, Portland; Umatilla, Victoria. Sailed, steamer Costa Rica, Nanaimo.

BREAKING DOWN THE BARRIERS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 20.—Ex-Mayor W. H. Taylor, of Spokane Falls, is in the city to confer with Senators Jones, Stewart and others in regard to a repeal of the alien land law. "We are so close to the Canadians," said Mr. Taylor in an interview, "that this alien land law greatly interferes with us. Many foreigners would gladly come in and buy our wheat and timber land and become interested in our mines, but the alien law prohibits them from holding them in the territories. Many of them would become citizens on time, and Coeur d'Alene, which lies at our doors, would have many investors in its mines. An English company stands ready to put $1,500,000 in some properties there, but it cannot do so in the way things stand. Everybody in Spokane Falls, and, I may say, elsewhere in all the territories, is in favor of this repeal."

SENTENCED TO BE HANGED.

BUTTE, MONTANA, Nov 20—At Fort Benton, yesterday, Chas. Gorden, who murdered J. A. Lavelle last July, was sentenced to be hanged Jan. 11 1889.

STILL CRITICAL.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20. — Mrs. Jay Gould's condition is unchanged. This morning it was still critical.

FUNERAL OF REAR-ADMIRAL BALDWIN.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—The funeral of Rear-Admiral Baldwin took place this afternoon. A battalion of 500 marines from Brooklyn navy yard acted as escort.

NATIONAL BASEBALL LEAGUE MEETING.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—The national baseball league meets here to-day in executive session. A joint committee of the league and American associations on rules is now on session.

THE REFEREE.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—J. R. Elder, of the Columbia athletic club, will referee the Teemer-O'Conner boat race on Saturday.

NOT CONFIRMED.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—The navy department has no information of the reported surrender to the commander of the U. S. ship Boston of the str. Haytian Republic by the authorities of Hayti.

THEY MUST HANG.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—The president has decided not to interfere in the case of John and Jacob Tobler, two Indians, sentenced to be hanged in Kansas tomorrow, for the murder of two men in the Sac and Fox agency.

A GOOD MOVE.

OTTAWA, Nov. 20.—If the Manitoba Government loses its suit before the supreme court a petition will be sent to the Imperial parliament asking for an amendment of the Railway act.

AN IMPORTANT TEST.

OTTAWA, Nov. 20.—Nearly all provinces of the Dominion will send counsel to support the contentions of the Manitoba government on the famous railway case to be argued before the supreme court to-morrow. Attorney-general Martin, of Manitoba, has arrived here. The C. P. R. will not permit the R. R. V. R. which has been granted a charter by the provincial legislature to cross their tracks, and the various provinces now realize that, if the interpretation of section 307 of the railway act made by the C. P. R. is maintained, their powers to legislate in railway matters will be forever destroyed.

LATE DESPATCHES.

AN AGED MURDERER.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 15.—At Lordstown, Trumbell county, Ohio, to-day, Peter Shialy, an aged farmer shot and instantly killed his wife, aged 60. The murderer is believed to be insane.

THE REWARD FOR TASCOTT.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—The time during which the heirs of the late millionaire Snell will pay the reward of $20,000 for the arrest of Tascott, Snell's murderer, has been extended to Jan. 17.

GARRETT IMPROVING.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—An intimate personal friend of Robert Garrett is authority for the statement that he has greatly improved recently, and strong hopes are entertained of his ultimate recovery.

CHRISTIAN WORKERS.

DETROIT, Nov. 15.—The third annual convention of Christian Workers of the United States and Canada opened in the tabernacle of the M. E. church this morning, and will continue five days. About 200 delegates were present.

RAISED A DRAFT.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—Samuel Poland, an old man has been arrested on a charge of raising a draft for $50 on the Merchant's Exchange national bank of New York, to $550 and getting it cashed at San Francisco by S. E. Slade & Co., dealers in lumber. The police have been looking for him since January. He confessed.

FATAL TRAIN WRECK.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 15.—A Baltimore and Ohio express train, bound west, ran into a freight at Valley Falls, seven miles west of Groton, W. Va., last night. Both engines were damaged. Engineers Dewire and Clinton were killed. Fireman Shay was seriously injured and fireman Baker slightly. No passengers were hurt.

CROW PRISONERS TO BE RELEASED.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—The president has directed the return to the reservation in Montana of three of the Crow Indian prisoners, "Crazy-Head," "Knows-his-Nose" and "Carries His Food," now at the Carlisle, Penn., Indian trading school, who were arrested at the time of and for participating in the "Sword-Bearer outbreak." This action is taken on information that these Indians are afflicted with scrofulous and other diseases which make their longer detention at Carlisle undesirable to serve any useful purpose.

DAKOTA WANTS TO GET IN QUICKLY.

PLANKINGTON, Dak., Nov. 15.—At a meeting of the people of Aurora county resolutions were adopted appointing a committee to use all honorable means to secure the calling of a special session of the 51st congress at the earliest practicable day after March 4, in order that the act of admission may be passed, by which all the loyal people of this territory may celebrate the Fourth of July, 1889, as members of the great family of states. The said committee is requested to invite the co-operation of the other counties.

ANARCHY AMONG THE INDIANS.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 15.—Advices from the Indian territory, obtained from a gentleman who arrived at Little Rock to-day from the Chickasaw nation, represent affairs there in a critical condition. The partisans of Byrd and Guy, contestants for the gubernational office, were heavily armed, and the capital, Tishomingo, is in a state of great disorder. A proposition is made to submit the election of the governor to five leading Indians of the Choctaw, Cherokee, Chickasaw, Creek and Seminole nations and abide by the decision. If this is done the gentleman said bloodshed will be averted, otherwise the Chickasaws will drift into anarchy.

CHARLES JOHNSON HANGED.

WATERLOO, N. Y., Nov. 15.—Charles Johnson was hanged this morning for the murder of John Walters. Charles Johnson and Caldwell were confined in the Waterloo jail on the charge of horse stealing. On the day of the crime—January 10, 1887—when the guard, John Walters, went to the cell to unlock the door, Johnson hit him on the head with a stove shaker and fractured his skull. They then made a dash for liberty, but the sheriff was fully armed and blocked the way. They were driven back. Walters died. Caldwell was tried and sentenced to Auburn for life. The trial of Johnson resulted in his execution to-day.

It is expected the election in Provencher will take place about the 10th of May.

John Cooper suicided at Kingsville, Ont., on Sunday by shooting himself in the head.

Over 9,000 people have been revaccinated since the outbreak of the small-pox in Toronto.

David Little, merchant tailor, of Mitchell, Ont., dropped dead on the street Sunday, it is supposed from heart disease.

Athanase Julien, of Quebec, aged 50, a shoemaker of St. Savier, was choked to death by a piece of meat while at dinner Saturday.

Percy Skead, a boy aged eight years, was drowned while skating on the Red River the other day. His brother Walter had a narrow escape from a like fate.

D. E. Duffield, health officer at Detroit, denies the statement attributed to him that small-pox was spreading alarmingly in this section of Ontario. Nine cases in this neighborhood are all doing well.

An Interesting Budget of London Gossip--Queen Victoria Takes Her Journey Well.

Trouble Feared if Salisbury Holds Out and Refuses to Appoint a U. S. Minister.

Lord Randolph Churchill Disappoints His Admirers by Failing to Curse the Government.

TO AVOID FRICTION.

LONDON, Nov. 19.—The hope is growing of an early settlement of the Canadian difficulty. In the house of commons to-night Mr. W. H. Smith, amid general cheering, said that he hoped the question would be solved by the exercise of a spirit of moderation and good sense by the mother country and the colonies. Lord Carnarvon in the Times probably outlines the form of settlement. He urges the government, while retaining the sole responsibility for appointing governors, to informally consult a colonial government before it is published in the Gazette.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—British cruiser Hyacinthe, has taken possession of Cook's Island in the name of the British Government.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 20.—Messrs. Oussitankoff, grain merchants of Odessa, have failed, their liabilities amounting to one million of roubles.

DILLON WILL VISIT AUSTRALIA.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—John Dillon, nationalist, will visit Australia this winter, partly on account of ill-health, and partly to further the Irish cause.

AN AFFAIR OF HONOR.

PARIS, Nov. 20.—M. Andrieux and M. Guyot fought a duel with swords this morning. Andrieux was slightly wounded in the chest. The duel was the outcome of a libel suit.

BRIGHT'S CONDITION IMPROVING.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—The bulletin from Rochdale this morning says Mr. Bright got some rest, the dangerous symptoms abated, and the patient's condition shows some improvement.

A SIDE SHOW.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—The Parnell commission to-day was asked by Webster, counsel for the Times, to take action against Edward Harrington's paper, which has characterized the judges as creatures of the government who are unable to conceal their prejudices. Harrington's counsel secured a delay, in consideration of this matter, until to-morrow.

QUEEN VICTORIA.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—The Queen bore her journey south very well and looked bright on her arrival at Windsor station. Only railway officials and the mayor of Windsor were on the platform to welcome her. No one was admitted to any station when the train stopped.

TROUBLE AHEAD — LORD RANDOLPH CHURCHILL.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—There ... numerous difficulties ahead of Lord Salisbury if he adheres to his resolution of not sending another minister to Washington until the American government has expiated the offence of dismissing Lord Sackville. Mr. Phelps is certain to be promptly recalled, and thus both posts will be practically vacant.

What has come over Lord Randolph Churchill, is the question every one is asking. His meeting at Paddington was large, enthusiastic and expectant. Though his speech was one of his best the feeling left on the minds of the audience was slightly disappointing; they had gone to hear him curse the government and he did nothing but bless them. Lord Churchill's great power lies in attack. There was not opportunity wanting to criticise his whilom friend and adviser, the home secretary, but Lord Randolph forebore. He is clever enough to see the increasing power of the temperance party in England, and is therefore a little ungrateful to his old friend the publican, but he is satisfied that the real work for parliament is to be found at home.

Mr. Goschen has put down his foot at last and means to go on with his obnoxious wheel tax. Thirty-five conservatives are opposed to it, but under pressure of the whip many of them will doubtless return to a docile frame of mind. Mr. Goschen is by no means sanguine of success.

The bailing of Mr. Matthews on Thursday night by Commander Bethune, who owes Sir Charles Warren a debt of gratitude, was a most edifying spectacle. Mr. Matthews has never been in touch with the house of commons and would only be too glad to retire if it were not for a dogged determination of Lord Salisbury to support him. Mr. Smith is strongly of the opinion that a change is desirable, the press being practically unanimous in recommending it. The prime minister now shows signs of yielding.

Henry J. Thorpe, a young Englishman in Toronto, fired three shots from a revolver at his father-in-law, Adam Clarke Cooper, on Saturday. Thorpe's wife had fled to her father's house for protection and Thorpe had followed her and had been ejected by the father.

On Saturday a resident named Flynn came to Kingston, Ont., to receive his wife, the mother of his 7 children, who three months ago eloped with a boarder named Balmer. Her infatuation was most complete, for she left a good home for a life as a waitress in a hotel in Gananoque, whither the pair went to from Kingston. When Mrs. Flynn saw her husband and son she relented and in an hour was on route for home with them.

It has just been discovered at Digby, N. S., that Charles Barden, sentenced in 1885 to five years imprisonment for setting fire to a sawmill owned by Calvin Raymond, was innocent of the crime. At the time of the fire and trial there worked in Digby a man named Patrick Lizens who soon after disappeared. A confession was made by this individual while dying at Cleveland, Ohio. It states he set the mill on fire and was paid to do it. The news has created a deep sensation in Digby.

Daily British Columbian

Tuesday Evening, Nov. 20, 1888.

By the report of last night's council meeting in another column, it will be seen that the city fathers have disposed of an important question in a manner creditable to themselves and the city. The board of trade, ever alive to the city's interests, brought to the notice of the mayor and aldermen the matter—which THE COLUMBIAN has more than once called attention to—of the necessity of insuring, by a small subsidy or some such encouragement, a regular—daily, if possible—steamboat service between this city and the important North Arm settlement. The spirit in which the delegation from the board of trade was met, and the prompt and satisfactory measures taken by the council, not to mention the mayor's praiseworthy patriotism in declaring himself ready to contribute handsomely to the required subsidy from his private means, if no official action were taken, are all indications of the fresh start which the royal city has taken toward the bright goal that awaits her, and the determination of her citizens to work out this inspiriting destiny to the utmost of their endeavors. If governments will not do us justice, we will maintain our well-earned and well-deserved reputation for energy, enterprise and self-reliance, and help ourselves. We are still of the opinion, however, as expressed by Mayor Dickinson at the council meeting last night, that the Dominion authorities will yet yield to the logic and seductiveness of our member, Mr. Chisholm, and the cogent representations of the board of trade, aided and abetted by the humble efforts of THE COLUMBIAN, and see their way clear to their manifest duty of establishing a daily mail service between this city and the North Arm and furnishing the small subsidy required.

The jury system—or the way in which it is administered—is constantly cropping up as a grievance to some person or class, generally the farmers, who, in most cases, live sufficiently remote from the centres where the supreme and county courts are held to make it quite an inconvenience, if not a hardship, to leave their homes and their work for days at a time, very often, too, when they can ill be spared, and their absence means, consequently, a substantial loss. This state of things, bad enough normally speaking, is not infrequently aggravated in particular cases, where, from one cause or another, jurymen, witnesses, and others, are summoned and discharged and re-summoned several times before a case is finally brought on and the court settles down to business. We have called attention to such instances before, which, it appeared at the time might have been obviated, in their effects at least, by the exercise of greater consideration for the interests of those who were greatly inconvenienced as it was. A case in point has grown out of the assize at present sitting in this city, with respect to the grand jury this time, which calls for some remarks, at least, with a view to suggesting possible reforms in the premises. The case we refer to is that of Mr. William Chadsey, a farmer at Chilliwhack, who was summoned, on the grand jury roll, to attend the assize court at this city. Mr. Chadsey says he came down last Tuesday, was discharged from duty on Wednesday, and went home again on Friday. On reaching home he found a telegram awaiting him, summoning him to this city again, as there appeared to be a mistake in one of the commitments. Mr. Chadsey returned as soon as possible, which was on Saturday. Yesterday he was informed that another telegram had been sent him (arriving, of course, after he left home) countermanding the first, and relieving him from further attendance. This, as may be imagined, was small comfort after going on a fool's errand, and losing both time and the expense incident to travelling—nothing being allowed by the court either for travelling expenses or for services rendered on the jury. The honor of serving as a grand juror is supposed to be ample compensation. To a gentleman of leisure, residing conveniently at hand, the honor might be accounted a consideration, but it kicks the beam promptly when weighed against personal inconvenience and financial loss. What we would suggest is (1) That jurors be summoned and selected, if possible, with a view to their convenience and exemption from financial loss in attending and serving; (2) That the party or parties, when the fact can be ascertained, responsible for undue delays and irregularities in the court proceedings, causing extra inconvenience and expense all round, be held liable for the same; and (3) That grand jurymen be compensated for their services, to the extent, at least, that they shall not suffer loss in travelling and other necessary expenses. This, we submit, is nothing more than fair.

In view of the fact that the next municipal election for this city must be held in a little over six weeks, and that the new special act of incorporation comes into force at the same time, a synopsis of some of the provisions of the city's new franchise, relating, particularly, to the constitution of the council, to the qualification of mayor and aldermen, and also to the qualification of voters, will not be out of place. Next year the council will consist of a mayor and nine aldermen, who are to be returned from the city as a whole, without any respect to division into wards; so that every elector will have ten votes—one for mayor and one each for the nine aldermen to be chosen. At subsequent elections, besides the mayor, three aldermen will be returned for each ward, thus our city parliament in future will number at least two more members than at present. The persons qualified for mayor and aldermen at the first election, according to the new act of incorporation "are such persons as reside within the said city, and are natural born or naturalized subjects of Her Majesty, males of the full age of twenty-one years, and who are not disqualified under this act, and have at the time of their election a legal or equitable freehold, or partly legal and partly equitable freehold property, in their own names, within the limits of the said city of New Westminster, to the value of not less than one thousand dollars, over and above the amount of any encumbrances thereon." The qualification for mayor and aldermen at subsequent elections differs in the following particulars: "and who have been (referring to the persons qualified) for the six months next preceding the day of nomination the registered owners, in the land registry office, of real property of the assessed value of at least one thousand dollars, as rated on the last revised assessment roll, over and above the amount of all encumbrances thereon; and in the case of aldermen at least five hundred dollars of the said property shall be situated and rated in the wards for which they are nominated." The disqualification clause of the act reads as follows:

Any person being in holy orders, or the minister of any religious denomination whatever, or any judge of any court of record in this province, sheriffs or officers of the said courts, or officers of her majesty's army or navy on full pay, or provincial, county or city license commissioners or inspectors, or salaried officers of the city, or any person having any unsettled disputed account against or due by the city, or any person accountable for the revenues of the city, or any officer or person presiding at the election of mayor or aldermen while so employed, or any person who shall have been convicted of treason or felony in any court of law within her majesty's dominions, or elsewhere, or any person having by himself or through his partner any contract whatever, or interest in any contract, with or for the city, either directly or indirectly, shall not be capable of being elected or serving as mayor or alderman.

The qualification for voters at the first election is as follows: "Every person whose name appears on the voters' list used at the municipal election for said city in January, 1888, shall be entitled to vote at the first municipal election under this act, but no feme sole shall be qualified to sit or vote as mayor or alderman." The qualification for subsequent elections reads: "From and after the first day of March, 1889, every male and feme sole (unmarried female) of the full age of twenty-one years shall be entitled to have his or her name entered on the list of voters in and for the said city, and when so entered, if not otherwise disqualified under this act, to vote at any municipal election for said city," if such person is the owner of real estate of the value of $100. The disqualification for a voter consists in being in arrears for taxes or being a Chinaman or Indian. The nomination for the first election under the act must be held on the second Monday in January next, and the polling, if any, on the following Monday. The foregoing information, we trust, will assist the electors in bringing out duly qualified men, in every respect, for our next municipal council.

Perfect Hair

Indicates a natural and healthy condition of the scalp, and of the glands through which nourishment is obtained. When, in consequence of age and disease, the hair becomes weak, thin, and gray, Ayer's Hair Vigor will strengthen it, restore its original color, promote its rapid and vigorous growth, and impart to it the lustre and freshness of youth.

I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for a long time, and am convinced of its value. When I was 17 years of age my hair began to turn gray. I commenced using the Vigor, and was surprised at the good effects it produced. It not only restored the color to my hair, but so stimulated its growth, that I have now more hair than ever before.—J. W. Edwards, Coldwater, Miss.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

Sold by all Druggists and Perfumers.

IF YOU ARE SUFFERING from debility and loss of appetite; if your stomach is out of order, or your mind confused; take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This medicine will restore physical force and elasticity to the system, more surely and speedily than any tonic yet discovered.

For six months I suffered from liver and stomach troubles. My food did not nourish me, and I became weak and very much emaciated. I took six bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and was cured.—J. M. Palmer, Springfield, Mass. ††

SOME CURIOUS MARRIAGE CUSTOMS.

Latest Information of the Natives of the New Britain Group.

For marriage purposes the people of New Britain are divided into two classes or divisions.

No man may marry a woman of his own class. To do so would bring instant destruction upon the woman, and if not immediate death to the man, his life would never be secure; in fact, marriage between a man and woman of the same class is regarded in the same light as between brother and sister in a Christian community.

As, however, children are of their mother's totem, it is possible for a man to marry his niece, although there is a great repugnance to such unions among the natives.

Preparations for marriages are various. On Duke of York Island initiation into a secret society seems a sufficient preparation (though not absolutely necessary to marriage) for the boys, and there appears to be no needful preparation for the girls. On New Ireland some girls wear a fringe across their shoulders until they are marriageable. These are the poorer classes.

Others are put into cages, into which they remain four or five years without being allowed to go outside the house in which they are confined.

These cages are conical structures about seven or eight feet in height, and about 10 or 12 feet in circumference at the bottom. They are made of the broad leaves of the pandanus tree, sewn quite close together, so that no light and very little air can enter. On one side is an opening, which is closed by a double door of plaited cocoanut tree and pandanus tree leaves. About three feet from the ground there is a stage of bamboos which forms the floor.

There is only room for the girl to sit or lie down in a crouched position on the bamboo platform, and her feet are never allowed to touch the ground all the time she is confined in the cage. Great marriage feasts are provided for these girls when they are taken out of the cages.]

On the island of New Britain wives are purchased with shell money, and are often married at a very early age. After the price has been decided and paid the girl may be taken away at once to her husband's house, or she may be allowed to remain with her friends for a considerable time.

On Duke of York Island there is generally a marriage feast of a superior kind when persons of influence are being married. The women of the town and surrounding district prepare a large number of puddings, and many pigs are killed. Many presents are given to the bride in public, which she is expected afterwards to return privately. A cocoanut is broken over the heads of the pair and the milk is sprinkled upon them. After this there are periodical feasts for a considerable time, the friends of the bride entertaining the friends of the bridegroom, and vice versa.

When a man marries a second wife after the death of the first the female relatives of the dead wife gather together and are permitted to do as much damage to his property as they can. A man may have as many wives as he can purchase, but if he cannot afford to buy one, and his credit is low, he may have to remain single.

LIFE IN NEW ENGLAND.

Illustrating the Enterprise of Its Storekeepers.

Scene: Village street in front of closely shuttered house. Old and palsied man working in garden.

New York Visitor (in search of material for luncheon)—"Is there a store in this village?"

Old Man—"I guess there be."

Visitor—"Where is it?"

Old Man—"I guess it's here."

Visitor—"Who keeps it?"

Old Man—"Wa'al, I guess I do."

Visitor (eagerly)—"What do you keep?"

Old Man—"Wa'al, most anything."

Visitor (with interest)—"Got any cheese?"

Old Man—"Wa'al, I guess not."

Visitor—"Got any crackers?"

Old Man—"Lord, no."

Visitor—"Do you keep any canned goods?"

Old Man—"I guess not."

Visitor (disappointed)—"Oh (after a pause), do you sell meat?"

Old Man—"Wa'al, I reckon to occasionally."

Visitor (in a tone of renewed hope)—"Got any to-day?"

Old Man—"Wa'al, I do have pork once in a while—hed it yesterday, but it's out."

Visitor—"Oh—Got any bread?"

Old Man—"Wa'al, I do reckon upon having bread most weeks, but it's out."

Visitor (peering through the shutters)—"Haven't you anything we could relish for lunch?"

Old Man (scratching his head)—"Wa'al, I guess so—what d'you want?"

Visitor—"Got any eggs?"

Old Man—"Wa'al, no."

Visitor (desperate)—"Any butter?"

Old Man—"Had some yesterday."

Visitor—"Got any berries?"

Old Man—"Lord! no, ma'am."

Visitor—"Well, I guess I'd better go home. Business keeps you pretty busy, I suppose?"

Old Man—"Wa'al, this is a busy time; but, you see my folks mostly orders and I brings their things jest so—d'ye see? So I mostly has jest what they wants and no waste to it. Got washing soda, now—er soap, er kerosene oil if you want it; but it don't pay to keep perishable articles in this here store, no way."

Visitor (with delight)—"Got pickles, then?"

Old Man (returning to his gardening, with emphasis)—"Wa'al, I ruthar guess not!"

A Lady Who Phosphorized Her Toe.

A lady living in San Francisco, whose little feet are always daintily shod, is also the unfortunate possessor of an obstinate and burning corn upon the smallest toe of her left foot. Chiropodists had dug tunnels through that corn, yanked at it with nippers, smeared it with stinging ointments, and, in despair, suggested amputation. The corn held the fort and successfully resisted the assaults of the best razor the lady's husband possessed—used, of course, without his knowledge. Finally a kind friend suggested that if phosphorus was rubbed on the afflicted toe the corn would succumb. The lady determined to try the remedy, and did so just before retiring the other night, and, to her subsequent sorrow, forgot to tell her liege lord what she had done. The hour of midnight had struck in St. Mary's Cathedral clock, when the husband suddenly awoke and was somewhat startled to see the flash of a firefly at the foot of the bed. Sleep was again asserting its mastery when once more the shine of that firefly caused the husband to open wide his eyes. He could not recollect ever having seen a firefly in California, but he could not disbelieve his senses. Again and again that firefly flashed its baleful gleam, effectually banishing all thought of sleep from the now thoroughly-aroused and wrathy husband. He determined to end his own misery and the firefly's existence simultaneously. He reached out in the dark, groped with his hand about the carpet until he felt his own heavy shoe. He seized the weapon, slowly and cautiously raised himself in bed, and lifting high the sturdy brogan brought it down with a vigorous whack on the innocent firefly. A wild shriek, an avalanche of bedclothes and the husband lay sprawling in the middle of the floor, while his wife rolled around the bed clasping her foot and moaning in anguish. It was not a firefly. It was the phosphorous-anointed toe.

QUEER AND RICH.

The Singular Performances of a Chicago Millionaire.

Odd characters are not scarce in Chicago, but noteworthy odd characters are. Of the interesting people to be met in a day's walk there is one who stands out clear and distinct like a well-cut cameo. He is a man of fine physique, noble, patriarchal bearing and benevolent countenance, yet he is different from any one around him—sui generis. This man's name is Charles J. Hull, one of Chicago's early settlers and one of the city's most substantial men. He is rich, very rich. He is estimated by men who are considered good judges to be worth $3,000,000 and upward. "But," said one of these gentlemen, "it is impossible to accurately estimate his wealth; he himself doesn't know how much he is worth." Mr. Hull owns, probably, 8,000 city lots in Chicago, Baltimore, Savannah, Ga.; Jacksonville, Fla.; Lincoln, Neb., and in other cities. Charles J. Hull was born in an obscure Connecticut town some sixty-seven years ago, and for more than seventeen years was largely a gamin of chance. His mother yielded up her life in giving him being, and no hand offered him guidance, nor did any friend encourage him with advice and counsel. At the age of nineteen he came to Illinois, but did not then permanently settle in the state. He returned East, remaining there until his marriage, in 1846, when he turned his face westward, accompanied by his bride. They came to Chicago, which has since been Mr. Hull's home. Their home was blessed with children, but wife and children were, one by one, taken away by death. The great sorrows which fell upon him did not embitter the existence of Mr. Hull, but he continued to work upon his problem of life—the securing of

HOMES FOR LABORING MEN.

In this work he had been engaged for over forty years. To use his own words: "I have put over two thousand families into their own homes in the city of Chicago, alone; nearly as many in Lincoln, Neb.; about 1,000 in Samore. All the capital I have invested is in the city lots. My methods of doing business was to buy property in tracts where it could be had at a bargain, and then subdivide it into small lots, suitable for workingmen's homes. I could take a man who hadn't a dollar of capital and put him and his family into their home, leaving him pay for the lot as he pleased, and giving him as much time as he needed or wanted. I have placed homes within the reach of 200 families in the city of Lincoln, Neb., alone within the past two years." To-day his rent-rolls are said to be from $60,000 to $75,000 a year. Mr. Hull has always been a prudent and economical, not to say close, man in money matters, and to this as much as to his business ability his success in life must be ascribed. He had his queer hobbies, and one of these was an implicit faith in fish as a brain food. Fish, he argued, was also good for the physical system as well as the mental, and it is narrated of him that for over four years he fed his family on codfish, having no other meats on the table.

CODFISH THREE TIMES A DAY

for everybody! On this epicurean diet the hired girl is said to have become so aristocratic that she refused to work and finally quit. Mr. Hull kept a horse once, but of course he didn't feed the animal on codfish. He didn't think a horse should be pampered, however, and dieted him on straw, which he didn't regard as too rich for the animal's blood. Straws are said to show the way the wind blows. In this case it was certainly true, for, it is related, the wind soon blew through the horse's ribs, and one day, blowing a little harder than usual, it blew him over and he never got up. Again, Mr. Hull bought a team of horses, which he drove together on a buggy. One of the animals died and, not having a single buggy, Mr. Hull hitched his surviving steed to one side of the buggy-pole, so bracing the other side that he was enabled to drive his rig along nicely, though, to be sure, it did look rather funny.

Mr. Hull is said to have always been a very kind man to the inmates of his house, including his help. He never required unreasonable work of them, nor asked them to do menial work. On the contrary, he performed such services himself. He always arose early, and one of his regular morning tasks was to clean and from his own to those of the servant girl. By this time it would be daylight, if in the summer time, and he would then go out to his unimproved lots, which he always cultivated, and spend three hours or so in hard work, hoeing or spading in his garden. Then, after breakfast, he would swing fifty-pound dumbbells for a half hour, just for "exercise." By this time he was ready for his daily toil. He walked to and fro between his house and office, not believing in patronizing the bloated street railway corporations, and, besides, he regarded it as healthier to walk. To this principle he steadily adhered.

A Cure for Nightmare.

A fertile brained man of this city, who cannot sleep on his back without conjuring up a series of distressing figures and situations, has hit upon a singularly effective plan to prevent getting into that position through the night. The contrivance consists of a tack driven through a board. The plank is fastened to his back loosely, and when he turns over from his side the tack is driven into his back and he at once springs up in the air and awakes when he comes down. The first night he bounded up a distance of eight feet, but it awoke him almost immediately.

He is getting more used to the sensation now and rarely jumps over three feet when the tack strikes him.

Manchester Courier.

Buttermilk as a Beverage.

"Buttermilk is getting to be the girl's favorite drink." So said a clerk in a Chestnut street store, where all sorts of milk drinks are dispenced. "Some days ago," the clerk continued, "a pretty girl came in here with her mother. They each had a glass, but when the girl tasted hers she put it down in a hurry. 'Oh! mamma, I can't drink it. It's too horrible,' she said. Her mother advised her strongly to drink it, and she took another sip. Then she called for the girls' stand-by—vanilla with lots of cream. She has been in a few times since and each time she drinks a little more buttermilk, so in a month or two she'll be a regular. They say it is good for sunburn and freckles, so I suppose that's the reason the girls drink it." Philadelphia Call.

The Passion for Betting.

Years ago when riding with the late Rev. Dr. Ballard he remarked to us that he "did not like cards, so much gambling was done with them."

We replied:

"Doctor, we have just left the office and almost the last paragraph which we read was in relation to two young fellows about to attend church service, the men stopping at the door and making a bet upon the length of the sermon to be delivered."—Brunswick (Me.) Telegraph.

A Lifelike Dummy.

"Why can't they make these dummies more lifelike?" said a facetious fellow, halting with a friend in front of a clothing store on Market street and slapping a figure a vigorous blow on the cheek.

The "dummy" turned suddenly, let fly his left, and the facetious man went down on the pavement as though struck by a lightning express.—Philadelphia Times.

A Creaking Hinge

Is dry and turns hard, until oil is applied, after which it moves easily. When the joints, or hinges, of the body are stiffened and inflamed by Rheumatism, they cannot be moved without causing the most excruciating pains. Ayer's Sarsaparilla, by its action on the blood, relieves this condition, and restores the joints to good working order.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla has effected, in our city, many most remarkable cures, in cases which baffled the efforts of the most experienced physicians. Were it necessary, I could give the names of many individuals who have been cured by taking this medicine. In my case it has worked wonders, relieving me of after being troubled with it for years. In this, and all other diseases arising from impure blood, there is no remedy with which I am acquainted, that affords such relief as Ayer's Sarsaparilla.—R. H. Lawrence, M. D., Baltimore, Md.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla cured me of Gout and Rheumatism, when nothing else would. It has eradicated every trace of disease from my system.—R. H. Short, Manager Hotel Belmont, Lowell, Mass.

I was, during many months, a sufferer from chronic Rheumatism. The disease afflicted me grievously, in spite of all the remedies I could find, until I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I took several bottles of this preparation, and was speedily restored to health.—J. Fream, Independence, Va. ††

Public Notice

THE ATTENTION OF THE PUBLIC is hereby directed to the "Provincial Health (small-pox) By-Laws, 1888," issued by His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, under authority of the "Health Ordinance, 1869."

Having been appointed Provincial Health Officer for Districts lying south of Fraser River, I hereby give notice that the provisions of said By-Laws will be strictly enforced, and all persons are required to govern themselves accordingly.

Provincial Health Officer.

New West., Oct. 6, 1888. doc6m1

[L.S.] HUGH NELSON.

BY-LAWS ISSUED BY HIS HONOUR THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR-IN COUNCIL,

UNDER THE AUTHORITY OF THE "HEALTH ORDINANCE, 1869."

HIS HONOUR THE LIEUTENANT-Governor of British Columbia, by and with the advice of the Executive Council of British Columbia, acting under and by virtue of the provisions of the "Health Ordinance, 1869," enacts as follows:—

1. Whenever small-pox is present in any locality without the boundaries of any Municipality, the Provincial Health Officer nearest to such locality shall at once cause the patient to be removed to an isolated hospital, tent or other suitable place, or cause such person to be otherwise sufficiently isolated, and shall see that he is properly cared for, and shall take proper measures for the disinfection, or, if necessary, the destruction of all clothing which may have been exposed to the contagion, and for the disinfection and purification of every conveyance, rail-car, steamboat, railway, vessel, carriage, or other vehicle which may have been exposed to the contagion.

2. Such Health Officer shall have, in his discretion, full power to place in another building or tent all persons who may have been exposed to the contagion, and shall cause them to be supplied with all necessaries until the period of incubation of the disease shall have elapsed, and no such person shall go, or be permitted to go, abroad, until he or she has given satisfactory proof of successful vaccination within the preceding seven years, or shall have obtained a medical certificate of insusceptibility to the vaccine disease, nor until the clothing or effects worn or carried by or with him or her have been properly disinfected, if the same have been exposed to contagion.

3. To assist the Health Officer, he shall have full power to employ persons to be nurses, sanitary policemen, and otherwise to aid in the prevention of the spread of the disease, and may himself give and enforce such reasonable directions for the same purpose as to him may seem expedient, and the nearest Government Agent shall see that all articles and necessaries required by the Health Officer are furnished.

4. It shall be the duty of every medical practitioner who shall attend upon, or give medical or surgical advice, to or about any person suffering from small-pox, to give notice forthwith after he shall have commenced so to attend or give such advice, to the nearest Provincial Health Officer. When a householder knows that a person within the house occupied by him is taken sick of small-pox, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the nearest Provincial Health Officer.

5. The Provincial Health Officer before mentioned is and includes any person appointed Health Officer under the "Health Ordinance, 1869," by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council.

6. The foregoing provisions shall have no effect within the limits of any Municipality, save as hereinafter mentioned.

7. In case the Council of any Municipality, whenever small-pox is present, or likely to occur therein, shall fail to make or carry out proper provisions to prevent the invasion or spread of small-pox within the Municipality, and complaint thereof shall be made to the Lieutenant-Governor by the Council of any adjacent Municipality, it shall be lawful for the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, acting upon such complaint or in his discretion upon other information, to order that these regulations shall, until otherwise ordered, apply to and be in force within the Municipality in which such neglect occurs, and thereupon any Provincial Health Officer shall have, within and in respect of such Municipality all the authority with which he is clothed in respect of localities without Municipalities, and in such case all disbursements and expenses paid by the Province, in the carrying out within such Municipality of the foregoing regulations, shall be paid by such Municipality.

8. These regulations may be cited as the "Provincial Health (small-pox) By-Laws, 1888."

Dated at Victoria, this 3rd day of October, 1888.

The city band gave an open-air rehersal at the postoffice corner yesterday evening, and the different selections were rendered in a manner very creditable to this excellent organization, which deserves the material support of our citizens.

A conversation took place yesterday morning between Mr. R. Thomas Smith of the Hudson's Bay Co., in the C. P. R. telegraph office in Victoria, and Sir Donald Smith, ex-president of the C. P. The fame of the C.P.R. has spread to Africa. J. E. Mr. Max Mowat has completed stripping salmon ova for the season and has now some 5,000,000 eggs in the hatchery. The eggs are doing spledidly and some of the sockeyes are already hatched out. It is expected the number of fry hatched will be greater, in proportion, this year than over before. Had the fish trap on the Harrison River not have been carried away by high water about 6,000,000 eggs would have been stripped.

In legal circles, at Ottawa, it is conceded that the supreme court will refuse to try the Manitoba crossing case, as the court is only asked for an opinion on the case. It is said the court will refer back the matter to the railway committee of the privy council on the ground that it is at present over crowded with work. A large number of cases have been waiting for a long time for adjudication, and the court has no time to act as arbitrators.

Geo. Dodge, Sr., a well-known citizen of Emporium, writes that one of his men (Sam Lewis) while working in the woods so severely sprained his ankle that he could scarcely get home, but after one or two applications of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, he was able to go to work next day.

A Coming Event.

The Westminster brass band intends to give a concert about the first of next month. It promises to be a very entertaining affair. The band deserves well of our citizens, and we predict that the concert, the proceeds of which will go towards increasing the efficiency of the band, will be a success in every way.

The Champion Spuds.

We have received 16 enormous potatoes from Mr. John Murray, of Murrayville, Langley Prairie. The aggregate weight of the tubers is 35 lbs., giving an average of over 2 lbs. apiece. Four of the largest weigh together 9¼ lbs. and one tips the scales at 2¼ lbs. One of the largest measures 19x14 inches in circumference, and the whole lot are simply immense. Mr. John Murray, who raised the potatoes and presented them to this office, is, we understand, an eligible young bachelor in other respects. With a cellar full of such potatoes, we cannot understand why he should remain single another winter.

Orpha M. Hodge, Battle Creek, Mich., writes: I upset a tea-kettle of boiling hot water on my hand. I at once applied Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and the effect was to immediately allay the pain. I was cured in three days.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

Port Moody Looking Up.

A correspondent informs us that in an interview with Mr. Butchart, proprietor of the shingle mill opposite Port Moody, he learned that agencies were at work that promised to enliven Port Moody and vicinity not a little by next spring. It would appear that Mr. Rasure, the Cow-boy Evangelist," who is also a capitalist and speculator of no mean pretensions, has taken a fancy to the neighborhood of Port Moody and intends to go in with Mr. Butchart and establish a saw mill, and also the manufacture of brick by steam power, on the north side of the inlet, near the present shingle mill. Work will be commenced next week on clearing the ground for the saw mill, and a two mile road will be made into the timber limits. It is also in contemplation by Mr. Butchart and Mr. Rassure to settle a colony on the shores of Port Moody and vicinity, in the spring. Mr. Butchart says his land will be laid out in building lots for the colony, which is to be a temperance one, and $4 from the sale of each lot will be given towards building a hospital. The "Cow Boy Evangelist's" preaching is quite acceptable, according to our correspondent, and it is understood that he will remain permanently at Port Moody until he gets a residence built on the opposite side of the inlet. Port Moody proper having unexceptionable transportation facilities by both land and water, and fine building sites, cannot but benefit largely by these projected enterprises in immediate vicinity. We may yet see the city at the head of the inlet one in fact as well as in name.

FROM WALWORTH'S.

Particulars of the Small-Pox Epidemic in the Walworth Family. Stamped Out at Last

Mr. Jas. Ellard, who was one of the medical attendants on the Walworths from the breaking out of the small-pox disease till the time it was finally wiped out, has favored us with the annexed account of what occurred during the time the quarantine lasted. These particulars were not obtainable before owing to the strictness of the quarantine, which almost prohibited intercourse with the infected locality. Dr. D. McLean, physician in charge, with Mr. Ellard and Mr. McKay as assistants, left Westminster on Sept. 29th and arrived at Walworth's the next morning. From the end of the road to Walworth's house the baggage and provisions had to be carried on men's backs for a mile over a rough path through the forest. This was a long and fatiguing job. On arriving at Walworth's it was found the family were almost out of provisions and with no delicacies such as sick people require. This was remedied, however, as soon as the supplies were unpacked. At this time several of the patients were delirious, but Mrs. Charles Walworth was the worst of all, and it was found necessary to tie her hands and feet besides putting her in a straight jacket. Even in this position it required two attendants to hold her down. She died at 8.30 o'clock that night and was buried next morning. There was no coffin procurable, so she was buried in a simple shroud made of blankets. With the other patients medical skill was able to greatly reduce the delirium. A small log cabin with 3 rooms was converted into a hospital and all the patients were kept there. Three tents were pitched, one for Dr. McLean and his assistants, another for provisions, and the last for those of the Walworths who were only slightly affected by the disease. The morning before the medical party arrived James Walworth died of the black small-pox, or the hemorrhagic type. Mrs. Van Luven, who acted as cook and assisted with the patients as well, took the disease about 10 days after the doctor's arrival. Mrs James Walworth took her place and was so fortunate as to escape the infection. About this time Norval, the baby, was also taken sick. Mrs. Van Luven died on the night of the 13th day of her illness of confluent small-pox, and her death was considered a happy relief, as both her eyes would have fallen out had she lived. She was buried at 10.30 o'clock the next morning in a rude coffin furnished by friendly hands. A funeral service was held in the house by Mr. Alex. Anderson, who performed the last rites over the body of Mrs. Van Luren and the two unfortunates who had died before. The two children were very low at this time and their recovery seemed almost hopeless. But skilful treatment had its effect and both recovered, although the right eye of the youngest child fell out. Even after convalescence the poor children suffered terribly from abcesses which broke out all over their bodies. The little girl's face had to be lanced ten times in different places and also many times on other parts of the body. When these recovered the disease had been effectually checked and no further cases developed. The medical watch was divided as follows: Mr. Ellard from 2 a. m. till 2 p. m. and Mr. McKay from 2 p. m. till 2 a. m., Mr. Ellard, owing to his experience of the disease, being assigned to the most critical and important hours in the patient's illness. When permission came to raise the quarantine, all the inmates of the house were forced to strip, bathe, change their clothes and walk over to another house half a mile away. Their clothes were piled up as taken off and burned. Mr. Ellard remained after the rest had gone away and thoroughly fumigated the house and its contents, besides burning all the bedding, blankets, &c., found in it. The contents of ten trunks, which had not been opened, were unpacked and fumigated also and the floor was torn up and a large quantity of chloride of lime sprinkled on the ground beneath. Eight lbs. of sulphur were used in fumigating the house and every door and window were closed while this was going on, which must have resulted in sure disinfection.

Since early in October the weather has been far from pleasant, and sleeping in a tent on a damp bed was a hardship that had to be withstood by the doctor and his assistants. During the latter part of their stay, however, they slept in the house, which, though crowded, was far more comfortable. Summing the whole matter up Mr. Ellard says he has had a hard experience and one that he would not willingly repeat under the same conditions.

Miss Mary Campbell, Elm, writes: "After taking four bottles of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, I feel as if I were a new person. I had been troubled with Dyspepsia for a number of years, and tried many remedies, but of no avail, until I used this celebrated Dyspeptic Cure." For all impurities of the Blood, Sick Headache, Liver and Kidney Complaints, Costiveness, etc., it is the best medicine known.

Monday Evening.

QUEEN VS. JONES.

Samuel Cadotte, sworn, said: I remember Oct. 6th; I did not see scratches on Jones' face on that morning; the whole party had been drinking; in speaking of the murder. Jones at first said he was glad, and then said he was sorry; he said he had shot one son of b—h and if he got a chance he would kill another and then be ready to hang.

John Wren, sworn, said, before the shooting I heard Durant and Jones had quarreled about the klootchman Agnes and had come to blows; Durant was stronger than Jones and the latter got the worst of it; Jones told me that after the trouble on the morning of the shooting he had asked Durant to leave his place and never come back; Durant went away but came back; Jones said he had his door fast; Durant tried the door and then went round to the window and pushed in the window; Jones said he got the gun and that Durant when he saw him through the window turned and ran towards the river; Jones said he opened the door and fired at him; he said, "I let it go quick, I did not care whether it struck him or not;" I said to Jones "You ought to be sorry for doing a think like that;" he said, "I am not sorry—I am sorry if I have got myself into trouble but I am not a damned mite sorry if I dont get into trouble—do you savey that?" In the boat Jones said there was another man he would like to serve in the same way and then he would not be imposed on any more.

Tuesday Morning.

His lordship took the bench at 10 o'clock.

Charles Preston, recalled, said, Durant's body was lying partly in the water; his clothing was all wet; there was no blood on any part of the bank except where the body was found; I did not shut my eyes going down or otherwise I could not have seen Durant; I did not say I had carried Durant up to the house by the trail; there was no trail; I showed Jamieson where I found the body; he said it could not be there as he had found blood farther up the beach; I told Mr. Jamieson that if there was blood further up it was where I had laid Durant down; when I went down to Durant he said: "Charlie I'm dying, I'm cold."

William Jamieson: The cross marked on the map is the spot where Bruneau and Preston told me the body was found; there is no trail on the beach; The spot where my son saw the body was the same place as Preston said it was.

Dr. DeWolf Smith, sworn, said: Am a registered medical practitioner; on the 7th of October I was called up about five o'clock a.m. to see a wounded man; I was told he was named Durant, and that he had been shot; on examining him I found him groaning, blanched, and with a wound in the right leg below the knee; the bones were completely shattered, and the lower part of the leg hung on by a few shreds of skin; there was no hemorrhage at the time I saw him, but that there had been was evident from the condition of the mattress and blankets; with suitable assistance I amputated the leg; the man survived the operation 15 or 20 minutes; the shock and hemorrhage were the causes of death; it is possible that if a surgeon had been on the spot the man might have recovered, but the percentage of mortality after operations for such injuries is large; a man with such an injury might have crawled some distance, but could not walk; I should think the shot was fired from behind and a little to one side; the shot might have been received by a person advancing sideways from the right.

Joseph Patterson, sworn, said: I remember going over to Jones' house on Oct. 6th; Durant was on the floor; I spoke to Jones; he said he had shot Eddie; after we got in then Jones said, "Patterson, any man that comes here and tries to break in my door or window I would shoot him the same." Jones also said he had made a good shot and was sorry he had not killed Durant and there was another man if he had the chance he would serve the same; Durant at this time was in the house wounded. When we returned from Westminster on Sunday I had to pass Jones' house and Preston showed me where the body was found.

Cross-examined by Mr. McColl: I live about half a mile from Jones; I have known Jones since 1882; there were several men in the house when I got there.

Sophie, an Indian woman, sworn, said: I remember seeing Durant at Jones' house on Oct. 6th; I was in bed and saw him through the door; I heard a shot when I was in bed and I got up and looked out of the window; I saw Durant near the boat, he was lying down, I saw Jones in the house; the gun was close to the door; I went into the kitchen and Jones went in the bedroom. I was scared and poured a cup of water into the gun as I did not know what Jones would do; Jones came back from the bedroom and sat down but did not say anything.

Cross-examined by Mr. Bole: On Friday night Bruneau, Jones, Durant and myself went to Langley and Bruneau and Durant bought two gallons of whisky for which they paid $6; the three men drank and sang songs on the way down and when we arrived home they were all drunk; I cooked breakfast and we all ate it together; Bruneau and Durant then went away and Jones and I went to bed; I usually go to bed early and get up early; when I wakened Durant and Bruneau were outside the house but Jones would not open the door although they called to him to get up and do so; Jones would not open the door because he did not want them in the house; this was because Durant had beaten Jones the night before; he got on top of Jones and kicked and pounded him on the floor; Durant kicked Jones on the body and struck him on the face; I gave Durant a pull and said "you make the man drunk and then beat him for nothing;" I told Durant to take his whisky and go home and he did so; Bruneau was sitting by the stove and half sleeping watched the row; Durant shoved strong against the door and could not get in; he then tried the back door but could not get in and Jones said he would not open as he had licked him last night; Durant said if Jones did not open the door he would kick the house down and break the windows; Jones answered that he would hurt him if he broke the house; Durant tried to get in the house badly and then pushed in the window; Jones then got up and got the gun; I think Durant then ran away and a moment afterwards I heard a shot; I think Jones shot from the front door; Jones was pretty drunk then.

Cross-examined by Mr. Drake: Durant was in the kitchen when I saw him; I did not see Jones load the gun; Jones had no clothes on and did not put them on when he got up; before the shot was fired I saw Bruneau standing at the back door, which was open; Bruneau stayed in the kitchen about 5 minutes and had a drink and then left; I don't know who gave him the whisky; Jones and I went to bed after breakfast; Cadotte did not come in while we were at breakfast; Durant licked Jones after we came back from Langley; it was about an hour after breakfast the fight took place; I was in bed at the time and I got up; had been an hour in bed; told Durant to go home; Jones went to bed after the fight; Durant came back about 8 o'clock Saturday morning but did not come inside; that was the time Jones fired at him; I looked at the clock and the hour was eight.

Foreman Brewer—"Sophie, look at that clock and tell me the time."

Sophie—"I can't tell the time by the clock."

Durant was close to the boat when the smoke cleared.

Joseph Shirley, sworn, said: I recollect going to Mr. McColl's office with Mr. Bruneau at his request; Mr. Bruneau explained what he wanted; on several occasions Bruneau spoke to me on the evidence he had given at the coroner's inquest and said he had accidentally made a mis-statement and he asked my advice as to whether he could not take some steps to rectify that mistake before being placed in the witness box; I suggested that he had better see a lawyer and recommended Mr. McColl; he asked me to go to Mr. McColl's office and I did so and explained the object of our visit to Mr. McColl; Mr. McColl asked what mis-statement had been made; Bruneau stated that in his evidence he had inaccurately stated the spot on which he stood when the shot was fired and he did not want to go into court with that against him in writing; Mr. McColl said it would be all right; that he was with Mr. Bole in the case and that when Bruneau got in the witness box every opportunity would be given him to correct his mistake; Mr. McColl explained the difference between a mis-statement and perjury; I believe Bruneau said he was outside the back of the house when the shot was fired.

Dr. Bentley, sworn, said: I am a duly qualified medical practicioner; on the 8th of October made an examination of W. H. Jones, the prisoner, and found his upper lip discolored and bruised; right side of nose scratched inside and filled with clotted blood; marks of blood on right temple; middle of right arm discolored, swoolen and bruised; right side of chest discolored and painful to touch; left side of forehead small wound with marks of blood; left ear scratched and blood in it; Jones said he had no wounds below the waist.

Cross examined by Mr. Drake: The wound on the forehead was very trifling and could easily have been done by an angry woman; there was no cut on the temple where the blood was.

Cross-examined by Mr. Bole: The arm was stiff and bruised and must have been painful; the man might have received the bruise from a kick, but he must have been on his knees to receive it; Jones did not complain of losing any teeth.

To Foreman Brower: The recoil of a gun, if not properly to the shoulder, would make the wound.

Geo. Towle, sworn, said: I keep a hotel at Langley; I remember when Jones, Durant and Bruneau visited my place; they bought some whisky and stayed about half an hour; they arrived at 10.30 or 11 o'clock; they were all friendly.

To Mr. Drake: Sophie stopped at the boat; she could not have seen who purchased the whisky.

This closed the evidence on the case.

Mr. Bole, for the defense, was addressing the jury as we go to press.

City Council.

The council met last night at 8 o'clock for the transaction of business. Present, Aldermen Elliott, Shiles, DeBeck and Hoy.

His Worship Mayor Dickinson in the chair.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From J. Rowland Hett, stating the $50 fee due him in connection with the city charter had not been paid. Referred to the finance committe.

From Robert Law, stating he would only take one water lot. Received and filed.

From Dr. Fagan, asking for grade of sidewalk round his property. Referred to the board of works with power to act.

From Col. McGregor, secretary of the public meeting held concerning railway matters, enclosing report of meeting. Received and filed.

A deputation from the board of trade, headed by Mr. Thos. Cunningham, waited on the council and reported that he (Mr. Cunningham), Mr. Curtis and Mr. T. J. Trapp had been selected to wait on the council to impress upon that body the necessity of maintaining steamboat and mail communication, direct with the North Arm. Mr. Cunningham compared this necessity with that of railways and paid a handsome compliment to the council that arranged for the entrance of the C.P.R. into Westminster. He further said the necessity of a steamboat line to the North Arm was of such apparent advantage to Westminster that it did not require further extensive notice from him. The owner of a certain steamer on the river would give a daily service to the North Arm for a subsidy of $20 per month. The board of trade had done all in its power to better the interests of the city but was at present short of funds and that body felt that the council should assist in the matter. He also called attention to the unsatisfactory mail service with up-river ports.

His worship said he agreed that the subsidy should be granted and suggested that a notice of motion be given that at the next meeting of the council a bylaw will be introduced voting six months' subsidy at $20 per month. He also thought that with Mr. Chisholm's assistance the Dominion government could be induced to pay the subsidy eventually. Personally, if the subsidy could not be given in any other way, he would be willing to contribute $20 as a means of re-establishing the line.

Ald. DeBeck gave notice that at the next meeting of the council he would introduce a motion granting a subsidy of $120 for a daily steamboat service to the North Arm for six months.

Mayor Dickinson, Ald. Elliott and Ald. DeBeck were appointed a committee to act with the board of trade in this matter.

The council then adjourned.

Titled Foreigner—"I have called, sir, to obtain your permission to address your daughter." American Pa—"Eh! Have you seen my wife or daughter on the subject!" "No, sir." "Well, I would advise you to see one or both of them first. If I should put in my ear in a case like that I wouldn't have a hair left."—Philadelphia Record.

Jones—I can't understand how it is that the relations between Canada and America are strained, as the daily papers say they are. Brown—Can't you understand it? Why, that ought to be clear enough if they're properly strained.
