Dear Mrs Brack :

This letter will acknowledge and thank you for yours, dated January 10. I was genuinely pleased to learn that Miss Wolf is preparing a biographical sketch of Miss Pfefferkorn for the April issue of the Alumnae Magazine. This will not only be interesting in itself but will also serve to stimulate interest in the project as a whole. I must ask, however, that any reference to my own professional career should be brief and should be incorporated in the text of your report. A few "highlights" are enclosed in the hope that they may be helpful to you.

I am firmly convinced that if an extended biographical sketch of EJ were to appear in this particular issue and at this particular juncture that it might jeopardize the excellent relationship which now exists between the co-authors. I wish I could give the reasons for this belief but I am quite sure that you will understand that it would not be wise to set them down in writing and that you will grant my request, as a personal favour.

Miss Pfefferkorn and I have exchanged letters and have got off to a good start in double harness. I sent her a copy of the general principles which I submitted to you in my letter of November 18X 28 and have recently received the following response: "I was much interested in your reply (to Mrs Brack) and am in substantial agreement with all of it". So that promises well for the future, doesn't it?

As you may have seen in your newspapers, the Pacific Coast is having a terrible winter. At the moment it is snowing so hard that I cannot see across the street. No trains or planes out of Vancouver today so I don't know just when this letter will reach you. In the meantime, I am toiling at the oar.
