d's Cross-Examination Expected to End Saturday—Interest Centring in Adams.

, June 13.—It now seems probat Harry Orchard will be allowed e the stand and make way for witness in the Haywood trial by y afternoon. The state will not much time with the re-direct ny, and this means that the xamination will undoubtedly be d of. Today Orchard is expected the facts of the assassination of Governor Steunenberg. The ing tale that made a crowded oom shudder must once more be d the murderer will be obliged to he jury how cold blooded and ruel were the preparations and ed itself. The murdered man's s within a few feet of Haywood, cing Orchard. He watches the closely and during the narraf the scenes around his home o the murder and on the night er was killed he shows evidence t nervousness. The defence has ared Orchard, his character as a l has been searched into until every crime in the calendar, big ttle, has been brought home to The most remarkable thing about an is the absolute nonchalance hich he admits the commission se crimes. The plot to kidnap ildren of Orchard's former partthe Hercules mine is looked upon defence as a strong proof of the ty of the man. The claim of the s is that Simpkins discovered the d warned August Paulson. Paulson been subpoenaed by the state. shown, however, by the defence ss-examination that Paulson lent ust before he left Wallace for ell shortly before the murder of nberg. That the case for the de- in contradiction of the the con- of Haywood with the actual or arrangements for the murder nenberg is shown by these questut so as to bring out evidence to that Orchard reached Wallace g to kidnap Paulson's children, in that he became poverty n and committed burglary. Get- proceeds from this he robbed a gister. These funds running out, rowed $300 from a man who had is partner and who had become om the proceeds of the mine, a hare of which Orchard had sold ong, and then, envious of the rich nd angered at the thought that nberg had driven him from the he planned the enterprise of ul assassination. The defence ashat Simpkins was at Wallace at me, in line with his duties as a er of the executive board of the rn Federation, and that neither nor at Caldwell had he any direct ction with Orchard's plans.

re is yet much speculation as to ourse Steve Adams will pursue he is placed upon the witness Will he stand by his confession, l he repudiate it, is the question? most startling part of Adams' al- confession is the murder of ArCollins, manager of the Smuggler- mine, near Telluride, in Colorado. making the confession Adams was to Collin's house and pointed out he stood to fire the shot that Collins. An accumulation of corative evidence is said to have been ed. Collins was shot through the ow of his library, where he was g cards with some ladies. It is said that should ns be acquitted for the murder for he is yet to stand trial the Colo- authorities will requisition the gov- of Idaho and will try him on the e of the murder of Collins. There me belief that Adams may yet re- his alleged confession. Counsel for prosecution say that they are not depending upon Adams to confirm Orchard, but that they have a sufficiency of corroborative testimony. One thing that seems well settled by the Haywood trial is that the state of Colorado will apply for the extradition of Steve Adams to put him on trial for the murder of Arthur Collins. Because of the visit Adams made to Telluride last spring with Bulkley Wells it is said the officers there now have a perfect case against him and can convict him of that crime. It has been thought that Colorado would be willing to let him go if he should frankly state all he knows on the stand in these cases, but on that there is no authoritative statement. However, he is determined not to testify, claiming immunity on the ground that he might imcriminate himself, and his next appearance in court is likely to be at Telluride. It seems the present plan is based on the fact that Adams will not testify, though it has always been stated he could not secure immunity for giving testimony. Adams was in the jail yard for several hours this morning. He played quoits for an hour with one of the deputies.

NICE FAMILY.

Abe Hummel Will Serve His Term—His Nephew in Same Boat.

New York, June 13.—Abe Hummel has decided to serve out his year's sentence on Blackwell's Island without trying to get the court of appeals to upset his conviction, which was affirmed by the appellate division. John Lindsay, representing Hummel, served notice on the district attorney's office yesterday that the appeal to the court of appeals had been withdrawn. The bar association, which took action looking to Hummel's disbarment, will now proceed as pending the appeal nothing was being done. Abe Caffenburgh, Hummel's nephew, was disbarred on practically the same offence of which Hummel was convicted, although Caffenburgh was never tried.

Prices of Metals.

New York, June 13.—Silver, 66⅞c.; copper, 22⅞c.; lead, $5.75.

London, June 13.—Silver, 30 13-16d.; lead, £21.

SOME ONE WAS GUILTY

Death and Injuries Result From Carelessness of Builders in New York.

New York, June 13.—The collapse of a temporary bridge on the second floor of the skyscraper at Courtland and Church streets last night caused the death of one man and the serious injury of three others. The accident was due to gross negligence on the part of employees of the contractors, and the foreman of the cement gang was arrested, charged with homicide. The dead man was James Pringle, 28 years of age. Had the accident occurred five minutes later the dead and injured list might have been apalling as more than 10 men were gathering to receive their time checks when the crash came. The police authorities claim that the bridge was overloaded with cement bags.

EXPECT ANOTHER MUTINY.

Russian Admiral Arrests 600 Sailors—Comrades Exasperated.

Lodon, June 13.—A despatch to a news agency from Sebastopol says that Vice Admiral Wiren, who recently was appointed successor to Admiral Skrydloff in command of the Black Sea fleet, has sifted out and arrested the disaffected seamen at that port and placed 600 of them on board a cruiser under a strong guard of the Pragski regiment. Additional arrests are being made, and it probably will be necessary to fit out another penal cruiser. The seamen of the fleet are exasperated because no charges have been preferred against the arrestd mn, and it is said that a mutinous outbreak is likely to occur.

Passing Checque.

William Birrel, who passed a worthless checque for $4 at Ainsworth, and attempted to pass others in Nelson, was arrested at Trail last night and will reach the city tonight. He will appear in the provincial police court tomorrow. He is an old inmate of the provincial gaols of Nelson and Kamloops. He tried to leave for Spokane yesterday morning, but was put off the train at the Mountain station.

Will Entertain the Premier.

A private letter received from E. R. Gosnell, who is now in London, Eng., contains the information that British Columbians now residing in London will entertain the Hon. Richard McBride at a banquet before his departure for home.

Dog Taxes.

The dog catcher will start on his rounds in a few days. Very few taxes have been paid to date.

WON'T SAY THANKS

Newspaper Man Criticizes Roosevelt

UNGRATEFUL TO PRESS

President Accused of Ignoring Chief Supporters—Caustic Words on Yellow Journals.

Norfolk, Va., June 13.—"Journalism Since Jamestown," was the subject of an address delivered before the National Editorial Association at the Jamestown Exposition today by Crosby S. Noves, editor of the Washington Star. Reviewing the history and the struggle of Capt. John Smith, Mr. Noves deplored the fact that Captain Smith did not have an energetic, independent press to back him up in his great work. Mr. Noves compared the achievements of Captain Smith in planting and sustaining the English colony with the deeds of President Roosevelt in this generation, and declared that they "were as worthy of glorification, but lacked the aid of the newspaper press that has so greatly helped the latter in his upward career." The newspapers, the speaker declared, have given Mr. Roosevelt their vigorous support in his reform policies: have exploited all his sayings and doings through the 24 hours of the day: glorified the man and his work and made his name a household word in every home in the land.

"Mr. Roosevelt has seemed somewhat slow in acknowledging his indebtedness to the press," said Mr. Noves, "but perhaps he will think of it some day when he is not too busy. Captain John Smith had no such newspapers and his great deeds have therefore gone unhonored and unsung." Mr. Noves traced the history of journalism from the publication of "The Weekly News," started in England in 1622 down to the metropolitan journalism of the present day. Mr. Noves referred to the modern up-to-date "penny dreadfuls," which, he said, are so precocious in sensational atrocity as to require for each five sets of job type headlines. He said that the front page and several inside pages were devoted to lurid depictions of the great scandal murder cases, spaced out with minor horrors of considerable sensational value. The paper is pessimistic and anarchistic in every line, the speaker declared, and it incites the laborers by a parade of grievances to go out and kill somebody. "There is nothing hopeful or inspiring in it." In discussing the attitude toward the press of "our rulers, state and national,' 'the speaker declared that they have with two or three exceptions been on friendly terms with the newspaper men.

In discussing President Roosevelt's attitude, he said: "He has declared himself in favor of clean, healthy newspapers with clean healthy criticism, which shall be fearless and truthful, but when it comes to the test, it is seen that he does not relish these fearless and truthful criticisms when they are exercised at his expense and whether Mr. Roosevelt is elected by acclamation for a third term of rules by deputy in the shape of a president designated by him, or whether, after on interval of four years, he shall again take the presidency he will receive the cordial support of the press in all his great efforts for the public good and national welfare. At the same time, the press will rserve the right to 'fearlessly and truthfully' criticize his acts when they are inconsiderate and unjust. The newspapers have nothing to ask of him but fair treatment. They hold themselves to be ordained preachers as well as Mr. Roosevelt, and they will keep their pulpits for all time, for presidents may come and presidents may go, but the press, like Tennyson's brook, goes on forever."

Hamburg en Fete.

Hamburg, June 13.—The competition for the German Emporer's automobile race attracts enthusiasm from all parts of Europe. It is almost impossible to find accommodation for the big gatherings. The Emperor accompanied by a brilliant staff has arrived here and was accorded a splendid reception. The city is georgeously illuminated and decorated.

Will Snap His Fingers.

London, June 13.—Caruso, the tenor, in an interview regarding his possible exclusion from the United States as the result of his police court conviction in New York, said: "Herr Conreid has engaged me for four years and his lawyers have assured him that I shall be able to return. I shall snap my fingers at the government's decision if they will not let me land, and I shall merely return to Europe and draw my salary all the same."

STORY OF EARLY DAYS

Letter From Old Nelsonite in Goldfield Written on Reading of Death of George Bigelow.

Editor, The Daily Canadian:

The death of George Arthur Bigelow, the notice of which appeared in The Canadian of June 1st, leaves alive but few of the men who helped make Nelson. Bigelow, when a mere boy, came from Morrisburg, Ontario, and was for a time employed in a general merchandise store at Donald, when that town was the construction headquarters of the Canadian Pacific in 1886. From that store he went to the C. P. R. store in the same place, and had charge of the outside warehouses. In 1888 Donald was on the decline, and Bigelow went to a small town in Manitoba, where he established a general store, which was destroyed by fire. He came to Nelson in the spring of 1890, and opened a store in the building now occupied by Alex. Fyfe as a barber shop, and later removed the stock to the building now known as the Bodega saloon, which he built. In 1895 he opened a branch store in Rossland. Difficulties with partners caused him to quit the merchandising business in 1896, and for a time he lived in Spokane on his income from his Nelson property. A sawmill venture at Creston broke him, and from that time to his death he was never able to break the run of bad luck,

When a resident of Nelson, Bigelow could always be depended on to do his share as a public-spirited citizen. He helped build the Kootenay Lake general hospital and practically established the fire department. He was a charter member of the South Kootenay Board of Trade, and was its secretary when Kaslo's boomsters swooped down on Nelson and attempted to remove it bodily to Kaslo at a midnight meeting. Of the nine Nelson members present at that meeting, R. E. Lemon, who was president and in the chair, is dead; George Arthur Bigelow, who was secretary, is dead; A. H. Buchanan, who was then manager of the Bank of Montreal, is in Spokane; Grange V. Holt, who was manager of the Bank of British Columbia, is in Seattle; W. F. Teetzel, who then had the finest drug store in inland British Columbia, is now a resident of Winnipeg, and he is entitled to much of the credit for retaining the board of trade in Nelson. He was sent after a copy of the Dominion statutes. There was only one copy in town at the time, and that copy was in the mining recorder's office, and the mining recorder (T. H. Griffin, who is now dead,) was in bed. As it was 2 o'clock in the morning, Teetzel went to bed, himself, and did not go near the mining recorder's office. While awaiting Teetzel's return with the law the 40-odd boomsters from Kaslo and the half dozen Nelson members kept up the fight on law points. John M. Burke of Kaslo and John Houston of Nelson were the opposing orators, and they made 51 speeches. John Houston, who was editor of the Tribune, is now a resident of Goldfield, Nevada, and John M. Burke is a resident of Lovelock, in the same state. The names of the other three Nelson members present have escaped my memory. At 3 o'clock in the morning, John M. Burke moved that the question (a motion to hold the next meeting of the board at Kaslo) be put, and the chairman refused to put the question, ruling it as not in order. The Kaslo men left the room disgusted and the Nelson men adjourned the meeting till the afternoon. When the adjourned meeting convened the roll-call was responded to by 51 members, and a motion to adjourn, made by J. Fred Hume, was carried by a vote of 26 to 25. Bigelow had collected $10 a head from the Kaslo members, and he lost no time in spending it for furnishings for the board of trade rooms, and when he had spent the last dollar of the Kaslo members' money, the South Kootenay Board of Trade had the finest official meeting place of any board of trade west of Toronto.

In the boom days of Kaslo, Bigelow was probably the best-known man in that town because of the fact that he had the only wholesale liquor house in Southern Kootenay, and during the winter of 1892-3, when the outlet from Nelson to Balfour was closed to boats, he tobagganed many a load of liquor along the ice of the outlet to keep Kaslo in good spirits.

Bigelow had a bright mind, and no man in Kootenay was his equal in a wordy rough-and-tumble. He was good-hearted, and many men, some of whom are prosperous, were aided by him in the days when few had anything more than good supply of hope. He was an early-day justice of the peace, and dealt justice on broad and untrodden lines. At Sproat's Landing he gave one lawbreaker a life sentence, and at Nelson his judgments, sometimes wrong, did much to keep the country rid of "undesirable citizens."

How Campaign Funds Grow In Quebec

ONE PART OF MACHINE

Conservative Leader Recalls Contract for Fast Atlantic Services Made by Sir Charles Tupper.

Ottawa, June 13.—Judging by the result of the Prevost-Asselin libel case in Quebec it would appear that a proportion of the jury holds that the "rake-off" accusations against the Quebec government are well founded. The history of this case can be told in brief. Mr. Prevost is the member of the Quebec government who has charge of the lands and mines. Mr. Asselin is a Liberal publicist, editing the Nationaliste, with which the Bourassa-Lavergne coterie is sympathetic. The Nationaliste made complaints regarding the administration of the public estate, and Mr. Prevost caused Mr. Asselin to be proceeded against criminally for so doing. The trial took place in due course, and the evidence adduced was extraordinary.

In the first place it was alleged that the department over which Mr. Prevost presides is inefficiently managed, and, then, it was shown that officers have been receiving emoluments from the government and from persons or companies doing business with the department. Thus an official, while being paid to take care of the interests of the province in the mines, accepted remuneration from a company seeking from the province a mining location. But the chief accusation had reference to the conditions under which land grants are made. The Quebec government, it appears, interested Belgian capitalists in the northern part of Quebec, and a Belgian baron named l'Epine came over to look after the enterprise. This baron negotiated for 200,000 acres of land on the line of the Grand Trunk Pacific. His story is that when he came to discuss the terms the government, through one of its members, wanted $1 an acre, 70 cents per acre to go to the public treasury and 30 cents per acre to pass to the caisse electoral, or campaign fund. The conditions were debated for some time, and finally a lump sum was proposed for the campaign fund, $60,000 in all. The Belgian syndicate balked at the amount, and the transaction did not go through. The members of the Quebec government deny the Baron's statements, and question the baron's veracity. It is charged against the baron that at one time he said he did not believe in future punishment, and it is claimed that for this reason his oath cannot be accepted. But the baron declares that he is orthodox, and quite in harmony with all the doctrines set forth by the church of which he is a member in good standing. The evidence corroborating the baron includes a letter in which he tells of the proposed contributions to the caisse electoral. These contributions, he says, he agreed to because he understood that the making of such subscriptions to the campaign fund was the custom of the country. The jury is apparently not convinced that the baron's statement is untrue. More will no doubt be heard of this case in due time. Meanwhile, it is of interest to note that it reveals another inter-Liberal quarrel. Of these conflicts there has been a large and interesting variety. One brought about the resignation of Premier Parent, for whom a place was found at Ottawa by Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Another led to the defection of Messrs. Bourassa and Lavergne, who could not stand the grafting at the federeal capital. A third fractures Quebec Liberalism once again, and gives us the l'Epine case, and its story of the political "rake-off."

The Liberals of the period when the party was really Liberal would not recognize the Liberalism of today were they to visit the scene of their former conflicts. With the Prevost case, the McIlreith case, the Emmerson case, and the London corruption case, to say nothing of the unfortunate flight of the Ontario head of the party, uniting to give Liberalism its present day tone and character, an old-time Liberal, would no doubt be ashamed of his associates.

The leader of the opposition was one of the speakers on Wednesday at a political meeting in Carleton county, near Ottawa. Mr. Borden welcomed the renewal of the fast steamer project, recalling the fact that almost the last act of the Tupper government was the arrangement for such a service. The Laurier government cancelled the contract on the ground of the expense though the present proposition will be more costly. The first substitute contract made to the Laurier government after two or three extensions of time failed altogether and the service never even began. Mr. Borden hopes that the scheme now proposed will prove to be better considered and more practical.

But Mr. Borden points out that the Alantic steamship question involves considerations more important than fast passenger travel. For every person who wishes to cross the Atlantic quickly many are interested in the rapid and safe transportation of perishable farm products to the European market. The government has encouraged various cold storage enterprises, but there is no complete chain of communication between the producer and the market which ensures the delivery in good condition of dairy products, of tender fruits, poultry, eggs, meat and other perishable articles. They are kept at more or less correct temperature, in ventilated chambers, part of the time and distance, but at some point their is a danger that impairs all. Mr. Borden insists that this feature of the transportation question should not be overlooked in dealing with the proposition before the country. The farmers pay the greater part of the steamship subsidies, they are the people to whom the subsidies could do the greatest service, and it is they who are in greatest danger of being forgotten.

The opposition leader recalled the "wine, women and graft" discussion in the House and declared that he still thought he had done right in speaking and voting in favor of full inquiry and publicity. Mr. Bourassa's motion in favor of such investigation were both rejected, one by a straight party vote, in which the government majority prevailed, the other by the action of the premier who brought forward an obsolete rule of the House and secured a ruling of the speaker which shut off the vote. Mr. Borden is still of the opinion that he and his supporters did right in voting against that decision in the one case and in favor of Mr. Bourassa's motion in the other. The inquiry would have included any Conservative member against whom charges and reflections had been made. It is Mr. Borden's view that the action of the majority created the impression throughout the country that parliament is protecting its members from investigation on matters affecting the honor and integrity of the House. No one has the right to believe this of opposition members. They voted for publicity.

DUNDONALD SPEAKS OUT

Tells Curtly Why He Was Dismissed From Command of Canadian Forces.

London, June 13.—"I have retired because the British authorities offered me no employment, since I was turned out of the Canadian militia for paying attention to political corruption in the appointment of officers," was the published explanation made by the Earl of Dundonald, whose retirement from the post of lieutenant-general, led to the recent promotion of Major-General Baden Powell. The earl says his being given nothing to do was not due to old age, because 13 years remained before the old-age clause affected his present rank, and that he considers favoritism is bound to destroy the efficiency of any military force.

War at Intervals.

Managual, Nicaragua, June 13.—The government was questioned yesterday by the Associated Press concerning the report that Nicaragua had declared war upon Guatemala. The report was at once denied. Nicaragua has not declared war upon any state. President Zalaya vouced the information that General Prdencio Alfaro, the leader of the revolutionary movement in Salvador, is an unconditional Nationalist, and he is backed by the whole country.

Bond Not Sale.

It is stated authoritatively today that the deal concluded yesterday by Olcott Payne, of New York, in connection with the Hewitt mine, near Silverton, did not amount to a sale. The New York syndicate has taken only a working bond on the property. It is said to be their intention to begin operations at once.

Collision in Deleware.

Philadelphia, June 13.—The British steamer Taunton from Calcutta via Bermuda, and the new Ward line steamer Saratoga, were in collision in the Deleware river below the city today, and both vessels were dameged. The Taunton was steaming up the river at the time and the Saratoga was proceeding on a trial trip.

Globe Changes Hands.

London, June 13.—The Globe, the oldest evening paper in England, has been purchased by Hildebrand Harmsworth, brother of Lord Northcliffe. The paper, in announcing the change, say: "No break will take place in our old traditions and no change is contemplated in our policy."

Nearing Completion.

The carpenter work on J. A. Dewar's house is just about completed and the plasterers and painters will start work this week. Mr. Dewar expects to move into his house early in July.

PRESS IS WARNED

Japanese Ministry Forbid Agitation

PUBLIC FEELING ROUSED

Conflicting Stories on Japan—American Situation From London, Tokio and Honolulu.

Tokio, June 13.—Several papers this morning print photographs of Japanese restaurants in San Francisco. This appeal to the eye, coupled with strong words describing the sufferings of their compatriots, has further influenced popular indignation.

The Nichi-Nichi, commening on the photograph, says: "The situation is doubtless grave and calls for prompt measures of both governments."

The Hochi says: "The time for negotiations has passed and therefore action must be reached." The paper says further that it does not mean to advocate war, but dropping commercial relations.

London, June 13.—Such a contingency as an outbreak of war between the United States and Japan is regarded by educated Japanese as inconceivable. The cable correspondent of the Times says that if the Progressives are inclined to stir up agitation for the defense of Japan's treaty rights it will be aimed to discredit the ministry and the interest of the party in power. The Progressives themselves would take the lead in denouncing such a war if there were any real danger of it.

Honolulu, June 13.—United States Commissioner of Immigration Sargent has instructed the local immigration officers to continue the careful inspection of Japanese immigrants, but to discontinue photographing and to handle diplomatically all question that may arise. The local federal officers are alleged to have discovered that members of the Japanese navy stationed here have been communicated with directly by their home government and not through the Japanese consul.

Tokio, June 13.—The Main-Chi, published at Osaka, with a circulation of 150,000, expressed anger yesterday at the reported recent attack on a Japanese horticulturist at Berkeley, Cal. It says: "The outrage demonstrates the impotency of the California authorities to protect our compatriots. Now is no time to rest assured on the stereotyped diplomatic assurance of Washington. Only two weeks after a positive declaration to take preventive measures to safeguard Japanese rights comes the Berkeley outrage. That the outrages are limited to California is not a sufficient explanation."

Tokio, June 13. (Afternoon.)—The newspaper men of this city were summoned to appear before the home department today and were officially advised to abstain from publication of any matter of an inflammatory or agitating nature on the American question.

MORE LICENSE TROUBLE.

Grand Forks Hotel Men Retain Lawyer to Resist Commissioners.

(Special to The Daily Canadian.)

Grand Forks, June 13.—The city license commissioners at a meeting held yesterday gave instructions for the cancellation of the licenses of the Grand Forks hotel, and the Square hotel. A. C. Sutton has been retained to contest the action of the licensing commissioners.

Spanish Assassin's Fate.

Madrid, June 13.—The court yesterday handed down its judgment in the cases of Senor Ferrer, director of the Modern School of Barcelona, Jose Naken, editor of El Motin and Mato Ilaria, both charged with complicity in the attempt to assassinate King Alphonso and Queen Victoria on their wedding day, May 31st, 1906. Nakens and Mato Ilaria were sentenced to nine years' imprisonment, while Ferrer and the others were acquitted.

THE REIGN OF GRAFT.

At the recent meeting in Montreal of the general synod of the Presbyterian Church of Canada, G. M. Macdonnell, a layman representing the presbytery of Kingston, declared that the great evil of Canada at the present time is graft.

The remark was made during a debate on temperance work. G. M. Macdonnell, who is a brother of the late Rev. D. J. Macdonnell, of Toronto, has been an active temperance worker all his life.

His statement was made in all seriousness and without bitterness. He dissented absolutely from the often expressed opinion that intemperance is the greatest of the national evils, and urged that moral reformers should devote a share of their zeal and energy to an attempt to purge the public life of the country from the corruption now so prevalent. Any who might be inclined to doubt the seriousness of the situation, be invited to "go to Ottawa, or go to the election courts."

Naturally Mr. Macdonnell's words caused a sensation not only in the synod but throughout the country. They have received a great deal of attention from the press and from the public generally. They have been discussed from many different points of view. Papers of all shades of political opinion have commented on the criticism and have given it a very wide application. It has even been charged that common honesty has almost disappeared from the commercial life of Canada.

But the author of the statement intended a particular application, and it is only in the direction indicated by him that there is any hope of early improvement.

"Go to Ottawa; go to the election courts," said Mr. Macdonnell. Undoubtedly it is at Ottawa that the task must be begun. The immensity of the task has been indicated by the disclosures of the last session. Even to suggest the extent to which dishonesty permeates the national administration is not easy. One case out of at least hundreds may serve as an allustration of a small part of the evil. A gentleman goes to Ottawa having business with one department, which be thinks is simple and capable of immediate adjustment. Oftener than not be has to "tip" a member of parliament and a private secretary to even get an audience with the minister. Then be encounters delay, and if his business involves anything that looks like a profitable investment there are endless technicalities until the applicant has satisfied the cupidity of every harpy who can cause. pidity of very harpy who can cause delay.

who suffer. The dishonesty that the whole country feels has been revealed in scores of scandalous circumstances in part revealed in committee of parliament. The Ross Rifle deal is perhaps the most conspicuously shameless, but it has certainly not been the greatest.

What has recently been revealed in the Prevost-Asselin libel case in Quebec city is typical of the whole system. A man having business with the provincial government of Quebec swore—and his testimony was not successfully impeached—that of every dollar he paid the government only 70 cents went to the provincial treasury, the balance being appropriated for the Caisse Electorale—in English, the party campaign fund.

The relations between the Dominion and Quebec Liberal organizations have always been very intimate since the days when Wilfrid Laurier and Honore Mercier became the party leaders in that province. Quebec is in fact the home and headquarters of the Ottawa Machine.

It is notorious that the custom which had been developed into a scientific system in Quebec, is in vogue at Ottawa also, perhaps a little more loosely. There is reason to believe that even the Machine is cheated occasionally by some of its needy servants.

This is the condition to which attention has been directed by a patriotic layman of the Presbyterian Church of Canada. Neither in the synod nor in the press has the general truth of Mr. Macdonnell's statement been denied. Humiliating as the circumstances are there is yet one consolation. The first step towards righting a wrong is recognition of its existence.

The proverb that "a stream cannot rise higher than its source" has often been adduced to explain the low level to which the parliament of Canada has fallen in the last ten years. It will not explain unless we postulate a parallel and equal deterioration of the people of Canada.

But no such cynical defence can be accepted. The government of the day must be held responsible. The honor of parliament and the honesty of the administration are in the hands of the premier. If he has wilfully surrounded himself with dishonest or dishonorable colleagues, or if he has even been careless of the character of the men to whom he has entrusted the administration of the departments of the public service, he must answer to the country for it.

The Liberal party appealed to the people of Canada in 1896 upon a broad platform, whose main planks were Free Trade against the National Policy, Provincial Rights alleged to be violated by the Conservative government's Remedial Bill, Retrenchment in the national expenditure and Reform in the civil service and in election practices.

Their appeal was successful. It would be "slaying the slain" to detail how every single plank in that platform has been thrown to the winds. The shameless disregard by the leaders of promises passionately declaimed has not been without its effect on the rank and file. Sir Wilfrid Laurier himself has by his example taught his followers that promises are made for laughter only. Every evil of the Conservative rule survives today and is magnified nearly a hundred fold. There was corruption in elections before: there was never such a debauch as the Hyman election. There were unworthy appointments to the civil service: but they never affected the learning or integrity of the bench. There was dishonesty in the administration of some departments, but it was not universal nor was the party ever organized to suppress the disclosure of it. "For all the evil whereof this is part" the responsibility lies at the door of one man, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the leader of the House of Commons and alleged master of the administration.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

The people of Slocan, in their prospective attempt to convince either the provincial government or the railway commission or both that they are entitled on any ground to a daily mail, passenger and freight service, will have the undivided sympathy of Nelson. The Slocan is a beautiful lake, the valley is rich in mineral, timber and agricultural resources. When their development shall have attracted a large population to the valley the branch should be a very profitable one. At present it seems to us that the most helpful suggestion to make to the people of Slocan is that they should endeavor to show the management of the C. P. R. that the continuance of a daily service will promote its development much faster than the one now in force and that there is reasonable ground to believe that within a few years the receipts from the district would nearly equal the cost of operation.

We print in our news columns today an article on the late George Bigelow contributed by a former citizen of Nelson, now resident in Goldfield, Nevada, who played a very prominent part not only in the events he narrates but in all the events in Nelson's history for the first fifteen years of its existence. He notes the fact that the old-timers are fast passing away. It is to be hoped that Nelson will not be so negligent of its history as other western towns. Its early years are full of interesting events. Some one with the ability, the taste and the leisure should leave a record or at least the data for a record.

A London despatch today recalls one of the most disgraceful incidents in Canadian public life, the dismissal of the Earl of Dundonald from the command of the Canadian forces. It must be confessed, however, that the general's statement at last that the cause of his quarrel with Sir Frederick Borden was his protest against corrupt political influence on the militia, will cause not the slightest surprise in Canada.

EXTENDING NORTHWARD

Interest in Ontario Mining Field Is Still Growing—Prospecting Up Montreal River.

Cobalt, June 13.—Further reports from the Montreal river district show that when opened up that section of the country is going to be one of the most promising yet discovered in New Ontario. "The prospects," said a geologist and mining prospector who has just returned from a trip as far north as Elk Lake, "are of the brightest." He visited in that district about three weeks, travelling around Elk Lake, into the townships of James and Tudhope and through part of the Temegami reserve, west of James township. James township and a large portion of Tudhope were staked during the winter months.

Little development work has as yet been done. Two claims of which he took particular notice were the Munro-Seville and Darragh-Downey, on both of which there were good showings of native silver.

Speaking of the geological formation of the country the informant heard that it was essentially the same as that of the Cobalt district. A considerable amount of cobalt bloom was visible on the surface, being generally observed in the diabase rock. In the Silver Lake area to the west of James township were numerous calcite veins having large percentages of cobalt bloom. In the Cobalt district such showing would be considered encouraging. According to this man the prospects of discovering good silver values in the rack were as bright as those in any other mineralized locality. The areas of conglomerate and slate, however, had not yet assayed values of silver.

About 1,500 men have gone into James township to do development work, some for owners of claims and some on their own account. The big rush of prospectors is directed mostly into the Lady Evelyn district, and in the region of Elk Lake, while a large number are moving farther north than Elk Lake. At the mouth of Bear river a fairly large settlement is springing up. There is a supply store already established there, and also a post office, at which mail is received two or three times a week. Scores of prospectors are entering Latchford. One man counted 83 canoes lying on the station platform ready to go up the river.

ANOMALOUS SITUATION

Copper Companies Paying Enormous Guaranteed Dividends But Stocks Keep Low.

While dividends are the biggest ever, prices of copper stocks are lower than ever. There may be seers who can explain this abnormal state of affairs, but they will have to be of those who can see further around corners and through concrete walls than the rest of us. There are some who will tell you by way of explanation, that the reason stocks are low even if dividends be high, is that nobody has any money left to buy anything. That explanation will not "wash." The country is full of money, has more, perhaps, than is good for it. Gold production is greater now than it has ever been, there is new money coming in all the time, there is no scarcity of gold, nor of money of any and all kinds. No, the alleged reason of no money is no reason. The reason, the only possible and understandable reason, is fear. That, in a measure, is comprehensible. Between, on the one hand, the big railroad guns booming threats to spend no money, that rather than do so—if they can't run things to suit themselves—they will allow their roadbeds to roll up and go to sleep; and, on the other hand, the labor unions endeavoring to tie all things up into a Gordian knot unless they are permitted to boss all jobs and run the country and all things in it to suit themselves, it is no wonder that capital is timid; and those who have money to invest are fearful, and are of the opinion that the best thing to do is to keep it in their strong box and sit down hard on the lid. Yet, so far as copper stocks are concerned the situation is altogether anomalous. On the one hand you have guaranteed-paying copper stocks down on bedrock, on the other you have, by reason of the large, steady and increasing demand for the metal at prices far above cost of production, the assurance of dividends greater than these copper stocks have ever yielded,—and yet investors hold back, halting between doubt and desire. Later, you will hear from many sides the story so often heard before, "I could have bought that stock when it was below 10, and if I had I would have doubled my money." People of that stripe are very amusing; they pose as heroes to their lack of judgment—Los Angeles Mining Review.

HEROISM OF PRIEST.

Man of 70 Descended Into Cave-in to Minister to Dying.

New York, June 13.—Recking nothing of his own danger, Rev. Father Eugene Porciele, pastor of Our Lady of Loudres church, Brooklyn, administered the last rites to four semi-conscious men yesterday. They were buried under a deep mass of earth and rocks that fell from one wall of an excavation twenty-five feet deep.

Another fall momentarily impended, but under the bulging wall of earth knelt the good gray priest, who is seventy years old, encouraging the suffering men, assuring them they would be rescued, consoling them, finally preparing them for the end that, for a while seemed inevitable.

Twenty-five men were digging in the excavation at Stone avenue and Herkimer street, East New York, where will stand Public School No. 113, occupying one-fourth of the block. Next to the deep pit is the Beecher Memorial church, the Rev. Charles T. Allen, pastor. Carelessly the workers had dug deep into the base of one of its sides, leaving the top overhanging. Without an instant's warning, the top strata of earth and stones fell on a dozen workmen. The others ran yelling.

Eight men extricated themselves and limped away; all these were so terrified that they gave no help to the four who were buried. They struggles as best they could to free themselves. "I am dying," murmured Antonio Balmiro, "get me a priest."

Two men rushed to the rectory of Our Lady of Lourdes, several blocks away. They had not to urge the aged Father Porciele or Father Packer to return with them. To reach the suffering men they had to walk down a narrow plank which will be the depth of the school's sub-cellar. There in the mud and stony debris Father Porciele knelt for fifteen minutes.

Notice to Delinquent Co-Owner.

To Charles G. Simpson, or any other person to whom he may have transferred his interest in the "May Blossom" mineral claim, situated on Brown Mountain, two and a half miles southwest of Ymir, in the Nelson Mining Division, of West Kootenay District, and recorded in the Recorder's office, for the Nelson Division.

You and each of you are hereby notified that I have expended two hundred and five dollars ($205.00) in labour and improvements upon the above mineral claim in order to hold the same under the provisions of the Mineral Act, and if within ninety days from the date of this notice you fail or refuse to contribute your portion of the expenditure, (which is one hundred and two fifty dollars ($102.50) for the two years ending 8th May, 1907,) together with all costs of advertising, your interest in the said claim will become the property of the undersigned under Sec. 4 of an Act entitled: "An Act to Amend the Mineral Act, 1900."

There will be a special meeting of the L. O. L. Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the K. P. hall. All members are requested to be present, and visiting brethren cordially invited.

Conservative Executive Meeting.

There will be a meeting of the executive of the Liberal-Conservative Association in the secretary's office, Baker street, Friday, June 14th, at 5 p. m. It is important that every member of the executive should be present.

Lead's Advance.

Ten points in one day is a big advance in the price of any metal. That is what is recorded of lead today on the London quotation. The price quoted today £21 a ton, is away above any figure since the collapse in 1900. Other metals are unchanged since yesterday.

Body Recovered.

The body of M. Berlange, who had been missing at Vancouver since last Saturday, was found yesterday morning floating in False creek near Armstrong & Morrison's wharf. Berlange was about 45 years of age, and had been working for Messrs. Champion & White for about a year. How he came to his death is not known. Berlange is said to have a daughter residing somewhere in the interior. He was last seen by the captain of the tug Alice, who is reported to have given him some money.

Board of Trade Meeting.

At the board of trade meeting tonight the question of procuring held for berry picking will be vigorously dealt with. The outlook at the present time is that there will be an unusually heavy crop of both strawberries and raspberries. The season for this fruit being short, it will require a great number of people for a short time to pick the crop. Just now there are no idle men in the Kootenays, and it is feared that much of the berry crop will be lost if berry-pickers cannot be procured. The matter is one that the board of trade should lose no time in dealing with.

Home Again.

N. J. Cavanaugh has just returned from a short visit to his old home in Appleton, Wis. It is several years since he left there and naturally he noticed many changes that had taken place during his absence. Times have improved somewhat, but there are many complaints on account of the backwardness of the season. At Appleton when he left the trees had only begun to leave out and as he passed through Minnesota and Dakota he noticed that the farmers were putting in their flax and wheat. This is the latest spring within the memory of the oldest inhabitant. Of course every one was asking about British Columbia in general and Nelson in particular, and it is safe to assume that after a few minutes' conversation with Mr. Cavanaugh they know more about this country than they ever did before.
