EARLY DAY TALES

Good Material For Historical Society

KOOTENAY 40 YEARS AGO

Nelson Demers, Doyen of Pioneers, Tells of People and Events in the 60's and 70's.

The suggestion made in the columns of The Canadian several days ago that a Kootenay Historical society should be formed in connection with the proposed Kootenay Pioneers' association, has met with general approval and has led many to recall chance meetings with old timers who were regular storehouses of reminiscences of early days.

Moreover, the matter is one that demands attention at a very early date. Written records are few, and the veterans whose memories hold the knowledge sought for are one by one crossing the last divide.

Telegraph despatches a few days ago chronicled the death of Joseph Harsty, secretary of Lord Strathcona. The despatches mentioned that he was an old employee of the Hudson's Bay company, and to most readers his name probably meant nothing.

But, before the Oregon treaty delivered the Hudson's Bay company of Oregon territory by making that part of the United States, Joseph Hardisty was in charge of Fort Colville, on the site of the present town of Colville, Wash., and was practically the only ruler of Kootenay and the Big Bend. His recollections, if he committed any of them to writing, would be of engrossing interest to all to whom the story of the winning of the west by the white makes any appeal.

There is in Nelson today another survivor of a vanishing period, whose opportunities of observing, but not recording, have been superior to those of any Hudson's Bay factor.

Nels Demers is known from corner to corner of Kootenay, where he has lived and worked as a prospector since 1864. Mr. Demers has a retentive memory and could easily furnish material for an outline history of the settlement of Kootenay. He has witnessed and also taken part in many keenly contested battles between rival tribes, and between Indians and whites. In those early days, although there were no railways and no lake or river steamers above the Fraser, there was almost as great a feeling of solidarity among residents of the various parts of British Columbia as there is today. Every white man west of the Rockies revered the name of Governor Sir James Douglas, and all who could induced Mr. Demers ,went to Victoria to attend his funeral.

Mr. Demers is full of information as to the origin of the geographical names of Kootenay. The Arrow lakes take their name, he says, not from their contour, but from an ancient custom among the Indians of discharging a flight of arrows into the face of the enemy near the north end of the upper lake, before starting on an expedition against another tribe. Mr .Demers has himself recovered many of the arrows. Cottonwood creek and lake, that supplies Nelson with water and power, took their name not from the familiar cottonwood tree, but from an Englishman named Cottonwood Smith, who discovered gold in the bed of the creek.

Wild Horse creek was so named because a wild stallion was captured on the banks by members of the exploring party, which included Governor Seymour and his wife, the latter suggesting the name.

Mr. Demers' own name has been given to the highest peak in the Slocan. On Dr. Dawson's trips through Kootenay he availed himself fully and often of Nels Demers' knowledge of the country. When Professor R. W. Brock first came out in charge of the geological survey he bore a letter of introduction to Nels from Dr. Dawson. He made a working map for Professor Brock of the land lying between the Arrow and Slocan lakes which was found so accurate by the surveying party that the highest peak was named in his honor Mount Demers.

Nels had many experiences in early days that would have delighted the heart of a boy reader of Indian fighting tales.

On one occasion, about 35 years ago, he accompanied a prospecting party from the north end of Kootenay lake. The quest was unsuccessful and word of the murder of another party by Indians frightened his associates and caused them to start south. Only a bold demonstration by Nels prevented them from taking his boat and supplies.

Left alone he prepared to pass the winter, but while he was hunting a pack of wolves found his cache and ate all his store. To escape starvation he abandoned all his tools and started south on foot, through the woods and over the frozen lake. He found no game and was becoming desperate when he found fresh moccasin tracks. He followed them to an Indian wigwam. There he found a klootchman cooking a big char. He seized it without a word, ignored the squaw's onslaught with a stick, and devoured the fish. Then, exhausted, he dropped by the fire and went to sleep. As far as he was then capable of thinking at all, he concluded that he had eaten for the last time, but when he awoke, many hours later, he found the wigwam full of Indians watching him with friendly smiles—and a dozen fried fish ready for his refreshment.

He learned afterward that his hosts were the murderers of the other party of prospectors.

Mr. Demer's 42 years is Kootenay have been full of striking adventure, and during that time he has seen and participated in most of the deeds that form the history of the country. His reminiscences would be a treasure trove for the proposed historical society.

BIG LAND DEAL.

Kamloops Syndicate Will Exploit Pemberton Ranch.

Kamloops, Dec. 6.—A syndicate, composed mainly of local men, has purchased the Pemberton ranch in the South Thompson valley, near Ducks, with a view to its subdivision into small holdings which will be placed on the market next spring. The syndicate, of which Alderman J. T. Robinson is the present head, intends placing an engineer on the ground as soon as possible. It is understood that the purchase price is $57,000. The negotiations have been pending for some time. The property comprises over 2000 acres of excellent land on the north bank of the South Thompson river, and is distant only about 25 miles from Kamloops.

The land itself is admirably adapted to fruit culture and will not go begging once it is on the market. Being so near Kamloops, with which it is connected by railway, wagon road and the navigable river, upon which several steamers will ply next summer, the location is in every sense a desirable one.

Revive Good Old Days.

Little Rock, Ark., Dec. 6.—Governor Jefferson Davis, newly-elected United States senator from Arkansas, says that politicians preach harmony, but it is not harmony that is needed so much as an old-fashioned row in the United States senate.

NEW TYPE SUBMARINES

London Inventor Patents Diver From Which Inmates May Escape in Case of Accident.

London, Dec. 5.—Mr. Henry Middleton, a London inventor, has patented a submarine from which it appears possible for the crew to escape if the machinery should get out of order while the boat is at the bottom of the sea.

The conning tower is a detachable compartment, which can be separated from the boat proper by 'compressed air. It is lighter than water, so that when detached it rises to the surface and its top projecting above the water, becomes visible to rescuers.

The inventor claims for his boat that it can be submerged quicker than the present type of submarines. The craft has two pairs of fins at the sides worked by electricity.

"They act," said Mr. Middleton, "like the fins of a fish in propelling the boat, while, according as they are inclined up or down, they cause the vessel to sink or rise.

"A large crew is not necessary. All the work can be done by one man, who stands at a table on which are several levers. He directs the movements of the submarine by turning a handle or pressing a button."

Thieving Nobleman.

Copenhagen, Dec. 6.—Count Fritz von Rosen, captain in the Swedish horse guards and a member of one of the noblest families in Scandinavia, was today arrested here on a charge of having defrauded the Swedish military authorities of over $40,000. Count von Rosen is also accused of endorsing fraudulent cheques with the names of members of the royal family. Escorted by two detectives, he left tonight for Stockholm. His arrest has caused a sensation both here and in Stockholm.

Nearly a Fatality.

Kamloops, Dec. 5.—The Nicola branch of the C. P. R. has had its first train accident, by which Conductor Arthur W. Richardson, who is in charge of the ballasting train, lost an arm at Coutlee last week. While working with the air coupling, and slowly walking along the track with the moving train, his foot caught in a frog. Realizing that death would result unless he threw himself on the track under the moving cars, he promptly did so. As he dropped on the ties his left arm fell across the rail and the wheels of the car passed over it. The train was immediately brought to a stop and he was extricated and later taken by special train to Nicola, where Doctors Ker and Tuthill amputated the arm. Mr. Richardson never lost consciousness, and throughout the terrible ordeal displayed wonderful pluck.

SHOUT SAVED PLUNDER.

New Yorker Refuses Burglar's Order to Keep Quiet.

New York, Dec. 6.—Awakened by the sound of a stealthy footstep in his splendid home in East Sixty-third street, near Fifth avenue, in the heart of the city's most exclusive residential district early today, Elias Asils, a broker, found himself gazing into the muzzles of two revolvers which were held only a few inches from his face. "We'll shoot if you make a squeak," said a voice, as the guns and the men behind them began to draw slowly away toward a door which had been left open when they entered the room.

Mr. Asils did not heed the warning but, raising himself on his elbow, sent a shout for help echoing through the house. An instant later the two men were upon him, raining blows upon his head, and when a servant who had heard the cries rushed into the room the broker was lying in bed helpless, on the verge of insensibility, his head and the pillow upon which it lay bathed in blood. The robbers had escaped.

Two minutes later the whole neighborhood had been aroused by the screams of the servants and Mr. Asils' daughter, and a score of policemen from nearby stations were rushing to the scene to search for the burglars, but the few minutes had given the thieves time to make their escape. The burglars had gained entrance to the house by sawing a thick iron bar which held a gate which guarded the basement door and then cutting out the glass panel of the door.

A large amount of gold and silver plate in the dining room had been gathered and tied up in two compact bundles, but in their flight the men did not have time to take their booty with them. So far as can be learned the only articles stolen were a few silver knives, forks and spoons and a dozen pearl and sapphire stick pins which are missing from Mr. Asils' bedroom.

The Palace of Peace.

The Hague, Dec. 6.—Accordfng to the local press the Dutch architects who took part in the competition for the design of the Palace of Peace have made a protest against the decision of the jury in selecting M. Cordonnier's design, the execution of which cost more than the amount available for the purpose, thereby making it possible for Mr. Carnegie's gift to become the subject of litigation. The architects demand that the award shall be set aside, basing their claim on the jury's admission that they had not adhered to the conditions of the competition.

Will Resist Authority.

San Francisco, Dec. 6.—The San Francisco board of education will stand by its decision to confine the Japanese school children to the Oriental school. The sentiments of President Roosevelt, as expressed in his message to congress, will not affect their position, according to President Altmann of the board, who announced today that the board will do all in its power to correct the impression given out by the president's message, which says that the Japanese are excluded from the San Francisco public schools.

Crockett-Pulsifer Wedding.

New York, Dec. 6.—At the home of the bride's parents at Glen Ridge, N. J., Miss Alice Pulsifer, daughter of Fred M. Pulsifer, a wealthy and well-known New Yorker, was married today to Thomas Royal Crockett. Mr. Crockett belongs to an old Virginian family and was formerly a lieutenant in the regular army. Some time ago he gave up his military career to enter business in New York. Mr. and Mrs. Crockett will spend their honeymoon on a large ranch which the bride owns near the Yellowstone park.

Damaged the Mine.

Houghton, Mich., Dec. 6.—As a result of the explosion of 14 boxes of blasting powder on the 21st level of the Quincy mine last night, William Goggin, a miner, is dead, and Dennis Shea was fatally injured. Jack Handy and John Sullivan are seriously injured. Of the 40 men who were in that part of the mine many were found nearly overcome by gas and smoke when taken out. The explosion did much damage to the mine workings.

To Succeed Platt.

New York, Dec. 6.—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, is spoken of as a possible successor to Thomas C. Platt in the United States senate.

MURDER METHODS

Thaw's Trial Recalls Old Sensations

IN METROPOLITAN LIFE

New York Fashionable Society the Foster-Parent of Blood-Curdling Crimes.

New York, Dec. 6.—It is scarcely an exaggeration to say that New Yorkers are counting the days until the trial of Harry Kendall Thaw, slayer of Stanford White ,the noted architect, shall begin. And the trial about to begin promises to be one of the most famous in the criminal history of New York. The prominence of the Thaw family socially, the wealth of his parents, the circumstances surrounding the young man's marriage to Evelyn Nesbit, and the spectacular scene in the midst of which he fired the bullets into the breast of the man who, he asserted, had betrayed his wife, all add interest to the trial.

It is not always easy to account for the intense interest that the public displays in murder cases. Almost every day adds to the list of homicides in Greater New York. But it is only at intervals of about every two years that the great city is aroused by one of these cases that become famous and are remembered after all the participants have passed from the scene. The records would seem to show that if a love intrigue is involved in the case it is apt to attract wide attention. Deep mystery, extraordinary brutality or fiendishness, and the social prominence of the principals often times serve to attract more than a passing notice from the public at large.

In the case of Edward S. Stokes a love intrigue and the wealth and prominence of both the slayer and his victim all combined to make it one of the most famous cases in the criminal history of America. The tragedy occurred in 1871, but is still vividly remembered by all old New Yorkers. Stokes was a man of considerable wealth, a very energetic and promising business man who, nevertheless, had not fortified himself agains tthe temptations of a fashionably dissipated life in New York. He shot and killed Jim Fisk, one of the notorious characters of his day, long the partner of Jay Gould.

The more recent case of Roland Molineux is still well remembered. With the exception of Stokes, Molineux was the only man of high family connection of considerable wealth and good business character who has for many years been tried in this city for murder in the first degree. The date of the alleged crime was December 28, 1896. The charge was the murder of Mrs. Katherine J. Adams by sending her cyanide of mercury under the guise of a headache cure. It was alleged that the poison was intended for another and that Mrs. Adams was given the fatal dose by mistake. Love and a desire for revenge were declared to be the motives. The first trial of Molineux began November 14, 1899, and lasted nearly three months. He was found guilty and sentenced to death in the electric chair. A new trial was granted and three years after the date of the alleged murder the young man was acquitted. The general impression was that Molineux had been the victim of a great mistake or a diabolical conspiracy. As many thousands as could pack themselves into the narrow streets surrounding the criminal courts building cheered the young man upon his release. The cheering masses followed the Molineux carriage down Centre street and gave a parting shout as it whirled across the Brooklyn bridge and bore the young man to the home of his loyal parents.

The next famous case that entertained the New York public and gave the yellow journals an opportunity to display their largest type was that of "Nan" Patterson, the Floradora girl who three times faced the court on a charge of murdering her sweetheart, Caesar Young ,a bookmaker, while riding in a hansom cab. The youth and beauty of the girl and the story of her love affair with Young, a married man, gave interest to the case. After passing an entire summer in the Tombs the girl was brought to trial in November, 1904. After the trial had progressed for 10 days one of the jurors was taken ill and this resulted in a postponement. Two years ago today Miss Patterson was brought into court for her second trial. It continued to December 23, when the jury, after long deliberation, disagreed. It was said to stand 6 to 6. On April 17, 1905, the third trial began before Recorder Goff. With the disagreement of the jury at this trial the famous case ended the, district attorney concluding that the chances of securing a conviction were not sufficient to warrant the expense of another trial. The case had probably attracted more public attention than any other case of the kind in the history of New York.

These trials have attracted more attention than any others in recent years. But scarcely less interesting at the time were other cases, among them that of Dr. Buchanan, who was executed for wife murder; of Carlyle Harris, who paid the death penalty for the murder of beautiful Helen Potts; of Dr. Kennedy, a Staten Island dentist, who was sestenced to death for the murder of Dolly Reynolds, granted a new trial and freed, and of the famous Guldensuppe case, in which the victim was decapitated and the remains thrown into the river.

EXAMPLE FOR CANADA.

Congress to Advise U. S. Government on Public Improvements.

Washington, Dec. 6.—That the commercial, agricultural , manufacturing and the consuming and producing elements of all sections of the United States have at last been aroused to the necessity of demanding that a larger proportion of the revenues of the general government be devoted to the improvement of rivers and harbors was evidenced by the large and representative attendance today at the opening of the third annual session of the National Rivers and harbors Congress.

Numerically the gathering is the largest ever held in this country in the interest of waterway and harbor improvements. Its personnel also is such as to give great weight to its expressed opinions. Hundreds of the business men are present as the representatives of commercial bodies, river improvement associations, maritime exchanges, chambers of commerce and other organized bodies in many parts of the country. The Pacific coast has displayed an equal interest with the Mississippi Valley commonwealths and the states bordering the gulf and the Atlantic by sending large-sized delegations to the conference.

The initial session today was taken up largely with the necessary preliminaries. As soon as these were disposed of the congress entered upon its real business. The sessions are to continue over tomorrow. It is not the purpose of the congress to work for any particular appropriation or to urge the improvement of any special stream, but to discuss the matter in its general aspects, and to urge upon congress the appropriation of at least fifty millions annually for the improvement of the rivers and harbors of the country. The average appropriations for the past ten years has been less than twenty millions, and the condition of the waterways of the country shows this to have been ridiculously inadequate. The effort before congress will be to have the rivers and harbors bill upon a plane with other government appropriations and commensurate in size to its bearing upon the economic and commercial welfare of the nation.

University Centennial.

Vincennes, Ind., Dec. 6.—The town of Vincennes was en fete today in celebration of the centennial of its most cherished institution, Vincennes university. It was just 100 years ago today that the historic university was opened for the admission of students, William Henry Harrison serving as its first president. The centennial was commemorated with an all-day program of historical and literary exercises in which the trustees, faculty, student body and alumni, and a number of invited guests took part.

Reform in Congo.

London, Dec. 6.—According to the Throne, a society journal, unless Belgium within two months gives satisfactory assurances to Great Britain of better government in the Congo Independent State, Great Britain and France will jointly summon a European conference to consider the matter. The paper quotes King Leopold as saying to a British merchant in Brussels that his critics had not examined both sides of the question, but had accepted unquestioningly the statements of utterly irresponsible persons.

Relaxing Meat Laws.

Paris, Dec. 6.—Foreign Minister Pinchon today notified the American ambassador, Mr. McCormick, that pending the settlement of questions which have arisen owing to the elimination of the microscopic examniation of American pork for export under the new meat inspection regulation, shipments of pork now on their way to France under the new regulations will be admitted without microscopic inspection.

Contest for Control of Labor Body.

Boston, Dec. 6.—For the second time within a few months the 15,000 members of the Boot and Shoe Workers Union throughout the country are today voting for national officers. The special election is due to a dispute in the cast of the ballots in the recent referendum vote. The minority of the board of inspectors threw out the vote of the whole unions where irregularities occurred and declared John F. Tobin elected president, and Collis P. Lovly vice-president. The majority of the board declared the irregularities inconstitutional and awarded the offices to Thomas B. Hickey, president, and Charles Murray as vice-president. Tobin and Lovly have held the offices for many years. Hickey fought to have his election stand, but the executive council insisted on a new election. Tobin represents the conservative and Hickey the radical wings of the union.

EMPLOYMENT AT LAST.

Reports Say Hindoos, Properly Instructed, Are Good Workmen.

Vancouver, Dec. 6.—At last satisfactory reports of the Hindoos are beginning to come in from those who are employing them.

Mr. George Marshall, a rancher of Chilliwack, has seven of them on his ranch, three of them being engaged in clearing brush and digging ditches. Mr. Marshall says that given the necessary patience to teach them, very satisfactory results are obtained. The men are willing and boyishly enthusiastic with their work. He has provided them with a comfortable shelter, and they are as happy as a bunch of schoolboys. It is his intention to give them a contract to clear a considerable tract of brush as soon as they are competent to handle it.

From Lulu island reports are coming in that the Hindoos are being hired by the Chinamen for similar work, and are proving satisfactory .

At a well-known shingle mill a foreman engaged ten of them to unload bolts from a scow. Selecting one who could speak fair English, he instructed him, and he in turn instructed his fellows. With the exercise of some patience and tact, the men speedily learned to do their work, and now the foreman says he will back his gang of ten against any similar gang of whites or others employed in the mills. They are steady and industrious, and take hold with a will, once they learn how.

Serious Boiler Explosion.

Lynn, Mass., Dec. 6.—A boiler explosion in the four-story building of the J. P. Harney Shoe company at West Lynn today destroyed the factory and started a fire which swept over several acres, burning three other factory buildings, the Boston & Maine railroad station and a number of small dwellings, beside causing injuries to 11 persons. That there was no loss of life is atributed to the fact that the explosion occurred just before the time for the factory operatives to begin. The financial loss is estimated at $450,000. Of the injured six are at the hospital. It is believed none will die.

EXTENDED TILL SPRING

Thaw's Trial Will Probably Not Take Place Until March or April—District Office Plans.

New York, Dec. 6.—The trial of Harry K. Thaw for the murder of Stanford White, the architect, will not begin until March or April of next year unless District Attorney Jerome consents to rearrange his court calendar. This was the announcement made today at the district attorney's office.

After notice was served on Mr. Jerome by the Thaw counsel that a motion woud be made for the appointment of a commission to take the testimony of witnesses outside the state, Mr. Jerome, in anticipation that the motion would be granted, set about to arrange the court calendars and his lists are all made out for the first two and part of the third months of next year. Yesterday, Mr. Jerome received notice from Clifford W Hartridge, of Thaw's counsel, that he would withdraw the motion for the appointment of a commission which was argued on Monday last, thereby hoping, it was said, to secure an early trial for his client Now that the calendars have been prepared it is not likely that his hope will be realized

Insurgents Arrested.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—Senor Jouburt, the Dominican misister, has received a despatch from his government stating that a party of 12 insurgent leaders who had gathered at Puerta Plata, while on their way to La biga were attacked by the government forces. Perico la Salla was killed and the balance of the party arrested.

Boni Is Cheeky.

Paris, Dec. 6.—A remarkable scene followed the interpellation of the government on the Moroccan question in the chamber of deputies today by M. Jaures, the Socialist leader. Count Boni de Castellane unexpectedly ascended the tribune, whereupon half the deputies abruptly left the house.

JAPAN IS PLEASED

With Roosevelt's Message on Race Schools

HAS ADDED NEW LUSTRE

To Already Great Fame by Saying Just What Japanese Wanted Said.

Tokio, Dec. 6.—The papers here highly eulogize President Roosevelt's attitude toward the Japanese as expressed in his message. The Asayi is delighted that the confidence reposed in the president has been realized. It says:

"By his fir mattitude prom,pted by a lofty sense of justice, President Roosevelt has added new lustre to his already great fame. It is to be hoped that the Americans will unite in support of his righteous policy."

The Hochi praises President Roosevelt's attitude as just and imperial, and is rejoiced to find it in perfect accord with the ideas of the Japanese government.

"Public opinion here," it says, "believes that he must have been actuated by an exalted sense of patriotism to save his country from dishoror by clearly defining the relative power and authority of the federal and state governments."

The Fiji is grateful that President Roosevelt has expressed exactly what the Japanese would say.

"They feel at ease," it declares, "since the Japanese cause has been placed in such a powerful hand.'

The press is almost unanimous in confidently expressing a satisfactory solution of the San Francisco complication.

GALLIHER ON TARIFF.

Member for Kootenay Afraid of the Dumping Clause.

Toronto, Dec. 6.—Mr. W. A. Galliher, M. P., Nelson, was at the King Edward on Monday. Questioned as to how the new tariff would be received in British Columbia he said the canners would be very glad that no duty was placed on tin plate.

He did not think the lumbermen would be dissatisfied with the tariff, as they have all they can do now to supply the market, and prices are good. They would be anxious to know, however, if the dumping clause applied to rough lumber shipped in from the United States on which there is no duty, or if it applies only to goods on which there is a duty.

Mr. Galliher also thought the miners would be pleased that blast furnaces and all materials for the construction of smelting and concentrating plants had been placed on the free list.

A Frightful Squeeze.

Scranton, Pa., Dec. 6.—The coroner's jury which investigated the case of Thomas Dougherty, of Dunmore, who died two weeks ago as the result of a stab in the heart, alleged to have been inflicted by Miss Kate Burke, his sweetheart, returned a verdict today exonerating the girl. Miss Burke claimed that a needle in her waist pierced Dougherty's heart while he was embracing her.

Viscount Is Secretive.

Washington, Dec. 6.—Viscount Aoki, the Japanese ambassador, called at the state department and had an hour's talk with Secretary Root. Beyond admitting that he discussed with the secretary the test case to be brought in the courts of San Francisco with regard to the admission of Japanese to the public schools of California, he would say nothing.

Renews Ore Shipments.

Rossland, Dec. 6.—Eleven ore cars were "spotted" at the bunkers of the Centre Star yesterday afternoon to be loaded for Trail. This will be the first shipment of any magnitude since the smelter at Trail closed down on account of the strike of the coal miners. Two of the copper furnaces at Trail are now in operation.

Does Not Mean Hearst.

Philadelphia, Dec. 6.—John D. Crimmins of New York states it as his belief that if the Democrats select a Southern man as the party's candidate for the presidency two years hence they will win out.

Many a rich man is unable to offer anything better than a poor excuse.

VEERING COURSE.

The veering and devious course that has been pursued by the opposition to the provincial government has received another striking and characteristic illustration in the announcement that there is now no longer any immediate danger of a provincial election. "A member of the house in close touch with the government" has said that such an event will not take place till about mid-July of next year.

The special correspondents also inform the faithful that the premier does not intend to make a political issue of the question of better terms and that about that question there is practically no difference of opinion throughout the province. Thus are the faithful deftly tucked in, the coverlets wrapped round them and they are told to sleep comfortably and gather strength against the strenuous day which has now been put off till the heat of midsummer.

Nothing can be more disappointing and discouraging to the newly organized Liberal faction of British Columbia than these shifting and vacillating directions shouted through the megaphones of their party press always with the uncomfortable reflection that the leader of the party seems as uninformed and helpless in the trend of events as any of the more modest and humble of his followers. The inconsistency of the opposition organs is again strikingly illustrated because it is everywhere known that from the opposition leader down every attempt was made to raise the better terms question to the indignity of a party issue. On the other hand, the Conservative newspapers have persistently and with striking unanimity maintained that it would not be part of the policy of the government to divert that issue from a straight provincial one into the course of party politics.

The sudden change of course on the part of Mr. Macdonald's colleagues must mean that he has discovered that the sounding phrases, the attempted ridicule of the premier and the arguments employed to make capital out of a straight and magnificent issue have not met with response on the part of the people as a whole such as was expected. The faint praise accorded the premier in the carefully prepared and "censored" despatches goes to show that not only did the people not enthuse but that it has been discovered that the policy of detraction and persistent belittlement of the premier's course must be abandoned if the leader of the opposition did not wish to lose the respect and support of the most influential members of his party.

Now the "censored" announcement is made that the opposition will direct its attacks upon the finance minister's department and that that department is probably to undergo the same unscrupulous criticism and misrepresentation as have the department of lands and works and the conduct of the premier. Finance Minister Tatlow may, therefore, as well set his house in order, prepare his fortifications, station his defences and be ready to endure the same scathing denunciation of his work as that which rightly proved so ineffective in the other departments. There can be scarcely any other significance in the scare head announcement that the government's hope is in Tatlow, and that his surplus is to be the chief reliance of the Conservative administration, than that that department is to be the crucial point of the next attack. There is always some degree of honor in according generous praise to an official of the government who has done his work well, and it may be said that this honor is one of the things in which the opposition have been glaringly lacking. But to call attention to the strength of a single department in an administration is to do as Wolfe did when scaling the heights of Quebec through his telescope, by levelling it long, and earnestly, and often at one point, he disclosed the point at which he decided to attempt the ascent.

So far as Mr. Tatlow's department is concerned it is the one department in which the cabinet has had an opportunity to display its genius for good government and statesmanship in saving the wrecked fortunes of a whole country. All the other departments have called for administrative ability of high order and the records have shown that they have been well cared for, but in the department of finance the government literally shines. There is, however, no need to defend this department nor the finance minister, more especially until the opposition opens fire and, unless they resort to the same discreditable tactics of misrepresentation and slander, there will be no need at that time.

CONFLICTING AUTHORITIES.

A few days ago the local organ of the Ottawa government published a special despatch from Ottawa setting forth the proposed changes in the tariff as outlined by Hon. W. S. Fielding in his address on his measure of tariff reform. One of the matters seriously affecting British Columbia is the regulations governing the importation of lumber from the United States. Petitions and representations have been repeatedly made on behalf of the British Columbia millmen asking that a duty be placed on American rough lumber to offset the duty on Canadian lumber going into the United States. These representations for years fell upon unheeding ears and the injustice of the situation was straining the loyalty of many who have been Liberals for a long time.

Whether in order to make political capital for its party or through innocence of the facts the local organ blazoned the information in its three head lines that the measure contemplated "Protection for Lumber." A careful perusal of the news column below reveals the fact that the only reference to protection for lumber is a brief statement that somebody had been gratified because lumber had been brought under the dumping clause.

Whether the bringing of lumber under the dumping clause guarantees any measure of protection for the lumbering industry is a matter which we shall reserve for further discussion, but will intimate here that it does not to any material extent change the situation nor does it in any sense comply with the requests of the lumbering interests.

The flare head lines, however, are a fair specimen of the methods adopted by the Laurier organs to cater to the whims of their party followers and may be changed at will to suit the province or section of the country to which they are intended to appeal. In this province we want lumber protected and the local organ says Fielding's bill gives it. In Manitoba the farmers want lumber free, and to show how inconsistent and contradictory these organs can be it is only necessary to quote from the Winnipeg Free Press—Clifford Sifton's personal organ. The Free Press said editorially in its issue of December 1:

"Thus barbed wire, butter, twine and rough lumber still remain upon the free list."

We cheerfully leave to these two champions of Fielding's tariff legislation the task of reconciling their statements or explaining to their readers how in Manitoba one thing is true and in British Columbia exactly the opposite is the case.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

The remarkable record made in the target tests of the British admiralty yesterday show what powerful engines of destruction even armored cruisers may become when efficiently and capably manned. To make 106 shots out of a possible 133 at a range of four miles, while the world's greatest known achievement, carries something more in its grim suggestiveness than the excellence of the marksmanship. The best and most scientifically constructed warship may become a weak and helpless thing when incapably handled and a gun is useful only when it strikes the mark. When these engines of destruction are perfected the next thing to secure is absolute skill in manipulating the cannons employed, and it would seem that Britain has given some attention to this matter already.

The announcement that the Grand Trunk Pacific has already secured the opening of a postoffice on Kaien island will show what can be accomplished when such matters are taken up in a businesslike way. A mere 200 people, most of them ignorant of the English language, have all Canadian steamers travelling up or down the coast going out of their way every trip that a few men may get their letters. The imputation that political pull has secured this convenience may be resented but if it is, another imputation follows, and that is that if the people of the West would shake themselves free from party allegiance and demand such mailing facilities as the country needs, their voice might not be so unheeded as it is at present.

Within three years it will be possible to reach Pekin from London in 12 days, by rail all the way.

To err is human—to lie about it is more human.

An argument is the preface to a quarrel.

FOSTERS CRITICISM.

Pith of Ex-Finance Minister's Reply to Fielding.

The Foster criticism extended over two hours and nearly 30 years. Only the part relating to the new tariff was unfamiliar. The rest was the customary, if still effective arraignment on the score of extravagance of the spending only $52,000,000 out of the capital on productive public works, as against a total of $11,000,000 spent in the 18 years of Conservative rule; or a total expenditure in 10 years of $498,000,000 against a Conservative total of $597,000,000 for 18 years; of taking $430,000,000 from the people in taxes to build up surpluses and spare the debt. Hundreds of millions of money going for foreign goods which ought to be made by protected industries in Canada, the government doing nothing while the balance of trade stood against Canada to a total of one hundred millions; these were among the Foster points.

He charged the administration with coming round to protection. He said that the new tariff was choppy, the intermediate section an instance of the instability which the finance minister professedly wished to avoid. The overation of this section by order in council instead of by parliament he condemned as dangerous.

Finally Mr. Foster held up a warning finger on the score of financial rocks ahead and the failure of the government to get ready for them.

MEN ARE CONSERVATIVE.

They Do Not Conquer Habits of Custom So Quickly as the Gentler Sex.

Women will investigate and accept better methods more quickly than men do in all matters of dress. A man is satisfied usually to follow custom or habit, and he is harder to convince.

But conviction has come at last to the majority of men in the matter of Semi-ready tailoring. It took many years and much strenuous endeavor. Of course accomplisment was easy when a man really gave his attention and thought to the physique type system of the Semi-ready. For five years the growth of the Semi-ready idea was slow, but in recent years it has been as swift as the rise in value of a gold mining company which strikes a rich vein of ore. Twenty-four new Semi-ready Wardrobes were established this year in Canada, each one the result of an eager enquiry and quick demand for the agency in some new district.

J. A. Gilker, the pioneer merchant of Nelson, has secured the agency for the incomparable Semi-ready tailoring.

CHANGE OF HEART.

Trust Magnates Convinced Must Heed Public Opinion.

The New York Journal of Commerce is authority for the statement that the largest financial interests in the United States have become converts to the necessity of placating public opinion, and of unmasking themselves and their operations. Fundamental changes in the attitude of railroad, industrial and financial kings are looked for with confidence. They realize that they must conform to the temper of the time. The people refuse to rise up and call the plutocratic few blessed. And the plutocracy is beginning to accept the terms of the democracy. Great corporations which formerly surrounded themselves with secrecy are learning to introduce publicity into their methods and to take their shareholders and the outside world into their confidence. This tendency is all in the right direction and we know two or three Canadian corporations which should go and do likewise.

Girls are fond of attention; married women are fond of contention.
