WHAT DOES THIS MEAN?

London July 27.—It is reported that all orders for the British naval manœuvres have been countermanded, that the various squadrons have been ordered not to move, that all leaves of absence have been cancelled and that officers and men on furlough have been recalled.

The Home and Channel fleets have already moved into a position to undertake important manœuvres.

According to The Commercial, of Winnipeg, the visible supply of oats in the United States and Canada, east of the Rocky Mountains, is 4,437,000 bushels, compared with 4,282,000 bushels a year ago.

ONE TYRANT LESS.

St. Petersburg, July 27.—The Minister of the Interior, M. Von Plehwe, was assassinated this morning while driving to the Baltic station to visit the Emperor at the Peterhof Palace.

As Minister of Justice Muravieff was driving to the Peterhoff Palace this afternoon to report to the Emperor Nicholas the assassination of Minister of Interior Von Plehwe, stones were thrown at him and his carriage windows were broken. The identity of the Minister's assailants has not yet been discovered.

Lemon Squash, the great health drink for summer—City Bakery.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

The uniform success of this remedy has made it the most popular preparation in use for bowel complaints. It is everywhere recognized as the one only remedy that can always be depended upon and that is pleasant to take. It is especially valuable for summer diarrhoea in children and is undoubtedly the means of saving the lives af a great many children each year.—For sale by F. J. MacKenzie.

Quite a large number of passengers accompanied the Westminster Band excursion on Wednesday night. Fine weather, full moon and a large crowd assist materially in a pleasant time being spent.

BOARD OF HEALTH REGULATIONS

OF IMPORT TO DELTA FARMER

Approved by Order of His Honor the Lieut.-Gov. in Council, July 21, '04.

The following regulations have been taken from the B. C. Gazette and are published for the benefit of our patrons, who, otherwise, would not have an opportunity of seeing them:

1. Throughout these regulations the expression "Milk-shop" shall mean any place from which milk is sold or in which milk is kept before being sent out for sale; the expression "Cow-keeper" shall mean any person keeping cows with the object of selling milk; the expression "Dairy" shall include any farm, farm-house, cow-shed, milk-house, milk-store, milk-shop, or other place from which milk is supplied, or in which milk is kept for purpose of sale; the expression "Board" shall mean the Provincial Board of Health.

2. Every occupier of a dairy which a Medical Health Officer or Inspector of Dairies, or any other officer of the Board specially authorized by them in that behalf, may visit for the purpose of inspection, and every person for the time having the care or control of any such dairy, or of any cattle therein, shall afford such Medical Health Officer, Inspector of Dairies or Officer, all reasonable assistance that may, for the purpose of inspection, be required by him.

3. Every cow-keeper shall provide that every cow-shed in his occupation shall be sufficiently lighted with windows either in the sides or roof thereof.

4. Every cow-keeper shall cause every cow-shed in his occupation to be sufficiently ventilated, and for this purpose to be provided with a sufficient number of openings into the external air to keep the air in the cow-shed in a wholesome condition, and a cow-shed shall not be occupied by a larger number of cows than will leave not less than eight hundred cubic feet of air space for each cow.

5. (1.) Every cow-keeper shall cause every part of the interior of every cowshed in his occupation to be thoroughly cleansed from time to time as often as may be necessary to secure that such cow-shed shall be at all times reasonably clean and sweet.

(2.) Such person shall cause the ceiling or interior of the roof or walls of every cowshed in his occupation to be properly lime-washed twice at least in every year, that is to say, once during the month of May and once during the month of October, and at such other times as may be necessary.

Provided that this requirement shall not apply to any part of such ceiling, roof or walls that may be properly painted or varnished, or constucted of, or covered with any material such as to render the lime-washing unsuitable or inexpedient, and that may be otherwise properly cleansed.

3. He shall cause the floor of

The Bridge.

The twenty-third day of July, nineteen hundred and four, is one long to be remembered by residents of the Royal City. Early in the morning people from the surrounding district began to arrive in the city and not the least gratifying sight was that of so many farmers who were present, all interested in the opening of the structure, upon the usefulness of which such great hopes have been built.

About half-past twelve the guard of honor from A and B Companies of the 6th D. C. O. R. came down Sixth street to the music of their bugle band, and they started the tide flowing in the direction of the Westminster approach. It was estimated there were twelve thousand people on the scene.

The bridge was kept clear of spectators and none save the guard of honor in charge of Capt. Johnston and Lieut. Corbould, with a few officials, were allowed on the traffic way. At seven minutes past one the train with the excursion from Victoria aboard, and the special car for His Honor the Lieut.-Governor, his suite, the Premier and members attached, moved on to the southern approach to the tune of "God Save the King."

The party then ascended to the traffic way and with very little delay the official opening was commenced. His Worship Mayor Keary first spoke, dwelling briefly on the many advantages to the province which the erection of the bridge presented. His Honor, the Lieut.-Governor, Sir Henri Joly de Lotbiniere, then followed. His Honor considered that Mayor Keary had in no manner over-rated the possibilities of the usefulness of the structure, and he highly commended the perseverence of the government in constructing the Westminster bridge. In conclusion, Sir Henri declared the bridge open. The Hon. Richard McBride, Premier of British Columbia, spoke, reiterating the remarks of the two previous speakers and briefly reviewing the history of the structure from the agitation started in its behalf to its completion. Miss Boswell, niece of the Lieut.-Governor, cut the cord which suspended the bottle of champagne over one of the trusses, and as the glass was shattered into a hundred pieces, spilling the wine on the steel work, a loud cheer rang out from the onlookers. After three cheers for His Honor, the Lieut.-Governor, Premier McBride and Mayor Keary, Sir Henri pulled the cord which held the folded ensign from the peak of the spread span and the old flag floated out on the breeze, bringing to the thousands on shore the news that the Westminster bridge had been declared open.

At this juncture Premier McBride presented the Lieut.-Governor with a polished cross-section of the last steel rail laid in the construction as a souvenir of the occasion. The steel was suitably engraved.

The ropes barring the end of the approach were then let down and the waiting crowd thronged over the structure, headed by the City Band, playing "The Maple Leaf Forever."

Whistles from down the river announced the approach of the procession of steamboats, headed by the D. G. S. Kestrel, and as she passed through the draw the band struck up "Rule Britannia."

After the ceremony was concluded the guests, with Messrs. Armstrong & Morrison for hosts, sat down to the official luncheon.

On the river Indian canoe races were the attraction for the remainder of the afternoon, while a baseball match at Queen's Park drew crowds to that oval.

Although the bridge has been officially opened it will not be open for traffic until completed and taken over by the government, which will be some little time yet.

King's Prize.

Ottawa, July 25.—Sir Frederick Borden, Minister of Militia, took occasion when the House met to-day to call attention to the honors won by Private Perry of the Sixth Duke of Connaught's Own Rifles of Vancouver, in gaining the King's Prize at Bisley. He said that this was a matter of congratulation for parliament and for all the people of Canada. The prize had been won once before by a Canadian, but this is the first time that it had been captured by a native-born Canadian.

Col. Sam Hughes endorsed what the Minister of Militia said, but he believed it did not matter where Perry was born so long as he was a good citizen of Canada. He was not a stranger or a foreigner, whether born in Canada or not.

Hon. W. S. Fielding said that Canada had won even a larger share of the honors at Bisley because Major Howard, Agent-General of Nova Scotia, another native-born Canadian, had also won a great prize.

Lou Scholes, of Toronto, has proven himself the best oarsman of the world, which is another honor for Canada.

The total individual winnings of the Canadians at Bisley are £472 5s. Of this £250 was won by Private Perry of Vancouver. The team winnings reached £185 9s.

Work on the Trunk road is progressing very favorably and an excellent piece of road is taking the place of a lot of rotten planks. The Council will be able to figure out, from this, what it will cost to give the whole of the municipality roads of a like nature. Without doubt it is the only kind worth putting down.

Sunday afternoon at the Bay was profitably spent, by upwards of one hundred, campers and others, attending Divine service, which was conducted by Rev. Canon Hilton, of All Saints. The Canon has undertaken to hold an open-air service there every Sunday at 3 p.m., and hopes to see even a better attendance as the season advances.

SATURDAY, JULY 30, 1904.

Those invitations for the Council to attend the bridge opening did arrive last week but too late for the Reeve to arrange a special meeting of the Council in order to close up their business and make arrangements for attending. Better late than never.

With regard to the good roads scheme we have set forth, we wish to draw your attention to the fact that much will remain to be done after this year's appropriations have been expended. Delta and Westham streets must needs be put into ship-shape ere the heavy traffic begins—and that won't be long now. We can see no way out of the difficulty other than by issuing bonds from time to time as needed to continue the system of macadamizing to the end.

B. C. TO THE FORE.

It has fallen to the lot of Vancouver to supply the Empire's best shot, with a score of 48 out of a possible 50 at 1,000 yards. To say that this is anything other than excellent would be false, but we would be better satisfied with smaller scores providing all the folderols carried by a present day crack shot—such as verniers, orthoptics, paint brushes, etc.—were prohibited on the range. In order to be a good shot, in our opinion, a man should be able to make bull's-eyes and inners with the ordinary service rifle, after practising with it for some time—and ammunition should be free—providing the rifle is built right. If this is not done, how about the time when they may have to take the field and have no time to use the folderols? Naturally the score will fall off at the most critical time. If all military men were trained to shoot in this way it would not take so much ammunition during a campaign as it did in the last, the Boer war. Too much pipeclay and not sufficient ammunition in time of peace makes a poor army.

Columbian College.

Following is a record of the standing obtained by Columbian College students at the matriculation and undergraduate examinations of Toronto University for the year. It will be noticed that fully the average number of supplemental examinations in different subjects must be passed by the students here before completing the year's work. These papers can be taken in September so that the year's work is not lost. There are some who ask how it is that the work done in the College has such a fine reputation while every year some of the students have one or more supplemental papers to pass. The explanation is that every student is given an opportunity to advance as rapidly as is at all possible. Ordinarily two years are taken for matriculation when in other institutions three years at the very least must be spent. Moreover, students of greater age, who for special reasons wish to get through rapidly, are often allowed to proceed to first year work without taking matriculation. For this reason there will be the yearly list of supplementals, but the reputation of the College will not suffer thereby.

Third year, general course—L. W. Hall; Miss H. D Robson, supplemental in church history and constitutional history.

Second year, honor courses—Miss E. Wickett, first class honors in modern language course; general course, L. J. Ladner, supplemental in German; C. Saint, supplemental in mediæval history and psychology.

First year honor mathematics and physics course—T. A. Davidson; general course, Miss N. Markland. The following must pass supplementals: W. Stott in Greek, E. D. Braden in Greek, Latin and biology; Miss E. Woodward in Latin, mathematics and biology.

Junior matriculation, complete—R. G. Robson, first class honors in chemistry; H. Crosby, Miss J. E. Drew, Miss B. L. Haggman and Miss L. K. Laidley. Supplementals: Miss B. Hardman, in English grammar and Latin authors; Miss J. Marshall in English and Latin; Miss A. Munn, in Latin authors and French composition; W. Paxton, in English composition and Latin authors; Miss E. C. Street, in Latin; Miss G. M. Wells in English composition, Latin composition and German composition.

Going for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Don't put yourself in this man's place, but keep a bottle of this remedy in your home. There is nothing so good for Colic, Cholera Morbus, Dysentery and Diarrhoea. It is equally valuable for Summer Complaint and Cholera Infantum and has saved the lives of more children than any other medicine in use. When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take.

You, or some one of your family, are sure to need this remedy sooner or later and when that time comes you will need it badly; you will need it quickly. Why not buy it now and be prepared for such an emergency? Price, 35 cents.

Embarrassing.

A settlement worker, having been requested by anxious mothers to address the younger women of the settlement clubs on "heart interest" topics, decided to do so. She talked with the girls earnestly, urging upon them the deep and intrinsic sacredness of all love and marriage relations, the coarseness and vulgarity of indiscriminate flirtations, the great and growing need for high ideals, standards and action on the woman's part. Then, just as she took her seat, it occurred to her that she might have talked a little bit over the heads of her listeners, and she sprang to her feet with an added remark:

"Please believe that what I say is true, my dear friends," she exhorted earnestly, "and please don't think I don't understand my subject. I know what I'm talking about, girls—I really do."

Once more she took her seat, delighted with the air of general interest, and from the rear of the room came the question:

"Please, Mrs. S., how many times have you been in love?"

The Word "Jolly."

On the adoption of the word "jolly" into the English it had the meaning of beautiful, as it has among the French today. The English dramatist Beaumont of the sixteenth century speaks of our first mother as "the jolly Eve." In time, however, it came to mean hilarious, regardless of physical beauty. But this latter meaning is probably the right one after all, as the word doubtless comes from Yule (Yu-le), the pagan Christmas, so to speak, for be it known that what we now observe as Christmas day was a heathen holiday called Yule, and the Yule festival was one of noisy demonstration.

Yule indeed means noise or outcry, praising in loud voice, chanting, singing, making outcry in honor of their god. From yule, then, to jolly the step is short and easy, both meaning revelry, rejoicing. Ours is a risen Lord, theirs the same. The words are identical. So, too, in large degree the Christmas jollities, praises and those of heathen Yule. Into such close relation do simple words sometimes connect the present with the past.

A Chinese Joke.

In his book on "China and the Chinese" Dr. Giles gives a specimen of Chinese humor which, if the source were not known, might well be mistaken for American humor.

There is a Chinese story which tells how a very stingy man took a paltry sum of money to an artist—payment is always exacted in advance—and asked him to paint his portrait. The artist at once complied with the request, but when the portrait was finished nothing was visible save the back of the sitter's head.

"What does this mean?" cried the sitter indignantly.

"Well," replied the artist, "I thought a man who paid so little as you paid wouldn't care to show his face."

Great Natures.

Great natures are always generous. They are fountains not only of vitality, but of bestowal. However great the rewards they receive may be, these rewards are but a fraction of the worth of the service rendered, and no man ought to be satisfied, whatever his position or work, unless he can feel that he is giving far more than he is receiving, that a very large part of what he does is not returned in money, that however successful he may be on the practical side he must still be counted one of the benefactors of his kind because of the generosity of his bestowal.—Outlook.

Peach Pits.

The statement has been made that prussic acid was made from peach stones. This is altogether a mistake, for, although under certain conditions a trace of the main principle of the deadly poison can be found in peach stones, there is not sufficient to produce the acid without other essential ingredients. Indeed, without the process of fermentation there is no evidence at all of prussic acid in the stones.—Exchange.

Just the Place.

Irate Landlord (to couple who are taking a lovers' walk on his property)—Now, then, can't you read?

Amorous Youth—Oh, yes, we can read.

Irate Landlord—Then go to the end of this road and read the sign there.

Amorous Youth—We have read it. It says, "Private," and that is just why we came down here.

In the Sweet By and By.

"Professor," inquired the thoughtful member of the class, "don't you suppose there will come a time when all the coal and all the coal oil stored away in the earth will have become exhausted?"

"Certainly," said the instructor.

"What will we do then?"

"We shall be playing harps, I hope."

That Settled Him.

A Big Difference.

Madge—Don't you think a girl should marry an economical man?

Dolly—I suppose so, but it's just awful being engaged to one.

Retentive.

Wantanno—What a memory you have! Did you ever forget anything in all your life?

Duzno (after profound thought)—Not that I can remember

The average coffee tree in Honduras produces half a pound of beans.

"If you are in doubt," says Talleyrand, "whether to write a letter or not, don't!" And the advice applies to many doubts in life besides that of letter writing.—Bulwer.

Old Graybeard—It's a pity to keep such a pretty bird in a cage.

Mrs. De Style—Isn't it a shame? How perfectly exquisitely lovely it would look in a hat!—New York Weekly.

Early Political Platforms.

It is in the seventeenth century that the first beginnings of the platform must be sought, but these early traces of its use are very slight. That there must have been some little employment of it in a demagogic way may be inferred from the "Characters" of Butler, the author of the ever memorable "Hudibras." He describes "a leader of a faction" as one who "sets the psalm, and all his party sing after him. He is like a figure in arithmetic—the more ciphers he stands before the more his value amounts to. He is a great haranguer, talks himself into authority, and, like a parrot, climbs with his beak." It is probable, moreover, that the first form of the platform was the conventicle or meeting house of the Puritan or Dissenter, for Butler, in his character of "The Seditious Man," says that "if he be a preacher he has the advantage of all others of his tribe, for he has a way to vent sedition by wholesale." But the platform at this time was of no practical account. Such attempts as there were outside parliament to influence opinion were made by means of the press, partly by the book, partly by the pamphlet and partly by the journal.—C. B. Roylance Kent in Longman's.

The First Lawbook.

The well known Assyriologist, Dr. Hugo Winckler, published an account of the legislation promulgated by King Amraphel of Babylon, which, so far as is known at present, was the first book of laws ever given to the world. King Amraphel lived 2,250 years B. C. and is mentioned in the Bible as a contemporary of Abraham, so that his statutes were drawn up fully five centuries before the laws of Moses. They number 282 and contain the following:

"If a woman who sells beverages gives bad value for the money paid her, she shall be thrown into water.

"If a wife be a spendthrift or if she otherwise neglect her duties, her husband may put her away without compensation, but if a man put away his wife for no other reason than that she has no children he shall return her whole dowry.

"If a betrothal be rescinded, the man shall pay the woman compensation.

"A widow with grown up children may not marry again without permission from a judge."—London Express.

Elizabethan Excise Laws.

In striking contrast to the present laws to prevent habitual drunkenness were those passed in the reign of Queen Elizabeth. The Lansdowne manuscripts in the British museum record that in 1594 orders were set down by the lords and others of her majesty's privy counsel for the reformation of the great disorders committed by the excessive number of alehouses, which the justices were ordered to reduce. The publicans were compelled to give to the constable of the parish the name and business of every one who frequented their houses and were forbidden to have any games played therein. On Sundays no persons dwelling within a mile of the public house were allowed to enter except substantial householders traveling to church, and then only for a reasonable time to refresh themselves. Curiously, the chief complaint against publicans was the "brewing stronger ale and beer than is wholesome for man's body."—London Chronicle.

JINGLES AND JESTS.

Lazy Man's Hankering.

I'd like to have a nice, soft job,
Where I could simply be
A sort of weekly visitor,
To draw my salary,
And then, as that got burdensome
And seemed inclined to bore me,
I'd like to have some fellow paid
To go and draw it for me!

The Important Question.

"How do you like your new servant?"

"That isn't the question at all," answered young Mrs. Torkins. "We are trying to find out how she likes us."

A Domestic Limerick.

A strenuous matron named Maud
Decided her man was a fraud,
So she put the poor lad
Very much to the bad
When she lit on his features and claud.

Nearly the Limit.

"Yes, I know him slightly. He always impresses me as being rather a hard man."

"Hard? Say, that man can dull a knife by just carrying it in his pocket."

May She Fare Well.

To a fair lady bound for the fair
The conductor said, "Lady, your fare!"
She paid him, and so
On his way did he go
With the fare from the fair to the fair.

All He Required.

"But I don't want to play in repertory," said the rising actress.

"Oh, I don't care about that," the manager answered, "if you're willing to play in tights."

A Speculative Cuss.

He was somewhat in doubt
As he came to expire;
"The future looks bright,
But it may be the fire."

Something Wrong.

Physician—Madam, I find your husband has pneumonia in its worst form.

Mrs. Newrich—I can't understand that. We are certainly rich enough to afford the very best there is.

An Exception to the Rule.

There was an old maiden of Lynn
Who thought that to smile was a synn,
But when a man said,
"Dear girl, will you waid?"
She gave him an eloquent grynn.

About the Size of It.

Little Willie—Say, pa, what's a warship?

Pa—A warship, my son, is a mechanical device used in manufacturing history.

Rarity.

Some people never make mistakes
Nor get involved in strife;
They may be very happy, but
They lead a lonely life.

A Matter of Whose Friend.

Blohart—Yes, I once thought of going on the stage, but friends dissuaded me.

Knocker—Friends of the stage, I presume.

General Opinion.

Lives of great men all remind us
That it isn't only pluck;
We would do as well or better
If we only had their luck.

HIS LAST HOPE REALIZED.

[From the Sentinel, Gebo, Mont.]

In the first opening of Oklahoma to settlers in 1889, the editor of this paper was among the many seekers after fortune who made the big race one fine day in April. During his travelling about and afterwards his camping upon his claim, he encountered much bad water, which, together with the severe heat, gave him a very severe diarrhœa which it seemed almost impossible to check, and along in June the case became so bad he expected to die. One day one of his neighbors brought him one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy as a last hope. A big dose was given him while he was rolling about on the ground in great agony, and in a few minutes the dose was repeated. The good effect of the medicine was soon noticed and within an hour the patient was taking his first sound sleep for a fortnight. That one little bottle worked a complete cure and he cannot help but feel grateful. The season for bowel disorders being at hand suggests this item.—For sale by F. J. MacKenzie.

John Fay was up before the beak on Wednesday, on the charge of assault and fined $5 and costs.

A bunch of suspicious characters shacking along the water front for a short while, has been rooted out by our Chief. They were suspected of petty thieving, of which considerable has been done of late, and on being served with the blue on Tuesday they left for parts unknown.

No man or woman will hesitate to speak well of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets after once trying them. They always produce a pleasant movement of the bowels, improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion. For sale by F. J. MacKenzie.

May as well take those trees out of the ditch on the Trunk road. They spoil the look of things as well as obstructing the ditch. Let the roads be clear of everything if you want them good and dry. If individuals want shade trees let them plant them inside their fence.
