YATES' CABLE.

Contains the Usual Sops of Society Gossip in England and Elsewhere.

Startling Statement that Italy was Ready to Invade France in September.

Ex-President and Mrs. Cleveland will Spend Next Summer on the Continent.

EDMUND YATES' CABLE.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—Among the Queen's presents to the Duchess of Sparta, were two Indian shawls, both extremely beautiful. The Queen's annual tribute of shawls from India consists of two kinds. Some are less valuable than others, and these are given to friends. The best are kept for members of her own family or relations.

THE SUCCESSION SAFE.

The German Empress expects her accouchment in the spring, and hence the reason she was indisposed by the long journey to Monza and thence to Athens. She and the Emperor are most anxious to have a daughter, their five sons making the succession safe, though the youngest is very delicate.

WANTS A RICH WIFE.

Prince Ferdinand has, I hear, been cruising for the hand of Princess Clementine, his mother's god-daughter, the youngest daughter of the King of the Belgians, who will have an immense fortune, her parents being rich beyond the dreams of avarice, and she is their favorite child. But King Leopold would not hear of such a match, and when the prince went to Brussels the other day he was not received at Laaken, and the only member of the royal family who called upon him at the Hotel de Flandre, was Compte de Flandre. Princess Clementine would have been betrothed to the Prince of Naples, but for the interference of the Pope.

THE GREAT ASTRONOMER.

I regret to learn that Professor John Couche Adams, the illustrious astronomer, is lying seriously ill at the observatory at Cambridge. He had what was regarded at the time as a comparatively slight apoplectic seizure on Monday last, from whith he has not rallied to the extent that was anticipated.

THE NEXT GOVERNOR.

It is understood Lord Harris will succeed Lord Redy, as governor of Bombay.

THE PLOT FAILED.

The surrender of Guedore, as the *national papers call it, has caused an ex*tremely bitter feeling among the Parnellites, and it is only because Mr. Healy was one of the parties of the transaction that the expression of their anger has been restrained within moderate bounds. The plea of guilty offered by so many of the prisoners, completely spoilt the Parnellite game. The trials at Maryborough were to be made the ground of a great attack on the administration of justice in Ireland, and to be held up as another example of castle chicanery and oppression. Even an Irish nationalist can hardly assert the innocence of men who have pleaded guilty, and so the plot for attacking the government came to naught.

A STARTLING LETTER.

PARIS, Nov. 4.—M. Deloucke, Minister Spuller's secretary, in an article in the Nineteenth Century, declares that during the recent electoral campaign in France, the Italian government, hoping for a Boulangist triumph, had 80,000 troops waiting for the signal to invade France. Deloucle further says that Crispi, the Italian prime minister, wanted England and Germany to consent to Italy sending a note to France, demanding the abandonment of the French protectorate over Tunis, in order to provoke a quarrel. England declined, and Germany, the writer believes, rebuked Crispi. The triumph of President Carnot upset the Italian's previous plans.

GOING ABROAD.

BOSTON, MASS., NOV.—A Washington despatch to the Globe says Ex-president and Mrs. Cleveland have matured plans to sail next June for Europe, where they will spend the best part of the year in travelling over the continent.

PRIZE FIGHT.

NEWBURGH, N. Y.—A rattling prize fight took place this morning at Highland Falls, between Jem Daly, of Philadelphia, and Bill Gaby of Pittsburgh, heavy weights, for a purse of $500, in which Daly proved victor in eleven rounds.

A PRODIGAL SON.

JEFFERSVILLE, Ind., Nov. 4.—Frank George, a young Englishman, will be released from states prison to-day, after serving a term for larceny. His father is a wealthy manufacturer of woolens at Brewe, England. The son is a spendthrift and his father gave him money and sent him to this country. The boy spent the money and became a tramp. He robbed a fellow tramp and was sent to jail. His father has sent him a ticket from Jeffersonville and he will start for England at once.

AN OPIUM SEIZURE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 4.—The customs officers this morning found twenty-six tins of opium in one of the staterooms of the steamer Umatilla, which arrived from Victoria and Puget Sound ports Saturday, and confiscated the drug. The room was occupied by two Seattle ladies, but no suspicion is attached to them. It is believed the opium was secreted in the engine room and afterwards removed to the state room.

A YANKEE BLUSTERER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 4.—The Mexican minister, Mr. Romero, returned to the city yesterday from accompanying the Pan-American excursion. His return was caused by advices from his government respecting the utterances made by the United States Minister Mizner to Costa Rica, upon being presented to the president of that country. Mr. Romero has received a copy of a Mexican newspaper containing Mizner's speech. The paragraph which aroused the indignation of the Mexican government, is as follows: "The states of Central America must unite, a strong federal government is your only salvation. Columbia is massing her troops on the southern border of Costa Rica. Mexico has her covetous eye on Guatemala. It will only be a short time before Columbia will seek to seize your state and Mexico will seize Guatemala, and Central America will be blotted from the maps and her identity sunk in that of Columbia and Mexico. The time is drawing near when only the most energetic action in federating Central America can save your freedom." Mr. Romero declined to be interviewed today on the subject or what action he would take, but it is understood, however, that his government has instructed him to request Mizner's recall, as his uncalled for remarks have offended a friendly power. Mr. Romero will call on Secretary Blaine to-morrow and call his attention officially to the matter.

BRADLAUGH RECOVERING.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—Bradlaugh is suffering from congestion of the lungs. A few days ago he suffered a relapse, but is again recovering.

THE SENTENCE CONFIRMED.

DUBLIN, Nov. 4.—The appeal court confirmed the sentence of Father O'Dwyer and seven others, convicted at Fermoy of offences under the crimes act. The court has also added two months to the sentence imposed upon Cahiel.

INTOLERANT WORKMEN.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—The union men employed on export docks refused to work unless the company's permanent employees join the dock laborers' union. This the non-union men refused to do and a deadlock resulted. Scores of ships are lying idle, it being impossible to get men to handle the cargoes.

THE WILD NORTH ATLANTIC.

GLASGOW, Nov. 4.—The steamship Manitoba, from Philadelphia to Glasgow, arrived in the Clyde, dismasted and otherwise disabled.

BARING BROS. ADVISE.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—The Barings have sent circulars to the Atchison bondholders advising them to accept the directors' reorganization scheme.

EQUATORIAL AFRICAN CONQUESTS.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—News brought by Capt. Misman to Zanzibar, leaves no doubt that the last equatorial province which remained true to Egypt has been conquered by the Arabs, and this accounts for the fact that Emir Pasha, its heroic governor, is with Stanley on the way to the east coast. Mahidists had long threatened to seize this fertile tract, and no doubt occupied it in such numbers that resistance was useless. This result had been anticipated by Stanley, and he had accordingly urged Emir to depart with him. Emir, reluctant to abandon his government and his faithful people, at first refused, but he has now been compelled to accept Stanley,s offer, and may be expected to arrive at Zanzibar before the end of the year.

VICTORIA NEWS.

Mines Bonded by Mackay's Representatives.--Gold from Cassiar.--Rich Gold Strike in Omineca.

Special to THE COLUMBIAN.

VICTORIA, Nov. 5.—Yesterday was the fourteenth anniversary of the loss of the steamer Pacific, off Cape Flattery, with 400 souls.

No. 1 mine at Warm Spring, Kootenay, has been bonded by J. W. Mackay's representatives.

The Corona brought $75,000 in gold from the north, $12,000 being from Cassiar.

It is proposed to hold a grand summer carnival here next July or August.

Capt. O'Brien, of the Premier, denies the statement that he failed to return the salute of the warship at Vancouver.

Capt. Palmer, of C battery, received news of his father's death yesterday.

A rich gold strike has been made by an Indian in the Omineca district.

CORRESPONDENCE.

These Greedy Land Grabbers.

EDITOR COLUMBIAN.—Sir: Since handing you report of our first meeting it has come to my knowledge that the New Westminster Southern Railway Co. have really settled with "one" land-owner along right-of-way in Surrey. I will give you the facts of his case, that the public may be able to judge of the "generous" treatment we are receiving at the hands of said company, and also see for themselves which party the term of "Greedy land-grabbers" is most appropriate to (I refer to report in a New Westminster paper in which it was stated that the company were making satisfactory arrangements re right-of-way, with the exception of a couple of "Greedy land-owners" in Surrey).

The party whom the company have settled with owns 160 acres, situated on a good road. The right-of-way runs along the whole front of said lot, taking off over six acres of first-class land and damaging balance of property by the high grade thrown up between it and the road. Said owner had himself cleared about two acres on right-of-way, part at a cost of over $100 per acre, and I understand this was the only piece of land he had to depend on for his living.

Now, Mr. Editor, this man stated to the company's agents that he was poor, with a family to support, and therefore not in a position to defend his rights, and agreed to leave his case in their hands, trusting to them as honorable gentlemen to give him a fair compensation for damage done and land taken from him. The "generous" offer made him was the immense sum of $20 (twenty dollars) which, not meeting with his approval, was increased to $25 (twenty-five dollars), but mark, Mr. Editor, this amount was not paid down in crisp greenbacks, only promised on receipt of deed renouncing all claims on the company, which they were well aware could not be presented until later on when the owner is in a position to obtain his title from the land office.

These are facts, as stated by said landowner before two witnesses, and I, therefore, trust you will find space for them in your valuable paper, and oblige

A SURREY LAND-OWNER.

Surrey Land-Owners Meet Again.

A second meeting of the Surrey land-owners along the proposed right-of-way of the N. W. S. Ry. Co. was held at Clayton on Friday last. After minutes of last meeting were read and adopted, solicitor's opinion re right-of-way was received and considered, but it was agreed to obtain further information before taking decisive steps in the matter, and with that intent the meeting was adjourned to Saturday, Nov. 9th.—COM.

Job printing of all kinds neatly done at the COLUMBIAN office. Prices will be found as low as at any other office in the province.—Adv.

CITY COUNCIL.

The council met on Monday evening for the transaction of business. Present — Aldermen Cunningham, Ewen, Calbick, Keary, Reid, McPhaden, Shiles, Jaques.

Ald. Curtis, in the chair.

The minutes of last meeting were amended in regard to the sidewalk on Edinburgh street, which is to be built on the east side as far as the gas works.

COMMUNICATIONS.

E. S. Scoullar & Co., asking permission to open up a portion of Merivale street opposite the late residence of Mrs. Dr. Black, for the purpose of connecting a drain. Granted under the usual condition.

A. J. McColl, asking permission to plant some trees around his house and asking the necessary grades. On motion referred to the board of works to deal with.

Henry T. Thrift, acknowledging receipt of and accepting council's invitation to attend the reception to the governor-general. Received and filed.

F. Raith, asking that a sum of money be granted the woman lately brought here from Cariboo, in order to enable her to return to that place.

Ald. Jaques said it was the duty of the provincial government to pay her way back, as theyhad landed her down here on a trumped up charge, and they ought to look to it as Westminster should not be made to suffer for the provincial government's blunders.

Ald. Curtis said the council ought to assist the woman to get the government awakened to a sense of its duty. The clerk was instructed to apply to government for assistance.

From John McKenzie, re the sidewalk in front of the shool house, asking the street lines.

Ald. Jaques said the engineer was getting out the plans for this place. On motion it was referred to the board of works with power to act.

Hon. E. Dewdney, stating that the question of the Mission bridge was settled as the city council desired. Received and filed, and the clerk instructed to return the thanks of the council to Mr. Dewdney for his kind efforts.

From R Anderson, asking position on the city police force. Referred to police committee.

From R. H. Batt, asking permission to use a portion of Blackie street during the removal of the house lately occupied by Wilcox. Permission granted under usual conditions.

From H. Abbott, in regard to the warden of the penitentiary having taken exception to a building erected by the C. P. R. within the right of way.

Ald. Jaques said the warden intends to build a good road through this way.

Ald. Keary said the warden had notified Messrs. Laidlaw and DeBeck to remove all buildings off the front of the penitentiary reserve.

Ald. Reid said Messrs. Laidlaw and DeBeck had leased the ground from Mr. Abbott for a number of years.

Communication received and laid on the table and board of works was instructed to define lines on the penitentiary reserve.

H. H. Williams, asking permission to construct an underground drain in front of lot 55, block 2. Referred to board of works with power to act.

From R. W. McIntosh, in regard to the debris trown up by the making of the flume, and saying that he held city responsible for the damage done.

Ald. Jaques said there was a lot of builders' material on the ground, and that Mr. McIntosh had built his door lower than the grade of Front street.

Ald. Reid said it was a very difficult matter to put this place in good order; the only way was to raise a bank of earth two or three feet high in front of the door so as to prevent the water running in.

Ald. Jaques said the slant of the hill and the difficulties in the way made it hard for them to act; and he didn't believe Mr. McIntosh could get a cent out of them for it, and he could go ahead and sue and be hanged. Referred to the board of works with power to act.

From Fire and Water, a New York journal, asking for an advertisement of the water works constitution. Received and referred to water committee with power to act.

A petition was read asking for the construction of a street connecting Montreal and Melbourne streets, parallel with John and Douglas streets. Received and filed.

From the secretary of the commander-in-chief at Esquimalt notifying the council that the string band applied for could not be sent. Received and filed.

Ald. Keary said that it was likely Liberati's band would be present and provide the music for the occasion.

From Joseph Burr, requesting that a drain be placed on the lower side of Queen's avenue from John street to Douglas street. Received and referred to the board of works with power to act.

From Lieut.-Col. Holmes, replying to a communication in regard to the militia turning out as a guard of honor to the governor-general, and saying that permission had been granted. Received and filed.

From the Royal City Planing Mills Co., offering to fill up Fortesque st. to the required level with slabs, edgings and sawdust for $800.

Ald. Jaques said the R. C. P. M. Co. intend putting up a burner similar to that at the Brunette Sawmills if they fail to obtain the contract for filling the streets. Should they do so, it would be a very serious business for the city, as it would take thousands of dollars and an immense amount of labor and time to fill up that street with earth. Referred to the board of works.

From J. J. Cambridge, applying for position as keeper of the park and buildings and giving references, also enclosing a petition numerously signed. Referred to the park committee to report on at next meeting.

Ald. Keary said he would like to hear from the chairman of the park committee what had been done about the appointment.

Ald. Cunningham said a temporary man was working there at $2 a day, and that no regular appointment had been made yet.

The chairman said all the members of the council should have something to say about this appointment, and not the members of the park committee alone. It was a matter of some consequence to the city and a judicious selection of a man was eminently necessary.

From the Gordon Steam Pump Co., in regard to supplying pumps for the water works. Referred to water committee.

REPORTS.

Ald. Curtis reported for the finance committee that they had consulted Mr. Douglas about the ferry, and that gentleman had informed him that they were awaiting the return of Mr. Bennett, from New York when the question would be definitely settled. Report adopted.

ACCOUNTS.

BRITISH COLUMBIAN, $204.13; W. E. Fales, $13; B. C. Gazette, $8.60; T. J. Trapp & Co., $7.60; W. & G. Wolfenden, $88.75.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

The plan of the new fire hall again came up for discussion.

Ald. Reid said the hall had been ordered to be erected four months ago, bnt nothinghad been done.

Ald. Keary said it looked as if the aldermen had a pretty big bank at their disposal by the way they were flinging money around.

The clerk read the specifications.

Ald. Curtis said he did not think it a wise move to place the engine at the place designated, as he thought they could get up steam more quickly running down Columbia street.

Ald. Jaques and Reid differed from this opinion, and the latter said the engine was at the best possible place in the event of a fire in the central or business portion of the city; it was equi distant from all the principal places of business.

Ald. Jaques said this question had been pretty thoroughly threshed out at former meetings.

Ald. Reid said the most important thing in having the engine down there was that there had been great trouble experienced in getting the engine to the river and tested for practice, and it was a most important thing to know that the engine was in good working order. If the engine were over the water it could be tested at any time.

Ald. Keary wanted to know where all the money for this expenditure was coming from.

Ald. Jaques said it would be better to spend a few dollars now than lose fifty thousand if a great fire should sweep the city from existence. Winter is the most dangerous period of the year, as everybody has fires going in the houses.

Ald. Reid said he felt it his duty as chairman of the fire committee to advocate to the best of his power the advisability of efficiently protecting the city from fire.

Ald. Cunningham entirely concurred in Ald. Reid's views, and said that if the water works were going to make a change in the fire service it should also make a material change on the plan of the building, which was, in his opinion, too light. The statement that Ald. Jaques had just made about the engine not being in order, was a most serious one, and ought to be looked to immediately. It was a most momentous question and touched the most vital interests of the city.

Ald. Shiles said the only objection he had to the scheme was the money, and thought if the water works came through, Columbia street would be the best place for the engine house. This was objected to by Ald. Jaques and Reid, who maintained that Front st. was the place to have it. Ald. Reid and Jaques asked that their names be entered as having voted for the adoption of the plans. It was moved that the plans be referred back for alterations and come up at next meeting.

The pound bylaw was, on motion, laid over for the new council to take action on.

Ald. Jaques made a pathetic speech on the bad behaviour of the city cows, which were breaking down the sidewalks and fences and browsed in gardens at their own sweet will.

The street naming and numbering by-law came up, and Ald. Jaques moved that the by-law be laid over and Ald. McPhaden report on it fifteen years hence. The bylaw was laid over another week.

Moved by Ald. Keary, seconded by Ald. Shiles, that the loan bylaw be laid over till next meeting. Carried.

Moved by Ald. Keary, seconded by Ald. Cunningham, that the case of the paralyzed man, Simonson, be referred to the health committee with power. Carried.

A petition was read asking for the construction of a street connecting Montreal and Melbourne streets, parallel with John and Douglas streets. Received and filed.

From the secretary of the commander-in-chief at Esquimalt notifying the council that the string band applied for could not be sent. Received and filed.

Ald. Keary said that it was likely Liberati's band would be present and provide the music for the occasion.

From Joseph Burr, requesting that a drain be placed on the lower side of Queen's avenue from John street to Douglas street. Received and referred to the board of works with power to act.

From Lieut.-Col. Holmes, replying to a communication in regard to the militia turning out as a guard of honor to the governor-general, and saying that permission had been granted. Received and filed.

From the Royal City Planing Mills Co., offering to fill up Fortesque st. to the required level with slabs, edgings and sawdust for $800.

Ald. Jaques said the R. C. P. M. Co. intend putting up a burner similar to that at the Brunette Sawmills if they fail to obtain the contract for filling the streets. Should they do so, it would be a very serious business for the city, as it would take thousands of dollars and an immense amount of labor and time to fill up that street with earth. Referred to the board of works.

From J. J. Cambridge, applying for position as keeper of the park and buildings and giving references, also enclosing a petition numerously signed. Referred to the park committee to report on at next meeting.

Ald. Keary said he would like to hear from the chairman of the park committee what had been done about the appointment.

Ald. Cunningham said a temporary man was working there at $2 a day, and that no regular appointment had been made yet.

The chairman said all the members of the council should have something to say about this appointment, and not the members of the park committee alone. It was a matter of some consequence to the city and a judicious selection of a man was eminently necessary.

From the Gordon Steam Pump Co., in regard to supplying pumps for the water works. Referred to water committee.

REPORTS.

Ald. Curtis reported for the finance committee that they had consulted Mr. Douglas about the ferry, and that gentleman had informed him that they were awaiting the return of Mr. Bennett, from New York when the question would be definitely settled. Report adopted.

ACCOUNTS.

BRITISH COLUMBIAN, $204.13; W. E. Fales, $13; B. C. Gazette, $8.60; T. J. Trapp & Co., $7.60; W. & G. Wolfenden, $88.75.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

The plan of the new fire hall again came up for discussion.

Ald. Reid said the hall had been ordered to be erected four months ago, bnt nothinghad been done.

Ald. Keary said it looked as if the aldermen had a pretty big bank at their disposal by the way they were flinging money around.

The clerk read the specifications.

Ald. Curtis said he did not think it a wise move to place the engine at the place designated, as he thought they could get up steam more quickly running down Columbia street.

Ald. Jaques and Reid differed from this opinion, and the latter said the engine was at the best possible place in the event of a fire in the central or business portion of the city; it was equi distant from all the principal places of business.

Ald. Jaques said this question had been pretty thoroughly threshed out at former meetings.

Ald. Reid said the most important thing in having the engine down there was that there had been great trouble experienced in getting the engine to the river and tested for practice, and it was a most important thing to know that the engine was in good working order. If the engine were over the water it could be tested at any time.

Ald. Keary wanted to know where all the money for this expenditure was coming from.

Ald. Jaques said it would be better to spend a few dollars now than lose fifty thousand if a great fire should sweep the city from existence. Winter is the most dangerous period of the year, as everybody has fires going in the houses.

Ald. Reid said he felt it his duty as chairman of the fire committee to advocate to the best of his power the advisability of efficiently protecting the city from fire.

Ald. Cunningham entirely concurred in Ald. Reid's views, and said that if the water works were going to make a change in the fire service it should also make a material change on the plan of the building, which was, in his opinion, too light. The statement that Ald. Jaques had just made about the engine not being in order, was a most serious one, and ought to be looked to immediately. It was a most momentous question and touched the most vital interests of the city.

Ald. Shiles said the only objection he had to the scheme was the money, and thought if the water works came through, Columbia street would be the best place for the engine house. This was objected to by Ald. Jaques and Reid, who maintained that Front st. was the place to have it. Ald. Reid and Jaques asked that their names be entered as having voted for the adoption of the plans. It was moved that the plans be referred back for alterations and come up at next meeting.

The pound bylaw was, on motion, laid over for the new council to take action on.

Ald. Jaques made a pathetic speech on the bad behaviour of the city cows, which were breaking down the sidewalks and fences and browsed in gardens at their own sweet will.

The street naming and numbering by-law came up, and Ald. Jaques moved that the by-law be laid over and Ald. McPhaden report on it fifteen years hence. The bylaw was laid over another week.

Moved by Ald. Keary, seconded by Ald. Shiles, that the loan bylaw be laid over till next meeting. Carried.

Moved by Ald. Keary, seconded by Ald. Cunningham, that the case of the paralyzed man, Simonson, be referred to the health committee with power. Carried.

Several of the aldermen spoke strongly on the subject, saying that the condition of the man was a disgrace to this city and he ought to be cared for.

Moved by Ald. Shiles, seconded by Ald. Jaques, that this council has learned with deep regret of the sudden death of Robert Dickinson, Esq., one of the pioneers of this city, and a gentleman who has for many years and with much acceptance filled an important place in the counsels of this corporation; and the council desires to convey to the widow and family of the deceased gentleman an expression of its profound sorrow at the loss they and the city have sustained; and of sympathy with them in their bereavement. Carried nem. con by a standing vote.

It was proposed by Ald. Jaques that the governor-general be entertained with a game of lacrosse between the Victoria and New Westminster clubs, but after a good deal of discussion the matter was left in the hands of the committee. His excellency will arrive about 5 o'clock in the evening and will be received at the dock. One of the aldermen asked how he should be received, and the chairman said that was easy enough; they wouldn't stand with their hats in their hand and their thumbs in their mouths he guessed.

Council adjourned a few minutes after ten o'clock.

The trial of the man Harvey, who murdered his wife and two children, was finished at Guelph, Ont., on Saturday. Strong efforts were made to prove he was insane through money troubles at the time of his terrible deed; but the jury, after a short deliberation, returned a verdict of "Guilty," and Judge Street sentenced Harvey to be hanged.

Notice was given in the Canada Gazette, Ottawa, Saturday, by Clarke Wallace, grand master, and Thomas Keyes, grand secretary, that application will be made at the next session of the Dominion parliament for an act to incorporate the loyal orange association of British America.

TO-MORROW, the governor-general, Lord Stanley of Preston, her majesty's representative in Canada, will arrive in the royal city on his official visit, and it behooves us to give him and his noble and amiable consort, both as our distinguished visitors and as representatives of the queen, at least a cordial welcome, which will go far to make up for the lack of magnificence in the preparations. A brief personal sketch of the governor-general, with a mention of Lady Stanley, will not be uninteresting. Frederick Arthur Stanley, G.C.B., first Baron Stanley of Preston, was born in the year 1841, and is of noble lineage, being the second son of the fourteenth Earl of Derby, popularly known as the "Rupert of debate," who was in his day prime minister of England, and a more than usually brilliant public man. Another far back ancestor, the founder of the house of Derby, was the Lord Stanley who, on the famous Bosworth Field of the latter end of the fifteenth century, went over with all his forces from Richard III. to the Earl of Richmond (afterward Henry VII.), at the imminent risk of his son, Lord Strange's, head. The present earl, the elder brother of Lord Stanley, has now practically retired from public life, although at one time hopes were entertained that, like his father, he would lead the Conservative party. The earl, however, was by no means a robust Tory, and his hard-headed common sense would not permit him to agree with the "gunpowder and glory" policy of Lord Beaconsfield, and thus it happened that he left that statesman's ministry, and ultimately took his place on the Liberal benches of the house of lords. In the Gladstone ministry of 1882 Lord Derby had a place, but, being, unable to acquiesce in the Home Rule measure of 1886, he retired from public life and has since been little heard of on political questions. Lord Stanley of Preston, governor-general of this Canada of ours, received his title as lately as 1886, having previously filled high office in the United Kingdom. In 1858 he joined the Grenadier Guards, from which regiment he retired in 1865. He has ever evinced, however, a strong interest in military affairs, and is honorary colonel of the Royal Lancaster regiment. He first entered parliament twenty-four years ago, as member for Preston, and has also sat for North Lancaster. In 1868 he became a lord of the admiralty, and from 1874 to 1877 was secretary for war, leaving that office to become financial secretary to the treasury. In 1878 Mr. Gathone Hardy was raised to the peerage, and Colonel Stanley took the secretaryship for war, at the same time becoming a privy councillor. Since then he has been secretary for the colonies and president of the board of trade in Lord Salisbury's administrations. He is a ripe scholar and an old Etonian, but is a graduate of neither of the great English universities. He married in 1864 Lady Constance, eldest daughter of the 4th Earl of Clarendon, K.C. Of the marriage there are eight children living, seven boys and one girl.

From this brief sketch it will be seen that the governor-general is a man well fitted by birth, education, and knowledge of affairs to fill the high position he occupies as viceroy of the Queen. In his person he unites the amiability of the polished gentleman with the precision of the high official, and in him we discern those qualities which should go with the man who sits in the queen's place. It is no sinecure which the governor-general of the Dominion is called upon to fill, and no man unless uniting in himself the courtesy of the politician as well as the wisdom of the trained statesman, would ever fill the office with justice to our country, with credit to himself, or with honor to the British Empire. It is because we see in Lord Stanley of Preston a man of attainments, of marked individuality, of courteous presence and of large experience, and because he is the chosen representative of our gracious Queen, that we hail him with hearty welcome to the Royal City, giving him that loyal greeting which our devotion to the throne calls for.

God Save the Queen.

A BRIDGE across the English Channel, joining France with England by rail, is now, says the Scientific American, considered feasible by some of the most eminent engineers of those countries. Such men have declared their willingness to undertake the construction, and financiers of adequate resources have offered to raise the necessary funds for its completion. Such a bridge would shorten the trip from Paris to London, including the Channel crossing, to five hours, where now from nine to eleven hours are required by way of the Strait of Dover, a bit of water which, as every traveller knows, has more tumble and pitch and roll in it than any similar stretch of travelled highway the world over. The project being now looked upon with favor by engineers and financiers, the question is left for parliament to decide—one of political expediency; and as, from a practical standpoint, it brings up the same issues that were involved in the Channel tunnel project, there yet remains one obstacle at least in the way of its accomplishment. The subject was brought to the attention of the recent meeting, at Paris, of the Iron and Steel Institute, by the reading of a paper by M. Henri Schneider, entitled, "The Channel Bridge, Preliminary Designs by Messrs. Schneider & Co. (Creusot Iron Works) and H. Hersent," the title page, by authority, bearing the names of Sir John Fowler and Benjamin Baker. The two last mentioned are the engineers of the Forth bridge, one of the most remarkable engineering feats of the day; and the fact that they are willing to guarantee the feasibility of the Channel bridge, and that "a great financier in Paris, one who could do almost anything in the way of money," told Sir James Kitson, the president of the institute, that "he would find the money," removes it from the category of schemes which, at least in public estimation, are labeled "visionary." The plan is to constrnct a steel structure across the Channel from Folkestone to Cape Grisnez, a distance of 24½ miles, and though not the narrowest part of that tempestuous waterway—from Dover to Calais is only about 20 miles—it is the shallowest and hence the best suited for bridge construction. On this line the deepest water is about 30 fathoms (180 feet). A million tons of metal would be required, the total cost being estimated at $170,000,000 (£34,000,000), and the time necessary ten years. The white and blue chalk with an underlying base of slate forming the channel bottom is, it is said, capable of sustaining a weight of about 10 tons per square foot. The piers, of solid masonry and raised above high water mark, are to be rectangles, each 82 feet long, the other dimensions to suit the substructure. Upon these will rest metal columns to carry the superstructure high enough to allow of free navigation below. M. Schneider says: "The surface (of supporting piers) in contact with the ground may be 1,604 square meters (17,265 square feet) or less, according to depth. The masonry will be built inside metal caissons forced by compressed air down to the solid ground. The cassions will be surmounted by metal cases surrounding the masonry, and will serve to float the piers until they touch the ground." To build a solid pier of masonry in the boisterous and rolling seas of the English Channel would seem, indeed, almost beyond the power of man, but this plan of M. Schneider's of building the piers in still water in metal caissons and floating them out to their places obviates the difficulty. Nor is it so bold as would appear, for he points out the fact that, at Toulon, immense masses of brickwork, sometimes as much as 100,000 tons weight, have been floated for months. Indeed, he says that, if a pier when sunk is found to be out of position, it can be floated again and resunk. The spans are to be from 900 to 1,500 feet, with a central independent span, by which a saving of about 17 per cent. in weight may be effected.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Sir Francis de Winton, late Governor of the Congo State, says that, in spite of the scores of explorers who have been traversing Africa in all directions since Livingstone began his travels, the larger part of the many millions of natives have never yet seen a white man. As we trace the routes of explorers on the map we see that their tracks make merely a network over Africa, and that there are enormous unvisited spaces between the lines. As yet we can only infer what large regions and the people who live in them are like from the reports of a single traveller who has hurriedly passed through the country.

At a missionary council of the Episcopal convention in New York, recently, Bishop Johnston, the missionary bishop of Western Texas, gave an address which will stir the dry bones in the church if anything will. Among other things he said: "This great church of ours, with its four hundred thousand communicants, at the close of the present year, in September, will have given $125,000 to western mission work, a contribution of less than than thirty cents a head. We had to call upon the dead to make up the $180,000 of our appropriation. Our great need is what the Methodists call a revival of true and undefiled religion. Our church needs a John the Baptist. I am not ashamed to say it—I would to God this church had life enough to produce even another John Wesley. We have some thing better to do, my brethren, than tinkering canons and preaching the prayer-book. Our old men should dream dreams—not of corners, trusts, villas on the Hudson, palaces, falsely called cottages, by the sea, and steam yachts on the sound. They should be dreaming how the world may be reclaimed for the Redeemer—of how it is that after eighteen centuries of the Gospel more than two-thirds of the human family have not effectively heard of Him. Our young men should be dreaming, not how they should accumulate wealth, but of a world converted to God and made a fit habitation for the Son of God. Our ministers should not be crying for soft places in Eastern communities, but for a chance to go to the frontier in the master's work."

A-CHESTNUTTING.

A-chestnutting with Madge I went,
And took her basket on my arm;
She was the sweet embodiment
Of innocence that knows no harm.

I chaffed the squirrel that we met,
Helped her at fences safely o'er;
The playful chipmunk won't forget
How close we followed to his door.

Our baskets with plump nuts we piled,
I filled her apron with them, too;
And when I shook the tree, she smiled
To think how fast our harvest grew.

How clear, upon that autumn day,
The sky's expanse of cloudless space!
We loitered on our homeward way—
A sunny smile lit up her face.

Taking two chestnuts from our store
We tried the philopena's lot.
I think it pleased her all the more
To find that I its favor got.

"What gift," she asked, "must I procure?"
And, hinting what my heart had planned,
I answered: "Love, which shall endure"—
And so I won her heart and hand!
—Joel Benton, in Once a Week.

REVENGED.

How Two Scouts Got the Upper-Hand of the Hostiles.

From Fort Abraham Lincoln to Fort Sully, both on the upper Missouri river, is a bee line of one hundred and sixty miles, but the distance as a rider has to make it is fully two hundred. It is on record that the first dispatch passing between those posts was carried in my pocket, and that at a time when hostile Indians almost besieged both forts. It was on this ride, and about forty miles above Sully, that a strange incident occurred. From Fort Union to Yanktown, a distance of six hundred miles, the Missouri runs along a chain of mountains on the east, while on the west side there is scarcely a hill to be found. While the route down the east bank is naturally more difficult, it is also more sheltered, and that was the route I took on the occasion referred to. While there were plenty of Indians in the mountains and in the mountain valleys, there were more of them on the plains, and my journey was considered such a forlorn hope that wagers were made at Fort Lincoln that I would never be heard of again.

I had a mustang which had traveled over more of the country than any man living, and, in all matters pertaining to frontier life, he was as well posted as four men out of five. Armed with a Winchester and revolver, and rather proud to have been the one selected out of five scouts to make the trip, I left Fort Lincoln just at dusk one evening in July, and proceeded five miles down the river before crossing over. A reconnoissance in force a day or two before had driven the hostiles back, but I might count on finding them within seven or eight miles. I had scarcely forded the river when a mule, which had evidently been in hiding in a thicket near by, came forward with a low whinny and appeared greatly pleased to see us. A brief inspection proved that he belonged to a scout named Abner Johnson, who had been dispatched from Fort Lincoln to Fort Ransome, a hundred and fifty miles to the east, ten or twelve days before. The saddle was in place, blanket, coffee-pot and other articles secured as usual, and the bridle was intact. I was satisfied that Johnson had been shot from the saddle. Nothing could have induced the mule to run away from him while alive. The animal, as I figured it, was making for the fort, and was about fording the stream when the noise of our passage alarmed him and he hid himself to see whether it was friend or enemy. I sought to drive him into the water and on his way, but he was determined to accompany me, and, after finding him obstinate, I slipped the iron bit out of his mouth, that he might snatch at the grass, and rode off, with him a close follower.

Between the river and the foothills there was a level varying in width from fifty to five hundred feet. This was grown to grass. Along the bank of the stream, with hardly a break for miles and miles, was a line of trees and bushes. The foothills were covered with scrub growth, and between them and the base of the range there was fair traveling and good cover. At every mile or two there were breaks in the foothills by which one could turn in from the level. I did not intend to travel far that night, the main object being to get beyond the hostile lines and take an early start next morning. Up to the time of crossing the river my mustang's feet had been muffled with oat sacks, so that he could leave no trail. There had been no rain for two or three weeks, and no living Indian could have traced me. Once across the stream I removed the bags. I should leave a plain trail, but must thereafter trust to luck and my own sagacity. It was a starlight night, and as I rode forward I routed up a deer or other wild game every fifty rods. This satisfied me that no Indians were near, and I continued my ride until midnight. By this time I was at least twenty miles below the fort, and I went into camp to wait for daylight. Going into camp consisted of unsaddling the two animals, rolling myself in a blanket, and plumping down at the roots of a cottonwood. I was asleep in five minutes, and when I opened my eyes it was daylight.

The animals were close at hand, and each had his nose in the air and was scenting like a dog. I was hardly on my feet before I smelled fire. There was a light breeze blowing up the valley, and the camp-fire was below me, or in the direction I proposed to go. I moved into the belt of timber and began to crawl forward for an observation, and after going about a quarter of a mile I saw the smoke. I waited five minutes before advancing nearer, but seeing no movement, I crept forward. I saw the body of a white man lying on the ground under the trees. I knew it was, by the dress, and now, thinking that I had come upon a Government scout or some white hunter, I rose up and advanced into the camp. No man ever made a more appalling discovery. It was the body of Abner Johnson, dead and horribly mutilated, and between him and the river, a distance of twenty feet, lay the dead bodies of nine Indian warriors. While a glance sufficed to prove that they were dead, it took me some time to satisfy myself as to the cause. I finally found a stone bottle, holding about two quarts, which I remembered to have seen in Johnson's possession. It had contained whisky, but was now empty. The posture of the bodies was proof that every warrior had died of poison, but I did not know until a month that Johnson fixed up the dose before leaving Fort Ransome on his return. He seemed to have a presentiment that he would be captured, and he bought two quarts of whisky and dosed it with strychnine, knowing that it would surely revenge him.

Johnson had evidently been driven out of his direct course. As I saw by scouting over the ground, he was well in the lead of his nine pursuers when a chance shot from a rifle struck him in the right hip and tumbled him from his saddle. His mule had gone on and the Indians had gone into camp to torture the wounded man. They had cut off his left ear, gashed his cheeks, severed three or four toes, and inflicted other cruelties when the poison which they had imbibed in the whisky began to work. There must have been a high old time among them for half an hour, during which interval the prisoner probably bled to death. Johnson's eyes were wide open, and if the eyes of the dead can reflect any thing his surely reflected exultation. The ponies of the Indians were in a grassy dell a quarter of a mile away, and each were hobbled. It seemed an awful wicked thing to do, but I approached each one in turn and drove my knife to his heart. Then I gathered up saddles and blankets and lariats and flung them into the river. I took the rifles, tomahawks, knives, wampum and headdresses of the nine warriors and made up a load for the mule, and after covering Johnson's body with brush and stones to keep it from the vultures, I went forward on my journey, which was completed without a further incident worth mentioning.

A couple of years later I was transferred to Fort Davis, in the Guadulupe Mountains of Texas, and in the Apache country. A commission was sent to the East to locate a post on the Rio Pecos river, and as the country was full of hostiles the party was made pretty strong. There were six scouts, thirty private soldiers, three or four officers, and some seven or eight prospectors and hunters and trappers who wanted to get sight of that country. The distance from the fort to the river is about sixty miles, and all open country, and we were accompanied by two wagons and an ambulance. While we did not number over fifty all told, each man was heavily armed and well mounted, and five hundred Indians would have hesitated to attack us in the open. All the scouts were paired off, and the name of my partner was Calvin. He was a rough and rugged man of fifty, and most of his life had been spent in the Indian country. He had had a dozen of close calls, and the scars he could show in proof counted up a dozen or more. I did not know until we had started on the march that he had prepared any trick against the Indians, who would be sure to menace us, but at our first camp he showed me a canteen of whisky, which he said was poisoned. He had about half a pound of smoking tobacco in a bag, and poison had been mixed with this. While the rest of us hated Indians as bad as Calvin did, no one else had prepared any such weapons. Indeed it was not looked upon as exactly honorable in a white man.

We reached Rio Pecos, opposite Corporal's Peak of the Castile Mountains, without being annoyed by the Apaches, although we saw numbers of their scouts and had no doubt that a considerable force was hanging on our flanks. We made our camp in a defensive spot, and, after a rest, small parties scouted up and down the river to examine the lay of the country. On the third day Calvin and myself, accompanied by a corporal and two private soldiers, rode up the Pecos about ten miles, crossed over, and started to come down on the other side. The ground was more broken on the north side, and we had hardly turned to go down stream when we found the redskins more numerous and far bolder. The soldiers had seven-shooter carbines and Calvin and I had Winchesters, and we felt no alarm even when we knew the Indians to number fully one hundred. An ambush was the only thing to be dreaded, and we got into one in spite of our vigilance. Two miles below where we crossed the river the ground became very rough and was cut up into gullies. This extended from the river back as far as we could see, and we could not flank it. We could have crossed the river here, but our orders were to come down on the north bank. Every man knew that if the Indians meant to attack they would do it here, and the first notice would be a volley from one of the blind ravines.

In this emergency we strung out in single file, the corporal leading, Calvin next, I third and the two privates making fourth and fifth. We had not advanced forty rods into the "bad ground," and had not caught sight of so much as an Indian's feather when we received a volley from twenty-five Indians in a gulch. They were only two hundred feet away, and one would have thought every man of us would have been riddled. On the contrary, however, the last three of us were untouched, and not one of our horses was hit. The corporal and Calvin were both wounded and their horses killed. Simultaneously with the volley a hundred or more Indians exhibited themselves in front and on our left, shouting and firing. In such an emergency every man acts for himself. The three of us wheeled and retreated as fast as our frightened horses could run, all the time under fire. But as soon as we had cleared the "bad ground" we took shelter in a small grove on the edge of the stream and prepared for defense. We were charged by sixty or seventy warriors on foot, who perhaps imagined us badly frightened, but we pegged away at them so steadily that they broke and took to cover, leaving six dead men in plain view.

This was at ten o'clock in the morning, and we did not get another glimpse of an Indian until four in the afternoon, when I climbed one of the trees and saw a body of them making off to the mountain. I then made a scout of the neighborhood, and soon ascertained what had occurred. Both Calvin and the corporal had been put to the torture, but they had been amply revenged. The six we had killed lay where they fell, as our fire commanded the spot. We found, in a sort of pocket, covered with bushes and limbs, eleven other dead, every one of whom had died of poison. One was Chief White Bird, a noted warrior, and the others were veteran warriors of his band. The bottle was empty and the tobacco bag had been turned wrong side out. Three or four years afterward I met an Apache who was present on that occasion and he said that White Bird and his chosen few drank the whisky and then smoked their pipes while the others were making the prisoners ready for torture. The corporal died before they could make ready, and when the warriors began to die of the poison Calvin was soon dispatched by a blow of a tomahawk. The bodies were badly mutilated, but it was mostly after death. The band lost seventeen to our two, and was so disheartened that it retreated and went into mourning for weeks.—N. Y. Sun.

EXERCISE AT HOME.

A Large Class Unprovided with Means of Proper Daily Exercise.

Men and boys ride horses, row boats, climb hills, dance, play ball and skate for exercise, says the Phrenological Journal. Women and girls do much the same, substituting lawn tennis for base-ball. Little boys and girls may fly kites, roll hoops—in fair weather—and so keep the blood from stagnating in their living bodies. So far, so good. But there is a large class still unprovided with the means for proper daily exercises, such as men of sedentary habits, clergymen, lawyers, editors, teachers, authors and children who do not have playgrounds, and who can not safely go into the streets to exercise. The health lift meets certain cases and is useful; the ten-pin alley when separated from smoking, drinking and betting affords healthful exercise. The same, though to a less extent, may be claimed for billiards. Then there is the coarser exercise of boxing, which is chiefly used by "sports" and the "fancy," to the disgust of respectable people. And yet, even the clergy might derive real benefits from going through the exercise which pugilists take while being fitted for the "ring," or those forms of exercise supplied by cheap gymnastic apparatus which can be obtained new and easily set up in a room at home.

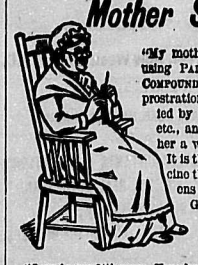
The short sword, or foil, is another sort of exercise in which muscle may be developed.

When lecturing in Mobile, Ala., some years ago, a Mr. Pomeroy informed us that he and his family, consisting of wife and several children, had suffered much from illness, and that his expenses for medical attendance had been large for several years previous to his building a "play-house" in which each and every member, from a three-year-old baby up to servants, wife and himself, took regular daily exercise of from ten minutes to half an hour. Since that time, now more than two years, not a moment's illness worth attention had been suffered by any single member. He assured us that this, with hygienic living, had enabled the family to dispense with doctors and drugs at a saving of a considerable sum.

Children are dying among us for want of exercise and pure air. They become fretful, mischievous, disobedient and troublesome, when, if they could climb a rope, sailor fashion, and inflate their hungry, collapsing lungs with invigorating air they would be gentle, obedient and tractable as lambs. We don't want weak, thin, narrow-chested dwarfs or bean poles for children; we want strong, robust, well-developed bodies and brains.

One of the keenest things ever said on the bench is attributed to Judge Walton, of Georgia. While holding a term of the Supreme Court at Augusta, he sentenced a man to seven years in prison for a grave crime. The prisoner's counsel asked for a mitigation of the sentence on the ground that the man's health was very poor. "Your honor," said he, "I am satisfied that my client can not live out half that term, and I beg you to change the sentence." "Well, under those circumstances," said the judge, "I will change the sentence. I will make it for life, instead of seven years." The prisoner chose to abide by the original sentence, which the judge permitted him to elect.

It Made Mother Strong



"My mother has been using PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND for nervous prostration, accompanied by melancholia, etc., and it has done her a world of good. It is the only medicine that strengthens the nerves.' G. H. BEERS, Orbisonia, Pa.

"I am in my 64th year. Have been afflicted in several ways—could not sleep, had no appetite no courage, low spirits. I commenced using Paine's Celery Compound, and felt relief from the third day after using it. I now have a good appetite and can sleep well. My spirits and courage are almost like those of a young man.' S. C. KINKAID, D. D., GONZALES, La.

Paine's Celery Compound

Strengthens and builds up the old, and cures their infirmities. Rheumatism, indigestion and nervousness yield quickly to the curative power of Paine's Celery Compound.

A Perfect Tonic and Invigorator, it GIVES NEW LIFE.

"I am now 69 years old and have tried several remedies, but none had any effect until I used Paine's Celery Compound. I feel entirely different for the short time I have used it. I can walk nearly straight, sleep sound and well, and feel as though there was new life and energy coming into my whole system.' H. MYLIUS, Cleveland, Tenn.

Paine's Celery Compound is of unequaled value to women. It strengthens the nerves, regulates the kidneys, and has wonderful power in curing the painful diseases with which women so often silently suffer.

Surrey municipal council will present Lord Stanley with an address on his arrival at Westminster to-morrow afternoon. Surrey is always to the front in important matters.

Sapperton is badly in need of a public hall where meetings, concerts and entertainments may be held. This is a chance for some enterprising capitalist to make a good investment.

The Brunette Sawmills Co. shipped 4000 salmon boxes to Wadham's cannery yesterday, their last shipment for the season. Since the packing season opened the Brunette sawmills have manufactured 112,000 salmon boxes, more than double the number ever made by this company in any previous year.

This is Guy Fawkes' day, the glorious 5th of November on which the youth of England are wont to perfume their native air with fumes of "villainous saltpetre" and otherwise misbehave themselves. That Chinese garden at Sapperton, so often complained about, is said to be just as great a nuisance as ever, notwithstanding the efforts of the health committee and police authorities to put it down. Since the hot weather has passed away the disagreeable odors have been less annoying, but still the smells are there and remain a continual discomfort to neighboring families. Another petition to the council regarding this nuisance will be presented to the council.

The Devouring Element.

This morning, at 2 o'clock, the family of Dr. Montgomerie, on the Scott road, about four miles from this city, were roused from their slumbers to discover that their home was on fire. In fifteen minutes from the time of making the discovery both the dwelling and the barn adjacent were in ashes. A piano and some clothes were the only effects saved, everything else being a total loss. The house was partially insured, and the actual loss was about $2,000. The fire is supposed to have originated from a spark on the roof.

Frederic Villiers.

"Many of the sketches were made under the heat and smoke of conflict, and in their artistic dash gave ample evidence of the difficulties and dangers under which a war correspondent has to pursue his enterprising career. Mr. Villiers readily assumed an easy tone of narrative and explanation which at once placed him on a familiar footing with his appreciative audience; and thus for a couple of hours kept the unbroken and unwearied attention of his hearers, who rewarded his picturesque description of a war correspondent's experiences with rounds of hearty applause."—Birmingham Daily Post.

Mrs. Orde's Case.

Mrs. Orde, who was brought down from Cariboo a couple of weeks ago, having been committed as insane by two justices of the peace at Richfield, and who was pronounced sane, as far as could be ascertained by two prominent practitioners of this city, is still in town and unable to return home for want of funds. The city council was applied to last night to assist in defraying her expenses home to Cariboo, but the case is not one in which the city is called upon to act. The city clerk, however, was instructed to lay the case before the provincial government, and ask that body to rectify the serious mistake made by the Cariboo magistrates. It is generally hoped the government will deal promptly and liberally with the unfortunate woman.

McKee Rankin.

The well known romantic actor, McKee Rankin will present his latest eastern success, "The Runaway Wife," next Saturday night at the opera house. The play affords Mr. Rankin an opportunity to display his remarkable dramatic powers, and in his role of Arthur Eastman his work is equal to anything he has ever done either in "The Two Orphans," "The Danites," "49, or the Golden Giant." "The Runaway Wife" dealing though it does with the familiar domestic life of people like ourselves, contains scenes of thrilling interest and the situations are all most dramatically handled. Mr. Rankin will be supported by Miss Mabel Bert, formerly leading lady of the California Theatre, and an exceptionally strong company, and an evening of pleasing dramatic entertainments awaits all who attend.

The Governor-General's Reception

There was an informal meeting at the city hall this afternoon at 3 o'clock to improve upon the programme arranged for the governor-general's reception. The vice-regal party will arrive by special train from Vancouver at 5 p. m. and will be officially received at Messrs. Mathers and Milligan's new wharf. Only officials will be presented at this reception. Liberati's Band will play at this and also at the public reception which will take place at 10 o'clock in the Opera House. The Liberati concert will begin at 7:30 o'clock so as to permit the band to be present. On Thursday morning the vice-regal party will take steamer at Sapperton, visit the Royal City Planing Mills, the Hatchery and other points of interest on the river. After lunch they will visit the penitentiary and in the afternoon Lady Stanley will plant the first tree on Queen's park, and later may drive around town. Everybody should turn out to the public reception and give the vice-regal party a right royal welcome.

The Great Celebration.

Following is the Treasurers' report of the receipts and expenditures in connection with the citizens celebration held during the first week of October. The report is most satisfactory and reflects the highest credit on the various committees under whose management the amounts were expended. It might be here noted that few of the committees exceeded their appropriations, while the majority expended considerably under the allotted amounts:

Resolution of Condolence.

A meeting of the magistrates of this city was held this morning in the court-house, his honor, Judge Bole, in the chair. There were present, Sheriff Armstrong, B. Douglas, Jas. Cunningham, Capt. Pittendrigh, P. McTiernan, H. V. Edmonds, James Wise, T. C. Atkinson, and H. DeBeck. The meeting was convened for the purpose of passing resolutions of condolence on the death of ex-Mayor Dickinson. The following is a copy of the minutes: At a meeting of magistrates of the city of New Westminster, held at the Court House on the 5th day of November, A. D., 1889, Judge Bole, S. M., in the chair.

Moved by Sheriff Armstrong, and seconded by H. V. Edmonds, and resolved, That the magistrates of the city of New Westminster learn with the deepest regret of the death of their late colleague, Robert Dickinson, Esq., ex-mayor and justice of the peace, and who for nearly quarter of a century has been with us in the commission of the peace; therefore, be it further

Resolved, That this meeting of the magistrates of New Westminster does tender to the widow and children of our deceased colleague, our warmest sympathies in this their great affliction, and sincerely hope that the Almighty Ruler may comfort and support them in this their hour of need.

Resolved, That a copy of these minutes be forwarded to Mrs. Dickinson.

The resolution will be handsomely hand-printed in Old English text by Mr. George Turner, and will then be presented to Mrs. Dickinson and family.

An Exciting Runaway.

This afternoon about 1 o'clock a team belonging to Mr. John Andrezjewski, driven by John Chapelle, becoming frightened at something, ran away and went tearing along Front st. to Begbie st. at a furious gait. Mr. Chapelle was shaken off and the horses, free from all control, continued their mad flight up Begbie st. to Columbia street and thence in the direction of Sapperton. The noise made by the flying steeds and the heavy wagon loaded with beer-casks, was such as to call out one of the largest crowds seen on Columbia street in a long time. After passing Mary street, and still going at a terrific pace, a young man on horseback tried to head off the team, but unsuccessfully. Mr. M. Mowat, who was passing at the time, made a dash for the end of the wagon, and with the agility of a cat swarmed up over the barrels and by the exercise of considerable strength, and speaking gently to the animals, managed to calm their excited brains and bring them down to the statute pace, lawful within the city limits. The young man was attended by Dr. Walker, but is not much injured, although his escape was dangerously narrow. The daring and promptitude of Mr. Mowat cannot be too highly commended, for had the team been allowed to go on their way, the most lamentable results might have ensued. It requires more than ordinary bravery to voluntarily get up behind a pair of maddened horses, dashing no one knows where or to what terrible ending. By one of those providential interpositions little short of miracles, no one was hurt seriously, nor was any damage done.

Foot-Ball.

The next foot-ball practice will be held on Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock sharp, and every member is expected to be on hand as it is likely to be the last practice before the match with Vancouver at Hastings on Saturday. The Vancouver team is being carefully trained for the event, and it is said their men will take the field in better condition for a match than ever before. They have been playing practice matches for several Saturday's which has enabled the captain to feel the strength of his men and improve the weak spots wherever visible. It seems clear that Westminster has a hard combination to defeat, and here it is: H. H. McKay, full-back; Burrell, R. P. Woodward, F. Cordingly, C. H. Woodward, J. O. Benwell, half-backs; F. Malcolm (Captain), R. M. Fripp, Dawson, G. McL. Brown, Pugh, Rounsefell (sen.), R. Harvey, Tom Boultbee, Campbell, forwards; reserves—Coleman, Evans, Alexander, F. Rounsefell, Palmer, Edwards,

Following teams have been selected to play in the Thanksgiving Day practice: Captain's team: Bell, full-back; Lewis, three-quarter backs; Woods, three-quarter back; Irwin, one-half back; Lister, (Captain), forward; Miller, forward; Pickles, forward; Clute, forward; Shetky, forward; Port, forward; Aikman, forward; Wilson, forward; Whiteside, forward; Sloan, forward. Vice-Captains: H. J. Peele, full back; R. Clarke, three-quarter back; J. C. Whyte, three-quarter back; McMartin, half back; (Captain), Worsfold, half back; Corbett, forward; Hamber, forward; P. Peele, forward; Allen, forward; Morrison, forward; Pitterdrigh, forward; Boville, forward; Homer, forward; Draper, forward; Keay, forward.

Indians and Chinese.

Ah Toy is a Chinaman whom nature seems to have had a spite against at his birth. He is humpbacked, and knock-kneed, his face is honeycombed with smallpox pits, thick-lipped, squints horribly, and he is so lame that he is popularly known as "Limpsy." The god Pan would have seemed an Apollo Belvidere beside "Limpsy." This engaging specimen of Celestial humanity was let loose in society last Wednesday from the jail, where he had been serving a term of six months for some villainy or other. The chief of police says he has spent nearly all his days in jail. Ah Toy's cue, or queue, disappeared many years ago, and hasn't had a chance to sprout again. The specific offense which called Ah Toy into the august presence of magisterial justice this morning, was the selling of whiskey to a Musquim Indian named Dan. Dan was remanded from Monday to Wednesday to give him time to scrape up the $25 fine which had been imposed upon him for having and using the liquor. Ah Toy was brought out to listen to Dan's evidence, and when shown the bottle of whiskey repudiated it by saying, "me no sabey him." Dan admitted frankly the fact of having the whiskey and partaking of it. "Did it make you drunk?" queried his honor. "Well," said Dan, drawlingly, "not awful drunk." "Just what you'd notice, eh?" "Yaas, that was it." Ah Toy when asked what he had to say as to Dan's evidence, said, "The Siwashes all too muchee lie, he no sabey them at all." His honor sent Toy up for six months at the jail. Toy lamented thereat, saying there was "too muchee washee; no good."

Two faithful klooches handed in $20 to pay Dan's fine, and Mr. McTiernan went security for the other five. Dan was received into the bosom of his crowd of friends with hurricanes of Chinook welcomes and unlimited smiles.

Another Triumph for Liberati.

The finest musical organization that has ever visited Victoria, Liberati's great band, filled the theatre from pit to dome last evening. Even those who had attended the first night's concert were surprised at the excellence of the programme. Every number was delightful, particularly so the grand union selection, three national airs played at the same time by different parts of the band, in perfect harmony, and producing an effect as delightful as it was unusual. Among the vocal numbers "The Miserere," from Il Trovatore, given by the quartette by special request, was received with enthusiastic appreciation by the house. In his solos Liberati proved himself fully as great a musician as a conductor, and the whole programme was such as to charm all attending. The citizens of Victoria hope soon again to have the pleasure of listening to the great Liberati band.—Colonist.

Chinese Immigration.

Since the delivery of Hon. Mr. Dewdney's speech at Victoria, in which he expressed himself in favor of Chinese immigration to a greater extent than is now possible under the Restriction Act, the British Columbia papers have been discussing the question with as much keenness as they manifested four or five years ago. It has been stated freely that representations have been made by the imperial authorities to the government here to modify the Canadian Act in view of the possibility of its creating complications which might lead to the injury of British trade with China. The minister of the interior, it is alleged, was requested to throw out a feeler to the people of British Columbia to see how they would accept any amendments to the act in the way of liberalizing its provisions. I have Mr. Dewdney's authority to state that these reports are absolutely without foundation. The minister told his Victoria auditors that he was simply giving expression to his own sentiments, without inspiration from any one. He spoke knowing the requirements of British Columbia, and that the province was actually suffering from the want of cheap labor. That this is the case the salmon packers are ready to testify. The amounts paid to some of their employes this year are almost incredible, and it is said that one Indian alone in less than three weeks' time earned over a thousand dollars. A change in public opinion on the Chinese question would appear to be manifesting itself in British Columbia, as while Mr. Dewdney was in Victoria a deputation of influential members of trade waited upon him, and urged a reduction on the per capita tax. Parliament imposed the present restrictions at the request of the people of British Columbia, and if British Columbians desire modifications in this respect they have it in their own hands to procure them.—Empire.
